MIKEL AND COMMITTEE IN HARMONY

All Differences Settled at Meeting Last Night of E.I. Executive Committee and Mayor Mikel to Work Together For Success of Celebration

$3,000 Cheque in Good Hands

Any differences which may have existed between Mayor Mikel and the general committee of the D.E.L. celebration in regard to the disposition of the surplus from the Provincial Government has been amicably settled. From now on the 75th Jubilee of the celebration namely next month, everything will go forward with a swing.

Number are Present

A meeting of the executive committee was held last night in the council chamber, the meeting being largely attended. A number of members of the City Council were present in addition to those appointed on the committee. Mayor Mikel will hand over to the executive committee the $3,000 cheque and committee is sure will assume any other liabilities in connection with the celebration.

Highlanders Here

It was decided to have the colonel of 48th Highlanders of Toronto here for two days and the regiment will be accompanied by their band. The regiment including band and officers will be about 600 strong. The organization will be here on Sunday and Monday, June 15th and 16th.

Sacred Concerts

On Sunday, sacred concerts will be given and the regiment will be present in a grand parade which will be held on Monday.

From now until the date of the celebration the various committees will meet in regular session

NATIONAL AND C.P.R. READY TO HELP OUT

Rival Lauds Competing Rail Way as Willing to Go Half Way

MACLEAN IS FEARFUL

Looks for Showdown Over Possible Friction in Lines' Operation

Ottawa, May 1.—The C.P.R. are ready; they are very friendly; they are getting along all right. As a matter of opposition the C.N.R. is willing to meet us on a proposition. So said the way Vice-President of the Canadian National Railways, expressed himself before the Railway Committee of the House of Commons this afternoon when it was considering the bill for the construction of a branch line from Kingsclear to Fredericton, N.B.

Looks For Showdown

The remarks of Mr. Murchison were made in answer to a question from W. F. Maclean to the effect that there might have to be some suggestion put up to prevent the thought that a certain amount of friction might arise in the two, and expressed the hope that there were a number of points on which the two could co-operate.

These observations were prompted by the suggestion made by Dr. Manion and several other members of the committee that the branch line necessary to build 27 of the 41 miles for which authority was requested and that for this distance an arrangement might be made with the Canadian Pacific Railway to operate it.

Mr. Reid said that the Canadian National had no desire to build any more of this mileage than was absolutely necessary and that the intention was to approach the Canadian Pacific for running rights.

The position of the former would, however, be much stronger in the negotiations if it were given permission to build for the whole distance. The committee appreciated this argument for cooperation that would obviate the constructing of duplicating mileage, though there was a difference of opinion as to whether the National should be given the right to build the whole line before negotiations with the Canadian Pacific began.

Sir Henry Drayton opposed the line on the ground that it was not a business proposition. He contended that it would not bring more revenue traffic, and that the added charges it entailed would more than eat up any saving that might be effected.

Sir Henry also advocated that there should be a clause in the Railway Act to the effect that the National System should be brought under the control of the Railway Commission just the same as any other company.

PUT HIGH VALUE ON HER BEAUTY

Follies Girl Sues for Half Million Damages — Was Injured During Wild Motor Drive, by Night

New York.—Beside Jessup, reared in a mansion on Park Avenue, Mrs. Stern today as she resumed testimony in her suit for half a million dollars against Morgan Hunt, whom, she alleges, is responsible for the loss of her beauty.

The former chorus girl, dancing and singing latterly at times, told the jury additional details of the mad motorcycle ride with the youthful millionaire, which ended in an automobile crash in which both occupants of the car were injured.

Both her knees were bruised and her clothes so torn that she "looked as if another dancing was out of the question," she said.

Her face also was badly cut, leaving permanent scars.

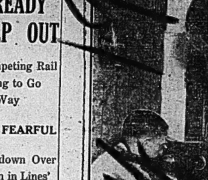

Plant faultlessly dressed, sat imperturbable near her attorney as she calmly told her story. He feigned fatigue now and then as she told of his reckless driving.

The examination was resumed as the hearing resumed. Mrs. Jessup was led to the stand by her mother, who sat near the girl while she testified.

TWO STATES APPROVE

Paris, April 30.—The replies of the Jugo-Slav and Jeanese Governments to the reparation commission's communication of April 17 regarding the occupants' report, received yesterday, were made public last night.

Japan states she is prepared to adopt the conclusions of the experts in their entirety. The Jugo-Slav Government expresses approval of the plan and its willingness to collaborate with the other Allied Governments in the measures necessary to facilitate putting the final decision of the reparation commission into operation.

Joseph Alonzo, of the East side of New York, has worked under the handicap of total blindness for the past eight years, and his work in building radio sets is now recognized as truly remarkable. Not only is his work remarkable but also the way he goes about the city buying parts and taking orders despite his blindness, and he is shown as the radio wizard at his store in the photo shows Joseph Alonzo tuning an on his set which he built. Right, photo shows him making repairs on aerial.

TINY REBELLION CAUSES TURMOIL DOWN IN HAVANA

About One Hundred Rabid Revolutionists Threaten Whole Country

CALL VOLUNTEERS

Government Appeals For Aid —Uprising Rumored In Trinidad

Havana, May 1.—The Zayas government to-day took drastic steps to put down a rebellion, which has broken out in the province of Santa Clara.

Orders were issued for arrest of all leaders of the Patriots and Veterans' association, the organization considered responsible for the rebellion, and five men were taken in custody in Havana. They are: Mario Garcia Velez, brother of General Velez; Carlos Almagoy, wealthy sugar planter, and vice-president of the Veterans' association; Dr. Lay, lawyer, and secretary and treasurer of the association, and Federico Martinez, leader of the movement in Havana.

The government announced loyal troops had crushed with the rebels at Juan de la Yerezuandeta, them from the city hall, which they had seized. The rebels retained numerous casualties.

Small Force

The war department estimated the total rebel strength at not more than 100 or 200 men, armed with rifles and three machine guns. The outbreak started in the province of Santa Clara, where the rebels obtained munitions and horses and being from the city of Santa Clara, capital of the province, shouting "Down with Zayas! Down with militarism!"

At Juan de la Yeras the rebels seized the city hall and confiscated the safe containing munition funds. It was here they were overtaken by loyal troops.

Call Out Troops

Three divisions of regular troops were en route from Camp Columbia to the scene of the outbreak to-day. At the same time the war department announced a call for 2,000 "defenders of the government."

The war department would not confirm reports that an uprising also has taken place in Trinidad, province of Santa Clara.

The outbreak follows organization of the "Veterans' and Patriots' association several months ago, for the avowed purpose of preventing the re-election of President Zayas.

ONE DEAD IN OKLAHOMA

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 1.—One person was killed and others injured, one perhaps fatally, in the tornado which struck Ingalls, Okla., yesterday, according to word received to-day.

Mrs. Ray Pyle was killed and her husband was injured when their home was blown to splinters by the storm. Mrs. Pyle was killed and her husband was injured when their home was blown to splinters by the storm. Mrs. A. F. Bailey also was injured.

Luther Thompson, Jr., five years old, is dead to-day at Texarkana, Ark., and 14 other persons are suffering minor injuries as the result of a tornado which struck just north of there late yesterday, causing property damage estimated at $25,000. The wind reached an estimated "velocity" of 147 miles an hour, demolishing many houses and tearing down fences.

Committees To Meet Tonight

A regular fortnightly meeting of the various civic committees will be held this evening when matters appertaining to the city's welfare will be considered. Estimates for the various committees are being prepared with a view to having the estimates brought down in the near future.

THREE BODIES NAMED UNDER ALLIED BOARD

Committees Organize German Railroads, Money, Industry

ALLIES SEEK SPEED

Would Have Plan Working Soon as Possible, to Hasten Harmony

Paris, May 1.—The Inter-Allied Reparation Commission has appointed members to three of the commissions that will organize German finance, industry and railways under the Dawes plan. The commission urged immediate action, as the opinion is becoming general that the quicker the plan is executed, the sooner the Allies will be brought into harmonious relations upon the reparation issue.

The appointments were:

Committee to organize German railways—Sir William Acworth and M. Leverve.

Committee to supervise German banking—Sir Robert Kindersley.

Committee to regulate Germans industrial obligations—Jacques Seydoux and Dr. Alberto Pirelli.

Chairman to be Named

The committee are not yet complete. Governments over the details of the Dawes plan are progressing.

Premier Ollivo officials said that the statement given out by General Charles Gates Dawes and Owen D. Young in New York Tuesday night "is precisely the French view."

"They especially—endorsed Young's statement that the league of nations will take to put the Dawes plan into effect depends upon the speed made by the Reparation Commission, and the German banking is making appointments and enacting legislation.

"Officials said France desires to cooperate with the United States in the plan.

SOVIET MAKES MERRY IN MAY DAY FESTIVAL

Red Bunting Flares As Celebration Engulfs Russian City

LENINE ON PLACARDS

Marx Lithographed in Posters; Trotzky Shows Far From Sick

Moscow, May 1.—While Moscow's church bells have scarcely ceased their Easter carillon, elaborate preparations are in the making for a great May Day celebration. The city is decorated in true revolutionary fashion, with red bunting and flags, banning pictorial panels, illuminated transparencies and lithographs of Lenine and Karl Marx everywhere. Bullions have been erected in the important centres, where Soviet orators will address the crowds.

The keynote of the celebration was sounded by War Minister Trotzky in a two-hour speech in the Grand Theatre when he said:

"Army and Navy Holiday

"The principal purpose of May Day should be an unremitting struggle of solidarity of the Soviet Republic is the vital one of the hour. We must therefore regard this day as the great holiday for our army and navy."

Those who believed M. Trotzky's sick man was completely disillusioned by the extraordinary vigor old-time fire and analytical skill shown by the chief of the red army.

The audience of 2,000 cheered him deliriously when he appeared on the stage in a semi-military uniform and touched into a vigorous tirade against Premier Poincaré, Japan and Great Britain.

Afterwards Trotzky and his party presented Miss Cullen with a beautiful suede purse. Dr. J. A. Faulkner on behalf of the committee in charge of festival also presented Miss Cullen with a travelling bag (gifted), and another high tribute to Miss Cullen's many qualifications, in addition to her long, arduous and trying duties performed during her supervision of the operating room and nursing staff generally. Refreshments and a dance followed the proceedings.

Arbitrators Find Case Is Prolonged

The arbitration proceedings in the matter of Geo. Evans and Ed. Kellaway vs. the Consumers' Cordage Co. at Belleville occupied the attention of the arbitrators yesterday and was continued today. It will probably be two days longer before all the evidence has been submitted. Evidence on behalf of the claims for damages by the complainants was being submitted today and there are a number of witnesses to be heard for the defence. Mr. Evans claims his property sustained damages to the extent of $1000 and Mr. Ed. Kellaway's claim is for $500. Water backing up on their premises is the reason of an alleged damage placed on Sanford street is set forth in the complainant's claim.

MRS. BECK IS REMANDED FOR ANOTHER WEEK

Informations Found Necessary to be Amended By Crown

TO READ "BY FRAUD"

Local Merchants and Representatives Present In Court

Mrs. Eileen Beck charged with procuring goods and jewelry from Front street merchants by false pretences, was again remanded to jail for one week when she appeared before Magistrate Masson in police court this morning.

Mrs. Beck was charged with securing jewelry from the Tetley Black-burn store to the value of $185.25, giving a worthless cheque in payment. Similarly, Mr. John O'Brien, manager of the J. A. MacIlish Ladies' Ready to Wear store at 254 Front street, charges accused with securing apparel garments from his store to the value of $250, giving a worthless cheque in payment there also.

Amend Information

When the stage was set for trial this morning however, Crown Attorney Dumon found that it would be necessary to amend the information read at his request the remand was granted. It appears that accused purchased the goods on approval as it were and if the goods satisfied, she promised to pay for them in three days. This she did, but with worthless cheques. Had she given the cheques at the time she made the respective purchases, she would have been charged with procuring goods by false pretences, but having received the goods two days before she paid, the charge will probably be amended to read "by fraud" instead of by false pretences.

Was Recommended

It is believed that the woman was sent to the merchants well recommended, and that is their explanation of their delay in dealing with her.

Mr. Tetley, Mr. O'Brien, and Mrs. Shorey, also lady in the Mc-Ilish store, were present in court. Payne appeared for Mr. Blackburn and E. D. O'Flynn appeared for Mrs. Beck.

Mrs. Beck appeared to be very composed and indifferent and when asked if she objected to a week's remand, stated that she did not, though she is the only female "guest" at the County jail.

PRESENTATION AT GENERAL HOSPITAL

Miss Millard Cullen is Recipient of Gifts on Eve of Departure From Duties There

The nurses' residence of the General Hospital was the scene of a very pretty function last evening, the occasion being the presentation of parting gifts to Miss Millard Cullen who has been in charge of the operating room for the last 3½ years and is leaving for a rest. Dr. L. R. Dafoe in a few happy remarks referred to Miss Cullen's many splendid qualities and Miss Florence Fitzgerald on behalf of the superintendent and staff and nurses presented Miss Cullen with a beautiful suede purse. Dr. J. A. Faulkner on behalf of the medical staff and nurses also presented Miss Cullen with a travelling bag (gifted), and another high tribute to Miss Cullen's many qualifications, in addition to her long, arduous and trying duties performed during her supervision of the operating room and nursing staff generally. Refreshments and a dance followed the proceedings.

LIABILITY ZERO HOUR FOR TODAY

Home Bank Shareholders Must Pay Double Liability To-day—1,750 Shareholders due to Pay in Over $1,950,000—Co-Liquidator Threatens Drastic Action Unless Paid

(Special to the Intelligencer)

Toronto, May 1—Today is zero hour for the Home Bank shareholders. They have until midnight to clear across with the double liability and as there are 1,750 shareholders whose liability totals about $1,950,000.00, the office of the 1,750 shareholders, liquidator are in unprecedented scene of activity.

Only $80,000 Paid In

As only $80,000 had been paid in at a late hour last night, practically the whole of the liability is due to be paid today and following the announcement of J. E. Weldon, co-liquidator, yesterday that drastic steps will be taken against anyone who attempted to dodge the liability, many are joining in the rush to be on time.

There is reason to suspect that certain persons have been alienating their properties and assets, to avoid the ends of justice. In any such cases the liquidators will not be slow to prosecute financial embarrassment, the liquidator has announced.

Ten New Charges

Ten new charges were laid against Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer of Ontario, upon his appearance in police court yesterday, to answer to a blanket charge of conspiring to defraud the crown.

Among the charges is one that he conspired with J. Lorne Mason, A. H. Pepall, Aemilius Jarvis Sr., and Aemilius Jarvis, Jr., to defraud the public.

Mr. Smith was again remanded.

SONG RECITAL PLEASES MANY

The fortunate ones, who braved the elements last night to hear Mr. J. Campbell McInnes in his recital in English Hall and Scotch folk songs, enjoyed a rare treat. It is not often that Belleville has the opportunity to listen to an artist like Mr. Campbell McInnes and it is a regrettable thing that he did not have a larger audience. The Presto Male Vocal Club, under the able leadership him here and it is to be hoped that they will favor us with a visit which should need a larger auditorium than that in which to hold the concert. Mr. Belleville is surely more appreciative of good music than the size of last night's audience would indicate.

Mr. Campbell McInnes possesses a rich baritone voice of pleasing quality and timbre with rare artistry and charm. His interpretation was masterly of any demand and he entered into the mood of the different numbers so enthusiastically that his own ardent feeling, his short talks on folk songs, giving their origin and history, added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

Assisting Mr. Campbell McInnes at the piano was Dr. Healey Willan, Mus. Doc., Toronto, a most capable artist.

The program was divided into three groups, Scotch, English and Irish and each group included examples of humorous, pathetic and patriotic. The English group were two pretty numbers from the old world which proved particularly delightful.

At the end of the regular numbers, Mr. Campbell McInnes gave several of the street cries of the old time Londoners which were very musical charm. He was enthusiastically applauded and was forced to give a finally loaned by Mason and Risch, Limited, and was shipped from Toronto for this recital.

"Where there is harmony in things everything is things and essentials—Carlyle.

COMMUNITY LOYALTY

Have you ever stopped to consider the fact that loyalty to community interests is the highest form of patriotism? Show us the man who is loyal and true to every interest of his own community and we will show you in that same individual a man to whom his country can repose absolute confidence in any emergency that calls for his allegiance.

On the other hand, the man who is careless and unconcerned for the interests of his community is most apt to display the same spirit of indifference toward his government or his state should any serious danger threaten either.

Try to imagine an entire province composed of innumerable communities welded and cemented into a symmetrical whole, each striving to excel the others, but each, from its very local loyalty, developing a broader and deeper loyalty that reaches out and embraces the whole.

This would be brought about if we could be brought to see that we owe allegiance to our people, but that the prosperity and success of others is in no wise a detriment to us, but rather a help, that if each community would develop itself to the utmost—materially, mentally and morally—none would need be envious of others, neither would any need do aught but to detract from his brother's interest.

Let us develop community loyalty to the full—the highest possible form of patriotism.

SPEECHES THAT ARE TOO LENGTHY

The after-dinner speaker who says he doesn't intend to make a speech, then inflicts his eloquence, or a lamentable lack of that quality, on a tiring audience for thirty minutes or more despite an hour that is late and a program that is behind in schedule, is still one of the trials of modern existence. Like the poor, he will probably be always.

The Sermon on the Mount didn't take nearly as long in deliverance as some after-dinner speakers will take to say, "I am glad to be with you on this occasion" and a few more thousand words which mean precisely the same thing. The more the audience shuffles in its seat with the oppression the more the speaker warms to his task. There are some speakers, like some singers, one would like to listen to for any length of time but they only appear once in a while.

It is a common error in public events to make a program so long that it is arduous, and what is a delightful entertainment, for two hours, becomes a positive trial by the time the third hour is past, and every minute thereafter is a torture. Brevity continues to constitute the soul of wit, despite the assaults made upon it.

An alien does not change into a citizen over night. The changing of his dress may be done in an hour. The changing of his speech is a longer process. And the changing of his ideas is still longer.

Really, to become a citizen of our country, a man must first turn his mind from the old loyalties to the new; he must desire to be a Canadian in the second place, he must learn how our institutions have grown and how they are carried on, he must understand what are a citizen's responsibilities in this land.

TAX REDUCTION

There are ways to keep the big incomes from evading taxes and failure to apply them leaves the inevitable inference that the failure is studied and deliberate. Conceding that taxation's object is to produce revenue it is entirely rational to make people pay in proportion to their ability to pay. That is a fair test of obligations to the government.

MR. BOUTHILLIER

Popular Montreal Man Now Eats Meat

Gains Ten Pounds and Feels Fine Because Dreco Has Put His Digestive Organs in Sound, Healthy, Working Order

Mr. E. Bouthillier, of 276 Bleury St., has a wide acquaintance in the city of Montreal, where he has practised his profession for many years. He had many conversations with his clients in the course of his career, but none more profitable than those which resulted in his taking Dreco. It was recommende dto him by men who had evidently experienced its remarkable powers, and Mr. Bouthillier is only too anxious to pass the word along.

"Dreco has put me back on my feet," he says. Ever since my return from overseas I have suffered greatly with my stomach. It was weak and touchy and I would hardly digest anything. To-day, thanks to Dreco, which was highly recommended by people coming into the shop, I am able to eat meat and digest it properly. Dreco has done me so much good that I have gained ten pounds in weight and, what is more remarkable, I have only taken two bottles of it."

Why suffer the misery of faulty digestion when this splendid remedy, Dreco, is within easy reach? Let its wonderful corrective and tonic properties restore your digestive organs, as it has those of so many others. Dreco is a purely herbal preparation and contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Belleville by The Belleville Pharmacy. It is also sold in Stirling by J. S. Morton, and by a good druggist everywhere.

RADIO CLUB QUESTION BOX

To fit Radio Fans desiring information pertaining to Radio or trouble with sets write in your questions to Radio Club Question Box Intelligencer and your letters will be answered by the Club through the paper.

SAVING RADIO ENERGY

One of the indications of progress in the radio art is the increased attention which is being paid to the design of individual parts which are used in receiving sets. Until quite recently most of this care was focussed on the design of coils and condensers, whereas, However, it is being realised that there are also wasting leaks in poorly designed tube-bases, tube sockets and other parts as well.

A modern fairly efficient receiver will receive signals which as low a pressure as .001 volts. This is a very good antenna this will not produce an energy of more than .0000001 watts. It is hard to imagine such a small quantity of energy but 40,000,000 receiving sets would "pick up" just about power enough to light one ordinary 40-watt tungsten lamp.

Improve Product

Some manufacturers of vacuum tubes have recently greatly increased their product by eliminating the (metallic) metal shell which surrounds the base of their tube. This change reduces the loss and eddy currents in the metal shell itself. While the saving of power thus accomplished is quite small when expressed in figures, it becomes of importance when compared with the minute currents received on the antenna.

Second only in importance to the vacuum tube itself is the tube socket, for all the energy must pass through the socket before it reaches the tube. Indications are that the metal shell socket will soon become as obsolete as the single-slide tuning coil. The best radio engineering practice of today calls for the elimination of as much material as possible in the neighborhood of the parts of the radio set which carry the radio frequency current. This is applied not only to variable natabases, but to insulating materials as well. The socket of the future will undoubtedly consist merely of a composite base of some kind of non-grade insulating material and a base only sufficiently large to accommodate the necessary contact springs and connecting posts.

Some manufacturers are already marketing sockets of this type. The necessary strength and durability is being secured by the use of bakelite or similar materials of uniform cross-section, thereby avoiding thereby failure of the material, giving it the highest possible dielectric properties, as well as making it mechanically strong.

Clear Connections

A further interesting fact that has been developed through research conducted by one of the largest battery manufacturers, is that the "plastic" and "fibre" bases often advertised as "B" batteries are in reality caused by poor connections, usually between the terminals and the socket contacts. The research shows that there are no noisy "B" batteries.

To prevent such noises and the aboveation of many otherwise good concerts, there are manufacturers who have not only provided sockets with the high insulating properties, but have devised contacts that are of a wiping nature with dependable tension for each and every type of tube. In certain instances they have also provided dual wire contacts on both side and of the tube terminals, thus eliminating all possibility of trouble from this source.

It is interesting to realize that only a few years ago we were thrilled at the thought of receiving broadcasting at distances of a few hundred miles while today coast-to-coast reception is quite common. While a large part of this progress has no doubt, been due to new circuits and to the refinement of old ones, we must not forget to give due credit to the radio engineer who has been silently but busily engaged in saving the micro-micro watts which add the ultimate to our receiving sets.

Rotary Minstrels Are Looking Good

"Bigger, Better, Brighter," is the slogan of the Rotary Minstrels this season for their second annual appearance, and that says a whole lot. The show last year was one of the best ever presented to a Belleville audience, but Paul LaLonde, veteran minstrel director, says that last year was but a try-out and this year will be the real show. The Rotarians have been practising faithfully for many weeks and will present a finished performance. As a laugh-producer the show will have no equal but it will also present a high-class musical program with songs and choruses full of the sentiment and melody which every body loves, and whistles next day.

Harold Sanders, manager of the big show, is keeping some mystery packages hidden, even from the boys in the magic circle, and will prepare for the first time in Belleville some exceptional acts in the second part which are bound to go over big. Harold is the power behind the throne, looking after all the details and assembling all the varied parts in one glorious working unit, well schooled by the musical Paul.

The show is going over big, and those who fail to reserve seats early may find the house sold out for both nights as it was last year.

The Belleville Rotary Club has been responsible for the cure or improvement of four little crippled children and there are a number of others who can be cured or helped. Fifteen have been medically examined and are ready for treatment when Rotary finances permit. Every dollar taken in at Griffin's Monday and Tuesday evenings will help some crippled child look into the garden of hope where playtime is joytime and dragging limbs are known no more.

It usually happens that a cancer is what a girl has while waiting for the right man.

GERM POISONER THOUGHT INSANE

Tells Amazing Confession of Attempt on Wife—Tried to run Her Down in Family Auto

White Plains, N. Y.—Amazing confession that he poisoned his wife with germs of typhoid and pneumonia to escape from unwelcome attentions of another woman undoubtedly will result in a plea of insanity being entered for Clarence O. Baring when he is tried May 12 for attempted murder.

Baring, whose wealthy wife accused him of repeated attempts but only to poison her, but to run her down with the family automobile, was closely watched in his cell here to-day, while counsel argued over releasing him on bail and detectives unearthed an almost incredible chain of circumstances and evidence against him.

In the dining garage they found one pound of cyanide of potassium. In an unused fish bowl in the cellar was found a vial of diphtheria bacilli. In a trunk they found some broken test tubes. In a sugar bowl traces of arsenic.

All the while, pacing his cell nervously, apparently on the verge of a mental breakdown, Baring muttered his confession.

"I wanted to break off with the other woman. I wanted to make my wife very sick, so that she'd go to California and I could get rid of the other woman and then go out and make my wife well again."

Used Car

The "other woman" is a New Jersey school teacher, younger than Baring's wife, who is seven years his senior. And the story which Mrs. Baring reluctantly told the authorities declared it was for love of this younger woman that the poisoner sought his wife's demise. He is alleged to have attempted to obtain possession of his wife's will, which would have left him $200,000.

She began to suspect poison in her food. She had her husband insure. Once, as she passed the garage door, Baring shot the family flivver forward, nearly running her down.

Physicians said he overdid his work; if he had given the serum in smaller doses, Mrs. Baring would have been cured; her husband only succeeded in making her deathly ill.

Wanted to be Helpful

A clergyman was taking a holiday. His face was very red from wind and rain. He approached a policeman. His overcoat was turned up, so that the policeman did not see the sign of his calling.

"Can you tell me the time," he asked.

"They'll be open in ten minutes," said the policeman.—London Sunday Express.

Mrs. H. N. Tardell, Harrowsmith, Ont., writes:

"My nerves were in a very bad state, and for nearly six months I did not know what it was to have a good night's rest. I could not eat, and never felt well. I heard about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and thought I would try it. After taking it for a few days I began to feel better, and soon was able to sleep well at night, my appetite also returned, and I felt stronger and better, and after taking three boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was quite well. I have also given the Nerve Food to my little girl, with good results."

Blows Brains Out After He Shoots Girl

Jealous Lover Fires through Window of Chatham Home

Chatham, May 1—Mrs. Margaret Bueche, 23, a pretty Belgian woman, lies in St. Joseph's hospital in a precarious condition as a result of a bullet wound inflicted by a .22 calibre rifle, fired through the window of her home on concession 8, Raleigh township, by Frank Gielis, in a fit of jealousy following repulses to his love making.

Following the murder attempt, Gielis drove his coupe to a spot two miles away and, after drinking an ounce of iodine, blew out his brains.

Hate Long-Nursed

A long nursed hate, following the woman's marriage three years ago to Charles Bueche, is said by the police to have broken out into a terrific rage yesterday, resulting in his carrying out his oft-repeated threat.

Charles Bueche, the husband of the young woman, has been away from home for some time, working in Detroit. The shooting occurred about 9 o'clock last night. Yesterday afternoon, according to the police, Gielis met Mrs. Bueche on a road about a half mile from her home.

Fires Through Window

A quarrel followed, during which he threatened the woman's life. Approaching the window of the living room last night Gielis fired two shots as Mrs. Bueche had her back turned toward him. She crumpled in a heap on the floor with a bullet in her left shoulder.

Arthur Millerell, who happened to be in the home at the time, threw a chair at the window. A second shot narrowly missed the man.

Results May Be Fatal

Dr. A. W. Elgie was summoned and administered first aid. The woman was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital this morning following an X-ray examination which indicated that the bullet split in two, one part piercing the tissues of the neck. The woman is in a grave condition, Dr. Elgie says. He fears that infection which might arise from the part of the bullet which could not be located may produce fatal results.

Mrs. Bueche gave a statement to High Constable George Peters this morning, in which she claims that she was accosted by Gielis as she was walking toward her home yesterday afternoon. The Belgian became angry when the woman refused to ride with him in his new coupe.

Accused Her Of Stories

"He accused me of de'aming stories about him," the young woman said, to High Constable Peters. "I am going to do something to somebody," the girl alleged that the Belgian threatened. Later Gielis called at the Bueche home for water for his car, but Mrs. Bueche refused to speak to him.

At 9 o'clock last night the woman said, she was sitting with Arthur Millerviey, Rosetta Brackett and an old lady, and became alarmed when she saw a car stop. She was trimming a hat at the time. She first shut out Millerviel A up a chair at the window and shut as Gielis fired the second time.

Threat Made Before

According to High Constable Peters the man is alleged to have stated to his employer, Joseph Dauphin, a week ago that he was going to kill a man and a woman and then end his own life.

According to Coroner McRitchie, who accompanied County Constable Peters this morning following the discovery of the body, Gielis had been dead for some considerable time. An empty iodine bottle was found on the running board of the car. His body lay a few feet away from where he dropped after pressing the trigger of the rifle he had placed to his forehead.

Just So.

Salts Fine For Aching Kidneys

WHEN BACK HURTS FLUSH YOUR KIDNEYS AS YOU CLEAN YOUR BOWELS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

OVERSEAS FARM HELP ARRIVING DAILY

These Spring days see much activity at the Government Employment Office on Campbell St. In conversation with Supt. L. F. Green today he says, "He just like a short order lunch counter, each morning from twenty to forty men are dispatched to private homes for casual employment including gardening, painting, carpentry and dozens of other varieties of work.

The boys are accepting these jobs cheerfully in order to tide them over until better and more suitable positions present themselves."

There is a steady flow of overseas farm help arriving of Scotch, Irish and English nationalities. Early next week a party of Hebridians who are partly experienced in farming are expected to arrive in Belleville designated direct to numerous farmers in Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

A GRATEFUL LETTER

From a Lady Made Well by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

"I wish from my heart I could persuade every person who is run down in health to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial." Thus writes Mrs. Louie Mitchell, Oak Point, Man., who further says:—"About a year ago I was a weak woman, suffering from a run down system and impoverished blood. Any little exertion would cause my legs to tremble and my heart to throb violently. I could not sweep a room or walk fifty feet without being exhausted. Then I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking only six boxes I am as well and strong as ever. I can walk, and run too, without stopping every few seconds gasping for breath as previously. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be my stand-by in the future if ever my blood needs building up again, and I shall always find pleasure in recommending them to anyone needing a tonic."

There are many troubles due to weak, watery blood which can easily be overcome by a fair use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The sole mission of this medicine is to enrich and purify the blood and when that is done all the varied symptoms of anaemia disappear, and good health returns. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

And I wanted to find a friend or two.

Detroit's bid for a pennant this season has a stout chance of joining out if the Yankee pitching staff fails to pan out as expected. Cobb works, a young club into second place last fall, and this club will be stronger this season than last. If Cobb can keep the morale of his men in order without riding them too briskly in his anxiety to win, he will have a great chance to add a pennant-winning record as manager to his other achievements, leaving him with the best rounded career in baseball.

PAYING THE PRICE

"The trouble," remarked Long Jim Barnes, "with most of the sports in this—they are not willing to pay the price for improvement. I don't mean money—but work and practice and thought. They expect to step into first-class form with a few lessons and a year or two of play. His guess for other games as well as golf. But you've got to earn what you get—and part of the price is a certain amount of drudgery.

"Another trouble is that few people think through their work or their practice. They build up no patterns to follow, where they should concentrate as they go along. About 75 per cent of those playing golf—possibly more—are merely strengthening bad habits of the swing. The more they play, the more those incorrect habits become fixed."

This shows the importance in any game of catching them young and heading them into the right road, where the correct habit becomes instinctive, second nature. It is for this reason an important thing to have every youngster learn the correct golf swing, even if he doesn't play so much. At the age of twenty-three or twenty-four his football, track and baseball days are about over—not because he is too old, but because ordinarily he doesn't get the chance. After twenty-five there is no strong chance that he will be playing golf or tennis, and the advantage of an early start when imitation and better ways will be quickly seen.

There's many a struggling middle-aged citizen spending his time in candid brightness and the rough who would give a lot to have had his swing at least started properly back in the days when young muscles responded quickly and naturally. An old muscle is often hard or to teach new tricks than an old dog.

THE YOUNG FEMININE RESPONSE

The quick way in which girls respond to first-class instruction is shown in the careers of three of the best leading stars—the Misses Coltett, Wills and Ederle.

Miss Ederle won a swimming championship at the age of sixteen; Miss Wills a tennis championship at eighteen, and Miss Collett a golf championship at eighteen.

The three have reached the loftiest of heights, have become internationally famous, and yet their average age today is around seventeen.

The male division might attempt to match this showing with Bobby Jones, Vincent Richards and Johnny Weismuller. Yet Jones was twenty-one when he won his first big title and Richards has never been able to break through the Tilden-Johnston barricade, these two having had almost exclusive grasp of the world-wide tennis for the last five years.

THE DUFFER'S TRANSLATION

Of all the horrible pictures that hang on memory's wall,
That of a certain banker, I baleth it worst of all;
Not for its graceful arrangement, wrecking a-swim of blokes,
But there with a sixteen handicap I wasted seventeen strokes.

THE BERLENBACH TRAIL

The Berlenbach advance begins again in earnest with the Olympic show. It will continue to arouse interest unless Paul is pummelled into poppyland again, which may and happen soon. The crowd welcomes the return of a puncher and at this next appearance will doubtless be pulling for Berlenbach to win. Berlenbach has been working hard to recover lost ground. He has been working for greater speed and skill. He may yet become one of the big spring and summer men when the outdoor jubilees are sprung, since there are none too many features that can fill an outdoor arena.

Gene Tunney deserves the next fight heavyweight test. He is the American light heavyweight champion. He is one of the leading credits to the game. He has been side tracked more than any champion in any division. And when he steps out he shows his stuff without using any backspin.

A number of critics seem to think that Dempsey's lack of defense will lead to his rather early defeat. But on four very fine have been able to take the openings he leaves while resting on their backs in the ropes. Only an abnormal reach will do the trick.

KINGSTON BOWLERS HAVE ORGANIZED

Kingston, May 1.—The annual meeting of Queen's Lawn Bowling Club was held Tuesday night at the Kingston Curling Club rooms. The meeting was well attended and presided over by J. F. McMillan. Several alterations were made in the constitution and bylaws. Four new members were elected: L.M. Burkborrough, W.J. Drysdale, A. Fair and R. D. Sloan. It was decided not to hold a tournament this year, but to co-operate with Stockwood, who intend holding one.

In the ladies league at the Recreation alley's last night, the Lucky S' ikes won from the Hikers by 204 pins. It was a very close game until the last game, when the Hikers weakened badly and let 140 pins in the game. Miss Mabel Mott was high three string bowler with 471. In the other league the K. of C. nosed out the Baby Shoes by 62 pins. Lee Manley rolling the highest three string score.

In the senior group the Bowlers for the 4th consecutive time have rolled over the 3000 mark. In their game last night against the Knights the latter team got the worst beating of their life time, when they lost by 346 pins. Meglen with 704 was high man while for the loosers Art. Donahue was high. Player and scores:

WARKWORTH QUITS

Campbellford, Ont., May 1—Word was received here that the Warkworth baseball team had decided owing to the lack of players, to withdraw from the Northumberland league for this season. Of those on the team competing above all entirely of war veterans, and who made such a fine showing in the league last year, winning the championship trophy for Northumberland and County Archie Zufelt, their pitcher, is dead, some and others are not prepared to retire from the game.

Five of the best of the player, however, will be with the Orlando club this season, including Harry Brandon, first baseman, and Harold Mulhall, shortstop. The latter has been captain of the Veterans since they entered the league and he will be at the helm for Orlando.

BATSTONE TO KINGSTON

HARD HEARTED FANS RE-NAME SHEPPARD

Saginaw, Mich., May 1.—"Oh Skinny" greeted "Babe" Sheppard, of Toronto, who made his debut as a professional baseball umpire in the opening Mint League game here yesterday between the London Tecumsehs and the local club. The newest stunt Saginaw fans as so apt that it will likely stick to "Babe" like a burr as long as he sticks.

As "Babe" coyly bore into view from the grandstand shadows, Saginaw fans, a gang, the warped down into position to work on the base. uncle his corn steam and for a first day, had several close decisions to give.

"Babe" also gave the fans a glimpse of his speed when he twisted nastily out of the way of two hot smashes and a whizzing throw in from the outfield which threatened to shut off his brand new suit of umpire blue.

New Uniforms For Belleville Juniors

When the officials of the junior baseball league of this city met at the Y.M.C.A. last evening, it was decided to purchase brand new uniforms for the Belleville juniors.

It was decided to purchase plain gray suits trimmed with blue. There will be a large "B" on the breast of the shirt, and "Jr" will appear on the arms for "junior".

The ticket sale has been very successful for the junior league games this season, thanks to the hard work of the officials who are determined to make the league go strong.

OUCH! BACKACHE! RUB LUMBAGO AWAY

When your back is sore and lame or rheumatic, seize it, or some muscle you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 35 cent bottle of old, honest St. Jacobs Oil at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and the soreness and lameness is gone.

In use for 65 years, this soothing, penetrating oil takes the fight out, and "rubs the misery" right out. It is absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

GOOD ROADS PAY

(Carleton Place Central Canadian)

"Good roads cost a lot of real money but they are demonstrating their value. From the time the snow left the ground these highways have been practically free of mud while many of the side-roads were practically impassable. That is the irony of it. We can't have these provincial highways everywhere due to their prohibitive cost, but it is a real relief for all who have to travel the sideroads to feel that at least a portion of their journey will give very pronounced pleasure.

OF INTEREST to WOMEN

Seeking Better Law Enforcement

Women Call Upon Officials to Force Obedience of Adelaide Plumptre, of Toronto, Was Honored

Buffalo, May 1—Appeal for enforcement of all laws of the land promised to cap the National League of Women Voters' convention when it entered its final session.

A compromise resolution, couched in stronger language than the original report, was tentatively agreed upon to meet the demands of the Pennsylvania delegation. It calls on the president, congress and governors of the various states to compel obedience to all laws. It characterized the unenforcement of the eighteenth amendment "not only a scandal and dishonor to our nation, but tends to weaken the regard for law in general".

Miss Elizabeth J. Hauser, Girard, O., presided at to-day's session. Action on the budget was the first matter under consideration.

Nearly 1,500 women attended a banquet in the Hotel Statler last night to celebrate the progress in the widening field for women and to honor twelve women selected as having accomplished the greatest achievements in the varied sphere of activity. Only three of the twelve, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, New York; Miss Martha Van Rensselaer, Cornell University, and Mrs. Anna B. Comstock, Cornell, were able to attend. Those selected to replace the absentees included Edith Picton-Tuberville, vice-president of the International Women's Christian association whose home is in Wales; Commandant Mary S. Allen, London, Eng.; Adelaide Plumptre, Toronto, Ont.; Harriet Taylor Upton, vice-chairman of the executive committee of the Republican national committee; Emily Newell Blair, vice-president of the Democratic national committee, and Helen H. Garner, United States civil service commissioner, Washington.

Achievements of women in the world as exemplified by the twelve greats were lauded by the speakers. They revieved the progress of women in many fields of endeavor and predicted that even greater progress would be made in the succeeding years and that enfranchisement of women will result in the advancement of the welfare of the human race was the first matter under consideration.

That Body of Yours

By Charles Harton, M.D.,

SPRING HOUSE CLEANING

The good housewife, when Spring arrives, goes over the home looking for anything that is keeping that house from being at its best.

Sometimes the husband has been known to help in the matter also.

Accordingly the storm sash are taken down, fly screens put up, the cellar and attic looe considerable of their possessions to the junk man.

A room is papered here, another one painted, or perhaps the whole interior or exterior is painted.

The is what is really a thorough overhauling of the house, so that you will be more comfortable and make your surroundings more sanitary.

Now what about that body of yours. Your house was getting along pretty well but you had it overhauled just the same.

What about getting that body overhauled?

Why not go to your family doctor and tell him that you are not sick, but you want from a half hour to an hour of his time in order that he can go over you.

You want your eyes, nose, ears, heart, lungs, blood and blood pressure and kidneys all looked over.

Don't let him laugh you out of the idea.

The average doctor has to be a philosopher, and often in order to prevent you worrying about yourself, will not bother with the examination. This examination will reveal trouble or that you are free from any ailment. It will help you to remember what other you are getting enough exercise or too much food. It will reveal more than whether you are just free from illness.

And then go and see your dentist. He has been working on your teeth for years and knows more about them than anybody else.

If you have any crown or bridge work, ask him what he thinks about having an X-ray of the teeth.

If he says "Why do the idea, are you sick." You say "No, but I don't want to wait until I do get sick if possible."

Take your films to him and let him decide whether or not you need any extracting done.

It is now thought advisable that an X-ray of the teeth should be taken every five years at least.

When you are young, Nature lets you get by with almost anything. It would seem that up to forty years, that you are being steadily built up mentally and physically.

After forty, Nature has finished her job insofar as building is concerned, and expects you to keep your body in shape by your own thought and efforts.

You are not so interested in living to be old, but you are interested in living well—being well—while you are living.

FRECKLE-FACE

Sun and Wind Bring Out Ugly Spots. How to Remove Easily.

Here's a chance, Miss Freckle-face to try a remedy for freckles with the guarantee of a reliable druggist that it will not cost you a penny unless it removes the freckles: while it does give you a clear complexion, even a pimple is trifling.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from any druggist, and a few applications should show you how easy it is to rid yourself of the homely freckles and get a beautiful complexion. Rarely is more than one ounce needed for the worst case, and even this is sold on the guarantee of the double strength Othine as this strength is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

MEYE OUT SAME PUNISHMENT

(Kitchener Record)

It is all very well to temper justice with mercy, but we are today harassed by a type of criminal whose sensibilities—if he has any—can only be reached though his own hide. He cares not how much pain he inflicts upon his victims. The same measure of justice should be meted out to him when he is captured.

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU WASH YOUR CHILD'S HAIR WITH

If you want to keep children's hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Modified cocoanut oil shampoo (which any pure one entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing as it can not possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure your druggist gives you mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

NO OPERATION FOR HER

She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Escaped the Operation Doctor Advised

Louisville, Ky.—"I wish to thank you for what your medicine has done for me. I was in bed for eight days nine days every month and had a great deal of pain. The doctor said my only relief was an operation. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and also tried the Vegetable Compound and the Sanative Wash, and they surely did wonders for me. I feel fine all the time now and am picking up in weight. I will tell any one that your medicine is wonderful, and you may publish my letter if you wish."—Mrs. Ed. Simmons, nee, 1180 Ash St., Louisville, Ky.

Backache, nervousness, painful times, irregularity, tired and run-down feelings, are symptoms of female troubles. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken whenever there is reason to fear such troubles. It contains nothing that can injure, and tends to tone up and strengthen the organs concerned, so that they may work in a healthy, normal manner. Let it help you. It has thousands of others. It is now selling almost all over the world.

"Are you sure no one knows of my identity with—with the man whose name appears in the certificate?" he asked.

"Certain!" responded Denal. "Who should? You played your cards too well, Madge herself has no suspicion that she married you under a false name You're dead as far as she is concerned; and if it hadn't been for my meeting you actually a year after you left Paris, I shouldn't have known it. No, there's no one in this little business but our two selves, Sy Ley; and there will be no exception—"

"Suppose!" cried Selby, with a gesture of impatience and resentment. "The air must be full of suspicions. Was there nothing suspicious in your stopping me and detaining me this morning? Miss Vancourt noticed it and asked questions. Your presence in Paris is suspicious; no doubt you have been seen coming here, may have been followed—followed." He looked round as if he expected to see or hear the watcher.

Denal shook his head.

"No one saw me, no one followed me. I'll take my oath on that," he said. "I've stayed at the little inn on the road—the Black Crow; I told the landlord that I was an artist, I've spoken to no one else. And I've paid my bill, and am supposed to be on my way to London by this time. No, there is no need to talk of suspicions. We're alone here, and no one has followed me; do you think I shouldn't know?"

He laughed scornfully, and eyed the downcast Selby, who still gnawed softly at his nether lip.

"Don't be a fool, Selby," he resumed, after a pause. "I know what you're thinking. That I shall be a kind of nuisance to you, that I shall be for ever blackmailing you—"

"You don't indeed read my thoughts, my dear Denal," said Selby, with a sneer.

"You're wrong," protested Denal, promptly. "I take my oath—Selby Layton's never grew more mockingly—that this is the last you'll will hear from you. I've reasons of my own for wishing to get out of this cursed country. You know some of 'em; but it is no reason to go back to Australia and buy a farm with the money you've won—"

"And lose it," said Selby.

"Very likely; but I shall insist upon the five hundred a year," retorted Denal. "I shall have enough to live on whatever happens. What stops you from coming to terms? You ought to jump at it. I might have asked you for ten times the amount, for half of what you're going to make, and by God, I will, too, if you hesitate another day. And you can't refuse me!"

His voice was rising. He was impatient to be gone. Jack Gordon's face, his voice—which he had heard through the door only a few hours ago—haunted him, and filled him with a vague dread which the weird and ghastly place in which they stood aggravated.

Selby Layton murmured Selby Layton.

"No!" snarled Denal. "Do you think I shan't put the screw on? Do you think I shall be satisfied with showing you up to the girl at the house there? No!" He swore an awful oath. "I'll go straight to Madge and set her on your track. And she'll jump for you! She'll claim you and insist on her rights. And do you know what that means?"

He laughed sardonically and eyed Selby Layton meaningly. Selby Layton's face grew whiter, the twist of his lip more marked.

"You know what she was when you knew her the day. She's worse now, ten times worse! She'd make a nice wife for—for—for a gentleman of character and position!" He laughed again. "No, my soul, I've half tempted to chuck away what I may make out of you, to withdraw my offer, and go to Madge. The fun of the thing would be worth something."

The sweat stood in big drops on Selby Layton's forehead.

"You forget the risk to yourself in this amiable threat, my dear Denal," he said in a low voice.

"Oh, no, I don't! But I've taken risks before now, and I'm ready. I'm desperate. I've had a rough time lately—but that won't interest you; much you'd care for that! Come, I'm sick of this palaver! Make up your mind one way or the other. Come to my terms and you're free to marry this girl and go to the swag; refuse, and by God! I'll show you up and set Madge on you!"

The words sent a thrill, a shudder through Selby Layton. He raised his eyes, they were bloodshot with the strain he had undergone, and looked steadily, with a curious expression at his tormentor.

"Your argument is conclusive and irrefragible, my dear Denal," said I agree with grave I must accede to your demands—"

"Your cheque will do," broke in Denal, with a smile. "I can almost see it in your breast pocket. Yes, I'll accept it. I'm not afraid of your stopping it."

Selby Layton shrugged his shoulders.

"I will admit that I came prepared for some such request as this," he said, as he took out the cheque-book and a stylographic pen. He knelt and wrote with the book on his knee, and handed up the cheque.

Denal took it, and, folding it, slipped it into his trousers pocket; it is almost unnecessary—"

"And now a word or two on a sheet of paper, acknowledging that five hundred a year," he said.

"I've paper—is it necessary?" asked Selby Layton, moodily. "My word is as good as my bond, my dear Denal."

"And what's worth anything!" remarked Denal. "Here, I've a sheet of paper. Half of Madge's letter will do. And I'll draw it out. Give me hold of the pen!"

Selby Layton gave him the pen, and Denal knelt on one knee and spread out the paper on the other. The moonlight was now pouring on both men, with a light almost as clear as day. A silence reigned for a moment, as Denal wrote:

"I, Selby Layton, promise to pay Denal Mayhew the sum of five hundred pounds per annum, for consideration duly received, and shall make a good lawyer's clerk, eh, Selby?" he put in, with a low laugh—the laugh of the man who has won. "By God! I ought to have made it five thousand!"

STEAMER AGROUND

Buffalo, April 30.—The City of Erie, lake passenger steamer of the C. and B. Line, went aground against the outer harbor breakwater on its initial trip of the season from Cleveland this morning. Forty passengers were reported aboard. Tugs were despatched in an attempt to pull the liner off.

The tugs released the boat after a couple of hours' work. No one was injured and the vessel suffered no material damage.

Your Home

"I COULD just sit right down and cry!" Mrs. Stephens was disappointed—bitterly disappointed—for her home, the spot in which she took such pride; the home she had tried to make so cheerful and pretty, stood before her like beggar's rags.

It was the same old story—"Cheap Paint"! There it was—the surface, that should have reflected the joy and cheer she had anticipated, was scaling, cracking, and unkempt. A total loss—and more, a disappointment.

We found that she had used 6½ gallons of a so-called cheap paint, for which she had paid $26.00. Had she bought Lowe Brothers "High Standard" Paint she would have required only 4 gallons. It would have cost her $23.00. She would have saved $3.00 on the job, and would not then have been on the verge of tears.

SAVED BY ENGINEER

Passenger Train Escapes Mexican Rebels With Fall Steam Ahead

Vera Cruz, April 30—The action of the engineer in pulling on full steam in the face of a barrage of shots, saved a passenger train on the Mexican Railway, attacked by rebels about 30 miles from Vera Cruz, it was learned today.

The passenger, numbering about 50, were panic stricken, but none was injured. Many of the rebels are reported to have been wounded by the return fire of the military guard.

The Cost of Decorating Your Walls

To do a room with Alabastine costs less than any other wall covering—one-third as much as paper, and one-fifth as much as paint. It is permanent and does not rub off. At the same time your walls are just as prettily tinted as any other finish will make them.

One coat is sufficient to give a rich beautiful tint. It is easily and quickly applied—spreads evenly—does not dry too quickly and leaves no brush marks.

You will appreciate the big saving in the cost of decorating your home if you use

BELGIUM ASKING ONLY "INVISIBLE" RUHR OCCUPATION

Commission Delayed by Parleys With French-Theunis Working for Agreement With British

...Paris—The reparations commission met today and considered the replies of the allied governments on the examinations have made of delegates to the they should nominate on the organization committees. It is believed the commission will be forced to remark time as far as waiting on the governmental replies is concerned, until the results of negotiations by Premier Theunis, of Belgium with Premier Poincare, of France and MacDonald of Great Britain, become known.

Despite secrecy as to details of yesterday's Franco-Belgian conversations, it has leaked out that Poincare and Theunis agreed in principle upon a compromise which will permit a continued united front by these countries as far as the Ruhr is concerned. Military occupation will be continued in some form, even though the experts' plan is put in operation.

"Invisible" Occupation

It is understood Theunis urged that towards "invisibility." But proposed occupation of vital centres only in case the Germans failed to execute the plan with good will.

The Belgian Premier is believed to have secured promises of cooperation from Poincare which will enable him to bring the French and Belgian viewpoints appreciably closer when he is able to talk with Premier MacDonald on the subject.

After Election

Paris, May 1—Premier Poincare will not meet Premier Ramsay MacDonald until some time after the French general election, May 4, when they will discuss the experts' report on reparations.

Interview Mussolini

Brussels, May 1.—"Simply preliminary conversations," is the way yesterday's consultations in Paris between Premier Poincare of France, and Premier Theunis and Foreign Minister Hymans, of Belgium, are described in official circles here. No decisions were reached at these conferees, it is declared, this action being reserved for further meetings to be held after the French elections, notably the meeting between Premier Poincare and Prime Minister MacDonald, of Great Britain.

Belgian official circles express satisfaction at the selection Aix-les-Bains, have made of delegates to the organizations, provided for in the experts' report, notably for the committees on railways, and industrial mort gages.

Premier Theunis and Foreign Minister Hymans, will go to Milan to interview Premier Mussolini, it was announced today, immediately after the visit of the British sovereign to Brussels. The Italian Premier has requested this visit, it was added. Reparations question, such as those discussed by the Belgian statesmen in Paris yesterday, and to be gone over by them with Premier MacDonald, will be taken up with Premier Mussolini.

Commission Met

Paris, May 1—The reparation commission met in formal session at 3 o'clock this afternoon to examine the French, British, Belgian and Italian replies regarding the experts' report and to proceed to an interchange of views as to the procedure to be followed. Approval of the list of German delegates on the various bodies providing consents for those whose duty it is to place the above mentioned signs to get busy.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for space for this in your widely read paper, I am

Yours, tuly,

Music & Drama

"Don't smoke on this set!"

Those, who have visited motion picture studios during the making of pictures, have seen a sign like this and they have heard the director and his assistant cry with dismay when smoke percolated into the atmosphere before the camera. And many an innocent bystander has been "bawled out" for puffing smoke into a scene. But Wallace Carew, who directed "Mighty Lak' a Rose," the First National release now at the Regent Theatre, changed all that while he was making the underworld dance-hall scenes in this picture.

As he got all ready to "shoot" a big scene the actors and actresses, remembering that they were taught not to smoke because it interfered with camera work, stopped puffing.

"What's the matter with the smoke," cried Carew. "This is an underworld dance hall scene. Did you ever see one? Smoke, everybody. Wait a minute." He gathered together nearly everybody not working on the set, carpenters, grips, members of the cast. "Get out your cigarettes, your cigars, your pipes. Now have the smoke of your lives, Puff clouds of it." And in a few minutes he had the "atmosphere." And he it related he repeated the scene many time he was ready to "shoot" an underworld.

RENOWNED EUROPEAN ACTOR PLAYS IN "DADDY"

In the notable cast supporting Jackie Coogan in "Daddy," a First National picture produced by Sol Lesser, and which is now playing at the Griffin Theatre, is a figure to Gravini, He plays the role of an aged and broken musician, once a great virtuoso, and now forced to earn a precarious living by playing his beloved "Strad" on street corners.

This impersonation proclaims Gravini a genius of the first magnitude in Filmdom. The young man, Gravini was prominent in Grand opera, assuming, for the movie, "buffo" parts. Later he achieved fame as a character actor and singer in "opera bufo." Then he organized his own company playing the classics of the world's best drama, and visiting all of Europe's cultured capitals. A few years ago he came to America. Director H. Mason Hopper selected Gravini to play the part of Cesare Gallo, and the result is a performance of exquisite beauty and tenderness.

Others in the cast are Arthur Carew, Bert Woodruff, Anna Townsend, William Lewis, Jessie Sedgwick and George Kuwa. The story is from the gifted pens of the star's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coogan.

Editor Daily Intelligencer,
Belleville Ont.,

Dear Editor—

We have a beautiful school her in Coleman Ward, viz; King George School, where almost 400 children attend. As it is, there are no warning signs to motorists drawing their attention to the fact that there are in the vicinity of a school and that they should moderate their speed to 15 miles per hour. Some of the other schools in the city have these warning signs and probably all of the other schools, I can not say.

What I would like to know, Mr. Editor, is, who is responsible that these signs are erected in conspicuous places, as a protection to children, who are not always as careful as they should be when crossing the street and is it necessary that some child should be seriously hurt or killed before action is taken.

North Front Street is much travelled by motorists and their speed is not always in compliance with the law.

Today one of the pupils of King George school was knocked down by an automobile and this should be warning enough for those whose duty it is

INMATES CRAVED SILKEN HOSIERY

Went to Jail Rather Than Wear Cotton Stockings

Media, Pennsylvania, April 30.—"Take away mah pa's silk socks, but leave.

Take away mah pay,

But gimme silk stockings.

Or uh ain't gonna stay."

So chanted 24 negro girls in the house of refuge, and they kept it up until they chanted their ring-leaders right into jail.

The girls, were bound they were going to have silk stockings, and were them. They were willing to put up with almost any hardship short of their modest surroundings in the home, at Darlington might require, but their legs just naturally craved silken hosiery.

Finally a detachment of state police was sent from Media to arrest some of the girls, at the request of the house of refuge authorities, who were powerless to quell the uprising.

UNION DEBATE BECOMES HEATED ISSUE

ADMITS AIM OF RUSSIA TO SPREAD VIEW

Bolsheviks to Foster Unrest In World Workers

STIR FOR INDUSTRY

Urge International Tumult As Part of Monster Program

London, May 2.—The Communist Party of Great Britain is engaged in a campaign to stir up industrial unrest in England. It is vigorously supporting the movement for higher wages that has resulted in recent strikes and threatens the stoppage of work in several important industries.

"It is not accurate to say that we are responsible for the strikes," said Harry Pollitt, chief industrial organizer of the Communist Party. "We haven't started a single strike in England. I only wish we were strong enough to start a strike of our own."

Foment Strikes

"Wherever strikes take place, however, we get on the job at once. Generally we are invited to—we a hand in the game as soon as a strike starts. We stay in the fight to the finish, urging the men to hold out for full acceptance of their demands.

"Of course we are trying to stir up industrial unrest. That is one of the fundamentals of our policy. The only way we can win our fight is to arouse the workers and agitation against the evils of the capitalist system is the most effective way of arousing them."

"The Communist party is not responsible for the movement to force wage increases out of the industries. That movement has originated in the ranks of the regular trade unions throughout the country. It is the result of the unbearable conditions under which the workers are forced by the employers to work. We are in full sympathy with it, however, and are giving it support in every possible way."

England Pleases Soviet

According to Pollitt, the industrial situation in England is working out to the benefit of the Communist Party and the Red International of Labor Unions. These two organizations are the fountain-head of the radical labor movement in England.

"An illustration of how the situation works out," said Pollitt, is provided by the strike at Dunlop tire, where many tire engineers and ship workers have been striking since February. We have been accused of starting the strike. As a matter of fact, we have no branch of our party in Southampton. The men struck there because they are being paid lower wages than are being paid for similar work in every other port in England.

"While the dock workers of the strike started, however, we were asked to send speakers to Southampton. We have had our men there ever since, urging the strikers to stand firm and fight to a finish. The result has been that we have gained scores of recruits in the Southampton district, and when the strike is over we will have a strong local organization there."

Favor Labor Government

Pollitt denied that the Communist Party is working to undermine the Labor Government in England. He declared that the Communists are in sympathy with the Labor Government and are supporting it wherever its policies are in the interests of the working classes.

"So long as the Labor Government governs in the interest of the workers," he said, "We will give it all the help we can. When it begins giving aid to the capitalists to the detriment of the workers we will fight it just the same as we would a Tory Government."

Philadelphia, Pa., May 1.—Harry L. Thaw, who has gone to Pittsburg to visit his mother, never expects to return to the Pennsylvania hospital for mental and nervous diseases. He left here, last night on conviction of the court to go away and stay away until the court demands its presence back here.

FEW MAY DAY OUTBREAKS IN BIG CAPITALS

Bomb Blast in Paris; Riots in Berlin; Others Quiet

PARADES IN BRITAIN

All Orderly; Thousands Go To Country or Seaside Resorts on Holiday

May Day, the recognized day for Socialistic demonstration passed off comparatively quietly everywhere.

The Communists refused to disperse in Paris during a meeting of the Paris branch of the Italian Fascisti and a woman was injured.

A few workers in Paris observed the day with a 24-hour stoppage of work.

May Day in London passed quietly as a holiday.

Mounted police in Berlin broke up an attempted Communist demonstration.

Orderly in England

London, May 1—England celebrated May Day today in quiet and orderly fashion. There were numerous parades of workers, spent the day in the country or at vacation resorts.

Vigil in New York

New York, May 1—While no outbreaks were expected, police were taking every precaution today against disorders. May Day today is expected to place guarded homes of millionaires, banks and industries.

Unusual precautions were taken in Wall Street, scene of former bomb explosions.

Fire Hose For Reds

Athens, May 1—A large number of Communists attempted to enter the Labor centre this morning for a May Day meeting, despite biiect orders that such a gathering must not be held.

The Communists refused to disperse even when a fire hose was turned on them. The troops were forced to fire in the air. This caused a panic and a stampede that up to noon no casualties had been reported.

Paris Keeps Quiet

Paris, May 1—May Day, the traditional time for socialist demonstrations, was comparatively quiet in Paris.

Taxicab drivers and members of the building trades unions quit work today, but otherwise industrial conditions were normal.

A woman was injured by the explosion of a bomb at a meeting of the Italian Fascisti. The outrage was attributed to Italian Communists.

Police arrested a number of the city throughout the day, watching for working demonstrations.

Armed Camp In Berlin

Berlin, May 1—Strong police precautions on May Day today to prevent May Day riots. Communists attempted demonstrations, but were routed by mounted policemen with riot clubs.

The centre of the city is an armed camp.

The workers of Berlin did not observe May Day as the usual labor holiday, but as an industrial event, in order to avoid the loss of wages. The children of the working classes, who can take no part in the fight, will get revolutionary principles at Lenine's schools.

Hundreds of thousands of workers in the Berlin factories and under Government employees marched from all parts of the city, each bearing flaming banners and flags, and converging upon the mausoleum in Red Square.

Several Killed In Clash

Koenigsberg, Germany, May1—Several persons were killed and many injured on May Day, which between soldiers and 200 rioters.

MAY DAY DANCE AT JOHNSTONE'S

Johnstone's Dancing Academy was the scene of an English May Day party last night when from 8 o'clock p. 5.30 p.m. and 1 a.m. A large crowd of dancers enjoyed an evening of fun and novelties, chief among which were the specialties of the Misses Pounds of Professor Johnstone and Mrs. Johnstone, including Maypole, Hornpipe and Sunflower dances.

The Bon Ton orchestra dispensed the music and refreshments were served during the evening.

PICTON TRIAL TO BRING OUT MIXED AFFAIRS

Two Young Men To Answer Fraud Charges To-morrow Morning

NOW BEING HELD

Other Cases Brought Up To-day In Picton Court —Insanity Increase

Picton is due for an interesting trial in the near future, and three convicted officers here have been charged with the involved case. To-morrow morning, P. M. Jarvis, former Picton boy, now living at 321 Jarvis street, Toronto, and Charles Walker of New York City, will appear before Magistrate Levi Wilson on fraud charges. They will be remanded, as the local officers are not yet ready to proceed.

The two men are now in Picton jail, are charged with selling stock to Prince Edward residents to the value of $15,000 obtaining the money by fraudulent pretense. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of two others, believed to be in the United States. The quartette operated the company known as the Victoria Finance Company, 302 Bay street, Toronto. They sold the $15,000 worth of stock in four trips to Picton. The stock, marked $10 per share was sold for $12 a share and is worth fifty cents per now. The stock in American gas and light and Picton man bought $9,000 worth of it.

Henry Gibson, middle aged resident of Bloomfield, was sentenced to Burwash prison for two years less one day by Police Magistrate Lewis Williams of Picton on Wednesday, when he pleaded guilty to an unfathomable charge. The trial was heard at Picton. F. L. Ward defended accused and J. Allison, Crown Attorney for Prince Edward county, conducted the prosecution.

Inspector R. Bumpstead, sergeant G. Aikins, and Provincial constable N. Maker of the Provincial police headquarters here, attended the trial the case having been prepared by officer Maker.

"Distillers" Fined

William J. Fitzgerald of Hinchinbrook, was given six months in jail yesterday by Magistrate J. W. Bradshaw of that village when he was found guilty of operating an illicit still. Accused was charged under the Ontario Revenue Act by Inland Revenue Officer Inspector Walter Exley of Napanee.

Arthur Zufelt and William Mackey of Hawkesbury each paid a fine of $200 and costs, when they were recently convicted on charges of having stills, and Robert Sauvé, also of Hawkesbury, was fined $250 on a B. O. T. A. charge. He, too, is a Provincial Constable. Stewart of Perterboro pays the credit for these "seizures", Benjamin Heird and David Hamilton paying $200 each for having stills, Magistrate Langley of Peterboro having found them guilty.

Insanity On Increase

Inspector Bumpstead of Provincial Police, reports that there has been a great increase in insanity cases during the past month. During April, six persons from his district have been committed to asylums.

"I am unable to explain the reason for the increase," explained the inspector when asked.

Suicides also appear to be on the increase.

LEAGUE TRIES TO PREVENT DRUG TRAFFIC

International Heads Combine Experience in Opium Fight

FAVOR NEVILLE PLAN

Narcotic Commission Faces Knotty Problems In World Drive

Geneva, May 2—A program which will limit effectively other narcotics and eventually result in the complete suppression of the drug traffic, has been prepared by Edwin Neville, the American member of the commission of experts of the League of Nations Opium Board, and the committee to be submitted at the Opium Conference, which meet in Geneva next November 10.

The Neville plan will be given the support of the English, delegates to the convention, indications are. Questions which affect countries bordering on India whose commerce is carried on through Indian ports.

World Restrict Production

The Neville plan would restrict the production of the opium poppy and the coca leaf plant in countries where it is not known at the present time, limit the cultivation of the plants to the plant at present. The Neville proposals, however, suggests that no state in the future be allowed to obtain greater revenue from this source than is necessary to cover the expenses involved in controlling the narcotic traffic.

This is admittedly a difficult problem, since, for instance, the Persian Government is reported to obtain one-third of its revenue from the cultivations of opium. The conference will have to consider the introduction of alternative crops such as silk and cotton.

IMPOSE HEAVY TAXES

As regards transportation of the drug Mr. Neville has accepted in principle the system of passport and export licenses previously introduced by the league, which provides that the drug be exported by an official guarantee only on a license from the importing country. He suggests that there should be a reciprocal right of search on the high seas in certain areas upon, and that there should be no re-export of opium.

A permanent central organization to receive statistics from all countries, to see who are parties to the convention would be established. Annual reports should show the amount of opium produced, imported, exported and consumed and heavy penalties provided for offences against regulations.

TOKIO LIKELY RENDEZVOUS FOR AVIATORS

Globe Fliers to Meet There, By Present Indications

MACLAREN, CALCUTTA

Frenchman Close Behind in Far East Dash; Seven Days From Japan

Washington, May 2—The globe-circling army fliers representing the United States, Great Britain and France are all expected to meet in Tokio, Japan, according to calculations made today by war department aviation experts, who have been watching closely the performance of these "airplanes" of peregrinatives. The probable date of the meeting is set at May 10 or 11, barring serious mishaps or long stretches of bad weather.

The British flier, Major A. Stuart MacLaren, is today at Calcutta, India, flying around the world in the opposite direction to the Americans, and the French ace, Lieut. Pelletier d'Oisy, who left the Maclaren airport was half to Asia, is at Aras, India, one day's jump from Calcutta in his efforts to beat Maclaren to Tokio.

Seven Jumps Away

The Americans have seven jumps from Dutch harbor, Alaska, where they are still held, today awaiting word on Major Frederick L. Martin, their chief; the next hop being a number of flying days and the French-men eight days of flying to make Tokio.

If the americans take off from Unalaska tomorrow they should reach Nazan and Chicarof in the Aleutian Islands, and at Bettolo, Majro and then Kasumigaura, which is the Japanese landing field for Tokio.

The British and French airmen, both of whom are following the same course, have to make stops at Calcutta and Akyab in India, Bangkok in Siam, Hanoi in Indo China, Canton, Shanghai and Nanking in China, and Hadjoni and Tachiarai in Japan before reaching Tokio.

Canada Leads in Speed

To date, d'Oisy has made 6000 kilometers in 19 days; MacLaren has made 8700 kilometers in 36 days; the Portuguese expedition by the Far East 6000 kilometers in 23 days, while the americans, who have been held up by bad weather in Alaska and who missed a leg the start of the flight that they were not out for record have accomplished only 7000 kilometers in 16 days.

Fear For Major Martin

(By Wireless via Seattle-Seattle Wash.)

False Pass, Unimak Island, May 2.—Fears are expressed here for the safety of Major Frederick L. Social Time of Lodge Enjoyed

At the conclusion of the business session of Belleville Lodge No. 11 I.O.O.F. Thursday evening a social time was spent by members at the Odd Fellows' Rinah Lodge.

Bro. H. Herity, P.G., was present and gave a most interesting and instructive talk regarding the early development of the city, its progress and expansion in various avenues upon, but that there should be no re-export of opium.

A permanent central organization to receive statistics from all countries, to see who are parties to the convention would be established. Annual reports should show the amount of opium produced, imported, exported and consumed and heavy penalties provided for offences against regulations.

cities as Peterboro and Oshawa who had passed a Belleville by-law and materially assisted in the development of the city, its many miles of pavement and permanent sidewalks and sanitary sewers.

Belleville was also advancing industrially. All should unite in assisting to promote the city's interests and the extension of the speaker. The early history of Belleville and the Rinah Lodge was also referred to.

The pleasant duty of the address a hearty vote of thanks moved by Bro. J. Fenton, Bro. Dr. Hall, Bro. H. B. Reynolds, P.G., was tendered to Bro. Herity which was fittingly acknowledged.

Bro. W. Edmunson rendered a piano solo, Bro. W. Rolls also favored the lodge by a reading; and a trio composed of three members of Belleville Lodge No. 31, namely Bros. W. J. Kelly, Fa. Brown, and Bro. Mr. Minnett, gave a selection. Community singing was also indulged in. At the close of the programme refreshments were served.

PROGRESS IS SLOW TODAY IN DEBATING

"Lookers on" See Little Chance of Church Union Discussion Being Settled This Session—Special Attention Paid Demand for Another Vote

Ottawa, May 2.—Unusual crowding and heated debating marked to-day's discussions in the Church union bill, and while eight speakers had decided to take the floor, at a late hour to-day only one debate had been given.

Several trunkloads of supporters for and against the bill arrived yesterday, and today a constant stream of newspapers with various printed and documents thronged the halls of the legislature.

While opinion seems to be evenly divided among the members of the House, those who have adopted the policy of "Looking on" declare that Union Bill has little chance of being definitely settled this session.

Highest Court

"The highest court of appeal of any man in matters ecclesiastic is the highest authority in his church," this principle was laid down by Rev. Leslie Pidgeon of Winnipeg, the last speaker for the Inclusionist before the Private Bills Committee of the House of Commons in the fight over the Church Union Bill yesterday.

"That principle," he affirmed, had been claimed in the Old Country, it had been claimed in the United States and was there the law of the land, and it had been claimed in Canada as far back as 1844 by the Synod of the Church of Scotland in Canada.

Dr. Pidgeon paid special attention to the demand for another vote of the church members on the present bill. He maintained that under the constitution of the Presbyterian Church the basic question could not properly be reopened unless the call for such a special demand had been made for either a vote on the question of the General Assembly, and no demand for another vote had been made by the church association.

Courier Is Coming

Cadet Allan W. Dempsey, courier from Belleville to Toronto, who walked the entire journey, will arrive back in his native city on the 12.17 p.m. train.

Mayor Mikel received a letter from the Toronto Friday in which he states that it would almost be impossible for the officials of the city of Toronto to use him better than they have done.

"A motor car has even been placed at my disposal," the letter reads, and on Wednesday I received over an address at the Toronto Technical School on the Civic Guard, at the conclusion of which Dr. MacKay, Principal of the school, stated he would certainly be in Belleville for his celebration and that any assistance from the school would also be here.

Cadet Dempsey has made a beneficial work of delivering invitations on Thursday, Torontonians persuaded him to remain for the week-end and make speeches before other organizations.

Let there be harmony in things essential—liberty in things not essential—charity in all.

WHERE CREDIT IS DUE

The National Railway System is the work of the Conservative Party and especially Hon. Arthur Meighen. Through his constructive statesmanship the bankrupt railways—the result of the Liberal railway policy—were rescued from disaster, brought together and co-ordinated into a great transportation entity. He was the founder of our great publicly owned system and is now its guardian. To-day the control of this system is in the hands of the men who opposed the absorption of the Grand Trunk and who fought for the return of the system to corporation ownership and control. They now profess devotion to this great public enterprise, but in act and deed are developing its effectiveness and wrecking public faith in it.

It is due to the watchfulness and care of Mr. Meighen and his colleagues that the National Railways have not been more seriously burdened and handicapped than they are. Already the capitalization of this system due to the mad over construction of 20 years ago is at least $300,000,000 greater than it should be to make the system a business proposition and to give to the people of Canada relief from the freight rate burden so injurious to business of all kinds and especially to interprovincial trade, one of the bonds of confederation. With such a capital burden it is essential to the very existence of this system that this capital should not be unnecessarily augmented. To prevent this Mr. Meighen has closely scrutinized expenditure, not to deprive the people of necessary transportation facilities, but to prevent political expenditures that injures the railway, deprives the people of essential accommodation, and will perpetuate the freight rates' burden.

Last year the government presented a branch lines' programme, that was stated would cost about $30,000,000 but which railway experts claimed would entail an expenditure of $80,000,000. In this programme were many essential lines, but also some of the "pork barrel" variety that were unnecessary and meant, if built, a continuous drain on the paying branches for generations. The government told parliament that they must vote for the whole programme or none at all. It was a clear attempt to build political lines, by taking advantage of the necessities of certain sections entitled to transportation and including the political lines in the programme of necessary lines and then telling parliament to swallow all or nothing. No information was given as to cost, necessity, traffic, estimated profits or deficits. The Senate refused to vote for the bill containing such pork barrel railways as the Guysboro branch rejected by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Robert Borden and Hon. Arthur Meighen.

This year the government has introduced almost the same programme, despite threats to the contrary by Hon. George P. Graham, each branch is judged on its merits, and it is not a case of last year—all branches or none. The Senate's action last year has been justified by the government's surrender this year, which ... ment entailing essential lines and rejecting political projects. Parliament there fore retains control of this capital expenditure to some degree. It can do justice to citizens requiring railway facilities and also justice to the country in rejecting unnecessary lines.

Much has been said of Sir Henry Thornton's letter endorsing the Branch lines programme. It bore every evidence of having been wrung from him, as it gave more reason why the programme should be carefully scrutinized than it gave for the endorsation of the whole proposal. It is known that the Canadian National Railway officials—not directors—fear the adoption of the whole programme. It can be stated and on the best authority that leading Canadian National officials will welcome, in fact are privately soliciting, that many of the "pork barrel" branches be rejected. It is a government and National Railway directorate programme, not the programme desired by the railway men, who wish to make the system a success. Of course it is endorsed by the directors—that awful directorate—that Sir Henry Thornton has to fight, and whose waste and rapacity are only paralleled by the Drury-Smith-Biggs combination that discredited and almost ruined Ontario. Mr. Meighen gave the National Railways a directorate of superior Conservative and Liberal business men.

For Sanitary Homes

There are numerous uses in every household for Gillett's Pure Flake Lye. It costs very little but gives valuable service in cleaning and disinfecting sinks, closets and drains; softening water and making laundry soap; destroying vermin; cleaning dirty floors, greasy pots and pans, etc.; removing old paint, and for scores of other purposes. Avoid inferior substitutes. Ask your grocer for the genuine—

GILLETT'S
PURE FLAKE LYE

Premier King has given a directorate of "pork barrel" Grit politicians. Sir Henry Thornton has to fight both the government and his directorate. Many of the branch lines are "directors' lines."

Mr. Meighen and his associates will see that every line required in the interests of the public and the railway will receive support, but they will guard the treasury public and railway against the enemies of the National system on the government benches and the railway directorate who will wreck it by extravagances, since they failed to prevent its coordination. The government is attempting to make the railway a political adjunct. If this is permitted the railway is doomed. Wasteful expenditure will wreck the system already overburdened with debt. Mr. Meighen is having a greater battle to conserve the National system from Grit politicians than he had when he defeated their attempts to prevent its coordination. He will see that everything necessary will be supported and every political line exposed.

RADIO CLUB QUESTION BOX

To all Radio Fans desiring information pertaining to Radio or trouble with sets write in your questions to Radio Club Question Box Intelligencer and your letters will be answered by the Club through the paper.

His favorite has a Radio, a very simple set, really it's astonishing the stations she can get. She listens in most every night. It's plain to see that's merely the result of natural curiosity. She claims the only draw back there is to Radio is that it does all the talkin'. Well maybe, I don't know. I've noticed that when static as my neighbors interfere I say a lot of things, by gum, not fit for human ear. She's quite a fan for radio at least her mother said she had her hair bobbed so the phones would fit tight on her head. But be that as it may, the fact remains, Radio has its lines, it takes the wild waves left each night which lots of folks are missin'. Her lover on the other hand's a most peculiar guy for he's dead set agin it as I know the reason why. On Wednesday nights and Friday nights an Sunday events's too as regular as clock work he has called all winter through. She'd meet him at the door like this, "Good even' Fred. Come in". "I've got a dandy concert. Don't ye want to listen in". Of course he'd hafta say "why sure" an she would take one phone, an' he would take the other an' they'd sit there all alone. While ay was busy listin' to the music from the air he held her hand an' thought sweet things his about his lady fair. But when he'd try to tell her, as true lovers do in spring, how much he realy thought of her er some such foolishness she'd say "keep quiet Freddie', what was you say, I didn't hear. That's why Fred don't like Radio an' you can't blame the guy.

Tired, Nervous Mothers

are the direct cause of much unhappiness in our homes; their condition irritates and wears upon the husband and often ruins a child's disposition. The condition of the mother is often due to some weakness which makes her entirely unfit to perform her household duties and bear the strain which her motherhood and growing children involves. Every woman who finds herself in this condition should remember that statistics prove that 39 out of every 100 women who suffer from female ills are helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and lose no time in giving it a fair trial.

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

IT'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO BRING BACK COLOR AND LUSTRE TO HAIR

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars you. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back its natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply moisten a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

KIDNAPERS BAILED

Lawrence, Mass., May 2.—The five men involved in the kidnaping of Agatino Cavallaro, 17, of West Andover, were held in heavy bonds for the grand jury to-day by Judge J. J. Rahoney.

The girl's cousin, Carmelo Cavallaro, a rejected suitor, was held in $3000 bail for kidnaping and statutory assault. Joseph Cammarato, Sam Buffalo, Mario Tosto and Gaetano Drusa, charged with kidnaping or with being accessories, were each held in $5,000 bonds.

SEVEN STEAL SILK

New York, May 2.—Seven bandits today held up a silk-laden truck on 23rd street, near 11th avenue, and drove off with $35,000 worth of silk after kidnaping the driver and his helper.

The silk, in bolts was owned by the Susquehanna Silk Mills Company. It had been unloaded from the truck shortly before the robbery at a North River pier.

IMPORTS GO DOWN

Guelph, Ont., May 2.—Customs and excise returns for the month of April here show a heavy decline compared with the corresponding period of 1923, indicating there has been a considerable reduction in the quantity of imports from foreign countries.

The figures for April, 1923, were $112,018.18, and for April, 1924, $74,-$94,93, a decrease of $37,031.22.

Letters To Mayor From U.S. Points

Watertown, N.Y., Apr. 30, 1924.
Hon. W. C. Mikel K. C.,
Belleville Ontario.
My Dear Mayor—

Miss Gwendolen Lazier has just left here 8.30 a.m. for Louisville N.Y. Mrs. Harris with auto is guiding her out of the city. Both she and the hosbe are in good health and fine condition.

Mrs. Harris and I met Miss Lazier Tuesday forenoon as she was coming in from Cape Vincent. She stayed with us until this morning. I called in two reporters, and both papers gave her a very good write-up. I am forwarding you a copy of the Watertown Times. Miss Lazier enjoyed an automobile trip yesterday afternoon through the city and to historic places outside. Last night she and Mrs. Harris went to a show put on by local talent. She met some of the city officials.

We want to congratulate you on your splendid choice of a courier. Miss Lazier makes friends easily and everyone seems interested in her novel journey.

With best wishes for the success of the celebration June 16-17 and with many thanks for your kind invitation I am, Yours, sincerely
JOHN B. HARRIS,
Mayor.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Apr. 30, 1924
Mayor W. C. Mikel, K.C.,
City of Belleville, Canada
Dear Mr. Mayor —

I have appointed a committee to arrange some reception for the young lady and would be glad to hear from her as soon as possible as to just what time approximately she will arrive in this city.

With my kindest personal regards, I am, Sincerely yours
FRANK B. LOVELACE,
Mayor.

DUTCH SETTLERS COME TO CANADA

56 Farmers Find Places in Lethbridge Irrigated District

Lethbridge— Within the last few weeks 56 Dutch emigrants of the farming class have been successfully settled in the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District in Southern Alberta. These settlers are first tangible results of work done in Holland this winter by the special colonization mission sent overseas by the Alberta Government. The efforts of this mission have been confined almost wholly to selecting young Hollanders for farm workers, the idea being that, once these men have become acquainted with Southern Alberta conditions, they will later take up farms of their own and bring out families. In other words it is a constructive settlement plan that will convert farm workers into farm owners.

BROADCASTS NEED OF SCHOOLS IN EAST

Miss Pui Sui Lee Leads Campaign for $600,000 For Chinese College

Cleveland, O.—A year ago Miss Pui Sui Lee came to the United States to study at Columbia University in New York City. She came quite unheralded—but one of the group of Chinese girls educated in the American and English schools in the larger cities of Southern China, who desired to study in a college in America.

Today she is carrying to her country men throughout the United States the message of New China need for free school, which she feels should be supported by Chinese. Her purpose is to raise $600,000 to found Cheo Sun College at Canton, which will be the first free coeducational grammar school ever conducted entirely by Chinese.

She started her campaign in San Francisco four months ago and has visited most of the large cities of the west. Everywhere she goes she finds her countrymen ready to help, she says.

The educated woman in China who are largely supporters of Dr. Sun Yat Sen for whom Miss Lee has a most ardent admiration, realize that it is through education that China can be united and the dangers of autocratic Government in Peking be overcome. Miss Lee is a graduate of Stevens College in Hong Kong and will complete her education at Columbia after this year. The movement in behalf of Cheo Sun College has the backing in this country of such prominent Chinese as Dr. Mo Sze, the American representative of the South China Republic. He also is editor of the China Review.

London's Defense To Be Big Problem

Britain to Have 600 First-Line Planes—Air Forces of Empire To be Concentrated—To Drive Away Any hostile Aerial Forces

London.—England's air plans for the next war are "purely defensive," it is authoritatively declared.

"But," you are told, "of course, a certain amount of offense must enter into any scheme of defense."

The same statement, in effect, could be made of the air plans of every great power. None admit preparations of offense against another. But each is making a "certain amount" of offensive preparation as an essential ingredient of its "purely defensive" program.

That "certain amount" of offensive air strength, actual and planned, is the unknown quantity in each air ministry of the big powers. A handful of men in each capital know the full details of their country's future air program—and are trying to outguess other handfuls of men in the air offices of other capitals.

Protecton of London

The fundamental of England's air defense plans for the next war is the protection of London. Those whose job it is to dope out the movements of the next war figure that the first attempt of any major enemy will be to destroy London from the air—and they know full well that if that is done the enemy will have won the war.

So England's new air policy is to concentrate her flying force at home—to have available on her coasts and immediately around London air fleets sufficiently powerful to destroy or drive away hostile aerial forces of any power or probable combination of powers.

When the new home air defense program is completed, by 1928 or 1929 England will have about fifty-two squadrons, or approximately 600 first-line aircraft, most of which will be built on home defense stations.

The present home-defense air force is about ten squadrons, or 120 planes. The bulk of the present total air force is not at home, but is split between India, Mesopotamia, the Near East generally and on service with the navy. Under the new plan considerable of these forces will be brought home, in addition to the bulkiest new craft and training of new men, to be done during the next four or five years.

Recruit Air Forces

When this problem is completed there will be an increase of fifty-two thousand men over the present force—in other words, the machine-power will be increased much more than the man-power. But most of these men will be actual fliers, for the ground work will be relegated to civilians as much as possible under the new plan.

Furthermore, there will be an immediately large reserve of flying men trained in civilian schools or by the government or under the militia system, and available at any time for war services.

Elaborate ground defense plans for London are also being prepared—anti-aircraft guns, fog-producers and whatnot. But the airmen are disposed not to accept these defenses as any guarantee of protection. "The next war," they say, will be an air war, and just that—and to stop enemy planes you must go up into the air yourself and meet 'em there, and not stay on the ground shooting up at 'em.

The bigger they are the harder they fall. Yep, and the bigger they are the harder the public falls for them.

ARGYLL MARKSMEN HOLD LAST SHOOT

The Argyll Rifle Association completed the last shoot for the Dominion Trophy which they are the holders for the last two years. After a bad start the marksmen came back to form and shot strong for the last two matches.

In the last match three marksmen made 99 out of the highest possible score 100. Lieut. D.W. McManus who has been shooting strong all through finished with a splendid 97. All the cadets who shot during this competition which commenced in January of this year did remarkably well, particularly Cadet L. Blaker. There is no fear of Belleville's sharpshooters shrinkage while these young fellows stick to this manly and clean sport which brings out all that goes to make a man.

The followinr are the scores made: Highest possible score 100.

H.Q.M.S. C. W. Carter	98
Bandsman W. Hart	98
Major D. T. McManus	97
Lieut. D. W. McManus	97
Pte. R. Wrew	96
Sergt. H. Stanley	95
Sergt. H. B. Day	93
Sergt. A. B. Symons	93
Sergt. A. Stewart	94
Corpl. M. Cummings	92
	95.8

While the final result of the competition will not be known for some time the boys from the 14th Batt. don't want the cup again they have at least put up a good fight and great credit is due to all who gave up their time in order to keep Belleville on the map. The total points obtained last year was 3581. This year's total for all four matches is 3713 or 132 points better than the score which won them the Dominion trophy.

SAFETY FIRST

An old western rancher took his wife into town with him, traveling in an old dog-cart. Among his purchases was a case of dynamite, with which he intended to blow up some stumps. As he put the case in the wagon at his wife's feet, she became very curious as to its contents.

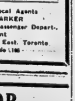

"What's in that box?" she asked.

"Don't worry," said the old man coaxingly to humble her husband replied.

The rancher opened sorely-her.

"Ed Sexton," she said, "that's dynamite, and if I'm goin' to ride six miles with 50 pounds of that stuff at my feet I'm a longer fool than you think. Just tell the man to put that stuff in the back of the cart, under the seat!"

GAME OF DICE COURT SEQUEL

When P. C. David Morris walked around the corner of one of Belleville's red school houses" last Sunday afternoon, a group of youths, who had been to church in the morning, had been rolling dice for money, scattered in all directions. Three of them were caught, and two others who were summoned to appear in court this morning left the city.

Yesday, John Neverv, Clare Kennedy and James Walsh pleaded guilty to the charge and were each fined $5. Kennedy and Walsh "stood" in to Police court clerk John Newton, but Neverv informed the court that he was "broke" and would have but that it wasn't his fault. He entertained small hopes of raising the "fin" from his widowed mother, but was given time in which to make a move. He was collecting the entries on the results of the bottoms of increasing his thirty cent stake.

"I don't think we will ever come back again", volunteered Neverv, the spokesman for the trio, just after the bouncer of Police Inspector Newton had left.

Transfer Fined

A transfer who violated the traffic rules while turning into Front street from the Upper Bridge got his employer $5 this morning. He was charged under the new Highway Traffic Act.

Make Alterations

Crown Attorney Boulton is making the necessary amendments to the charges against Mrs. Eileen Beck before the magistrate for her trial here on May 8th.

LEAFS UNLUCKY IN OPENING GAME

Four Homers For Bears, Two by Kane, Too Much For Leafs—Newark Wins 10-7 in Cold, Unfavorable Weather

Toronto, Ontario, May 2.—Newark lored Jess Dogle for 11 hits including four home runs and three doubles defeating the Leafs 10 to 7 in the delayed opening of the International League season at the Island yesterday. It was a chilly hopeful for one tame, a cold wind blowing from the northwest, and then Dan Howley Hopefuls were forced to accept a beating after jumping the shoals of indecision and Ted Musanig for 15 hits in the first two frames. He finished 11 by the four-ball route and another on on when Manager Fred Brainard, of the Bears very generously allowed a roller to keep on rolling between his feet on to right field. The Leafs had 5 men left on bases, but were unlucky in two, one of the right field corner to bat on two occasions when the errors were all charged each a hit. Dogle gave turned the game the Islanders' way. And Howley, with a very weak ankles, was unable to take a step except a the ball. He stuck out on both occasions. It is only O'Rourke's guess that is keeping him in the game at all. Jack Scott, Sleepy Dan and Whitman hit the homers, Kane getting two, one over the right field wall into the bay, and the other into the left field stands with one on. Dogle helped considerably by the strong wind. Four double plays, three of them started by the slow-moving Kane at third, for the Bears, aided in the downfall of the Leafs.

The opening drills were dull. The players, all of both teams, with exception of the batteries, line up behind the 48th Highlanders' Band and marched to the flagpole in left field, where the Union Jack was raised to the breeze. Then they marched back to the plate and the Leafs took their positions, while Controller Cameron proceeded to pitch the first ball to Catcher Ed Mack, who has not taken part in the opening day ceremonies for years. Controller Cameron's pitch was wild, but it opened the season just the same.

Leaked Good In Defeat.

The Leafs were leaking, and they fell down at bat several times in the pinch, but at that they looked a whole lot better in defeat than they did in victory several times last season. They batted the Bears the entire nine innings, twice came from behind to tie the score, and they went into the ninth frame five runs down, but raised their total to seven, and had two men on bases when Maisel was retired for the final out on a low line drive to center, which Whitman cleverly took on the run.

It happened in one of those Help Wanted ads many the house system is supposed to prevail, but where they have only the switch from, and what you want and the cashier asks, "How much?" as she looks up to the Receiver of the Filthy Lucre.

Two nuts," he said.

Then there was a tap on his shoulder.

"How much?" asked the cashier.

"Two dollars," replied Our Hero, and then turned around.

"Gotta match?" said the fellow behind him.

HAPPY TIME AT ANNUAL MEETING

Bridge Street Sunday School Provide Supper—Officers Elected and Pastor Congratulated

The annual meeting of the Bridge St. Sunday School was held at 6 p.m. on Thursday May 1st. The men of the Sunday school provided a supper at which 6 teachers and officers sat down. The social hour was a pleasing feature of the meeting.

The work of the year was reviewed and the following officers were elected. Hon. Superintendents, Rev. Dr. F. E. Malott and Mr. F. S. Deacon; Superintendent, Mr. F. E. O'Flynn; Assistant Superintendents, Messrs. C. Reid, and W. B. Deacon; Assistant Superintendents, Messrs. Harry Clarke, R. V. H. W. Ackerman, Miss E. Berkley Mr. S. Gurney, Mr. Russell Wetten and Mr. H. J. Clarke; Secretary, Mr. C. F. Frederick; Treasurer, Mr. Geo. Cole; Assistant Secretaries, J. W. Holmes, George Girdlin, W. G. Anderson, Jack O'Flynn Dan Earle; Treasurer of the Missionary Fund, F. E. Wetten; Librarians, Miss Greta Madden, Miss Bowen, Miss Grace Tucker and Miss Tillie White; Pianists F. E. Wetten, Charles Earle and Miss Marion Ketchenon. All the teachers were reelected.

The meeting voted $250 for Missions Plans were laid for Mother's Day on May 11th and for Promotion and Flower Sunday in June.

A resolution of congratulations was tendered to the pastor, Rev. F. E. Malott on the recent honor conferred upon him. Every appreciation was expressed of the faithful work of the retiring superintendent, Mr. F. S. Deacon as well as the entire staff. Bridge St. S.S. will close the 102nd year of it, history in October.

NORMA HOME AFTER TOUR

Toronto, May 1—Norma Kiblock, the pretty Toronto school girl who won the American beauty contest, has returned for a visit to her home.

Since leaving Toronto Miss Niblock has made a triumphal progress across the United States, from San Antonio to Milwaukee. It has been a sort of sartorial pilgrimage from one department store to another. In imported gowns, hats and wraps, "the most beautiful girl in America" has been dazzling the feminine shopping public of the continent.

Life has been a romantic adventure during the last six months for Miss Niblock. Her photograph has traveled fast and far, and her famous features have been broadcasted in the rotogravure sections of Europe, with the result that she has received a number of proposals of marriage from French and Italian admirers, written in their native tongues. An international beauty receives almost as many letters in her morning mail urging her attention to matrimony as ordinary folk receive communications urging their attention to unpaid bills.

"BIG BEN" AWAKENS CHURCH SLEEPERS

Brighton, May 2.—A unique feature was introduced by the pastor of the Methodist Church at the morning service here on Sunday last. The alumbrera of the front pews had just settled down for their first siesta of the service, when they were startled and aroused by the sharp ting'e of an alarm clock hurriedly seized in front of the pulpit. Many smiles and quite a few laughs greeted the little timepiece's efforts, for everyone was confident that the clock had been placed there to give the habitual sleepers a gentle reminder that the service was still in progress.

But the pastor explained that it had been placed there to use as an illustration for his remarks on "Conscience," and had played its role too soon.

"However," he added with a twinkle in his eye, "the little clock may have enticed that its services were needed in another congregation."

Hair dressing expert now bobbing will cause baldness. If this is the case, a lot of girls will soon be able to put a little powder on their heads and go to a masquerade disguised as pills.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

He looked round with a smile—the smile that the vanquished find it so hard to bear; if the harrow could smile as it passed over the land, would not the sod turn?

His head did. He stooped down and felt amongst the bracken until his hand closed over the barrel of the gun. His breath came fast, his teeth clenched. He opened them to murmur:

"You have forgotten to say 'for my life,' my dear Denzil."

"So I have! Good of you to remember it!" responded Denzil, with a sneer. "For my life!"

As Denzil bent to write the words, Selby rose, swung the gun over his shoulder, and brought the stock with terrific force down upon the head of the kneeling man.

Denzil fell forward with an inarticulate cry, then he staggered to his feet, and with outstretched hands like a blind man of way, for his assailant.

Selby raised the gun again and struck with all his force, and Denzil went down like an ox in the shambles.

CHAPTER XXII

Selby Layton stood, with the gun in his hand, staring vacantly at the long figure stretched, face upward, on the crushed bracken. He was simply stupefied by his own act and its effect; for the impulse to catch up the gun and strike down the villain who held in his power, had come so suddenly, so irresistibly, that he had yielded to it as one of the lower animals yields to the brute desire to bite or claw. He had struck the first time in obedience to this impulse, and the second time, as Denzil went for him, in self-defence.

He scarcely knew what he had intended, he had been inspired by a blind and burning rage, and now— How far had he hurt that foe and tyrant, Denzil was stunned of course, but Selby Layton was filled with astonishment that he, who was so much weaker than the other man, should have been able to knock him senseless by a couple of blows. He did not know that a man, held by the barrel and well swung, makes as good and as deadly a club. As feeling of disgust with himself followed the sense of triumph and stupor.

"I must bring him to," he muttered, "I must do that, though it's scarcely safe, for the fiend on me like a wild beast. What a fool I was! Better have paid anything, endured anything, to keep him quiet. And now I've roused his resentment and he will wait, and lave, his revenge."

Swearing to himself, he went to the edge of the pool where he had been standing quite close to it—and sonking his handkerchief, knelt beside the unconscious form and bathed Denzil's forehead. As he did so, he saw that the blow had fallen on the right temple, and with a shudder, noticed that the skull bone was crushed in.

"Pull yourself together, Denzil!" he whispered. "I'm sorry; but you drove me rather hard. Can you hear me, are you conscious?"

The prostrate man made no sign, and Selby Layton, fighting against a sinful dread, raised his head. It rolled on his arm like a wooden ball, and he dropped it, and with shaking hand thrust his hand inside Denzil's waistcoat, and felt for his heart.

It was still, as still as the slime-grown pool that lay hideous in the moonlight. The man was dead. Selby Layton, nearly fell across the body, then he rose and staggered to a tree and leaning against it stared with distended eyes at the corpse.

The man was dead, and he had killed him; therefore, he was a murderer!

It was too terrible to be true, too ridiculous, ought to be tried to smile, to thrust the thought away from him; and after a moment or two he crept slowly, reluctantly to the body, and examined it again. Horrible as it was, it was true. The man was dead, and he, Selby Layton, had killed him.

He, Selby Layton, the cultured and refined gentleman, the "drawing-room pet," as he had heard himself called, had murdered a man with as vulgar and brutal a blow as was ever delivered by a footpad or coal-heaver.

He shuddered, and uttering a cry, staggered back to the tree and shut out the sight of the awful figure lying so still—the white face, with the livid marks on the temple that stared at him accusingly.

What should he do? His first impulse was to rush from the spot and give himself up to the police. It was the only thing to do, the only course to pursue. Yet, he must give himself up. Then, as he thought of the consequences of his act, he felt as one mad and considered. To give himself up would be to take the first step to the gallows. There could be no escape for him. This was not even manslaughter which he committed, but murder, wilful murder.

Oh, God! What should he do? What was the best, the most prudent, the most fearful occurred to him? but he knew that flight would be impossible. He would be run down before he could get as far as London. No; flight was impossible; a shameful death, from which there seemed no escape, stared him in the face, unbearable he could conceal his crime. He sank in a heap at the foot of the tree and prayed his head with his hands.

"Let me think—let me think," he muttered, hoarsely, "My life depends upon the step I take now; there seems nothing but the gallows before me, and yet—"

CITY BEAUTIFUL AIM OF COUNCIL

At a meeting of the various civic committees held last evening considerable business was transacted. A number of accounts were passed and some recommendations made to be forwarded on to the Council meeting next Monday evening.

Pave Market Square

It is proposed to pave the market square and the matter of issuing debentures for some will be referred to the City Solicitor for advice. The Bell Telephone Company is given permission to place subsiding ducts on Front and Bridges streets and poles and wires on certain other streets. The recommendations are as follows:

Recommendations

Recommended that an asphaltic concrete pavement be built on McAnanay street and the market square under provisions of section 9 of the Local Improvement Act and that the chairmen of public works and market and city property and the city engineer consult with the city solicitor as to the procedure necessary to pave the market square in conjunction with McAnanay street and as to the issuance of debentures to cover the work.

Purchase Scarifier

Recommended that Aldermen La Roche, Patterson and Robinson be a committee with the city engineer with power to act in the matter of desirability, selection and purchase of a scarifier for the Public Works Department.

Sanitary Sewer

Recommended that a sanitary sewer be constructed on Victoria Avenue from Pinnacle street to Church street, under section 9 of the Local Improvement Act.

Signing of Contract

Recommended that the mayor and city clerk be authorized to sign the contract on behalf of the city with Bumbacco Bros. for the construction of sanitary sewers on Pinnacle, Brock and Strachan streets as per terms of their contract.

Diverting of Water

Recommended that Aldermen La Roche and Trevarton and the City Engineer investigate the request from the National Casting Limited relative to the diverting of an open water course that flows near their premises. The committee are to report back to the council.

Cost of Improvements

Recommended that the city engineer be instructed to investigate and make a written report to the Council upon the Henry street sewer and its relation comparatively in cost as an outlet for the Murney street sewer south of Henry street against the construction as made through private right of way.

To Sign Agreement

Recommended that the mayor and clerk be authorized to sign the agreement on behalf of the city with Thos. Harris for the collection of garbage for one year from the 15th day of May, 1924.

Boil Request Favored

Recommended that the request of the Bell Telephone Company to place subsiding ducts on Front and Bridge streets and place poles, anchors and wires on the following streets be granted: Dundas, Wharf, Pinnacle, Church, McDonald, Bridge, College, Bleecker, Ridley, Sinclair, Victoria, Alexander, Pine, Abbott, Meyers, Mill, Reid, Cannifton and lane in between Front and Pinnacle streets north of Campbell street.

Ticket Demand For Minstrels Reaching Peak

"Going to the Rotary Minstrel Show?" is the question heard every day on the street.

The minstrels this year promise to surpass last year's effort and local Rotarians are "shyly quizzing their neighbors" to see if they will supply them with cooks to tune up their complexion for the "Dark Town Minstrel Act" Nearly all the cooks are "burnt," however, and that is the way real minstrels like them.

The proceeds of the performances go to the crippled children of this city as Rotarians have a list of fifteen children who can be either helped or cured if given treatment which in most cases is beyond the means of their parents. Four children have already been helped or partially cured through financial assistance given them by the Rotary club of Belleville.

Last year the performance was given on two nights and each evening the theatre was crowded to capacity. Hundreds of Bellevillians and folk of the surrounding country were unable to gain admittance and the management was bewizzed with requests to repeat the show.

The plan for this year's engagement opens Saturday at 10 a.m. at Griffin's Theatre and "a word from the wise" would be to get to the theatre Saturday morning, before the doors open on that you will not be disappointed in securing reservations for one of the two nights.

Paul Lahaudy, the director promises every thing new in way of acts, costumes and music.

Be sure and see one of the performances and be able to say with your neighbor afterwards "Ain't Rotarian Nature Grand?"

TIPPING THE SCALES

Men lost women, whipped them to inner by evel words, stung them to remorse by infidelity, hurt them with indifference. But one day the scales were tipped. Women were given a weapon more deadly than any possessed by man.

It was, "But we can still be good friends."

BOY SCOUTS AGAIN ACTIVE IN CITY

Troop Number One, is Now in Line for Their Charter From the Provincial Organization

The first Belleville troop of Boy Scouts has now complied with all the requirements necessary to get a charter, from the Provincial Organization. Their winter activities have closed with the ending of the Y.M.C.A. year. The night of meeting has been changed to Friday. This evening plans will be laid for the D.R.L. parade and for summer activities including the Boys' Camp.

Rev. F. E. Malott is acting scoutmaster, Mr. Jack Cromier is assistant scoutmaster and Mr. Clarence Rigby is patrol leader of troop No. 1. All scouts are expected to be on hand tonight at 7.30 at the Y.M.C.A.

Music & Drama

"Don't smoke on this set!"

Those who have visited motion picture studios during the making of pictures have seen a sign like this and they have heard the director and his assistant cry with dismay when smoke percolated into the atmosphere before the camera. And many an impatient bystander has been "bawled out" for puffing smoke into a scene. But Edwin Carewe, who directed "Ashes of Vengeance," the First National release now at the Regent Theatre, changed all that while he was making the underworld dance-hall scenes in this picture.

As he got all ready to "shoot" a big scene the actors and actresses remembering that they were taught not to smoke became interested with camera work, stopped puffing.

"What's the matter with the smoke?" cried Carewe. "This is an underworld dance hall scene. Did you ever see one? Smoke everywhere. Wait a minute." He gathered together nearly everybody not working on the set, carpenters, grips, members of the cast. "Get out your cigarettes, your cigars, your pipes. Now have the smoke of your lives. Puff clouds of it." And in a few minutes he had the "atmosphere." And he related he repeated the stunt every time he was ready to "shoot" an underworld.

PATHETIC APPEAL AND TRAGIC FERVOR IN "DADDY"

Little Jackie Coogan is with us again; this time in a story as different from "Oliver Twist" as that masterpiece was different from "Peck's Bad Boy." It bears the title of "Daddy," and yesterday's large audiences at the Griffin's Theatre saw this First National picture of hearty approbation in the form of tears, laughs and loud applause.

"Daddy" is richer in acting opportunities than any previous Jackie Coogan vehicle. It was written for their boy by Mr. and Mrs. Coogan, who, better than any others, know their son's precious genius and its almost limitless versatility. Never before has this little star possessed such a chance to show off his powers of pathetic appeal and tragic fervor.

The spectators at yesterday's performances were thrilled to liveliest silence when little Jackie moved through the scene in which his guardian passes away and Jackie finds his real daddy. Dry eyes were in the minority and tears were unabashed and abundant. But they were quickly chased away by the art of this little necromancer, who juggles emotions and beguiles hearts.

"Daddy" is a picture that will live in our memory forever, and we echo the cry of the New York publisher, who wrote: "Please, dear God, don't let Jackie Coogan grow up."

In its cast "Daddy" is rendered particularly notable by the presence of Arthur Carewe, Cesare Gravina, Bert Woodruff and Anna Townsend. Their selection by Director E. Mason Hopper can be classed as a stroke of genius for there is no false note in their characterizations. And then there is Mildred. But you must see Mildred yourself, for to tell you of this friend of little Jackie would be to rob you of the joy of a big comedy surprise with which the charming story closes.

JEWELS

By Clarabel Weeks Avery

This life is like a precious stone
God gives us each to wear,
And every man may cut his own
And set his signet there.
Some grave their pens in sunken line
I pray that mine may show,
In bold relief, my heart's design,
And be a rapier.

A HONOR DISCOVERER OF INSULIN

CLAIM LAXITY IN COLLECTING TOWNSHIP TAXES

Kingston Township Taxpayers Agog Over Reported $5,000 Shortage

WILL INVESTIGATE

Alleged Unusual Laxity of Township Officers to be "Aired" Reeve Graham States

Taxpayers in the Township of Kingston are alarmed as the result of recent announcements that there is a reported shortage in the funds for the Township. Some of the taxpayers have made it their business to try and find out if there is any mistake over the amount of the taxes which they owe.

Although it is impossible to make any official announcement until A. E. Muir, auditor, makes his report, it is understood that the reported shortage of between $5,000 and $6,000 is for the year 1920. When the audit makes a survey for the other years there may be some other disclosures.

Books Were Audited

James Sproat, grocer, banker, at the Eastern Ontario Dairy school, who with Anthony Smith, of Wellwood, made the audit of the township of Kingston's books for the year 1922, evidently thought that there was something wrong in connection with the finances of the township as they added a foot-note to their report.

Mr. Sproat, states that in March, 1923, he and Mr. Smith audited the books for the year 1922. When they wrote the auditor they found that everything was not O.K. and for that reason they added the following note to the auditor's report: "We are unable to determine the amount of the unpaid taxes for the year 1920 as the collector's roll was never completed."

Mr. Sproat, when asked what he meant by the collector's roll not being completed, stated that H. S. McIvor, who was the tax collector for the year, 1920, had handed over personal taxes as being paid and for that reason it was impossible to make an audit unless the amount of the unpaid taxes for that year was known by the auditors.

The auditors' report was presented at the first meeting of the council in April, 1923, and he had been paid for his services. He stated that in appreciation of the work which he and Mr. Smith had done the council gave them each $15, which was $2.50 more than usual.

Mr. Sproat, stated that the Council members said they did not remember the note at the foot of his report being read at the meeting of he Council he is absolutely certain that he placed it there, and if it was not read, it was no fault of the auditors.

Mr. Sproat stated that it was the duty of the auditors to audit the treasurer's books and that they had no authority to audit the clerk's books and so he was not able to say how much or how little collector's roll.

He stated that there were all kinds of mistakes on the collector's roll, such as some men being put down for $50 and $60 less than they were supposed to pay.

It was learned that a note on the books which have been discovered as a result of the investigation was to the effect that Mr. Muir was that the tax collector had deposited about $1,000 in the Bank of Montreal which he had collected, while the township account was in the Standard Bank. Mr. Muir later deposited in the bank the sum of about $800, but in both cases there was nothing whatever to show who the taxes should be credited to.

It was also learned that when Auditors Sproat and Smith made their report to the council they stated that they were of the opinion that all taxes should be paid to the tax collector, because if every person was allowed to handle the money it would be impossible to keep things straight.

COLLECT REWARD FOR CAPTURE OF "RED" RYAN

Inspector Duncan Believed to Have Received $2,000

Deputy Warden Shares Portsmouth Official Gets Remaining $500 Given by Bankers' Association

Toronto, May 3.—A reward of $2,500 has been paid by the Canadian Bankers' Association for the capture of Norman ("Red") Ryan, bank bandit. Ryan is now serving a life term in Kingston penitentiary for robbery of the Bank of Nova Scotia, St. Clair and Dufferin avenues.

Who are the recipients of the reward is not officially announced by the Bankers' Association, but it is believed that Inspector, Walter Duncan, special investigator of the Department of Finance, Ottawa, received $2,000 for his work in locating Ryan, and Deputy Warden R. D. Tucker, of Kingston Penitentiary, received $500 for his part in the tracing of Ryan.

Confidential Matter

Sir John Aird president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and president of the Bankers' Association in Canada, when asked if the association had granted a reward in the neighborhood of $2,000, but when asked who received it replied: "That is confidential matter, and I cannot divulge it. Some of it, I believe, was paid in the States."

This may have been the $500 which was paid to the four Minneapolis detectives, who effected Ryan's arrest. This reward was paid by the Department of Finance, on the recommendation of Inspector Duncan.

Inspector Duncan, who is in Toronto to a short visit, declined to state who had received the reward. "That is a matter to be divulged by the Minister of Finance," said the inspector.

If Mr. Duncan received $2,000, it solves a point in regard to Ryan's capture that has been debated in police circles since the bank bandit was apprehended. We got the information that Ryan and his partner were in Minneapolis? City police officials take credit for having located the bandits in that city, through the excellent work of Detective-Sergeants Wilbur Dawn and Robert Greenlee, who worked incessantly on the task. At the same time, it was that Deputy Warden Tucker received the information as to Ryan's whereabouts, through Penitentiary sources.

The Reward

The reward was paid under the standing offer of $2,000 for information leading to the apprehension of bank bandits.

Mr. Duncan was formerly inspector of the Toronto detective department. On his retirement he became chief detective bureau for a time and then became connected with the Dominion Police.

CORBY BATHS ASSURED FACT

City Engineer Charles D. Campbell has made several progress visits lately to bath matter since it has been submitted to him by municipal solicitor. It will be his found definitely that the Corby property is the best site for baths and nowhere else. Mr. Campbell was also instructed to look into the letting the $5000 left by the Corby estate but as the accepted interest which amounts to $250 per year the city will have $6,500 to be added with the work to be done.

The cheque has been sent to Mr. S. Masson, executor of the estate, and immediately the city council passes work will be completed with.

Already Mr. Campbell has prepared plans of the baths.

THOMAS JOHNSTON IS NEW REGISTRAR

At a meeting of the Executive of the East Hastings Conservative Association held at Rose's Wednesday last, for the purpose of selecting a suitable person to fill the position of Registrar of the County of Hastings rendered vacant by the death of Mr. Samuel Bassett the choice fell on Mr. Thomas Johnston, of Tweed. The Government will likely make the appointment in the near future.

RAILWAYMAN FOR 55 YEARS

John Buller, Veteran C.N.R. Conductor Now Enjoys Pension

Lindsay, May 2:— Half a century ago when Port Hope was one of the biggest ports on Lake Ontario, it was also the terminal of the Port Hope, Lindsay and Beaverton Railway. Like had its crack train, and no one could have been prouder than young John Buller when, in 1873 he was appointed conductor. As the old wood-burner, with its inverted pyramids of a smoke-stack came puffing and snorting into the Port Hope station, young Buller swung himself down from the last coach and wouldn't have traded places with the conductor of the Empire State Express.

Training Betrayed Him

Yesterday the Canadian National train pulled into Peterboro slid smoothly in to the Toronto Union Station. Among the other passengers was a grey-haired clean-eyed man perhaps 70 years, who swung himself down in a manner which branded him beyond doubt as a railroader. After hurrying "drummers" and tourists had gone on their way, lingered for a moment. Only one he shook the hands of the train crew, "Good-bye, John." they said as they left him.

Conductor John Buller had made his last run. In charge of his train he had travelled the night before to Peterboro and returned as a passenger for the first time to Toronto, where yesterday he went on pension. Fifty-five years of continuous service with not one mark against him, was the record by left behind. Small wonder that voices were a bit husky as they bid him good-bye, or that John Buller favored a moment or two longer than necessary by the train he knew so well.

Sons Also Railwaymen

His half-century of work is not the only contribution that John Buller has made to the service. Two of his sons have reached high official positions with the Canadian National Railways, of them F. J. Buller, is Treasurer of the Central Region the other L. W. Buller, is Assistant Superintendent of the Northern District. Between the three of them they have clocked up 115 years of service. And in the leisure hours of his retirement the elder Buller will have the happiness of having one of the wife from whom he has been an often separated for 55 years and Mrs. Buller celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary on April 3.

LEAVE IN JUNE FOR CONGRESS

Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C., and Mr. John Elliott Will Represent Belleville at Chamber of Commerce Congress in London, England

The tenth annual congress of the Chamber of Commerce of the British Empire, will open at Guild Hall, London, England on July 1st and will continue for one week. Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C., and Mr. John Elliott will represent the local Chamber of Commerce and will leave here on June 18th. Judge J. H. Fonin of Sydney, N. S., an old Belleville boy will be an honorary delegate from the city although representing Nelson.

All the resolutions sent from Belleville Chamber of Commerce have been accepted to be speedily prepared, one being on the title page.

EGGS AND BUTTER SELL REASONABLY

Dairy products, such as butter and eggs were offered in quantity at this morning's market, and reasonable prices were noted. Butter sold from 38c to 42c per pound and the ruling price for eggs was 22c per dozen. Basket fowl were sold in lots of 50 dozen, shipper paying 18c and 20 according to grade. Dressed chickens were rather scarce and consequently sold very well today. A few pairs were sold at $1.50 a pair while others at a superior quality sold at $2 and in some cases $2.25 was paid.

The supply of garden produce such as lettuce, onions and radishes did not meet the demand, the gardeners being sold out at an early hour. The ruling price for these was 10c a bunch for each quantity.

Many meat vendors were present on the market and meat prices were reasonable, veal which was cut up sold from 12c to 15c per pound, beef from 10c to 15c per pound and pork from 12c to 15c per pound.

The prevailing prices for potatoes per bag were $1.25 and $1.50. In a few cases a higher price was asked by vendors of an extra quality.

DUO RECITAL IS DISTINCT SUCCESS

Misses Mercedes McLellan and Anna Lafferty, with Assisting Artists, Delight an appreciative Audience

Misses Mercedes M. McLellan and Anna L. Lafferty, two of Belleville's leading young ladies, gave an Expression pupils of Miss Jessie B. Pierce, delighted an interested audience in the Conservatory of Music Hall on Friday last evening.

The programme was most interesting and its clever repeated demonstrations of varied programme in two parts, the young ladies with their assisting artists, also never repeated themselves to the appreciation from an appreciative audience. Every number on the programme was encored.

The outstanding feature of the programme was the costumes which was apparent absolute absence of nervousness on the part of the young ladies, who were thus able to give full justice to their respective, versatile parts. The costumes worn were beautiful, each number being considered as it were when the young ladies always appeared stylishly and prettily costumed.

The costumes, for the final number, Act 1 Scene II, Quarrel of Venice were outstanding.

The following numbers of the programme were choice to say the least, and everyone was elated thoroughly in each case.

The programme, it may truthfully be said, was most enjoyable, and reports must be responsible for if for their effort and contributing to the success of the recital of the Misses' arts in our city. Following is the programme:

Part One

1. "The Quarrel Between Brutus Pric and Cassius" Cassius—Mercedes McLellan and Anna L. Lafferty.
2. Mandolin Solo (Selected)—Miss Clarice Dolan.
3. "The Last Leaf"—O'Henry—Mercedes M. McLellan.
4. Solo (Thora)—Weatherly—Mr. Edgar Sills.
5. "The Cheerful Companion"—Castelle—Mercedes M. McLellan and Anna L. Lafferty.

DR. BANTING IS AGAIN HONORED

Receives John Scott Gold Medal and $1,000 Cheque

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, May 3.—Professor Frederick G. Banting, discoverer of insulin, a substance which saves the lives of sufferers from diabetes, was one of the recipients of a John Scott gold medal. The medals were awarded at a meeting last night of the American Philosophical Society in its richly traditioned hall on Fifth Street.

"Canada can teach the rest of the world how to appreciate and reward the scientific men's free gifts to mankind," said Frederic Haidl, Canadian Trade Commissioner, who received the medal and $1,000 cheque for Dr. Banting, in the latter's absence. Mr. Hudd said Canada has conferred upon Dr. Banting for his discovery of how to arrest diabetes, a life annuity of $7,500 and created for him a research professorship at the University of Toronto.

Medals were also awarded to Dr. Elmer Verner McCollum, of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., eminent biochemist and discoverer of the first vitamine ever recognized; William W. Coblentz, of Washington, D.C., physicist of the United States Bureau of Standards, who has devised ways to measure quantities of stars by measuring their radiations of heat and Ralph Modjeski, engineer.

Prof. William B. Scott, of Princeton University, presided. Dr. H. A. Hare announced the achievements of the scientists honored. Chairman M. H. Haines of the subcommittee of the city of Philadelphia's union of city trusts, represented the board of directors.

ENGLISH SYNDICATE BUYS MUCH LAND

Winnipeg, May 3—An English syndicate has purchased 40,000 acres of land from the Mennonites at Winkler and Morden, in Southern Manitoba, according to an announcement by P. J. Johnston, of Strathcona Avenue, Edmonton, representing the syndicate.

The land is understood to be $1,600,000. The syndicate will pay $400,000 cash and turn over 120,000 acres of small lands in Mexico to the Mennonites.

Many Manitoba Mennonites are now in Mexico and other members of the group are preparing to join them, it is said.

It is the intention of the syndicate to sell the land to Russian Mennonites, it is declared, are prepared to meet all the requirements of Canadian citizenship.

STEEL PLANT EXPANDS FOR NEW BUSINESS

National Castings, Limited Must Make Important Addition to Plant

BUSINESS INCREASES

Installation of Electric Furnace Has Drawn Many New Contracts

Amongst the prevailing severe industrial depression it is gratifying to note that more than one Belleville manufactory is increasing its production and its plant.

Evidence was recently made in one columns to the advancement by the American Optical Company of larger and more commodious premises. Now comes news that for the second time within a year one of the newest and most ambitious industries, National Castings Limited, has been compelled to build an important addition to its already extensive plant.

Made Modern Start

National Castings, which began operations so quietly and modestly less than two years ago, that most of our citizens never heard of the organization, much less knew the nature of the work carried on, has already acquired a noteworthy reputation all over Ontario for the production of high grade steel and alloy castings.

One of the alloys has come to be known as "Belleville Iron" because of its remarkably high quality and special excellence.

Instal Electric Furnace

Last July the company completed the installation of an electric furnace, the first of its kind in Canada. Many of the most modern machines in Ontario and Quebec are now making use of the company's product, by virtue of its wonderfully efficient electric furnace.

Has Assured Future

A new heat-retaining alloy iron has been developed by the company which, in meeting with an enthusiastic reception from those who have used it for a long time looking for just such a boon. Many repeat orders have to be filled by the manufacturers of this new metallurgical development.

The electrical furnace, in fact, the entire equipment of the plant is specially planned with a view to turning out small castings. Such work is being done in infinite variety.

Additional Equipment

Additional equipment now being put in place will give the company facilities to turn out in quantity the finest steel castings in Canada.

National Castings has now passed through the experimental and developmental stage and has come to an assured future. Its twenty employees are established in their work and the output per capita would surprise older and more established organizations of a similar nature.

Mr. Norman Dunton, K.C., who is the president of the company, is an enthusiastic believer in Belleville. With him is associated Mr. F. A. Daniels, whose practical experience in the steel foundry and steel foundries of Canada and the United States admirably fits him for the position of foundry manager.

With such capable management, and with so sovisble a reputation so rapidly established, the future of the National Castings will move on to further successful expansion.

POULTRY FANCIERS INVITED TO MEETS

A meeting was held last evening at the High School under the Belleville Poultry Association. Some 33 members were present and a very successful meeting was held. Poultry fanciers in this community are invited to attend these meetings.

A special amount of $1.00 is all that is asked for, a membership ticket for the year and already over the new membership has been received for the year. Meetings are held on the first Friday in each month and the public are invited to drop in as it is hoped to make Belleville one of the best Poultry communities in Ontario.

AFTER-ELECTION FIASCO

The Liberal government has not lived up to its pre-election promises of economy, and revelations so far this session clearly indicate that the Liberal right hand has often been buried in the federal treasury, while the left hand was engaged in soothing the nervous electors. In short, the government has wasted millions of the public funds, and unless curtailed by the people continues to do so until the end. Many major and minor leaks in the treasury have been exposed by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, and other Conservative members of the Commons, and considerable public indignation is being created as a result of their efforts.

It is freely said on Parliament Hill that the cabinet ministers do not know themselves how far they have involved the country by some of their commitments, but several of the extravagances perpetrated in recent months are now coming home to roost. Chief among these is the Scribe Hotel popularly supposed to be located on "main street" Paris, a name and an expression which causes shivers of apprehension to run up and down the ministerial benches in Parliament, and which will eventually shock the treasury to the extent of $5,000,000.

The purchase of the Scribe Hotel by the Canadian National Railways and the government constitutes a future waste, and the acquirement of the property was under such circumstances as would warrant the gravest suspicion. From the entry of Aaron Aronovici, as the European agent in the deal, until his departure with a fat bonus for his efforts, the Canadian Treasury was looted right and left, and with a considerable sum already expended the estimates this year call for another $2,000,000 of the taxpayers' money to foot the bill. Reputable French newspapers recently demanded a complete publication of the deal in order to protect the good name of the Canadian people. There should be a clear statement by the government on this deal which Hon. George P. Graham has admitted was "a blunder".

The mad desire for what gamblers style a "front" is rapidly becoming the outstanding characteristic of the government, and was again exemplified in the purchase of the Union Club, London, England, as a headquarters for the Canadian offices in Great Britain. Just why the Canadian people have been made pay £1,300,000 for this purchase is concealed in the minds of the Prime Minister and Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canada's High Commissioner overseas. Canada got along with its former decent offices for years and such able men as Lord Strathcona declared them to be not only sufficiently spacious, but more than sufficient to meet Canadian requirements. But Ellis did not suit Mr. King—he had to have his majestic building and its grand entrance, more—those who know him believe—for his own gratification when he proceeds overseas from for any upholding of the dignity of the Canadian people. Briefly, the purchase of the Union Club was unnecessary and, instead of leading up to the long-vaunted economy, the government has paid out another million and a half and will pay another $500,000 before the changes in the building have been completed. One of these changes by the way involves the construction of a new entrance. The Union Club purchase is in line with that of the Scribe Hotel in Paris, and it would not be surprising if, to round out Canada's European real estate, theatres for the amusement of tired cabinet ministers were erected in Monte Carlo and Vienna.

Economy is truly a wonderful word when applied to this government and while their little deeds in and around Ottawa may seem setting, they are emblematic of the whole parade of senseless extravagance. Intimate details from the public accounts are both amusing and shocking, and at the moment are the talk of the capital. The Minister who, for instance, also holds the portfolio of External Affairs, and to help him in his study of international relations evidently indulges in an afternoon cup of tea. No one objects to that, but when the daily refreshment involves the purchase of an electric silver tea ball at a cost of $18 it is time something was done. A tea ball be it known is a gadget in which good housewives put tea before dropping the whole arrangement into the teapot. It saves time and trouble in cleaning out the pot afterwards, and it may be that the Prime Minister found the latter task distasteful. Finally a tea ball can be purchased in any five and ten for the modest sum of fifteen cents. The electric tea apparatus is the choice bit, but two ferns and three Jardinieres at a cost of $17, are not far behind. What these articles have to do with governing the Canadian nation no one has yet been able to discover, but certainly the Prime Minister ought to offer something in the way of an explanation. A red marble dial clock costing $120, for the Department of External Affairs may be helpful in timing ambassadors to Turkey with which country we are at war, but there is no reason why an ordinary alarm clock costing $2 would not do just as well.

EDITORIAL NOTES

April ended appropriately.

Did you forget that income tax payment?

It does almost seem that Ireland is already weary of peace.

Hope the May Queen did not forget her mackintosh, her rubbers, her umbrella and her chest-protector.

A Montreal lady tells the Ontario Women's Prohibition Committee that, in the matter of prohibition Ontario holds the key,. But the trouble is that Quebec holds the whis-key.

That jealous Belgian who shot another man's wife near Chatham proceeded to blow his own brains out thus escaping the humiliation of being declared insane by twelve good men and true.

It may be noticed that prayers are publicly requested in behalf of the cause of Church Union and also Temperance, the requests being made more confidently because as yet it has not been ascertained whether the Almighty is Unionist or Anti-Unionist, meet Canadian requirements.

THE DELICATE GIRL

What Mothers Should Do at This Daughters Approach Womanhood

If growing girls are to become well-developed, healthy women, their health must be carefully guarded. Mothers should not ignore their ailments or scold or the various troubles that tell of approaching womanhood. It is a important time of life. Where pallor, headache, backache or other signs of ill-health are evident, you must provide the sufferer with the surest means of making new blood.

Remember, pale bloodless girls need plenty of nourishment, plenty of sleep, and regular open-air exercise. But to secure the bloodless and pale, one must have new blood—and nothing meets the case so well as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills increase the supply of new, red blood; they stimulate the appetite and relieve the weary back and limbs; thus they restore health and charm, and bring to anaemic girls rosy cheeks and bright eyes of strong, happy girlhood.

Miss Leigh get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EVOLUTION! WHAT?

Yes, times have changed. At one time a person could attend an old time "blood and thunder" melodrama for twenty-five cents. During the show the conversation lessons were "Propert!" about, "freely of charge."

It is to be hoped that the present eclipse of cool wet weather will be followed by a "warm frost."

AN OPPORTUNITY

Belleville lacks a "Broadway". She has the "lingerie" and the "papas" too, it is whispered. Is there any one within the city limits desirous of a change—in name?

CENSURE DAME RUMOR

There was no truth in the report that Mayor Goode had gone to Ottawa to wash Sandy Moore's shred, "Tooze-ey". What he is too busy at the office to Washington on important business and not thereby home for the celebration.

PRESS OPINIONS

PUBLIC PLAYGROUNDS

Vancouver Province

The aldermen should remember the days of their own boyhood, when a game of baseball or something vacated lot or a little used road, had an appeal that nothing else could touch. Boys in the country perhaps, and certainly before the advent of the automobile, had less to be brought danger, as well as pleasure and profit. Boys and girls have only a few years for play, and their right to this time must be respected before for employing it should be rejected.

DOG POISONERS

Kingston Standard

It is to be hoped now that those abominable persons who have poisoned dogs will be caught and punished. It cannot be too widely known that setting out poisoned meat is a crime for which severe punishment except under certain conditions, and it is time that it should be realized that the danger attached to poisoning one's dog is not confined to that dog or, for it is a dirty, mean, cowardly thing to do in order to kill dogs, which are the pets of other people.

47 AND PROUD OF IT

Hamilton Herald

Mary Garden, singer and impresario, spoke for America's womanhood the other day. She did not speak when it came to giving her age. She said she was 47 and proud of it. Miss Garden has reason to be. Her popularity has increased, rather than diminished, with the passing years. Another living example that people need not grow old, unless they become careless and fail to keep the heartbeating young will being. Such is the tragedy of growing old, and it is entirely avoidable.

THE MOTOR CAR IN CANADA

Saskatoon Star

The strides made by the automotive industry during the last decade have been remarkable. The motor car is no longer regarded as a luxury. It has attained its rightful place as a utility. The first automobile was sold in Canada in 1898. Today the total registration runs close to 900,000. Official statistics show that 990,329 autos entered Canada during the fiscal year ending June, representing a traffic value of $170,000,000. This is a record book fourth place as a revenue producer.

LONLIEST PLACE IN THE WORLD IS COMFORTED BY PROGRAMS

The great amount of enjoyment that radio broadcasting has brought to those isolated from the talk of the world is clearly shown in a communication just received at Westinghouse Station KDKA, from the Kalaupapa Leper Settlement on the Island of Molokai, Hawaii, said to be the loneliest pace in the world.

Recently under the personal supervision of R. L. Cooke, superintendent at the Wireless Department of the Mutual Telephone Company of Honolulu, two radio receivers were installed in the leper colony. The radio sets consisted of a Radiola V, equipped with and A.C. power amplifier and an R-3 magnavox which was installed in the amusement hall; while a Radiola II, for ear phone reception was installed in the superintendent's home.

The very first time the sets were placed in operation, KFKX, Honolulu broke repeating station at Hastings, Neb., was received repeating KDKA's program. Then a few minutes later KDKA was picked direct.

Later KDKA was again received with such good volume that the music and other entertainment could be heard about 100 yards outside of the hall.

There are about 600 people in the Molokai leper settlement. About 60 per cent are of the first radio night.

The leper colony is located on a long peninsula and is surrounded on three sides by the ocean and backed by sky-scraping cliffs 1,000 feet which are practically unclimable.

There are only two ways of entrance; by means of a steep mountain pass, down a narrow trail that seems like a step right down under the cliffs. The two radio receiving sets were received over this trail.

In the future these afflicted people outcast from the remainder of the human race will at least hear from the outside world through the medium of the radio waves. Radio broadcasting has again proved itself the marvel of the present century.

Dark Teeth Bleached In Three Minutes
You have always longed for flashing white teeth. And now, at last you can have them—easily, quickly and safely! For scientists have discovered a remarkable new treatment which often in only three minutes bleaches the most discolored formations from the teeth, leaving them clear, sparkling—white and lustrous. This new treatment, called Bleachodent Combination, consists of a colorless liquid and a new kind of paste. The liquid removes the discoloring stains, while the paste removes them, and if used daily prevents the formation of future stains. You simply brush your teeth with a few drops of the liquid and then apply the paste. Almost before you realize it, unsightly surface stains disappear and the teeth show on a dazzling new whiteness and lustre. First application makes the dullest teeth whiter then with ten times the scouring by old-fashioned methods. Bleachodent Combination is harmless—does not affect enamel as its mild ingredients are intended to act only on surface stains—not on enamel itself. Especially beneficial for children's teeth which stain easily. Get Bleachodent Combination to-day for a few cents. Be sure you ask for Bleachodent Combination. All good dealers.

Canadian Trawler Battles Bad Weather; Sees Pacific Trouble for British Flier

Kashwhaiwhas Bay, Kurile Islands, (Round United States Destroyer John D. Ford), May 2.—The Canadian trawler, Tasigwai has arrived here after two months of adventurous voyaging in turbulent Arctic seas where she has been establishing bases for the British around-the-world flyers. The Tasigwai expects to continue southward along the Kuriles as soon as permission is received from Tokio, for example, at places other than Kashkharara and Hitokappwan. These two bays will be used by the United States army fliers.

Colonel Boome, the British airman's advance officer aboard the trawler has established bases at Petropavlosk, Bering Islands, Attu and other places along the Aleutians.

The British officer asserted the weather was extremely disagreeable during the entire northern trip beginning March 1. He was not optimistic regarding the trans-Pacific leg of the proposed British flight on account of his knowledge of weather conditions and bases. He said nothing had been left undone to insure the success of the flight, although it is "at long odds, a gamble at best."

Wind, 100 Miles an Hour

False Pass, May 2.—Residents at small cannery station here, located on the southeastern point of Unimak Island near Izlan Bay, have just passed through the worst five days ever known for this period of the year.

The Izlan Pacific has been ushered by terrific gales, the wind frequently reaching a velocity of 100 miles an hour. The air at the wireless station has been filled all day with snow blown from the mountain-sides and neighboring peaks.

The Motor-Wise and Money-Wise are turning to the Knight

Men who have driven different makes of cars and who have learned what to look for, are turning to the Willys-Knight. They have tired of annually trading in their old cars for new ones—and have made up their minds finally to own a car they can keep and enjoy for years.

Years only season the Willys-Knight. The longer you drive it the more you are proud of it. The wonderful Willys-Knight valve engine is quiet as a whisper—and it actually improves with use!

Willys-Knight owners report 50,000 miles and more without ever a mechanic touching the engine. You may never want to drive all over the map, as many Willys-Knight owners do—but it is a mighty big satisfaction to own a car with an engine that has never been known to wear out. Certainly a wonderful investment!

There are seven beautiful Willys-Knight models, ranging from the roadster with its long, graceful, enclosed lines to the sedans, distinctive and luxurious, each priced within reach of the man of moderate means.

NO. 1 STATION ST. BELLEVILLE

SPECIAL SCENERY FOR ROTARY SHOW

Three thousand dollars worth of scenery, overhead stationery, new electrical effects, music of the kind that everybody likes, vocal solos, quartettes, octettes and choruses, jokes and topical songs, and all the merry nonsense which goes to make up a minstrel show, will be represented in the Rotary Minstrels at Griffin's Theatre Monday and Tuesday. Aside from the worthiness of the object, raising funds for the care and cure of crippled children, the entertainment will be worth seeing for its outstanding merit, the program being as varied as it is interesting.

An orchestra of fourteen pieces under Prof. Reg. Hinchey, will add pleasure to the entertainment. There will be a male chorus of fifty splendid voices and a galaxy of funny endmen numbering eight who may be expected to give the audience the latest wrinkles on the Police Force, the U.E.L., the City Council, Teapot Dome and Home Sweet Home Bank Scandals, and other topics of interest.

The Kiwanians having reserved a big box of seats will entertain the audience at intermission while the Rotes are catching their second breath.

Seat sale opened this morning with a rush indicating crowded houses both nights. Those who haven't reserved their seats as yet, better get busy—remember last year. There is no war tax on the tickets.

Not the least interesting feature of the entertainment to be presented by the Belleville Rotary Club in the second annual Minstrel Show for the benefit of the crippled children of Belleville and vicinity, will be the scenic and electrical effects. Scenery valued at three thousand dollars is being sent from Toronto to Belleville to be used in the Rotary Minstrel Show just under the auspices that the show this year will be a superlative package for all hands, the crew and the cook.

MILLERAND'S FATE STAKED ON ELECTIONS

Fight Will Not Centre on Poincare, Paris Sees

VOTING ISSUES VAGUE

Fear People Will Confuse Person With Policy in Coming Tussle

Paris, May 2.—The presidency of the republic, as well as the life of the present government, is involved in the French election, according to the leaders of the Radical-Socialist coalition.

A few weeks ago it appeared that the fight would be Poincare and his policies. The intervention of President Millerand, however, to prevent the repeal of the electoral reform law with a view to swing his office if the law was not left intact, will, in the judgment of the opposition, make it impossible for him to remain in office if the Government majority is overthrown in the election.

ISSUES NOT CLEAR

Apart from these personal elements the issues of the campaign are not so clear cut as they promised to be. Poincare himself has contributed to the confusion by allowing the majority that sustained him in the occupation of the Ruhr and in the adoption of the bills for the balancing of the budget.

In his new cabinet there are several members who opposed both these policies, and the Premier has declared that the majority to which he promised official support in the elections has become a minority. These developments, it is thought, now will enable the opposition to concentrate their efforts on the exploitation of the Premier's unpopularity. Several Deputies will be the chief of staff of the opposition forces," to use one political leader put it, adding that the Government majority would be "led by General Appercheon."

On the one hand are the people, disgruntled because of heavy taxation and high cost of living, and on the other are those who regard high taxation and high prices as the inevitable consequences of Germany's refusal to execute the treaty of Versailles, who believe that the money from the east is the greatest danger to France, and that the economic problem and the question of security are linked together in the policy of France respecting Germany. They will say to the voter that if Poincare's policies are not continued, if a weaker government succeeds the present one, Germany will not only press further refusal to pay, but will be encouraged to go on with her preparations for another conflict.

No Electoral Pulsace.

The high prices and heavy tax argument, it is expected, will take largely in the industrial centres, but will be less effective in the rural districts that are always inclined towards conservatism, and where the high cost of living is undressed from a different angle than in the towns. Farmers are rarely well off on account of high prices, but they represent only about 30 per cent of the voters.

REMOVAL NOTICE

C. M. Hall announces that he is moving his hardware business from 340 Front St., to larger and more suitable quarters (which he has purchased) at 363 Front St., just south of the R. J. Graham Co.

To old customers and friends Mr. Hall extends his thanks for their patronage. At the new location he hopes to maintain old business relations.

For the next two weeks during moving operations, it will not always be possible to give the usual prompt delivery and Mr. Hall asks the consideration of his customers for that time. When installed in the new store service will be better than ever.

KIDDIES' SHOW AT CITY HALL

Benefit Performance Pleases Audience With Revised Edition

It was a small but appreciative audience which assembled in the City Hall last evening, where a concert was given in aid of the True Blue and Orange Widows and Orphans Fund, varied in character, was chiefly provided by the Belleville Kiddies and all taking part acquitted themselves in a creditable manner. The choruses were very good, the numbers rendered being snappy. Eleven girls composed the chorus and were Hazel Clarke, Bessie Canning, Grace Philip, Elvera Scott, Teresa Kehoe, Nellie Carter Edith Rannbird, Kitty Torrance, Daisy Morris, Violet Morris and Gladys Hume.

Master Ed Turner a lad only eight years of age impressed as a negro song two selections and was compelled to respond to encores. He has a rather good voice which was heard to advantage in his selections. The numbers given by the Kiddies' orchestra were given in harmony. Members of the orchestra are Bessie Watts, Alice Burns, Ralph Allaun, Fred Clarke, Bob Smith. The programme and those taking part were as follows:

Overture ..... Orchestra

MUNITIONS AND GAS SENT TO SEA BOTTOM

Washington, May 2—A million tons of munitions and 170,000 tons of poison gas, enough to launch a sixty-day war, were destroyed by the British Government in liquidating surplus stocks of war supplies, the Department of Commerce was informed today by Trade Commissioner Lyons, at London.

Most of the ammunition was sunk in the ocean, while the poison gas was destroyed on land. The same amount of war supplies remained to be disposed of, Lyons added, including 1,000,000 tons of explosives, 1,000,000 rifles and 1,000,000 tons of steel.

Hoover Heads Fight On U.S. Auto Smashup Toll

Washington—Secretary of Commerce Hoover has played a hand in an endeavor to reduce the tremendous loss of life from automobile accidents in the United States every year.

Directed by Hoover, a dozen national organizations have started the formation that will study the cause of motor accidents, responsible for at least 17,000 deaths in 1923, with a view to making the city streets and rural highways safer for humanity.

Among the organizations co-operating with the Department of Commerce of the United States are: National Safety Council, Equitable Life Insurance Company, American Automobile Association, National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, National Bureau of Casualty Surety Underwriters, American Federated Engineering Society, American Railway Association and the American Mutual Alliance.

Under an agreement reached at a preliminary meeting with Secretary Hoover each organization will submit names of persons to represent it on the permanent committee. It was expected that Hoover would act as chairman and the Department of Commerce as a co-ordinating body.

Some of the objects of the committee's are:

Dismissing of careless drivers.

Adequate punishment of reckless and intoxicated operators.

Investigation and determination of causes of automobile accidents.

A national campaign of education against auto accidents.

Included in the tentative plans of the organization is standardization of traffic regulations throughout the United States, already suggested by experts at the Bureau of Standards. Traffic regulations differ widely, and their lack of uniformity may to some measure be responsible for accidents.

Following organization of the committee it will immediately proceed to collect data already collected by the automobile industry and association as to the causes of accidents. A thorough study of these causes by experts will form the basis for recommendations as to their elimination, and for an educational campaign.

The possibility of asking President Coolidge to summon Governors and other state officials to ask for their co-operation in the drive against automobile deaths has been suggested by members of the committee representing the American Automobile Chamber of Commerce, it was learned.

LABOR MEN INJURED AS AUTO EXPLODES

Nitro-Glycerin Is Blamed; Were Leaving Meeting; No Clues Found

Cleveland, May 3.—William M. O'Brien, 40, secretary of the Building Trades Council of Cleveland and second vice-president of the International Sheet Metal Workers' Union, and Joseph Nestor, 50, business agent of the Sheet Metal Workers' Union, were at the point of death today in Cleveland hospitals, while six others, including a woman, were less seriously injured, the result of an explosion that wrecked a seven passenger auto and rocked buildings and broke plate glass windows for blocks in the residential section last night.

The union officials had been attending a meeting of the Labor Temple. As they climbed into the car, O'Brien, in the front seat, pressed his foot on the starter.

There was a deafening noise as the explosive—probably nitro-glycerin—let go. The car was wrecked, the radiator bursting high in the air, and the men in the car were thrown to the ground by the force of the blast. Among the injured were three pedestrians.

No clue to the identity of the bombers has been developed.

TROUBLE SEEN FOR BOKHARA IN REVOLT

Emir Directs Movement in Border ones Against Gov ernment

Moscow, May 3.—It is reported from Tashkent that events in Afghanistan are having a great influence in Bokhara, where an anti-government move has started and is being supported, it is said, by the same sources as that in Afghanistan.

The former Emir of Kokhara is said to be directing the movement from Afghanistan, and skirmishes have reported to be occurring in the border zones.

Afghanistan was recognized as an independent state under the treaty with Great Britain signed at Kabul in November, 1921. Bokhara, which adjoins it on the north, is part of the old Russian empire and is allied with the federal soviet republic, having, however, its own autonomous government.

"The British Government has repeatedly protested against alleged Bolshevik propaganda in Afghanistan because of its disquieting effect in British India.

U.S. PRESBYTERIANS TACKLE MODERNISM

Will Look Into Actions of Rev. Harry Fosdick of New York City

Grand Rapids, Mich, May 3.—Fundamentalism, allegations of undue modernism among Presbyterian missionaries, charges of "unsound" modernism in the Chicago presbytery, and renewal of the controversy that has recently shaken the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, New York pastor, are expected to take up much of the time of the 136th annual assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States here May 22-28.

The proposed unification of the Presbyterian and Congregational churches, and selection of a moderator to succeed the Rev. Charles F. Wishart, who retires, also are regarded as matters of business certain to create more than casual interest among the 900 commissioners who are to attend.

The New York Presbytery, to which the last General Assembly referred charges of undue modernism made against Rev. Dr. Fosdick, acting pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, New York, has reported Dr. Fosdick religious views as seeming to it not subject to just criticism. A minority report of the assembly here is expected to renew the attack of the fundamentalists.

The charge that the Chicago Presbytery has taken too strongly purified views in the matter of the individual's right or lack of right to pledge himself not to share in warfare, even though his country be at war, is expected to bring spirited debate on the floor.

Several names are being heard in connection with the office of moderator. Most prominently mentioned are the Rev. Clarence E. Macartney, pastor of the Arch Street Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia; the Rev. Robert E. Speer, secretary of the Presbyterian board of foreign missions, and the Rev. Charles E. Erdman, professor of practical theology and the English Bible at the Princeton Theological seminary.

Charles Evan Hughes, Secretary of State, has accepted an invitation to address the assembly the evening of May 25.

TO HELP OTHERS

"To Help Others" is the whole basis of Salvation Army activity. All its work is based on it in these three words. If it were not so, it would not be necessary to ask you, once a year, to support the Self-Denial Appeal.

There is hardly a phase of life that the Army does not touch in one way or another. The rich and poor, the sick, the feeble—those who have measured years by their sorrows—all seek the Army in helping hand.

We believe you are eager that we continue our work among the unfortunate ones. Give us your financial and prayerful co-operation and we will keep on "Helping others".

Years of road tests prove extra mileage

ACTUAL road tests all over Canada by our test cars, proved that the Dominion Tires made by the Web Cord and Sprayed Rubber processes stand up under the most gruelling punishment that the roughest roads and climatic extremes could provide.

With the extra dependability you have, and the greater mileage which you have always had in Dominion Royal Cord and U-cord Tires, you now have the assurance that you are getting a thoroughly-tested and proven advance in cord tires—the greatest that has been made in tires since the cord itself was developed.

These extra values do not add to your tire expense. They are exclusive values in Dominion Cord Tires, which cost you nothing.

YOUNG STRIBLING

Nineteen-year-old Georgian School Boy who defeated Tommy Burns of Detroit at Toronto Coliseum last night in a classy ten-round bout. He is here shown receiving the "congrats" of "Ma" Stribling, his manager.

Young Stribling Wins Easily

(By Staff Reporter)

Toronto, May 3.—The Coliseum was crowded last night to see Young Stribling, the nineteen-year-old Georgian school boy, give the best exhibition of defensive boxing in the city when he decisively defeated Tommy Burns, the Detroit boy in a ten-round bout.

Stribling had the edge in every round but the third which called a draw, and after the first four rounds had the Detroiter groggy, and in such condition that the fans anticipated a knock out victory for Stribling.

Bobby Eber and Harold Mayberry of Hamilton supplied the other fireworks in fight circles appearing when they battled through a hectic bout for a draw at Hamilton.

KINGSTON C.O.B.I. SIGNS 15 PONIES

Kingston, May 3—Fifteen players signed up, and in good shape for the season, were reported at the meeting of the local C.O.B.I. team held in The Standard office Thursday night. The meeting was a most enthusiastic one, and much business was transacted.

It was reported at the meeting that the following players have been signed up: Rice, Rickenap, Bodon, Gallagher, Bennett, Kelly, Purvis, Smith, Evans, Compeau, Balstone, Tetpell, Cherry, Bert Daley and Nicholson.

The question of an exhibition game before the season opens, was brought up, and it was decided that a game would be arranged before the team tackles Oshawa here in the first game on May 31st.

Domenico's Recreation Alleys

The Durant Juniors are still in the winning class when they won their fourth straight game at the Recreation alleys last night against Marsh's team. This puts the Durant lead for first place with the Spark Plugs. Bob Mellor was in his best form when he rolled a total of 664. For Marsh's Percy Cornell was high.

The C.I.A. juniors are also coming up in the running when they won from the Lucky Strikes by 170 pins. Brasher and Jordan rolling the highest scores for their respective teams.

In the senior league the Wanderers had a wonderful opportunity for a new alley record, but their lead of 800 weakened considerably in the last game or rather through out the game and at that they rolled 3188 against the Recreations 2803. Cornell and Lynch both rolled over the 700 mark, while for the Recreations Arnott was high man. Figures and scores:

Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It cannot hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatism torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any good druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

SINE

A number of residents attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Masford Tucker, of Birling, formerly of this place on Wednesday. Deceased was a lady held in esteem by all who knew her and the sympathy of the community goes out to the sorrowing husband and family. She leaves two daughters in Cereal, Alta., and sons Fred, of Toronto, and Claud at home. Anson having predeceased her just a year ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Bolter Johnston of here spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Lenn, 7th Con. Rawdon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence D. Reid spent a few days in Belleville last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Sine spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Brady.

Mr. Thos. Andrews who underwent an operation on his eye in Belleville hospital is much improved.

Mrs. John Green is still in Toronto where she has been taking insulin treatment for some time.

Two new baby girls have arrived here One to Mr. and Mrs. Orval Jackson, and one to Mr. and Mrs. John Farrell. Congratulations.

Mrs. Fred Thrasher, of Oshawa, spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. John Farrell.

Farmers are busy on the land in this locality.

Mrs. L. R. Green has received word that her sister, Miss Gladys Reid, succumbed to pneumonia at Cobourg, is improving from a severe attack of diptheria.

Miss Irene Liddell, of Madoc, spent Easter week with her sister, Mrs. Thos. Andrews.

ICE PATROL FOR SHIPS

Radio is helping ships in the Gulf of St. Lawrence and beyond to keep clear of ice. An ice patrol is maintained there, by which daily reports of ice conditions are sent out to navigators.

FOR DOG LOVERS

Dog lovers couldn't do better than tune in on WUZ every Monday evening. Frank Dole, noted kennel authority, has been broadcasting interesting dog lectures from this station for the last 18 months.

The Austrian government has turned down two applications to erect broadcasting stations, and is planning to erect one herself.

Sinical Sadie Sees

Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more,
Men were deceivers ever,
One foot in sea and one on shore;
To one thing constant never.

That the Bavarians are proposing to forbid the use of English words like "sport" and "gentleman". But the difficulty is that in the German language there is no equivalent.

That Poland has decided to go ahead with the Exhibition in spite of the visit of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks to their country.

A new addition to water.

A corkscrew.

That someone has declared Socialism is anti-Christian because it seeks to abolish poverty and without the poor there can be no charity, and the essence of Christianity is Charity.

"No man can know everything," says Lord Birkenhead. It is understood this thoughtless remark has led to considerable coolness with his old friend Winston Churchill.

In furnishing a house one should aim at colours that inspire and furniture that thrills.

Which makes Sinical Sadie enquire how a moving stairway would do.

That a local gasworks offered up this singular prayer "That the spark of grace might be watered with the dew of blessing from on high."

That to slip on a pavement is better than to slip with the tongue.

No this is not an ad for Al Plunket's song, "Everybody Slips a little."

Beauty is but skin-deep.

Ugly lies the bone?

Beauty dies, and fades away.

"But duty holds its ten.

That the secret of being a bore is to tell everything.

Those who have their wood will never lose our trust.

Sinical Sadie says Premier King might have thought of that before he made all those pro-election promises.

When some people discharge an objection you ask them to repeat the two miles around.

Some books are to be tasted others are to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested.

What ever is worth doing at all, is worth doing well.

The Correct Definition

A party of railway passengers were endeavouring to decide what a locomotive was usually called "she". One man suggested something about "the headlight", but was promptly snubbed. "Because," said a tall thin passenger, "the more you throttle her the faster she will go." The point was ruled out. A man with a sample case suggested, "Because she runs on rails," but everybody said, "Ah, that's not correct." "Then I give it up there!" so sarcastically that he quickly yielded. A passenger said "Because there was so much hustle and bustle about her"; and he was ruled out in a jiffy. A bashful passenger was awarded the palm, for saying, "Because we couldn't get along without her!"

SOME BOOK-READERS

"The philosophy of book-reading makes a full mind. Not always. And, perhaps not even generally. The effect of reading on the mind depends on the manner and spirit in which you read," writes Mr. Arnold Bennett.

"Some of the emptiest minds I ever met belonged to certain women who got a book per day for their library every Monday of their lives—and read it through within the ensuing twenty-four hours. Part of their daily routine was to visit the library to change the book. My particular book at a particular moment? No remembered title. But the book was always calculated that such regular and tireless readers would read 20,000,000 words or more in a year. (One might be excused for thinking that they read for a wager.) Presently Great scholars probably read less than they. Walter Scott, Lander, whose knowledge was prodigious and amazing, and that only four of the books I have given up to study, and that even in those years he never allowed reading to interfere with his other pleasures. And yet those seven-day-and-hour readers notoriously have vacant heads.

"It may be agreed that they read the wrong kind of stuff—for instance, trashy novels. Well, I am not aware that novels are more trashy than other forms of literature. And all novels are not trashy. Many standard works of them are rather good, thought-provoking, mentally-quickening, intellectually stimulating. It is indeed impossible while that a hundred reader should read nothing but trash. She simply could not avoid picking up a decent novel now and then. Moreover, the one-day-one-book habit does not even find themselves to novels. They gobble historic, essay, reminiscence, poetry, and historical works at intervals.

"So that the explanation of the perfect vacancy of their minds cannot lie in what they read. Rather it must lie in how they read. And it does. The fact is, they read as they might absorb coffee or chew gum or play patience. They read to lose themselves instead of reading to find themselves. They read to dull the brain and not to vitalize it. They object to being roused."

LOVE, THE TYRANT
OR WHERE HER HEART LED
BY
CHARLES GARVICE

He shut his teeth and stores for self-possession, as he reviewed the situation—the awful situation. There, within a few feet of him, lay the body of the man he had killed. Would it be possible to conceal the body, to remove any suspicious circumstances connected with himself?

Denzil was a stranger in the place, had been seen by few, according to his own account had spoken to few. No one knew that he was going to that lonely spot, and he had been sure that no one had followed him. The landlord of the Black Cow was under the impression that Denzil was already on his way to London.

Would the man be missed? Not in all probability; but how about London? Here, again, there was a chance of escape for Selby Layton. Denzil belonged to the criminal class; his antecedents were unknown; could not seem singular to his friends, who were, no doubt, themselves given to sudden disappearances. It would be thought, when he did not turn up in his usual haunts, wherever they were, that he had gone back to Australia.

Selby Layton worked this out in his mind slowly, step by step.

So far, so good. But there was his own time to account for. How long had he been away from the Black Cow?

He took out his watch; but as he did so he smiled—the matter was trifling, docile. Only half an hour. His mouth curled as he added to it a kind of simper at the thought of all that happened in half an hour. Denzil had lived and he had killed a man within that time. Half an hour, and he was free, safe from crime, at peace with the law; now he was a murderer and tying to hide his crime, with the aid of lies and whiskeys, and was dreaming! He had only to glance at that terrible, straight, long figure, with its white face and livid mark, to realise the truth.

But let him think, think, think!—not give way to morbid reflections. If he was to save his life, he would need all the acuteness on which he prided himself. All his courage, in which he had been so fond of the thought of all that happened in half an hour. Denzil had lived and he had killed a man within that time. Half an hour, and he was free, safe from crime, at peace with the law; now he was a murderer and tying to hide his crime, with the aid of lies and whiskeys, and was dreaming! Eye Comfort and what it means

It means the ability to do close work for reasonable lengths of time, and to "see well in the distance without any undue strain on the eyes. Freedom from eye strain means freedom from headaches and many other ills that come as a result of it. So that eye comfort means more than freedom from pains in the eyes. If you need eye attention my service awaits you.

LET ME TELL YOU

Do not let soup boil after adding milk or cream, as it is liable to curdle.

A tablespoonful of milk in which a little brown sugar has been dissolved, will glaze pastry just as well as the white of an egg.

That a piece of lemon slipped in salt will clean brass.

Add a little lemon juice to the water in which potatoes are boiling. It will keep them white.

That satin is having a tremendous vogue, but velvet is used for dresses for almost every hour of the day.

Curtains to be starched will last clean twice as long if they are quite dry before being starched.

That borax is invaluable for softening hard water.

That the best and purest of lard is better for frying pancakes than butter.

Did you ever use a piece of oilcloth for a hotdog? The cotton side is used and the oilcloth side is carefully and less flour is needed than on a board.

That is a simple treatment for corns which we have heard is very effective. Cover a piece of lint with soap; put it on the corn and bind it to stay there. Repeat every night for a few times and the corn should come out easily.

Have you a glass decanter badly stained inside? Put in a couple of tablespoonfuls of cooking salt and fine ashes and shake with vinegar. Rinse well. Shake this in the decanter until stains disappear. Then wash in warm soapy water, rinse well and dry carefully.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Miss Edith Cavell Memorial School staff has been compelled to retain owing to ill health, Mrs. Hendy-John, of Warkworth, had been engaged to finish out the term.

A number of guests gathered at the home of Miss Alice Gill, 83 Gordon street. The evening was spent in games, singing and dancing, and at the midnight hour a dainty lunch was served and the evening was rounded out by the very small hours of the morning. The party ended after everyone had voted Miss Gill an ideal hostess.

Ex-Alderman Harry DeMarsh, formerly of this city and now of Hamilton, is renewing acquaintances in the city.

Yesterday Mrs. A. Mather celebrated her ninetieth birthday at her home, Coleman street. A family party was held in honor of the unique event. Mrs. Mather enjoys good health, considering her advanced age and received many gifts of flowers. She is to offer their felicitations. The latest pioneer joins with her many friends in wishing that she be spared for many similar celebrations.

The Eastern Star Lodge held their regular meeting last evening when which progressive euchre was played. Prize prize was won by Mrs. Lillian Doctor, being a Sampson rubber hot water bottle presented by Mr. W. J. Greene for the Sampson Rubber Co. 2nd prize, a souvenir dish won by Miss Vira Kindred.

JUST IN PASSING

ABBREVIATION

A well-known specialist was condemning some of our modern phrases. "The spirit of these days," he said, "is like that of the young man to whom a Bishop said on the dance of the 'Lord's nothing but a spooning act.' 'I think What can we do to improve it?' 'We can cut out the music,' said the young man.

COLDS

Colds pave the way for other troubles such as influenza and pneumonia and so should be treated more seriously than they usually do think. A man can throw a cold 12 feet by a sneeze. Colds are usually carried right away by himself till better shown an example which runs might follow. Anyone who fails to do his best to keep his cold to himself deserves the outspoken rebuke of his fellow-men. The face should be covered by a handkerchief when coughing and sneezing.

A RECIPE FOR HAPPINESS

An American judge who is appalled at the number of divorce cases over there, has drawn up the following "commandments" for married folk.

1.—Avoid the first quarrel.

2.—Don't argue, nag or find fault.

3.—Let there be no "back" rule in the house.

4.—Ours" and not "mine" should be the possessive pronoun in the home

5.—Confine your intimacies to yourselves, don't share them with your friends.

6.—Don't live with your in-laws. No matter how humble, have a home of your own.

7.—A little love and affection, such as you used to display in courtship days, will prevent many petty misunderstandings and quarrels.

8.—Husbands must keep in mind that running a household is a tough tedious and tiresome job. Be considerate and overlook the wife's nerves.

9.—Respect respect for each other. When respect goes, love vanishes.

10.—Protect the home with love insurance by having as many children as you can afford.

Sodom-Gomorrah Cities In Depths of Dead Sea, Is Belief of Explorer Kyle

St. Louis.—Evidence of the existence of the Canaanite civilization of that early Bronze age, dating about the time of Abraham, has been found by the Xenia expedition in a part of the Dead Sea region of Palestine Dr. Melvin O. Kyle, head of the party, said in a letter received here today.

Dr. Kyle, who is president of Xenia Seminary here, declared his explorations now "point strongly to the correctness of the Judgment of earlier investigators that the two cities of the Plain of Jordan, which, according to Biblical accounts, were destroyed by fire and brimstone, were situated at the south end of the Dead Sea beyond the power of men to discover them.

Find Pottery

Pottery found in the graves opened by Arab workmen, he declared in the report, is of a type found in the Canaanite civilization. He characterized it as a "pre-Moabite civilization" pointing out that "Lot was the father of Moab".

"This is a necessary link in the evidence we desire," the letter continued, "for the Bible represents just such a civilization as being here in the days of Abraham, Melchizedek, however, there follows just here one of those expressive silences in Bible history.

"The destruction of the Cities of the Plain, with their overthrow so suddenly and complete as one waits not a candle. Never since has any human mode or hint given or implied of a civilization in this plain after the Bible narrative ceases to be mentioned. This is exactly what our researches have revealed, and what seemed only negative evidence, becomes a positive evidence in the subject. The next civilization that appears in Bronze time, which comes more than 2000 years later."

Never Be Found

Although many searches have been made that divers be sent down into the Dead Sea, no recovery of remains of the cities beneath its surface. Dr. Kyle scouts the idea, declaring the shifting waters of small rivers have brought down alluvial deposits that have been filling the bottom of the sea, making the work of divers exceedingly difficult, if not impossible.

CHURCH UNION

(St. Maurice Valley Chronicle. Three Rivers)

What is behind the bitterness with which some opponents of Church Union are opposing this movement is not easily discovered. Are these opponents of this very progressive movement imbued with that kind of fanaticism that is, or are they simply afraid of losing some lucrative appointment through the closing down of a large number of unnecessary churches. As an ordinary matter of fact, it is somewhat surprising to the ordinary layman that while we make use of the above methods for the abolition of Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational homes, it seems impossible in the eyes of some at least, to find a common basis by which we can worship together.

Baby's Own Tablets Always Kept On Hand

Mrs. David Gagne, St. Godfroy, Que., writes:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my three little ones and have found them such an excellent medicine that I always keep them on hand and would strongly advise all other mothers to do the same thing." The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which relieves constipation and indigestion break up colds and simple fevers and prevent the formation of the troubling sleep which makes the baby thrive. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

POEMS Old And NEW

BROTHER SEEDS

Little brown seeds, little brown brother,
Here we lie snuggle, close to each other.
Hark to the song of the birds overhead.

Little brown seed, oh, little 'brown brother,
What sort of a flow'r will you be?
I'll be a rose with petals like my mother,
I'll be a poppy like me!

What! You're a sunflow'r? How I shall miss you
With your golden and bright!
But I shall send all the bees up to kiss you—
Little brown brother—good-bye!"

WASHING THE DISHES

When we're washing the dishes
How easy is the washing up,
But heavy feeling comes when we're drying
The task is long and many plates.

And though I grant that I have prayed
That we might find a serving maid;
Yet I would pray I know I should
To see Her smile across the sink.

I wash. She wipes. In water hot
We soap and scour the dishes o'er
While Tabby mutters, purrs and begs

And rubs himself against my legs.

The man who never in his life
Has washed the dishes with his wife
Will ne'er polish off a real plate;
He still is largely celibate.

One warning; there is certain ware
That must be handled with all care;
The Lord himself will give you up
If you should drop a willow pattern cup!
—Christopher Morley.

A BALLAD

Into the woods my Master went,
Clean forspent, forspent,
Into the woods my Master came,
Forspent with love and shame.
But the olives they were not blind to Him
The little gray leaves were kind to Him
The thorn tree had a mind to Him

Out of the woods my Master went,
And he was well content;
Out of the woods my Master came,
Content with death and shame.
When Death and Shame would woo Him last,
From under the trees they drew Him last;
'Twas on a tree they drew Him last
When out of the woods He came.
—Sidney Lanier.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENCE

"Tall One"—Once I knew a tall girl who she was trying to decide whether or not to marry a man who was not quite high. She decided in spite of her real liking for him. She was determined through life that way and she didn't. She married the man and found him quite as tall as herself, a "delicate chap", and they wander to and fro all summer in the world looking for health—and perhaps happiness. I do not know if she is happy but I do know she turned away from the real thing when it was offered because she could not stand a few smiles when they stood together! Of course you could get a cart That is a modern way out of the difficulty. But I'm afraid I haven't much sympathy for you, if you are going to weigh a man's height when he comes to see you. Studies with the man you love. You should have the whole matter settled by now not late first and not waited so long.

"Hopeful" is from a fairly young woman who has had a heavy burden raised from her shoulders and is forced to wait for the summer. She asks for a list of good books. I have read and enjoyed, as she is planning to read to her friend's readers, all summer. I am sometime ago I should recommend no more books, but I cannot resist such an appeal, when there are such good things to have for one who has not read a book for five years. Of the modern books I would include

"Miss Shapdelaine" by Louis Hemon.
"The Cathedral" by Hugh Walpole.
"The Forsyte Saga" by John Galsworthy.

"Sea Wrack" by Vera Hutchinson.
"If Winter Comes" by A. S. M. Hutchinson.
"Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" by Ibanez.
"His Family" by Ernest Poole.
"The Rich Mrs. Burdon" by Zona Gale.
"The Way of Revelation"
"The Best Canadian" of my favorites are
"Mr. Kipps" by H. G. Wells.
"The History of Mr. Polly" by H. G. Wells.
"Old Wives Tales by Arnold Bennett.
"The Mill on the Floss"—George Eliot.
"Jane Eyre" by Charlotte Bronte.
"The Little Minister" by J. M. Barrie.
and all of his stories and plays I could by my hands on.
"Our Mutual Friend" by Dickens.
"Pinkney and Sons" by Dickens.
David Copperfield" by Dickens.
"The Way of all Flesh by S. Butler.
The above list should keep you going for months, aye years. I envy you your first reading of some of them. There are scores more too if you want another list next year!

The Prince of Wales had a great time in France. He traveled as the Earl of Chester, as he had a right to do, and never let on that he was the heir to the throne. The people of France, true to their reputation for courtesy and gallantry, treated all the time that he was the prince and pretended they didn't.

And so everything yas satisfactory and it would not be surprising to learn that the entente cordiale had result of the visit.

Iron Soldiers Will Fight, Says Norwegian Inventor; Brings New Defence Plan

New York.—"Iron soldiers" will fight the wars of the future, according to Nils W. Aasen, Norwegian inventor, who is here to sell his idea of the mechanical army to the United States Government.

The "iron soldiers"—huge bombs—will be buried along the country's frontiers and can be operated from any distance by wires or radio.

Planted in series the inventor said today, they hold a terrific destructive power. When the impetus of the control power is given, the huge subterranean mine leaps half a meter above the field before it explodes, sending forth 800 projectiles to stop the invading army.

These mines are planted in groups of 15 so they can be fired together or separately, thus affording 15 salvos of death, Aasen said.

On the same plan, he claims to have perfected a gas bomb filled with a destructive gas, that can retain its potency for years under ground.

These "iron soldiers" according to Aasen, can lie safely beneath cultivated fields, just out of reach of a plow's point.

A new depth bomb, which he says is 37 times more powerful than any projectile yet used, and which will sink the largest ship by merely exploding in the vicinity, will also be offered to the United States Government, Aasen said.

Claim Laxity

Kingston stated that he would assume the ratepayers that when the proper time came there would be a full statement given out for publication, and also that no one would lose a dollar. The whole trouble was in the tax rolls of 1919 and 1920. During the latter year deposits on taxes were paid by several people, and the deposit slips were not in all cases handed to him nor was any statement of the roll for 1920 given to him. Also the roll for that year was never handed to the ex-treasurer for checking up, partly through his own negligence but mostly through his illness, he being incapacitated with an injured limb. Up to the time that the ex-treasurer left office in January, 1924, this roll was still out, and had never been returned and there the whole trouble presumably lay, he says.

Much Laxity

It would appear that there has been a great deal of laxity in collecting the taxes in the township of Kingston for a number of years. It is stated by persons who are in a position to know, that in January, 1923, previous to the audit made by James Sproit and Anthony Smith, there were about $20,000 unpaid taxes for the year 1922 while in other surrounding municipalities practically all of the taxes had been paid in.

It is stated that for years collection tax in the township has been very poor; in fact it is reported that some people have not paid for a considerable time and it is doubtful if all the money can be collected now.

It is rumored that probably there might be a chance of things being straightened up. There were also rumors to the effect that certain ratepayers, finding that they were unable to pay their taxes, united upon certain officials and they in turn took notes for the amount of taxes and those notes have not been paid. If the amount of the notes were collected the finances of the county might present a different appearance.

C. J. Graham, reeve of the township stated that it was his intention as soon as the auditor made his full report to have a public meeting in the town hall at Calarama when the whole matter would be discussed from the platform. The date of the meeting will be announced.

Brings Strength and Vigor When Mother Most Needs It

WHAT joy there is in the home when baby arrives.

What a relief after months of anxiety.

Now the mother looks forward to returning strength and vigor.

But oftentimes this is slow in coming and the weeks drag on until the strain brings depression and discouragement.

So many mothers have written to us about the great benefit they have obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food under these conditions that we cannot refrain from passing along the good words.

Since prevention is always the better way it is wise to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food during the expectant period as well as after baby comes.

By so doing the blood is kept rich, the nerves steady and the general health is kept at high water mark all through this trying time.

Then after baby's advent you quickly pick up strength and know the joy of healthful motherhood.

Mrs. H. McClure, Norwood, Ont. writes:

"After my baby was born I was terribly weak and run down, with a weak, painful feeling across my back. I had heard so much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that I decided to try it, and before very long I began to feel stronger. Three boxes proved enough to make me quite strong and well again. I also used Dr. Chase's Ointment, for a rash which broke out on the baby and it worked wonderfully—the rash disappearing completely in a short time."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 60 cents a box of 60 pills, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE

Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up I began to take that. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds, but now I have had such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. RIDER, 2509 18th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn.

Finds a True Friend

"Every woman who values her health should be proud to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 3077 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had female weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

CANNOT BE IGNORED

(Hamilton Spectator)

This is a country of free speech rightly guarded by the privilege; but there are bounds, and sedition is not permissible. Such language as this is nothing, short of an incitation to revolt. "We do not know if we can put a working-class government in power by the usual method. It is the duty of communism to establish dictatorship, and to rule against capitalism. If capitalism resists, it is the duty of the working class, to quell the resistance with the force of a Red Army."

Accident Leads to Discovery of Ancient Library

SEARCHED FOR YEARS

About T oAbandon Excavation When Luck Uncovered Building

London, May 5—An ancient sumerian library of cuneiform tablets has been found by the simple expedient of throwing a brick on a spot on the side of a hill under which the library has lain buried for four centuries. The discovery was made by Professor Langdon, the American-born Assyriologist, who is directing the Weld- Brand hill expedition excavations at the ruins of the Babylonian city of Kish, near Bagdad.

The discovery of the library occurred just in time to stop the preparations for the suspension of excavating work, for it was the opinion of the leaders of the expedition that the library had been destroyed with other missing sections of the city.

Expected Find

"I was convinced," said Professor Langdon in writing of the discovery, "that if still existing a section of library lay on the western side of a certain mound and I dug there safely for week. The hire that the library was there disturbed my mind and could not banished my sleep. In despair, and grasping a chance of divination, I went alone to the top of the mound and chose a brick of the age of Nebuchadnezzar which lay at my feet, and smashed on it an arrow. Then after blindfolding myself and turning round many times to lose my bearings, I threw the brick backward over my head.

The next morning digging was recommenced at the place indicated by the arrow, within two hours a large part of valuable literary tablets was found."

A Great Discovery

The library is by far the most important find the expedition has made during its three years' work. It is expected to yield library treasures which even the libraries of the Pharaohs have not combined. Already the rooms of the library have been uncovered, all of which are filled with tablets, and there are 20 more rooms yet to be explored.

Kish is the oldest capital of ancient Babylon, and was founded immediately after the Flood. The excavated ruins show the city to have been five miles long and four miles wide and it is here that the oldest known kings of history lived. Much is known of the history of the city from other sources, but the story of its birth and prosperity still has to be found in the sacred record.

Toronto Constable Comes Out Second Best in Night Scrap With Italians

Toronto, May 5.—In a fight with two men, believed Italians, in the residential section of the city Saturday, Police Constable Brennan was assaulted and fired at. Brennan stopped the men and questioned them, when one of them kicked him, knocking him down.

The officer's assailant then ran away and fired at him as he was fleeing. The other man was in charge. Brennan was quickly on his feet and set off in pursuit, losing four shots as he dashed along the street, but he failed to hit either of the men, who entered an automobile in which another man was awaiting, and made good their escape.

MILLION LOSS ON MANITOBA CREDIT SCHEME

Government Has Written Off $250,000, while Outlook is Not Bright

HELD FORCED SALE

Mortgage Companies Report Since Turn of Year Collections Heavy

Winnipeg, May 5.—Manitoba is facing a loss of $1,000,000 on its rural credit scheme. Just recently, about the time the house closed, $250,000 was written off. In other words, a loss of that amount was definitely assumed. Banks and mortgage companies in the province regard the situation as critical. That is especially true of the mortgage companies, due to endemn the Manitoba municipal debentures in the part of the government. At the same time they point out that, despite Manitoba's somewhat experience, Alberta is going in for a similar scheme.

Collections on the government scheme are reported to have been very poor. There has been a suspension that some farmers who could pay would not and, to set an example, a number of them have also been sold. The experience proved that the scheme was a failure from the start, and that the government was rushed into it by the farmers' organizations.

Gravest Issue Yet

Certainly it is the gravest foreign issue that has confronted Mr. Coolidge. '

Both in wrining and orally before committees of congress, Secretary Hughes has consistently opposed any legislation that would bar the Japanese by statute. Even while the present immigration bill was being written in the House Immigration Committee Mr. Hughes sent a letter to Chairman Johnson, urging that Japan be allowed a quota of immigration just as are countries whose nationals are eligible to citizenship.

Hughes May Retire

There have been frequent reports, indefinite as to source, that should the exclusion ban go through, Secretary Hughes would regard it as a repudiation of his policy and would free himself officially as Mr. Coolidge's Secretary of State.

COOLIDGE AND HUGHES SPLIT ON JAPANESE

Exclusion Stand May Break U.S. Cabinet, Capital Thinks

SECRETARY OPPOSED

President in Favor of Ban Against Orient; Will Support It

Washington, May 5.—The first statement at the White House that President Coolidge was in favor of excluding Japanese—courteously as possible, but still excluding them—and the strong intimation, that he will back the new immigration bill containing the exclusion clause aroused considerable speculation here today as to the status of Secretary of State Hughes.

Outwardly, at least, the President and his Secretary of State are thus supposed to be on opposite sides of one of the most important questions of foreign policy that has come up in years.

Public Mission At St. Michaels

Rev. Father McGrath and Father Hawkins, C.S.S.R., Redemptorists, commenced a two weeks mission in St. Michael's Church in the city hall on Sunday at 7.30 in the morning and the same hour in the evening. Both are pleasing speakers and well versed in the discussion of their faith. The services are open not only to members of St. Michael's Church but all citizens.

UNWED OR DIVORCED WOMEN TO GET VOTE

Mobile—All unmarried or divorced women who have attained their majority will have the right to vote by the terms of a new electoral law recently decreed by the Directorate.

The law will exclude married women living with their husbands from having the vote, since under an old Spanish law they are regarded as dependable on their husbands.

WOULD RETURN CONFISCATED GERMAN GOODS

Canada's Credit At Stake, Say Those Who Want Money Given Back

GERMANS ACTIVE

Agents for German Interests Backing "Pity the Poor Germans"

Montreal, May 5.—Should Canada return to German people their property in this country, passed under the terms of the Treaty of Versailles? This question is certain to become a live issue in Canada shortly, if the United States has already decided to return to German all property up to $10,000 for individual and South Africa has made a compromise settlement with the monied Great Britain, France and Belgium are acting but not showing no indication of being likely to sympathize with any "pity the poor Germans" appeal.

Already in Canada the head of one large bank has declared that Canada, for the sake of its credit abroad, should return German property to its pre-war owners. Some officials at Ottawa are favorable towards such action and certain Western members of Parliament are known to be favorable. A considerable amount of quiet work has been done at Ottawa by at least one agent representing important German financial interests to the end of having this property returned.

Arguments for Return

The chief argument for the return of German property is that the world is interested in having for the "confiscation" by one country of the property of citizens of a country with which it has been at enmity. The propounder of this policy of return say, benefitted greatly from the investment of German money before the war and is likely to benefit from the investment of foreign money in the future. It hurts Canada's credit to have it said the investment of these German people in Canada and it is inadvisable to offer the investors themselves, is the claim made.

BELLEVILLE MAN DIES IN TORONTO

P. J. Tenney Seized With Fatal Attack While in Restaurant

Toronto, May 5.—P. J. Tenny, aged 60, of 23 St. Joseph St., became ill in the Imperial Restaurant, 107 Yonge St., at 2 o'clock Saturday morning, and after being taken to the hospital expired at 4 o'clock.

Mr. Tenney had been sitting in the restaurant for some time when he informed the proprietor that he felt ill. P. C. Gillins (1619) was called in from the street and Tenney explained that the officer order a car so that he could get home. The officer's constable who the car was and where he lived, and Mr. Tenney was then taken to the hospital. Mr. Hughes sent a letter to Chairman Johnson, urging that Japan be allowed a quota of immigration just as are countries whose nationals are eligible to citizenship.

Deceased was born in Belleville and was employed in the sale Mr. Tenny's room it was discovered that he had relatives and friends in Belleville, and they have been communicated with. Deceased was a member of the Orangeman's house since the first week in 1923 and was a member of Prince of Wales Lodge, Toronto.

U.E.L. COURIER HOME

Cadet Allan Dempsey, the walking courier, arrived home at his native city on the noon train. He did not walk back, but was given an appropriate reception at the depot. Those who met him were Mayor W. C. Mikel, K.C., Mayor Blakley of Picton, J. Owen Herity, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, Aldermen LaRoche and Sam Treverton, City Engineer Charles D. Campbell and City Auditor Harry Symons.

He was taken to the Rotary luncheon at Meyers Guinte, where he was guest today.

QUESTION OF RELIGION WILL BE DISCUSSED

Y.W.C.A. May Decide in Future To Admit All Creeds

MEET NEEDS OF GIRLS

Religious Restriction Declared to Be Excluding Large Number

(By Mrs. Archibald Davis, Y.W.C.A. membership basis committee.)

New York, May 5—After half a century of its history, based upon membership in churches affiliated with the federal council of churches, the Y.W.C.A. is faced upon the personal privilege. "I desire to enter the Christian fellowship of the association and will loyally endeavor to uphold the purpose in my own life and through my membership in the association?" Or shall membership continue to accept the specifications of the federal council of churches? This is the question to be voted on today.

Modernist Y.W.C.A.

The Y.W.C.A. should meet the needs of the girl in the day in which she lives, not trying to make her over into a pattern of ten or fifteen years ago. Girls are coming to America daily who have known the lifestyle services of the association overseas. They come from countries where the association would welcome them into full membership. They know our ideals and institutions, after they arrive in America, but some of them never come into membership with it. It is a complication which they cannot understand. But a personal privilege translated into their language could be given to them and in one minute they could tell whether they would sign it or not.

Value Church Friendship

To-day we value more highly than ever the friendship of the church. Nevertheless, we realize that the line between the different churches are not so clearly drawn as they were in earlier times, and the question of final test to membership that is both just and practical is increasingly difficult.

A questionnaire sent out to associations throughout the country has revealed the fact that there are some associations which think strictly in the constitutional requirements of the church in the parish and to the letter of the law.

It might be that the many varied bases of membership would hamper the unity of the Y.W.C.A. for all, but for in all of these organizations the spirit of love has been carried out in an actual demonstration of what can be done when every girl in them is a Protestant evangelical church membership basis.

U.E.L. Notes

The Women's Canadian Club are taking a deep interest in the celebration and have offered their services to the executive committee.

An effort is being made to secure a yoke of oxen to take part in the ox-roasting which is to be a feature.

All committees will meet with the executive committee in the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening.

DAUGHERTY IN NEW ATTACK; SOLONS SORE

Criminal Proceedings Threaten as Back Lash Of Action

REPORT ON EVIDENCE

Brookhart Calls for New Light on Details to U.S. Committee

Washington, May 5.—Former Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty was threatened today with prosecution of criminal proceedings before a federal grand jury as a retaliatory move for his effort to obtain an injunction halting the Wheeler Brookhart committee's investigation of the administration in the Department of justice.

Senator Brookhart, Republican of Iowa, requested the committee to-day to prepare a "partial report" on the evidence brought out against Daugherty at the public hearings. Brookhart proposed that this report be submitted to the Senate with a resolution that Harlan Fiske Stone, the new Attorney-General, be requested to lay the testimony before a federal grand jury here for the purpose of starting criminal action against Daugherty.

Strike Back at Both

A majority of the committee, which is dominated by the insurgent Republican-Democratic coalition, was said to favor the prosecuting.

Under the Brookhart plan, the committee would strike back at Daugherty and his brother, Mal. B. Daugherty, who also subpoenaed a temporary injunction stopping all efforts to investigate the records of the bank, the Midland National, at Washington Courthouse, Ohio.

Brookhart contended that if the evidence were laid before a federal grand jury, these records would be subpoenaed from the Mel Daugherty bank and all the signatures sent or received by the former Attorney-General could be scrutinized. The Western Union Telegraph company recently refused to turn these messages over to the committee and Daugherty asked the court to enjoin the company from acting on the subpoenas.

Members Indignant

All members of the committee were indignant at the former Attorney-General's efforts to stop the investigation. Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, termed it an "open confession of guilt."

Driver Has a Narrow Escape

A local man is in the General Hospital suffering from cuts and bruises, and a large touring car which he drove is wrecked, following an accident which occurred on the King's Highway on Saturday night.

Driving eastwards about 11 o'clock, Chine, Ketchesonville reached a point about four miles from Belleville, when the big car skidded on the slippery pavement during a blinding rain storm, and turned a side somersault into the steep ditch, plunging through the soft soil on its left side and overturning.

How the driver escaped serious injury is nothing short of miraculous, judging by the appearance of the wrecked car, which was towed to Rieder's garage, where it was stored shortly after the accident. Ketchesonville was thrown clear from the wreckage after the accident, and though he has been carefully tested, injuries and shock was able to summon assistance. He was later taken to the hospital.

The top of the car was torn off, the left front headlight and fender turned back. The left rear door was torn off and the back of the car on the left side badly stove in. The hub cap of the left rear wheel is torn off. The fact that the frame work of the windshield and the steering wheel held intact, probably saved the driver from crushing injuries.

Arrest of Harry Pepall by Attorney-General Nickle Made to Guarantee His Presence at Hearings next Wednesday—Axe to Fall "Where it Wills"

Toronto, May 5.—Following the announced policy of the Crown to fol low up any lead in the Home Bank and Hon. Peter Smith embroglio, Harry Pepall, manager of the Ameliua Jarvis Company, was placed under arrest Saturday, and admitted to $9,000 bail.

Attorney-General Nickle, in commenting on the case to-day, stated that the principal cause of Pepall's arrest was to ensure his presence at the hearings slated to be held next Wednesday. Other sensations are due to be sprung before and during the hearings, stated Nickle, and the axe will fall, regardless of personalities.

No Charge

Mr. Pepall declared to-day while he had ben taken into custody and placed upon heavy bail bond he wanted to emphasize the fact that there was no charge against him, and the police authorities should be treated as a subpoena.

According to the crown Pepall is a key witness in its case. Before the public accounts committee it was told how he has arranged with the Jarvis company for a commission for his brother, Andy, as all provincial business he might bring to the bank. Evidence has been given probing the Jarvis books and certain accounts have been taken to provincial headquarters to be produced later in the Smith case.

ALL ROTARIANS ATTEND TODAY

Cadet Allan Dempsey, walking Courier, is Club Guest —All Ready for Minstrel Show To-night

Rotarians are busy men to-day. To-night they will be busier, for they will be engaged entertaining the patrons of Griffin's Theatre at the annual edition on minstrelsy, this being their second annual minstrel show.

Though there was no special speaker today at the Rotary luncheon, Rotarian Dy. Day, Leon Walmsley, Al Stillman, Ernie Hall and Jack Wills, however, gave short talks on the trip which local Rotarians recently made to Oshawa, where the Rotary convention was held. Col. W. H. Cluff, who was also present at the Buffalo convention, where he spoke briefly, also spoke, and his address broadcasted over the radio, also gave a short address to-day.

Guests to-day were Mayor Blakley, Picton, Owen Mikel and Cadet W. Allan Dempsey, courier who walked from Belleville to Toronto, and who visited the Rotary club to-day.

Wives of Rotarians who went to Buffalo were also guests to-day.

To-day's luncheon marked the first one hundred per cent attendance at any luncheon since the inception of the club here.

Let there be harmony in things economical—liberty in things not economical—liberty to all.

A NATURAL REACTION

In repudiating the preferential tariff policy adopted by the Imperial Conference, and declaring against a system of imperial preferential trade, the Labor Government of Britain consulted what is believed to be the interests of the British people only. "It is not our business to cultivate the trade with the Dominions any more than with foreign countries. We will do what we think best for British trade generally; let each of the Dominion follow our example if they like." That is the position of the present British Government, and it will probably be found to be the position of the House of Commons. It is not the position of any of the Dominion Governments. All of them have favored the policy of preferential trade within the Empire; all have put their faith into practice by extending tariff preferences to Britain, in the belief that the policy of imperial preference would yet be embraced by the Mother Country. Now that the policy has been officially repudiated by the British Government, the reaction which was inevitable is already being manifested. The reaction is natural.

The Capetown correspondent of the London Times reports that sentiment in South Africa is rapidly developing against any further attempts to cultivate trade between that and the Dominions on a preferential basis. "Britain cares nothing for the empire, and thinks only whether her breakfast pork is cheaper," is one of the opinions quoted. The result," says the correspondent, "will certainly be a movement for a revision of the preference to Britain." In Australia public opinion is moving in the same direction. It is taken form in a definite proposal by the Australian premier, Mr. Bruce. "We cannot continue to offer advantages in our markets to British manufacturers unless we get some response from Great Britain, seeing that she is not prepared to give benefits to us equivalent to the benefits we are offering her," declares the Prime Minister of Australia.

No such utterance as that can be expected from the head of the present Canadian Government, and no action in the direction of a revision of the preferential schedules in our tariff need be looked for at present, for such a revision would be out of harmony with the policy of free trade toward which the Government has set its face, and would alienate Progressive support. But in the country the sentiment which has manifested itself in the other Dominions will develop, and it will be certain to express an issue in the next general elections.

STATE AID FOR MOTHERS

Women of the Labor League have joined in the movement that is steadily gaining, for endowed maternity. During the past few years interest in this has quickly increased. But other countries, notably France and the sister Dominions, Australia and New Zealand are ahead of Canada, for there the proposals have taken definited shape in Government projects.

In France Greek immigrants, have insist that they be hand-picked. That is because we now admit who will become one with us; in short, Canadians. We have as our ideal a race, a Nordic people, distinctive and achieving. Then surely we can have no greater human asset than the children who are born on Canadian soil, to say in future years: "This is my native land."

It is humanity's instinct to propagate its species, and in us is a vision always of a higher standard. Posterity is a privilege; how better serve it than by recognition of motherhood for what it is, a sacred and fundamental resource. The State willingly spends to conserve its forests, its wild game, its scenic wealth. The health of a mother and the life of a child are infinitely more precious than a tree or a wild animal or a plot in a pleasure resort.

State grants for maternity present a subject of widest possibility. It is both economic and sentimental; both the two phases are dynamic and closely associated. If we accept either one—and we find we must—then we must consider both. It would be hard indeed to find a more worthy cause for Government research.

SOME JOB, AT THAT

Miss Mary Pickford goes to Paris, buys a dozen or so new frocks without asking the price, and the news is put on the cable at once. That is good business for the big press associations, and they and the telegraph editors of the world's newspapers know that Mary is always good copy. The people want to read about her.

Lots of women, when they hear of these Paris gowns will say, "I wish I could do that." But none of them begrudges Mary her privilege. They will say she has earned it, for being a film favorite for as many years as the little Toronto girl who became America's sweetheart, and never lost in favor with the public, isn't an easy job. If you don't believe it, remember the idols of the silver screen who couldn't stand prosperity and have fallen off their pedestals.

PRESS OPINIONS

THE GLORY THAT WAS

(Boston Transcript)

The prospects of the new republic (Greece) cannot be regarded as very promising. Nevertheless, it has the the elements of popular strength, intense patriotism, quick intelligence, practical ability and energy, in its favor. It is too much to expect that matters will go smoothly under the republic, but at least all the friends of Greece will hope that the handicap and disadvantages will be overcome and that republican Hellas will not only enjoy domestic peace but will advance in prosperity and greatness—some day to become the legitimate political heir of the Pericleans and wise Australian lands to rule which the Ottoman Turk has a thousand times proved his unfitness.

REDUCTION IN ACREAGE

(New York Herald).

Not until American farmers have adopted the policy of producing only enough wheat for the domestic market will a tariff be able to afford real protection to them. The advantage of time to bring about a condition in which American wheat farmers will produce for the home market only.

Last year the world took only 216,000,000 bushels of our wheat, including flour, a short 123,000,000 bu. in 1923, and with 360,000,000 in the fiscal year 1920. With the other great wheat producing countries able to grow wheat cheaper than the United States, and with the present great surplus, only a substantial reduction of our wheat acreage is hopeful.

"BIRD'S EYE" MAPLE

(Christmas Timber-Journal)

Workers and students have been speculating for a century concerning the cause of those curious markings known as "bird-eye's," which occasionally adorns a board of maple wood. Some wood men have ascribed the markings to the activities of woodpeckers, while the cause of this freak it was that the "birds-eye" were the traces of dormant buds or shoots. Research into this subject at the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada (Dominion Forestry Branch) points to the conclusion that "bird-eye" maple owes its curious and attractive appearance to the action of a minute parasitic fungus which lives in the growing tissues of the tree. If this opinion is correct, the appearance of bird-eye maple is artificial means it is not possible to be outside the bound of possibility.

(Wall Street Journal)

Then all over the world German cops and spies say: "Tell the franc down!" "France must go bankrupt like Germany." And the bulls finde her ally in England and America, and, under the leadership of Premier of Morocco! All honor to England and Mr. Grinnell-Mathews, for "honor to France! (Boston Globe)

(H. Grindell-Mathews, an Englishman, has successfully demonstrated an electric ray which will explode ammunition and stall gasoline motors at a great distance. He will exhibit that which the military gentlemen keep always ahead, there will be new combatants—not one. It will be recalled that a year ago Mr. Grindell-Mathews asked gentlemen were in the habit of mourning over the next war to "Wait for the next time they will have their wish. They will be right at the front. But not this year. And everybody will be consultant. It will be as important to wipe out civilian populations as fighting armies and navies. This is seen how our era of scientific invention as applied to war overwhelms the principle of using to humanity and furthers the aim of human equality. Science is apparently so regulating an electrocution device by a light-ray. Heaven save the peace-lovers. Israel Zangwill, Mr. Grindell-Mathews the Nobel peace prize man.

We've got a brand new bird girl at the club and it's mad well and way she's got the rest backed way off in the shade. At bullds' pies, an artist, an' her cakes. Oh but Ezek has a beauty poen I'm right here to testify. An Angel Food as light as air with crust of golden brown, composed by our new hired girl ain't equalled this town. I don't know where she learned the art of cookin' but I'll say that lately we've been havin' our dessert three times a day. The whole police force of our town'd stope in most ever night, he's taken quite a fancy to our girl, but that's alright. She likes to have his company an' he likes things to eat an' she ain't hard to look at, fact I'd say she's purty neat. Since she is such an artist in the kitchen we have tried by every way that's possible to keep her satisfied. In line with this the other night as an experiment my self-same appealed to her artistic temperament. While gay Brass Buttons was whispered them sweet nothings in her ear he had as his appointments a phonograph "in loud an' clear. An' now I wonder if by chance I over-did the thing me-knowin' how a phonograph is a fancy fickle scene to spring.—Copyright, 1924, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.

WEEK OF MAY 4, 1924—WGY—General Electric Company—790 Kilocycles (380 Meters)—Eastern Standard Time.

By special arrangement with H. H. Frazee, producer, and Oliver White, author, the WGY Players are privileged to present "Dangerous People," a three-act crook comedy by white, which will be broadcast by WGY from the road preparatory to a New York premier. The WGY Players will present "Dangerous People," Friday evening, May 9, at Keith's Albany vaudeville time. The play calls for cast of but five people and is especially adapted to radio production.

An interesting orchestral novelty will be offered by the General Electric Company Station, Tuesday evening, May 6, when Mondolfo Symphonic Orchestra will play. All are German musicians and the old world ensemble will include a symphonette which corresponds to a large sized concertina, a bandoneon, or harp concertina, and flute, clarinet, violen and cello.

The Albany Symphonic Choral Club of Amsterdam will be heard from WGY, Monday night, May 5. This club, directed by Miss Marian Rose, has previously appeared at the Schenectady studio and received favorable opinions by letter.

CANADA BEATS U.S. AS WHEAT EXPORTER

Effect of American Tariff is That Canadian Product Goes to Foreign Markets

Ottawa.—Returns received here reveal in a striking manner the extent to which Canada is outstripping the United States as a wheat producer. In March the U.S. exported 2,857,710 bushels of wheat, as compared with 6,290,944 for the same month last year. Canada in March exported 13,446,100 bushes as against 6,613,612 bushels in March last year.

During the nine months ending March the United States exported 174,360,474 of wheat as compared with 164,596,303 for the same months in the preceding year. On the other hand the vaue of Canada's exports of wheat during these months jumped from $111,000,000 in 1922-23 to $158,000,000 during these months ending March 1924.

The value of wheat flour, however, exported by the United States during these last nine months was $72,062,-351, an increase of $5,000,000 over that for the same months of the preceding year. Canada's exports of flour during those last nine months were $40,814,302, or $108,000 less than for the same months of the preceding year. It is believed that the United States increased her exports very largely to Germany, which is a better buyer of flour than of wheat.

In fact United States exports of wheat flour during March at 1,425,-905 barrels were only 29,000 more than those of Canada. In the case of the U.S. this was a decrease of 1,000,000 bbls. from that of March, 1923, but in the case of Canada it was an increase of 177,000 barrels.

"You see," explained Max Gassell, professor in question, "as the poem says, she headed him the other way, and it wouldn't do at all to give the students any flimsy justification for the present-day slang expressions."

WHAT T.J. STEWART SAYS ABOUT TARIFF

"If these annual tariff reductions are persisted in I can foresee the day and that not very far distant when our cities will be depopulated . . ."

"The foreign trade of the Canadian manufacturer has been practically wiped out."

"This Government has been decidedly disloyal to the manufacturers of this country."

"Think the farmers of the Province of Ontario are just as hard up as the western ones."

Under the national policy of Sir John A. Macdonald and the reasonable protective policy of Sir Wilfrid Laurier this country grew and prospered."

"The present Prime Minister and his Government in the largeness of their hearts would give all even of our rich heritage, and ask nothing in return."

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS READ BY MR. STEWART

Is it fair to penalize the manufacturer of the raw material for the sake of catering to the entry of American goods into Canada?"

"Depreciated currency is playing havoc with some of our lines."

"We do not see how the lower duties can fail to have a serious and prejudicial effect "

"We will now be entirely obliterated as far as Canadian industry is concerned."

"We have been forced to reduce the number of our employees to a lower point than at any time during the past six or eight years."

"This action of lowering the tariff is much more detrimental to the development of Canadian industry and to Hamilton than to the investors and owners of the corporation."

"Today it is impossible to get any new capital invested in industrial business."

Leap Year Proposal Wins Rich Beggar Husbands for Girls Asked to Quit Home

Chicago, May 5.—Investigation by the authorities was to be asked today of the circumstances under which two girls in their teens, Margaret Hollberg, 13, and her sister, Hattie, 15, were married to street beggars, one of them with paralysis, shrivelled legs, the other with no legs at all.

That the seeming beggars earn thousands in the course of a year and that both the brides and their parents appear satisfied with the marriage is of no account in consideration by those asking the investigation.

According to the story, the sisters were told by their mother, Mrs. Eyre Hellberg, wife of a painter, that the three-room cottage which was their home was entirely too small for a family of 16 and that they should seek husbands and homes elsewhere.

Piqued, She Proposes

Piqued, Margaret proposed to Carl Farmer, 24, whom she had noticed daily on a street corner, seated on a tiny board upon which, proffering pencils and chewing gum to passers-by and asking alms. He accepted and despite the physical handicap, passed the censorship of Mrs. Hellberg. Then it was that he revealed that far from being a pauper, he averaged about $150 a week from the charitable.

Following his marriage to Margaret, he introduced Hattie to another beggar, an Italian, in even more pitiable condition, for Chesnah Kichi, 34, was paralyzed from the waist down.

To "Work" in Taxicab

Kichi and Hattie were married soon afterward. He said all "cars average more than Farmer, his daily receipts averaging more than $50.

The wives take their husbands to "work" each day in a taxicab, station them on street corners and visit them every half-hour to relieve them of their money, lest they be arrested with too much on them.

"We're perfectly happy," declared young Mrs. Farmer today. "We gave my mother $10 a week to help with the other kids but most of our money is being saved to buy a bungalow. I don't see why anyone wants to stick their nose into our business."

Her sister expressed similar views.

GUILTY, SAYS GIRL TO PROTECT FRIEND

Bakersfield, Cal., May 5.—Charged by officers with having been the leader of a bandit gang that held up and robbed the state bank at Taft, Cal., March 3, of $5000, after locking bank employes in a vault, 19-year-old Elenor Walling, bobbed hair and khaki clad, appeared in court today to plead guilty.

Miss Walling, an accomplished violinist, although confessing her part in the holdup and leading officers to the hiding place of the major portion of the loot, steadfastly refused to name her companions in the holdup.

To Protect Friend

"I am pleading guilty today to protect an innocent girl friend who declared in an exclusive interview.

"I have a record. I was every case. I thought myself smart, but my friends finally broke me.

"I intend going straight. There is no chance to beat the other game. It's two to one against you.

"You ask if bobbed hair and men's clothing led to masculine women. The hair cut and the clothes make no difference. The difference is purely mental."

Will Finish Music

"I'm going to wipe the slate clean through a term in San Quentin. I intend finishing music and taking a course in show card writing. I have a position offered me as soon as I am free.

"Yes, I believe it will not be long before women will lead criminal gangs. Women have more nerve and they are more artistic in their plans than men.

"Low wages turn girls to easy money. Some offered me $5000 to go over. Give girls an equal chance with us and they will show it."

WEDDING BELLS

CUMMINGS—LLOYD

A quiet wedding was solemnized in Christ Church on Saturday morning at eleven o'clock when Gertrude L. Lloyd and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lloyd, became the bride of Mr. Wilfred D. Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Cummings, Toronto, Rev. C. E. Clark officiating.

The bride who was unattended wore a navy blue poiret twill suit, with hat to match, and pink neck piece, the gift of the groom, and corsage bouquet of roses. After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents, after which the happy couple left for a trip to the Coast.

STIRLING LODGE 105 YEARS OLD

On Sunday afternoon the members of Stirling Lodge No. 229 I. O. O. F. celebrated the 105th anniversary of the founding of the Order by attending Divine Service at St. John's Anglican Church. They were accompanied by a number of visiting brothers from Belleville, Marysb, Tweed, Campbellford, Frankford, Springbrook and Caledonia, N.S. The regular service was conducted by Bro. Rev. B. F. Byers, assisted by Mr. D. A. Carscallen. Well known hymns were sung "Onward Christian Soldiers", "Rock of Ages", "Safe in the Post", "O God of Bethel by Whose Hand", and "Into the Hills". During the offertory the choir sang the anthem "Why Seek ye the Living among the Dead", the solo being taken by Mrs. Dr. Potts. Miss M. Hallowell and Mr. R. A. Sutcliffe. The Rector took as the first of his sermon text of the 2nd verse of the 11th Chapter of Luke.

The preacher said that the words "Thy Kingdom" denote the Fatherhood of God, and that means all men are brothers that is one of the outstanding teachings of Oddfellowship.

The services were held under ideal weather conditions which accounted for the large attendance. Members of various Lodges were also present.

WHAT INFLUENCED LINCOLN

According to Abraham Lincoln's biographers he had but six books to read in his boyhood, and these he perused over until he had absorbed them very nearsave. First on this tiny list came his beloved Bible. Numberless quotations and references in his speeches were drawn from it, showing what a marked influence it had upon his mind. Surely his whole life and deeds forcibly exemplified the Bible's teachings.

Lincoln's Bible had no such helpful pages of essays, references and explanatory information as are incorporated in the Big Print Red Letter Bible, nor was his Bible printed in such beautifully clear type. Bookmaking in those days had not reached the state of perfection which it has attained today, and even if it had, he was too poor to have been able to purchase any but the most simple copy. We all have word pictures of him in our minds, poring over his books by candlelight. Think, by contrast, what our opportunity is today, and how easy it is to secure the volume being given, by coupon plan, to this paper's readers.

For information as to how to obtain it look in another column of today's paper.

LABOR'S SUNDAY EVENING

Victoria Colonist

Ministers of the Labor government in office in Britain are still retaining the practice of the Independent Labor party and holding Sunday evening political meetings. Mr. Arthur Ponsonby says this is a well-known form of activity in the Labor movement theatres, halls, and picture houses are used for the purpose and seemingly, the workers show great appreciation of this method of spending their Sunday evenings. With the Labor party it is politics without any day of rest.

Peace At All, Costs Is Cry From Women

Washington, May 3.—Women of thirty-three countries outlined their unequivocal opposition to war and belief that there must be peace on earth at all costs, on the occasion of the opening reception of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

In welcoming the delegates Miss Jane Adams recalled that they had met in peace and in war time and through all had maintained ideals of peace.

Mrs. Anna G. Spencer, representing the International Council of Women of which the Canadian local council is a member, promised that the 1925 convention of that body would resolve itself into another powerful women's peace conference.

Organize Opposition

This is the fourth international women's peace meeting, but it is the first time it has been held in the United States, owing to the United States patriotic societies, under the leadership of Mrs.

Noble Newport Potts, is planning organized opposition to the conference, whose members they characterize as pacifistic and socialistic.

Reports were submitted by committees appointed at the international conference in Vienna, 1921, covering a investigation of the possibilities of international women's cooperation toward ending social injustices, examines for the relief of children suffering from war devastation, laws relating to the nationality of married women, cooperation with the League of Nations and a special study of conditions in countries where war is believed imminent.

That slang phrase about giving somebody the "raspberry" is not new.

A professor at the University of Washington has found France Thompson uses "Bah," because he thought it too modern. He objected to the last line of the following verse:

IRELAND MAY STILL ESCAPE CIVIL WAR

No Further Sacrifices, Is Belfast Verdict, With Clash in Sight

Belfast May 3.—Possibility of a clash between Ulster and the Irish Free State over the boundary dispute loomed higher today, although cool heads believe that actual warfare will be averted.

Members of the Provincial Government and Bisley was determined to insure the London Government's proposal for a boundary commission to settle the quarrel.

"The north (Ulster) will not make any further sacrifice, even in the interests of peace," said Minister of Labor Andrews. "We fear that the Free State deliberately sought to widen the breach.

The Free State claiming the portion of Ulster's territory on the ground that the residents are adherents of the Free State Government.

FIRST LEPERS FOR NEW ADDITIONAL BUILDINGS AT CARVILLE, LOUISIANA.

"The first of the additional buildings provided by Congressional Act of February, 1925, to enlarge the National Leper Home at Carville, Louisiana, have been completed and 12 lepers who had been temporarily detained elsewhere were moved to Carville, April 4, Surgeon General Cumming of the U. S. Public Health Service, stated recently.

"The additional buildings all of which are under construction, will be rapidly made available for patients in the order of their completion and it is believed that they will be fully occupied within a few months. Despite population, amounting to $650,000 providing additional beds for approximately 280 patients and increasing the present capacity of the institution by more than 400. The Home, will however, still lack a hospital building proper for the care of the blind, crippled, tuberculous, insane and other classes of patients requiring nursing and highly specialized care. The need for a therapy building where instruction may be given in arts and crafts and other diversional employment, is also felt by the patients of both sexes, who necessarily require some employment of amusement in this place where they are confined for life or until they recover."

A MATERNAL EXAMPLE

(London Out, Free Press)

Despite business depression industrial unrest, economic difficulties, chaos in Europe and political uncertainty. The Government of the United Kingdom has a balance on the right side of the budget of nearly $250,000,000 which will be applied to the reduction of the national debt. By what process of financial wizardry has Great Britain accomplished this feat? By the simple expedient of pruning expenditures to the bone and curtail economy. While the Civil Service today in Canada is tremendously larger than before the war, yet in Great Britain it is within 10 per cent of the size of 1914. Great Britain has set an example for the world in governmental finance.

Who won the Eber-Mayberry fight? If you try to tell a bunch of Mayberry supporters that Mrs. Eber's fightin' husband should have received the decision you'll be lucky to escape with a pair of "shiners."

Covering First

A fast man and a left-handed hitter is at the bat. He hits a slow ball between the pitcher and first baseman. Who should cover first base?

This play comes up quite frequently and many times it is possible for the second baseman to field the ball and for the first baseman to cover the bag. In the majority of times, the first baseman fields the ball and the pitcher runs for first base at full speed in order to cover it, and he takes an underhand toss from the first baseman which is timed so as to reach the pitcher just as he touches the bag, or even better, just a little before he reaches the bag.

This is a play which causes a great deal of trouble to pitchers, and it is well for teams to have it down pat.

St. Louis clubs have only one park between them. Browns have temporarily solved dilemma by parking in cellar.

Times Do Change

Last year Giant pitchers were scarcer than honest Congressmen. This year John McGraw has so many of them that he could lend-five or six to the army and still have enough to go 'round.

Babe Ruth was kept out of the game.

The Red Sox laughed in glee;

But undismayed, the Yanks stepped out.

And beat them, Ruthlessly.

Young Stribling knocked out fight heavyweight champion of U.S. Navy. Now let's see Joe Beckett step up and lick the champ of the Swiss Navy.

Firpo now declares he won't fight Romero-Rojas. This is tough on fish fans, but should be good news for Romero.

New York reformers are all worked up because one minister is a fight promoter. That's nothing—any minister who performs marriage ceremonies is a fight promoter.

They All Lose

Sarazen, Mitz, W. K. Vanderbilt's Kentucky Derby entrant, which was unbeaten last year as a two-year-old, sustained defeat for the first time in the Lynnbrook Handicap at the Jamaica course. HILLCRESTS AND OSLERS WINNERS

Athenaeums and St. Andrews Are Losers in Interesting Opening Games

Toronto, May 5.—Hillcrests, last season's city champions, and Oslers, won the Hampden Park League opening games yesterday, the former downing Athenaeums 2 to 0, while St. Andrew's finished on the short end of an 8 to 2 count against Frederick Hamilton's Osgoode club. The second game was called in the sixth when it commenced to rain.

Athenaeums, though beaten in their first start, looked a better team than the one Bill Herman had last year. McCarroll, the new shortstop, attracted attention. He handled four chances in faultless style and on his first appearance at bat hammered out a double. In the latter he came to bat with the bases loaded and lifted the ball over the right field fence, but it was foul by inches. The blow if it had been fair would have tied the score.

Veteran Still Good

The veteran Walter Franks turned in a sparkling game, handling eleven chances at first without a miss and helping himself to two hits. Mercer at third, in his debut in senior company, slammed out two hits, one a double and retired the batter on his only chance. Denison started well, scoring three runs and having a perfect average at bat, knocking out two hits, one a triple which was made off the first ball that Greer tossed to him.

Booth's efforts in the first inning and his error in the second after Lobb had tripled gave Hillcrests five of the seven runs they scored in the first two innings. Pitcher replaced Booth and Shaw erected him with a double, but after that he hurled alright ball till the sixth, when two hits, coupled with an error, put across two tallies and cemented the game for Hillcrests.

BUSINESS MENS' VOLLEY BALL TEAM BREAK INTO WIN COLUMN

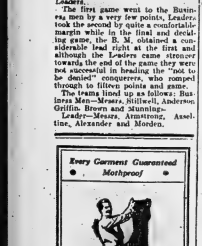

The Builders Mens' team No. 1, won their first game of the series to date from the Leaders when they met the latter in a postponed volley-ball fixture at the Y. Gymnasium Saturday night. The Business deserved a win on the night's play as they were much steadier and less erratic than the Leaders.

The first game went to the Business men by a very few points, Leaders took the second by quite a comfortable margin while in the final and deciding game, the B. M. obtained a considerable lead right at the first and although the Leaders came strenuous towards the end of the game they were not successful in beating the "nut to be denied" conquerors, who romped through to fifteen points and game.

The teams lined up as follows: Business Men—Messrs. Hilliard, Anderson, Griffin, Brown and Munning.

Leader—Messrs. Armstrong, Asseline, Alexander and Morden.

ON THE ALLEYS

At the Recreation Alleys on Saturday night a game of unusual interest took place between two teams of lady bowlers from Toronto and two local teams. The Belleville No. 1 team, losing by 9 pins and No. 1 team won by 468 pins. On the total score the local ladies rolled 2856 against the Queen City 2405.

The Toronto girls bowling on strange alleys couldn't seem to get going, nearly all of them having a nice delivery and taking a long run. The local ladies outside of two have only been bowling the last three weeks and put up a nice game for the length of time they have been playing. For No. 1 teams Mrs. Duff and Miss Hughes were high, while for the second teams Miss Rouhan and Miss MacDonald were leading. Players and scores:

OSHAWA NINE HOLD STROLLERS

Webster, the Oshawa Heavier Shows Ability But Dainty's Services Were Necessary

Oshawa, Ont., May 5.—Strollers, of Toronto Riverside League, and Oshawa, Central Ontario League, played nine innings of baseball to a 5-6 tie at Alexandra Park on Saturday afternoon before one of the smallest crowds that ever attended an exhibition game, and the rabid fans who did turn out were treated to a pitchers' battle royal. During the early workouts of the teams two casualties were entered on the afternoon's program. A young lad named Hall had his nose broken when a wild liner struck him by the Oshawa first base-man, striking the youngster full in the face, and he was taken to the General Hospital. The other happened to Jack Yare, who was asked to do the leaving for the Strollers.

While pacing through the warming-up process before the game Yate injured his pitching arm, and he was relegated under the blankets by the team manager, until, Morrie, the youthful pitcher, was sent in to do the leaving for the Strollers. After the first three frames in which he issued two walks and was touched up for one hit, two of which went for extra bases, five runs being the result, he settled down and held Oshawa scoreless up to the eighth, when they pushed their last run over the pan.

Webster, the Broadway right-handed recruit, made his debut before the hands full of spectators, and he showed enough to warrant the local management giving him a regular job on the Oshawa baseball staff, allowing only three hits in the five frames he worked, in the second, third, two in the fifth, and only one run, which came in the second, when Johnny Stroller's first socker, clouted one for the circuit.

Morrison, who replaced him, got by in the sixth and in the seventh, after four runs were scored, the result of two walks and four clean hits, he was yanked, and Dainty was rushed to the rescue, and the Duke held the Queen City lads to one run for the balance of the game. The line-ups were:

Strollers—Dainty, p.; Boland, rf.; Downing, 2b.; Mitchell, lf.; Hoose, c.; Ashton, 3b.; Reading, 1b.; Yeomans, cf.; Morris, ss; Reid, 3b.; Dillon, lf.

Oshawa—Roddick, lf.; W. Fair, 2b.; Murray, 3b.; Tyson, c.; Dainty, rf. and p.; Wilcox, lb.; Morrison, ss. and p.; R. Fair, cf.; Webster, p.; Ward, ss.

Score by innings:

Strollers	0	1	0 0 0 5 0 0 0 0 0	6	9	3
Oshawa	3	1	1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0	5	7	3

Umpires—Roy Morgan at plate; "Si" Bell on bases; both of Oshawa.

Greatest Of All Fights

New York.—Tex Rickard today declared that there was nothing pretentious about his announcement of the Willis-Dempsey business for Sept. 6, in reply to statements, freely aired during the last 24 hours, that the champion had not signed a contract and might not do so. According to Rickard, he has a word of mouth agreement with the firm of Dempsey and Kearns, covering every detail of the proposed enterprise and sees not the slightest reason to concern himself on that score or any other.

"Dempsey will sign when the time comes," quoth our Mr. Rickard. "I arranged everything with Jack Kearns when he was here, last, and as far as I am concerned Kearns' word is his bond. I don't know whether I will even send them a contract, because I am satisfied that the champion will sign without a murmur when he reports and is ready.

In other words, the crop is planted and soon the harvest moon will shine, clear and golden, over Mr. Rickard's North Boundary. He has engaged a firm of engineers to reconstruct the interior at Boyle's Thirty Acres and work on the roadway will be started next week.

This has been done, not because Tex wants to be "alone" in the arena as is, but merely to placate those fight customers who went so far as to intimate that they might be ceased out of allignment on occasions when Willis and Firpo mix it up.

Best Fight Ever—"Tex"

Like the Barnum estimate of Mark Twain's death, Mr. Rickard regards the Dempsey-Willis as being greatly exaggerated, but he says he is sure to the tomers' wishes and will not have it said that one of them pulled for a win in a cradle instead of a prune fight.

"I want everyone to go to see Dempsey-Willis fight feeling safe," he said. "It will be the greatest fight in the history of the ring, and I think by the time it is over everyone will be satisfied that he got his money's worth, both in comfort and in thrills. I think it will be one of those quick-decision fights, like the Dempsey-Firpo bout last summer but this time I expect to see a championship (no-hoo) in the rear. They will see just as much as they paid for from top-price seats. Mark my words: the Dempsey-Willis fight will create a new epoch in ring history.

"I will make my reputation as a promoter on the prediction that it will be the greatest fight of all time."

Kearns Says It's On

Los Angeles.—Confirmation of Tex Rickard's announcement that Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion will meet Harry Willis, Los Angeles fighter, in Jersey City, next September, was given out by Jack Kearns, the titleholder's manager.

Kearns said that the letter the Willis bout was all "news" to-him, but later he announced that "the fight is on".

ORIOLES OPEN WITH LEAFS TODAY

Toronto, May 5.—Jack Dunn and his fighting Baltimore Orioles, who won the four-game series with the Leafs at the Island this afternoon. They play a single game to-morrow, with two games on Wednesday, when Judge Landis, High Commissioner of Baseball, will be the guest of Frederick Lol Smith, of the Toronto Club. With warmer weather due, the series with the Birds promises to be a popular one. Townsend, Baltimore gamest always, are Dan Hawley announced that he would start Jeffy Faulkner, his young southpaw, who gives promise of developing into a great pitcher, against the Orioles in the second game. Dunner myself and Groves, which will make the game a battle of southpaws. Gilhooley will likely be back in the game for the Leafs, and Manager Hawley will have his team at full strength.

Twenty-seven Orioles

The Orioles arrived from Buffalo Sunday night, 27 players being in the squad. Dunn's team has not played a game since the Toronto series in Baltimore, which ended a week ago to-day. The Birds were scheduled to open in Buffalo on Wednesday, but rain interfered, and one thing happening Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The players should be here for baseball, and the fans should see them on their race to-day.

Baltimore has several new players this season, Bonnie Skeeby, the redhead first baseman, played the position during the Orioles' last visit to the Island in 1923. He has developed into one of the best first basemen in the league, be's a fine fielder and a hard hitter.

Porter at Second Base

Dick Porter, who filled the utility roll for two seasons, has replaced Max Bishop at second, the latter having been sold to the Athletics, but Joe Boley is still the shortstopper, and the veteran, Fritz Maisel, a brother of George, is guarding the difficult corner as good as ever. Otis Lawry, Merlin Jacobson and Pitt are the outfielders. The first two have been with the champions for years, while Pitt was secured from Rochester near the end of the season, and finished well for two months.

SEES MARRIAGES AS FORTUNE HELPS

Queen Marie of Rumania Wants More Diplomacy In Matches

Berlin.—German newspapers comment on the fact that Queen Marie of Rumania has recognized ex-Queen Sophie of Greece as the head of the Hohenzollern family, and ignored William of Doorn in her efforts to find ways and means of matching up the fortunes of Europe's dislodged sovereigns. This she would accomplish by marrying off her two remaining single children in such a way as to bring about better relations between the thrones that have survived the upheavals of the great war.

Experienced Matchmaker

In visiting Sophie, sister of the former emperor, and seeking her help in arranging a match between Princess Nicholas of Rumania, and Princess Mafalda of Italy, Queen Marie is appealing to an experienced matchmaker. If Queen Marie can effect the marriage of her son and the daughter of the Italian king, she will have achieved a union which will link up the interests of her country with Belgium and Italy and compensate in a way, for the expulsion of King George of Greece, whose wife is a daughter of Queen Marie.

The Italian crown prince is supposed to be destined to marry the daughter of King Albert of Belgium, and the Belgian crown prince in turn is supposed to be betrothed to Princess Giovanna, daughter of the Italian king. As Marie's daughter is married to the King of Jugoslavia, whose relations with Italy are badly strained, the Rumanian queen hopes to better relations between Italy and Jugoslavia by her matchmaking plans.

Germans Involved

Marie's husband, King Ferdinand, whose name is seldom mentioned in Rumanian affairs, is a Hohenzollern, a descendant of Belgium, was a Bavarian princess, and King Albert is the son of a Hohenzollern princess. Consequently the former reigning family of Germany is much involved by blood in the matrimonial plans which the queen of Europe are working out for their children.

ADVERTISE IN THE INTELLIGENCER

That Body of Yours

By Iona W. Burton, M.D.

DO ATHLETES DIE YOUNG?

You have read from time to time that athletes die young, that they have a higher rate of mortality than non athletes.

Just so often you have read articles also based on statistics, showing that the athletes as a class live longer than those not athletes in their youth.

When the Surveyor General of the United States Navy produces figures depicting the life of the naval officers from boys in their teens up to the age of sixty-two, you can't ignore them.

He states that officers noted for their athletic prowess during their student life at the Naval Academy, were breaking down sooner than the non-athletic cadets.

On the other hand Dr. Anderson of Yale reports, that after investigating the causes of death, of all students who have graduated during the past fifty years, that the mortality amongst the athletes was just about half that of the non-athletes.

Now what are you going to do with two statements, so directly opposed to one another?

I don't believe the ordinary athletics along this line can give you much choice.

For instance you'd naturally expect men who were prominent in athletics, who had won their color, would be of superior physique—but this is not so. Were and should result illness much earlier than one of poor physique. In other words the athletes are practically picked men. On the other hand, the non athletes would not mean just men who did not like or go in for athletics but all the non-athletic participating students of the college.

There would be the men who would not be strong enough to compete for their color. Men who might try for it but were hardly good enough for it. Rather, one man would break his neck or for simply doing a high jump, whilst another would put in months of intensive training at football. One might get his color in baseball, another in boxing, where the training might be light, and another in basket ball which is the hardest on the heart of any other known athletic sport.

Then again, an athlete, who when he graduates, continues to take light exercise, or walk, is in a good deal better shape on himself generally, reality preserves the asset of a good body by means of compartment, good health. The athlete also, immediately on leaving college rides in a motor car, takes no exercise whatever, and yet preserves his big appetite, has made his athletics a liability, because he has a large and strong heart that will be asking in vain for work to keep it from getting flabby, and hence that will put a strain on air to completely fill them, because Nature abhors a vacuum.

A little thought about diet and exercise will give the athlete a little advantage all his life.

JUST A CRYSTAL

At times we hear of crystal set owners hearing stations on many miles away that tubes seem to be a needless indulgence. When the records are examined carefully, it is usually found a mistake made and, with regret, the tube set is again turned to. When the crystals in Winnipeg, confided to their owners the information that "This is KYW", reporting the starting fact is as loud a tone as though the local station was announcing, excitement ran high. But it was the local station CKY relaying Chicago's program. A crystals a crystal after all. Without it, where would radio-phone be to-day though?

Eye Comfort and what it means

It means the ability to do close work for reasonable lengths of time, and to see well in the distance without any undue strain on the eyes. Freedom from eye strain means freedom from headaches and many other ills that come as a result of it. So that eye comfort means more than freedom from pains in the eyes. A CAREFUL BUYER

A pale, dignified-looking gentleman entered a druggist's shop which was doing a brisk business and asked the young lady assistant if they sold stamps there. The young lady, with pleasure, said they admitted that they did. She was a little surprised, however, at his next question: "What sort of stamps do you keep?"

"All the values from a cent upwards," intimated that he would like to look at some one-cent ones.

The lady produced one of the sorts which herself always purchased in dozens as a matter of course and spread it out on the counter before him.

"There you are, sir," she said, "if you want more, there are plenty."

The customer appeared dazzled with the display and seemed unable to take his eye off the stamps. He looked and looked, and then, after a long, long, careful examination, which had compelled the young lady to put on a new, fresh pointed to a stamp in the middle, and said: "I think I'll have that one please."

Clean Kidneys By Drinking Lots of Water

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS IF BLADDER BOTHERS OR BACK HURTS

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, sharp pains, severe headaches, acid stomach constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment backache hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of pure water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then be fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

His work was done, whether for good, or ill. It was done, and he was free to go. But, strange as it may seem, he still lingered. As the body had fancied him, so did the spot on which it had lain, and he could not stand it. Mechanically he raised the broken watch, had been crushed by their footsteps and the fallen man, then slowly, as in a dream, he replaced the watch, and took in the horrible pool, he stole away.

"To say that he felt the mark of Cain upon his brow is to say a hackneyed and obvious thing; but, for very certain, Selby Layton felt that he was different man to the man who had ridden into that same wood an hour ago. He felt as if something had gone out of his life. Something that would never come back, that sense of confidence and security which belongs to the man who had kept within the pale of the law. And in its place another feeling had entered, something which would never go; a dull and heavy, remorseful terror which hung upon his soul like lead.

His oppression was so awful that he thought of flight. He would leave England—Yes; and rouse suspicions if Denzil were missed! He fought against the desire to fly, fought fiercely, until a kind of passionate resentment of his weakness took possession of him. The sight of the Towers nerved him for parting.

"No, I'll stay!" he muttered, between his clenched teeth. "I'll stay and win what I've fought and paid for. What a price, my God, what a price! And I'm to give up the prize, and let the cur go for nothing! No, I've raised the gallows to-night to set you, and I'll have what I've paid for. And enjoy it. There shall be none of the remorse that the idiots of novelists and poets moan-et about. The brute deserved to die—he had threatened my life, would have killed me to-night if I hadn't been too quick for him—he deserved to die, and I did the public a service in ridding it of a wretch who, for all I know, was related with blood, but I mean it upon a thousand pounds, five hundred a year to hold his tongue.

He stopped dead short as he muttered the words and has been worked with sharp terror; for he remembered that he had left the cheque signed with the name in the dead man's trouser's pocket, and that the memorandum, the promise to pay, and the stylographic pen were lying in the bushes.

He made a step back and got the piece of paper and the pen. He must. He turned, but his soul revolted. He could not go back to-night. He should break down, go mad, if he saw the spot again that night. He would wait until to-morrow—no, to-day after the sun rose and the pen must have fallen under the bushes or he would be suspected at once; and no one was likely to discover it.

With a sickening shaking of the heart, he made his way out of the woods to the road, and began the weary, monotonous pace of going straight to that part of the terrace from which he had started, he was a decent distance from the high road.

He sauntered along the road, going away from the house for half a mile, then, in a casual, unconcerned way, and carefully examined his boots. They were wet, but the blue was not and would satisfactorily account for the moisture. There was no trace of blood upon him; he made himself certain of that fact. He came seeing him, as he walked along leisurely, smoking his cigar, and Selby Layton's heart almost would suspect him of having committed—

"It was not murder!" he told himself. "It was self-defence; it was justifiable homicide, nothing worse."

He laid this flattering unction to his soul as he stereotyped, using to name the remorse which brooded over him. He really began to think he was right.

He was kept by one of the gardeners, named Hallett, and as he was leaning against the open door smoking a pipe. He touched his cap and bade him open it.

"A fine night, sir," he said, touching his forehead.

"Yes, beautiful," responded Selby Layton. He was surprised by the evenness, the composure of his tone; as if he had his voice always under control, thank Heaven! He stopped and looked up at the sky apparently admiring it.

"It is so fine that I was tempted o go for a stroll."

"Yes, sir; it's a glorious night for a walk," said the man.

"Yes, it is indeed. I have been quite a long way—as far as Hawksmead—and was quite reluctant to turn. But it is getting late, I see, and I've had a walk. That half-past ten, I see."

"It might it had struck eleven, sir," remarked the man.

"No, it is only just past the half hour. My watch is an excellent one—it has been a friend for years—and keeps accurate time. How early you are, Hallett! Take a cigar, Hallett."

He offered his case, and the man took a cigar with profuse thanks and much touching of forehead.

"Thank a pretty bit of road, by the Layton, having at last got the wee bash to go and inclined for a chat. "I've often admired it, but I suppose you're used to it, by now. I mean by those big elms. Do you mean a light?" He offered his match-box.

"Thank you, sir. Yes, it is very pretty. Sir Richard's grandfather planted them trees, and they're very much admired."

"I will! I must be going in," said Selby Layton. "Good night, Hallett."

"Good night, and thank you, sir," responded Hallett.

Selby Layton sauntered on. His heart was throbbing heavily; there was a pain at his temple as if—as if some one had struck him a blow there; but he walked on leisurely, and he began to burn the air he had sung in the drawing-room that night. But was it really he who had sung it, and was it only that night? It seemed to him that it was quite a different person, and that

Buddhist Nuns Seek Escape From Celibacy

National Meeting Will Decide Interesting Question

Tokio.—The Buddhist nuns of Japan want to escape from the state of enforced celibacy in which they live. There is to be a national meeting in Kioto shortly or nuns of all Buddhist sects, and this question is expected to evoke the liveliest discussion. The nuns say that the priests of nearly all sects now are permitted to marry.

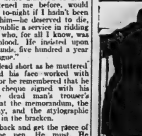

The movement against celibacy is fostered by the 2000 nuns of the powerful Zenkoji Temple at Nagano which will send a delegation of 150 to the national meeting to support their measure.

STREET CAR MEN CONFER

Syracuse, N.Y., May 5.—A committee representing trolley workers employed by the New York State Railways in Syracuse, Utica and Rochester, planned to confer this afternoon with James F. Hamilton, general manager of the corporation, on the proposal of the trolley men's union for a 44-hour forty-two and better working conditions.

Give the children WRIGLEY'S after every meal

A prominent physician says:
"It is surprising how free from decay the teeth can be kept by using gum after each meal."

You know how hard it is to get the children to clean their teeth. By giving them WRIGLEY'S you not only reward them for cleaning their teeth, but that reward is actually the means of performing this important service!

WRIGLEY'S aids digestion too, and acts as an antiseptic wash for the mouth and throat. Several flavors—all of WRIGLEY quality.

PROCATHEDRAL GIVEN CATHEDRAL'S STATUS

Prince Albert, Sask., May 5—With an impressive ceremony, the Church of St. Alban, the procathedral of Prince Albert, was raised last night to the status of a cathedral and its chapter and organization were installed by Right Rev. George Exton Lloyd, D.D., Bishop of Saskatchewan.

Your One Factor of Safety

PROMPT acting brakes are your only curb on the swift flight of your car. Often a few feet of brake lining spells protection—or lack of it.

Stop-Kon Raybestos BRAKE LINING

eases your car to a quick stop, no matter how fast you are travelling. Raybestos-lined brakes insure the perfect brake control at all speeds.

Drive with greater confidence and pleasure. Have your brakes examined—if relining is necessary use Raybestos. A full year's service is guaranteed.

"The Raybestos Way is the Safe Way"

CANADIAN CHAIN

The transcontinental radio chain across Canada will be completed with the erection of broadcasting stations in Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Regina, Edmonton and Calgary, the chain will be operated by the Canadian National railways.

British broadcast listeners will be enabled to listen in on programs from this country once every two weeks, American programs will be received on short wavelengths, and will be retransmitted by the London station on the wave lengths to which the British listeners are accustomed.

Here and There

Earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the last ten days of March amounted to $4,450,000, as compared with $4,313,000 for the corresponding period of last year. This is an increase of $183,000 or 4.2 per cent.

Immigration to Canada during the eleven months ending February, 1924, totalled 138,128, divided as follows: British, 67,023; from the United States, 19,120; from all other countries, 48,072. This compares very favorably with 68,139 for the same period a year ago.

Forty pilgrimages to the famous shrine at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Quebec, have already been arranged for June, July and August this year. Over 200,000 visitors are expected, most of them from Montreal, Toronto, Buffalo, Philadelphia and Chicago, New York and Boston.

Although it has already spent $4,000,000 in drilling, it is still in Alberta without very definite results, the Imperial Oil, Limited, company is keep at its development campaign, so F. J. Wolfe, director of marketing for the concern, states. Already the company's $7,500,000 refinery at Calgary has had the effect of keeping prices down, he says.

An important industrial enterprise is being added to the list in Montreal in the plant of the National Cement Company, which is being constructed in the town of Montreal East on the site of one of the largest deposits of raw material for cement in Canada. The first unit of the plant will have a capacity of 900,000 barrels per annum.

A total of 969 communities in Alberta are now served by the Provincial Government telephone system. The total number of phones served in the system is 25,252, of which 22,260 are exchange phones, 20,284 are rural phones and 1,085 are private party lines and 13,383 are connecting subscribers. There are 264 exchanges in the province, with 301 toll offices and 62 private party lines.

The growing importance of Canada's trade in the Pacific is reflected in the official statistics of the Vancouver Harbor Board for the month of December, 1923, which shows a substantial increase in shipping in that port over the same month in 1922. Total shipping through the port amounted to 434,432 tons, valued at $31,481,125, an increase over December, 1922, of 122,946 in tonnage and $2,103,078, in value.

Ten 10,000 imperial gallon tenders, five now behind the big engines used in the Western mountains, have been completed by the Canadian Locomotive Company, Ltd., Kingston, for the Canadian Pacific Railway at a price of $12,445 each, delivery to start in July and be completed in June this year. These tenders will give more efficient fuel and water service than any others in this country.

During the year 1924, 96 arrivals and departures on the St. Lawrence route, with its different services, to be maintained throughout the summer months by its popular monoclass cabin and Empress class steamers, will constitute the Canadian programme of the Canadian Pacific Railway's steamships. A combined tonnage of 107,000 gross tons will be in operation on the Atlantic under the Company's flag, the largest amount yet assigned by a single line to the trans-Atlantic passenger traffic on the St. Lawrence route.

"Canada's unfavorable trade balance with the United States is more than equaled by her favorable trade balance with the United Kingdom, according to trade figures of the Bureau of Statistics. For the year ending February, Canada's imports from the United States were $502,000,000 and her exports to that country $428,000,000, an excess of imports of $177,000,000. As against this, Canadian exports to the United Kingdom were $350,000,000, and the imports from Britain $153,000,000, a surplus of $200,000,000 on the side of exports.

George Forbes eliminated "IFS" from his Future—

The mortgage payments were easy enough for George Forbes—he had laid down $4,000 cash on a new home and signed a mortgage for the remainder, a matter of $5,000.

But, each time he signed a cheque to meet a payment, the disquieting thought came to him —"Could my wife carry this along without me?"

As time went on, the thought became almost an obsession with George Forbes.

A friend's advice, however, showed him the way out and after investigation, he took out a North American Life Policy for $5,000 to cover the mortgage.

Whether George Forbes' disturbing thoughts were really a premonition will never be known, but the facts are, that less than two years later, he contracted a fatal illness and died within a week.

His foresight was rewarded, for his North American Life Policy freed the home from the mortgage which hung over it and would probably have lost it to his dear ones.

George Forbes' story is not an unusual one and it is wisdom to play safe by insuring mortgaged property. Full information regarding rates, etc., are obtainable from any representative.

QUEBEC HAS POWER ONTARIO IS SHORT

Early Development of St. Lawrence Expected as Re sult of Power Famine

Montreal.—That Quebec is more favorably situated reports somewhat superficially than Eastern Ontario seems evident from negotiations between the Town of Campbellford, Ontario, and the Provincial Government of Quebec. Campbellford is still, believed to be one of the wave favored sites of companies willing to establish a pulp mill. Campbellford is 2,500 h.p. of even famous cheap power can be assured. But the Ontario Hydro-electric Commission is seemingly unable to make up the deficiency without curtailing other supply to other municipalities, and it is possible that this and other industries may come to Quebec where power is easily obtainable at low rates It is anticipated that the situation in Eastern Ontario will bring about early development of at least the Canadian side of the St. Lawrence and some strictly Ontario site on the Ottawa River. Private capitalists in the United States are ready to co-operate with Ontario in the development of the St. Lawrence, but one of the questions involved is the question of power. The Americans would like agi cantic development of 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 h.p., while Canada would prefer to utilize the share of such a large amount of power for some years to come. Yet Canada is unwilling to permit the export of such power to foreign interests except it to aid in Canadian industrial growth

Ottawa Employee Says Tanlac Met Every Test

Lee Tells How It Restored Strength And Overcame Stomach Trouble.

"If I should live to be 100 years old I will always praise Tanlac for the splendid health it has brought me" is the grateful statement of William Lee, 319 St. Andrew St., Ottawa Ont., a well known employee of the Public Works Dept., of this city.

"Nine years of stomach trouble brought me down to only 123 pounds a mere skeleton of myself. I suffered about all the miseries that go with indigestion and got so nervous that many nights I paced the floor and joined for the morning to come.

"Tanlac helped me from the very start and 7 bottles brought back my health and strength and ran my weight up 17 pounds, besides. In fact, I feel as strong and well now as if I had never been sick a day. I will gladly praise Tanlac to anyone wanting to know more about it from me."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Bob Salaries For Bob Hair, Say Officials

Do Not Approve of Shorn Locks at Newcastle, Pa.

Newcastle, Pa.—Despite the nationwide agitation in favor of the abbreviation of woman's crowning glory, the school board of Newcastle, pillars of things as they were, has registered strong disapproval of bobbed hair. Such is the feeling among the members of the board, who consider the use of bloom on back hair as subversive of propriety, that they have taken the extraordinary measure of bobbing the salaries of those female teachers who have had their hair cropped off short. The dictum has gone forth that only those teachers who still adhere to the Psyche knot or pompadour or other means of carrying all their hair with them, are to have their salaries increased by $100 this year. The board has not decided as yet whether those with three feet of hair should be given a bonus.

Simultaneously with this announcement of the board comes the word from several Pennsylvania hospitals that nurses with bobbed hair are looked on with distavor by patients. Patients are said to consider bobbed hair indicative of frivolity, lovality, good health and insouciance. The hospitals will not permit nurses in training to have their hair bobbed except in cases where real nurses are victims of so stupid a necessity as good health.

CANADIAN GIRL HAS SUCCESS ON CONTINENT

Miss Florence Taylor of Yukon Heads All For Diploma

Winnipeg.—A Canadian girl who has recently achieved success abroad is Miss Florence Taylor, of Dawson, Yukon.

The young girl of 19 year, who was educated chiefly in the Yukon, has headed the list of successful candidates in an examination for a Sorbonne diploma, when she competed against students from different parts of Europe whose opportunity for acquiring the French was far greater than hers had been.

The subjects in which she was examined included French literature, foreign history of art, philosophy and others. Both written and examinations are conducted in French. Among the other candidates who passed the examinations with great credit were Sandra Watt, of Victoria, B.C. and Miss Nora Elliott, of Belleville, Ont.

SKIRTS ON WAY UPWARD AGAIN, SAYS FASHION

Costumes Will Be Eight and Ten Inches From Ground

New York.—Along the main streets of the nation the women folk shortly will be parading in sport and street costumes cut to twelve inches from the ground.

This information was gleaned today at the style show of the National Garment Retailers' Association, where fabrics were displayed by 200 fashion manequins.

Retail shows will get the new styles May 19.

It was also learned that at fashionable weddings the rose flowers that bloom in the spring will give way to gay colored satisfy feathers in the bouquets carried by bridesmaids.

Few Immigrants Being Secured From the States

And Big Sums Have Been Spent on Publicity Campaign

LOOKING ELSEWHERE

Ottawa Coming to the Conclusion that if Settlers are to be Secured, Canada Must Look to Eurpoe

Ottawa, May 5—Immigration from the United States during March showed a slump as compared with that for the same month last year, the number of arrivals being only 1,401 as compared with 1,661 for March, 1923, and 2,570 for the same month in 1922.

These figures show that it is becoming increasingly difficult to get settlers from across the line, for these reduced figures follow on the heels of a very strong publicity campaign in the United States which probably cost in the neighborhood of $500,000. For the 10 months ending January it had cost $428,008 or at the rate of $42,000 a month, and yet in spite of the immigration from that quarter falls off.

During the last four fiscal years the Government has spent $1,950,000 on promoting immigration from the United States and during that time the number of immigrants actually secured during that four actually fallen off by one half. During the fiscal year 1920-21 the arrivals from the south were 46,536; in 1921-22 they were 29,345; in 1922-23 they dropped to 22,062 and in the fiscal year just closed to 20,521.

Must Look Elsewhere

All this is going rise to the conclusion that there will have to be a radical change in immigration policy if permanent settlers are to be secured on large numbers. It is known that it is harder to get settlers in the United States than it was before the war, because at that time Canada could offer the newcomer a free homestead, whereas this is now impossible. It is also a fact that during the past few years the United States supplied the largest percentage of homeseekers from other countries; nor was this unnatural, for settlers from the central and western states had farmed under similar conditions to those experienced in Canada.

The changed conditions and the necessity of adopting a policy that will show results in something like direct proportion to the large expenditures that are being made, are forcing to the front proposals that extraordinate interested settlement on a large scale with the cooperation of the British Overseas Settlement setup.

It is realized that Canada hasn't a dollar to waste on immigration any more than she has a dollar to waste on anything else, and that there is no use spending hundreds of thousands a year fishing in waters where the fish are not to be found.

Music & Drama

"In The Palace Of The King," a photoplay adapted from F. Marion Crawford's novel of the Spanish court in the sixteenth century, is at attraction at Griffin's theatre on Wednesday to Saturday.

As in its other current pictures, the Goldwyn company has given Emmett Flynn, the director of "In The Palace Of The King" an exceptionally fine cast. Blanche Sweet, one of the best known leading women of the screen appears as Dolores, the heroine. Edmund Lowe, a comparatively newcomer to the screen but a star favorite of repute, plays Don John, the dashing hero. Pauline Starke, picked by Negri as McMein as the most beautiful woman in the movies, plays Inez, the blond sister of Dolores. Hobart Bosworth has a fine character role as General Mendoza, the stern but lovable parent of the two sisters.

Sinister intrigue and plotting comprise the major portion of the story, and a capable group of bad folks are in the cast, Sam de Grasse, who played the wicked Prince John in "Robin Hood," appears as the villainous King Philip II. The beautiful Aileen Pringle, who, by the way, will play the lead in Elinor Glyn's "Three Weeks," appears in "In The Palace of The King" as Princess Eboli. William V. Mong, as Pérez, the King's private secretary, has a good chance for some of his usual characterizations.

While "In The Palace Of The King" is primarily a photodrama of a powerful and impelling love story. It is also a great spectacle picture, with a tremendous medieval palace and a thrilling battle between the Spaniards and the Moors.

"FLAMING PASSION" REGENT OFFERING

What is said to be the last word in spectacular motion picture production-dramatic motion picture fans at the Regent Theatre when FLAMING PASSION a classic of the screen co-starring Monte Blue and Irene Rich opens today run today. The picture is a screen adaption of the novel of the same name by Kathleen Norris.

The spectacular element is what we have been laying particular stress on, the big kick of the picture being a scene in which the Chicago fire is morphed one of the most spectacular forest fire scenes that has ever been staged. The tremendous scene is photograph, which should be very effective, is a water scene in which we show the breaking of a dam and the thrilling rescue in the roaring rapids.

A fine cast of players have been assembled under the direction of Jack Conway for FLAMING PASSION with Monte Blue and Irene Rich playing the two leading roles; other important players standing out prominently are Marc McDermott, Alec B. Francis, Norma Shearer, Margaret Seddon, John Roche and Otto Hoffman. The novel was adapted for the screen by Sada Cowan.

GET BODY AND CASH

Detroit Bandits Flee as Hundreds Look On; Rob Victim on Way

Detroit, May 5—Bandits after shooting four bullets in the body of Louis Lambert, 26, wealthy real estate dealer and restaurant owner, escaped with his body and $4000 as hundreds of persons looked on.

The robbers, after driving nearly a mile, dumped Lambert's clothing of the $4,000, which he had just drawn from the Peninsular State Bank branch and threw his body into the street. He is dying.

There was no attempt made to rob the Bank.

R. C. Burch, manager of the bank, attempting to rescue Lambert, exchanged shots with the bandits.

VOL. LVI. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, TUESDAY, MAY 6, 1924

USE OF CORBY POWER FAVORED BY CITY

COUNCIL HAS REAL NIGHT OF INDUSTRY

Motion Passed to Ask Legal Advice from Toronto firm Regardiing Sewer and Paving Contracts--Thanks of City Voted to Miss Gwen Lazier and Allan Dempsey for Carrying Messages as Couriers

It was a long and tedious session of the city council last night, lasting until the midnight hour. Owing to committee work previous to the council meeting it was nearly 10 o'clock before the session commenced.

Members present were Mayor Mikel, Aldermen W. R. McCrory, S. H. Trevorton, A. E. LaRoche, R. J. E. Graham, R. Gardiner, A. Robinson, D. A. Ketcheson, A. H. Ketcheson, H. W. Greening, F. D. White, G. E. Foster and W. H. Patterson.

Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

Council went into Committee of the whole on reports, etc. Ald. A. H. Ketcheson in the chair. Many accounts were passed also a number of recommendations including the following.

Building Pump House

Recommended that the tenders for building a suitable and sightly house of pumps be referred to the architects for approval.

Recommended that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to sign and affix the seal thereto on behalf of the corporation of the city of Belleville appropriate prepared by the city solicitor between the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company Ltd and the city relating to improvement of highway leading from Belleville to Corbyville.

Ask Legal Opinion

Recommended that all construction bylaws and other material in connection with the contract for construction of sewers and sidewalks for which debentures are to be issued together with copies of the proposed debentures bylaws be forwarded to Messrs. Tilley and Dale at Toronto for their legal opinion before the debentures are offered for sale.

A request was made for the erection of the old school building on Pinnacle street for the holding of evangelistic services. Ordered to be filed.

The Ontario Motor League wrote the Council relative information as to suitable places in the city for parking cars. Referred to the Board of Works.

Motions

Moved by Ald. Trevorton, seconded by Ald. McCrory, that the municipal Council of the corporation of the City of Belleville extend its thanks to W. H. Ireland, member of the Legislature for the Province of Ontario for his efforts in securing a grant of $500 from the 1924 celebration corporation of 1924 for the purpose of the celebration in June.

Yeas and nays called for resulted as follows:

Yeas--Aldermen Foster, Graham, A. H. Ketcheson, D. A. Ketcheson, LaRoche, McCreary, Patterson, Robinson, Trevorton and White.

Moved by Ald. McCreary, seconded by Ald. Trevorton, that the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville desire to extend the thanks of the Council to Miss Gwendoline Lazier of Belleville for having undertaken to act as a special courier to ride on horse-back from the City of Belleville to the City of Washington, D.C., to carry invitations from the Mayor of the City of Belleville to the Governors of the United States, the British Ambassador at Washington, the Consuls Generers of the District of Columbus, and the heads of diplomatic posts and the Governors of States through which she travelled, to attend the celebration of the 140th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists, to be held at Belleville next week, commencing June 16th, 1924, and also to extend the thanks of the said Council to Mr. Alex. Moore of the Township of Thurlow, County of Hastings, for having given the use of his horse "Tip" for said ride, and also to all persons who have assisted in the sending of said message.

Moved by Ald. McCreary, seconded by Ald. Greening, that the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville do hereby extend its thanks to W. Allan Dempsey for having acted as a special courier in carrying the invitations from the Mayor of the City of Belleville to the Mayor of the City of Toronto, Members of the Toronto City Council, members of the Toronto Premier of Ontario, Members of the Ontario Cabinet, the Acting lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Ontario, and heads of Municipalities between Belleville and Toronto, to attend the celebration Pid the 140th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists to be held in Belleville the week commencing June 16th, 1924.

AGAINST THE BUDGET

Canada in Fair Way to Lose Agricultural Implement Industry

Ottawa, May 6--W. G. Raymond, Liberal, Brantford, will vote against the budget. He said he had informed himself at a forked road and kept to the right for protection and against the left which would lead him into free trade ahoggy.

He had not run on a free trade platform, and had never endorsed the Liberal policy of 1919. If he was a plowing a lonely furrow he would do it with a Brantford plow. Investigating the loss of our lumber twine industry through free trade, he pointed out that we were in a fair way to lose the agricultural implement industry. Strong objection was registered against admitting our industry for free trade experiment. We should have the Tariff Board. Canadian Railways fire material if free trade was a national benefit. What was wanted was 100 per cent. Canadians. We would buy Canadian goods just as Americans buy American goods, not an activism to shut our own productions as was carried out in the West. Next land there, been a more auspicious time to lower duties on implements of production, as the United States had overproduction and would dump into Canada.

Mr. Raymond objected to the Wesley worth amendment as representing the Labor party. Artizans in Canada were protectionists.

He thought we should have an advisory board on the tariff and a non-protective, not exclusions policy, and if this were done he hoped for a return of prosperity.

SPECIAL SERVICES DURING THE WEEK

Rev. W. E. Hodgson, B.A., of Toronto is Speaker for Week--Special Musical Services

Last evening saw the inauguration of a week of special evangelistic services at the Baptist Church. A good congregation greeted the speaker, Rev. W. E. Hodgson, B.A., of the Bible Academy Baptist Church, Toronto, Mr. Hodgson's subject was "Life's Issues."

It is very necessary if we are to understand Him and His Christ as we shall have a vision of God in his majesty and holiness. When we have such a vision we are able to understand ourselves aright and our need of Jesus Christ. Then we shall be right with God and self will come a vision of needs of others and a great call to service for God and man. Mr. Hodgson's address was full of interest to the speaker.

Bright congregational singing led and the meeting with a selection by the male quartet "Moses Stiffgrit" Cook, McKechnie and Faulkner and also duet by Mrs. Forman and Mr. McKechnie were greatly appreciated by all.

The meetings will continue throughout this week the same speaker being present with the special musical numbers each evening.

LOCAL TALENT IS PROVEN OF HIGHEST ORDER

Real Galaxy of Minstrel Stars Delight Large Audience

FOR THE KIDDIES

Singing, Dancing and Vaudeville Sketches at Rotary Show

Belleville Rotary Club second annual Minstrel Show presented last night at Griffin's before a well crowded house as an entertaining show which introduces varied kinds of entertainment. The show runs on a regular minstrel layout, but luckily the singing is of first order. Fared down, made more compact and speeded up, the same production, and it is by $2000 worth of special scenery from Love's Uptown Theatre, Toronto, through the kindness of Rotarian Vaughan Glaser, would be greatly improved.

Plenty of Singing

Oswald Scott makes a very capable interlocutor, and the entire company is quoted for singing ability. They do plenty of it too. The ballads are excellent singers, everyone of them, and their kindness to the audience in the matter of encores, stretched Act 1 over the schedule.

Al. Stillman sings, "Out there in the Sunshine with you" which makes a mighty strong bid for being the pretties song number from overture to ensemble. And Al knows how to do the song justice. "Pal of my Dreams" by Dr. Allan B. Hollister is a pretty song, given a very effective ending which scores. "Jim Hanker sings one of the songs which never grow old, "When you and I were Young Maggie" and with a refrain discussion draws many encores. Fred Hollins in "Bells of the Sea" had every opportunity to show the range of his splendid tenor voice, and he called upon to do it over several times so well does he handle it. Jim Burrows sings "Brown October Ale" (by request) and he ought to, good as ever, which says a very great deal.

Funny End Men

Bert Bell, endman, sings "Dobbin Keep Your Head Up" and receives an ovation. The Bones and Banjo work well and well received, but the best funny song of the production is handed by Kiddo" Day, when as a colored pastor he explains the relationship between bad "niggers" and de Ku Klux Klan. The song is "De Klu Klux are sorry when you of you don't watch out" and it is well handled.

Charlie Dolan sings, "sometimes, not always", which contains two or three surprise choruses, and goes over entertaining.

The one real minstrel song of the show however falls to Albert Wheelert recently returned from the minstrel road, being, "He's Melon Time in Dixie Land", but he "lost the number and didn't seek right "to togue" leading. He appeared to have forgotten the words, but my nitty step dancing after the song.

A Story by Scott

George Dulmage, the long, slim minstrel man, is dead on the "Laughter" and the audience seems to respond wonderfully to his every line of quality. George has a way with him. In fact the whole "performance" which touches upon such matters as U. E. L. celebrations, city councils, Belleville's future, Rotary Club, etc., the whole story Yes George is encored repeatedly.

Howard Clark, Eddie George and Lorne Mitchell are also found wanting also assist with patter.

The Rotary Tabloxes and "Just a song of service" when the club emblem is displayed by the singers, accompanied with lighting effects and fluttering flags, are one of the prettiest features of the show.

The Radio Fog", open Act II. They are Dr. Haffner, Al Stillman, Harry Hoffman and Fred Hollins, singing an excellent Wheeler has a "slick" monologue, which he knows how to handle, and Hollins a funny comedy sketch "Radio" which gives valuable information to radio and boys alike.

Charlie Is Good

Charlie Seymour is back in the bar with new patter, "new clothes", and a decided improvement on last year's effort with his ability as a dietician. Symons can only draw pictures but he does them equally well, and certainly possesses a pattering gift with the crayon.

A Pathetic Sketch

Reg. Hinchey and Ben Robertson are "Kings of the Algerian Harps" and in a pathetic sketch entitled, "Hired and Fired", they have ample opportunity to show their musical wares which they do to a decided advantage. They are good banjoists, and Harold Barrett, owner of a minstrel show, who have used four them, also sings, "O Sole Mio" to advantage. All in all a splendid entertainment. The show closes with a circus baseball

PROVINCE LOSES VALUED MAN IN J.W. CURRY K.C.

Registrar of Deeds Succumbs After Week's Illness of Pneumonia

HAD ACTIVE CAREER

Former Crown Attorney and Member of Legislature for Four Years

Toronto, May 5.--After an illness of a week, James Walter Curry, K.C., Registrar of Deeds for the City of Toronto, died at his home, 193 Madison Avenue, early this morning, death being due to pneumonia. He was in his 66th year.

The late Mr. Curry was born at Port Hope in 1858. He was educated at Port Hope School and Queen's University from which he graduated as Bachelor of Arts. In 1884 he was married to Amy Hay Eyre, of Cobourg. One son, Major Walter Eyre, was killed at Vimy Ridge in April, 1917.

He was called to the bar in 1881, practised A.C. in 1886. For five years he held the position of Crown Attorney of the City of Toronto, resigning in 1906. He was the unsuccessful Liberal candidate for East York in 1905. Mr. Curry was elected for South-east Toronto to the Legislature in 1919. During the last two years a member of the Ontario Legislature although elected as a Liberal he gave a general support to the U.F.O. Government. He was given the appointment as Registrar of Deeds by the Drury Government. Mr. Curry was a member of the National Club, the Ontario Club, and the Wellington County Golf Societies. Fraternally he was a member of the Masonic Order, Orange Order, and the Independent Order of Foresters.

Career in Law

Deceased began his active legal career with the firm of Curry and Wallace, in 1880, but this partnership was dissolved on his assuming the position of Registrar of Deeds on June 1, 1922. He is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Austin, 193 Madison Avenue. Mr. Curry's wife predeceased him several years ago.

The most outstanding incident, perhaps, in his career as Crown Attorney was his wholesale raid upon the bucket shops in this city about 20 years ago. These mushroom brokerage houses had been flourishing for some time, but the action in seizing the books of a number of them, and launching prosecutions dealt them a blow from which the bucket shops did not recover.

He was for many years a well-known criminal lawyer, and took part in many notable court cases.

His Business Ventures

Besides his local activities, Mr. Curry was managing director of the Canadian Club Print and Label Company, in Cobalt, and retained for some time in Cobalt. He was formerly a director of the Henderson Roller Bearing Company, and of the Home Life Association.

COUNCIL VOTES TO AID PLANT TO 'GET GOING'

Local Industry to Be Assisted in Matter of Tax Payment

MUCH PRO AND CON

Motion That Cheque be Held Is Defeated Almost Unanimously

Considerable discussion took place at the City Council meeting last night in regard to the city assisting a new local industry who are behind in the payment of their business tax. The Council decided to assist the concern by adopting the following recommendation:

Recommended that a grant be made to the Anzac Keefer Lumber Company of an amount the equivalent of the upset 1922 business tax, such grant to apply in payment of said taxes in that the tax roll for that year may be returned.

Takes Exception

Ald. J. R. E. Graham thought it was dangerous to put through such a recommend. Whilst he would like to help the company in every way he thought other industries might ask for similar consideration.

Ald. Robinson suggested that the company give a cheque for same and it be held in abeyance for the time being by the tax collector. He moved an amendment to that effect.

Is a Precedent

Ald. Wilkinson--This is a precedent that should not be established. He thought that the Anzac Keefer Company should have paid their business tax and allowed the other taxes to go against the property or land.

Ald. Treverton moved in amendment to the amendment that the Anzac Keefer Lumber Company pay a certain amount monthly until the tax is paid.

Ald. McCreary--The tax collector has made every effort to collect these taxes in this manner and they have not been collected.

Recommendation Adopted

Upon a vote being taken the recommendation was adopted, both amendments being defeated.

On a motion of motions the matter was again brought up. Ald. Robinson made a motion that a cheque from the Anzac Keefer Company be accepted for the amount named and that it be held by the tax collector pending the writ of the Council.

The motion was defeated on the following division:

Yeas--Aldermen Graham and Robinson.

Nays--Aldermen Foster, Greenleaf, A. H. Ketcheson, D. A. Ketcheson, LaRoche, McCreary, Patterson, Treverton and White.

Recommended that the tenders received for the purchase of property be referred to the committee of the whole for report.

Recommended that the application of the Salvation Army for permission to hold a sale day be granted.

Ald. Foster moved, seconded by Ald. McCreary, that the Chairman of Public Works and Labor and the City Engineer be given the desirability of adopting the Workmen's Compensation Act in regard to public works employee and report to next committee meeting.

Last Chance To Test Headlights

Motorists! tonight will be the last opportunity for you to have your automobile lights officially tested by police officers at the market square.

The test concludes tonight so motorists whose cars have not yet availed themselves of the opportunity to drive down to the market square.

Last night, a very large number of cars passed with flying colors, several of which had been there before and had been rejected for minor defects which have now been corrected.

One man who was at the market square last night, driving a fine white motorcar in the country Sunday night, has had noted a small and beneficial difference already in the condition of the lights.

Tonight is the last night, the place is market square and the time between 7.30 and 10.30 p.m.

NEWCOMERS TO CANADA ARE OF FINEST TYPE

180 Men and Women From Hebrides Arrive in Quebec--Spirit Praised

MORE ARE COMING

Conducting Officer States Class Of Immigrant Is Of Very Best

Quebec, Que., May 6--Among the distinguished passengers on the C.P.S. Marloch from Glasgow and Liverpool, which docked here yesterday was a party of 180 men and women from the Hebrides in charge of Dr. A. C. McLeod, travelling officer of the Ontario Government.

In an interview, Dr. McLeod said he felt a sense of pride in having the honor of conducting the party from Stornaway to Toronto. "I have no hesitation," he said, in stating that the party is one of the finest if not the very finest party of immigrants that ever came to Canada.

These young men and women come from God fearing and devoted Christian homes; they cherish the highest ideals of the British and Canadian kinds and they are loyal to the old home and the Empire as only highlanders can be."

Another Party Coming

Dr. McLeod also stated that another party of Hebrideans will come over in August the present season, probably in June or July. The complete list of passengers included 76 adults and 62 third class, the latter all being sent off for Toronto and western points. The Marloch left for Montreal at 8.25 in the morning by which time all but a few of the passengers had been transferred to the immigration building.

BAD 'DOGGIES' ARE BEING CENSURED

Idle, Listless Canines Are Canines Are Arousing Ire of Bellevillians

Will it be necessary to appoint a dog catcher for the city of Belleville? That is the question a number of local citizens are asking one another these days, and they wonder if Belleville will ever experience the advent of the dog catcher with his net and wagon, the man who is paid for snaring the dogs who wander the streets at all hours of the day and night.

The dogs nowadays have been several complaints of the recent behavior of those which roam about Belleville. In the spring a dog's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of mating according to reports, and 'Bowser' just howls and fights not for the beauty thereof but the sheer delight of digging and rolling in the nice loose earth.

Almost any hour of the day, the dogs may be seen playing cross and wrestling and cavorting about the vacant places in the city. Small dogs, big dogs, thoroughbreds, half breeds and mongrels, they romp. Soon they may be playing hide and seek with the dog catcher.

Last night at the Rotary minstrel show, it was reported for the first time, that a local lady golfer took her doggie down to the jeweler's and had him made into a pair of cuff links. It may soon be necessary for "Fido" to stay and do likewise to escape identity when the dog W. E. Hodgson, of Toronto, will preach catcher's truck lumbers through "her" district.

CORBY BATH TO BECOME A REALITY

City Council Passes on Recommendation That $5,000 Plus $1,500 Interest Left by Late Hon. H. Corby Be Turned Over to Proper Authorities and, Construction started on Baths at Once

The Corby bath proposition will now be a reality after a few years delay. Through the activities of city Engineer C. D. Campbell not only the $5,000 left in the will by the Hon. H. Corby was obtained but interest on the outstanding to over $1,500.

Plans Prepared

Plans for the proposed bath are prepared and the work of installing it will be proceeded with as quickly as possible. At the Council meeting on last night the following recommendation was unanimously adopted.

Recommendation

Recommended, That the Mayor and City Clerk be authorized to execute the release under the corporate seal submitted by S. Masson, K.C., in the matter of the payment of the moneys to the credit of the City of Belleville by the late Henry Corby, through the Royal Trust Company re the construction of public baths on the island at the mouth of the Moira River, said release to be given to the City Treasurer with instructions to collect the money and surrender the release to Mr. S. Masson.

Victorian Nurse Is Assured Fact

Belleville Kiwanis took a front seat among the benefactors of the city to-day when, by unanimous vote, it decided to bring a Victorian Order nurse to Belleville.

The Canadian Kiwanis Company is guaranteeing $900 of the total cost of $1,500 per year required the Kiwanis Club putting up the balance. The prompt response to the appeal as voiced by Chairman I. C. McLaurin brought the commendation of the speaker of the day, Agnes Deroche, and other visitors present.

Kiwanian Dr. Emilia introduced Norman Banfield, now in the care of the Children's Shelter, and voiced an appeal that the Kiwanis Club aid in putting Norman, through the O.B.C. Norman is sixteen years old, is remarkably clever and a boy of his years, and unless aid is forth, will be placed on a farm, where he would have little chance to better himself, being crippled in both legs.

Several members of the Kiwanis Club guaranteed the funds to secure a course in the O.B.C. for Norman, and Kiwanian Dr. Smith, offering to clothe and board Norman during the time he attended, that he is placed at some suitable position, has ensured a bright future and opportunity for advancement that would other wise have been denied a boy handicapped as he is through a good Canadian.

Judge Deroche, in speaking on "Florida", gave some humorous and interesting sidelights on a section of the North American continent that Bellevillians do not yet understood.

The speaker has few peers in Canada as a mixer of wit, humor and logic into one interesting discourse, and the fact that every person present was the fact that the time was so short.

Father Hanley, now conducting the Mission at St. Michael's is the speaker at the luncheon next Thursday, and the Kiwanis Club is fortunate in securing so capable an interesting lecturer.

WANTED—A NATIONAL POLICY FOR CANADA

Only one thing can set the feet of this Dominion firmly on the road to prosperity. And that is the formulation of some definite national policy upon which all acts of Canadian Government and all expansions of Canadian business may be based.

Ask the first ten young men you meet on the street, "What is Canada's national policy?"

Ask the first ten old men you meet in your club. Ask merchants, professional men, statesmen, students, craftsmen or laborers.

Ask yourself. Do you know?

The truth is that Canada has had no concrete national policy since 1879, when Sir John A. MacDonald was returned to power on his principle of protection.

To-day this Dominion is simply drifting.

We are living on expedients. Every surge of energy generated in Canada is short-circuited before it accomplishes anything, because the country's wires are not connected up into a definite system serving a definite purpose.

And if we continue to live on expedients and to conduct our national affairs without some definite aim, we will slowly but surely go out of business.

The signs are in every trade report, every business index.

Last year the United States sold us $600,000,000 worth of goods. And notwithstanding the fact that she has recently put further embargoes on Canadian products and affronted her Canadian customers at every turn, the country is still flooded with American goods.

Europe, too, is dumping her products all over Canada. England has refused us a preferential tariff and only with reluctance removed an embargo on Canadian cattle that was eating the life and soul out of the Canadian cattle trade.

Yet to-day this country is overflowing with British woolens, British hardware and British shoes, which are putting Canadian factories, Canadian workmen and Canadian industries into bankruptcy.

It is all very well for Canada to buy these goods. Canada must buy industrial products somewhere. This is primarily an agricultural country, and, given reasonable terms, Canadians have no wish to set themselves up in industrial competition with industrial countries that treat us fairly.

But we must be treated fairly; our workmen must eat. Our national aspirations must be respected.

We must be allowed to sell our agricultural products on the same terms as we buy industrial products. Reciprocal trade arrangements are the essence of our existence.

But as matters stand to-day, Canada, absolutely without a national economic policy of any kind, is simply the plaything of other nations that know where they are going and are on their way.

The Hebrews wandered aimlessly in the wilderness 40 years before, consolidated and energized by a racial policy of religion, they settled down to national greatness.

So long as the Roman Empire pursued its national policy of expansion and conquest it prospered. Once it lost its aggressiveness under later emperors and merely tried by schemes of expediency to hold its own, instead of progressing towards some definite goal, it went to pieces.

The golden age of Greece was the product of national spirit. Greece to-day is an international shuttlecock because it has lost its national purpose.

During the 80 years of the Elizabethan era, England progressed further than she had progressed during the whole 800 years previously, mainly because her whole national life was animated with the one idea of colonial and trade expansion.

Twentieth century Germany reached a pinnacle of success on a national policy of scientific industrialism. She fell when that national policy was distorted and corrupted with militarism.

The history of the world shows positively that nations with definite policies and definite national ideals, progressed. Those without definite policies or ideals retrogressed. No nation can stand still. Stagnation means decline.

And if Canada doesn't soon outline a definite course and stick to it, her population will migrate and she too will begin to decline before she has fairly started.

What will be Canada's national policy?

Icy?

Someone must answer that question and quickly.

We cannot afford to throw much more of our mental fuel and national genius on the bonfire of expediency for want of a furnace of purpose.

Canada must have some definite national ideals to play up to.

From whom or whence will these come?

That is the question young Canadians are to-day hurling at Ottawa.

IRON SOLDIERY

A Norwegian inventor arrived in New York the other day with a trunk full of plans for future war devices. One of them is the substitution of mechanisms of iron for soldiers of flesh and blood.

A world that sincerely desires peace is hardly in need of devices for fighting. But what the Norwegian proposes may result in making war merely a question of what each nation can spend for the making and equipment of iron men to fight its battles. With the element of human suffering removed, war would be just plain economic foolishness, but foolishness nevertheless.

COMEDY AND TRAGEDY

There is something comic in the story of the Southwark man who, after living on unemployment doles for three years, now declares that he will never work again, and that other people will have to provide for him, priced and applied for parish relief the next day. But there is a tragic touch also in such cases, which are typical. It is impossible to treat people worse than to pauperize them.

Russia demands an apology from Germany for the action of the green police in invading the Russian trade delegation's offices at Berlin. Germany's explanation will likely be that they were "green" police.

St. Catharines, Thorold, Port Dalhousie and Merritton are now on day-light-saving time, while the citizens of Welland will again have their choice of standard or advanced time. In the argot of the day, they are "born for punishment."

Capt. Eli Emmen, veteran circus freak, known as the "Legless Man," because his feet were joined to his body at the hips, died yesterday at New York. His affliction had its compensations. He became wealthy exhibiting himself and he never had to worry about his trousers barging at the knees.

PARLIAMENT EPITHETS

London Express

Though Mr. Clynes can hardly enjoy being called a pitfield, he may console himself with the reflection that some of his predecessors on the front bench have suffered worse epithets. The Earl of Balfour, when Chief Secretary for Ireland, was described by a Nationalist member as a "sickly limpet." The metaphor, on analysis, roused one of the pet scorn which was to cause that it followed its master wherever he led. Disraeli once compared a newly appointed Lord Chancellor with "a new shower cycle and Rossbori; second rate as a lawyer, a statesman, a nonentity, brought in by his own party from sheer necessity."

LEAGUE OF NATIONS NIGHT

Wednesday night, May 14, will be "League of Nations night" at the radio station CKCH, Ottawa, of the Canadian National railways. For this occasion a special "league of nations" concert has been arranged, the aims and purposes of the league being explained from two distinct angles.

The talk will be opened by the Right Hon. Sir George E. Foster, G.C.M.G., upon What the League of Nations Is; The Reason for Its Foundation; Its Constitution; Its Operations, and Some of Its Achievements Insofar as They Affect Political, Economical and Humanitarian Interests. The second address, to be delivered by Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada will deal with the following aspects as seen from the Labor angle; War Against War; The Cost of War to Labor and Depreciated Standard of Living; The League, the One Hope of Civilized World and Establishing World Brotherhood; The Cost of the League; Labor's Interest in the Covenant; Methods and Accomplishments of the International Labor Office. The talk upon this topical subject will be conducted by H. G. Richardson, general secretary, League of nations of Canada with a "bedtime story on the league of nations for children."

game which is funny. All the features of baseball are personified, and "Ump" Ed George is finally beaten up by the saucy players and bended towards the river. The team is known as "Coon Hollow Inn."

For Crippled Kiddies

During the intermission, President Charlie M. Reid, of Belleville Rotary Club, introduced a pretty little girl and boy who were once cripples to the audience, showing the great benefit they had experienced through the kindness of Rotarians who always festoon Crippled children work. The entire proceeds of the two shows go towards this cause, and as there are more than twenty crippled children in the city requiring attention at the present time, much money will be required. Mr. Reid in his character sets out specifically, but indirectly the operation of the people who are not old to give directly but indirectly by coming to see the Rotary minstrels.

The audience was touched by the personal appearance of the two young folks who now enjoy improved health, and happier lives.

Hershey Hard Worker

More credit probably than anyone imagines belongs to Mr. Reg. Hinchey, conductor of the excellent orchestra which handled the musical score throughout the show. Mr. Hinchey knows how, and the success of music song hits are partially due to his fine interpretation and direction last night. The orchestra responded wonderfully well, and made a decided impression.

Full credit must also be given to that veteran professional minstrel man, Mr. Paul La Londe, who made last night's show possible. Paul does not appear in the production, but his good work shows up at all times. Harold Saunders, the busy business manager, deserves credit for his organization prowess, and the smooth operation of the show is due to property manager Jack Lill and his staff. Albert Wheeler finds time between numbers to also officiate as stage manager.

Rotarian Bob Wray supplied the furniture and furnishings for the show, and Orchard-Heintzman company supplied a piano from their new premises here.

The show will be repeated to-night, and as the tickets are limited for to-night's performance, a word to the wise should be sufficient.

Many persons from neighboring towns especially Picton, attended the show last night.

Rotarian Ernie Dickens had the Kwantum who attended in a body, in great spirits—community singing, before the show and between sets.

The Letter Box

Belleville, May 6th, 1924.
To the Editor of the Intelligencer:
Dear Sir:

Let me add in the general outcry against the allowing of dogs running at large throughout the city. In our particular neighborhood there are swarms of them—Airedales, Irish Setters, Terriers and Collies, thorough breds, half-breds and mongrels. They harm over our lawns and flower-beds, ripping and tearing them to pieces, and are a general nuisance. One actually forced open the door to our summer kitchen yesterday, turned on the housekeeper and had to be driven out with a club.

Surely it is time the authorities were enforcing the City by-law.

As for myself—will you please to sent the enclosed advertisement to night. I don't propose to put up with this nuisance any longer.

Yours very truly,
L. W. MARSH.

Riding 600 Miles Is Great Sport

The following is what the Watertown Times has to say about the courier to Washington.

"Owen" and "Tip", the girl and the horse from Belleville, Belleville, Ont., to Washington, D.C., arrived in Watertown at 11 this morning, five days out on their journey from the Canadian city to the White House.

"Tip" is just an ordinary horse, although at the age of 12 he has seen war service, but he is being entered for its style at No. 1 fire station.

"Owen," who is more correctly known as Miss Gwendolyn Lazier, is just an ordinary girl, but an extraordinary girl of nearly 19. Just to prove that a difference does not untecred to act as courier of the city of Belleville in taking the invitation of her city to President Coolidge, requesting his presence at their celebration in June.

"Owen," and she insists on calling herself by the abbreviation, being a daughter of one of the oldest families and early settlers of Upper Canada, and because she was the only girl competing against several men was given the mission to perform.

Clad in her navy blue habit with her riding boots and derby, she presented quite a manly appearance when she met at the Belleville by Mayor John B. Harris. But when her hat was removed, although her hair was bobbed in the latest "boy" cut she presented a decidedly pleasing appearance, with her sparkling blue eyes, her round sunburned cheeks and her flashing white teeth which glistened when she smiled.

"I don't know what to tell you newspaper men," she said when interviewed this noon at the home of Mayor John B. Harris. But when her hat was removed, although her hair was bobbed in the latest "boy" cut she presented a decidedly pleasing appearance, with her sparkling blue eyes, her round sunburned cheeks and her flashing white teeth which glistened when she smiled.

"I don't know what to tell you newspaper men," she said when interviewed this noon at the home of Mayor Harris. "We," she always speaks of herself and the horse collectively,—"left Chaumont at about 8 this morning. "Tip" seemed to be in a hurry to get to Watertown and did at every truck which he saw and ran half the way to Watertown.

"Watertown is much larger than I had expected, in Canada we would call this quite a city. I have only been a half dozen people here so far but I think I am going to like the town.

"I will leave here about 8 Wednesday morning and will probably take lunch at Copenhagen stopping at Lowville for the night. Everybody seems to think that I should be making much better time than 6 an hour, as I am ahead of my schedule already.

"Everybody is interested along the road and the people have been fine to me. Farmers come out and greet me along the way and since I left Cape Vincent on Monday morning I have had my 'picture' taken nine times.

"Owen" is spending the afternoon seeing the sights of Watertown and paying her respects to the city officials. Before the afternoon is over she may decide to take in a matinee and she has made up her mind to go to the Woman's Wedding which is being staged by the Kiwanis club this evening.

An amusing incident is told of the arrival of the Candian girl in the city.

This morning at 11.30 City Manager A. Walter Ackerman and Commissioner Ross A. Wotterhahn were driving to the Jefferson country sanatorium on official business. As they were proceeding down the Coffeen street hill they saw the girl approach ing on horseback.

The two stopped and volunteered information to the girl as to the route he take to reach the fire barns in Arsenal street.

They were surprised when the girl informed them that Mayor John B. Harris had written her at Brownville and that he had given her all of the desired information.

HEBRIDEANS FOR CITY AND DISTRICT

Upon the arrival here at an early hour this morning of a west bound C.N.R. passenger train, twenty-three young Hebrideans remained in Belleville.

Later in the day the party was taken by Mr. Lorne Greene of the Ontario Employment Bureau to a restaurant where they had breakfast. All are young men of good type and many partially experienced in farm work. All have been placed and were taken to their respective new places of labor. A party of two hundred came to Canada on the C. P. S. Steamer "Marloch" and arrived at Quebec on Sunday night last.

ICE SAVES FOOD IN ALL WEATHER

Spring—with its alternate warm and cool spells is the most difficult season of the year to keep food sweet and wholesome without ice.

Now—before the hot weather really sets in, one good-sized cake of ice will keep your refrigerator cool for days, and food will retain its full flavor and nourishment right up until it is all used.

Spring weather is too variable to be relied upon—any May day is apt to be a hot day. When food costs so much, and ice costs so little—only a few cents a day at most—it is wise economy to take ice regularly.

Perpetual Motion Machine Proves Fizzle; "Bavarian Edison" Touches Gullibles.

Berlin, May 6.—The rude shock suffered by gullible investors in a physics-defying contraption claimed to have solved the problem of "perpetuum mobile," invented by Josef Maier, the "Bavarian Edison," records another victory for more conservative scientists who bluntly assert that you can't get something for nothing by any method and least of all mechanically.

Maier, a farmer's son, of the small Bavarian village of Marktbreit, founded a "Company for the Utilization of Earth-Electric Energies Emitted by Magnetic." In prospectuses sent to a great number of electric plants, he announced in bombastic language that his idea was "patented in all countries of the world" and that he intended to establish branch offices all over the world.

Stolen Problem

"For centuries," said the prospectus, "mankind attempted in vain to discover a system of power working without power, when at last the expert's verdict "impossible" barred the way to further researches.

"Nothing in the realm of technique is impossible," it says again. I offer the world a power-a power system so to say—a "perpetuum mobile." It requires nothing but all-present earth electricity to make it work." My wonder machine requires neither coal nor oil, nor gas, nor steam power; and it gives you light and heat just the same."

Money flew in to Maier from hundreds of gullibles. But very soon the creditors pressed the "inventor" to come forth with his wonder machine.

"Worked" fine.

Maier had one of his motors installed at Munich. Everything worked so smoothly that even experts were duped. But one day when the owner of the machine had the walls of his factory painted and everything removed, it was discovered that Maier's Motor had been connected with a hidden underground electric cable. From there the current ran into a set of big mats, on which the "wonder machine" had been installed.

When asked about this disclosure, Maier admitted that, pressed hard by his creditors, he had attempted to dupe them. "But this proves nothing against my theory," he insisted. "If the machine doesn't work here it seems to me that earth electricity isn't very strong at Munich."

The "Bavarian Edison" is now under arrest. A trial is pending against him on the charge of having cheated several hundred businessmen out of their money.

COMMISSIONER CHARLES BOWTON, who is the executive head of The Salvation Army's activities in Canada East, from Port Arthur to the Atlantic and Bermuda. In order that The Army may continue its warfare against poverty, sickness and distress the Annual Self-Denial Appeal for new "working capital" is now being held throughout this Territory.

BARNUM FORGOTTEN

Bethel, Conn., Home Town Of Showman, Rips out his Memorial

In Bethel, Conn.—P. T. Barnum is almost less than a memory in this staid New England village, whose most famous citizen he was, and now local citizens have voted to rip out the memorial that the great showman gave the village when his fame was highest and put up a simple memorial to their veterans of the late war.

Barnum—caused a fountain to be erected in the heart of the village, and for years citizens watched artificial dolphins spout water high in the air to drop into a circular basin. Tiring at last of their leaky fountain leak and rust and fall into decay until only the huge basin was left, full of water only after a rain and a breeding place for mosquitoes.

To climax the thing, Bethel folks have decided to remove the last memento of the man who made their village famous.

THUG LOSES NERVE

Masked Bandit Hops From Train When Pastor Pays to Pay.

Vancouver, May 5.—An armed and masked bandit clambered aboard the inbound Great Northern train near Still Creek Crossing at the east end of the city late last night, robbed two passengers of $130, but lost his nerve when met with refusal on the part of Rev. A. E. Cook, of the First Congregational Church to submit to his threats and jumped from the train and so far has successfully eluded police pursuit.

CUBA WANTS ARMS

Washington, May 5.—The Cuban Government to-day asked the United States to sell them enough arms, ammunition and other war materials to enable it to suppress the revolution which has broken out in Cania Clara province and threatens to spread elsewhere.

The Cuban request will be granted it was learned, this action on the part of the administration following as natural by on the heels of he embargo which President Coolidge placed yesterday against the shipment of munitions to rebel leaders in Cuba.

EPPA RIXEY

One of the most sensational college pitchers who ever donned a spiked shoe was Eppa Rixey, Cincinnati Red, and former Phil. twirler. Eppa heaved for the University of Virginia nine, and in 1911 he pitched two no-hit, no-run games in a period of less than a month.

On March 26, that year, he shut out the Randolph-Macon team without the semblance of a safety and won his contest, 3-0; and on April 17 he blanked Fordham, 4-0 in a fifteen game. But 20 batsmen faced Rixey in the latter contest, and he struck out 11, issuing no passes to first.

Rixey came to the majors right from college, and his first season in the big show, which was 1912, showed 10 wins and a like number of reverses, a .500 average, while Philadelphia finished the year in sixth position.

Eppa Rixey hurled eight campaigns for the Phils, and this season is his fourth as a Cincinnati boxman. He pitched for the 1915 Phillies, the team which captured the National League flag that season, and he appeared in the World's series against the Red Sox that fall, relieving Mayer in the third inning, and being charged with the defeat, in the fifth game, by a 5-4 score.

Nearly every year Rixey's name may be found near the head of the list of pitchers. In 1923 he won 20 games and was beaten 15 times, while pulling for a second-place club. His career runs rating was at 2.80, being bettered by one regular twirler in the circuit.

He is a left hander, towers 2 inches above the 6 foot mark, and weighs 210 pounds. He first saw the light of day 33 years ago to-day at Culpeper, Va.

ON THE ALLEYS

With out exception the members of the Go-Getters team were very much on their game last night when they met the Strollers in a scheduled league fixture. As compared to their opposition the latter mentioned team were literally strolling and as a result lost by a big time in the hunt. Murray (Harold Lloyd) Hall gave a special comic demonstration, when he polished up the "Specs" then proceeded to topple the pins for a 176 count. The total 2256 is a record score for the present league in which there are only four members per team.

Some very good games were played at the Recreation alleys last night on the different leagues, In the senior league the Bowlers in the fifth consecutive game have rolled over the 3000 mark, but last night it didn't win their game, the Fleshers being the winning out by 22 pins. The Bowlers were leading by 116 pins at the end of the second game but the Hardware came back gaining rolling 1126 for their last game. Mike Nafin was high man with 329, while for the Bowlers Mc-Lean with 696 was high.

In the ladies league the Belmonts got a lead on the Ramblers of 224 pins in the first game but in the second and third weakened and the Ramblers won out by 204 pins. This is the Belmonts first defeat and means it a three corner tie for first place. Miss Vera Bland and Miss Jenkins were the leading bowlers.

In the junior league the Natural Tread lost to the C.I.A. by over 300 pins, the former failing to get below their average scores. Leno for the winners was high man with a total of 672.

In the second junior game the Lucky Strikes won from the Cyclists, after a John Doe score. Soule and Newman rolling the highest scores for the respective teams. Players and scores:

Practice Hard For Seasons' Opener

The Grand Trunks held a snappy practice at the High School grounds last evening, and the boys are rapidly rounding into shape, for the big opening game here on May 21st, when they meet their old but friendly rivalls, anc Belleville fans' old favorites, the Peterboro squad.

Hughie Keon and Jack Ollette are throwing the apiece around every chance they get, and they are rapidly ironing the kinks out of their pitching arms.

Practices nightly will be the order of the programme from now on. Tonight, it is expected, the Juniors work out at their usual hour 6.30 at the High School grounds tonight.

PICTON FIRM SUFFERS

Toronto, May 6.—In a decision handed down by Mr. Justice Riddell at Osgoode Hall yesterday, Fred Newman, wholesale grocer of Picton, is granted a judgment of $6,000 against the firm of W. R. Brown & Sons of Picton. The question involved was whether or not a promissory note given by the defendant and the plaintiff for adebt admittedly due was given as collateral or payment. The court finds that the note was given as collateral.

Toronto, May 6.—Mr. Justice Kelly has given judgment awarding $1 damages and costs to the village of Kemptville Milling Company and Levi Daniel Bowers. The suit followed a dispute over the sale of light and power to the village.

LABOR OFFICIAL DIES OF INJURY

Cleveland, Ohio, May 6— Joseph Nestor, 50, business agent here of the Sheet Metal Workers' union, died this yesterday from injuries received Wednesday night when nitro-glycerine, planted in an automobile belonging to the organization, exploded. William M. O'Brien, international vice-president of the organization, and prominent in labor circles at Chicago and New York, was probably fatally injured, and six others severely, one serious injuries.

Friends of O'Brien, who was active in the formation of a new building trades council here, believe the explosive was planted by non-affiliated labor leaders brought here by enemies of O'Brien. O'Brien lost an eye and a leg, but may recover.

SEVENTH UNLUCKY FOR ISLANDERS

Baltimore Get Seven Runs in Last Three Frames—Grab Victory when Faulkner Faltered

Toronto May 6.—The Leafs lost the opening game of the series with Baltimore yesterday by 10 to 8, after leading 8 to 3 going into the seventh inning, but "Lefty" Faulkner, who had been having trouble all during the game controlling his south paw slants, weakened a bit to start the "lucky" seventh, adn Otis Lawry followed the charity op with a hoist into the right field bleachers, scoring two. That left the count 8 to 5 in the Islander's favor, and there did not seem much to worry about but Faulkner also passed Jacobson, Jess Spring relieved the Boston a bit when he pulled in Porter's bid for a circuit smash, but Joe Boley hit safely, and Faulkner was sent to the showers. Satterfiel clouh up the burden and walked Sheedy after having two strikes on the batter. This left the bases filled with Fritz Maisel at bat, and Frits slapped a hit through short to send in two runs and make the score board read ,Toronto 8, Baltimore 7. Satterfield put on the brakes and fanned Cobb and Tomlin, and he got the first three in order in the eighth. It appeared a cinch that he would hold the game safe, but he also had his bearings in the ninth, and bases on balls to Boley and sheedy, hits by Maisel and Greenie and Tomlin's long fly to Spring accounted for the tying and winning runs.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., Attorney General of Ontario, was in the city today.

Wellington, N.Z., May 6.—General Bramwell Booth, head of the Salvation Army, arrived here today and was accorded a hearty reception. He was met by leading citizens and was formally welcomed by the Governor-General, Viscount Jellicoe; Premier W. F. Massey, members of the New Zealand Cabinet and the Mayor of Wellington.

Premier Massey, in extending a hearty welcome to General Booth, expressed appreciation of the great work of the Salvation Army.

General Booth was welcomed by Viscount Jellicoe as a great imperialist and internationalist.

"I Suffered Terribly With Sore, Aching Back"

Mrs. Roland Ferguson, 104 Lake St., Peterboro, Ont., writes:

"For over two years I suffered terribly with sore back. I was almost mad with the pain, and had doctored with it until I was discouraged. Then my father, who is a firm believer in Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, advised me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I followed his advice, and am glad to say I was completely relieved of the awful torturing pain in my back. It is over a year since I used these pills, and I have had no return of the trouble, but always keep them in the house."

Carnation Milk

"From Contented Cows"

Twenty-five Years of Better Cooking

FOR twenty-five years the Carnation label has guided housewives to a pure and most convenient milk supply. Carnation is just pure fresh milk, evaporated to double richness, kept safe by sterilization.

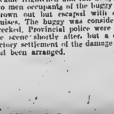

Use Carnation in place of cream in coffee, or on cereals and fruit, etc. Use it diluted in tea, (one part Carnation, three parts water.) For milk of natural consistency for general cooking add a little more than an equal part of water. Order several tall (16 oz.) cans or a case of 48 cans from your grocer. Send for copy of our book of 100 tested recipes.

CHOCOLATE LAYER CAKE: ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup Carnation Milk, ½ cup butter or substitute, 4 eggs, ½ cup water, 1½ cups sugar, 2 tablespoons boiling water, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 oz. unsweetened chocolate.

Dissolve chocolate in the boiling water. Cool. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, creaming constantly. Add the chocolate. Beat yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add them to the creamed sugar and butter; then add the liquid and the sifted dry ingredients, alternately. Add vanilla. Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff and cut carefully and lightly into the mixture. Turn into 2 greased layer cake pans and bake in a moderate oven 30 to 35 minutes.

LETTER FROM GWEN LAZIER

Barneveld, N.Y., Friday, May 2, 1924
The Mayor of this village put me up at Van Taylor's Tavern established 1798, and is looking after my horse.

Yesterday just outside of Lowville your girls of the town road out on horseback to meet me. Some of them entertained me at her home. At night I was the guest of honour at the Chamber of Commerce banquet and gave them an address on the subject, Farewell, the advantages of the City of Belleville, after which I was presented with a marvellous bunch of sweet peas, Later went to the movies. They were great. 40 in there. The women who run the beauty parlour gave me a free shampoo. The leading blacksmith wasn't happy till I finally consented to have Tip shod again although he could have gone another fifty miles or so. We started at ten and had lunch at a wonderful farm then came on to this little town, Harrowfell. As I wanted to have all afternoon in Utica instead of trying to push through to-night I will travel on.

This feeling safisfy well and have salmagard to weather the two more storms we have had. The scenery the last few days has been marvellous as we are travelling through the foothills of the Adirondacks and are always near some lake or river.

WHEN THE HONEYMOON ENDS

When she cuts the tenderest part of the steak and keeps the fat herself. That's when the honeyboon ends.

That Body of Yours

By Isaac H. Burton, M.D.

THE OLD FOLKS

A physician was called in to see a woman sixty-seven years of age afflicted with a stiff knee joint on the right side, and stiff hip joint on the left. Her hands were somewhat crippled but she was able to manipulate a cup of tea. Her health otherwise was pretty fair. The appetite was good, she could get around the house without crutches, and her mind was as bright as it had ever been.

He advised that she walk about the house more, try to wash a few dishes, and do other little chores.

The use of the body and joints with a little nausea was all that was necessary to keep her "a-going".

Did she follow his advice?

No!

Her family were very anxious to have her comfortable. They didn't want or need her help about the house.

And she herself was inclined to agree to the suggestions of the family that she make herself real comfortable, and not move the joints whatever. So she began to remain in bed much more every day.

Then she would stay in bed all day two or three days a week.

She has lost her appetite, always very little, and has lost many pounds in weight; her joints are now so stiff that she couldn't walk if she wanted to do so.

What is my point?

That it is a mistaken kindness to allow "rheumatic", stiff jointed people in bed to rest.

And it might be just as well if we did not let our elderly people also take to bed too soon.

You have often seen it, where the mother or father, or some other aged old, were encouraged to "rest" themselves.

This very "resting" is their undoing because then real troubles of digestion and circulation are set up.

You can readily see that when they are up and dressed, they are encouraged to move around, to actually go for a walk. Their mind and body both get an opportunity to function.

The appetite is maintained, and the intestine does not become sluggish. The biggest point of all is that they keep the heart strong.

This maintaining of the strength of the heart is most important, because circulation remains sufficient to carry them along for years, where as if they go to bed and allow the heart muscle to become weak, any disturbance such as indigestion or bronchitis, will be quite a tax upon the heart that they may not pull through.

My idea is not that old folks should be made to work. They have given the best of their years as they like.

But sometimes a little encouragement on your part will help them to move around more, and they will help to strengthen mentally, and stronger physically.

AUTOMOBILE GAS POISONING

You read frequently in the papers of a man who was picked up unconscious in his garage, simply because he started his engine there for a few minutes with the doors of the garage closed.

Frequently these motorists have been found lying on the floor near the exhaust.

What's the trouble?

It is due to poisoning by the exhaust gas from the engine.

The trouble with this form of poisoning is that it comes so quickly and without symptoms.

You may be working around your car, feel just a little sick at the stomach but nothing more.

Sometimes there is a sort of dizziness and headache also.

This headache is of the "pounding" type over the entire head and particularly about the temples.

The limbs lose their power, and you are apt to fall down, and being unable to get to the door, unconsciousness ensues, and if not discovered in time, death follows.

Now these cases of automobile gas poisoning are more frequent than is generally thought.

However what I have in mind is that many motorists suffer from light attacks of gas poisoning and are not really aware of what is wrong.

Perhaps you work about your car a great deal testing the engine, changing the adjustment on the carburetor and so forth. The garage door is closed or partly closed. You get a slight amount of poisoning in this manner.

Further, you go out on a crowded highway and get behind a truck which is occupying the centre of the road. Perhaps a half dozen cars are between you and the truck.

The exhaust gas from the truck and from the other half dozen cars comes in through your wind shield or windows and you are thereby poisoned. The result if you get much of it, and often, is to thin your blood, and give you a tired out feeling.

You wonder why you get no refreshment from your automobile ride. The number of automobile mechanics who say they feel half sick all the time is increasing greatly.

Many garages doing extensive repair works are introducing ventilating systems, and other devices, to prevent this condition amongst their employees.

There is only one cure—Real fresh air.

Forty percent of all children need eye attention

No guess about these figures. Examination of thousands of school children's eyes proves the truth of the above statement. It applies to both city and country children. That fact ought to arouse parents to the necessity for having their children's eyes receive the attention of the Optometrist. My services are at your command, and there are none better in Canada.

Health Restored by The Fruit Treatment

Fourteen years ago, Mr. James S. Delgaty, of Gilbert Plains, Man., was a nervous wreck. His system was shattered by Nervous Prostration, and he was reduced in weight from 170 to 115 pounds.

He wrote on May 15th, 1917, "Every medicine I tried proved useless until a friend induced me to use Fruit-a-tives." I began to mend at once. After using this fruit medicine for three months I was a changed man. I have never had such good health as I have enjoyed the past six years. We are never without a box of Fruit-a-tives in the house."

Writing again on September 27th, 1923, Mr. Delgaty says, "I signed by my letter to you in 1917—I still recommend Fruit-a-tives."

"Fruit-a-tives" is a complete fruit treatment—being made of the juices of fresh ripe fruits and tonics.

25c. and 50c. a box—6 for $2.50—at druggists or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

HE SEEKS DIVORCE

Atlanta, Ga.—Charging that his wife had "no use for a one-legged man," Jesse Jones, who claims to have his leg amputated, she almost fatally shot him with a rifle, then with a small ball in the kitchen of her brother's home, Dr. Cornelius Jones, recently filed suit for divorce in Fulton Superior Court here.

Zimarski said he had his leg burnt in the course of an arduous Canadian trip that he had undertaken to have it amputated. He charged that while he was having it amputated he suffered in silence while his wife abused him and called him no use for a one-legged man. He said he gave her $1,000 to buy a car, and then learned that even this failed to appease her, therefore he wanted a divorce.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Relieved of Nervousness and Other Distressing Ailments by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound four years ago, and taking it now for the change of Life and other troubles and I receive great benefit from it. I am willing to let you use my name as a testimonial because it is the truth. I have a book—'Text in my letter-box and read it carefully, and that's how I came to take the Vegetable Compound. It has given me quiet nerves so that I sleep all night, and a better appetite. I have recommended it afterdy to all my friends and relatives."—Mrs. ELIZABETH MIZE Palmetto St., Ridgewood, Brooklyn, N. Y.

For the woman suffering from nervous troubles causing sleeplessness, headache, hysteria, "the blues," Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine. For the woman of middle age who is passing through the trials of that period, it can be depended upon to relieve the troubles common at that time.

You should give it a fair trial now.

HORSE BOLTS WHEN FRIGHTENED BY CAR

A runaway accident occurred this morning on the Provincial Highway, about three miles east of the city, but fortunately no person was seriously hurt. Mr. Samuel Cook of Campbellford driving a large McLaughlin car was proceeding eastward about a mile an hour when he overtook a band of gypsies who were travelling in the same direction. As the car approached, one of the three wagons veered to the side of the road, almost blocking the thoroughfare. Mr. Covert made an effort to pass and as he did so a horse attached to a buggy became frightened and ran away. The two men occupants of the buggy were thrown out but escaped with slight bruises. The buggy was considerably wrecked. Provincial police were upon the scene shortly after, but a satisfactory settlement of the damage done had been arranged.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

CHAPTER XXV.

Selby Layton lay awake the whole night. Whenever he closed his eyes, he saw the tall figure lying in the bracken with the livid mark on its temple and its loose-grinning mouth, heard the dull thud of the gun as he dealt the fatal blow; and when he opened his eyes it was to stare at the feel-curtains and the wall-paper, which seemed alive with the same hideous shapes.

All through the night he told himself that it wasn't murder, that it was justifiable homicide, or, at the worst, inadvertent homicide, and would almost see the judge shaking his head at the pleas, and hear the sentence of death.

When he rose in the morning, he was almost afraid to look in the glass lest the horrors of the night should have left their record on his face; but though he looked white, and there were marks under his eyes, he was able to take a bath, something of his pallor and the dark shadows had gone, and he wore down-stairs looking very much as usual.

And yet he felt the change in himself which had come over him immediately after the murder. He felt years older, and as if a weight were bearing down, a weight from which he should never free himself.

He had risen early, and he took his cane and left the house, and walked and sauntered out, intending to stroll up and down the terrace until the breakfast bell rang; but he had no sooner got outside than he felt that he could not remain still. He fought against the occult influence for a moment or two, then yielded to the self that it was imperative that he should recover the cartridge-case and the memorandum which he had left behind him, he walked leisurely down the park.

It was a warm and lovely morning, the sun was shining brightly, and the birds, thrushes and linnets were filling the air with music; but the wretched man felt cold, and shivered, and the singing of the birds irritated and jarred on him. As he approached the spot where last night's tragedy, he began to tremble, and once he stopped as if he could not go farther; but he fought against the weakness, and reached the spot where Denzil had been struck down.

It seemed hideously familiar to him, as if he had spent weeks of his life there, and knew the aspect of every tree and bush, and he gazed at the pool with fearful fascination. A light mist had risen in the night and spread the green alone over that portion of the park and the boat had disturbed, and the even surface of green looked as if it had never been broken. Weakened by his horrible night's vigil, he had, half expected to see the body floating on the top of the space of clear water, and he drew a breath of relief. Really, he came to consider it calmly and dispassionately, there was no need for him to be nervous and apprehensive. The pool had been probably undisturbed for nearly a century, and would remain so for another one.

Then he sought for the missing article, but he could not find it there. Though he had rearranged the crushed bracken he knew the exact spot where the wretched man had fallen, and he had expected to find the pen and piece of paper without any difficulty; but though he searched with feverish eagerness and closeness, he could not put his hand upon them. The sweat began to start out upon his brow, but he assured himself that there was no cause for fear. Denzil had started to his feet at the first blow,the pen and paper might have been jerked from his hand to some distance, and he, Selby Layton himself, in the course of his subsequent movements have trodden them into the ground.

At any rate, if they were so completely hidden from him no one else was likely to find them; he could see all there all the morning searching for them; he would come another time.

As he was leaving the woods by one of the small gates which opened on the road, a man was coming along the path. Selby Layton looked at him with a feeling of dread—he always eye every passer-by with suspicion! was the gamekeeper who had flashed his medal—and he saw that it was a dark-faced young fellow with rather long curly hair. Selby Layton had had the young man pointed out to him in the village, Dick Reeve, the spiey.

He touched his hat to Selby Layton as he came abreast of him, and Selby gave him "good-morning," pleasantly.

"Good-morning, sir. Can you tell me the time?" responded Dick Reeve, respectfully enough, but with his bold black eyes fixed on his face.

Selby Layton took out his watch.

"Half past nine," he said. "Dear me, I shall be late for breakfast! Good-morning, Reeve."

"Thank you, sir; good-morning," said Reeve. "It's fine in the woods now, sir; just the time for rose."

"Yes, indeed. Good-morning," assented Selby Layton, scarcely, and he walked on.

Dick Reeve looked after the retiring, well-dressed figure with a curious expression on his face; then, still he stopped and lit a short clay pipe, and turning over the path, gazed about the woods ruminatingly.

"A nice, well-spoken gent," he muttered. "And as cool as a cucumber; but they say all real gents are like that."

He frowned further and looked at last with a Selby Layton; but she had turned her head to the other side, and those of a numbered man, but by the vision of Jack Gordon on the lonely, quiet and solitary tramp. Bob, bowling softly in the middle, would have prevented her forgetting his master, even if she had tried; and she was pale and languid with two facts predominant in her mind—Jack Gordon leaving, or had left, Vancouver—for ever!—and she had actually refused Selby Layton's offer.

That gentleman had not returned from the terrace until when the two ladies sat down to breakfast, and he looked as most country houses is a movable feast; but presently he came in, looking all the better for his walk.

"I am sorry," he said. "I am glad you have begun. I was tempted by the freshness of the morning to take a stroll. It is a typically English summer day."

"You were late, rather late this morning, Mr. Layton," said Miss Worthington, as he took his seat and helped himself to toasted ham with orientation, however, though he felt as if every mouthful would choke him.

One Flies to the North

"Contact!" "Contact!" The last audible words between pilot and mechanic as the engines sputter, and with stentorian roar of engine and propeller the giant, human and baggage freighted plane, glides swiftly over the surface of the Quinze. One feels the churning waters bumping at the bottom of the boat until momentum has increased to such extent that a touch of the "stick" causes the Vickers Viking to slowly rise.

Two turns in as many minutes and the passenger, having adjusted his goggles and seated himself more comfortably, peers, at first cautiously, over the side of the pit, and far below him lies the little town of Angliers, the head of the Canadian Pacific steel which twists and turns in and out of the forest to the south like a living thing. The earth is as a map below, lakes and rivers shining in the distance and beneath, and ragged patches of bush and arable land smudged here and there like a child's attempt to depict relief.

Turning east the plane heads down Lake Quinze, following the water course to Lake Expanse, — one sees from the air how appropriate is its name, — thence north for some fifteen miles up the Ottawa River and further north over one of its tributaries to Lake Fortune and Rouyn, upon nearing which the pilot knows the glorious valley cloude and gradually sinks until once more the water trumps the bottom of the hull, checking it with sudden jerks which tend to slow the boat until it stops within a few feet of Rouyn. One wonders how the pilot could, at such a speed, have judged his distance so well. But then he does the same thing more than once each day bringing to the new Gold Fields of Quebec, in fifty minutes, passengers and supplies which, before the air service was started took two days at the least to arrive.

Commencing May 18th the Air Service to the Gold Fields will be regular on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, large flying boats capable of carrying five people being scheduled to meet all Canadian Pacific trains at Angliers. This service, which will eliminate the hardships of the past and enable prospectors and tourists to travel to the Rouyn Mining District in less than an hour will include regular stops where they are required and accommodation is available.

Agnes Inveighs Against Cadet Training Here

Miss McPhail, M.P., Speaker at Washington Against War Sentiment

Washington.—The school text books of Canada require "disarmament," Miss Agnes MacPhail told the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

She spoke on Canada's problems in relation to world peace. History and literature as taught to Canadian youth teemed with war sentiment and idealized the warrior, she said. She denounced cadet training in the circulum of science and put in a spoke for love trade by maintaining that the great boundary between Canada and the United States, while unguarded by a single soldier, contained a source of international irritation in the army and customs officers.

Miss Jeanette Rankin, who was the first woman representative elected to the United States Congress, spoke the day before the league in favor of a new international code in which war would be unlawful.

Dr. Nadir Nasrowna, delegate from the Ukraine, described the condition of her country as effected by the various European treaties and said that not only was peace to be opposed, but the economic inequalities, in which she saw the causes of all wars had to be eliminated.

Mrs. Lottie Heller, of Austria complained of treatment of the league by the League of Nations, saying Austria had no freedom of action, but was always liable to coercion by her neighbors on whom she entirely dependent for food and raw materials.

A dozen of British delegates, headed by Mrs. Christine Rose Barker, of Toronto, drew to the British Embassy this afternoon to advocate adoption of a motion to outlaw wars which was introduced a short time ago in the British House of Commons.

MY HOUSE

There is a little house inside of me,
I call my heart—
A little house as cozy as can be
And far apart.

I keep a hidden gallery
Of pictures where I can dream and rest
The faces of past dwellers who used to be Within my heart.
The tenants who have lived inside
my house
Have not stayed long.
Some of them left it merely to carouse
In dance and song.
While others treated it with care—
Though I'll confess this kind was rare—
And left it as they found it, e'er
They went along.
And now my house is quite unoccupied,
Although the door
Has long been standing open—spacewide.
But yet before
I give to anyone the key
And let them in, they must agree
To stay for all eternity—
And maybe more.

TWO FAULTS

Stratford Beacon Herald

An automobile driver, who ran into and smashed a rig driven by a farmer, claimed he was blinded by the glare of an approaching headlight. He was probably telling the truth. The headlight couldn't be blamed for the smash-up either and the wonder is that there are not more accidents from the same cause. At the same time if the farmer's rig had been carrying a light this farmer would probably have been safer.

LONG WALK IS HEALTHY ONE

Cadet Courier Is Picture of Health on Arrival in Belleville

Cadet Allan Dempsey, the walking courier, returned to the city from Toronto yesterday, and immediately after the Rotary luncheon where he was guest with Major Mikel and Blakley of Picton, he gave The Intelligencer a call.

Still attired in the military uniform and wearing a coat of tan, which he "acquired" while walking the 114 miles between this city and Toronto, Dempsey is in the best of health and spirits. He did not have a semblance of foot trouble evinced, and the pair of Grob shoes donated to him for the walk, by the William Lesh Shoe Co. here show practically no signs of wear, except where the toes are stubbed from striking stones.

Dempsey's record walk was the last day, when commencing at 9 a.m. he walked 24 miles, making Toronto at 5.40 p.m. after having taken but one half hour off for lunch. He possesses an autograph album, in which he has the names of everyone whom he invited to the celebration, and he also has photographs of himself taken on with Mayor W. W. Hiltz of Toronto, on the steps of the City Hall there.

Dempsey speaks in glowing terms of his reception at Toronto, and returns to his desk at High School today after having missed one week of school.

The following is the letter received from Mayor Hiltz by Mayor Mikel on the visit of Cadet Dempsey.

Toronto, April 28th, 1924

W. C. Mikel, Esq., K.C.,
Mayor of Belleville, Ont.,
Dear Mr. Mayor,—

Cadet W. A. Dempsey arrived with your message at my office at the City Hall to-day at one o'clock. He informs me that he reached the City on Saturday night, but this was the first opportunity I had of receiving him.

He appears to be fit and in good health, and from all appearances has not abused himself on his way between Belleville and Toronto. Cadet Dempsey is a sample of the boys you have in Belleville and the Belleville High School, your city has reason to be proud of your young men.

I note what you say relative to looking after Cadet Allan while he is with us in the city, and we shall have pleasure indeed in doing that.

I shall present your invitation to the members of the Board of Control and City Council at the earliest opportunity, with respect to a positive attendance at the celebration of the one hundred and fortieth anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists which is being held at Belleville on the 16th and 17th of June next.

It will give me a great deal of pleasure to be present myself, if nothing unforseen takes place, and I am quite sure there will be a number of our city council members who would be glad to be in Belleville on that occasion.

I have in my office at the present time Mr. Jackson, a representative of the Toronto Daily Star and he assures me that he is, and will continue to give much publicity to the matter in question. I am informed that the press of the city generally are doing this.

You may doubtless know that I am a descendant of United Empire Loyalists stock through both my paternal and maternal ancestors, and feel more than an ordinary interest in this U.E.L. celebration.

I can assure you that I trust the celebration may have unbounded success.

Believe me to be,
Yours sincerely,
W. W. HILTZ,
Mayor.

RESCUE FOILED AT BORDEAUX PRISON

Gang Believed After Eight Suspects Held in Jail; Le Canada Claims

Montreal, May 6—Le Canada, French language newspaper of this city, asks under a two column head this morning whether an attempt to rescue eight suspects, presently held at Bordeaux jail pending hearing of a charge of murder in connection with hold-up of the Hochelaga Bank collection car April 1, was not made last Friday night.

The paper says that it hears that an automobile containing several men pulled up that night before the principal entrance of Bordeaux jail and its occupants inquired of a prison guard the whereabouts of the cars used where the suspects are located. The guard is said to have acted in a flurried air and about 50 guards rushed up while the automobile made off at full speed.

Le Canada says that if the above attempt is as reported, it would constitute the second effort to rescue the suspects. It says that seven Dominici and Nicci were taken in the police wagon to Bordeaux a few days ago. The police were warned of an attempt to rescue them. Careful precautions were taken and nothing happened at that time.

TOO CONSIDERATE

A motorist was giving a lift to an elderly woman. After speeding along for some time he turned to her and asked: "Where did you say you were going?"

"As a matter of fact I was going the other way, but I didn't want to hurt your feelings," came the reply.

Rural Delivery Men Ask Increase

Say Some Are Actually Operating at Loss

Through their organization, the Canadian Mail Contractors' association, the rural delivery mail men of Canada are making a strenuous effort to secure relief from conditions of service which they claim are actually intolerable. Garfield MacKinnon of Guelph, agent-general and secretary of the association has been in Ottawa for some time taking the matter up back to the capital on Monday to press the case further.

The rural mail contractors have four main demands. First, they ask for the abolition of the tendering system, and the introduction in its place of a salary system at the rate of $700 a year per mile. This is to include contractors operating between railway stations and post-offices. Secondly they ask that such an increased rate be made retroactive from January 1st, 1917, to offset losses sustained by contractors during the war and postwar period of high prices. Thirdly, they demand that they be given the statutory holidays with full payment of salary. Finally they ask that all rural mail boxes be placed on the right side of the road in order to eliminate traffic accidents which have caused the death of at least two mail contractors in recent years.

The contract system was abolished several years ago in the United States and rural mail carriers there now receive a yearly salary of $75 per mile.

Some Lost Money

The rural mail contractors are engaged on a four year contract, and they claim that owing to increased taxation in stock taxes the prices are too low and, in any event, that they were unable to foresee the rapid increase in the cost of oats, etc., which followed the war period, as a result of which some of the carriers were compelled to handle the service actually at a loss, without allowances for their time or the use of their equipment. Data prepared for submission to the government tends to show that over a seven-year period from 1917 on the average expense account for a rural mail carrier has been $1,050, and the average income allowed by his contract $722.

All contractors are compelled to secure two sureties and they must complete their contract to protect their bondsmen. This alleged by the association that even 50 per cent of death of the contractor there is a chance in the contract which protects his widow or other heirs to continue the contract till completion, or forfeit the securities.

The rural mail carriers will point out to the government that they are the only employes of any government department working under the contract system, and that they alone, did not receive any bonus to counteract the increase in the cost of living. The contract price for the average rural route now is about $800 a year, and if the request of the association is granted, the average salary would be about $1,400 a year.

Church Union Should Not Be Political Pawn

Rev. Father Minehan Enters His Protest

Toronto, May 6.—Under date of April 21—Easter Monday—Rev. T. Albert Moore, D.D., secretary of the general conference of the Methodist church, received a letter from Rev. Father L. Minehan, parish priest of St. Vincent de Paul church, making complaint entered against any attempt to make church union a political question.

Preliminary reference is made in the letter to the moral and national decline of the Roman empire coincident upon the Pontifex Maximus, the highest religious authority in pagan Rome, becoming emperor at the same time. Proceeding, Father Minehan says that, at the present time, there is a minority who seek to have the civil power wreck a purely religious measure carried decisively after exhaustive deliberation by the sole authority competent to deal therewith.

"Church and state have each a well-defined and independent sphere of activity," he says. "Faiths and creeds are widely different. Synods are not supposed to make the former, nor cabinets the latter, at the same time both alike receive their authority from God and are required by Him to respect His laws and aid one another by friendly co-operation."

"A Political Pawn"

Happily, the letter goes on, our civic authorities have recognized this to their own great advantage but a departure from this wise and just policy is being advocated. "It is proposed to make church union a political pawn. In wreck it by denying to it the incorporation which is freely granted to any body of private citizens . . . to carry out a purely personal industrial scheme."

In conclusion, Father Minehan says: "As one who realized somewhat the cost of religious liberty, I wish to register my emphatic protest against any attempt to make church union a political question."

WOMEN FALL THROUGH TRESTLE

Irene Rich, the charming motion picture star, and Norma Shearer, a screen actress, narrowly escaped drowning recently when the trestle over which they were running, gave way just an instant before they could leap for safety.

Only the efforts of men nearby saved them from death. As it was, they had a dip in the icy swirling pool of cold water.

"Lucretia Lombard" the successful novel by Kathleen Norris, was being filmed, and Director Rapf had constructed a veritable forest through which runs a long railroad trestle at least 150 feet long. Down this trestle came Irene Rich and Norma Shearer to escape the racing fire. It was just nearly free from the ridge of the forest that the mishap occurred. A crash, and up, the two figures dropped like lead into the cold waters! Following the Sutherland and Kenneth Hawks, actors, Director Jack Conway rushed out to help and bore out the two ladies. The scene as finally completed, is said to be one of the most vividly realistic ever filmed!

"Lucretia Lombard" is a Warner Brothers classic of the screen and is playing at the Regent Theatre now.

It abounds in many characterizations. Irene Rich and Monte Blue are costarred with a supporting cast made up of Alec B. Francis, John Roche, Lucy Beaumont, Otto Hoffman and Norma Shearer. This photoplay has been retitled "Flaming Passion."

EXPERTS COLLABORATED ON FILM COSTUMES

Costumes for the elaborate spectacle made by Emmett Flynn from F. Marion Crawford's novel, "In The Palace Of The King," which comes to the Griffin Theatre Wed. to Sat. were designed and made by a staff of experts costumers under the direction of Sophie Wachner, head of Goldwyn's costume department. The story is set in sixteenth century Spain.

Materials used in the costumes discussed for King Philip, Don John, and other members of the cast, including especially brocades, silks and satins, were brought from Europe by a member of the costuming staff.

In addition to the costumes required for principals of the large cast in Flynn's production, clothing for several scenes of the entire royal court, with its several hundred members, were required.

Spain in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, presents the most elaborate period in history, according to Miss Wachner. The nation, then in the height of its power and glory, set standards for the courts of Europe and the Orient in lavishness of attire.

The cast for Flynn's period spectacle includes Blanche Sweet, Edmund Lowe, Hobart Bosworth, Paulette Starke, Sam de Grasse, William V. Mong, Alfred Pringle, Lucien Littlefield, Charles Clary and many others.

CITY BLOCK SWEPT

Belmar, N.J., Blaze Hits Business Section, and Police Open Probe

Belmar, N.J., May 5—Fire early today wiped out almost a square block in the city's business district here.

The First National Bank, the Belmar Theatre, the American Hotel and several tenement houses and stores were destroyed by flames. Police are investigating "suspicious circumstances" of the fire.

Two women were badly burned when trapped by the flames. Firemen rescued them. Three firemen were injured when a floor on which they were standing collapsed and hurled them to the street.

The damage has been estimated at between $150.000 and $200,000.

ORGY OF SPENDING CAUSES

ARBITRATION APPEARS TO BE LONG PROCESS

Corporation of City of Belleville Is Defendant in Local Case

DAMAGES CLAIMED

Dumping of Material on Sanford Street Declared Cause of Property Loss

The arbitration proceedings of George Evans and Ed Kellaway as plaintiffs and the corporation of the City, of Belleville, defendant, was resumed at the court house today.

The arbitrators are Col. J. A. Leslie, Judge Wills, and W. S. Herrington, K.C., of Napanee. Mr. D. D. Ponton is counsel for the plaintiffs and Messrs. S. Masson, K.C. and R. Carman for the city. The plaintiffs claim damages to their property alleging that the dumping of material on Sanford street backed up water which entered their premises.

Mr. A. Vanderroort, deputy registrar of Hastings County, produced a plan of the City of Belleville prepared by Evans and Bolger, and also produced a certificate of the municipality relative to Sanford street and its location. The certificate bears the date of 28th April, 1884.

To Mr. Masson—The original plan was filed and deposited in the registry office.

Mr. J. W. Holmes, city clerk, produced the assessment rolls of 1923. There were some assessment on Sanford. Four lots are assessed in Mr. and Mrs. Devanti. Tax receipts were also produced.

This completed the case for the plaintiffs, Mr. R. D. Ponton announced.

Mr. J. W. Holmes recalled, testified that there was a request from Mr. Devault to have some material deposited on Sanford street when a pavement was being constructed on Bridge street west.

John B. Henderson, street superintendent testified as to the paving of Bridge street west. He did not give any instructions as to the depositing of material, that was taken off the street when the pavement was laid. Some of the buildings on Sanford street were old buildings. He owned a building on that street but sold it.

To Mr. Ponton—In 1920 some material was placed on Sanford street, but the greater portion of it was there before that time.

District Chief Of R.A.M. Here

District Superintendent W. J. Potts of Trenton, last evening officially visited Moira Chapter, R. A. M. of this city. Many members were present to welcome the superintendent.

The R. A. Degree was exemplified, six candidate receiving the degree. At the conclusion of the business session a banquet was held in the banqueting hall in connection with the Masonic Temple, after a toast list was carried out and some excellent addresses given.

Rt. Ex. Comp. Harry Platt was well chosen toastmaster, proposed the toast to the Grand Chapter which was appropriately responded to by the Superintendent and Most Ex. Comp. John B. Spencer of Trenton.

Ex. Z. J. Graham gave an interesting and instructive travel talk depicting some of the adventures he had experienced in his visit to foreign countries.

The radio quartette gave a selection which was much appreciated.

LIVING HAND OF FUTURE TO HOLD CHURCH

Chrysler Invokes It As Power to Read Holding Trusts

TOO FAR FOR NOTICE

Counsel Claims Union Bill Goes Beyond Limit of Advance Word

Ottawa, May 7.—The "Living hand of the future" was invoked by F. H. Chrysler, K.C., counsel for the opponents of the church union bill, in the Commons Private Bills Committee in defence of the trusts on which the church property was held. He was being questioned by T. W. Bird of Nelson a member of the committee, as to whether the Presbyterian General Assembly had the power to interpret the trusts on which local church property is held, and had replied in the negative.

"They are bound by the dead hand of the past, Mr. Bird," said Mr. Chrysler.

"And by the living hand of the future," was Mr. Chrysler's reply. This brought applause from the audience which was in turn reproved by Chairman McGibbon.

Goes Beyond Notice

Mr. Chrysler's statement and cross-examination occupied the entire morning and was further questioned this afternoon. He claimed that the church union bill went beyond the notice of it given either to the Presbyterians or to Parliament, in that it provided for turning over the congregational properties to the United Church and in other regards.

It is expected that Rev. Dr. E. Scott of Bedford, Que., will be the next speaker against the bill after Mr. Chrysler.

"Speaking for the Presbyterian Church Association and the Presbyterians of Canada opposed to this bill, we have nothing but the highest regard for the Congregational and Methodist churches and desire their prosperity in every way. At the same time we do not concede that it is for the good of the Presbyterian church, or for the good of Canada that those three churches, with their following, should be united in one mass losing many of their characteristics in the process.

50 Voices Like A Mighty Organ

One of the outstanding points of progress made and appealed to when attended the Rotary Minstrel Show, was the establishment in Belleville could be made a permanent real entertainers and songsters.

With population of Belleville is not as large as that boasted by several other cities in Ontario, but the old and tried saying that quality counts may well be applied to the minstrel troupe that at one time in Canada can produce a male chorus of fifty voices, trained not to bending and swaying but more of a gigantic organ.

The applause attended the two performances at Griffin's Theatre were more than repaid for the time taken. There may been few, if any, shows that have appealed so much to the true musical nature as that given by our own Rotary Club.

D'OISY MAY GO ON

Frenchman Expected to Do Round-World Trip; Was Destined For Tokio

London, May 7.—Keen interest was aroused today by the news that Lieutenant Pelletier D'Oisy, the French aviator, had arrived at Chalons on his flight from Paris to Tokio. The British were in readiness to speed him on his way and D'Oisy may continue his flight around the world, in conjunction with the British and United States fliers, although at the start of his journey it was announced he would fly only as far as Tokio.

Stuart MacLaren, the British roundthe-world flier, is at Paris in the Nord Hotel, more than 1,000 miles behind D'Oisy, awaiting arrival of a new engine for his plane. With the United States aviators in the Alention Islands ready to resume their flight toward Japan it is pointed out that an earning threecornered race might result should the Frenchman decide to continue on from Tokio.

Dr. Valinquit, of Ottawa, is in the city today with reference to the adjusting of some local cases of veterans' pensions.

HYDRO POWER OR KNOW WHY CITY ASSERTS

Brockville favor Morrisburg Dam Site, and Backs Public Control

Brockville, May 7—Experience in a hands leaders, but experience has taught this town of 10,000 people to believe in and look forward to the harnessing of the waters of the upper St. Lawrence for the production of electrical energy with the intensity and eagerness of a people struggling to be relieved of some overwhelming burden.

At a distance, that might sound like exaggeration; but on the ground it cannot be recognized by anyone as the simple truth. For years this community—in common with others along the St. Lawrence, has wrestled with something akin to envy the rapid industrial expansion of Northern Ontario following the ever-increasing utilization of power from Niagara.

"Going To Get It"

When one unsophisticated was asked if he believed that Brockville wanted cheap power from the St. Lawrence badly enough to fight for it, his answer was nothing less than a rose at Dublin Horse Show.

"Want it? I should say we do want it!" he said. "And we are going to get it or know the reason why!"

A workman in a local factory was in a little less brilliance. "Aye, mon," was his response, "it'll be a great thing for the toon." He knew little of the ins and outs of the matter, but he, too, knew what he wanted.

But, to sum up the discussion, the information elicited was in effect, as follows:

Want It In Hurry

"We town, as a whole, has consistently supported the St. Lawrence deep waterways scheme, but it believes that power development should come immediately, whether or not navigation improvements are carried out.

"It is not greatly concerned over the location of the first dam on the upper river, but it is inclined to favor the Morrisburg site proposed by the Hydro-Electric Commission because it believes that that site can be developed more rapidly than any other. It is utterly opposed to development by private capitalists and insists that the work should be entrusted to Sir Adam Beck and his commissioners, for, when to a federal commission, such as is favored lower down the river, it is satisfied that the power will be monopolized by the Hydro, despite the fact that contributions are to be made for part of the Hydro power now being sold to outside corporations.

CLOSING MEETING OF AIKINS CHURCH

The W.M.S. of Aikins Church held their closing meeting for the year 1923-24 recently and reviewed with pleasure and thankfulness the work of the past year.

Especially interesting was the report of the Strangers See Mrs. H. Hudson. We are sure that those who under her guidance will be a great help.

Officers were elected, few changes being made. Pres., Mrs. F. Grills; Treas., Mrs. T. W. Burkhill; Sec., Mrs. W. Hamilton; Treas. Miss Jessie Mess.

The year's report showed thirty-two paying members and twenty-five Little Light Bearers. A total of $200 has been sent to the Branch Treasurer.

FRENCH FEAR THRONE MOVE FOR GERMANY

Monarchy Nearer Now than at Any Time Since Treaty

Berlin, May 7.—Official revision of election returns this afternoon cut down the German Nationalist victory and made it certain that President Ebert would charge the Socialists with the formation of a new Cabinet. The Socialists are the Dawes plan coalition plan; the Nationalists oppose it.

Paris, May 7.—Foreign Office officials today said they considered restoration of the monarchy in Germany nearer than at any other time since the Versailles treaty was drawn up. They based this conclusion upon the gain in strength by the German Nationalist (Monarchist) party and the decline of the Socialists' strength.

Officials believe that the German Ministry will not be changed immediately and that eventually the country will drift toward the right.

Worried Over Report

Considerable anxiety is felt here over the outcome of the election. It is feared that the constitutional amendment necessary to put the Dawes reparation plan into effect cannot be enacted in the Reichstag because there are 120 deputies on the right and 14 deputies on the left who are opposed to acceptance of the Dawes report. It was pointed out that 167 votes are sufficient to block the amendment and the Nationalists majority—217—votes are needed.

Officials consider that Herr Ano Hitchcock of Berlin would most assistant as disproving the contention that "France counts in the zone of occupation may drive Germany into a war of revenge."

Slander Alleged

Echo of Public Meeting in Unionville Heard in Assizes

Toronto, May 7.—J. W. Perkin, looking merchant of the village of Unionville, claims $1,000 damages from Mark Maynard, of the same village, in a case which commenced before Mr. Justice Middleton and jury in Assizes today and was adjourned until tomorrow. The plaintiff alleges that at a public meeting in the village on Feb. 5, 1923, the defendant declared in so many words "addressed in a loud tone of voice to the audience assembled" that Perkin was a "thief." It was published, it [illegible] the meaning and inference alleged.

ULSTER WILL NOT UNITE ON BORDER PLAN

Refuses to Name Man for Commission, As Britain Asks

OVATION FOR CRAIG

Sir James Cheered As He Returns; Difficulties Foreseen in Erin

Belfast, May 7.—The Ulster Cabinet has decided to maintain its position and refuse to appoint a representative on the commission to delimit the frontier between the north and south, as provided in the Anglo-Irish treaty. Appointment of the commissioner was requested by the British Government.

The Cabinet's decision was taken at a meeting over the chairmanship of Premier Sir James Craig, who returned yesterday from London after the unsuccessful parleys in which representatives of all the three interested governments participated.

Given Great Welcome

Sir James was given a great reception on his return. This, he said in a brief speech, proved encouraged him after the "very trying time I have just had in England."

Difficulties are forecast in many quarters in consequences of the Government's refusal to modify its attitude on the boundary question.

Named Peterboro Alderman "Bum"

Peterboro, May 7.—The city fathers met Monday, with Mayor Turner presiding, when E. E. Hancock, of Carleton Place, was nominated to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Alderman Bum. Hancock was absent when the nomination was made, but was elected by a majority of two votes.

Alderman Hancock complained that Chief of Police Newhall had called him "Nothing but a common street bum." As the worthy alderman is a citizen of many years and a large property owner, he objected to the chief's pet names. A resolution was introduced asking the Police Commissioners to request the chief's resignation.

Baptist Service Attracts Many

A good representation gathered in the Baptist Church last evening for the second meeting of the series being held. Rev. Mr. Hodgson's subject was "The Measure and Motive of Service". Speaking of Christ's New Commandment "That ye love one another as I have loved you" he said that there were about three things in love to service and the standard by which we measure ourselves. The highest and such a standard would give a breath, a fullness and a perpetuity to our service such as we have not yet realized. The address was earnest and forceful and made a deep impression on those who heard it.

The solo by the male quartet and a solo by Rev. N. S. McKechnie added much to the interest and value of the service. The meetings are continuing each night this week at 8 o'clock.

SUSPENDS LICENSE OF FAST DRIVER

Peterboro, May 7.—Arthur Brown charged with driving his car recklessly or negligently was fined $10 and costs or 10 days in jail, his permit suspended one week.

Brown drove on the wrong side on a street car on Reid street, the police allege, at a faster speed than 25 miles per hour. He pleaded guilty.

This is the first case of suspended license under the new Highways Traffic Act, which provides that persons found guilty of reckless driving cannot drive their cars for certain specified periods. The suspension is endorsed on the permit for reference in future cases.

A ROUGH TRIP

Kingston, May 7.—Captain J. C. Leslie, who brought out the new tug "Salvage Prince" from England for Captain Grant Pyke, of the city, stated that the trip was one of the roughest he ever experienced in his life. But in spite of this he was a water front man either, who has been navigating for and twenty-five dollars if he made the trip inside of twenty days, and he did so.

LIBERAL RIGHT HAND IS BURIED DEEP INTO DOMINION TREASURY

Many Major and Minor Leaks in Treasury Exposed by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen — Considerable Public Indignation Caused by Apparent Wastefulness of King Government.

Ottawa, May 7.—The Liberal government has not lived up to its pre-election promises of economy, and revelations of this session's Commons and consideration public indignation is being created as a result of their efforts.

Coming Home to Roost

It is fitting that the present Hill that the cabinet ministers do not know themselves for they have involved the country by some of their committee work, but several of the extravagances perpetrated in recent months are now coming home to roost. Chief among these is the Serbie Hotel popularly supposed to be located on "main street" Paris, a name and an expression which conjures visions of appreciation to run up and down the ministerial benches in Parliament, and which will eventually shock the treasury to the extent of $1,000,000.

The purchase of the Serbie Hotel by the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Press newspapers is a case of waste, and the appointment of the present Bishop of Montreal apparently to award warm the gravest suspicion. The Bishop of Aosta Valley, Italy, is the European agent in the deal, until will hark back to the bigoted and superstitious Elizabethan age for authority and means of condemning me and my utterances, it will be the church that will be condemned and destroyed by my fundamentalist, said Bishop Brown.

Put Bishops on Record

It is Bishop Brown's intention, he revealed, to put his fellow bishops, numbering 125, on record as to whether or not they accept all parts of the Bible literally.

"They are to admit that they are beholden at once with modern science and common-sense," he said, "or they are to admit that the views held by large portions of the Scriptures and giving them only a symbolic meaning. If I can show my accusers and they admit that the Bible, as a whole, cannot be accepted literally, my case is won. Whether I am favored or defeated by the ministerial verdict, I shall have won a moral victory anyway."

Charged on 23 Counts

Twenty-three counts are included in the charges filed against Bishop Brown. These cover as many utterances. The Bishop believes that science among which is his statement that modern religion cannot be based upon a Bible in which the Ptolemaic principles of a "flat earth," a "heaven above and a hell below" are admitted as true.

Joseph W. Sharts, Dayton lawyer, has been retained by Bishop Brown as defence counsel.

Kingston Rifles Coming To U.E.L.

A meeting of the officers of the Princes of Wales Ontario Rifles, of Kingston, was held on Monday night in the armouries, in that city, for the purpose of deciding whether or not the regiment would accept the invitation of Mayor Mikel of Belleville to take part in the U. E. L. celebration. Last night it was decided to accept the invitation and the unit will leave here at nine o'clock on the morning of the 14th inst. and will return to the city at 9 o'clock at night. Arrangements are being made by Colonel Sparks and Mayor Mikel.

BISHOP WILL PUT RELIGION UP TO COURT

Brown of Protestant Episcopal Church, Maps Course

HERESY IS CHARGED

Will Put His Accusers on Record for Bible Stand, Test Their Beliefs

Galion, O., May 7.—Bishop William Montgomery Brown of the Protestant Episcopal Church, who gave up his charge here May 27 on charges of heresy, today said he expected to place the entire orthodox Christian religion on trial when his case opens.

His judges will be nine bishops. The hearings will be public.

The case is of international importance, as it is said to be the first heresy trial of an Episcopal bishop since the Protestant reformation and marks another step in the struggle between the church "modernist" and "fundamentalist."

Would Be Repudiation

"To say that any fellow bishop could sit in judgment on my doctrinal utterances would be to repudiate the fundamental principles of the Protestant reformation," Bishop Brown said today.

"The church has never defined what constitutes heresy. It is so blind to the modern thought and science that it will hark back to the bigoted and superstitious Elizabethan age for authority and means of condemning me and my utterances, it will be the church that will be condemned and destroyed by my fundamentalist, said Bishop Brown.

EDITORIAL OBITUARY

There passed to peaceful and permanent rest in the last ten years preceding 1924, says the Kingston Standard twenty-one highly respected and esteemed daily newspapers of Ontario. For many years they have been enjoying the best of health, but for some time preceding death were inflicted with the epidemic of Too-High-Cost-of-Operation, and Hard-Times, the latter disease being especially severe. The names of the deceased were Kitchener Telegraph, Brantford Courier, Brockville Times, Chatham Planet, Cobalt Nugget, Fort William Herald, Guelph Herald, Hamilton Times, Ingersoll Chronicle, Lindsay Warder, Niagara Falls Record, Ottawa Free Press, Ottawa Temps, Peterboro Review, Peterboro Times, Port Arthur News, Port Arthur Tyrokean (Finn), St. Catharines Journal, St. Thomas Journal, Toronto News and Toronto World. All were well-known in their respective homes, and left a large number of subscribers to mourn their loss.

Surviving them are 35 immediate relatives, they being Belleville Intelligencer, Belleville Ontario, Kitchener Record, Brant Expositor, Brockville Recorder & Times, Chatham News, Fort William Times-Journal, Galt Reporter, Guelph Mercury, Hamilton Herald, Hamilton Spectator, Kingston Standard, Kingston Whig, Lindsay Post, London Advertiser, London Free Press, Niagara Falls Review, Oshawa Telegram, Ottawa Citizen, Ottawa Journal, Ottawa Journal, Ottawa Droit, Peterboro Examiner, Port Arthur News-Chronicle, Port Hope Guide, St. Catharines Standard, St. Thomas Times-Journal, Sarnia Observer, Sault Ste. Marie Star, Stratford Beacon-Herald, Toronto Mail and Empire, Toronto Globe, Toronto Telegram, Toronto Star, Windsor Border-Cities Star, Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

For years the late lamented newspapers had been serving large families in exactly the same way. Suddenly the fatal disease struck them, and they slowly sunk, until they passed away quietly. The survivors have since struggled against the rising tide of the disease, and have thus far been able to keep off the ravages of the epidemic, but in many cases it has been a terrific struggle, one which the many subscribers of the dearly-departed newspapers little dreamed. In other words, as the poet would say, "It's a great life if you can stand it," and the 35 survivors are pulling through nicely, though somewhat weakened by the long years of passage through the valley of Depression.

Looking over the remainder of the broad and fair Dominion, the survivors have seen the havoc which the dread disease has worked there, with 20 of their valient number being claimed by the scourge, these being two in British Columbia, two in Manitoba, five in Alberta, five in Alberta, five in Saskatchewan, one in Nova Scotia, one in New Brunswick, one in Prince Edward Island and three in Quebec. Surviving these twenty journals (apart from Ontario), are 64 hale and healthy dailies, who have weathered the storm, and expect that the worst is over.

May the dead departed rest in peace!

A UNIQUE STRIKE.

The circle [illegible] to a suspension of activities in the leading cities of the Argentine republic is probably unique in history. Its cause is certainly unprecedented, and the fact that it is participated in equally by employers and employed is another remarkable feature of the disturbance. The law which has caused all the rumpus provides for the deduction of five per cent. from wages, to go toward the building up of a pension fund, employers contributing an equal amount. This arrangement has not proved satisfactory either to Labor or to capital; but it has been duly enacted by congress, and President de Alvear declares himself powerless to abrogate or amend it without the consent of parliament. This does not mean to say, however, that the president is enamored of the law, he has, in fact, admitted that it contains many imperfections. Even with his concessions in the way of returning part of the deductions after five years' trial of the scheme, the workers fail to enthuse over the proposal, asserting, in fact, that these new terms make it even less acceptable than before. In other words, the country would also get back their payments, and women workers would be refunded the amount of their contributions in the event of marrying.

Opposition, however, is just as strong and determined as ever. The people, whether belonging to the Labor or the capitalist class, are united in protest against the pensions scheme, which had been hailed as one of the most progressive ever attempted by any nation. It was designed to ensure a good pension to every worker, after 25 years of service, the providence of the wage-earners being supplemented to an equal extent by their employers. Evidently, the workers of Argentina prefer to make their own arrangements for old-age provision, for never has there been a more universally unpopular measure than this state pensions law.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Canned-heat drinkers were rounded up by police over the week-end. The can-opener becomes mightier than the corkscrew.

Disagreements arising from other agreements between Italy and Turkey have been settled, it is reported, by another agreement. As we recall it, this is listed as Agreement No. 4,563,236-B.

The bricklayers' strike has been settled by the granting of an increase of 12½ cents an hour, making the hourly rate to $1.12½. More significant than the increase is the fact that the new contract is of but one year's duration.

Chairman Gary, of the United States Steel Corporation, in a speech predicting prosperity, says the congressional investigation 'alone interferes with it. Surely he does not mean that prosperity is contingent upon graft in high places.

"Canada is developing a sound landscape painter, who are strongly typical of the soil," says an eminent British critic, who enthuses over the Canadian section of the Palace of Arts at Wembley. Which is not surprising in a favored land where nature spreads so broad a canvas.

An Old Recipe To Darken Hair

SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR TURNS GRAY, FADED HAIR DARK AND GLOSSY

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Wild Beasts Kill Rhodesian Natives

London—Farm houses in the lush bordering on the northern Rhodesian frontier have recently been a state of siege owing to the activities of lions. The animals have come out of the jungle in daylight and attacked the farm stock, destroying off many of them.

In some cases the natives working on the farms have been attacked, and several have been killed. The lions are often joined by leopards and have appeared in such numbers that the settlers are forced to go about only in large groups and to keep a constant guard over their families and stock.

Woman Meets Lions

The wife of a railroad employe reports a thrilling adventure in this connection. Mrs. McLean left her home at Garuso on a bicycle to visit neighbors. Reaching a river she found two large lions on the bank. She was so near that she could not retreat and prepared to fight for her life, but at the first shot the animals ran. She then proceeded and shortly came across a big leopard eating an ox. The leopard also made a hasty getaway, but followed Mrs. McLean for some time.

Arriving at the farm she found it had been attacked for several weeks by the animals, and many cattle had been lost. Next day she was escorted back to her home by a neighbor and ten native who, on leaving Mrs. McLean found they had been tracked all the way by lions. Mrs. McLean's escape was probably due to the fact that the animals had eaten their fill of oxen.

CURRENT SPORT IN BRIEF FORM

COLLINS, FRISCH AND HORNSBY

The present generation is now looking upon three of the greatest second basemen that ever lived, including both attack and defense.

And in establishing the keystone kingdom arguments have been long and passionate concerning the triple ranking.

Hornsby is the best hitting baseman of the decade, perhaps of all time. At least no other has ever led a major league four years in a row with a run-in or jump into the fifth.

Frisch is a brilliant, performer in every department, one of the dashing, types who catch the fancy of the multitudes.

But neither Frisch nor Hornsby have displaced the all-time record of Eddie Collins. Collins has batted over .300 in thirteen out of fifteen years. He has but above .340 eight years. He has been a great run getter and a star base runner all this time. And there has never been a more brilliant defensive second baseman in the history of baseball.

For all-time second base honors Edward Trowbridge Collins is still the premier, the unanimo.

COLLEGE LACROSSE

Intercollegiate lacrosse is now on a boom. And justly so. In the first place it is the oldest game played in America, having been a popular pastime among the Indians, preparatory for war. Whole tribes were pitted against one another with the goals several miles apart. No wonder the Indians were a hardy race.

It was first played by the white race in 1845, a bit before baseball was heard upon the map sport.

There are now twenty-two eastern colleges and many from the west playing the game, which combines the endurance of football, the speed of track, and the agility of basketball.

THE SUPPRESSED BALLYHOO

The case of Jack Renault is one well out of the ordinary. In the last year Renault has knocked out Floyd Johnson, Fred Fulton and George Godfrey.

Godfrey knocked out Bill Tate, who had fought two drawn battles with Harry Wills.

Usually a clean-up of this order would be followed by one of the noisiest of all ballyhoos with much ordinary noise extended in Renault's behalf regarding a match with Dempsey. "In place of which there has been a feeding bush in the heavyweight's ears.

Renault has advanced far enough to take on the best of challengers, and yet his name rarely adorns the dispatches. It may be that he is hiding his time, saving up the big barrage until he figures he is all set to shoot the works. He is a big, cool, level-headed boxer, has improved remarkably in the last year. By late summer or fall he may be quite a right there in the old

THE HOME-RUN STRUGGLE

It might be noted that "Babe" Ruth hasn't led the clan in home runs since 1921. A late start, but any chance he had in 1922, when Hornsby topped the procession, and in 1923 he could be content with Cy Williams was a tie.

The Babe is beginning to feel his position keenly. If he is beaten out this season there will be much melancholy in his broad breast. Yet he has a number of worthy rivals in the field and it is by no certainty that he will be the first to the wire in the home run steeplechase.

Ty Cobb, starting his twentieth year, steals home twice within the first two weeks of the season. Ty has the darts up among the 400 people with as much nimbleness as in the days of reaching the first gun of his prime. There has been no flier quite like him in the old game when the entire case is considered. He has been a marvel as well as feet, arms, legs and enduring ambition and determination.

Disease Germs Doomed

Many have lost terrors for the Scientist

The progress of recent years in medical research is the story of world events. Daily, science kills germs by the million. Daily, new cures are being discovered, isolated and exterminated by the march of medicine.

Science is winning. What were once regarded as super diseases are now laughed out of countenance by the doctors. Formerly they plunge naked hands into swarms of them, their only precaution being to rinse their hands afterwards with a reliable germicidal preparation. We are witnessing the birth of an era when the world will have little to fear from microbes.

Absorbine Jr., besides being the all-purpose liniment that removes pain and soreness, and hastens healing, is a powerful antiseptic that is death to the microbe world.

PETES ARE STRONG SO 'PETES' STATE

Heckman Has Dependable Southpaw Assistant in Serth, Examiner Claims

In commenting on Saturday's exhibition baseball game at Peterboro when Petes C.O.H.L. team played Royal Canadians of Toronto, the Peterboro Examiner states that Saturday's game served to show that Manager Solomon Reed have no worries over his pitching staff this season. Everybody knows Heckman is capable when he is in condition, the story continues, and the performance passed up by Charlie Serth demonstrated that the Petes have in him a left-hander who can give the Central League hitters a lot of trouble in the campaign that opens two weeks from Wednesday. The tall Southpaw took over the pitching burden after the fourth and blanked the Royals in the last five frames, allowing only two scratch hits and pitched steadily and effectively. Serth has excellent control and speed and will be a big asset to the Petes.

Strong Defensively

Defensively the Petes talent looks strong. With two clever pitchers, and a fast fielding team, the opposition scoring is not as a rule going to be heavy, and at this stage it would seem that Manager Solomon's chief task will be developing a punch to his attack.

The squad got but two hits on Saturday, a single by Holmes in the eighth and a similar safety by Swansea in the final frame and "not many" games can be won on two singles. However, it must be remembered that the Royals trio of twirlers were a good condition, and Maguire, the former Leaside southpaw, in particular did not hesitate to use a hook early and often, while the Petes batsmen took no chances of hurting their arms. Heckman, who worked the first four innings, did not attempt to curve a ball, but seldom cut loose with a fast one, while Serth also had lots to reserve. The Petes' twirlers have two weeks' training between now and the league fixture, while the Royals open their official season on Saturday and the former could not afford to go easy.

Both teams used big squads of players, and altogether twenty-seven men got their names into the box scores. At that the Petes were without the services of Wolfe, who could not get off work in time, and Cook, who was ruled out of town. It was a good opportunity to try out material and both pioneers availed themselves of the chance.

SMOKE SCREEN HIDES AIRPLANE COMPLETELY

Washington—The chemical warfare section of the army has developed an airplane smoke screen which, by dropping a small quantity of liquid chemical from the ship while in the air, makes a screen below it 1200 yards long and 250 yards high, effectively hiding the plane and others of the group from the terrestial observation, it was learned today.

By controlling the size of the drops, the aviator can do almost anything he wants with the screen. Using it in one end on the ground and the other in the air, or carrying it along with him as he flies. The innovation was made possible by discovery of a chemical called titanium tetra-chloride.

LEAFS WINNERS IN TWELFTH FRAME

Toronto, May 7.—When Joe Kelly, the Leafs' hard hitting outfielder, swatted the ball high into the right field bleachers for a home run in the twelfth inning in the game with the Men of Howley victory in their first extra-inning game of the season. The score was 3 to 2, the Leafs twice coming from behind to tie the Orioles, and Jack Dunn used up five pitchers trying to put over the winning run. Clif Jackson started, but a spiked foot drove him from the game in the fourth, while wildness forced Tommy Thomas, Wesolouski and Ogden out in order. Harry Fradin finished the affair, and he had two strikes and three balls on Kelly when the Toronto player slammed the ball into the teeth of a gale from the east. It had to be a wallop to get to join the bleachers. Frank pitched to but two batters, forced Rourke to leave to Pitt for the final out in the eleventh then to Kelly, the first batter up in the twelfth.

Toronto should have won the game in the eleventh. As a matter of fact, it should have been the game in the tenth, but bad base running ruined their chances. Joe Kelly drew a base on balls in the tenth, but in trying to score Fitz Maisel forced the runner at second Ondow struck out and Bell walked. Copes came through with a corking good drive to centre, Maisel just failing to make a sensational one-handed catch off his shoe tops and Maisel scored Lawry threw the ball in to Bisley, who bluffed Copes back to first base, and Bell tried to score from third, but was run down. Bobby Greene to Fritz Maisel.

Doyle's Mistake

Then in the eleventh Joe Doyle lived up to the ball park label for the fast base hit of the game and landed on second. "Flash" Gilhooley passed the pellet to centre, Dunn booting the ball into left field to Lawry, and through Manager Howley tried to hold Doyle at third the pitcher raced towards the plate, only to be run down on Lawry's good throw to Greenae. And Joe got a real call-down from his manager as well as from his team-mates. But he won right out in the twelfth and retired the Orioles in order.

LANDIS OPENS THE M.O. LEAGUE GAME

"Did you read in the paper about the squirrels storing away golf balls?"

"Yes, all the old-timers say it presages a hard winter."

"It certainly does for the squirrels."

Hamilton, May 7—To the tune of Yankee Doodle, Judge Landis, commissioner of baseball, opened the M.O.G. season here yesterday afternoon before 2,000 fans when he pitched the first ball. Hamilton defeated Bay City 3 to 1 in a snappy exhibition, and the new arrivals in the local camp gave a very creditable performance.

Judge Landis was given a rousing reception when he stepped out on the field. He shook hands with the players of both teams and lost no time in getting them under way. A battery of cameramen snapped the czar of baseball as he hurled the first ball. Returning to the grandstand, scores of souvenir hunters requested him to autograph baseballs and programs. Early the end of the long line was reached Judge Landis factored his cross on the game and was one of the most interested fans.

CLOSING 'AT HOME' OF PALENCIA CLUB

Delightful Dance at Johnstone Academy is Gay Function

Palencia Club dances are always interesting, but the closing At Home of this season gives a hint that Johnstone's dancing academy, lat night completely upstaged all other events of the season.

Of course more extensive preparations had been made for the closing club dance, but the guests even out those the rosiest anticipations of the most effusive chairman.

Professor Albert Johnstone had the Academy beautifully decorated respecting the club colors and the color scheme of the dances committee had evidently had the time of their lives in absolute control.

The Dale Trio orchestra excelled all previous last night, with a 9x piece orchestra, in their musical painting. Throughout the evening, from 8.30 to the midnight supper, and the latest dance music for the twenty four dances which delighted the hundred and fifty guests was rendered.

There were two novelty dances, one in the first half and the second in the last half. The first novelty was a balloon dance which commenced when a huge paper balloon at the ceiling was liberated, and showers of tiny balloons which waited downward were carefully swept after by the dancers. There were two of the elusive spheres which were placarded "Palencia" and their owners were the prize winners. Miss Ruth Reid won the first, a china teapot and salt set, while Mr. Edward Wott won the pack of playing cards.

In the second ball, cute paper parasols were issued to the ladies, while the men received gaily decked paper horns. Then the music commenced, to the rhythm of the general clamor to see who carried the whistle and paraded with the most Palencia printed on them. Miss Lillian Parry was declared winner of the China tea and saucer while Mr. Stanley Haveman won the Everything pencil.

Palencia club ladies have made a name for themselves in the very important matter of preparing menus and by fine lunches at functions. Last night, when lunch was served at 11.30, they again broke their previous good records.

The ladies were gaily attired for the occasion, and each dance was a pretty scene, more particularly the pink numbers. Many guests were present from Picton, Trenton, Deseronto and Bloomfield.

The dance was a distinct success and the members of the committee responsible for the success are as follows:

Mrs. J. V. White, Mrs. C. Dafoe, Mrs. Herbert Blair, Mrs. Jno. Bruce and Mrs. N. Thompson, C. Dafoe, E. A. Thomas, J. V. White, B. Baxter and N. Thompson. Mrs. E. A. Thomas is president of the club and Mrs. H. Baxter, secretary.

The outstanding feature and greatest enjoyment of the evening was the singing of Miss Batt, soloist, of Bonar Presbyterian Church, Toronto; her rendering of "Annie Laurie" was a surprise and a great treat to the music lovers and patrons of the Palencia Club in tone and quality Miss Batt's contralto voice was most perfect and seldom, if ever, for a Belleville audience have the pleasure of listening to such a charming artist. Mrs. Westlake, who was Miss Lulu Chalupsky, our leading musicians in Belleville, in past years, played the accompaniment beautifully for Miss Batt.

ANOTHER ACCIDENT AT COBOURG "TRAP"

Port Hope, May 6.—Another serious accident occurred at the Canadian National Railway crossing, known as the "death trap," just outside of Cobourg. Two young men from Napanee along with two friends, were coming west from Cobourg, and failing to notice the "sig nal" they drove up the incline and were on the C.N.R. tracks before they realized they were on a level crossing. A freight train was going west, and though the car was stopped the engine struck the car on the side and turned it along the track. Only one of the passengers was hurt, a young man named Hamel Bean and it is reported that he had his hip and leg broken and the knee. Bean was an occupant of the back seat, and it is not known definitely how he was hurt, as his companions escaped with a few bruises. The car was smashed, but not badly, and the wonder is that the entire party escaped as they did. Bean was removed to the Cobourg Hospital.

A man is just a bundle of habits wrapped up in an appetite.

A gentleman doesn't forget his manners that moment he enters his own door.

Lights On 500 Cars Tested

Lights on more than 500 motor cars have been tested at the Market Square by police during the past few weeks nights in which tests were made, and all that number passed the test. Last night being the last night for the test, the largest number of cars out which have yet attended.

There were several cars there last night from outside points in the Province, and one car from Quebec province. All seemed to agree that the idea was a feasible one.

Motorists are reminded that a motor vehicle left parked on the street may either have the little burning screen up as the provisions of the Highway Traffic Act or else must have their car with a parking light, a small light which can be attached to the left side of the car and when burning uses but a very small amount of lighting energy.

MINSTRELS REPEAT SHOW

Belleville Rotary minstrel show was repeated last night before a fair sized crowd at Griffin's. The show was more compact last night and improved over Monday night's operatic presentation. It was rumored today that the company have been asked to play at Kingston and Peterboro.

"THE WHITE SISTER" PROVES TRIUMPH FOR HENRY KING

A gentleman from Virginia, an artistic scholar of life, a film director who goes himself one better with each picture he produces, Henry King has reached a pinnacle in his profession of E. Marion Crawford's famous novel, "The White Sister", in which Lillian Gish is the star.

This popular special, which starts an engagement at the Griffin Theatre on Monday Tuesday and Wednesday, May 12th, 13th and 14th, marks the most important milestone in the career of Mr. King as a director. He has been dotted with worthy efforts along the way and serves to show the great strides made by this man of imagination.

The director who has helped Miss Gish realize her greatest success on the screen was born in Christiansburg, Virginia, and was educated in Roanoke. The family has chosen the study of law for Henry, but the latter discovered a strong liking for the stage and much to the disappointment of his elders, left home at the age of seventeen to engage in his chosen life.

His stage experience was that of many other youths who try to find themselves, and it was not until during the light of the footlights. He began humbly, playing small parts in repertoire companies and doubling up in toby or mob scenes. Gradually his work attracted attention and he began to get better engagement, until he finally realized the ambition of his adolescence—to play on Broadway.

He spent ten years on the stage, appearing in such plays as "The Lion and the Mouse" and "Quincalon." In the meanwhile he had become interested in the possibilities of the motion pictures and decided to chance his medium of expression to the screen. He was first an actor, and then fell into the role of director.

He soon achieved an enviable reputation for his work in filming Mary Robert Rinehart's story, "Twenty Three and a Half Hours Leave," starring Dorothy Dalton and Doris May.

From then on his directorial path was smooth. For Jesse D. Hampton, he did "Fugitive from Matrimony," "Help Wanted—Male" "One Hour Before Dawn" "Haunting Shadows" "Her Own Destiny" and "When We Were Twenty-One."

Coming over to the Robertson-Cole Company, he directed "The Mistress of Shenstone," "Salvage," and "The Marriage Lure."

Then came his connection with Rupert Hughes, and as an association that brought fine results for both he and director. Here he made the series of pictures which established Hughes' reputation as the author of such stories. They were "Souls Adrift," "The Cinderella Man," "The Bond Boy," "Souls for Sale," and "Original Sin."

From this he became associated with Samuel Goldwyn, Inc., Charles H. Duell, Jr., president, and released through Metro.

All seats for this attraction will be reserved. The plan opens at the theatre on Saturday morning the 10th. Mail orders will be accepted now.

"Alley claims to be descended from a great family."

"Yes, and he is still descending."

BEWARE OF CHINESE WHEN HE'S IN PICTURES

For tricks that are vain and ways that are dark, The heathen Chinese is peculiar. So sang Bret Harte, poet of the pioneer, fifty years ago when the spirit of the California pioneer was gripping the country's imagination.

Bret Harte knew his California better than any American writer has ever known it, and he understood the Chinese character in all its Oriental lore when the tide of Mongolian immigration to America was on in full swing.

But out in Culver City, California, near the Thomas H. Ince Studios, there is a mountain barrel that can do Bret Harte one better. He believes in a little Chinese boy who plays the part of "Ching" in Thomas H. Ince's latest screen drama, "What a Wife Learned" and has the unique distinction of being able to understand the Chinese language—which is some accomplishment for a donkey.

Chloe and his donkey contributed several bits of real comedy to the picture, but the donkey refused to heed any directions, even by the megaphone of Director John Griffith Wray until Chloe, at just the right time, delayed directing into the donkey's ear with a string of Chinese characters.

And then it developed, greatly to the amusement of the players witnessing the taking of the scene, that the burro does not understand a word of English—he was born on a ranch owned by his present lady father, and Oriental.

"What a Wife Learned" will be shown at the Regent Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

FILM SHOWS SPAIN'S EXTRAVAGANT PERIOD

No more lavish and extravagant period could have been selected for the film of a modern picture, than that of Spain during reign of King Philip II, according to Harriett Morris, who conducted the research work on "In The Palace of The King" which is at the Griffin theatre for balance of week.

Miss Morris spent several weeks on historical research when Emmett Flynn was preparing to screen "Call In The Palace of The King."

"The period was an age of extravagance," says Miss Morris. "Spain at that time—in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries, was in the height of her glory.

"We think we are in a period of excitement and finery now, but think of the courtiers of Spain then, Silks, ratine, brocades from Persia and the Far East, and priceless gems were used to adorn the costumes worn in King Philip's court. Pearls were the ordinary decoration for court dress."

In order to correctly reproduce the lavish court of King Philip, costumes, armor and settings used in "In The Palace of The King" were developed from old paintings and illustrations by historical experts.

Forty percent of all children need eye attention

No guess about these figures. Examination of thousands of school children's eyes proves the truth of the above statement. It applies to both city and country children. That fact ought to arouse parents to the necessity for having their children's eyes receive the attention of the Optometrist. My services are at your command, and there are none better in Canada.

"What became of your niece who used to live with you?"

"Oh, she's gone now; she married a lord."

"How splendid! What was he, an English lord?"

"No, a landlord."

Red Pepper Heat Stops Backache

The heat of red peppers takes the "ouch" from a sore lame back. It can not hurt you, and it certainly ends the torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub, and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated penetrating heat as red peppers.

Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through, Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine with the name Rowles on each package.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"Am I?" he responded. "Are you sure it is not your fancy, my dear Miss Worcester? I feel in the most perfect health, and I am as ravenous as the proverbial hunter. And no wonder! This air is so invigorating! I don't think there is anything like a mixture of sea and moorland air."

"You were rather late last night, were you not?" she said, as she poured out his coffee. "I was rather wakeful, and I heard you come upstairs."

"Not very late, I think," he said smoothly. "It was a glorious night, and I wandered on to the road and got as far as the sign-post at the cross-roads. Ah, yes; and I was detained for a little time talking with Hallett! But it was only half-past ten when I came in."

Miss Worcester looked up with some surprise.

"Just eleven, I think, Mr. Layton?"

"No," he insisted, gently, with his persuasive smile. "I compared my watch, which keeps excellent time, with the hall clock."

"I thought it was later. I must have been mistaken. Well, a number of letters you have this morning, Esther! Anything important or of interest?"

"No," she replied, indifferently. "Nothing. Oh, yes; there is a letter from Messrs. Grange & Woodruff, the engineers, about the Hawk's Pool."

"Ah, yes! Let it alone, my dear Esther," said Miss Worcester.

"I shouldn't like that," said Esther, languidly.

"Then don't let them gain a footing," he said, with a laugh. "It would be as bad as letting a sanitary company survey the house; they would find innumerable 'death-traps, as they call them, and you would never be satisfied until they have turned the place topsy-turvy."

"Oh, you let it alone, my dear Esther," said Miss Worcester.

Esther shrugged her shoulders.

"Mr. Gordon said that something ought to be done with it," she said. "But there is no hurry, I suppose."

Selby Layton looked more freely.

"I am afraid Mr. Gordon is a bit of an enthusiast and reformer," he said, with a slight sneer. "The pool does not look very inviting, does it? Such harm up to the present, and it certainly is picturesque."

"I thought you said you had not seen it," remarked Esther, casually.

"I have not," he returned smoothly. "I am relying on my imagination and Miss Worcester's description."

"Well, there is no hurry," said Esther, indifferently. "I will go and look at it."

"What are we going to do to-day?" asked Miss Worcester, who liked to have her plans cut and dried.

Esther met him with an expression of determination on her face. She had resolved that nothing would induce her to go through another tete-a -tete with Mr. Selby-Layton.

"I am going to the village," she said. "You and Mr. Layton may make plans while I am gone."

Invest What You Like in Tires But Invest in Goodyears

HOW much you keep invested in your car you must decide. As far as tires are concerned, Goodyear provides you with your choice. For those who demand the world's greatest mileage, the strongest road-grip, there is the All-Weather Cord. An actual survey of tire repairmen and automobile dealers shows that a large majority of these experts acknowledge the All-Weather Cord to excel the next best tire by over 25%. For those satisfied with a lesser road-grip, for those who want to make a smaller investment in tires, there is the Wingfoot Cord—heaping Goodyear value, exceeded in mileage and road-grip only by the All-Weather.

Goodyear resources and volume production make it possible to build more into a tire of any price class. Goodyear Selected Dealer method of distribution reduces selling cost. 10,000 tire dealers in Canada is far too many—too many profits, too much handling. Goodyear has cut the number of tire dealers to 2,500—selecting in each place those best fitted to render you real service and to give you heaping value.

Let the Goodyear Selected Dealer serve you as he is so well able to do. His stock is fresh, good and fairly priced. His service is really and truly worthwhile.

THREE KILLED AS CAR SMASHES TREE

New York, May 7.—Two unidentified women and a man were killed and another man was seriously injured when a touring car going at a reckless speed crashed into a tree at Riverside Drive and 98 street yesterday.

The injured man is believed to be Alphonse Marcoux, 35, of Riverdale, who was held a prisoner in Knickerbocker Hospital. Police say he was driving the car without the owner's permission.

The man and woman were dead when ambulances arrived. The other woman died while being rushed to the hospital.

Identified By License

Police identified Marcoux from a driver's license found in one of his pockets. He is unconscious and said to be suffering from a fractured skull and internal injuries.

The woman, who died en route to the hospital, is about 25, five feet four inches in height, weighs about 125 pounds and has black bobbed hair.

Patrolmen Laughton and Read rushed to the scene from a point three blocks distant when they heard the crash.

Read declared he saw the car tearing south at a great speed.

In making a sharp turn the car suddenly swerved to the west side of the thirty and rammed the tree.

Buried 75 Feet

A man and woman who had been on the front seat were hurled 75 feet, from the wreck and were instantly killed.

The two others were thrown from 20 to 25 feet, but were alive when the ambulances reached the scene.

The front axle of the car was torn away from the body and the heavy motor burned from its bed. Parts of the machine were build-100 feet.

AFTER BABY COMES

Strength Often Returns Slowly

Mothers May Depend Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Restore a Normal Condition

Many, many letters similar to the following recommend the Vegetable Compound as a wonderful medicine for bringing the mother back to normal health and strength.

It is an excellent restorative, contains no harmful drugs and may be taken in safety by a nursing mother.

Thousands of mothers who have regained their strength by taking it are its best recommendation. Why not take it yourself?

• Could Not Gain Strength

Bury, Quebec.—"I have had great help from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am a different woman now. I was very sickly before my first child was born. I did not get my strength back afterwards, and he did not stay with us long. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for three months before my second child was born, and have taken it occasionally since then. My doctor had said that medicine would not do me much good, but my aunt wished me to try the Vegetable Compound, so I did. I do not go without having it in the house now and I am looking well and feeling fine. I do all my work, sewing and all."—Mrs. John Sharron, Box 59, Bury, Quebec, Oshawa, Ont.—"After my second child was born I was sick and tired all the time so I could not do my own housework. I picked up one of your little books and got all I could and I tried some of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It seemed to help me quite a bit and I felt much better after I had taken the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I thank you for your help and I am taking your medicine right along. If any woman wants to write to me I will tell her the same."—Mrs. J. McGINN, 300 Courcelette Avenue, Oshawa, Ontario.

Before My Baby Came

Vyner, B. C.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my baby came as I was suffering from neuralgia pains. I had not been taking anything for these pains because I thought there was nothing I could do, but when I read about the Vegetable Compound in the 'Vancouver Daily Province' I began taking it; and of two things I am sure, that I had an easier time when the baby came and that it is the best medicine ever. I recommend it to all my friends who suffer as I did, and you can use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. JOSEPH BRACEBRIDGE, 29 9th St. West, Vancouver, B. C.

Go to your neighborhood drug store at once and obtain this Prescription of Dr. Pierce's in tablets or liquid, or send 10c. to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., for trial package.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best tonic for the nursing mother. It aids her by building up of girls and women who are run down, nervous, overworked or afflicted with any of the ills of my family with great success. My daughters have been especially benefited during motherhood by taking Favorite Prescription. It is the best medicine the expectant mother can take for health of herself and baby. Thousands of testimonials say good mother was left in a very bad way and suffering in the way of medicine gave her any help until she began taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and then the use of this medicine' her health was completely restored, and she is as well as ever."—Mrs. Sarah Wilshaw, 625 Cannon St., E. Hamilton, Ont.

REPORT OF DEADLOCK ... CLASSED AS NONSENSE

London, May 6—The Daily Herald, Laborite organ, today terms a "pernicious nonsense" the declarations at Lancaster Saturday by J. J. O'Neill, National Labor M.P., to effect that the Anglo-Russian conference had reached a deadlock on the question of the recognition of debts.

The newspaper declares that on the contrary the negotiations have proceeded with quite unexpected smoothness, and steadiness, all through, and that there are not the slightest signs anywhere of a deadlock.

I charge Mr. O'Neill with taking it in a campaign deliberately started to wreck the conference.

Country and College Show Split Over Butler Attack Against Prohibition In U.S.

New York.—How sharply public opinion is divided on the question of making prohibition was brought forcibly home today to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, from two sources—the country and the college.

Dr. Butler learned that the attendance at Columbia are sharply divided into two factions by his address declaring that prohibition has failed and that the dry law should be repealed. So are their parents.

At the same time, he was receiving letters from all parts of the country lauding him upon his "courageous and "sensible" stand against prohibition.

Parents of some of the students indicated they would cause the withdrawal of their sons and daughters from Columbia unless Dr. Butler retracts his remarks. The students themselves held meetings. Those aligned against Dr. Butler decided that, although they differ with the press's stand, his personal opinion did not justify them in resigning.

The group supporting Dr. Butler asserted he was right in bringing to the attention of the nation the widespread disrespect for law which has resulted from prohibition.

From the country there continued to come an avalanche of letters and telegrams, some critical of Dr. Butler's stand, a great many—hundreds, in fact—warmly laudatory.

"The prohibition amendment will last but one term, or only four years more," a United States Senator wrote according to Dr. Butler.

INTER-ALLIED PARLEY NEAR BRITISH FEEL

Four Premiers Will Likely Meet After French Election

ANOTHER MILESTONE

Anglo-Belgian Conference Paves Way for General Session, Is Feeling

London, May 7.—As a result of Prime Minister Macdonald's conference with Premier Theunis of Belgium at Chequers Court over the week-end it is now generally understood that breaking experts' reparation plan effective in closer at hand than has been generally anticipated, according to the view of British officials who have had an opportunity to learn something of the informal negotiations held at the Premier's official country residence.

The British view is that another milestone has been passed on the long road toward a reparations settlement and that two more are visible ahead.

These are the French elections next Sunday and the Belgian conference with Premier Mussolini at Milan, May 15.

If these are passed successfully, Premiers Macdonald, Poincare, Theunis and Mussolini are likely to meet in London or Paris during June.

The British Foreign Office considers the results of the Chequers Court conference entirely satisfactory, it is the first time since the Ruhr was occupied that personal contact between the British and Belgians and indirect contact with France was established. The tact with France was established. The conversations was such that the officials this morning were optimistic despite the divergence of French and British views.

Having conferred with Premier Poincare in Paris last week the Belgian Premier was able to obtain both the French and Belgian guarantees whether the experts' plan against passive defense. In reply, M. Theunis had from Mr. Macdonald's own mouth the British criticism of such a policy.

It is believed, however, that the Labor Premier made a most favorable impression upon the Belgian ambassador, who has said to have left London confident that the British and French views could be reconciled at an Allied conference table.

The Daily Mail's political correspondent thus summarizes his information: "Most useful progress was made and a further step taken up the ladder at the top of which stands a complete and friendly settlement among the Allied nations. The differences which lately have been so apparent between the French and British official viewpoints have been largely swept away."

No Threat of War for Erin, Thomas Says

Coercion Won't Heal Boundary Dispute, Nor Will Abuse

MEETINGS IN SECRET

Publication Means Injury, Secretary Declares; Will Back Treaty

Derby, England, May 7—In a speech made at a Labor demonstration held at Derby, Jimmy Thomas, the Colonial Secretary, said the Irish boundary problem could not be solved by shooting the Irish leaders. Mr. Thomas declared there must not be talk of another war or of another attempt to coerce Ulster. Such a threat would not bring Ireland in a reasonable frame of mind nor induce her to make a contribution to a settlement of the situation which was desirable.

Mr. Thomas said he had refused in Parliament, and that he intended to continue to refuse, to make public the proposals he made at last week's conference between the Irishmen on behalf of the Government, because the conference was private.

Will Honor Treaty

The delegates were told that they could talk freely, but publication of what had tan-pired would make it difficult to call them together again with any hope of settlement.

The Government, Mr. Thomas added did not intend to treat the Anglo-Irish Treaty as a scrap of paper, but to honor it in spirit and letter.

NEW YORK YOUTH FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Appeals Against Death Sentence at Montreal

New York, May 7.—Eugene Lafleur, of the Montreal law firm of Lafleur, MacDougall, Macfarlane & Barclay, and one of the leading members of the Canadian bar, has agreed to represent Walter Main, the New York youth sentenced to be hanged for murder, when his case comes up before the court of appeals at Montreal on May 15, according to word received by Howard Carter Dickenson, 31 West Fortieth street, who is acting here for Main's mother.

May Retain Lafleurm

At the suggestion of Mr. Lafleur, negotiations are now in progress to obtain the services of N. K. Laflamme of Montreal, a leading criminal lawyer, to argue the appeal.

Young Main who was camped in a traveling house over the Canadian border, shot and killed a man named Lavigne in the Windsor hotel at Valleyfield Que., on September 22 last. Lavilette was seated at an adjoining table with a cripple, and Main, who was intoxicated, asserts he fired when Lavilette was about to strike his crippled companion.

Not Permitted To Testify

It is argued in behalf of Main that he was not permitted by his own counsel to take the witness stand, and that conviction for manslaughter, not murder, was justified by the facts. Should a new trial be granted, an effort will be made to obtain a change of venue, as it is said that local sentiment at Valleyfield is greatly influenced against Main because of his boat legging operations.

Reparations Report Wins Polls Favor

Enough Deputies For Dawes Plan Named, Leaders Think

Berlin, May 6.—Gains by Nationalists and Communists, losers of Reichstag seats by the Socialists and apparent approval for the Dawes reparation plan were the outstanding features of Sunday's general election, it was revealed by returns to-day.

Coalition leaders said sufficient deputies favorable to the Dawes plan had been elected to assure official approval of the Marx Government's acceptance of the plan.

Communist strength in the Reichstag jumped from three seats to about 50, or about half the number of Socialists.

Foreign Secretary Gustav Stresemann's party lost heavily. This was the party of the late Hugo Stinnes.

Loses Communists Out

The Government will be reorganized, but it is accepted as a certainty that the same parties will be represented in the new coalition Government as the old Centrist, German Peoples and Democratic party. Despite the strong gains of the Communist party there appears no likelihood that they will be brought into the next coalition.

The decline of Socialist strength was a big surprise although it had been forecast several days ago that the two extremes probably would be the largest gainers—Nationalists and Communists.

Political leaders discussed two possibilities regarding the next Government:

Coalition or Bourgeois

1—In accordance with his announced program, Chancellor Marx may form a coalition Government of middle parties, including Germans Democrats, but leaving out the Nationalists;

2—Form a bourgeois Government including German Nationalists, German Peoples Party, Centrists and Democrats, leaving out the Socialists.

In view of the German Nationalist's aggressive attitude, the first is the likelier of the two.

Among the Reichstag candidates elected were Ruth Fisher, a woman Communist leader; Count Westarp, a Nationalist; Herr Dernburg, Herr Schneeking and Count von Bernstorff former ambassador to Washington.

Although Foreign Secretary Stresemann was elected, his party—German People's Party—lost about 20 seats.

The Republican party made a ridiculous showing.

The Centrists kept their place, obtaining about 65 seats.

The Democrats probably will have 30.

RUHR REDS CALL STRIKE OF 300,000

Communists Open New Campaign Against Mine Owners

"LOYALISTS" REMAIN

Trade Unions in Counter Manifesto, But Walkout Plan Wins Support

Essen, Germany, May 8.—Flashed with success in the general strike of German Communists in the Ruhr today precipitated a general strike of coal miners. This was regarded as the opening gun of a new Red campaign.

After the Communists issued their strike call, agitating for a seven-hour working shift, the Ruhr trade unions issued a counter manifesto warning their members not to join the strike.

Despite the action of the "loyalists," the strike went into effect.

Extended to Saxony

Berlin, May 8.—The lockout declared against the miners in the Ruhr Valley, which is estimated to have thrown 300,000 men out of work, was extended today to Saxony, where owners moved to declare the lockout because of the refusal of the workers in the Chemnitz and Zwickau districts to work more than eight hours.

Refusal of the Ruhr Valley miners to accept a working day of more than seven hours underground and eight hours on the surface was the cause of a lockout, in that area.

It is predicted that 300,000 metal workers in the Ruhr region will be involved in the labor trouble by to-morrow. The occupation authorities have promised strict neutrality.

Reports from Ruhr to the effect that the Separatists and Communists are taking advantage of the situation are believed to enlist the dissatisfied workers for their respective causes.

GARAGE ROOF BLAZE CAUSES MILD SCARE

Fire which broke out in the roof of Dr. Porter's brick garage at the rear of his residence corner of Church street and Victoria Ave., yesterday afternoon at 3.30 did small damage but necessitated the appearance of the service, of the fire fighters with all equipment.

Firemen say that which children were playing, are believed to have started the old shingles on the roof.

After one line of hose had been connected, and a stream of water played upon the roof, the fire was quickly extinguished, and the chief damage being to the shingles by the water pressure.

Arbitration Is Over Till Friday

The arbitration proceedings in the matter of George Evans and Edward Keeley vs. the Corporation of the City of Belleville, occupied the attention of the arbitrators all yesterday. When the court adjourned it stood adjourned until 10 o'clock on Friday morning.

Mr. J. J. Mill who was City Engineer when the material was placed on Sanford street which it is alleged caused damage to Keeley and Galloway's and Evans' property by water being backed up. Mr. Evans was given permission to place material in some low spots on the street but was not given permission to raise the grade of the street.

Ald. Trevertyne gave evidence to the effect that he was not aware of any instructions being given to place material on Sanford street.

The whole basis of the defence is that the city officials were not responsible for the placing of material on the street of such quantities as to cause any trouble.

CLAIMS UNION BREAKS FOUR CHURCH LAWS

Rev. Stuart Parker of Toronto Champions Fundamentals

CONSTITUTION LOSES

Principles Defined by Mair Departed From Under Bill, He Asserts

Ottawa, May 8.—"The Presbyterian Church is not a local church, it is nationale, it is a church with branches here, there and everywhere. It is a church with a soul, about which one may speak in the east and in the west."

With this declaration, Rev. Stuart Parker, of Toronto, resumed his argument against the church union bill before the Commons private bills committee.

He defined the constitution of the Presbyterian Church, on the authority of Matr, Presbyterian divine and ecclesiastical lawyer, as being those laws which cannot be departed from without changing its basic character. I atics: ◆

Says All Four Broken

He then pointed out four points in which these fundamental laws have been departed from in the basis of the union. It contained, he said, changes:

(1) From Calvinistic theology to non-Calvinistic theology.

(2) From church government solely by elders to government not solely by elders.

(3) From a church in which all Presbyters are equal to one in which one or more Presbyters shall be called chief executive officers.

(4) From ordination solely by the act of Presbytery, to ordination not solely or not at all by act of Presbytery.

"The Methodist Church could have united with the Presbyterian Church by accepting the Westminster confession," stated Mr. Parker.

Not Changed by Laughter

He was desiring, as suggested by T. W. Bird of Nelson, a member of the committee, that his attitude implied that the Presbyterian Church could not unite with another church, and his answer, as quoted above, brought upon of the audience of laughter of the moraine.

The committee room was crowded, crowded by spectators and Chairman McGibbon had to call them to order repeatedly as the witness made pointed retort.

THE WEATHER

BEATTY URGES BOARD CHECK FOR NATIONAL

Would See Commission on Branches Before Building Them

NOT FAIR TO C.P.R.

Two Phases Hurt Dominion and Companies, Asserts Railway President

Montreal, May 8.—There were two phases of the present railway situation of Canada which involved objectionable and discriminatory features not in the interests of the transportation companies themselves, or in the opinion in the interests of the people of the Dominion, C. R. W. Beatty said in the course of his presidential address at the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

One was of the special powers vested in the National system by virtue of the statute passed in 1919 under which the company was given power to build lines without approval as to location and other details by the railway commission.

Urged its Unfairness

When the statute was passed Mr. Beatty said the company had strongly urged upon the Government the unfairness of such provisions and asked that all companies should be put in the same position. Under the powers given the Canadian National might parallel or duplicate existing lines of any other company once the Minister of Railways and Parliament authorized the necessary expenditure.

It was his opinion that that company should be brought entirely within the provisions of the railway act.

The existence of special statutory rates made under conditions which did not pertain and which had no relation to present day costs and operating conditions, and involving no great objections in rates which, under the general railway act would not be permitted because their unfairness in relation to statutory rates on other articles by Special music at each service. All Welcome.

U. E. L. Committee Offers Vacation to Motorists

A matter of more than passing interest was brought up at the executive meeting of the U. E. L. Celebration last night when motion for advertising and publicity were discussed.

It was proposed that autos be sent at the committees' expense to various parts of Ontario and Quebec, pointing out attractions, there are advertising the celebration, in all towns and cities along the respective routes It would be necessary to have about six volunteers for the work, and as the whole celebration will go along with the volunteer, both for company and to aid in the work.

As the committee is to pay all expenses, this affords local car owners a chance to get a real vacation without cost and do a great service for the city. All applications are to be phoned or sent to Chas. Marine, chairman, Walker Hardware Co., Limited,

SIX MILLIONS IN METHODIST CHURCH UNION

Episcopal Links With South in U.S.; Old Wounds Healed

SPLIT BY CIVIL WAR

Conference at Springfield Cements Ag Factions Divided on Slavery

Springfield, Mass. May 8.—Wounds dating from the slavery agitation in Civil War days were healed today in the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church when final action was taken uniting the northern and southern branches of the church, dividing on slavery lines in the heated discussions prior to the Civil War. All efforts to bring the two branches together had since proven futile.

The union as not effected will give a combined membership of more than six millions.

The Methodist Episcopal Church having 4,500,000 members and the Methodist Church South 2,000,000.

Hailed with Enthusiasm

The action of the conference was hailed with great enthusiasm. The delegates rose in response to a motion of many years of the two great bodies of Methodism in this country.

Four years ago a joint commission was named by the two conferences and a plan for a union prepared.

The two branches will be joined as one but there will be two jurisdictions administered by the respective bishops and districts as now.

A name for the joint organization will be chosen at the first conference of the entire bodies of the church. Colored people of the south are in churches in the jurisdiction of the Methodist Episcopal Church, while the white Methodists of the south are in the Methodist Church South. The arrangement for separate jurisdictions will meet the racial problems that are involved, it is believed.

Liquor Carrying Vehicles May Be Confiscated by Police—Became Law on Wednesday

Fetured in the amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act which was passed at the last session of the Ontario Legislature, and which became effective and law yesterday, is the clause providing for the seizure of any which liquor is found. The amendment reads:

"Whenever it appears to the satisfaction of a magistrate who has convicted any person of selling intoxicating liquor, or keeping such liquor for sale contrary to the provisions of this act, that any vehicle which has been seized under the provisions of sub-section two of section seventy of this act has been used in connection with the offence for which such conviction may be made, or in connection with the offence for which such conviction may be made, or in connection with the offence for which such conviction may be made, or

FACTS HARD TO REFUTE

Facts are hard to refute. Surmises and probabilities can always be denied but the cold truth placed in concise and clear form can not be set aside with a gesture. Hon. Arthur Meighen has not given interviews with allegations based on surmises, or charges based on politics, but has dug into the Ottawa fiasco silently but no less effectively.

The Intelligencer has drawn the fire of the Toronto Globe on several instances for our policy of stating facts no matter when they may hit, but their recent editorial on our statement that Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen was actually the father of our Canadian National Railways does not deny. Facts are hard to refute.

The latest public service of Mr. Meighen has been the exposure of the Liberal dipping into the "treasle" barrel. It can hardly be called the time "pork barrel" as pork does not stick to the fingers. It is the sticking to the fingers that has betrayed the "Liberals" in Ontario.

Economy is truly a wonderful word when applied to this government and while their little deeds in and around Ottawa may seem trifling; they are emblematic of the large scale performances outside. Intimate details from the public accounts are both amusing and shocking, and at the moment are the talk of the capital. The Prime Minister for instance, also holds the portfolio of External Affairs, and to help him in his study of international relations evidently indulges in an afternoon cup of tea. No one objects to that, but when the daily refreshment involves the purchase of an electric silver tea ball at a cost of $18, it is time something was done. A tea ball be it known is a gadget in which careful housewives put tea before dropping the whole arrangement into the teapot. It saves time and trouble in cleaning out the pot afterwards; and it may be that the Prime Minister found the latter task distasteful. Finally a tea ball can be purchased in any five and ten for the modest sum of fifteen cents. The electric tea apparatus is the choice of but two firms and three landlubbers at a cost of $17 are not far behind. What these articles have to do with governing the Canadian nation no one has yet been able to discover, but certainly the Prime Minister ought to offer something in the way of an explanation. A red marble dial clock costing $120 for the Department of External Affairs may be helpful in timing ultimatums to Turkey with which country we are at war, but there is no reason why an ordinary alarm clock costing $2 would not do just as well.

Again each of the Ministers, for the first time in the history of Canada has equipped himself with a costly fleet of automobiles in which to journey in state from residence to office. The upkeep charges noted in the public accounts will find sympathetic understanding in the hearts of all second-hand automobile owners, by, there is no sound reason why high class cars should jaunt such terrific carrying charges.

HARMONY AGAIN

One of the most gratifying events of the past week in local circles is the restoration of complete harmony in the ranks of those who are trying to "put over" the U.E.L. celebration in unprecedented style. Belleville now has an opportunity to get behind the public eye, not only of Ontario, but of the entire Continent, and the earnest efforts of those in charge and working on various committees is bearing fruit.

Some Belleville Old Boys have wandered far in the past decade; some have kept in touch with their birthplace, but many have not. The wide advertising and publicity is now drawing Belleville again into the memories of many who have not seen their home town for many years. One letter, from Vancouver, stated that forty years have elapsed since the writer was in the Bay of Quinte town, and it looks mighty good to see his birthplace occupying the front page and doing it in a becoming manner for a good cause.

"DOK OUT "FIDO"

One of our local citizens has taken a novel and likely effective method of removing the canine nuisance from his garden plot and home grounds. In a letter to this office, L. W. Marsh states that any dogs found unmuzzled and scratching up his grounds will be promptly shot. While this treatment may seem somewhat drastic, there is no doubt that the canine will trouble him no more, if properly shot.

Mr. Marsh went even further and has advertised his stand in no uncertain manner in the classified columns of the local papers. It will likely prove advisable for those owning pets with destructive tendencies to keep Fido at home.

FOUR ARTISTS HURT

Montreal, May 8.—Four famous British artists were injured in a serious motor car smash which occurred after the midnight supper, Sir Austen Hall, president of the Royal Academy, and Sir Luke Fildes are in the hospital, badly hurt, and Sir William Llewellyn and S. Melton Fisher are being attended at their home, for less serious injuries.

They were returning from the annual banquet of the Royal Academy through Kensington in Sir Austen's automobile when a motor lorry crashed into the car, wrecking it.

Police men extricated Sir Austen and Sir Luke, both of whom were unconscious, and removed them to a hospital where they are progressing favorably as can be expected, considering their advanced ages.

Wonders of Your Body

The Importance of the Blood in Maintaining Good Health

Everybody should have some knowledge of the mechanism of the body and of the important function which the blood performs. Every drop of blood in your body passes through your veins many times every day, carrying off impurities and getting cleansed of them in the kidneys and lungs. When the blood is thin and weak it becomes overloaded with impurities. This shows in many ways your face grows sallow and often impurities form themselves through the skin, forming pimples and lumbago. Then again rheumatism and lumbago owe their origin to impure blood. Also indigestion, lack of appetite and inability to derive nourishment from food are due to the failure of the blood to keep the stomach fit for its work.

Almost everyone needs, from time to time, richer, better blood, and for this purpose there is nothing to equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The purifying effect of these pills on the blood soon shows in improved appetite, increased vitality and a new joy in living. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Manila—Women are to be admitted as students in the University of Santo Tomas beginning with the school year of 1924-1925. The change in the university's policy was recently approved by the Pope, and ecclesiastic officials have arranged to admit young women into the institution's college of pharmacy at the opening of the next school year.

The University of Santo Tomas was founded more than three hundred years ago, and is the oldest university in the world under the American flag.

Think Police Keeping Tab On Matthews
Many Believe Ontario Authorities Are in Close Touch
Toronto.—People in touch with the probe into Provincial Treasury affairs are expressing anastemic hot spots in the situation has been taken toward Charles Matthews, former Deputy Treasurer, back to Toronto. As yet the police circulars asking for his extradition have not been sent broadcast.
It was stated that Matthews has been in touch with Toronto friends quite recently of late, so that, if his arrest had been determined upon it could have been made without great difficulty.
Authorities in Touch
It is believed by some that the authorities are in touch with him. The fact that no direct police action has been taken tends to strengthen this view.
L. C. Mason, son-in-law of Matthews, is also still absent from Toronto, and there is a strong feeling that he is with Matthews.
It is also believed Crown officers have not as yet taken any specific steps toward having Andrew Pepall brought back from Los Angeles in connection with the trial of former Treasurer Peter Smith. It is understood at the Parliament Buildings that such action is contemplated. Mr. Pepall is named in connection with the conspiracy charge against Mr. Smith.
Let Him Make Move
It is said that the Crown has awaited some indication on the part of Mr. Pepall of willingness to come back to Canada and testify as to the correctness of his former dealings with the ex-Treasurer and similar affairs of Co. and, failing such a declaration from Mr. Pepall that other means may be taken.
Opinion among those who have to do with extradition matters is that there would not be much difficulty in getting Mr. Pepall to come to Canada as a witness in the Peter Smith trial.
The one difficulty at the moment is the way of Mr. Pepall's position is that a conspiracy charge, in which he is named, also stands with Mr. Smith, is not extraditable, and some other charge would have to be laid in the manors for his extradition. Out of the preliminary hearing of Mr. Smith's case in Police Court next Wednesday action may come which will pave the way for the return of Mr. Pepall.

Arrange Big Parades.

Four counties will be represented in the parade of Orange Ledges, and letters have been sent from various leaders stating their willingness to co-operate with Alderman Chief Brown who has charge of parade arrangements.

The Women's Canadian Club and other organizations have offered their assistance, and willingness to go to Adolphustown to take charge of refreshments and entertainment.

In order to make as large a showing as possible it was suggested that all fraternal societies get in touch with Chief Brown regarding their plans for the big fraternal parade, and ensure proper representation of their lodges.

As there are expected to be many thousands of visitors whom the hotels will be unable to take care of, the offer of several local ladies, organizations to place lunch concessions at various points throughout the city was heartily approved of.

Insurance Planned

Chairman Chas. Hanna was delegated to obtain rates on rain insurance for the parents and fire insurance for prizes, which will be on display in the armouries.

Mrs. Beck

ladies, wear store, saw Mrs. Beck the first afternoon she came into the store on March 6th. On the 8th or 9th of March, other garments as described by Mrs. Bisbey were procured by accused, and she decided to keep the goods on March 11th. Mrs. Bisbey received the cheque on March 20th which was handed to Mr. O'Brien. (Witness identified the cheque which is an exhibit.) The balance of the cheque, $30, was paid to Mrs. Beck by witness.

I placed the cheque in the Standard Bank but it was returned as worthless. Mrs. Beck stated that the funds would be paid for by cheque on Royal Bank at St. Johns.

On March 22nd, three more dresses were purchased by Mrs. Beck. This was the last purchase made at the MacVeigh store, but she made purchases through that store at the Ritchie Co. for $76.50 and at Webber's Limited for about $45.

On March 26th Mrs. Beck gave another cheque for $250 and was given $75 on this cheque.

In cross examination, witness told of the local milliner telephoning the store introducing Mrs. Beck as one she said wished to make purchases and was alright.

Witness would not consent to lay the blame of credit upon the milliner who introduced accused.

Chief Kidd Testifies

Chief Kidd who arrested Mrs. Beck told of a conversation between himself and Mrs. Beck after her arrest, and after she had been duly warned that anything which she said might be used against her at her trial.

No inducements were held out to her by the chief, but she said that she had no money in the Royal Bank at St. Johns and has not had any account there for some time.

Charged with procuring $50 by false pretences from the MacVeigh store on March 20th, Mr. J. O'Brien told of Mrs. Beck giving a cheque for $300 on March 20th, tendered in payment of some of the merchandise. She received $50 as her cash balance after her debts had been paid up temporarily. "I personally gave her the $50 and put the cheque in the Standard Bank next morning. Seven days later I saw the cheque at the Bank, attached to a protest slip" explained the manager.

Chief Alexander Kidd told of his conversation with Mrs. Beck on the train coming from Toronto on April 22nd when he brought her here for her trial. During the trip accused stated that she had no account at the Royal Bank at St. Johns N. B. and had not for some time.

On the second charge of procuring $75 by false pretences, on March 24th from the MacVeigh store, Mrs. Bisbey recalled, told of receiving the second cheque at Hotel Quinte on March 24th for $250 for dresses and money loaned on the account. "The money loaned was taken to the Hotel by me after a note supposed to have been nursing Mrs. Beck at the Hotel, had phoned the store asking that a loan be made," witness explained, Mr. O'Brien gave the $75 loan which was taken to the Hotel by me. Later Mrs. Beck wanted a $100 loan but this request was refused.

EMPIRE IN AFRICA

London, May 8.—France is building an African empire far surpassing the ancient domains of Rome and Carthage, according to David P. Barrows, former president of the University of California, one of the world's greatest exports him, who is returning to the United because of its proximity to North and States after a study of the French col- South America, it being so close to onial administration, which, he said, is equipped most favorably with the colonial reinforcements of any country. Dr. Barrows also predicts that the Panama Canal will be overshadowed by the Dakar project, which he says will be completed in 1927. The French plan to make Dakar, he declared, the greatest seaport in the world, and one of the world's greatest airports. The French railroad system, he said, is being rushed to completion, which, he said, is being rushed to completion, which, he said, is being rushed to completion, which

NOTHING TO JUSTIFY DIVERSION OF WATER

Washington, May 7.—The state department has made public an exchange of notes, through the British embassy here, dealing with the diversion of water from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, via the Chicago drainage canal and Canada's protests.

The state department made no comment in releasing the notes, nor was any information available as to the reasons for releasing them at this moment, in the midst of the lower rivers and harbors committee hearings of bills to provide for the withdrawal at Chicago. Those hearings will be resumed on Wednesday, with Chicago presenting its evidence.

On Feb. 18, 1924, came a note to Mr. Hughes, saying that the British government wished to have a representative present at the hearings on waterways bills. This permission later was granted, in a final note of April 2, 1924, but in between came a note on Feb. 13, 1924, from the British embassy, which clearly pointed out Canada's attitude.

Canada's Stand Outlined

It read, in part as follows:

"The Dominion government observes that no provision is made for the restoration of the levels of the St. Lawrence river from its head to tidewater. In other words, the restoration to be provided in the legislation is to be in the waters where U. S. navy predominates, but no such restoration is provided for the waters so extensively used by Canadian shipping.

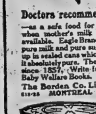

Reports submitted to the Canadian government during recent months refer not only to the loss of levels that affect navigation, but also to the diversion of water for power purposes, both in the international stretches, where compensation may be determined, and in the international stretches."

Communists, New Factor With France

Paris—The new electoral system which will be tried for the second time in the French election of May 11 is considered that even by the Frenchman who can explain it is rare.

The voting, however, is simple; it resembles the Australian system, but the method of counting the votes and determining the result is the product of several years of study to arrive at a reasonable representation of minority parties in Parliament. Incidentally this has abolished the old second balloting that was resorted to when no candidate had a majority, and put an end to coalitions between two parties to beat a third on the second try.

Reform Nominations

Formerly deputies were elected by arrondissement. The reform provided that they be elected by department, that is to say, the electoral district for deputies comprises the entire department instead of a single arrondissement. And there are on each ticket as many candidates as the department is entitled to. The theory permitted the immunization of what is called the "quotient" system to obtain the decent representation of minorities by choosing the deputies elected in proportion to the strength of the parties.

The "quotient" is obtained by dividing the number of votes cast in the election by the number of deputies to be elected. Each party is entitled to as many deputies as its rate contains multiples of the quotient. Here is an example: The department of the Rhone, which comprises the city of Lyons, elects 12 deputies. In 1919 the total vote polled was 194,396; that total divided by the number of seats to be filled, 12, produced he quotient 16,200.

The "National Block" ticket in the Rhone polled 58,000 vote, the Radicals 27,800, the Socialists 38,600, a ticket of war veterans 12,300, and there were about 7000 scattering votes. The four highest candidates on the "National Block" ticke were declared elected by the quotient, as the total of that ticket contained the quotient four times. The Socialists were entitled to three and the third Radicals to two, leaving one seat open. The new electoral law provides that when there are seats left over the calculations on the basis of the quotient have been made, they go to the ticket having the highest average vote. In this case it was the "National Block" that was highest, and seven of its candidates were declared elected.

Form New Party

In this department this year, the Socialists and Radicals have formed a coalition. If they should together get the total of the votes cast for their two tickets last year they would have an absolute majority, and every one of the twelve seats of the department. That is what they hope to do, but a new and uncertain element in the field this year is the Communist party. No one knows exactly how great a proportion of the Socialists went over to the Communists, but if, as frequently estimated, the defections are more than 50 per cent the coalition would barely equal the strength of the "National Block," and, there being no absolute majority, the seats would be distributed by application of the quotient and the highest average vote.

The Socialists and Radicals calculate that they lost together 105 seats from the reflection of the law in 1919, and they hope to get them all back through their coalition this year.

U.S. ELECTION MAY HIT SNAG ON PRESIDENT

Washington, May 6.—The biggest political question mark of the 1924 campaign, in the person of Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin, left the capital to-day for an indefinite period, maintaining the same grim silence as to his future plans that has kept political leaders of both major parties guessing for weeks.

LaFollette departed for Atlantic City, where he plans to spend two weeks or more in recuperating from the illness that has kept him off the congressional battle line most of this session. Upon the results of this recuperative period, and the political developments of the next month depend whether LaFollette will throw a monkey wrench into the political machinery of the old parties by heading a third or independent ticket this fall.

Throw It Into House

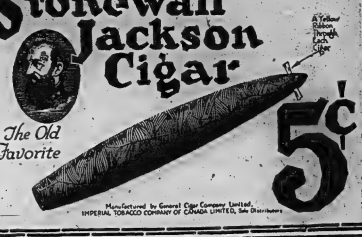

That the election of the President may and probably will be thrown into the House of Representatives if LaFollette runs is generally conceded by both Republican and Democratic leaders. Irrespective of whom the Democrats nominate at New York, it is fairly close election is anticipated, and it would take but the defection of a few states to a third party candidate to prevent either Coolidge or his Democratic opponent from obtaining the necessary majority in the electoral college.

According to LaFollette's present intentions, as revealed to friends here, he does not plan to make any announcement of his course of action until both parties have nominated their candidates.

Progressives To Meet

A conference for progressive political action will meet in Cleveland on July 4 and this will afford the Wisconsin insurgent a vehicle for announcement of his candidacy if he cares to take advantage of it.

Brantford ROLL ROOFING
Is made in many weights and styles. Save money by getting the kind that suits your building.

FOUR-IN-ONE
This style of Brantford Asphalt Slates never runs in laying and makes a good-looking roof. Four blending colors.

TAPERED SLATES
For fine architectural effects and the utmost in protection and wear. Four satisfying colors.

Brantford ASPHALT SHINGLES
Of Brantford quality, in a special design, making a low-cost roof. Particularly adapted for cottages. Two colors, Red and Green.

MANY kinds of roofing are made by this Company. They differ in form—in weight—and in price.

Not one of them could be selected as the best for all purposes.

'Yet, each is best for one purpose.

For that reason we do not wish to force sales of any one brand of Brantford Roofing. We try rather to induce customers to select the brands of Brantford Roofing that will give them the best roofs for their purpose—the best value for their money.

Save Money by choosing the proper kind of Roofing

The way sales of Brantford Asphalt Slates have grown shows that builders want this 100% roof which affords perfect protection and promises enduring service.

Hard-headed, they make assurance doubly sure by having the "best money can buy."

When Brantford Asphalt Slates are not required there is a brand of Brantford Roll Roofing of the highest quality in the proper weight for buildings of a permanent character.

Yet, for the building of temporary character there is a brand of Brantford Roll Roofing that would be a wise buy.

Brantford Asphalt Slates come in wide range

The nature and purpose of the roof dictates the style that will give greatest satisfaction. Brantford Asphalt Slates are supplied in four colors, red, tile-red, green and blue-black. They come in single shingles, in four-in-one slabs, in tapered slates for the best architectural effects, and in Arro-locks a special design making a low cost roof.

The Best Roof is the one that suits the building

It is our aim to make every Brantford Roof the best roof for the building it covers. On that business policy a reputation has been built up for a wide range of roofings bearing the one master trade-mark "Brantford."

If you are building—or re-roofing—any type of building—and you want the best roof for the purpose—you will get it in a Brantford Roof.

Ask the Brantford dealers or write to the Brantford Roofing Co., Limited, at Brantford.

KINGSTON TEAM GETS INTO SHAPE

Snappy Fielding, Good Hurling and Heavy Slugging Mark Ponies as Noteworthy Contenders

Kingston, May 8.—Kingston's entry in the Central League had their best workout of the season Tuesday night, when the entire squad unravelled their kinks at the Fair Grounds, and showed vast improvement in their work. The work of the pitchers was especially noteworthy, with Kelly serving up stuns that are sure to baffle the hitters on the other teams, while the warriors had their battle-clubs swinging with a vengeance.

"Al" Rinkus donned the pads and mask, while Kelly pitched to the batters, and they were no mean hooks that were coming across. Later Rice went behind the bat with Gallagher pitching, and old Ted was in rare form.

In the infield Purvis Evans, Compeau and Batstone showed mid-summer form. Evans took nicely to second base, and played it as though it was his regular position, while Batstone was the same reliable on third base. Out in the dew drops, Cherry Daley and Trepell made some sensational catches backing almost to the track, and picking them off in defence. The batting practice was great and showed that the players haven't far to go before they will be ready for any team. It was gratifying to Manager Daley to see the way the players were hammering the ball, and he is confident that when they face the southpaw slants of "Duke" Dainty they'll uncork a punch that will be sure to win.

ON THE ALLEYS

Last night at the Y alleys two games played in the mixed league the first one between the Greyhounds and Onwards which he former won by 63 pins. The Greyhounds took an early lead in the first two games which the Onwards could not overcome in the last game but were right in there trying all the time. Weir and Lynch had quite a battle the latter beating his opponent by two pins. Mrs. Lee carried off the honors for the ladies in the single and three string with 293 and 811 while former Weir took the single with 233 and Lynch the three string with 573.

Champion Orioles Bow to Toronto

Toronto, May 8.—The five-time champion Baltimore Orioles yesterday finished up their first series in Toronto this season, and, as Jack Dunn hustled his players aboard the rattler bound for Syracuse last night he cried: "You beat us good, but keep it up and bond the other fellows just as sound a lacing as you did my Birds." And the champions did get a real trouncing during their three-day visit. It is some time since the Leafs were able to take three out of four games from the Orioles, but they accomplished it this time. They followed up the 3-2 twelve-inning victory of Tuesday by walloping both ends of yesterday's double-header, 6 to 5 in the first game and 5 to 0 in the getaway tilt, which went seven innings by agreement. And Baltimore was outplayed and beaten by a bigger margin than the scores show. A home run into the left-field bleachers, one of the longest that ever made at the Island, by Joe Cobb, in the ninth inning of the first game, scoring three runs and ruining the Leafs' lead from four to one. A home run by Kelly with Cobb hoofing on base in the fifth inning, and another smash for the round by Cooney in the sixth, helped in the slaughter of the Birds. Kelly's crash, which sent the ball over the right-field bleachers into the Bay, was a terrific bit into the teeth of a very strong wind, and it was the outfielder's third homer in as many days.

FORTY THOUSAND GIRLS IN TRAINING IN CANADA TODAY

Never at Any Time in History of Nation Has Outlook Seemed so Bright for Efficient Leadership of Young People

That the Sunday Schools of Canada contain over one million boys and girls was the interesting statement made by Rev. F. B. Hayward at a gathering of the Religious Educational Council of Canada, held in the National Training School in Toronto. There has also been 41 summer schools where leadership training was given during the year, and 2850 older boys and girls had been trained in these camps.

Dr. Hayward pointed out that these large figures were all the more interesting in that the summer camps were for specific training in leadership, and were not recreational camps as well, of which there were a great many throughout the Dominion. There were, he said, 2776 groups of Canadian girls in training, containing 40,000 girls, and never at any time in the history of Canada had the outlook been so promising for efficient leadership of young people than at the present time.

Twenty Units Represented

At the meeting of the Council on Friday, there were no less than 20 units represented. Among these were the Anglican Board of Religious Education, Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Evangelical, and Disciples, representatives. Also leaders from the Young Men's Christian Association and the Young Women's Christian Association, and the Student Christian Movement. From outside of the Province of Ontario there were the Rev. E. E. McLean and Miss Annie Fountain, from British Columbia; Mr. A. W. Sprague and Miss Evelyn Story, from Alberta; Mr. W. Scott and Miss Rona Mills, from Saskatchewan; Mr. W. D. Soole and Miss Willard Dalmadge, from Manitoba; Miss D. L. Gaw, from Quebec; and Mr. J. R. Sims, Miss Marjorie Trotter and Rev. Frank Milligan, from the Maritime Provinces.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

There was something in her tone which forbade him to offer the accompany her, and he was afraid to make the suggestion. And indeed he wanted to be alone to face the situation, to consider his position. It was not an unpromising one by any means: Denzil Dene—was out of the way, silenced for ever, and he, Selby Layton, was almost the affianced of the mistress of Vaincourt Towers.

Esther put on her hat, almost mechanically, walked to the home farm. She scanned herself that she wanted to see Nettie, between whom and herself a very strong affection had grown up; but she knew in her innermost heart that she wanted to know whether Mr. Gordon was still at Vaincourt.

She went up the garden-path of the lodge and knocked at the door, and Mrs. Martin's voice crying "Come in!" entered.

Mrs. Martin was folding some snowy linen on the table, but at Esther's entrance she drew a chair forward for the young mistress, as she called Esther.

"And how is Martin?" she asked, as she seated herself.

"He's getting on, miss," replied Mrs. Martin. "He's about the farm some where. I don't know as he is getting enough yet."

"But it is very unwise of him," said Esther. "He will probably make himself bad again."

"Yes, miss; very likely," responded Mrs. Martin. "But, you see, he is obliged to get about now, for Mr. Gordon has gone."

Esther's heart sank, and the sunlight that poured in through the window seemed suddenly to grow pale and lose its warmth.

"Mr. Gordon gone?" she asked, in a still voice.

"Yes, miss. He great last night, quite sudden like, as you may say. I had no idea he was going to leave, and yet I wasn't surprised."

"Why?" asked Esther.

"Well, you see, miss, I always suspicioned that Mr. Gordon wasn't like one of ourselves; that he was what you might call a gentleman, that is the class he would get tired of working on a farm; and when he came last year I could see he was going, though I was mortally grieved, I wasn't surprised."

Esther was silent for a moment. Her sense of loss made her speechless.

"You will miss him!" she said, weakly.

Mrs. Martin nodded.

"Yes, miss, we shall, all of us. I don't know what Martin will do without him. He"—meaning Martin—"seems as if he had lost his right hand, which he has; and Nettie—well, there, Nettie is makin' no secret of it."

"Married" is the word in Vaincourt which means "dazed" and "bewildered."

At this moment Nettie came in. She was a big girl with an anxious, woe-begone face, and uttered her plaint at once without preface.

"I want Jack!" she wailed. "Mother says he's gone. But I want him, I want him!"

Esther's heart reduced the child's cry.

"You mustn't fret, Nettie," she said, as she lifted the child on her knee. "He may come back yesterday!"

"But I want him now!" said Nettie, with infantile insistence. "Mother says that he tiened me 'dood-bye;' but that's the use of that when I want him?"

Esther tried to console the child, but Nettie's grief was not to be assuaged, and Esther, as she left the house, found herself still echoing Nettie's cry: "I want him, I want him!"

She lingered at the gate talking to Mrs. Martin.

"At what time did Mr. Gordon go?" she asked, with well-affected indifference.

"Quite late, Miss," Martin had gone to bed. Oh, it might be eleven or three o'clock. I was just thinking of turning up, and in he came; and he looked so pale and upset that I thought something was the matter, and I up and asked him. Then he said he was going—and he went. It's terrible sudden, and I don't know what Martin will do, he's a lame still; and as for Nettie—well, there's no knowing, but—"

Esther tried to look indifferently and at ease.

"Oh, Martin must get another foreman," she said.

She walked on aimlessly, Nettie's cry still in her ears, and as her mind's eye surveyed herself as being some one of the sunshine, a sadness seemed to reign over everything. The house, though perhaps she should never see him again in it, was full sacred to her heart.

Presently she found herself at the end of the little village, opposite the consecrated cottages, and she saw Kate Trant-ham shaking a blanket at the door. The sight of the girl was not welcome to her—for one thing, Kate Tramham regard to Jack Gordon?—but she beckoned, and quickly opened the gate and walked up the path.

Kate stood with the table-cloth in her hand waiting the approach of the young mistress of Vaincourt Towers, and Esther noticed not only the girl's beauty, which was in her wealth of brown hair and her large eyes, but her pallor and weary expression of Kate's

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mrs. Jack Latour, of Latta, is reported to be doing nicely after her evisceration on Sunday.

A very happy time was spent last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Kellaway, Everett street, when a surprise party was held in honor of Mrs. Everett Smith (nee Miss Marie Highland), former member of the Kellaway staff. About thirty friends were present and the evening was spent in games, after which a very dainty lunch was served. The guests departed in the wee small hours wishing Mr. and Mrs. Smith many happy days.

Old-Fashioned Sales Obsolete

Many women remember the perils of old-fashioned "bargain sales." Though thousands of buyers would be attracted by the so-called "bargains," these sales were generally conducted for the benefit of the store-keeper—not his customers. In this connection, it is interesting to repeat the remark's of a selling expert who is thoroughly familiar, with old-fashioned selling methods as well as the up-to-date procedures.

"It is a good thing for both merchant and customer that the old-fashioned bargain sale is becoming obsolete," he says. "In cases where the customer was dissatisfied with the purchase—and these cases were very frequent—the merchant was obliged either to make good the dissatisfaction or to refuse and lose a customer. With the odern type of "cash and exchange" plan it is avoided. Consider a price-reduction sale like Congoleum Week, for example.

"Gold Seal Congoleum is a popular year-around seller and does not linger long in the dealer's stock room. But there are certain times, as the big spring housecleaning season, when many housewives prefer to buy new floorcovering. By selling Congoleum at sharply reduced prices for a week during thisseason, dealers are able to put in extra large and attractive stocks of these goods with assurance that they will be purchased.

"Thus the housewife benefits not only because she can buy Congoleum at a saving but also because she can make her selection in surroundings attractive and varied stocks. She is sure of getting fresh, up-to-date goods which bear the same guarantee as when sold at regular prices. For instead of trying to get rid of "job lots" stock the dealer is trying to sell new merchandise in sufficient quantities to justify his taking a smaller profit on an article when it is sold in larger quantities.

"Looking at it from this standpoint, sales like eCongoleum Week are a real accommodation to customers—an account modation that is of benefit to the store and to extend because of the reasons outlined above. Quite otherwise from old-fashioned 'as is' bargain sales, aren't they? As a matter of fact merchants who run their stores on modern principles don't have old stock which customers have to be induced to buy. They carry reputable, popular goods like Gold Seal Congoleum, and these are always in demand, and so have no left overs. Better goods and better selling methods have saved many a housewives the uncertainties of old-time buying."

Alkali in Shampoos Bad for Washing Hair

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything you can buy in packages. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three spoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

Mercurochrome Saves Child Life

Cause of Influenza Death At Isolated From New Science Angle

Baltimore—Sterilization of the blood stream by intravenous injection of mercurochrome, a process successfully demonstrated during the past year by Dr. Hugh H. Young of Baltimore, saved the life of six-year-old Robert Hirsh, of Lynch, Ky.

Pronounced free from the dread fever, streptococcus hemolyticus, which entered the blood stream from tonsilitis, Robert has returned to his home after five weeks at Marshall Lodge Memorial Hospital, Lynchburg.

Mercurochrome, the dosage of which is 0.2 grams per kilo, was used and from which the reaction is often negligible, has been employed in several forms of blood poison, but this particular type has proved most difficult of success, as the streptococcus hemolyticus which caused so many fatalities in 1918 during the world war, according to one of the physicians consulted in the case of Robert Harris.

Until the discovery of mercurochrome, not even yet perfected, the appearance of this germ in the blood stream is said to have meant certain death. This solution is a combination of mercury and of iron which constitutes a germicide and at the same time is non-toxic, and will not coagulate albumin.

Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With Othine—Double Strength

freckles is so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that the removal of common dark spots is said to be no longer necessary. A small ounce of Othine and the money it is paid back.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles disappearing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine; it is the kind that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

Only For Coolidge

President Alone in Race When Maryland Goes to Polls To-day

Baltimore.—President Coolidge is the only presidential candidate in Maryland primary today, but a vote is being taken in every precinct to supply with the election law. Republicans may vote for him or they may mark their ballots for an uninstructed delegation to the national convention at Cleveland.

President Coolidge is backed by the Republican state organization and party leaders regard his victory in the primary as a foregone conclusion.

A light vote is expected.

The Democrats do not vote in today's primary as no Democratic presidential candidate having filed in Maryland.

Fifty Appendicitis Cases in Small Town

In a small Southern town over 50 cases of appendicitis occurred in a short time! Simple diachthorn tablets relieve, as stated in Adlerika, stands against appendicitis because it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and brings out all poisons. Helps any case gas in 10 minutes. Saves hours of misery. Brings out matter you never thought was in your system. J. S. McKeown, druggist.

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

SAYS BACKACHE OFTEN MEANS YOU HAVE NOT BEEN DRINKING ENOUGH WATER

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once, or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, can not injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink. Drink lots of plain water. Any druggist in the world can supply you. Adv.

MRS. BUDGE SO WEAK COULD HARDLY STAND

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

River Desert, Que.—"I used to have a terrible pain in my side. I would be unable to walk fast and could not stand for any length of time to do my ironing or washing, but I would have to lie down to get relief from the pain. I was so weak for about two years. A friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and had good results. I certainly do feel that I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write for it to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario. This book contains valuable information that every woman should know.

"Worth $100 to Me Relieved Eczema and Piles"

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Saltburn, Sask., writes:

"Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me,—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food having restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

Plenty of Insulin

Toronto—So successful has been the insulin manufacturing plant under the direction of C. H. Bork, the collaborator with Dr. F. G. Banting on the discovery of the antidote for diabetes, that the supply has been cased off.

This plant, which was the central distributing station, was established last autumn by the Department of Health, under Hon. Dr. Fergus Godfrey.

Although the stage has been reached when insulin is "food proof," as Prof. J.J.R. Macleod puts it, the scientists are continuing their research, their ultimate object being to discover of that the supply has been ceased off.

FATHER CLAIMS BABY IS WORTH $280,003

Detroit, May 8.—How much is a baby worth in cold dollars and cents?

William G. Greatrex, who lost his only child in a strange mix-up of babies that stirred Detroit for many days, says $280,000. He asks this amount in a suit filed against the Evangelical Deaconess Hospital.

Greatrex alleges the hospital, through mixing up two babies, is directly responsible for the mysterious disappearance of his few months' old son a couple of days before he claimed it.

Gum-Dipped Cords

Gaining New Fame for Service

60% Sales Increase in Last Six Months Shows Trend Toward Firestone

The public has emphatically spoken. The popular preference in all territories is unmistakably for Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords.

A standard of service without parallel is being set by these famous tires. It has brought a sales increase of 60% for the past six months over the same period of a year ago—the greatest gain in all Firestone history.

The tire buying public has been aroused by the results in economical mileage of the Firestone process of gum-dipping. The buying-wise toward Firestone shows how Gum-Dipped Cords have advanced the public's standard of tire value.

Ask owners about Firestone performance on their cars. Note the number of Firestone spares. Watch the new cars you see—just from the factories. Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords are seen everywhere in fast increasing numbers.

Get the maximum extra mileage that the Firestone name assures you. Only by insisting on this name can you be sure of getting the genuine gum-dipped construction.

A leakproof tube helps tires give better service. Firestone Tubes are steam welded and therefore leakproof.

RID OF BILLBOARDS

Clear-Highway Program in Britain Wins Prince's Hearty Support

London, May 7.—Speaking at the dinner of the Royal Academy, the Prince of Wales expressed his satisfaction at the success of the campaign to rid the country of unsightly billboards.

"Last year I made some tentative suggestions about the art of the billboards in our great towns and a lot of people seemed to suspect me of wanting to cover the whole of our countryside," he said.

"That I hastily need say was the very reverse of what I intended to convey. Nobody deplores more sincerely such blots on the landscape than I do, and I heartily congratulate those public-spirited people who are trying to have them removed on the ravens of their ground."

DEATH STALKS IN THIS TORONTO HOME

Toronto, May —Death came into the home of John J. Scott, cartage agent, 78 Bward street, on the 22nd inst., within five weeks. His wife died five weeks ago, leaving him with four children, the oldest seven years. At noon yesterday his youngest child, Johnnie, just eighteen months old, was crushed to death beneath a motor bound Carlton car, at Bward street, just thirty yards from the baby home, was struck by the car and instantly killed, caught beneath the first motor machine. The little fellow was pinned beneath the heavy machine for twenty minutes before the Toronto Transportation Commission auxiliary arrived on the scene. To release the body, the front part of the car was jacked up. Dr. James E. Potter, 323 Carlton street, was summoned but could only pronounce life extinct. The body was removed to the morgue.

Science Best Cure In India, Briton Says

Less Politics There; Lord Leverhulme Urges Need

Calcutta—More science and less politics, this is the remedy prescribed for Indian unrest by Viscount Leverhulme who arrived here from England. He was optimistic regarding India's future, but condemned the policy of tariff protection as economically unsound.

"I don't think the people of India are suited to working in factories," Lord Leverhulme said. "They seem to be built for the open air. Industry in concentrated form is more suited to a temperate climate.

"One thing India does want badly is the application of science, engineering and business principles. More science and less politics. I should say, say, the great needs of India. If she applied scientific principles to her agriculture, the increased yield would bring her wealth and prosperity. It would lap up her unemployed and bring her the contentment which she seeks politically.

"But if the Government of India puts on protection, up will go the cost of living. A low cost of living lies at the root of a people's well-being. If living is made dearer, a vicious circle will be created.

"I believe that the business of a manufacturer is not merely to produce goods, but that it is also to produce men. I do not plan for co-partnership that it will decrease strikes and create contentment. But I do claim that it produces men, creates ambition and assures interest and energy."

The woman with a past is seldom willing to admit that she has got past 40.

Music & Drama

There was revealed at the Griffin theatre last night a costume motion picture which deserves to rank with the finest thing of the sort yet done. It is Emmett Flynn's first production for Goldwyn Pictures, "In The Palace Of The King," adapted by June Mathis from F. Marion Crawford's popular novel. There are a number of spectacular episodes in this production, but the spectacular is never emphasized to the detriment of the dramatic and absorbing story which is woven around half a dozen highly engaging personages in the Royal Court of Spain in the sixteenth century.

Flynn is one of the directors who never loses sight of his story in staging spectacular effects. The real of the Moors and the burning of their camp affords one of the big moments of the film from a spectacular point of view, but it is touched on only briefly and only insofar as it bears on the drama in the picture and on Don John, King Philip II and Dolores Mendoza, the principal actors. "In The Palace of the King" is one of Crawford's most popular novels, and in its dramatic version Viola Allen scored one of her biggest successes.

Blanche Sweet has in Goldwyn's screen version of the story, the role that Miss Allen covered on the stage. It gives Miss Sweet one of her biggest opportunities, and her characterization of the part is everywhere admirable and appealing. Edmund Lowe, one of the best-known leading men on the screen or stage, is cast as her lover, "Don John"—and acts with fervor and restraint. King Philip II, who is jealous of the popularity of his brother with the Spanish public, is finely delineated by Sam de Grasse. The part of Dolores' father, who takes upon his own shoulders the guilt for the supposed murder of his daughter's lover, is save the King, gives Hobart Bosworth one of the choicest parts which he delights in playing, and in which he is incomparable. Other well known players who act important roles admirably are Alice Principe, Pauline Starke, William V. Mong, Carley Littlefield and Charles Cary. June Mathis prepared the continuity and Lucien Andriot is responsible for the photography which is unusually beautiful.

"In The Palace Of The King" is a picture which will appeal to every patron of the films and one that can be seen again and again with both pleasure and profit.

KING'S TOWER OF BABEL

Henry King learned how it felt to be cooped up in the tower of Babel during the directing of "The White Sister", Lillian Gish's new picture, which is coming to the Griffin Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 12th, 13th and 14th. He travelled Africa to obtain scenes of a battle between a group of Italian soldiers and some Arab rebels. Mr King speaks English, the Italians Italian and the Arabs whatever-you-call-it. After much work on the part of the interpreters the combatants were assigned to their places and the camera began to grind.

"Tell the Italians to lie down dead" Mr. King shouted.

The interpreter did as he was told. But the Italians kept on fighting.

"Stop" came the order to the cameramen. Then to the interpreter, Mr. King demanded: "Why can't you make them obey orders?"

"You see sir," replied the interpreter, "these Italians and Arabs were really fighting against one another only a couple of weeks ago. The Italians won the battle and now they don't want the Arabs to think they are laying down."

"The White Sister" is an Inspiration picture released through Metro.

All seats for this attraction will be reserved. The plan opens at the Theatre on Saturday the 10th.

Mail orders will be received now.

GOVERNMENT TRIED TO SAVE LOCAL BANK

Claims City File System Is Very Lax

Ex-Mayor Bennett Throws Verbal Bomb Into Enemy Camp in Testifying before Arbitrators—Evidence of Parties Clash—Arbitrators to Investigate

Ex-mayor George A. Bennett was the first witness called when the Arbitration proceedings were resumed at Court House this morning before the Arbitrators, County Judge J. W. Wills, Col. S. S. Lazier and W. S. Herrington K.C., of Napanee.

George Evans and Edward Kellaway citizens who have brought action against the city for damages to their properties by flood water in the spring of 1922, which resulted they say because of the water having backed up as a result of Bandford street having been banked in wierth material, were both recalled to the stand by their counsel, R. D. Ponton.

When the hearings adjourned at 1:30 for lunch Col. Lazier announced that the arbitrators would visit the scene of the trouble, and make a thorough inspection of the condition of Bandford street as well as the creek in the wall of George Evan's house, which was caused he says, by flood waters.

Contradictory Evidence

The chief reason for the inspection tour however, is believed to have resulted from the contradictory evidence given this morning by ex-mayor Bennett and City Engineer Charles D. Campbell. Mr. Bennett explained that as a result of a decision of the city council, a ditch two or three feet wide was dug across the filling on Bandford street, and that it was understood at that time that if any further material was to come off the road, it would be taken off.

City Engineer Campbell's evidence substantiated by a photograph of the finished work, showed that a triangular shaped section had been taken out of the street under the supervision of City Foreman Henderson, by the city employees with city teams. The removal of surplus material was made at the north east corner of Bandford st., for the hill width of Bandford st., at the east side and for a distance of at least two perches along the north side.

Each witness appear-ntly wished to while with his evidence, though only one can possibly be correct, and when the arbitrators decided to visit the scene.

Ex-mayor Bennett in his evidence told of his meeting the late William Carnew, K.C., and taking the matter up with an Alderman and the City Engineer. The result was the granting of the council's agreement to dig a small ditch on the street. When the ditch was being dug, the Ex-mayor told of Mr. Bennett threatening the city with an action.

Crack In Wall

Explaining the crack in the wall of Mr. Evans' home, witness explained that the crack was between the brick wall and the main house on the east side.

"I am satisfied that the flood water did not cause that crack in the wall," explained witness with emphasis, "As the furnace was constructed at the west side of the house. I observed new umbrella into the cellar, which was full of material and in my opinion as a contractor, it is an unfit wall owing to the poor class of brick veneer work."

To Mr. Ponton witness stated that the filling was done about 1919 or 1920 when he took office as Mayor.

On January 9th, 1923, notice was served upon the city in each of the cases, for damages sustained during the flood and for damages against future recurrence of the floods.

Explaining the miscellaneous letters, during 1921-22 and 23, the Ex-mayor threw a bomb into camp when he publicly informed the arbitrator that the filing system at the City Hall was a farce at last.

STORY OF BECK CASE SOUNDS LIKE NOVEL

Interesting Evidence Given By Miss Roe and Tetley Blackburn

"STRONG ON JEWELRY"

Hotel Conference Over Cheque Cited—Pressed to Accept Exchange

"My husband says that I look like a million dollars with all my clothes and this fine jewelry."

Those were the salutation words of Mrs. Ellen Walsh-Beck, to Miss Doris Roe, stenciatry at the Tetley Blackburn store and one of her several visits to that store during March last when she is alleged to have procured jewelry to the value of $1852.25 by false pretences.

The preliminary trial of the accused before Magistrate Masson concluded yesterday afternoon at 4.30 and Accused was committed to the county jail here to await trial at the first court of competent criminal jurisdiction.

Employs Smooth System

Mrs. Beck's several visits to the Blackburn store netted for the contemporary use of valuable articles found in jewelry stores identified as a $14 necklace, $24 bracelet, $6 bar pin, cigarette box worth $7.50, three bracelet watch $16, two pairs of earrings worth $9, a gold mesh bag $28, suitably. She also had a string of amber recently initialled, rouge jar worth $2, and a send beads remaining, had her mesh diamond ring worth $65.

She purchased another two or three sets of sterling silver toilet sets, from which articles were intended to select one set.

This interesting information was gleaned from the evidence given on the stand yesterday afternoon by Miss Roe and Mr. Blackburn.

"Stung" On Jewelry.

Doris Madeline Roe, secretary to the Tetley Blackburn Jewelry store, told of meeting Mrs. Beck at the store on March 15th when Mrs. Beck bought two bangles, and paid for them. She admired an English made bracelet and stated that she would like to buy it, chase it.

Mrs. Patrick's Day she came in and took the bracelet, and take the necklace, and the bracelet, and take the necklace, and bar pin. She also selected the cigarette box and left the beads to be returned.

She told me that her husband was an architect at Cobbyville" asserted witness "and that she lived at the Quinte West with him, but was there only one or three weeks. Her home is in Toronto. Her wife she said, was at the jewelry, she stated that if her husband approved of the articles she would write a cheque during the week."

On March 19th, Miss Roe received a note from Mrs. Beck in which she stated that she wished to get a wedding anniversary gift. Miss Roe was suggested to give the articles to the bearer of the note, the present to be returned. Mrs. Beck was to pay the 25 per cent. The note was signed "E. M. Beck."

Selects Wedding Present

On March 20th Mrs. Beck again called at the store, and selected the flower basket and bracelet and in my opinion as a contractor, it is an unfit wall owing to the poor class of brick veneer work."

To Mr. Ponton witness stated that the filling was done about 1919 or 1920 when he took office as Mayor.

On January 9th, 1923, notice was served upon the city in each of the cases, for damages sustained during the flood and for damages against future recurrence of floods.

Explaining the miscellaneous letters, during 1921-22 and 23, the Ex-mayor threw a bomb into camp when he publicly informed the arbitrator that the filing system at the City Hall was a farce at last.

Red Battle in Ruhr Looms as Labor Strife Spreads to Internal Germany

QUICK REVOLT ON EXCLUSION FOR CONGRESS

Tempest Kicked Up By Delay Till March on Japanese

WAS HUGHES' DEMAND

Personal Issue With U.S. Secretary; But House Won't Stand For It

Washington, May 9.—A revolt of hurricane proportions was brewing in Congress today over the age-old question of Japanese exclusion—an issue that a week ago was considered settled.

The remarkable about-face of the conference of the Senate and House agreeing to an extension until March 1, 1925, before exclusion becomes effective has kicked up a tempest that threatens serious complications before it blows itself out.

Made Personal Issue

The conference committee agreed to the extension with reluctance, and only with the express demand of President Coolidge and Secretary of State Hughes. It is reported that Hughes made the matter a personal issue, and it was at his insistence that the President himself wrote in parcel the amendment which the committee finally agreed to submit to their respective Houses.

Exclusion advocates, led by Pacific Coast members, were seething with indignation today and threatened to give the White House and State Department a sharp rebuke by promptly rejecting the amendment written in Mr. Coolidge's own handwriting.

Won't Accept Date

It is unlikely a vote can be had until tomorrow, but it seemed certain today that neither the senate nor the House will accept the date fixed by the President and Mr. Hughes.

No issue that has arisen this session between the executive and legislative branches of the Government has been productive of the harsh words and angry comment that greeted the Coolidge-Hughes move today.

Strike Spreads Over Germany; Russians Given Blame

FEAR MORE CLASHES

French and Belgians Stay Out of It; Rupture at Berlin Hurts Cause

Berlin, May 9—The menace of a "red war" in the Ruhr loomed bigger today when news was received that the Communists have brought about strikes and lockouts affecting 600,000 men, mostly coal miners.

Barotage scenes are alleged to have persuaded the German Reds to precipitate labor troubles and to make demonstrations in celebration of their sensational success at the polls last Sunday, when they increased their Reichstag seats to more than 60.

Disorders Feared

Serious disorders are feared. So far, the French and Belgian troops have not interfered.

The whole situation has been complicated by the rupture between the German and Soviet Governments over the police raid upon Russian trade Russian Ambassador Krestinsky for Moscow.

Violence is feared at Halle where hostile factions are facing one another.

Labor Troubles Spread

Labor troubles have spread from the Ruhr to Saxony and Silesia. The virtual cessation of the coal industry threatens to paralyze industry.

The trouble in the Ruhr arose over the Government's attempt to extend the working shift from seven to eight hours.

Non-Communist workers (members of trade unions) tried to prevent the strike, but without success.

Following the dismissal of Ambassador Krestinsky, the chief of the Russian Trade Mission, Boris Stomonjakoff, announced his intention of returning to Moscow immediately.

Must Apologize First

Attaches of the Russian embassy indicated that the situation was becoming acute. They said Krestinsky would not leave Berlin until Germany apologized for the raid at trade headquarters, last Saturday.

If diplomatic relations are not severed entirely, it is likely that a Russian charge d'affaires will look after Russian interests. Meanwhile, commercial relations between Germany and Russia are at a standstill.

OSHAWA MAN MUST FACE BAD CHARGE

Oshawa, May 9.—Frank Wilson, charged with robbery with violence, appeared yesterday, D. A. J. Swanson acting for the accused. Wilson's lawyer alleged that Wilson, with another man, held him up on the C.P.R. tracks at dusk Sunday, April 27, and stealing him over the head took over $200 from him. Welcheko has just been discharged from the hospital, but as yet is not in physical condition to give evidence. He has positively identified Wilson as one of his assailants. The case was adjourned until May 15. The Crown is not yet prepared to go on with the case on account of Welcheko's present condition. Mr. Swanson asked for bail, which was set at $2,000 in one surety, by consent of Crown Attorney.

Alappo-Angora Rails Idle; Weygand and Poincare Look Into Dispute

Paris, May 9.—Fighting between Kemalarmen and Turkish brigands on the Syrian territory along the Syrian frontier, in which there were 16 French casualties, was admitted by the Foreign Office this afternoon.

Also it was admitted that the Turks have concentrated troops along the frontier.

The French high commissioner for French mandate territory in Syria, General Weygand conferred with Premier Poincare regarding the situation last night.

Rail Service Halted

Service on the Aleppo-Angora Railway has been suspended.

There is no confirmation of the Constantinople report that the French commissioner at Constantinople has been authorized to protest to Angora against Turkish troop concentrations.

Isolated Clashes Reported

London, May 9.—Isolated clashes have taken place between Turks and French occupational troops on the Syrian frontier, the Daily Express declared today.

Turkey is reported to have sent an army corps into that region as a result of the growing tension between the Turks and French.

Turkish military authorities are prepartae to hold a council of war on June 5 to consider the serious situation.

MOTHER'S DAY IS MORE THAN REMEMBRANCE

Architect of Every Home is Mother—An Edifice of Sacrifice

MISNOMERS

Children Raised in Quiet, Happy Home Are Not Frivolous

Who of us cannot remember a shelter built with fabrics that money could not buy? This domicile may have been a palace and the specifications of the architect included the most costly building materials,or then it might have been the humble cabin of logs that were felled by some hardy pioneer. These were the structures that were to be one's fixed place of abode. It is not the structure that we have erected it is the materials that go into the building of the true home are never listed in the specifications; they are acts of affection, sacrifice and love. The architect of every home is a woman and that woman is Mother.

Culture In Home

We hear much in these days of education, culture and refinement in the home. These are all good things and necessary, but have we ever stopped to think that where these features are not backed up by love they are but "sounding brass and tinkling cymbals". Where there is love abounds there culture, refinement are to be found in the true meaning of the word, for there are not two words in the English language that are not more often misconstrued, and we apply them to the fop, the dandy, or a frivolous woman, instead of a man or woman who is gentle. Children raised in such a home may not have the advantage of education as we know it to-day.

They may be as wise in what we are pleased to call polite society, but they possess those priceless attributes, to be found in deportment, kindly, gracious, considerate, human, merciful, all of which can be reared in a mother's love and patience. These are the materials that a mother builds into the foundation upon which her child's life will rest, and what finer foundation can we find upon which to build manhood and character? But the day comes when we must go out into the world away from the influence of the mother love, in the world we too often find that instead of the law of sacrifice and love ruling, it is that of the survival of the fittest.

Life is a battle and few of us that have been through it, if we have survived, but must admit that the battles we are apt to think "might makes right," and on occasions we have been roughshod over our less fortunate competitors. We are sometimes to blame, but there's not one of us if we will be honest with ourselves, but can recall some action or event in our past lives, when we have been over the weaker one or advice of mother, it would have been done in an entirely different manner. Why is it that we turn from the mother's love and training? Why is it that the human nature is far from perfect. But have we ever stopped to think what the world would be to-day without the refining influence of the mother love and training. Look at us in every life when we stop in our mad career and think, we have known, as at such times at these that the golden thread of mother love and training is the light in reaching us come back with a force that makes us feel as we long ago to her as in childhood and unbosom all of our troubles and problems. From the lightest to the lowest in the land, every one of us have known a good mother's love, and while the hard knocks of the world may have effaced the love from their hearts, the love is there. Away down in their hearts the love of mother is not forgotten, but it will not require much to fan it into life.

We all know that the second Sunday of May is set aside as a day on which we pay special homage to mother, and there is no man or woman who, when he or she comes to that day but thinks of the mother that gave them being, that made such sacrifices for them, who they think of her care and early training that has stood us so much in their lives, and their hearts become softened as they are better men and women. Every time one of us do that we find to you that it was the lessons learned at mother's knee and the inspiration instilled by her in their lives in childhood that has been their guide through life and made this old world the better to live therein.

Displays Needle to Answer Achilles

Six-Foot Sportsman Ate It Six Years Ago; Man Who Found John L. Sullivan Proves Heel Isn't Weakest Spot Of All

New York, May 9.—Edward McAvoy, 30-year-old sportsman, who claims to have "discovered" the late John L. Sullivan, to-day disputes the mythology that credited Achilles' heel with being the only vulnerable spot on his body, which caused his death.

McAvoy is displaying a needle, two inches long, which he pulled from his heel.

He swallowed it six years ago in a piece of corn bread, and it fourayed the length of his six-foot frame, paralyzing one part of his body after another as it worked downward.

His weight had dropped from 180 to 91 pounds before the needle work ed its way out. To-day he weighs 210 and says he now expects to "live to a ripe old age."

ACTION WAS TAKEN PRIOR TO COLLAPSE

Premier Declares Efforts to Place Finances of Defunct Institution on more Stable Basis Were Made by Government Prior to Collapse Of Bank

(Special to The Intelligencer

Ottawa, May 9—That the Government had taken steps to save the Home Bank just prior to it's collapse, was the statement of Premier Mackenzie King's testimony before the Home Bank Commission today.

While the full amount of liability was not known by the Government at the time of collapse, efforts to place the finances of the defunct institution on a more stable basis were made on the part of the Government leaders, and that action was unexpected at it was, came without warning.

Sir Thomas White will be given an opportunity to argue his case, and also to explain the payment to him of $1,500 by the bank just prior to its failure.

The investigation will, of course, continue after the conclusion of the first phase, which concerns action taken by the depositors against the government.

This morning's sitting lasted only half an hour.

The liquidators pay up.

Toronto, May 9.—The liquidators of the Home Bank have paid out $1,000,000 back to the various banks which loaned $2,400,000 to the depositors of the wrecked institution a 25 per cent. dividend on their deposits the Canadian time.

E. F. Weldon, one of the liquidators, stated that the loss is being paid back as quickly as it is possible. When this is all paid the question of a further payment to the depositors may be discussed.

Mr. Weldon could not throw any light upon when the next further payment is to depositors. He states that up to date the shareholders have paid in $675,000 and assessed $1,000,000. He says that it is coming in all the time and during the last day or so good returns have been made. One of the payments made by the liquidators yesterday was $10,00. A good deal of the money paid in by shareholders is paid under protest, which means that if the decision of the court is against the trustees of the money will be returned to the shareholders.

Haney Ill

A letter from A. B. Hatton, M. B. of Port Credit, Ont., stating that M. F. Haney, Dominion President of the Home bank, was ill and should not be allowed to go out for several months, was read at the opening of the Arbitration. Mr. Haney was suffering from a nervous breakdown, it was stated by Dr. Roberts, secretary of the finance department, was recalled to the stand to give information regarding the action of Sir Thomas White's private file of letters. The first meeting of the Commission lasted for but a few minutes. He said that he had returned from maternity of his own volition and because he thought it was his duty as private secretary to do so.

CRAWFORD FOR REGISTRAR

Toronto, May 9.—The Registrarship of Toronto has been filled by the death of J. Walter Curry in his office unoccupied. It is understood that if ped to that vacancy will be appointed to Hon. Thomas Crawford, it will be within a day or two, as the cabinet members are a unit in favor of the appointment going to the former Speaker of the Legislature. He has been one o the party's war horses for years.

GOOD HOME MARKET ESSENTIAL TO THE FARMER

That the Canadian farmers, especially those in Western Canada, are adversely affected by world wide conditions, which in particular concerns the wheat-growing industry, was well set forth by Mr. R. V. Le-Soeur, member for West Lambton in his speech during the budget debate. He also showed the fallacy of expecting that much improvement would result from the tinkering that the King Government had done in its fiscal proposals.

It was shown that under the stimulus of the higher prices paid temporarily, the production of wheat almost all over the world had been greatly increased since 1913. Between 1909 and 1913 the production of wheat in all countries, outside of Russia, averaged approximately 3,-090,000,000 bushels which could be considered normal. But in 1921 it reached 3,115,000,000 bushels and in 1922 even 3,120,000,000 bushels. However, Europe, the great importer of wheat, was not to the extent of 20 per cent. as well able to buy now as she was before the war, so that with more wheat and fewer buyers the price was naturally depressed. Moreover, the tendency of prices generally was to fall.

Western Canada feels, it was pointed out, the full effect of these conditions. The acreage sown to wheat had risen from 13,000,000 acres in 1913 to 23,260,000 acres in 1921; while the yield increased from 231,-000,000 bushels in 1913 to 470,000,-000 bushels last year. With the cost of production so high, while the prices of agricultural products had depressed, it was no wonder that the farmer found it hard to make ends meet, and that he was in debt to banks and loan companies.

But what was the remedy proposed by the Government in order to meet this situation? It was proposed to meet it by reducing the sales tax and the duty on agricultural implements. To the sales tax reduction (the Liberal Government had doubled it themselves) there is no objection. But these under a very liberal estimate would not mean more to the average farmer than a saving of from $10.00 to $15.00 a year. The customs reduction itself would probably mean nothing. At the same time this was accompanied by provisions that were bound to effect very seriously the farmers' home market and thus place him in a worse situation than before. "The Government's proposal," it was pointed out, "may enable the ship to sleep along the rocks a trifle longer, but it will not substantially help the agricultural industry."

Turning to the question of a remedy the member for West Lambton made some constructive proposals that merit attention. He drew attention to the fact that if measures now being taken for the improvement of conditions in Europe were successful, that continent would increase its consumption of wheat; but it was also true that Russia would gradually recover her position as a wheat exporter, so it was quite likely that over-production might continue for some time. The true remedy was to secure new and larger markets.

The home market was for the Canadian farmer, the most important and surest. In 1919 it had absorbed 59 per cent. of our wheat production; in 1920 it has taken about 51 per cent.; in 1921 about 54 per cent.; and in 1922 about 46½ per cent. This was important, for attempts were continually being made to show that the home market was a negligible consideration for the wheat grower. To increase the size of the home market would be wise policy, and efforts should be directed towards this end.

A determined effort should also be made to increase exports to certain other countries where conditions favored the Canadian product. Because of climatic and soil conditions our wheat was superior in quality to that of most other exporting countries and due advantage should be taken of this fact. Even the United States could not do without it for mixing purposes. Very little, however, went to Central or South America, which had a population of 50,000,000 people, which imported 45,000,000 bushels of wheat and large quantities of wheat flour every year. These countries could also be easily reached all the year round through the port of Vancouver. If our wheat and flour could be placed there in large quantities the western farmers would have a large, new permanent market. Asia was another important potential market which took 32,000,-000 bushels of wheat a year and to which Canada sent only 3,500,000. Her imports of flour were also important.

The member for West Lambton suggested that there should be more co-operation between all governments of Canada for the working of solutions for the problems of agriculture. The farmer should not be left to his own efforts to work out his own salvation, and in this connection he pointed to what was being done in the United States and other countries in order to assist the farmer in changing from one crop to another.

NO CASE AS BAD AS THIS

(Lethbridge Herald)

The most unfortunate man in the world probably is, in a military hospital at Sydney, Australia.

He was a soldier in the World War. His nerves were shattered so fearfully that his mother is the only thing that can relieve his agony.

For four years he has virtually lived in a hot bath, even sleeping in the water.

Reading about him, many who have seen complaining will decide they are lucky. Nothing is ever so bad but that it might be worse.

Musical Bankers' Hours

Suddenly Mrs. Beck exclaimed, "Oh how awfully stupid of me not to get the money at the bank, and now it is past banking hours, and I want you to get Mr. Jenkins to cash this cheque at the hotel, "I will bring the money over in the morning" she finally agreed. The cheque was on the Royal bank and was signed "E. M. Walsh-Beck." Though she had promised to be there before 11 a.m. she did not appear.

Hotel Conference

Miss Roe went over to her hotel and when the office put into communication with Mrs. Beck upstairs she agreed to meet Miss Roe in the sitting room upstairs. When Miss Roe met her she was in a great hurry as she had an appointment with a manicurist at 11.30.

"The bank closes at noon today, and I will be unable to get into them," she inferred, but Miss Roe pointed out that the banks did not close until 3 that day.

"Very well I will be over at 2.30" Mrs. Beck answered and she gave her mesh bag to Miss Roe instructing her to leave "E. M. Beck" engraved on it. The stone in the ring had also become loose and she sent it over to be reset.

She Finally Arrives

At 2.30, Saturday 22nd, Mrs. Beck came into the store and exclaimed, "How many times are we who always breaks her promises."

She immediately took out a cheque for $224. and pressed Mr. Blackburn to accept the twenty-five cents for exchange.

"I have issued a number of cheques and I know the exchange," persisted Mrs. Beck.

"She told the truth there" put in counsel for accused.

"Yes, about the number she issued" was the Crown Attorney's retort, which drew an unpleasant look from accused.

"Oh, I have forgotten to number that cheque," stated accused, explaining that there are two branches of the Royal bank in St. Johns and he did not wish the cheque to go to the wrong branch. She wrote the number B625 on the corner of the cheque accordingly. She explained that the account in the Royal bank there was in her name prior to her marriage as "E. M. Walsh" and after marriage she had changed it to "E. M. Walsh-Beck."

"I am going out to dinner tonight" she continued, "but will be in again to see about the toilet sets."

She then accepted the ring which had been reset, and the mesh bag which had been initialed and departed.

Owner Tells Story

Tetley Blackburn, merchant jeweler 247 Front Street first met Mrs. Beck in his store as she inspected goods shown her by Miss Roe.

"She was inspecting a three-stone white gold, engraved diamond ring. This was on March 31st. She intimated showing the ring to her husband and if he approved of the purchase, she would bring the cheque in. The ring was returned on March 22nd the day on which the cheque for the hotel account was to have been received at 11 a.m.

Witness told of receiving the cheque back from the Union bank, with a protest slip "no account-not known" Witness has not yet received payment of the cheque or the account.

Closing Ex Interview

On the 25th witness went over to hotel, but found accused on Mrs. Beck's door which signified illness. Nurse flown who answered the gentle knock stated that Mrs. Beck was sleeping, and could not be disturbed although Mr. Blackburn stressed the fact that it was urgent business. Next day Mr. Blackburn saw accused in her room at 11.30. She was greatly surprised and grieved him that he would get the money at 12 or 12.30 as her husband was coming to the city. At 2.30 witness told of a man being in the room with Mrs. Beck and he believed him to be a Mr. Walsh. On Thursday 27th Mr. Blackburn received a letter from accused by messenger at his store, written in the hotel. The letter was read in court by Mr. Bonnan, and was a well worded epi-thet.

"I'm Awfully Sorry."

Accused had registered her regrets at the inconveniences to which Mr. Blackburn had been subjected. She said that she was quite ill and could not see any cause but assured him that either her brother or mother would pay. She stated that she had been greatly worried over the affair and thought it was not too ill to attend to that matter. She explained that a transfer of her account had been necessary on the day before, and that had caused the trouble. She referred Mr. Blackburn to the milliner, and a bank manager for references in the letter.

Mr. Blackburn answered by messenger with a very nice letter of apologetic satisfaction.

A Study De Luxe

Mrs. Eileen Beck is a very difficult puzzle to "solve." Apparently possessed of a very smooth in her manner and said to possess a remarkably fluent and cultured manner and personality, she evidently has an unbridled passion for fine clothes at any cost, and "craves" to have the impression that she is an outstanding guest in the city where she chooses to locate.

Natatily attired but displaying no signs of jewelry save for a pair of earrings she soon accused on the court room in quiet composure yesterday. She sat beside counsel and during the afternoon repeatedly gave Mr. O'Flynn information voluntarily, or apparently drew his attention to holes in the street Crown case which was so well presented by Miss Roe and Mr. Blackburn.

At times, remarks and situations drew cynical flashes from undemeath the modern hat which covers the upper part of the face. At other times, however, she smiled and once or twice broke into a slight laugh as witnesses and counsel found opportunities for a few pleasantries while the case "ground on." Occasionally accused rested her head on one hand, and watched the court reporter note the unpleasant history of her stay in Belleville.

rings a gold motif, the rouge jar, and took the ring which she had had altered to suit her. She also chose the diamond ring. All the articles were sent to the hotel. She also ordered the sterling silver toilet sets the day.

"I will pay for the ring out of my account at the Royal Bank" Mrs. Beck is alleged to have told Miss Roe but did not say what branch of the Royal bank.

Returning to the store at 5.30 that day, Mrs. Beck had two cheques. One cheque was for $224 and the account was $182.25 without the toilet articles which had been ordered.

Mixed Banking Hours

Suddenly Mrs. Beck exclaimed, "Oh how awfully stupid of me not to get the money at the bank, and now it is past banking hours, and I want you to get Mr. Jenkins to cash this cheque at the hotel, "I will bring the money over in the morning" she finally agreed. Deaths and Funerals

MRS. ALBERT CROSBY

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late Mrs. Albert Crosby, of Roblin Mills, Prince Edward County, took place and was attended by many relatives and friends. At the Methodist Church there, Mr. Bowe conducted services assisted by Rev. W. Morgan. Interment took place at Ridge cemetery. A number of floral tributes were placed upon the casket. Bearers were Cecil Harry, Max, Grant, M. and K. Crosby, sons, son-in-law and nephew of deceased.

This morning the funeral of the late Mr. Anthony J. Forster took place from the residence of his son-in-law, G. J. Forster of this city and was largely attended. At St. Michael's Church, Rev. Father Killeen celebrated a requiem mass. At the interment at St. James cemetery Rev. Esther Whalen officiated. Many floral tributes and Mass cards were evidences of sympathy. Bearers were E. J. Butler, F. P. Carney, J. Donovan, C. Dolan, Sergt. J. M. Truesach and C. Whalen.

"The Finish That Endures"

25% Better Painting
25% Greater Paint Value is obtained with
Floglaze "The Finish That Endures"

A prominent contractor (name given on request) estimated that he would require 20 gallons of paint to finish five houses. He was supplied with 15 gallons of FLOGLAZE EXTERIOR. Twelve gallons were used, or just 60% of the amount of his own estimate. His foreman painter stated that it was the best material he had ever put a brush into.

Floglaze Exterior Paint covers 500 square feet, two coats, to the gallon. It is self-levelling---leaves no brush marks. It gives the highest annual service value with the lowest cost per thousand square feet. Produces an enamel-like finish with 25% greater durability.

Priming Coat for Exterior Painting: Thin one gallon of FLOGLAZE EXTERIOR with one quart of raw linseed oil and one quart of turpentine, and brush well into the surface with a good oval bristle brush.

Priming coats made with other materials do not self-level. Such primers do not possess the holding and lasting qualities of the scientifically treated, pure linseed oil used in FLOGLAZE.

Build up your entire exterior finish with FLOGLAZE in the FLOGLAZE way for the most permanent results and the best-appearing finish.

The Importance of the Priming Coat in Painting

The permanency of any structure rests mainly in the character of its foundation. No one would place a wooden foundation under a stone superstructure.

The priming or first coat is the foundation in painting, and is the most important coat.

The priming coat must obtain a thorough hold upon the pores of the wood. For this purpose the materials used must be the best and the brushing thorough.

When the surface is damp, dusty, greasy or scaly, the prime coat cannot obtain the necessary hold in the pores. It must be free from all of these.

If the prime coat gives way, all subsequent coats must give away with it.

Do not make any sacrifice in either materials or workmanship in your prime coat.

For these reasons we recommend FLOGLAZE to be reduced for priming, as we have carefully directed on each of our labels on the can.

Claims City Lax

duce for this hearing, are copies and not originals.

To Col. R. C. Carman, witness expressed his opinion that the heavy loads on the floor of the Kellaway store, and the constant walking on the floors, would cause the floors to sink, whereas Kellaway lays the blame to the flood waters which flooded his store.

Witness—"The floors are set on buttments which consist of one stone being piled on top of the other.

Was Heavy Fill

Harry Day who formerly lived adjacent to the st., in question, stated that prior to 1917 when he left that locality, the floors on his shed closed over the land at the then existing level. Now they close after they have been removed, sawed off at the bottom, the hinges moved, and an excavation having been made in their sweep as they close. Mr. Day fixed the depth of the fill at from 15 to 18 inches.

City's Drastic Action

Ed Kellaway recalled, told of Sanford street being very damp and swampy west of the lane, the loaded wagons sinking to the hubs. The arbitration proceedings commenced on April 30th. On May first, the city seized Mr. Kellaway's trucks for taxes, he told the arbitrator, when asked by his counsel today.

To Mr. Herrington, George Evans recalled stated that the walls of his house first showed signs of cracking or crumbling after the flood of 1922. City Engineer Campbell explained that the first removal of surplus material was done in mid-February 1923, and the balance removed during May or June of the same year as far west as the lane after the flood danger had passed and the frost was out of the ground.

To Mr. Ponton, the engineer expressed his belief that the excavation work would have been of little use had the city been visited by a flood last spring.

The hearing is continuing this after noon having commenced again at 2.30.

THE PESSIMIST SPEAKS

"The man worth while is the man who can smile
At trouble." Alas, that is true,
But the fellow with that philosophy
Finds a lot of hard smiling to do.
The man who laughs as he does his job,
With never a thought of shirking,
Will find as he digs his way through life,
That he will do most of the working
The man with his temper well under control,
Who never will show any wrath—
The man who can grin when he stubs his toe
Will find lots of stones in his path,
And the man who scowls the whole day long—
The man who is not worth while,
Sits back in his office and puts the brunt
Of the work on "the man who can smile."

Few Folks Have Gray Hair Now

DRUGGIST SAYS LADIES ARE USING RECIPE OF SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

Hair that loses its color and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother mixed us a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value this old-time color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, now get this mixture by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it that fluffy appearance of abundance.

CURRENT SPORT IN BRIEF FORM

Dignity and Indignity.

Dignified gravity sits heavily on the countenance of the United States Lawn Tennis Association at all times. Not for a moment can it relax from its official attitude of weighty calm.

Perhaps this accounts for the fact that the Tennis Association fails to see the joke of having American players-writers from Davis Cup competition under a rule that can have no effect on the writings of foreign representatives, that will come to this country for no other purpose than to lift the swiss trophy.

Merry quips of any sort are seldom appreciated by the association. As Ol'Hare Wood, of Australia, can testify. Mr. O'Hara Wood, guest of the Tennis Association at its annual dinner several years ago, appeared without evening clothes. Asked to speak he gave the following reason for his failure to observe the convention:

"While on my way here I planned to soon sit somewhere and have a dinner kit. Seeing a store down the street I went in and asked the proprietor if he had a suit to hire for the evening.

"Sorry," says he, "but I've hired my last suit. You see there is a dinner of the United States Lawn Tennis Association tonight."

Pained illence greeted the explanation until some crude soul, acutely unofficial had the effontery to laugh.

Referring to the Carpentier-Mill-on Stock, infielder, was a trifle tardy about reporting to Charley Ebbett's ball club, headline states:

FABLE VERSUS FACT.

That the best of intentions are often misconstrued and held up to derision is illustrated by the fact that when Leo Diegel golf professional, first came into prominence at the 1920 open championship at Toledo, a story was circulated that the young man thought no wiser of himself but too well. In support of his claim it was said that Diegel had caused to be carved on his driver an inscription, reading: "The Babe Ruth of Golf."

This was only a distorted version of the actual fact, but it was sufficient to present Diegel in an adverse light. He merely had had "Babe Ruth" carved on the driver in mutual admiration of the slugger and the club in question.

It is said that Al Nixon, the outfielder, claims he didn't jump the major leagues to play outlaw baseball, Al has a good story. He was with the Phillies.

ARE THEY SLIPPING?

Less than two years ago Ray Schalk Wally Schang and Steve O'Neill were regarded as the best catchers in baseball. the Big Three of the major leagues. Today seems to be another master.

Crusoe, a young man, is doing most of the catching for Mr. Evers' White sox while Schalk looks on. O'Neill apparently was not benefitted by a change of scene from Cleveland to Boston. Too many passed ball, wrist back to the stands in a recent series with the Yankees. Moreover, Stephen was painfully slow.

As for Schang, he caught very poorly, if at all, while the Yanks were dropping four straight at the start of the season. Hoffman and Bengough then alternated behind the bat and the club started to win forthwith.

WALLY STEWART, Leafs' new southpaw, who pitched his first game in a Toronto uniform at the Island Saturday.

Amateur Union Loses O.A.L.A.

Provincial Lacrosse Body Claims It Was Ignored by Ontario Branch

It was announced last night by Secretary Harcourt of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association that he had been instructed by the executive to inform the Ontario Branch of the C. A. U. of C. that the O. A. L. A. had withdrawn from affiliation. The question was thoroughly discussed at the annual meeting on Good Friday, when a motion to break away from the amateur body was left to the executive. The trouble arose from the Ontario Branch granting amateur cards to players who played professional lacrosse in the Old Country and Canada. The O. A. L. A. after the annual meeting requested the Ontario Branch to extend this privilege to other branches of sport, but the letter was ignored. Similar action is being discussed by enthusiasts and officers in two or three other lines of sport.

The lengthy meeting of the executive on Tuesday night and Wednesday morning completed the senior schedule with the exception of time, date and there are holding up the schedule, and it is likely that an outside committee will be empowered to arrange the schedule.

PROMINENT HORSEMAN DIES

Rochester, Minn., May 9.—Walter J. Harper, Chicago racing sportsman, widely known on tracks in Eastern Canada, New York and California, died at a local hospital today.

Harper came to Rochester two days from Montreal for treatment. He had been identified with American horse racing as a calculator and bookmaker. Last year he was secretary-treasurer of the Eastern Canada Baseball League and this year was connected with the Ottawa and Hull League of Canada. The body, accompanied by his widow and sister, Mrs. D. G. Call, of Chicago, will be taken to Chicago to-night for burial.

CAR AND TRUCK CRASH AT CORNER

Driving out on Front from Campbell street last evening at 8.45 in his touring car, Stanley LaPain had almost made the turn to the south, when Walker Hardware truck, driven by Ex-Mayor Charles Hanna, and which was proceeding north on Front street, struck the rear end of the touring car.

The left rear fender of the car was crushed and the running board damaged. The truck was not damaged to any extent. No one was injured, but the sound of the crash attracted a large crowd.

Home Remedies of Our Ancestors

Almost every man and woman in America can remember the botanic recipes of our mothers and grandmothers for the treatment of disease, and they were wonderfully dependable too. Every fall there were stored away in the attic, thoroughwort, pennyroyal, catnip, sage, wormwood, rosette, for treating ills of the family during the winter months that followed. In 1873, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was first prepared from one of these botanic recipes, and the demand for it has increased to such an extent that hundreds of tons of roots and herbs are now used annually in its preparation. It has recently been proved that 98 out of every 100 women who try it have been benefited by its use, which is a marvelous record for any medicine to hold.

A LAZY BOXER

The manager of a string of boxers brought me his featherweight pugilist boxers to be looked overby his physician.

"There's something wrong with this boy, and I want you to find it for me. He is willing to train daily, and does so, but has lost his speed and punch. He has plenty of "heart" because in his last fight he was knocked out, fell forward, got up again before the count of three, and finished the fight. And when fighters fall forward, they generally come down for a while. Besides he lives with me all the time and I know his every movement. He has no bad habits—no boy could live cleaner.

I'm trying to put weight on him, and yet he enters all his boxing matches three to five pounds lighter than is necessary. I can't build him up."

The physician on examination found the boy well developed, with a sound heart and a normal blood pressure.

His teeth were unusually good. His tonsils on first glance seemed to be small and innocent looking, but a closer inspection of right one showed a cleft which on being lifted revealed a mass of white cheesy matter and a keen down condition of the tonsil itself.

The other tonsil has an opening more than a quarter of an inch across that poured out harmful material when squeezed.

This then was the cause of his "laziness", his disinclination to arouse himself, that made training almost a nightmare, that made fight managers say that he was "stale" from overtraining.

Had he been the ordinary fellow, with tonsils exuding all that poisonous matter he would have been down on his back, or perhaps getting around on crutches with some stiffened joints.

His training by running on the road, his boxing, his bathing with the rub down following it, and also the plain nourishing food all helped to keep him on his feet despite the condition of his throat.

So while he apparently was fighting a winning fight with the protective forces of his body against his bad tonsils, nevertheless the latter were doing sufficient damage to take the "pep" out of his work. The physician advised the manager to see a throat specialist. The removal of the tonsils made all the difference in the world in his ability to go the "whole distance" in his next boxing engagement. You see boxing strong sometimes has its disadvantages in that as long as one is on his feet, he thinks there can't be much the matter with him.

Sulphur Soothes Ugly, Itching Skin

THE FIRST APPLICATION MAKES SKIN COOL AND COMFORTABLE

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you may quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable, flesh and blotches are healed right up. Rowles Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cold cream and is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

"How do you do, Miss Transom?" she said, as pleasantly and carelessly as she could. "What a lovely day! Why did you not come up to see me on Saturday? I was afraid you were not well."

Kate's pale face flushed, and she averted her eyes from Esther's gaze.

"I was busy," she said, not sullenly, but in a still, expressionless voice.

"I am sorry," said Esther. "Perhaps you will come next Wednesday?"

Kate made no response, but folded the table-cloth and stood aside.

"Won't you come in, miss?" she said, not over pressingly.

But Esther went in. The girl was the fiancee of Jack Gordon, and Esther felt that morning fascinated by anything connected with him. She disliked—she would rather have died than admitted that she was jealous of —Kate Transom, and yet she felt constrained to speak to her.

"I spoke to Mr. Fulford about the repairs to your cottage," she said, "and they will be seen to. He has been very busy, or they would have been done before. I am sorry they have been neglected. Is your father at home?"

"No, miss," said Kate, in a dull, lifeless voice. "He has gone to market with some steers for Mr. Gordon."

"For Mr. Martin, you mean," said Esther, quietly. "Mr. Gordon has gone to you know."

Kate was bending over the fire, but at these words she straightened herself and turned her head.

"Gone! Jack Gordon—gone!" she echoed in a still voice, her face growing paler.

"Yes," said Esther. "He left last night."

"Last night? Why?"

Esther coloured.

"To better himself, I suppose," she said, trying to speak carelessly. "He was greatly enraged while Mr. Martin was ill, you know."

"Gone! Last night!" echoed Kate. She stood erect, her eyes fixed vacantly on the window, her face white and strained. "Why last night? Why didn't he wait until the morning?"

Esther shrugged her shoulders with an assumption of indifference which might have decided a more sophisticated girl than Kate.

"I don't know. Fancy, I suppose. He left quite late, and quite suddenly. Mrs Martin did not know that he was going."

Kate turned her eyes upon Esther's face.

"Did you know?" she said.

Esther felt herself colouring, and told a white lie.

"No," she said. "Did you?"

"No," said Kate, vacantly. "Left last night, last night."

Then suddenly she uttered a cry and covered her face with her hands, as if to shut out some unwelcome sight.

Esther rose and approached her.

"What is the matter?" she asked. "Why do you say that? I know you must be sorry, but—why are you so frightened?"

Kate tore her hands from her face and looked at Esther almost defiantly.

"I'm not frightened!" she said, fiercely. "Why should I be? What is Jack Gordon to me, and why shouldn't he go suddenly-like and when he wanted to?"

Esther recoiled from the sudden outburst of passion

"I'm very sorry if I've said anything to make you angry," she said, "anything to wound you. I thought you knew, that you had seen Mr. Gordon lately."

"It's a lie! I've not!" Kate burst out. "I've not seen him since—for days! Why do you say I have? I know why he's gone, and—and I don't know why he's gone, and—and I don't want to know! If you've come to ask me questions, that's my answer. I've nothing to tell, nothing. Please go, Miss Vancourt!"

Esther rose, pale and troubled, and with a strong sense of resentment.

"I did not come to ask you any questions," she said, with quiet dignity. "I merely mentioned that Mr. Gordon had gone. I thought you would know it, seeing that he and you were—were such friends."

She could not bring herself to say "engaged."

Kate stared beyond her visitor with a vacant, half-terrified gaze.

"I don't know what you mean," she said, hoarsely, "Mr. Gordon's coming and going is nothing to me I wish you'd go, you—you fret me!"

Esther rose, flushed and troubled.

"Of course I will go," she said. "I am sorry I have upset you, but I thought you knew—"

"I know nothing, nothing!" broke in Kate, vehemently; and the words followed Esther as she left the cottage.

CHAPTER XXVI

When Esther had gone, Kate sank into a chair as if all her strength had left her. Her face white, her breath came in quick, laboured gasps, and her hands, clasped tightly, writhed and writhed as if she were in physical pain.

At last the fact that Jack had gone, that she might never see him again, brought her misery enough; but the manner of his going, its suddenness, and some of the incidents attending it, of which she alone was cognisant, caused her an additional agony—an agony of terror and dread.

She knew why he had gone into the woods; she had seen him afterwards: her hands were yet red with blood, his manner had been that of a man upset and ill at ease; he had tried to conceal himself from her, and when she had been shocked by the blood upon his hands, he had given no explanation which, in the light of his sudden departure, seem ed insufficient and far-fetched.

Every word of the conversation between her father and the stranger, which she had heard as she crouched behind the door, recurred to her—indeed, it was burned into her brain never to be forgotten. And Mr. Gordon and the strange man met? Had such a meeting been seen these two men had taken place in the woods—!

She shuddered and covered her face with her hands. The man had uttered threats against Mr. Gordon; it was almost impossible for him to meet without coming to blows. Had the man attacked Mr. Gordon whom he feared and hated? If so, she knew Jack too well not to feel convinced that he would defend himself, that he would return a blow, and with interest.

Mrs. Cranker Gives Tanlac Full Credit

"As A Stomach Medicine And Tonic, Tanlac is Certainly 'Wonderful'," Says Brockville Lady.

Adding her voice to the thousands who are praising Tanlac for the recovery of their health and strength, Mrs. Margaret Cranker, 84 Louis St., Brockville, Ont., says:

"Tanlac is such a grand, good medicine and has done so much for me that I will praise it. Following a spell of typhoid fever, two years ago, I was just a shadow of myself and remained so weak I couldn't walk across the floor. Stomach pains and backache tortured me and I was almost frantic from nervousness.

"My husband,' who had used Tanlac with fine results, persuaded me to try it, too, and it proved to be just what I needed. Six bottles helped me back to health and strength and I also gained 12 pounds. That was five years ago and I have felt fine ever since. As a stomach medicine and tonic Tanlac is certainly wonderful."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills, for constipation made and recommended by the manufacturers of TANLAC.

THE EDITOR'S LETTER BOX

From week to week the local newspaper has its say about matters local and general. Sometimes the reader agrees with the opinion expressed by the editor, sometimes he does not. But the reader does not need to or the editor have all the say. Letters to the editor on questions of community interest are always welcomed, no matter whether the views expressed are shared by him or not. FREE—30c Worth of JOHNSON'S KLEEN FLOOR With Every Pound Tin of JOHNSON'S POLISHING WAX

Take the coupon to any of the stores listed below during CLEAN-UP and POLISH-UP WEEK (May 10th to 17th). It is good for a 30c bottle of Johnson's Kleen Floor FREE with every pound tin of Johnson's Polishing Wax you buy. Johnson's Kleen Floor is unsurpassed for cleaning finished floors. It instantly removes spots, stains, dis colorations, water marks, etc.

The Secret of Beautiful Floors

Beautiful floors are largely a matter of prevention. The great secret is to put them in perfect condition and then keep them so. Doorways, stair-treads and tracks should be polished frequently. This requires but little time and effort if Johnson's Polishing Wax is used occasionally.

Ideal Polish for Furniture

Johnson's Liquid Wax is a perfect furniture polish. It imparts a hard, dry, oilless polish which will not finger print or collect dust and lint. It takes all the drudgery from dusting. Protects and preserves the varnish, adding years to its life and beauty. Covers up mars and small surface scratches.

A Preserver of Linoleum

Your Linoleum will last longer and look better if you polish it occasionally with Johnson's Prepared Wax. Johnson's Wax prevents cracking and blistering—brings out the pattern and color—protects linoleum from wear and makes cleaning easy. Leading linoleum manufacturers recommend it.

Paste-Liquid-Powdered A Form for Every Use

Johnson's Polishing Wax is conveniently put up in three forms—Paste, Liquid and Powdered.

Use Johnson's Paste Wax for polishing floors of all kinds—wood, tile, marble, composition, linoleum, etc.

Use Johnson's Liquid Wax for polishing your furniture; woodwork, linoleum, leather, shoes and automobile.

Johnson's Powdered Wax makes perfect dancing floors.

Pure and Sweet
as a Spring Morning

THAT'S the thought that comes to you when you see an array of clothes washed with Sunlight. White things are snowy white—not gray and dull. Colored things are bright—everything seems to shine with the purity that comes only from absolute cleanliness.

And there's no wonder in that because the very ingredients in Sunlight Soap are themselves the products of tropical sun, breeze, flower and fruit. Its blend of natural oils makes Sunlight the most efficient laundry soap in the world.

The Sunlight purity guarantee of 32,000 has never been equalled. Because it is the purest soap, Sunlight is really the most economical you can buy.

There's no leisure on wash day if you use Sunlight. Buy a cake today, read the directions and see for yourself.

REAL VIEW OF ITALY IN BIG GISH SPECIAL

Would you like to see Rome, the city of the seven eternal hills? Would you like to visit Mt. Vesuvius, Italy's death-belching volcano? Would you like to enjoy the charms of Sorrento, the jewel of Italy's south—Naples, with its bay of blue—ancient Tivoli, the town of narrow torturous streets.

You don't have to visit Italy to see these natural grandeurs. They form the setting for Lillian Gish's greatest dramatic triumph, "The White Sister", which is coming on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 12th, 13th and 14th the Griffin's Theatre. Inspiration pictures determined to bring the fascinating beauty of Italy back to America by means of the screen.

"The White Sister" was chosen as the first film to be reproduced entirely overseas. It has been the out-standing artistic triumph of the present motion picture season and the work of Lillian Gish, the screen's greatest artiste, in the leading role, has been characterized as better than anything she has ever done in the past.

The picture is a Henry King production for Inspiration Pictures, Charles H. Duell, Jr., president, and is distributed by Metro.

All seats for this attraction will be reserved. The plan will open at the Theatre Saturday morning the 10th. Mail orders will be accepted now.

A poignant romance on ambition struggle and achievement is "What A Wife Learned," the latest Thomas H. Ince production for the screen. It tells a modern-day love story of a primitive man who is awakened to realization of his own power by the stirring of his wife for self-expression. A cattle stampede a fall from the dizzying heights of a towering steel structure the spectacular breaking of a great dam and the struggle for life of two men who are caught in the rushing waters are a few of the dramatic incidents which form the back-ground for an enthralling romance.

The glory of the purest west, where Sheila, the woman, meets the virile westerner who wins her heart, is contrasted in the picture with the glamour of the cultured east where the dramatization of her successful novel takes her. A rancher of Arizona by husband finds it impossible to comprehend the driving inmate back of his wife's ambition until his own latent powers find self-expression in a great piece of engineering, the building of a dam which means the reclamation of thousands of acres of arid soil. In their final reconciliation a new conception of the "greater marriage," based on mutual service and achievement is envisioned in this romance of the new century.

John Bowers as the "he-man" of the west and Marguerite de la Motte as the modern wife are tremendously satisfying and do some unusually fine work. Milton Bills, especially remembered for his grinning interpretation in "Skin-Deep" plays the part of the eastern playwright with finished skill.

The picture has inspired much discussion wherever it has been shown for it handles a problem that has stirred many a home today. It is now at the Regent.

OLD TIMERS' DAY IN FILMS

It's a far cry from the early motion picture day when "The Pursuit of The Phantom" was screened to the Goldwyn studios of today, but several luminaries of the screen have made the change.

Emmett Flynn, now a Goldwyn director, who made "In The Palace Of The King" which is at the Griffin Theatre, played the juvenile lead in "The Pursuit of the Phantom."

Hobart Bosworth who plays an important role "In The Palace Of The King" took the feature role in, and directed the earlier picture. George W. Hill, now director Cosmopolitan pictures at the Goldwyn studios, was the camera man. Myrtle Stedman, whose last Goldwyn picture was Charles Brabin's "Six Days," was the feminine lead in "The Pursuit of The Phantom."

Distinguished Visitors Will Come to U.E.L.

Mayor Mikel Receives Letters in Answer to Invitations Sent to Ottawa—Plans being Laid to Entertain Prominent Visitors In Fitting Manner.

That Belleville will entertain many distinguished visitors during the week of the U.E.L. celebration is becoming more evident as answers to invitations pour in.

Mayor Mikel is in receipt of several letters from prominent Ministers and statesmen at Ottawa, two of which are shown below. In addition to these, several prominent men from New York state and other points across the line have signified their desire to attend the celebration, and plans are now being laid to entertain these visitors in a manner fitting to the occasion.

THE MINISTER OF FINANCE APPROVES OF THE CELEBRATION

His Worship W. C. Mikel Esq., K.C.
Belleville, Ont.

Dear Sir:—I beg to thank you for the kind invitation of the United Empire Loyalists' Association of Canada to be present at the celebration in Belleville of the 149th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada.

I heartily sympathize with the object of the celebration. It is a good thing for us to keep in mind the loyalty and self-sacrifice of our forefathers and to commemorate them from time to time in the way your Association is doing.

Yours faithfully
THOS. A. ROBB.

THE MINISTER OF CUSTOMS AND EXCISE WILL BE BELLEVILLE

W. C. Mikel, Esq., Mayor,
Belleville, Ont.

Dear Mr. Mayor:—I note that the week commencing June 16th is the time for the celebration and I hope to have the pleasure of being present during the week. Should, however, circumstance, the exigencies of public business may prevent.

With every good wish for a most successful week, and hoping to have the pleasure of thanking you personally, Believe me,

Yours faithfully,
JACQUES BUREAU

CAPTAIN GEORGE CRIGHTON, in charge of the inquiry information bureau at the City Hall, Toronto, who has been offered the post of adjutant to the Canadian Boley team.

LIQUOR PLEBISCITE SLATED FOR JUNE?

BAND CONCERTS TO BE SPECIAL U.E.L. FEATURE

Chairman Hanna Completes Arrangements with 48th Highlanders

SPECIAL PROGRAMME

Three Bands of Famous Battalion to Be on Hand June 15th

Chairman Chas. Hanna of the U.E.L. executive committee was in Toronto last night and met the officers and men of the 48th Battalion in addition to extending an official invitation to the officers and men to attend the coming celebration he extended greeting from the officers and men of the Argyle Light Infantry.

Arrange Visit

Arrangements are now being completed for their visit here during the U.E.L. Celebration and Bandmaster Slater promises that the entire band of the 48th, one of the best in the Dominion, will be on hand.

They are also bringing their pipe and bugle band, making three bands in all. The battalion is expected to arrive here on Saturday, June 15 and parade in their grounds and go under canvas. On Sunday morning they will attend divine service, hold a) parade in the afternoon and attend sacred band concert in the evening.

On Monday afternoon they will take part with the Argyle Light Infantry and other visiting battalions in a grand military parade, terminating at the Fair Grounds where the A.L.I. will troop the colours and a special programme of sports will follow the military ceremonies.

Special Features

On Monday Bandmaster Slater will put on his famous military band and massed band concerts, all bands here that day taking part.

Several offers of cars have been received by the committee for the purpose of advertising the celebration through parts of Canada and the United States.

PROFESSOR WRONG TALKS ON EUROPE

Tells Women's Canadian Club That Great Britain Is Sound and Rapidly Returning to Normal

That Great Britain is sound, despite great war ravages, and the only nation which has been able to balance the budget since the war, was one of the outstanding, reassuring statements made by Dr. George Wrong, Professor of history at Toronto University, in his excellent address before the Women's Canadian Club here last evening. A large and interested audience at the open meeting of the club, over which the President Miss Madeline Fralick presided, enjoyed the address which was on "The European situation".

In contrast to Britain's remarkable post war condition, Professor Wrong said, he has travelled widely, explored the conditions in France, Germany and Italy and the situation there is not so fortunate.

"Germany will never be able to pay her indemnities so long as she remains in her present chaotic condition. Her money value has declined to such a low point, and wherever the upper middle class are languishing next to starvation, and living from hand to mouth,hopeless than the lives of Toronto tramps."

This is the opinion of Professor Wrong, who had a more optimistic message for France, the country deserving of every sympathetic consideration.

In referring to the hectic conditions which exist in the Balkans, the speaker stated that future wars in which the Balkan countries are involved, will not be dynastical conflicts as Russia and

FRENCH VOTERS SHOW APATHY OVER ELECTION

Communists Only Party Making Bitter Fight On Issues

TARDIEU ATTACKED

"Flying Circuses" of Boys Organized to Wreck Meetings

Paris, May 10.—Except for the activity of Communists, who are pursuing a deliberate campaign of violence, the French election campaign is lacking in the atmosphere of general apathy, despite importance of the issues involved. The French paid more attention to the German elections than they thus far have devoted to their own.

The Communists, however, by letting Adre Marty, the pardoned Black Sea mutineer, are making an extremely bitter fight in the industrial suburbs of Paris, a fight aimed especially at Andre Tardieu.

"Flying Circuses" have been organized. These are groups of boys, taught from 12 to 17 years of age, who dash in and break up political meetings. Upon a signal given by a Communists director, the youngsters gleefully set up a catcalling and howling, which prevents speakers opposed to the Communists from being heard. The boys carry klaxon horns under their coats to assist in the bedlam.

Russian Money

A number of anti-Communist candidates have recently accused the Marty group of spending on the campaign money received from Moscow.

Among the better known candidates in the Paris region are Jacques Bainville, Count Alexandre de Lecointe, the airman; Commander Brocard, and ministers for the Robert Le Trocquer and Maginot.

Le Cordier, who had the world's speed records at one time, is conducting a remarkable campaign. He issues a speech:

"A parrot talks, but it cannot fly. A chicken says, "I fly, but I don't talk".

Austria the great nations which might take a hand in the war, are now in a state of anarchic chaos.

Dr. Wrong has toured all countries of which he spoke, and the outstanding facts of his interesting address were driven home by very appropriate illustrations which aided finely to the historical address. Being a professor of History, Dr. Wrong of course referred to historical events, and besides quoting statistics, drew a few references to the range from the history of histories, the Bible.

Miss Fralick extended a hearty vote of thanks at the conclusion of the address which was taken up in no uncertain manner by the audience.

Denies Canada's Right To Lakes' Kick

Washington, May 10.—Representative Madden, Republican, Illinois, today told the House Rivers and Harbors Committee today that Canada had no right to interfere with the proposed withdrawal of 10,000 cubic feet of water a second for sewage purposes at Chicago.

"We are not taking water from any lake over which Canada has jurisdiction," he said, asserting that the International treaty dealt merely with boundary waters. All the works in Chicago sanitary district are on United States territory, he added.

"The treaty limits the diversion from the lake," he said, "but specifically exempts diversion for sanitary and domestic purposes. The Chicago diversion is used for navigation, but primarily for sanitary purposes."

Madden added that within 20 years the Chicago will have completed a sewage disposal plant at a cost of $125,000,000, but even then will need the 10,000 cubic feet for a second.

LODGE SPIKES LEAGUE COURT GUNS FOR U.S.

Proposes Tribunal on Lines Of Old One at The Hague

LEAVES GENEVA OUT

Coolidge Believed in Line With Senator's Brand New Suggestion

Washington, May 10.—Senator Henry Cabot Lodge has administered a long dose sleeping potion of the Harding-Hughes proposal that the United States adhere to the world court of justice set up by the league of nations.

This was the well-nigh unanimous opinion today of both Republicans and Democrats here, following the presentation by Senator Lodge of a brand new world court proposal which would take the United States into a court entirely divorced from the League and modelled after the old Hague tribunal.

Whether the Lodge court has the support of President Coolidge was a matter of keen speculation today. The White House maintained silence. There is no reason to believe, however that President Coolidge was acquainted with the outline of the Lodge plan before its presentation to the Senate, and those who favor it point out that the new proposal follows generally the ideas heretofore expressed by the President as to the kind of a world court the United States should join. President Coolidge has never materially espoused the Harding-Hughes proposal that the United States adhere to the League court with reservations, although he has commended it on two occasions in his first message to Congress and in his recent New York speech.

In both instances, however, he has confined himself merely to recommending it to the "favorable consideration" of the Senate and the country. He has consistently refrained from any effort to force action upon it.

Means Knockout Blow

Republican senators who have steadfastly opposed the existing Hughes-Harding proposal accepted the Lodge plan today as a substitute for the Harding-Hughes plan, privately declaring it to meant a knockout blow for the latter. They denied the support of Lodge and his associates in the powerful committee on foreign relations, they did not know how the league court could possibly be ratified by the Senate.

That Lodge plan was carefully drawn to meet all of the objections raised by the Irreconcilables to the Hughes proposal.

Potatoes Still Scarce Product

Judging from the price asked for potatoes another product in this vicinity, the high cost of living is not due to any considerable increase over the price of a week ago. Potatoes are still practically impossible for the man in price. Fresh rare were exceptionally fine, selling at 20c to 25c per dozen. Shippers are offering the latter price No. 1 stock but a poor article is being obtained. Dressed chickens were scarce and commanded a high price namely $2.50 to $3.50 a pair and in one instance $4 a pair was asked.

Eggs were scarce, lettuce, radishes and rhubarb were quite plentiful and ready marketable stock was also found, but cabbage price was 10 cts a bunch.

Cut flowers were also in considerable quantities and reasonable in price. Bedding plants from 10c to 15c per pound, and vine plants from 10c to 15c and pork from 15c to 18c per pound.

LOCAL BRANCH OF CRUSADERS STARTED HERE

Colonel Vanderwater Unanimously Chosen First Leader

MEMBERS INITIATED

Title "Argyle" Adopted in Honor of Duke Of Argyle

Chivalric Order of Knights Crusaders, Canada has been started in Belleville. Colonel Vanderwater was unanimously chosen as first head of the 91st Assembly No.2 Chivalric Order of Knights Crusaders of Canada, the title "Argyll" was adopted as a compliment and in honour to Colonel His Grace The Duke of Argyll, K.G.,K.T., who is honorary Colonel of Belleville's famous regiment, The Argyll Light Infantry.

At a convocation of the Order held at the Randolph Hotel, Kingston, on the 2nd May, 1924, the following knights members were initiated and appointed to the offices as shown against their names.

The ceremony was performed by Sir Knight Grand Commander, Colonel J. A. Curry, K.C. M.P. of Toronto, assisted by Sir Knights Crusaders from the Grand Council Officers and Officers of the Grand Commandery of the Chivalric Order of Knights Crusaders of Canada, who have kindly consented to act as Provincial Officers in Great Britain, with a membership already over two millions.

Colonel J. A. Curry, K.C., M.P., is head of the Order in this country and already 39 Assemblies are in course of formation.

The Belleville assembly is composed as follows:

Sir Knight Commander—Lt.-Col. E. Vanderwater, D.S.O.

Sir Knight Governor—Captain P. H. Wills.

Sir Knight Keeper—Major W. J. Cook.

Sir Knight Chancellor—Major D. McManus.

Sir Knight Almoner—Captain A. D. Harper, M.C.

Sir Knight Paddre—Captain G. H. Stobie.

Sir Knight Keeper of the Guard—Major A. W. Pratt, D.S.O.

Sir Knight Sentinel—Major Knight R.S.M. W. C. Jack, D.C.M., M.M., Sir Knight Major R. G. Dunnan, Sir Knight C.Q.M.S. G. W. Dawes.

Reforestation is not altogether being forgotten in Hastings County as quite recently Colonel Roscoe Vanderwater, D.S.O., who commands the troop at this station has set out (on his own property) 4,000 trees comprising more 10 years ago his grand father planted 1,000 trees (the first act of reforestation) 4,500 Scotch pine trees, being trees of very suitable size and are particularly suited to climate and conditions existing in these parts.

COUNTY JUNIOR FARMERS HOLD MONTHLY MEETING TRIP

Arrangements are being made by the Local Agricultural Office to conduct a tour among the junior boys and farmers in the County of Kemptville Agricultural School. It is expected that at least twenty autos will take part in the trip. Those taking part in the tour will leave Belleville Wednesday morning, June 4th and after visiting points of interest on the way will arrive at the Kemptville Agricultural School, Wednesday night. An illustrated lecture entitled "Around the boys free of charge at the Agricultural School.

SKIES DARKEN IN EUROPE AS TROOPS CLASH

Asia and Africa Also See Armed Breaks, Hear Threats

RUSSIA IS MASSING

Rumania Counters, Hurries Troops to Line; Turks and French Battle

London, May 10.—Fighting and threats of hostilities were reported from various parts of Europe, Asia and Africa today.

According to a report printed by the London Daily Express, both Russia and Rumania are making warlike preparations along the Russo-Rumanian frontier by massing troops. Those nations have long engaged in a territorial dispute.

Fighting between French gendarmerie and Turks is again reported from the Syrian frontier—on the side of the Syrian district under French mandate.

Spanish in Offensive

Spanish forces in Morocco have been engaged in a two-day offensive against the Rif tribesmen in the Beni Ressael sector of the battle front. The tribesmen's losses were put at 300.

Communists are active all over Germany. They have precipitated strikes of half a dozen kinds and fears are felt that, under the urging of Russia, they may attempt to wage war against the existing order of things.

Fortifying Border Line.

Russia has begun concentrating troops along the Rumanian frontier, according to the report printed by the Daily Express.

Rumania is said to on rushing soldiers to strategic border points.

The Russians are reported to be fortifying a line along the Dniester River. The population of the district where the military movements are under way are fleeing southward.

Soviet Russian and Rumania have been at loggerheads ever since the latter country seized the Russian province of Bessarabia. A peace conference was held in Vienna, but it broke up.

Recently King Ferdinand of Rumania visited Paris, and it was understood France promised him aid in the event of war between Rumania and Russia.

French Guns Ambushed

Further fighting between Turks and French along the Syrian frontier was reported in despatches to the Daily Express today.

French artillery was ambushed, and said to have sustained heavy casualties.

Angora is massing Turkish troops on the Mosul border, facing the French gendarmerie.

Riff Losses 300

Melilla, May 10.—Five thousand Spanish infantry and artillerymen have been engaged in a two day offensive against concentrations of rebel tribesmen in the Beni Bessad section, said despatches from the battle front today. Riff losses were estimated at 300. Spanish losses were claimed to be slight.

IS COMING TO U.E.L. MEET HERE

Harry Davy of Victoria, B.C. Will Visit Belleville For First Time in Thirty Years

Mr. Charles Weese, 2nd Conductor of Thurlow Township is in receipt of a communication from Harry Davy, City of Victoria, B.C. an old Belleville boy, who left here thirty years ago (that is about thirty years).

Mr. Harry Davy has received an invitation to attend the U. E. L. Celebration in Belleville and that he intends making the trip and have just mailed remembrance of old time. "I will be back in the old town" he writes "to see the old boys and talk over old times" he says. I will be working overtime night and I doubt if any of those I knew in the telegraph business in Belleville are living, let alone working as I am doing. Jim Bowen, Frank Thompson and George Hare were since passed away.

I am feeling pretty good and I will be in old Belleville if I live for that celebration.

They certainly must have introduced some of the old place lately for I get together and work up all this enthusiasm. I haven't thought there was anything like it left in the old town.

Say-boy old boy I must ring off on this stuff.

LABOR GROUP STUDIES MANY EMPIRE ISSUES

Commonwealth Group Is Formed With Labor Party in Britain

NAME CANDIDATES

Will Take up Imperial Preference First—Woman Named

London, May 10—Following the speech made by Premier Ramsay MacDonald at the opening of the Wembley exhibition, in which even the most rabid of the Conservative party has not thought it appropriate to criticize a commonwealth group has been formed with the Labor Party.

Ramsay MacDonald's speech contained the following pregnant statement:

"The genius of keeping the empire alive is a talent of revolution and a warm welcome of evolution."

The statement was made the text of a meeting held last night at which the new group was formed. Full conference of Labor members is due to be held on Monday, at which certain specified delegates of the new group will explain the necessity for some such an organization in the whole party. The avowed object of the group is to keep the rank and file of Labor ites in full acquaintance with the requirements of the empire and the individual problems of the various colonies and dominions. The first question which they will take up for consideration is the matter of imperial preference.

Executive

"London, May 10—A Labor commonwealth group was organized at a meeting of the Labor members of the house of commons last night for the purpose of making a special study of empire affairs. The executive comprises the following members: W. S. Royce for land, of Boston, Lincolnshire, chairman; Dr. Haden Guest, South Southwark; J. Scaife, Leeds; Dennis Gleasow; J. Scurr, Mile End Stepney; George Lansbury, Bow and Bromley Poplar; S. P. Viant, West Willesden and T. W. Williams, Don Valley, York shire.

Visit Dominions

In the course of the discussion on the formation of the Labor commonwealth group, the need was emphasized for a closer understanding between the imperial and dominion parliamentary representatives. The importance of the members of the British parliament, visiting the dominions and receiving visitors there, was recognized as of value to the Labor party in the coming years, in the way the members would be enabled to keep fully informed on empire issues.

GWEN IS HAVING

FINE RECEPTION

Miss Gwen Lailey the Courier to Washington who is visiting with Albion, N. Y., on Thursday afternoon, received a fine reception. On Friday she was entertained by the Daughters of Albion by Hon. A. Smith, Governor of the State of New York.

sac factory, yes, and the old logger is running up to Algonquin Park, which have long since passed to the scrap pile and I wonder at the pep that has started something in the old town which surely will give it a lot of advertisement.

PEOPLE TO DECIDE ON LIQUOR ACT

Intimation From Provincial Headquarters Points to General Plebiscite Being Held in June—Feeling of Conservative Members That Voters Must Decide Question

Special to The Intelligencer

Toronto, May 10—Information received from Provincial headquarters this morning pointed to a general plebiscite on the liquor question being held in June

For the past few months rumors and counter rumors regarding the holding of a plebiscite this summer have been flying about the chambers of the Provincial Parliament, and many now consider June the proper time to place this issue before the people of the Province.

Early Settling of Issue

Definite arrangements have not been concluded and no official announcement has been made concerning the holding of the plebiscite, but information generally points to an early settling of the question.

Premier Ferguson has repeatedly stated that any move made regarding the O.T.A. was to go to the people, and any action taken on the liquor question would have to be approved by the electors of Ontario.

People Hold Balance

The attitude of the Conservative members of the Provincial Parliament take the same view of the situation as Premier Ferguson and will make no official pronouncement until hearing from their constituents.

FREAK BLIZZARD HITS SOUTH SASKATCHEWAN

Snow Jan. May 10.—Records of the past month and a half, and indeed of the year are numerous in Saskatchewan, but tonight's storm can be blamed which raged over a large portion of Southwest Saskatchewan Sunday night and Monday when in several places was reported to a depth of over ten inches, telephone and telegraph services interrupted and seeding operations at a standstill.

In the Moosbank area and south and west, not only did the storm completely tie up all farming operations but it blocked traffic as between towns for automobiles. Snow fell to a depth of 18 inches in some sections.

"Pa," said Clarence, "what would you think if you saw one of these fish they say are climb a tree?" "That it was time for me to get on the water wagon and stay there," replied his dad.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

THE WEATHER

Moderate winds, partly fair but still unsettled with occasional showers today and Sunday, little change in temperature.

Let there be harmony in things owned and liberty in things not owned—charity in all.

A FREAK OF NATURE

One of the strange freaks of nature is the spring season we are at present experiencing. Some of the old-timers declare that their memory does not carry back so far that they can remember so long sustained a cold spell as that of April and the first two weeks of May.

In looking over data regarding the reasons for erratic climate and scientific explanations for the same, one that is of particular interest to Canada is the diversion of the Gulf Stream, that warm current extending from the southern coast of Florida and the Gulf of Mexico, reaching as far north as Labrador and easting this stream would fill volumes but the item of importance is that while it starts as a hundred mile wide current, it gradually spreads until five hundred miles across.

An able scientist, Prof. A. F. Wilson, of Edinburgh University, now comes forth with the statement that the hundred mile long bridge over the Florida Keys is partly responsible for the changes now being experienced in Britain. While primarily a bridge, sediment has seeped down with the years and a ridge has been formed the length of the bridge, locking the current, and forcing it to find a new channel. While this only represents a small part of the Gulf stream proper, a diversion of a mile at the source means five miles when touching the British Isles, and may totally divert any warmth from the shores of Labrador.

Snow fell in many portions of England this year that had been immune from cold weather for a century.

A LASTING IMPRESSION

Belleville is to entertain many distinguished visitors during the coming T.E.L. celebration. Already several cabinet ministers have signified their intention to be present, and the United States will be well represented. Are we doing our share to prepare a fitting reception for these visitors? We must not only look out for their personal comfort, and entertainment, but beautify Belleville, make the garden plot blossom as never before, and leave an impression that these visitors will carry away, not to be forgotten in a hurry.

Some idea of the impression summer visitors have carried away with them after visiting here can be obtained from the following exerpt from the Washington Post.

"Belleville, one of the beauty spots of Canada, and situated on the Bay of Quinte, a body of water gleaming like an emerald gem and dotted with white-winged vessels, is a fitting site for the celebration of the 140th anniversary of the founding of Upper Canada. Wide streets, with great trees hundreds of years old arching above them until they meet; beautiful grounds and buildings of an era long gone by; and a noticeable feeling of well-being on the part of the inhabitants together form a combination that pleases the eye and senses of the visitor."

CHAS. HANNA—WORKER

While these columns are seldom given to laudatory remarks about localitizens, certain events that have transpired during the past few weeks have brought more than passing attention to a man well-known in Belleville.

Several weeks ago the U.E.L. celebration was an uncertain quantity. We all knew that it would be a great event for our city, but how to do it, and do it well, was our problem. Chas. Hanna was selected chairman of the executive committee, told to whip things into some kind of shape, and then turned loose on his own resources. He selected a committee, all able men, and quietly to work. And now with still six weeks to go, a real workable plan for the entire celebration has been formulated. The results of his efforts can not be due to anything but just plain "work", digging in, and making things go, whether or no.

Minor dissensions were simply "rode over", compromise for any disagreement was evolved and forthwith the plans that have been formed are so clear and concise that even a stranger to our city could not fail to understand what is to be done.

Charlie Hanna has certainly done his work, it is now up to all of us to get behind our able chairman and "Put over" the celebration in a fitting manner.

Graham Bell, Deputy Minister of Railways and C.N.R. director, explains that that million dollars of C.N.R. money was placed on deposit in the Home Bank for three or four days at the request of his fellow-director Mr. Gough, who was also a director of the Home Bank. Perhaps somebody invited the C.N.R. directors to buy the Hotel Scribe in Paris, and they hadn't the heart to refuse.

Irish Envoy Power Will Be Limited

Minister Plentipotentiary, But Not Extraordinary, Probable Status

London, May 10—The Irish Free State's representative in Washington when appointed will have the title minister plenipotentiary but not envoy extraordinary, according to the Daily Telegraph's political correspondent, who says the scope of his activities will be limited to economic and financial questions.

Professor Timothy A. Smiddy is considered certain of appointment to the post.

Influenced By Canada

The Imperial Government, in acceding to the Free State's request for such a representative, was influenced by Former Premier Lloyd George's agreement to the appointment of a Canadian Minister in Washington, the correspondent adds, but the international status of the autonomous Dominion, to which the Free State now belongs, is very difficult to define since their participation in the League of Nations as virtually independent units has obscured the position.

The writer points out that when appointment of the Canadian representative was approved it was agreed that he should remain in permanent contact with the British Embassy, but no suggestion is made as to what status the Free State Minister will have in this respect.

Review Whole Question

If it becomes a practice for the dominions to appoint their own representatives abroad with the right of negotiating directly with foreign states the whole question of the position and powers of the Imperial Government and its relations to the dominions must be clearly reconsidered, in the correspondent's opinion.

SLEEP—BUT SIT UP

While attending services at th Friendship Church, Detective Ogden Charles Walker, who said he was from Pittsburgh, Pa., fell from the pew he was occupying in the last row and roll down the aisle.

Upon examination it was found that Walker was intoxicated. He was brought before Judge Mattingly and after receiving advice from the court to stay out of churches when in that condition, received a $10 fine.

It is quite permissible to sleep in church but you must not snore nor you must confine yourself to your pew.

POPULAR SONGS IN ADVERTISING

A very famous and, at the same time, very cynical writer has advanced the hoss oud that "a song is never truly great until the customers deem him worthy of ear-ackey." If this is carried to its logical conclusion, then it may be that a song is never truly popular until it has induced someone to write a parody on it; which, of course, is an excellent thing for song writer and publisher, because it never pursely, as it tends to add increasing vogue to the popular song.

In similar vein, the famous Henry Ford is said to have stated that he did not care what newspapers, cartoonists, vaudeville performers and song writers said about the Ford car so long as they mentioned the name; it was the advertising he wanted. A number of lilting, jilting, whistlable songs have lately formed the basis of a clever advertising campaign. Going such favourites as "Last Night on the Back Porch"—"Cut Yourself a Piece of Cake"—Mr. Gallagher and Mr. Sheen"—"Yes, We have no Bananas" and "That Old Gang of Mine" and many others, the parodies are easy enough to remind one of MILLBANK Quarries whenever the song is sung or whistled.

THEY TELL THEIR NEIGHBORS

Women Tell Each Other How They Were Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Woodbridge, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles. I would have headaches, backache, pains between my shoulders and under my shoulder-blades and dragging down feelings on each side. I was sometimes unable to do my work and felt very badly. My mother-in-law told me about the Vegetable Compound and I got some right away. It has done me more good than any other medicine I ever took and I recommend it to my neighbors. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial if you think it will help some poor sufferer."—Mrs. EDGAR SIMMONS, R. R. 2, Woodbridge, Ont.

In nearly every neighborhood in every town and city in this country there are women who have been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the treatment of ailments peculiar to their sex, and they take pleasure in passing the good word along to other women. Therefore, if you are troubled in this way, why not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

PACIFIC SEA CLASH STILL LOOMS AHEAD

Great Britain Must Avert Disaster, Paper Claims, in U.S.-Japan Issue

London, May 10.—The Times, commenting editorially on the American and Japanese immigration legislation, says undoubtedly much of the friendly atmosphere created by the Washington treaty has been dispelled thereby. Dwelling upon the "fundamental causes of the antagonism" between the Americans and Japanese, the paper continues:

"It is idle to ignore the possibility of ultimate conflict in the Pacific, distant though it may be.....Nobody will likely put forward alarmist theories about the ultimate clash between the east and west.

Up to Great Britain

"Upon the people of those islands (Great Britain) with their cherished friendship for Japan and their indissoluble ties with the United States, rests perhaps the supreme responsibility for averting so incalculable a disaster, but the seeds of conflict are on either side of the Pacific Ocean, and it behooves this country to watch with incessant vigilance every turn in the most tremendous problem confronting the world. The action of the United States marks a very significant stage in its development."

ARBITRATORS HEAR PLEAS OF COUNSEL

Col. R. C. Carman and R. D. Ponton Present Lengthy Addresses — Reserve Decision

The address of counsel in the arbitration proceedings, occupied almost the whole of Friday afternoon at the Court House, after which the arbitrators reserved decision to read up the large number of precedent cases submitted to them by Col. R. C. Carman, acting for the city in the matter, and R. D. Ponton, counsel for the plaintiffs, Edward Kellaway and Geo. Evans.

Holding that there never was any case, for arbitration, Col. Carman also pointed out that under subsection 3 of section 326, the Municipal Act the case was out lawed as particulars must be made in writing within one year. The city, he pointed out, was not responsible for till having been put there, the Canadian Parting Co. or any other having probably received instructions from some person.

R. D. Ponton, counsel for plaintiffs read the notice which Evans had served upon the city council long before the flood occurred in the spring of 1923, warning them that the fill had been put there and that he would hold the city responsible for flood damages. That it was contended was all that could have been humanly possible in the way of warping until such time as the flood occurred, Mr. Kellaway also warned the city in a similar manner.

Mr. Ponton also contends that the fill was put there by order of the city engineer who states however, that his instructions were merely to fill in irregularities in Sandford street.

Numerous cases were submitted to the arbitrators by respective counsel and many passages read, which occupied much time.

MacDONALD AT CHEQUERS

(London Express)

Since the Prime Minister took over Chequers as his official country residence the Buckinghamshire country, I hear, has been much frequented by sightseers. The little village of Great Kimble which has a quaint little inn, characteristic of the country, has gained an undeved popularity; it seems to be the goal of all who wish to see the Premier's residence and get a glimpse of him on the nine-hole golf course in the neighborhood. They are, however, often mistaken in thinking they have seen Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in one of the players.

DON'T STAND AT CROSS-ROADS

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

There is a place in the life of every boy, girl, man and woman that may be termed the cross-roads—the place where decision must be made concerning the route to follow in order to get the best results from the world for all that each individual puts into it.

Making the choice is not always as easy as it appears. The individual does not always know just what he wants for the world most, nor does he know what he is willing to pay for privilege he asks from the world. One gets from life what he is willing to put into it as a general thing. Putting your best into it is like sowing the good seed; you can reap the best—sometimes thirty, some sixty and some a hundred fold.

There are cross-roads of faith and of conduct—the law to have belief in something. That belief ought to be settled early in life; that's when the foundations should be laid, laid deep on the solid rock, not on sand that shifts with every wind of opinion.

There are, or ought to be, guide-posts at every cross-road. The experience of those who have passed that way before the guide-posts. Some are possibly the worse for wear, some have been badly buffeted and weather beaten, but they serve as guide to others and show the direction to take if success is to be the ultimate goal.

Don't stand at the cross-roads. Keep moving on the road that leads to your greatest and best good.

Germans Ready to Finish H.B. Road

Colonel Webb Asserts 100 Millions Was Offered Before War

Saskatoon, May 10.—German capitalists are ready to go ahead with the Hudson Bay Railway scheme and develop mineral, oil, and other resources adjacent to the Hudson Bay.

This announcement was made by Colonel R. H. Webb, member of the advertising committee of the On-to-the-Bay Association here last night. The Germans had offered to raise $100,000,000 before the war to carry out this project.

Since the war, he said, Germans had again approached capitalists in Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg to form a syndicate to develop these, and the question for Canadians to consider was would they allow the Germans to do the thing or complete a road themselves.

Branch Organized

At a big rally under the auspices of the Board of Trade where Colonel Webb spoke a Saskatoon branch of the On-to-the-Bay Association was launched. Farmers and business men from all parts of northern and central Saskatchewan attended and joined hands with practically every organization in Saskatchewan in urging the immediate completion of the Hudson Bay Railway.

Colonel R. H. Webb also said that the Hudson Straits and the Nelson River were open 365 days out of the year, stating that he had been a visitor to the straits on many occasions and could back up his statements.

GIRLHOOD DAZES

Can Be Avoided, by Keeping the Blood Rich and Pure

(The anaemia of young girls may be inherited, or it may be caused by air, unsuitable food, hasty and irregular eating, insufficient out-door exercise and not enough rest and sleep. It comes on gradually, beginning with languor, indisposition to exertion and a feeling of fatigue. Later comes palpitation of the heart and headaches. In the majority of cases constipation is present, and the complexion takes on a greenish-yellow pallor. The treatment is quite easy and just simply, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are just the tonic to remedy this wretched state of health. They act directly upon the blood, and as it becomes rich and pure, strength and activity returns, the glow of health comes to the cheeks, and soon the trouble will disappear and good health follow. Miss Pearl Parks, R. R. No. 1, Reaboro, Ont., has proved the value of this medicine, and her statement will point the way to health to all other weak girls. She says:—"I was very ill with anaemia. I could not sleep at night; my appetite was poor, my face and lips were very pale and my eyes dull. I got so weak that I could not go up-stairs without resting. I took dizzy and fainting spells, had no ambition what ever, and did not care to go about. I was in this condition for nearly a year, I had treatment from two doctors but did not regain my strength, so my mother, who was very uneasy about me, decided I should try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using the pills for a while I felt somewhat better, and continued taking them until I had used about a dozen boxes, when I was again well and strong. I strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the treatment of any suffering from anaemia."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cts. a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

McKenna Duties Again Wakened

Classes Socialist Ministry "Monument of Sham and Humbug"

London, May 10.—Winston Churchill's speech under Conservative auspices at Liverpool was largely a powerful attack upon the Socialistic tendencies of the present Ministry, which he described as a "mass monument of sham and humbug."

Apart from such picturesque generalizations, Mr. Churchill's remarks with regard to his personal attitude toward the Conservative are interesting:

Not Trying Discretion

He very carefully denied allegations that he intended to bring Liberalism into the Conservative ranks. What he proposed was the reorganization of Liberals with a solid body of Conservatives from national and economic interests in making those advances, however, Mr. Churchill retains his own opinions on free trade, although he thinks the McKenna duties were "harmless," and kept prosperity down was "the most aggressive action of pedantry and faction which has arisen in new alignment to a great controversy that otherwise was developing into the proper place in national affairs."

Welcomed to Fold

The conservative newspapers this morning welcome Winston Churchill to the Conservative fold.

The Daily Telegraph, he is entitled to retain a certain measure of independence, and the Conservatives are aware of Liberal views in the Communes to the extent of giving the Labor Government's position valuable and sometimes necessary assistance.

It is admitted, however, that this probably is the most he can do, and the idea of his becoming ever a genuine supporter of the Baldwin Ministry is frankly resisted.

Do Women Like Sales? Ask Congoleum Dealers

What is the Canadian woman's attitude toward the annual and semi-annual "sale week" which some manufacturers have been making a regular part of their distributing program in the last few years? How does she respond to the opportunity they offer to get the better displayed goods, wider selection and lower prices?

The results of a novel canvass among dealers handling Gold Seal Congoleum Art Rugs during Congoleum Week as he would normally sell in two months. Yet the sale of Congoleum continues steady and increasingly heavy the whole year through!

One of the oldest and most experienced of these dealers answered the question thus: "There are sales and sales! As to women's attitude toward these functions in general, all I can say is, it depends on the sale. But as to Congoleum sales—that's different!

"During Congoleum Week they know they'll find only clean, new goods; that there'll be a complete stock of all the latest and most popular patterns specially displayed to make it easy to make selections; and we'll prove so far below the ordinary as to form a real, worth-while saving on a small purchase. They know, too, that the Gold-Seal Guarantee of Satisfaction or your money back goes with every purchase."

NEW OVERLAND WITH BALLOON TIRES STANDARD

A decided sensation has been created in the motoring world with the announcement of the New Overland Blue Bird—Canada's lowest priced car with Balloon Tires and disc wheels standard equipment.

It has been the general belief that Balloon Tires as standard equipment would be confined entirely to high priced cars, and the announcement by Willys-Overland that Balloon Tires are standard equipment on the New Overland Blue Bird comes as a great surprise.

The remarkably low price at which the New Overland is offered to the public, is startling evidence of the effect that high sales volume has in making possible the low selling price of such a car.

The splendid resiliency of the Overland Patented Triplex Springs, together with the buoyancy of the big, low-pressure Balloon Tires make for riding qualities that just seem to float the car over the roughest roads.

With the big, roomy body done in rich blue and upholstery to match—with top, heavy-crown fenders and running gear as jet black, the combination is a striking picture when set off by nickel-plated radiator, headlamp rims, windshield stanchions, outside door handles, hub plates—and the disc wheels and big Genuine Balloon Cord Tires.

Local Tennis Fans Active

The tennis season has opened in earnest now, and there has been large turnout every day that the weather has permitted. The courts are in perfect condition and quite fast for this time of the year. From the enthusiasm displayed so far, it looks as if it may be necessary to open another court. This, however, on the number who join with us in the next few days. Commencing with Monday next, every player will be required to have his or her membership ticket before they can play on the courts. This will be strictly enforced, in order to find out the total number of members, as well as to secure finances. Anyone who is contemplating joining the club may secure their membership tickets by seeing Mr. Cook, the secretary, at the Union Bank and on payment of the small fee of three dollars. Everyone will have a chance to use the courts because it is a rule of the club that no one must sit on the bench without being invited to play. If there are more than enough to fill the courts then the players will take turns by playing a set and resting a set while the others play a set. No one is going to be permitted to "hog" the best court, that is, court No. 1. Players on this court will change with players on No. 3 court after a reasonable time, whether requested to or not.

There are a number of young lads joining up this year for the first time These boys are very welcome, because it is a good sign to see the younger boys taking up the very excellent game of tennis. We just want to warn the boys however, that this is a gentleman's game, and that it is very bad tennis manners to wrangle over points or dispute decisions. Also there must be no noisy disputes about partners; that they must always give a doubtful point to their opponent; that the whole object of the game is not to win, but to play well and hard; to be able to say at the end of the play, "Thank you, that was a fine game," and not "we beat you didn't we."

The boys will be expected to dress neatly and avoid khaki trousers or overalls. While in the correct dress for tennis both for ladies and gentlemen. Nothing looks nicer, we think, than to see a ball-dozen players clad in spotless white flitting about against the soft green background of the neatly marked courts. White duck trousers and a white shirt for the men, and a loose-fitting one-piece dress of white serge for the ladies, is just the most correct thing and quite inexpensive too.

While in hope that most of the members will try and dress for tennis still, for this year, at least, while the game is so new to so many, the club will not insist on it.

A tournament will be started just as soon as the full list of members is secured. There are two small books at the public library now that endeavor to tell one how to play tennis. No doubt some useful information may be gleaned from them.

SUNLIGHTS FAILED TO OUT-SHINE ROLLERS

Although the Sunlights finished up strong in the final game with the Rollers in their game at the Y Tuesday night they waited too long in order to stage a successful come-back, allowing the Rollers to obtain too great a lead in the first two strings. Miss Bland made the best score on lady bowlers and Herity lead the men.

The Durant Motors with only three of their regular bowlers for the first game and four for the next two lost their first game of the series league to the K. of C. making it a four contest for first position. Manley and Smith were the two highest bowlers. The National Castings came within a few pins of making a new alley record in the junior league when they spilled them for a total score of 2815 winning from their working mates by nearly 400 pins. Geo. Foster and (Bulley) Hall were the two heavy hitters. In the senior league the Recreations broke into the win column at the expense of the Olympics, both teams playing four men aside. Arnott for the winners with 653 was easily the highest bower for the Olympics Frost was leading.

—In the ladies' league the Mah Jongs won from the Debutantes by 233 pins, taking the three games in a row. Miss Burke for the Debutantes was high with 471 and Miss Sayers for the Mah Jongs was high for her team. Players and scores:

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.,

WATER

There is considerable controversy regarding the value of water to the system.

Years ago some one working on theory only, advised that water be not taken at meals as it diluted the gastric juice, and so the juice would be lost that much sooner.

Others suggested that as all the cells of the body were about half water, and were like little fish in that they needed water in which to swim, therefore we should drink lots of water.

Along came some athletic trainers and showed that in training a horse, an oarsman, a footballer, any athlete in fact, water, liquids of all kinds should be cut down to the lowest possible point, so as to get the whole body down to his lowest possible weight consistent with strength.

To combat this we have others who suggest taking quarts, yes gallons of water daily, as it flushes out the intestine, the kidneys, and the skin.

That is only just like the street flushing machine that washed down the dirt and dust from our asphalt pavements into the sewers.

Now what about all this?

Well, it is just like everything else there is some basis of fact in most of the ideas given.

As to diluting the digestive juice by taking water at meals. A little liquid at meals actually softens the food and makes it easier for the stomach to handle it.

Too much water at meal times means that the stomach must drop down slightly from the weight of the water and distension, and so make it difficult for the stomach to throw the food into the small intestine. Food cells need water, but they can't take care of more than they need, and you are only burdening the waste system when you take more than is necessary.

In regard to athletic training too much water is a big mistake where you are struggling to reduce weight. The water is taken up by the cells of your body and you are just that much heavier.

The general rule here is to take a drink of water whenever you are thirsty, but take a very small drink.

Taking gallons of water to flush the system is a mistake. It doesn't run through you without change. It has to be handled.

If you are a floodcyman, or work where you are perspiring all the time, gallons of water daily will not hurt you.

So use your common sense in the matter.

If you are below weight don't be afraid to drink a glass of water with your meals, and a couple of glasses three hours after meals. If you are overweight, you'll find that you'll lose pounds monthly by cutting down your liquids.

A lady has come to an artist's studio to look at his picture. At the end of two hours she had made no indication that she would like to buy one, though the artist had patiently gone round explaining their different points. At last she said: "My dear man, I wonder if there is anything vainer in the world than you artists over your pictures?"

"Yes, madam," was the reply, "our efforts to sell them."—The Royal Magazine.

Sinical Sadie Sees

What's strange thing is man! and what a stranger
Is woman! Shall a whirlwind in her wake
And what a whirlpool fall of depth and danger
To lull the rest about her! Whether she
Be widow, maid or mother, she can change her
Mind like the wind; whatever she has said
Or done, is light to what she'll say or do;—
The closest thing on record, and yet new!

To know how to grow old is the masterwork of wisdom, and one of the most difficult feats in the great art of living.

That some one once asked Abraham Lincoln how long a man's leg ought to be. He said: "That is a very serious question and should be given much thought. Some should be longer and some shorter; but I want to tell you that a man's leg ought always to be long enough to reach from his body to the ground.

That it is well not to confine your spring cleaning to the home. The soul has its seasons as well as the house.

A Friend?

'Tis the man who is willing to lend you a shilling,
Take your part 'gin contention and strife,
Is fa love with your folks,
And laughs at your jokes,
And at last runs away, with your wife.

"She knows her man, and when you rant and rave,
Can draw you to her with a single hair."

Sinical Sadie wonders if Dryden could have written that if heads were been "bobbed" in those days! How ever she reaches from her shorn locks meant, as she is conscientious enough to reflect that "the grapes may be sour"!

It is suggested that all Mah Jong players drink China tea to improve their game.

A Lady

She 'tis who, with heart so kind,
With life so pure, with noble mind
Does gentle deeds, will never rage,
(Excepting when she gets mad).

There was once a young man who quarrelled with his fiancee and married another girl. His former lady love had a sense of humor and sent the bride a charming book to read on the honeymoon. It was Stevenson's "Travels with a Donkey."

"Must you go on soon?" "Yes, I've got to go home and get supper," was said the young matron. "Oh, do let me come over and help you," entreated the prospective bride. "I used to love

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENCE

Anne Hastings hopes more of the readers of this page will write to her. She will have much pleasure in answering their letters in this column. Names will not be printed.

"Second Wife"—If I were in your place I should pull those rooms to pieces regardless, and arrange it to suit myself. You have to live in it and he is not all to you. Stop doing everything in the attic that offends your taste and what you have left should make a very attractive room. But with your scheme of blue and tan running through both rooms. Add an odd piece or so of orange pottery and a cushion or two of the same shade and you will be delighted with the effect. If your walls are plain your hangings must have pattern and vice versa. I should say that enlarged picture would get on your nerves. Could it not figure in as accident? You must be tactful of course, but I feel confident from the tone of your letter that you can "put it over". A hint is as good as a nod. Good luck!

"Growing Old"—What a gloomy name you have chosen. Be cheery and sunny on your problem, right from the shoulder and of course I take for granted that you are given the same fair play from both sides. Do not delay your marriage longer than you have done all that could be expected for your family and then you have a right to some life of your own now. They are provided for, you say, and that leaves of course has been worry for you. Instead, be thankful you your house and make that little girl of yours happy in June. Do not, on any account take her into your mother's home. It never works and is not fair to your bride. You have my sympathy but if you and your wife will be wise and tactful, perhaps your mother will become reconciled and in time. She will be smoother. Then you can "grow old" together which is much more interesting than "growing old" alone.

"Grow old along with me
The best is yet to be.
The last of life, for which
The first was made."

Her heated brain pictured the scene which that train would make. Mr. Gordon would be attacked by the man, would strike back, would fight with all his strength, which Kate knew was very great and beyond that could not help but injured the man, but he killed him?

A low cry burst from her lips as the question rose to her mind. Why should Mr. Gordon take flight—for his sudden departure presented just as nothing less than flight to her—if the man was not dead?

And yet her pride in Jack rose in revolt at the idea; she could not seriously imagine him seeking safety in flight from the consequence of any act he had committed; but murder—they would call it murder—was no crime in Africa that even so brave a man as Mr. Gordon might quail before its dread penalty.

Then a fresh fear shook her: had any one beside herself seen him that night after his return from the woods, and in the confusion? If so and if any one had seen the encounter which she felt certain had taken place, as Mr. Gordon afterwards; then she was the only witness—she could tell against him.

Had she aroused Miss Vancourt's suspicions by the agitation she had displayed on hearing of his sudden departure? Had she betrayed herself in any way? Oh why hadn't she held her tongue, mastered her emotion, and waited quietly in the seeming indifference?

She rose and paced up and down, her hands pressed to her temples; then suddenly she heard a step, and Mr. Gordon afterwards; then she was the only witness—she could tell against him. Had she aroused Miss Vancourt's suspicions by the agitation she had displayed on hearing of his sudden departure? Had she betrayed herself in any way? Oh why hadn't she held her tongue, mastered her emotion, and waited quietly in the seeming indifference?

She rose and paced up and down, her hands pressed to her temples; then suddenly she heard a step, and Mr. Gordon entered. He was pale, and looked up, as if a ray of light had flashed suddenly upon his perplexity. Kate, who she not torturing herself without sufficient cause? Perhaps not have met, or the man might have been hurt, but not necessarily killed. Indeed, she be at the Black Crow, alive, though badly hurt, perhaps.

Acting on the impulse of the moment, driven by her fear and dread to action of some sort or other, she caught up her sun-bonnet, left the cottage, and went quickly in the direction of the Black Crow. She walked fast at first, but presently, as it occurred to her that her haste might attract notice, she slackened her pace.

And all the way, though she tried to persuade herself that there were no grounds for, she felt convinced that some terrible catastrophe had happened.

A she neared the little tumble-down inn, she saw the familiar loafing figures on the porch smoking, with his hands in his pockets. He took the pipe from his mouth to give her "good-day," and Kate stopped as if casually.

"Good-morning, Mr. Grice," she said, forcing a smile while her heart beat so that she could scarcely keep her voice steady, "is my father inside?"

Grice shook his head.

"No; haven't seen him for quite a good-bit time, Miss Rawson," he said. "And I don't get so many customers as you'd think for."

Kate nodded, controlling her quivering lips.

"I heard you'd been very busy lately, Mr. Grice; that you'd had people stopping here, quite like as if it was a hotel."

"Oh, you mean the gentleman as put up here," he said. "Well, that's as much as us has a visitor; but he's gone now; left yesterday. Fine kind o' gentleman he was; one o' them silent and keep-to-themselves-like kind. Not that I know what he didn't pay his shot all right. Gone to them Lamson men forget to do that."

"Oh, he has gone back to London? asked Kate.

Grice nodded, and Kate's sense of relief was so great that it seemed as if she must broke down her self-command; but as the man's next words all her misery came crashing down upon her heart.

"Leastways, I think so. He said he was going by the train as left Swanton for Bermister."

"How do you mean? Didn't he go?" she asked, with a catch in her voice.

Grice plugged his pipe and eyed it thoughtfully.

"Well, it were this way, Miss Transom. Happened that the gent gave me a lift, and—talking like—he said he'd be bill. Two shillings is two shillings nowadays, and as I was going that Bermister, I drove my little pony—thats a fine pony if you like now—"

"Yes," said poor Kate, "it is a very good one. Jack, I mean, he heard my father speak of it."

"Yes, he can get into Bermister in fifty-five minutes say day, and no whip neither!"

"And did, you catch the train last night?" asked Kate, quivering all over, Grice nodded.

"Yes, and a quarter of an hour to spare."

"And you saw the gentleman, and got your two shillings' change?" she said, catching at the hope; but Grice shook his head.

"No, I didn't, for he wasn't there. There was no sign of him."

Kate put out her hand and caught the table-work of the porch.

"Are you sure?" she asked, as steadily as casually as she could. "He might have got into the train without your seeing him, Mr. Grice."

Grice shook his head emphatically.

"Not he," he said. "I looked up every carriage, for I wanted that two-shilling bit changed; but he wasn't there."

"It was the last train to London?" said Kate.

"Yes, mine. But it's likely enough that he walked on to Crichett to catch the next station. It's almost as near to Bermister. However, I'm not reckoning short, and in those hard times—"

"I'm sorry," said Kate.

She walked on and turned on the road out beyond the hotel. Her fear and dread were in the ascendancy again. There was no reason why Mr. Gordon should go to Crichett Cross Station. He had not left Vancourt that night though he had left the inn.

Kate walked back slowly, feeling faint sick, with the haunting, brooding terror of evil that her mind pictured. As she passed the village street, a man came out of the lane opposite the row of old cottages. It was one of the cottages Gordon rented. Kate, though she seemed to avoid looking at him, saw that he carried two guns—one over his shoulder and the other in his left hand.

She stopped, with a leap of the heart that told her that she would have caused her nervous tremors that morning—and nodded.

"Good-day to you, Miss Kate," he said. "Here for weather, bean't it?" carrying two guns? You can't fire them yet a-cose."

Johnson laughed.

"Nay, I don't know as I couldn't if I was so minded," he said. "I seed a bunch o' birds a-harmassing Jack, and hit the target with both of 'em, too. But his 'ere one bean't mine. I found it in Vancourt woods."

"Oh!" said Kate.

She had recognized Jack's gun by a notch on the stock—one of those small marks which would escape the notice of most persons—but there was scarcely a detail of Jack's dress or belongings which had escaped the lynx-like eyes of Kate, the woman who loved him.

"I'm told it's Mrs. Gordon's, and I'm taking it to him," said Johnson. "It's a good gun, and I can't think how he came to leave it there—forget it, as one may say."

Kate smiled: no one can guess what that smile cost her.

"Let me look at it," she said.

WHAT PEOPLE WILL THINK

That is the sword of Damocles which so many unreviewable people behold, always suspended over their heads. We have all met such people, and found them rather tiresome, if the truth must be told. Every time they turn around, they ask you in a fearful whisper, "What on earth do you suppose people will think of it?"

They fashion everything from their clothes to their conscience, with the fear of their fellowmen ever before their eyes. Whether they go abroad or stay at home, buy new clothes or wear their old ones, ride a bicycle or walk on their feet, they are constantly tormented with the fear that some one is saying something about it.

Now, consideration of public opinion is a very good thing in its place. When you hear an individual declare that he doesn't care "a continental" what people think, it is safe to conclude that that person is either embarked on the path of recklessness that leads to disgrace, or else that he needs watching. Public opinion is a police safeguard, and ought to be respected as such.

But if you wish to be thoroughly miserable, just cultivate the practice of continually speculating on what people have thinking about you. The chances you may be sure, you will know few pleasant moments, unless perhaps when all the world—your little world—is asleep, and you have the field to yourself to have forgotten your affairs for a short time.

This habit of constantly referring every thought, word and deed to "people's" opinion springs in most instances from timidity, and is largely attributable to the amount of judgment in one's mental make-up. Such people are to be pitied, for if they were not pitiable. When they enter a store or a street-car or church, they fancy every one's attention is upon them, and are self-conscious or awkward in consequence.

Sometimes, however, it is the outcome of extreme humility, and in that case the poor victim suffers absolute martyrdom, and, in their anxiety to please, it grows—like other habits it grows fearfully—till it becomes the veriest bondage.

We are none of us quite free from some few traces of the malady. We can all recollect times and occasions when we did those things we did not particularly care about, simply because we only tried to acquire ourselves of what people would think.

Wherefore, O vain man, and not less vain woman, are you not very foolish to allow your peace of mind thus to be disturbed? Be sure that you will be doing well in the eyes of your fellow-mortals! Believe that they have no time to take stow more than a passing remark or two about you. Then, unless your actions forethought can quite prevent that. Moreover, what is the reason what others think of you—is what should concern you?

Then be wise, assert your independence, cultivate high principles, make high ideals your motto, and don't worry about what people will think.

A "Mere Man" has contributed the following advice to newly-married man. He doesn't tell us whether it is original, but we do know it sounds like "some more". So say we all:

I sing the bliss of married life, of conjugal felicity!
For who but married men can know
The joys of domesticity!
And, for the inexperienced, I'll shed a Ray
Of light, that they may not go astray.

On how to treat the wife: Be sure to Act out right;
Don't never wash the dishes; don't never sweep the floor,
For, if you start on things alike that,
your fired forever more.

You might consent to set the clock
each night when you retire,
So wifie can get up on time and start
the furnace fire
Such little acts of thoughtfulness, I'm certain ,do no harm,
And then its nice when you get up, to have the house nice and warm
Unstinted let your praises be on wifie's household work;
Appreciation tends to quell a tendency to shirk.
I feel these little hints will serve to indicate the plan
That's made our marriage a success and me a happy man.

CARLYLE TO HIS MOTHER

"No able man ever had a tool for a mother. Your sharp-tongued, narrow-minded Thomas Carlyle, Neither did I get any genius from my mother, but a mother. It would be simple enough for me to write expressions of love and gratitude that famous sons have written about mothers—but here and there in my life, but is not all that they could say summed up in this charming letter written by Carlyle's mother to him on his birthday?

"Now, my mother, weak and sick and dear to me, what a day this has been to your grateful heart! For expect a few words to Jane I have not time to answer them. Indeed hardly can anyone, it being dusk and dark before I write—a dim, silent, Sabbath day, the sky fuzzy, dark with rain, and a universal stillness in the countryside. Yet to this day gone fifty-eight years that I was born, and my poor mother, now, as we all in God's hands; surely God is good. Sometimes we ought to trust Him, or what is there for the sons of men? O my dear mother, I have been a comfort to you, however weak you are, that you did your part heroically, and with all your strength and were, a noble mother to me and to us all. I am now mother to me and to us all. I am now mother to me and to us all. I am now thirty-three years old, have various things to do and suffer for so many years, that there is nothing for me had to be so much thankful for as the mother I had. That is a truth which I know well, and perhaps this day again in the year to come I may not be. Yes, surely, for if there has been any revel in the house, I have always left it to the world's hearing, it was your voice essentially that was heard. Essentially my understanding what you and my father father meant and taught of me. I mean the ranging them into the house.

Here And There

A mother is a mother still,
The holiest thing alive.

In the Heavens above the angels, whispered hush to one another, each fell, among their burning terms of love, none so devotional as that of 'Mother'.

Mother is the name for God in the lips and hearts of little children.

For the hand that rocks the cradle, is the hand that rules the world.

Womanliness means only motherhood,
All love begins and ends there—
roams enough,
And, having run the circle, rests at home.

Do not forget the message of love or a gift to "Mother" tomorrow and remember to wear a flower.

A Splendid Laxative For The Baby

Mothers should constantly be on guard to keep baby's bowels working freely and his stomach sweet, for nine-tenths of the ailments from which little ones suffer are caused by derangements of the stomach and bowels. Baby's Own Tablets are a splendid laxative for the baby. They are mild but thorough; contain neither opiates nor narcotics, and are absolutely guaranteed to be safe and effective for either the newborn babe or the growing child. By their action on the bowels and stomach they drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make the dreaded teething period easy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEMESIS OVERTAKES HIM AFTER 20 YEARS

Montreal, May 10.—Nemesis overtook John Broadley alias Brady, after a lapse of 20 years, almost to a day, to do so.

On May 10, 1904, he bade good-by to his wife and six-year-old boy at Accrington, Lancashire, and sailed for Canada. He was never heard from to follow him as soon as he had found a location, but he sent no more from him and the wife had to work to support herself and bring up the boy.

Two months ago Broadley was traced to this city, and yesterday he appeared before here and was sentenced to a year in jail with hard labor for wife desertion.

SPRING

The spring is here, the soft air round,
Sweet flowers are peeping from the ground.
Pure violets blue, that breathe, be true
And may-flowers glistening in the dew.

The woodlance filled with beauty rare
And lover's food, go strolling there.
Sweet birds o'er head their melody sing,
To tell us they are glad its spring.

At evening, when the air is still,
I love to hear the young lambs call,
And mingle with the fragrant bloom
As yonder peeps the rising moon.

Oh gladsome, are the ways of spring,
To hear, and see, and taste and bring.
Each budding flower proclaims a birth,
And happiness, o'erspreads the earth.
Belleville. Edith B. Latin.

WHICH ARE YOU

Now the two kinds of people,
On earth I will name;
Are the people who lift,
And the people who lean.

Wherever you go,
You will find the world's masses
Are always divided
Into just those two classes.

And oddly enough,
You will find, too, I ween,
There are only one litter
To twenty who lean.

In which class are you?

Are you easing the load
Of overtaxed litters,
Who toil down the road?

Or are you a weight
On the feet of others bear
Your portion of labor?
And worry and care?

Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

WHERE'S MOTHER

Bursting in from school or play,
Time is what I want to say!
Tramping, crowding, big and small,
Hall—Hall—Hall—
Joining in the constant cry,
Ever as the days go by
"Where's mother?"

From the weary bed of pain,
Time is what I want again;
From the boy with sparkling eyes,
Beating hearts and glad surprise,
From the bronze and bearded son,
Pride past and honours won—
"Where's mother?"

Burdened with a lonely task,
One day we may vainly ask,
For the comfort of the face,
For the rest of her embrace;
Or the children as they cry,
Ever as the days go by
"Where's mother?"

Mother, with untiring hand,
At the post of duty stands,
Patient, seeking not her own,
Anxious for the good alone
Of the children as they cry,
"Where's mother?"

Teeth Stains Bleached Out New Safe Way

Say Goodbye to dull, yellow, stained teeth! For a new bleach treatment—Bleachodent Combination — bleaches away the stains and makes teeth flashing white—often in just three minutes. Treatment consists of a mild safe liquid, which curdles and softens the stains, and a neat kind of paste, which gently removes the softened stains. Bleachodent Combination keeps teeth white by preventing the formation of new stains. Does not injure enamel as the mild ingredients are especially combined to act only on stained substance and the enamel itself. Only a safe, mild preparation like Bleachodent Combination should be used on children's teeth which are naturally soft and sensitive, and which are especially subject to stains and decay. Fine for the gums, too. Get Bleachodent Combination today for few cents at all good druggists, such as Dolan Bros., Dunnet, Doyles Drug Store, A. L. Geen, J. S. McKeown and W. H. Latimer

CHEVROLET

—Compare Its Cost With Its Comfort and Convenience

So pronounced is the comfort, convenience and beauty of the Superior Chevrolet that it is difficult to reconcile such quality with Chevrolet low price and economy. Yet the low cost of Chevrolet is an established fact.

Owners testify that Chevrolet is the most economical form of transportation available. Indeed, it would be difficult to find elsewhere any such comfortable or pleasant means of getting from place to place, within reach of the average owner's resources.

Luxurious in its appointments is the new Chevrolet Superior Sedan—an avowed favorite with the lady driver. So handsome in upholstering—so exquisitely finished—its Fisher-built body seems designed for a much higher-priced car.

As for convenience, there is such ease of control in this new Chevrolet that driving is a genuine pleasure. Little space is required for parking and the sureness of Chevrolet in starting, stopping and getting in and out of traffic, is still another point in its favor. For family use, the Chevrolet Superior Sedan has ample accommodation for five adults.

The mechanical excellence of Chevrolet requires no elaboration here. An investigation will convince you that Chevrolet is a car you can no longer afford to be without.

Australia Moves For Canada Trade

Melbourne, Australia.—The recent announcement of the British Government's opposition to Imperial preference was immediately reflected in the proceeding of the Australian Federal Parliament when its sitting was resumed yesterday.

Notice of motion was given to the effect that in view of the failure of the Imperial Government to ratify or give legislative expression to the decisions of the Imperial economic conference with regard to preferential trade within the Empire while at the same time entering into negotiations of trade-agreements with foreign countries, notably Russia, the British preferential tariff duties under which British manufacturers are given an advantage over foreign competitors of approximately £18,000,000 annually in Australia should be abolished.

Further, the notice of motion asks that the Government should enter into negotiations with Canada or other countries desirous of making reciprocal trade arrangements with Australia.

Church Likely To Lift Ban On Dance

Springfield, Mass.—Lifting of the age-old ban of the Methodist Episcopal Church against attending dances, theatres, circuses and horse races will be one of the immediate results of the unification of the church with the Methodist Church, South, it was stated today at the General Conference in session here.

The union was voted at yesterday's session. Amusements are permitted by the rules of the southern church, but were denied by the Methodist Episcopal branch.

Declare For Lift

A large group of liberal delegates at the conference is back of the movement to have the amusement ban lifted at once rather than wait until the merger is effective and such action becomes imperative. The southern church will not permit the amusement ban, and the New England, Southern New York, New York East, Newark, Rock River, Ill., and Central Pennsylvania Conferences have already declared for a lifting of the ban.

Plans for a more general observation of the week preceding Easter as "Holy Week" were considered today by the standing committee on state of the church. Recommendations were made that the church act to have lead ers in social affairs and educational ities conduct programs that will not conflict with religious observances of quiere.

Music & Drama

Shortly after this, Giovannni, who has merly been held prisoner by Arabs escapes and returns to Rome, Hese Sister Angela solves the problem of choosing between her great earthly love and her heavenly vows, supplies the dramatic situation that leads up to the powerful climax.

"The White Sister" has been called the artistic triumph of the present film season. Miss Gish has never appeared to better advantage, and her portrayal of the difficult and delicate role of Sister Angela stands at the top of her long list of famous characterizations. Those who recall her in "The Birth of A Nation", "Way Down East," "Hearts Of The World," and "Orphans Of The Storm," will, it is promised, be delighted still further by her versatility and the depth of her playing in her latest effort.

The picture was directed by Henry King, who achieved distinction as the director of Richard Barthelmess in that star's greatest successes, including "Tol'able David," which was the 1921 photoplay moral as the best picture of the season.

"The White Sister," a Henry King production, is a Metro release made by Inspiration Pictures, of which Charles H. Duell, Jr., is president.

All seats for this attraction will be reserved. The grat sale is now open.

BALZAC THE WORLD'S GREATEST NOVELIST

Honore de Balzac is regarded by the most learned and astute critics of literature throughout the world as the world's greatest novelist. He won that rank through his ability as a thinker, student, philosopher and analyst of the human heart and the human mind.

His parents wanted him to become a notary, which, in France of his day, would have assured him of a comfortable living, but the young Balzac was confident that there was more in his brain than the mere making of a writing. He decided to become a writer. He went to Paris and lived in the proverbial garret and wrote a blank verse tragedy, "Cromwell." His parents called in a good judge of literature to pass upon the play. His judgment was that the author should attempt any other career than that of literature.

But the young Balzac stuck to his guns. For several years he wrote and had published under assumed names a number of voluminous novels. He plied himself to his chair and worked from ten to sixteen hours a day—a course that would have killed an ordinary writer in less than a year. Balzac continued it for a score of years. His first success was with "The Chouans," published under his own name. This was followed by "Le Peau de Chagrin," known in English as "The Magic Skin" or "The Wild Ass's Skin" which remains one of his best and one of his most popular novels. It must secure his fame as a writer to be reckoned with. This novel has now been made into a motion picture under the title of "Slave of Desire," by Gilbert E. Gable for distribution by Goldwyn Cosmopolitan. It was directed by the veteran actor and director of both stage and screen, George D. Baker, with a cast including Georgia Walsh, Rosie Love, Carlos Myers, Edward Connelly, George Periolat, William Oakmond, Wally Van and others. It will be the attraction for three days at the Regent theatre, beginning Monday. The underlying theme of this story—that every one pays for what he wants and gets out of life—is told in such a fascinating way, through characters so human and understandable, that it is one of the world's immortal classics. Mr. Gable's screen version is faithful to the spirit of the author and gives some veracious glimpses of parisian life in the early years of the nineteenth century. There are several spectacular episodes figured in making "Slave of Desire" one of the year's big photoplays.

"The Magic Skin" or "Slave of Desire" as it is known in its screen version belong among what Balzac called philosophical novels. It is one of that great series of novels which make up the Human Comedy which the novelist divided into several categories—such as tales of Parisian life, of country life, of military, political and private life. For those who have read and admired the writings of Balzac, "Slave of Desire" will renew their recollections of one of the best of his novels and by those who are not familiar with his works, it will serve as an admirable introduction to a writer who has helped to mould the knowledge of mankind and the spirit and character of man himself.

That Balzac's novels lend themselves admirably to screen treatment has been proved before—notably in Joseph Schenck's production of "The Duchess of Langeais", starring Norma Talmadge, which was called "The Eternal Flame" and which was one of the finest and most popular pictures made by that actress. "Slave of Desire" adds tremendously to Balzac's reputation as a writer whose stories make the best kind of screen material.

BIG LILLIAN GISH FILM "THE WHITE SISTER" COMING

"The White Sister", the greatest triumph of Lillian Gish's career will have its premiere at the Griffin Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 12th, 13th and 14th.

"The White Sister" which is an Inspiration production released by Metro, has been acclaimed one of the most significant films ever made. The story was taken from the famous novel by F. Marion Crawford and scenes are entirely in Italy and Northern Africa.

Rome, Naples, Sorrento, Tivoli, and even Mt. Vesuvius were some of the "locations" used, and the result, according to critics in the larger cities where the picture has played as two dollar attraction, is the most beautiful production yet made.

Besides, Miss Gish to interpret the thrilling story, the cast includes Ronald Colman a newcomer to the screen who has scored a sensational success as Basner Sherry, a motion picture pioneer, Gail Kane heroine many Broadway successes and a thousand others drawn from the ranks of European players.

"The White Sister" tells the story of Angela Chiamonte, daughter of an Italian prince, who is made penniless by the intrigue of her elder sister. The only thing left to sustain her is her love for Capt. Severi of the Italian army.

For a time she is happy, but he is called to Africa on a military expedition, and Angela is led to take up the life of a governess. Then she receives word he has been killed by the Arabs. Stunned by the blow, Angela is driven frantic, and in order to find some peace of mind and a definite place in life, she takes the vows as a nun.

HOLLAND SLASHES PAY OF HER CIVIL SERVICE

The Hague, May 10.—The State Gazette announces a general reduction in the salaries of state servants of 5 percent May 1 and by another 5 per cent October 1, 1924. This reduction is only a temporary measure pending complete restoration of salaries to be introduced in January, 1925.

The Central Netherlands Federation of State Servants has decided to take legal action against the state on the question of the reduction of the salaries.

The Queen will return to the treasury an equal proportion of her allowances in agreement with the state servants' parliamentarians.

I should not be forgotten that the basis of commerce, its very life, does not consist in exchanging goods for money, but in trading goods for goods. Money is nothing but tokens, marks or counters of trade. If we kept this in mind we would see that the enormous debts of one nation to another can eventually be settled only as countries can exchange goods with each other.

WOULD RAISE TARIFFS FOR SOUTH AFRICA

Nationalist Leaders Take Advantage of Imperial Wane

BUILD UP INDUSTRIES

Boos Urges Need of More Credit Facilities and Defends Inflation

London, May 10.—The London Daily Telegraph's Cape Town correspondent reports that the South African Nationalists, emboldened by the threatened failure of imperial preference are rephasizing in their election speeches the necessity of imposing heavily increased customs tariffs for the purpose of stimulating South African industries.

The leader of the Cape Nationalists Malan, speaking near Capetown last night, said the Nationalists policy was to build up industries without considering the interests of Great Britain so he accused the present Government of doing.

Make Hive Of Industry

Tielman Roos, leader of the Transvaal Nationalists in a speech at Pretoria, urged the need of better credit facilities for developing industries.

He also would like to see possible to take a portion of the gold mines, paying by gold certificates backed by the whole credit of the state, and by means of he proposed state bank and state notes build up an industrial South Africa.

Inflation, he said did not mean all the terrible things so much of it. Inflation mean only that they were going to make South Arfica a hive of industry whereas today it "is a prison of no employment."

Gulls Take Fish From Poor Loons

Hour's Furious Struggle Brings Them Victory

Port Arthur, May 10.—A furious battle waged for over an hour this morning between a flock of 40 or 50 fish-eating loons and sea gulls. The loons had dived to bring up a live fish, which was snapped at by the gulls as they swooped down from the air and with unerring aim nipped the morsels from the loons' bills. The loons vacated the waters after an hour's fight. It is a rare thing indeed, this of bird life here say, for gulls to forsake the feeding ground of their water-bred cousins and to attack them, though gulls often light among them on the waters.

Capture Six Wolf Cubs

Port Williams, May 10.—Armed with a .303 rifle pick and shovel, Gordon Cooper and Mr. Hamilton, near here, captured six wolf cubs yesterday, near Murillo. One of the boys stood guard while the other dug out the family. They were not molested by the old timber wolves, who were apparently scouring the country for food. By a strange coincidence this same day a year ago Gordon Cooper brought home eight cubs that he found in the same spot.

Eighty The Age

Owen Soufld, May 6—Trout fishing in this section of the county is on the swing at the present time, and somewood, catches being made in the Sydenham river. The largest specimen beauty to be hooked so far was one by William McIlwain, who landed one which tipped the scales at three pounds and twelve ounces. The fish was a little more than nineteen inches in length, measured twelve in was two and three-quarters inches thick at the thickest part. The beauty gave its captor a real battle.

Jews From Every Country Donate to Palestine Fund; Canadian Gifts Play Share

Jerusalem.—Jews of North America led those of the rest of the world in their contributions to the Palestine Foundation Fund, of Keren Hayesod according to figures just published by the Zionist Organization representatives here.

Of the 1,231,899 pounds spent by the Keren Hayesod in the upbuilding of the Jewish homeland the last thirty months 827,259 pounds came from America. This as almost 75 per cent of the total of $3,000,000 expended in that period.

Jewish communities in every country of the world, from the wealthy and numerically strong communities of the United States and Canada down to the tiny Jewish group in Casablanca, have helped swell the fund.

Need More Money

Notwithstanding the large flow, the requirements of the reconstruction job in Palestine are shown to have exceeded the money received by the fund.

According to the financial statement, 1,000,000 pounds of the amount which have been greater by a half million dollars than the actual amount at the disposal of the Keren Hayesod. This has to be covered through loans.

Originally intended as a colonization fund, the Keren Hayesod has had to shoulder many other responsibilities, because of the non-Zionist German bodies interested in furthering the reconstruction of Palestine have not on the whole filled the need with any degree of adequacy. Industrial enterprises such as cement, brick, flour, salt and soap works are in their initial stages, and the care of the unemployed falls largely upon the Zionist Organization. This organization, together with the Baron Edmond de Rothschild Foundation, has solved the unemployment problem by encouraging the planting of tobacco. Tobacco is to-day the most extensive industry in Palestine, employing thousands of persons and holding out promise of much greater development. The quality of the tobacco is said to be uniformly good.

From the figures at hand, it appears the Zionist Organization, through its financial institution, the Keren Hayesod, has its hand in every activity connected with the economic development of the country at large.

Gary Assails Wall Street Pool System

U.S. Steel Chief hits "Fraudulent" Stock Operations

New York; May 10.—Declaring that speculative conditions in Wall Street exert too much influence on the country at large, Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, today sharply criticized the methods of professional and pool operators in the stock market.

"Fraud and misrepresentation have something been restored to, he asserted in an interview, to influence the outside public, and raise, reported on the exchange were often fictitious.

How Pools Are Worked

Methods of pool operation were described by Gary as follows:

"A number of brokers or professional speculators, or both, form a pool with cash subscriptions in the amount agreed upon.

The pool then determines leisurely to buy a certain number of shares of stock, he said. The next step is to influence a decrease in the price paid, and, in doing this, very frequently misrepresentations are circulated and sometimes manufactured, but omitted to state favorable facts and figures, he asserted.

When the prices were considered low enough, the pool was ready to declare ed, and later, the same tactics were used to "talk" or increase the market prices.

Tried To Oust Them

Gary said he believed the New York Stock Exchange and other exchangers had always endeavored to eliminate pool operations or "manipulation" of the market, but that, in his opinion, these efforts have not fully succeeded. At times when reported sales were purely "wash sales" which means that the same interests controlled both sale and purchase.

He added that he thought "the large majority of brokers are honest and desirable, that the operations of the stock exchange are high-toned and reliable, and the exchange itself, in its management, intended to be above reproach."

Original Tablets of Ten Commandments Shown by Professor; "Out of Nilus"

Vienna, May 10.—What are declared to be remnants of the original tablets bearing the Ten Commandments, written by Moses, have been deciphered by Professor Hubert Grimme, of the University of Munster.

"I was taken out of the Nilus by the Egyptian Queen," is the sentence written in the almost forgotten old Hebrew af the head of one of the tablets which were found some time ago on the plateau Serrait El Challam, in the south-western part of the peninsula, of Sinai by the English scholar, Flinders Petrie.

The tablets contain also the names of Joseph, Menasses and Moses.

So far only a portion of the tablets have been found and no effort has been made to locate the remainders.

Their discovery would be agreater contribution to the history of mankind than the unearthing of the tomb of King Tutankhamen," Professor Grimme declares.

Maxim Admits He's Good As President

Famous Inventor-Proposes Societies Advertise for Applicants

New York—Hudson Maxim, famous inventor, naively admits he would make an excellent President, but should not be "called" and there is that possibility that he has an idea or two how the people should elect their President.

In reply to a recent poll sent to prominent men all over the country asking them their views on who would make the best President of the United States, Maxim replied as follows:

"If I would accept, I should unquestionably make the best President that could be scared up in the country at this time, but I should do as Caesar did during the time he had before being killed for doing it.

"If I were not chosen, the next best man should be covered after the manner in which the Germans used to get their mayors before the war by governing their large cities.

"I should have delegates appointed by the municipal engineering societies of the country, so the many consulting board was appointed, and also by the principal legal and business organizations in the country.

"I should have delegates appointed within 30 days after the last presidency. I would subject them to a competitive examination as to their qualification for the office and then I should make the one who should stand first in the list, and the one who stands next highest vice-president.

PROVE EX-ATTORNEY AS BLACKMAILER

Cambridge, Mass., May 7.—William J. Concoran, former district attorney of Middlesex county, was sentenced to seven to ten years in the state prison by Judge Whiting in the Superior court yesterday after the court had denied motions for a new trial of Concoran, Mrs. Theresa Daggah and J. Warren Hamilton on blackmail charges.

Mrs. Daggah was sentenced to five years at the woman's prison at Sherbourne and Kane to three and a half to five years at the state prison. A stay of execution of sentence on all three was granted until the Supreme court passes upon each count.

Concoran, Mrs. Daggah, Mrs. Lillian Hardy Reese and Theodore Pearse, indicted in February for conspiracy to accuse Kenneth Merrill of Newton of a serious offense with intent to extort money.

Irish Clergy Teach Youth How to Love

Preachers of Ulsters Pack Churches by Cupid Sermons

Here are some of the phrases coined by preachers in Belfast and other Ulster churches who are devoting their attention to sermons on "Love, courtship and marriage."

"Of all the beasts of prey that infest the earth there is no one more dangerous than a flirt."

"No woman has any moral right to have two strings to her bow."

"You don't know what love; you fall into passion and climb into love."

"Love is a flame that will consume rung in passion.

"Passion is the physical basis of love; it is the raw material out of which love is grown."

"Only when you are in love do you feel that life is worth living—and worth living."

"Love in a field on herbs rather than live in a palace with your mother-in-law."

Belfast.—Clergymen in several cities and towns of Northern Ireland have appointed themselves chief assistants to Cupid. They are preaching sermons on love and courtship to the young folks of their parishes, and the young folks are responding by attending the churches in unprecedented numbers.

The Ulster preachers are taking their cue from Rev. Mr. Nicholas, a fervid American evangelist, who recently conducted revival campaigns in Belfast and several provincial towns. Mr. Nicholson, possessor of a picturesque vocabulary, was outspoken about such matters as "love-boo blooms and other indiscretions of feminine youth." Since he returned to America, but his mantle has fallen on some of the Ulster clergy.

Other Real Instruction

Instead of discussing spicy matters of love, however, the preachers of Ulster insists the Ulster divines are concentrating on the real thing.

"Love rules—the court, the camp, the farm.

For Love is Heaven and Heaven is love."

they tell the numerous lads and lasses who pack themselves into the pews and their dulcet phrases fall on sympathetic ears. The clergymen of Ulster prefer listening to a preacher giving real instruction on love than to beholding the most romantic episode on the stage or screen.

One otherwise staid Scottish Presbyterian parson, who has been leader of an Irish Mid-week revival, has been at pains to point out to his hearers the delightful aroma of a good cigar, as the real thing. "Calf-love", he told them, "should be smoked in a pipe."

This same dominie chided the women for their dandyism. Many men lovers, he said, have been put asunder by the independence of the woman who unwarrantably concealed her affections behind a mask of cold reserve or even apparent aversion. Women, he declared, should present themselves in their true colors and give the young men a chance to become intimately acquainted.

Don't Try Reforms

Like the true Scot, however, he was practical and unspoiled by romance. "Trust to no promises of reformation," he warned the girls, to be postponed until after marriage, for if a man will not reform for you as a lover he will not be likely to reform as a husband."

Whereupon the congregation nodded and aroused the ire of the parson. The subject of love, he warned them, should not be treated with levity. A Hindoo or a Chinese, he declared, would no more think of jesting about marriage or its concomitants than about death.

"Irishmen," he told them, "should take romance at least as seriously as a Hindoo or a Chinese takes it."

It has been stated that the purpose of the pulpit campaign is to reduce the young folks' love to conduct their love affairs has been inspired by a falling off in the number of marriages throughout Northern Ireland. The general view, however is that a number of clergymen have seized upon the ever increasing subject of love to stimulate attendance at their churches.

Canada Joins Court Fight On Diversion

Will Play Big Part in Sanitary Commission Right of Chicago

Ottawa.—Canada will take an active part in the appeal to be taken to the highest United States court in the matter of the right of the Sanitary Commission of the Chicago district to divert water from the Great Lakes. This is the most important case of the commission's existence, according to correspondence between Ottawa and Washington, tabled by Premier King in the House of Commons yesterday.

The voluminous correspondence shows that Canada's protest against the diversion began in 1912, when the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General, enlisted the help of the British Ambassador, the late Right Hon. James Bryce, in presenting Canada's case. A special committee of the United States Senate investigated.

Decided Against Chicago

The Secretary for War, Mr. Stimson, found against Chicago's right to take water from the Great Lakes and divert it to the Gulf of Mexico, in order to carry off sanitary and sewage discharges. The District Court of the United States later upheld the Government's decision.

The appeal will be taken shortly in the Supreme Court of the United States against the District Court's findings.

EUROPE COMING BACK

As regards Europe there is not a shadow of doubt that it is on the threshold of a great revival. Signs are not wanting of the turning point. Austria, apparently the most hopeless insolvent has been placed on her feet by the economic consideration and Germany has been arrested. Frenzen has called a halt on her unwise loan programme. Italy is surprising the world by the masterly management of her finances. Not even a Labor Government in England can affect the stability of her three honored institutions.

London, May —America should send fewer bayonets and more books, fewer soldiers and more schools to Haiti, according to Lady Dorothy Mills, one of Ireland's foremost women travelers and explorers, who has just returned from a six-months' stay in the Haitian Republic.

Nightingale Born 104 Years Ago

On May 12, 1820, 104 years ago was born a woman whose fame is spread throughout all over the world whose name apparently is gaining glamor with the passing years. Florence Nightingale whose birthday is observed as National Hospital Day has received a greater heritage because of her revolutionizing the profession of nursing, but as a matter of fact, her contributions to the development of Hospital service, were at least as great as her nursing accomplishments. Dr. M. T. MacEachern, supervisor of hospitals in Canada for standardization, and an international authority on hospital administration recently asserted that Florence Nightingale had even a greater influence on hospital nursing the most than on nursing, and since most of us are familiar with her wonderful accomplishments in laying the foundation for modern nursing, her executive activities make her an even greater benefactor of humanity.

In keeping with the double accomplishments of Florence Nightingale in hospital administration and in nursing, Belleville General Hospital, alone with some 8,000 others in various parts of the world will emphasize its service to this community as a hospital and as a school for nurses.

The hospital will be open for inspection all day Monday, May 12, so that all who wish can "come in and get acquainted". Babies born in the hospital are cordially invited to come in the afternoon and have a reception. Of course the motherhood will also come along and the rest of the people desiring of see some of the best reresentatives of healthy citizens of the future are likewise cordially invited. "Come in and get acquainted."

YOUNG GIRL LEAVES MUCH MARRIED MAN

Kingston, May 9.—A decided sensation was created yesterday when the rumors which have lately been going around were substantiated to the effect that a merchant in the city who had been for a brief time in business in Toronto was married to a young girl with a young lady who worked for him. Investigation by the police and several children with scarcely enough money to buy them over the week.

It is understood the two left separately but that the destination was Watertown. The girl is said to have announced to her parents that she was going on a "short holiday."

AMUNDSEN IN ITALY TO GET POLAR PLANES

Machines Will Be Made of Hard Aluminum

Pisa, Italy.—Enthusiastic and confident of his chance of reaching the North Pole by airplane, Captain Raold Amundsen has arrived here to superintend completion of the machine in which he will make his adventurous journey.

Captain Amundsen has made an extensive search for the right type of machine and more than 30 firms offered him their aerial construction. He has selected two hydroplanes made of hard aluminum, and built at Marina-di Pisa. They are of the Wall-Donnier type and have English motors. The material of which they are made is expected to resist the atmospheric conditions in the great cold and they are strong and light.

Sails From Italy

Captain Amundsen, in leaving the Italian port, will go directly north, touching Zurich, Bergen, Tromso and so on to Spitzbergen. There, as a guest of the Norwegian Government, will meet them, with provisions and supplies of all sorts. From this point the explorer and his party expect to proceed directly for the Pole and to pass over the parts of Alaska over the North Pole.

One of Captain Amundsen's chief objects is to establish a short air route which will unite the continents. He claims that, making this trip, he will have settled that it will be quite supportable, and the days of an ark familiar with her wonderful accomplishments in laying the foundation for modern nursing, her executive activities make her an even greater benefactor of humanity.

In keeping with the double accomplishments of Florence Nightingale in hospital administration and in nursing, Belleville General Hospital, alone with some 8,000 others in various parts of the world will emphasize its service to this community as a hospital and as a school for nurses.

GOOD IF MODERATE

Drinking Will Beat Total Abstinence in Long Run, Statistician Says

Washington, May 10.—Dr. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins University presented "expectation of life" table on users of alcohol, calculated in the same manner as life insurance tables, before a meeting of the recent annual meeting of the National Temperance League.

"Steady drinkers", Dr. Pearl set forth, "have very less take good care of life at all ages from thirty on to the end of the span, than do total abstainers."

The tables, he explained, were based on data including "exact records as to the drinking habits of thousands of persons throughout their lives."

The differences in the life-span expectations of steady drinkers and total abstainers, he said, "are not very great, but there is a distinct and definite advantage in favor of the moderate steady drinkers."

His department carries a very heavy burden at any time, for no matter how great the effort put forth to cope with conditions, there is always a demand for more money than The Army has to spend. -:- Your Home Garden-:-

Fertilizers and Their Uses.

Your garden being planted, or that part of it which it is to be planted, let us turn to some of the able issues of the garden, dealing with the subject of fertilizer, or "plant food" of the garden.

Really fertile land (still grow on much better garden crops than land that is lacking in fertility but there is little or no comparison in the results. On poor land the crops simply exist, they are unable to get far enough ahead of the game to be called an outstanding success; nor do they promise anything in the way of a guarantee that there will be a harvesting needed in connection with the end of the season. Fertility is one of the things you cannot do without if you would garden successfully. In the rush of planting, little was said about fertilizers other than to explain the proper method of using barnyard or stable manure. Let us look into the matter a little more deeply.

The value of any fertilizer to you is in direct proportion to the need that your land, and also, the growing crops of your garden, have for that particular fertilizer. For instance, if you have a deep rich soil that is clean, well-drained and "sweet", nitrates of soda is rather a useless thing as you are concerned. Your land already holds an abundance of it. Likewise the other hand, will likely give good results on your soil, both in counteracting any acidity which may be there, and also as an indirect fertilizer, or one which will liberate plant food that is present, but unavailable, in your soil. The need of a fertilizer is what makes it profitable. If you are growing potatoes on land from which timber had recently been burned, it would be a waste of money to buy an expensive fertilizer. You would already have more than enough in the form of ash.

Essential Elements of Plant Food

To give a rough guide in the use of fertilizers, we would suggest that plants in the early stages of growth are usually benefited by light applications of nitrogenous fertilizers. This goes into a rapid growth of green top without which the plant cannot develop. All crops require potassium in limited quantities, but this is usually present in the soil in sufficient quantity, except for such crops as potatoes which seem to require more of this element than do most other crops. Phosphorus is the element which would seem to be needed at the time a crop, especially a fruit or seed-bearing one, is about to mature.

There are three essential elements, often, which may be either lacking or abundant in your soil. They are nitrogen, potassium and phosphorus.

There are other elements which are needed in lesser degree, namely, lime, sodium, sulphur, etc. These are essential, and it may be said in their favor that there is more than enough in any sample of garden soil.

Among the fertilizers which the gardener has to buy nitrogen is best procured as nitrate of soda; phosphorus as acid, or super-phosphate; while for the home garden wood ashes will supply all the potassium one requires in growing a heavy crop of potatoes.

In using these, all are best applied as light top dressings, with the exception of the wood ashes, which should be worked into the soil before you plant your potato crop.

Stable Manure is Best.

So far we have said little about stable manure. This is, of course, the most important source of garden fertility which you can fall back on, and it includes all the essential elements of the others, mentioned. In addition to the chemical properties which this manure contains, it has the added value of a fertilizer which adds humus to the soil, and this humus, (decayed vegetable fibre) is the most important physical alternative which you can apply to your garden, as it not only improves the mechanical condition of your soil, but tends to break down important chemical properties in the soil, making them available for the use of the plants.

In order to see what you need in the way of fertilizers, try and get an analysis of your soil. If you can't have this done this year, buy only small quantities of general or all-round fertilizers, a "5-5-5" grade of mixed fertilizer will do splendidly.

The importance of commercial fertilizers is not in their great value as single correctives. They are most valuable as you would use mineral as a supplement to stable manure which should be worked into your soil before planting is started. Another interesting point is the fact that so long as you lime your soil every few years you can never injure it by applying too much manure and creating a residue. This cannot be said of the chemical or commercial fertilizers, an overdose of which is not likely to help your garden a particle.

OLD VS. THE NEW DANCES

(From the Kington Standard)

Regret has often been expressed in our columns at the style of the new dances, but merely because some two of these had objectional features, but a good deal because they had done away with the ability of older people to take part in dances as they used to in the days that have gone by. The older people amongst us can remember the days when young and old people used to "go out to dances" together, and what a pleasant sight it was to see the fathers and mothers taking part, often with as much pride in their dancing as the young people had in theirs. Nowadays we don't seem to have any fathers and mothers who will be at all acceptable. Surely a dance was accordingly surrounded by fewer than some 2,000 people flocked to it. It was such a success that the dances are being continued.

This is certainly a move in the right direction, we might say a dance in the right direction; its good features are so obvious that we did not elaborate upon them but only express the hope that they will be wide enough to cry the experiment in Kington.

CONDENSERS USED IN RADIO

Unless the word "condenser" is qualified by some explanatory term, its use and value in a radio receiving set cannot be determined. There are various types of condensers, some useful in some connections and others useful in other connections.

Some condensers which can be used in certain places are practically, if not totally, useless in other cases.

In general, condensers are divided into two large classes, the first class includes fixed condensers, in which the capacity value of the condenser can be adjusted to any value within the range of the condenser.

For best results where fixed condensers are used in a circuit, it is absolutely essential that the capacity value remain the same, day in and day out. For this reason it is necessary when using these condensers, to make sure to get those made by some well-known manufacturer who has a reputation for making condensers whose capacities do not vary under the influence of changes in weather conditions.

Fixed condensers are made in various sizes and with various types of dielectric. The dielectric is the insulation material which separates the metal or conducting surfaces, which make up the plates of the condenser.

By far the best type of commercial fixed condenser is the one which has a good grade of mica as its dielectric. In the best makes, the finished condenser is put in a bakelite container which when finally finished, the shape and constants of the condenser will remain constant.

There are many condensers on the market whose dielectric material is paper instead of mica. Such condensers have their uses and are good for use in radio circuits.

Fixed condensers of the solid dielectric type, such as mica fixed condensers, are not the most efficient types to use in the tuning circuits of radio receivers but in many cases because of the convenience they are used for such purposes. We therefore find find of all places, it does not pay to be condensers being used in series in the aerial circuits to cut down the wavelength of the aerial system; connected in parallel with variable condensers to increase the capacity of the variable condenser; as the condenser in detector circuits and as by-pass condenser across phones and in batteries.

Therefore fans make the mistake of ordering a hot iron to the terminals of some fixed condensers they have never designed to stand such treatment. Such as the condenser is provided with special soldering lugs. To do so is to cause a good contact can be made by the usual screw and nut method.

There have lately appeared, on the market many variable condensers using as the solid dielectric feature of fixed condensers. The claims of merit contained for them is that they are very compact. These condensers, however, regardless of what may be claimed for them, are not as efficient as the air-dielectric condenser.

Finally remember that the condenser is very important part of your radio equipment. The difference in cost between a good and a poor condenser is comparatively small. Therefore if all poker, it does not pay to be penny-wise and pound-foolish.

"Tired and Worried Nervous and Despondent"

Mrs. M. Chevalier, Belle River, Ont., writes:

"For eight years I suffered from despondency and nervousness. Sometimes I could not sleep at night for worrying and the next day I would be so tired that my work was a burden to me. I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and can say I am now entirely relieved of the nervousness from which I used to suffer, and things do not worry me as they used to.

Dr. Chase's Ointment also relieved me of eczema on my arms, which had bothered me for three years. My house is never without Dr. Chase's Medicines."

FLIES AND LIVE STOCK

How to Bring Relief to Farm Animals in Summer.

Description of the Stable Fly—The Treatment Usually Offered—Other Remedies Suggested — Stack Threshing Has Advantages.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The fly is a destroyer of profits. The annoyance that the various types of live stock suffer from this cause during the summer period can be determined with fair accuracy and expressed as loss in pounds of milk, pounds of gain or work not done. Animals get no rest from morning until night. The worry is greatest during the period of greatest light and temperature.

Description of the Fly.

The common stable fly, also known as Stomoxys Calcitrans, resembles the common house fly in size and shape, but stable fly bites much harder, giving quite a sharp sting. It is also a blood sucker and a very persistent trace. The thin skin covering the legs, flanks and udder parts of cattle and horses is the area they attack when best on, satisfying their thirst and hunger. Here also they injure by their rest quietly on the animal's back or on the stable wall. As horses who has to milk cows during the summer period is well acquainted with the annoyance that these little creatures can create. And when the stable fly is ably assisted by the house fly and the horn fly, both the cow and the milker have anything but a pleasant time in their endeavors to be at least half efficient in milk production. The stable fly breeds principally in decaying refuse, horse manure, rotting grass—materials that age too frequently found in places they may rest quietly on the animal's back or on the stable wall. As horses who has to milk cows during the summer period is well acquainted with the annoyance that these little creatures can create. And when the stable fly is ably assisted by the house fly and the horn fly, both the cow and the milker have anything but a pleasant time in their endeavors to be at least half efficient in milk production. The stable fly breeds principally in decaying refuse, horse manure, rotting grass—materials that age too frequently found in places they may rest quietly during the summer period when it is possible to move them at a distance.

The Treatment Usually Offered.

To prevent the stable fly from attacking animals, providing darkened stables, or stables with other shelters in which the animals can retreat is a good practice. Spraying or dusting the animals over with liquid fly repellants is another method. Fly paper is repellant of very enduring efficiency, and many stables with screened doors use are worth while even if their effect is no more than to repel once or twice a day application. This may be done as a fly spray, or may be done with an auto spray holding two gallons of liquid can be used for one of twenty cows in five minutes. A successful preparation which can be used as a spray is made by adding to kerosene oil:

One laundry soap. ¼ qts. oil of tar.
¼ qts. coal tar dip. ¼ qts. coal oil.
¼ qts. fish oil. ¼ qts. crude carbolic acid.

Dissolve the laundry soap in water and add the other oils. Dilute kerosene and more water to make 30 gallons of spray.

Additional Treatment Suggested.

Poisons and traps are also advised used and can be made very efficient when in stable fly control if used with ordinary care and precaution. Formaldehyde is one of the best poisons for use in fly destruction. Mix two ounces of formaldehyde with 2 quarts of milk, sweeten with brown sugar, and place in a window where the flies congregate. In stables and pig pens properly darkened, one window may be left uncovered to provide the necessary light to attract the flies to the poison dish. If the stable man will at the beginning of the season provide sides on which to place poison dishes that is enough up to be out of the way of the horses there they will keep the same replenished from day to day with formaldehyde, milk and sugar, and see that all other moisture is covered up, millions of flies can be destroyed with little effort. A general clean up daily to prevent the pest increasing by breeding is very necessary to fly control, in fact there is little use in trying to poison or trap flies if we are so shiftless and negiectful of sanitary conditions as to permit them to breed abundantly. Clean up is the first and last word in stable fly control. Dr. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O.A.C. college, Guelph.

Stack Threshing Has Advantages.

Records show that it costs the farmer a little more to stack his grain and thresh it from the stack than it does to thresh directly from the field. The cost of threshing alone is threshing from the stack is less than the cost of threshing in the field, but when the cost of stacking, which must be taken into consideration, is added, the cost of stacking and threshing from the stack is a little higher. To offset this, however, the straw and grain are usually of a better quality. Considerable loss is likely to result from leaving grain in the field a long while waiting for the threshing outfit. Sometimes in this true if wet weather prevails. Furthermore if grain is stacked as soon as it is fit in case of wet weather the plow can be started. Stacked standing any length of time on fields seeded in the fall will kill out clover. Consequently in fields of this kind the grain should be threshed or stacked as early as possible.

The tomato is closely related to the potato, and while the actual food value of tomatoes is not as great as that of the potato, it has certain qualities that make it one of the most desirable of our garden crops.

Farmers can help to defy gambling by shipping their poultry co-operatively, but they are getting into the field of business, learning business methods and how to sell for their poultry to get the best results.

MAY MAKE ARREST IN SHORTAGE CASE

Kingston Township Tax Shortage Matter Will be Dropped

Kingston, May 9.—Rumor was current yesterday that an arrest within the next two or three weeks is not improbable in connection with the alleged Kingston Township tax shortage that is now the shortage is made good before then.

Reeve C. J. Graham declined absolutely to discuss the matter, saying he would have nothing to say until he had received the complete and final report of Auditor May.

When that is received, next week, Reeve Graham will call a special meeting of the Township Council for 7.30 in the evening to be followed by a general public meeting at 8 o'clock to which all will be invited through a public advertisement in the newspapers.

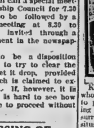

There is said to be a disposition in some quarters to try to clear the matter up and let it drop, provided the shortage which is claimed to exist is made good. If, however, it is not made good it is said to say that it will be possible to proceed without an arrest.

Teachers to Tour Dominion

Included in the itinerary are Lake Louise, left; Vermilion River, crossing; Nipigon, where children are seen bathing the Big.

TO teach the youth of Canada about Canada and do the country justice it is first necessary that one should see Canada. That is the view of the Canadian Teachers' Federation and no one will question it. With the idea of correcting any deficiencies in this respect under which its members may be labouring the Federation, accordingly, has decided to make its way to Victoria, B. C., for this year's annual convention as a personally conducted tour, lasting from August 4th to 12th and containing a very interesting and instructive programme for the pedagogues and their friends.

Arranged by Dr. A. E. Hardy, Vice-President of the Federation, and H. E. Beckett, President, Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, Quebec, in connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway, the tour covers as wide a field as is humanly possible in the time allotted. It will be made on a special train starting from Toronto and following the main line of the Canadian Pacific throughout. Stop-overs varying from a few hours to a day will be made at many points of interest along the route to give the teachers a full opportunity of seeing the sights at these places. Port William and Port Arthur, the great inland grain ports of this country and the tunnel through which Canada's huge crops pour out to feed the world, Winnipeg, the world's greatest grain market, and beautiful Regina, the greatest railway yards in those of the Canadian Pacific, the bustling prairie cities of Regina and Moose Jaw, Calgary, the metropolis of the prairie provinces and a cow-town only a few years ago, Vancouver, the beautiful seaport on the mild Pacific coast which is forging ahead at almost terrifying speed—these are all entered on the schedule for prolonged inspection. A long stop will also be made at Banff Springs Hotel, the palatial hostelry in the heart of the Rockies where all the recreations provided, such as hiking, riding, swimming and mountain climbing, will be open to the teachers. Lake Louise, called "probably the most perfect bit of scenery in the known world", will also be visited, lunch being taken at the Chateau there. The magnificent run through the Rockies to the coast will be made in daylight.

The entertainments arranged for the teachers include many automobile drives, a reception at the Twin Cities, luncheon at Winnipeg and Calgary and a reception at Vancouver, under the auspices of the local Teachers' Association in each of the cities mentioned, luncheon at Regina as the guests of the Premier and Government of Saskatchewan, followed by a drive around the city in automobiles provided by the Rotary Club. While in Moose Jaw, the visitors will also be taken for a drive around the Board of Trade.

A special return trip under similar arrangements for those who care to take it has also been planned. Starting from Victoria, it includes the wonderful run through the mountains over the Kettle Valley Railway, the steamer trips over beautiful Okanagan and Kootenay Lakes, through the heart of the fruit-growing country; there to Lake Windermere by motor over the splendid new Banff-Lake Windermere Highway to Vermilion River Camp and Banff. Then come Edmonton, the prosperous gateway to Canada's rich Northland, Saskatoon, an important prairie city, Thunder, Kenora, Port William and across the great Lakes via the Soo to Port McNicoll and Toronto. This trip lasts from August 17th to 29th and includes a stop-over for dinner at Penticton, dinner, a night's stay and breakfast at lovely Lake Windermere Camp, lunch at Vermilion River Camp, and a day at Banff, Edmonton, Winnipeg and Devil's Gap Camp, the delightful resort on the Lake of the Woods, near Kenora. The visits to the camps, the motor run through the mountains and the refreshing call across the Great Lakes and make this trip infinitely desirable.

MRS. WILLIAM GREATRIX, of Toronto, who has been a hospital last September after a baby had been born. Mrs. Greatrix declared that the hospital after burying his wife here moved took him the baby and been given to a foreigner by mistake. The foreigner says he gave the baby to some "people in Pennsylvania," Mr. Greatrix says he has received suit against the hospital for $200,000.

Head Stuffed By? Catarrh or Cold

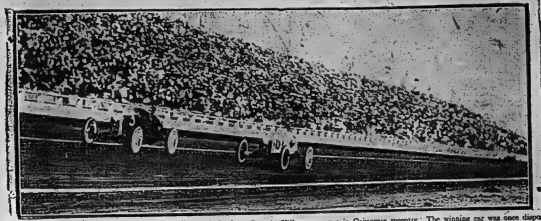

If your nostrils are clogged, your throat inflamed, your head is stuffed by nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little Catarrhozone and get a stronging cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing inflamed, swollen membranes and you get instant relief.

How good it feels. Your nostrils are open. Your head is clear. No more hawking, snuffling, dryness or struggling for breath. Get a small bottle of Zip's Cream Balm from any druggist. Colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up. Relief is sure.

HIGHEST PEAK IN CANADIAN ROCKIES

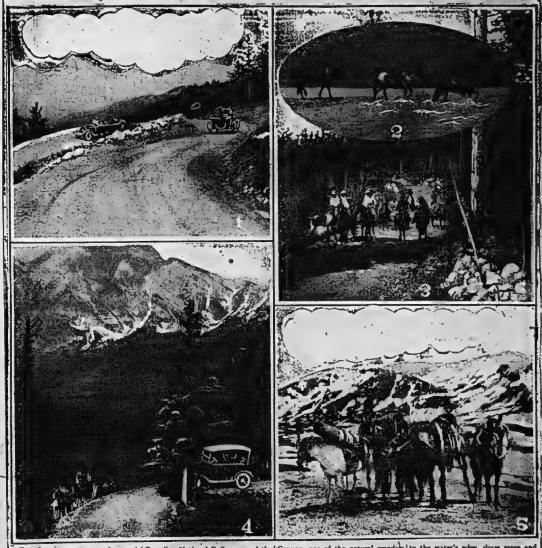

The Alpine Club of Canada will this year hold its annual camp at the foot of Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, which towers 13,068 feet above sea level.

Mount Robson Park, named from the mountain which it surrounds, is a favorite stopping place for tourists from United States points who make the Triangle Tour of the Canadian National Railways, which embraces Vancouver, Jasper and Mount Robson Parks and Prince Rupert, with a journey over the inland seas of the Pacific coast on one of the Canadian National Pacific Coast Steamships.

Among other things, Mount Robson can be regarded as the finest frequently photographed mountain in the whole of Canada, the Continental Limited of the Canadian National Railways stopping for five minutes at the foot of this monarch of the Rockies in order that tourists who are passing through may secure photographs showing its lofty, snow-capped peak.

Just outside of the boundaries of the National Park is one of the finest big-game hunting grounds of the continent, where black, cinnamon and grizzly bear abound and where other big game, such as big-horn mountain sheep and mountain goats, are to be found in great numbers. Hundreds of hunters annually make Mount Robson their headquarters for their excursions into the passes of this region after big game, for here excellent accommodation may be secured either during the summer tourist season or later in the fall when the hunters are out after their quarry. This year the Alpine Club of Canada will camp at the foot of Mount Robson.

BY MOTOR AND PACK HORSE THROUGH CLOUD WONDERLAND

For the man or woman in search of healthful recreation, rest for jaded nerves, and a thoroughly enjoyable holiday, the world offers nothing more entrancing than a holiday in Jasper National Park, Canada's wonderland of scenery, where mountain, crag and torrent vie with one another in claiming the attention and where scenic nature is at her best. Towering peaks rise to the north, south, east and west; mirrored in the beauty of placid lakes whose shores provide shelter for the myriad wild life for which the largest of all Canada's National Parks is famous.

Whether the tourist goes sightseeing by motor car or by the more romantic pack pony, Jasper National Park offers him the best that can be found anywhere. Motor roads and pack trails radiate in every direction from Jasper Park Lodge, the magnificent log cabin hotel of the Canadian National Railways, and the tourist may engage either ponies and guides or an automobile, and thus see the mountains at his pleasure.

Mount Edith Cavell, named to honor the memory of Britain's heroic nurse, rises by the side of Mount Sorrow, within a short drive of the Lodge, and is one of the favorite drives of visitors to the Lodge. The Cavell highway, smooth-surfaced, winds up toward the very foot of the Ghost Glacier, presenting to the visitor a new vista of scenic wonder at every turn. As one rises toward the foot of the glacier, the Athabasca Valley far beneath presents an attractive picture of color, softening while here and there a lake, reflecting the blue sky and surrounding hills touch to the beauty of the landscape. There are other drives which may be taken in comfort—one may go up an hour, for instance, to the wonderful Maligne Canyon, one of the natural wonders of the entire Rocky Mountain region, where rushing waters go tumbling and boiling through a narrow aperture worn in the rock two hundred feet below the feet of the tourist as he or she stands on one of the footbridges which span its narrow width. At this time of the year the visitor may find himself face to face with a bear or a deer, walking calmly across the highway, while on the sides of the mountains he may see mountain sheep or goats grazing.

The tourist to whom riding ponies will find plenty to hold his attention. Pack trails may be followed for miles. When in the company of an efficient guide, one may go forth to explore regions which are beyond the reach of the motor tourist. The wondrous Maligne Lake and Medicine Lake, with their quota of mountains reaching down almost to the water's edge, draw more and more tourists every year.

For years the wonder of Canada's National Parks have been better known outside of Canada than they have been to Canadians, but year by year Canadians themselves are realizing that they have, in their own country, scenic attractions which are not surpassed anywhere in the world, and consequently the number of Canadians registering at Jasper Park Lodge is showing remarkable increases. Comfortable, steam-heated cabins are provided for their accommodation, an excellent cuisine is maintained at the main Lodge, where surroundings and service are of the world-famous Canadian National Railways standard, and every care is taken to see that visitors to Canada's largest and finest National Park enjoy their outing to the full. Satisfaction is the keynote of the service.

MAYOR MIKEL DECLARES WAR ON DOG VANDAL

Destruction of Col. Lazier's Flower Beds Causes Move

ROAMING CANINES

Asks Citizens to Aid in Protecting Garden Plots Of City

Following a number of complaints regarding the destruction of flower beds and gardens by roaming dogs in the city, Mayor Mikel has written a public letter to the press asking that the nuisance be checked as much as possible.

The latest depredation of the wandering canines has been the destruction of Col. Lazier's flower beds, one of the sights of the city. Mayor Mikel took up the cudgel in defense of Belleville's garden plots following this latest move of loose Fido. His letter follows:

To the Editor,

Dear Sir:—Many complaints have been coming in as to nuisances committed by dogs. The last one is the destruction of Col. Lazier's flower beds. These beds have been kept up for years at considerable expense, and people from various parts of Canada and the United States sojourning in Belleville have visited them and have gone away with a more favorable impression of our city. The destruction of a thing of beauty is our city is a loss to the community. It is very discouraging to those who spend time and money in making the City attractive to find their efforts brought to naught because some citizens have been selfish enough to encourage their dogs to follow them around the city, until the dogs acquired the habit of roaming. Most dogs can be trained to stay at home, and those that cannot are unsuited for the city.

Dog owners, of course, can be sued for damages committed by their dog but it would be better to awaken a public sentiment that would discourage the keeping of dogs that cannot be kept at home.

The ban is a food producing animal; but if the owner allows his hen to get on another's property he is liable to a fine.

FATHER HANDLY TELLS ROTARIANS WORDS MEANING

The Rotarians are going to Picton next Monday night to put on their Minstrel Show. Some members of the Picton board of trade have had the idea put on here last week and thought that Picton should have an opportunity of hearing so good a thing. The proceeds will go to charity.

Father John Handly, of Toronto, gave a magnificent address on Rotary at the noon luncheon to-day making clear what Rotary stand for. He said Rotary stood for elevating the standards of business all over the world and spoke of it as perhaps the highest human agency for removing suspicion, hatred and selfishness from the world.

Father Handly is not very big physically (he stood on a chair to give his address) but he proved to be a powerful speaker, filled with the fire of a reformer, when he thought of himself as the "Holy Ghost" sent to bring the true definition to Rotary in Austin, Texas.

100-Per Cent.

It was announced by Secretary Scottie that a letter was read at the meeting from Bob 100 per cent meeting, the one member absent last Monday night, and voted elsewhere during the week.

This was the first for the Belleville Club but President Charlie Reid hoped that the members would get the habit. To-day there were only three absentees.

A resolution of appreciation was passed to those who assisted the Choir Boys' outing in the Memorial Shed and it was decided to entertain the Choir Boys in the fall.

Those intending to go to the International Convention at Toronto in June were urged to register with the Secretary Committee as early as possible in order to secure accommodation.

FLOWER THIEVES SHOW ACTIVITY

Flower thieves were about the city Saturday night evidently on a mission of securing flowers for Mother's Day. Every tulip in ex-Mayor Hanna's garden on Metra street east, was plucked off. In other gardens tulips were taken.

London, May 12—The Norwegian Government has appointed a delegation of seven members to negotiate a commercial treaty with Soviet Russia and the deliberations are starting immediately, by Lauritzen, according to a Christiania despatch to the Morning Post.

DIVERSION IS BIG FEATURE OF MODERN LIFE

Rev. H. B. Kenny Urges Increased Church Attendance in forceful Sermon

LAUDS WOMANHOOD

Reviews Heroic History of Womanhood at Morning Service

Large audiences attended the Tabernacle Methodist Church, Bridge street, the morning Rev. H. B. Kenny preached on "Canadian Women". He referred to those who come to this land leaving comfortable homes in the association of their childhood, the wealth accumulated by years of industry, and went forth to face discomfort, and poverty, and suffering, and went for the sake of others. The pioneer Methodist sisters for women was the courageous, capable, strong devout type, sacrificing itself for love and duty. Is there any better type to-day? The modern woman has added type of evilitarism. Who can repress the pride in Canada's womanhood? Her mission and opportunity is to insure Canada and the empire and the commanding imperative of her ideals by living them in strength and dignity. The great war showed many illustrations of love and self-sacrifice that the mother love existed. "No words of mine can pay adequate tribute to the mother heart of our Canadian women," concluded the pastor.

An Appeal to Clergymen

At the "Go-to-Church" evening service, The Toronto Star "send these bets from the Sanctuary", Church Sunday" is a concerted appeal of the modern church for a square deal. The Church—the church is not an institution let down from the skies. A church is what the congregation makes it and no man, neither is it to be. When the human heart is right the house of the church can accomplish its mission.

Heaven is Going "going" is an expression frequently heard. The kind of people that formerly went to church are still going. If fewer are in church there are fewer of that kind. A young man, now a physician, said he did not confirm to Christ and his teacher because he did not mean what God in life. Present day dressed is not for women, but for other days in the basement. Make your church to conquer with a popular slant and you will likely endure a crowd.

Not Musical Centre

This is not what the church is for. Jesus Christ drew the crowd as when he gave a fish dinner, but when they discovered that he was a spiritual religion then the loaves and fish men went back to Bion, and they were gone. We must not change this Church service from worship to literary and musical entertainment, with a religious theme in the remove. We must still summons the people to worship God.

"Church going is largely a habit, but it is a good habit. A good Saturday habits do not make you sure about God's love, and your duty to Him, and your fellows then I counsel you to change your habits," advised, Rev. Kenny.

Rev. Greeks said, unless a man has erected an altar to the good, the beautiful, and the true he is not a Christian. Ever an altar not to an unknown God but to the God of your love and goodness.

If you want to be religious, cultivate religious habits. Rev. Greeks defies the image of God. A certain man said to Desoring a model for the Last Supper. So soon everywhere a devout and spiritually minded man he found his ideal and painted the face. Years passed and the picture was not finished. He looked for a face but found his ideal and painted the face of Judas. One day he found a face representing greed, envy, selfishness, commuter, and when conversing with the man he found it to be the same man. The church will help to prevent you from becoming your ideal but you need help to restore it if you have lost the Christian ideal of your God. My desire word to you is stand loyally by your ideals which Christ purchased with his own blood.

The choir rendered appropriate and splendid music, in which Miss Bird sang solo, to the delight of lovers of song.

ADOLPHUSTOWN IS INTERESTED IN CELEBRATION

Old U.E.L. Cemetery In Historic District—Many Landmarks

MAY CHARTER BOAT

Excursion Planned to Adolphus town on June 19—Meeting Called

That the people of Adolphustown are taking a great interest in the approaching celebration is apparent from the many letters the committee receives from that district. They have had a great deal of work done to improve the old U. E. L cemetery and other landmarks there and are looking forward to the pilgrimage of Adolphustown on Thursday, June 19th. It is quite likely a boat will be chartered to run an excursion on that date.

All committees will meet at the Chamber of Commerce building on Tuesday night.

A meeting of the ladies organization of the different churches will be held in the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock to arrange feeding the many thousand visitors during the celebration.

Rev. Hinchey has been selected to train the school children in the various zones they will sing on the Anniversary day, Wednesday, June 18th.

BALKY TRUCK IS DISGUISED ANGEL

Two Men in Charge of Machine Face Intoxication Charge—Were Not Driving Though

Receiving a rull at 1.45 a.m. Sunday morning, P. C. William Evans and P. C. Dalziel Morris found the College street car, where they found Charles Lee and Alexander Gow trying to crank their truck. Both were intoxicated, the officers state, and were arrested. Evans drove the men to the station and Morris followed the Studebaker truck to the station.

It was lucky for the men that they were unable to start the machine, as they will face but a charge of intoxication.

P. C. Morris reports that at 11.30 Saturday night, the same truck was driven up Front street at a rate of speed which he estimated at from 25 to 27 miles per hour.

There was no police court this morning, and these two cases which were heard last Saturday, will be heard tomorrow morning.

FRISKY "TIP" LANDS COURIER GWEN IN MUD

Miss Gwen Lazier has been taking the Prince of Wales' dog "Tip" down the famous Hudson River "Tip" he came so excited with the scenery around Utica that he kicked up his heels unexpectedly and landed Gwen in the mud, but without injury. "Tip" has been rather too well treated on the way down, and as he nears New York has become frisky and started on a run last Thursday at full gallop for about nine miles. After his run that New York feeling had subsided.

The State Troops of New York have issued a young colt after the courier. Miss Lazier expects to be New York City Thursday or Friday where she will rest for a few days.

REVENUE BILL OF U.S. GOES DESPITE VETO

Senate Prepares For Final Approval in Afternoon Vote

INCOME TAXES DOWN

Flat Reduction 25 Per Cent, Over 1923 Levy; New Minimum 2 Per Cent

Washington, May 12— Facing the probability of a Presidential veto, the Senate prepared today to enact a new revenue bill, based upon rates proposed by a Democratic-Insurgent coalition, and a repudiation of the Mellon plan of tax reduction.

A final vote upon all pending amendments and the bill itself was to start at 2 o'clock this afternoon under a unanimous consent agreement. That measure then will go to conference for adjustment of rates which differ from those embodied in the House tax bill, passed by the House. It probably will reach President Coolidge for executive action by the last week of May.

Senate House Agrs.

The revenue bill, as finally drafted in the Senate, will differ but slightly from the measure passed by the House.

Both House and Senate bills were agreed upon the following important provisions;

1—A 25 percent flat reduction on all income taxes for 1923, payable during the present year.

2—A minimum normal income tax of 2 percent of income up to $4000, only one-half the present tax; and a maximum normal tax of 6 percent instead of the present 8 per cent.

3—An exemption of $10,000 on income surtaxes.

4—Taxing of gifts and inheritances, corporations, with an indirect tax on stock dividends.

5—Publication of all income tax returns with provision for public hearings on tax appeals.

Main Differences

The principle differences between the two bills, include the following:

1—Conflicting surtax schedules, the Senate bill starting at one percent on $5000 and increasing by a maximum of 40 percent on $500,000 incomes, the House bill starts with 1 1-2 percent on $10,000 incomes and goes to a maximum of 37 1-2 percent at $200,000.

2—The normal tax rate on incomes between $4000 and $8000. the Senate adopting a 4 percent tax and the House a 5 percent tax.

Men respect you for the things you stand for and despite you for the things you fall for.

One Dead, Scores Hurt, Hundreds Held

Japanese Election Drive Swings to Stormy Close; Government Doomed to Defeat in To-day's Elections, Tokio Estimates

Tokio, May 12.—Preliminary returns on the trend of voting in to-day's general election to choose 464 members of the new House of Representatives were unfavorable to the Government, even members of the Cabinet admitting that likelihood of gaining a majority is remote.

The close of one of the bitterest campaigns in Japanese history was marked by disorders in many cities resulting in at least one death and injury to several scores, and the arrest of more than 800 persons for violation of election laws.

The opposition asserting most of those arrested were billionaire, charged that the Government party, the Seiyukai-honshito.

The situation regarding exclusion of Japanese by the United States was a big issue in the campaign, which was strictly along personal and domestic lines.

Sermon On Truth' At St. Michaels

One of the largest congregations of the year assembled in St. Michael's Church last evening to hear the first of a series of lectures for men given by Rev. Father Hanley and McGrae on visiting missionaries.

The sermon last night was on "Truth", and many points of interest was spoken of. The installation of a Holy Name Society was observed at the morning services and answers to those received were given last night.

COMPROMISE IN CHURCH UNION ISSUE URGED

Amendments to Church Bill May Be Agreed Upon In Ottawa

ISSUE DOUBTFUL

Leaders of Opposing Factions May Consider a Compromise

Press Gallery, House of Commons, Ottawa, May 12—While the Commons during the week past labored heavily over the budget and the senate pottered with the Lord's Day observance act to it by the lower House, history was being made in the committee on Miscellaneous private bills, and highly interesting testimony was being adduced by the Royal Commission on the Home Bank disaster. The latter debate has been a comparatively colorless and lifeless affair and the standard of oratory mediocre. The discussion on Church union on the other hand has been of a highly interesting character, and the interest manifested in the measure and in the arrangements presented by speakers for and against would indicate that there are two very distinct sides on the question, and that members are seriously anxious to weigh the merits of the case and to deal with the matter according to their legal and legislative convictions.

Issue Doubtful

The argument of the representatives of the "plan" and "anti" look up to noise week. It would be very difficult to say which had the best of it, and there are many members of the Committee who are frankly puzzled as to what stand they should take when the vote comes. The "plan" had the advantage of being able to show that many parts of the Dominion, Union was already an accomplished fact of the present, and that the courts of the churches interested had declared themselves as in favor of union. The "anti" on the other hand were probably stronger on the legal end of the subject, and invoked the traditions of the old churches with their characteristics of doctrine and policy. To prove that the proposed merger was unjust and unconstitutional. The right to change fundamental creeds was denied to the government board and it was held that parliament had no jurisdiction over such corporate bodies as it was proposed to unite with that body being under provincial charter. The "anti" one speaker was interested national, unjust, coercive and confiscatory. There is no doubt that the "antis" had the best of the legal argument.

Compromise Sought

There is a strong desire on the part of members of all political parties to be affected by the union to reserve the right which they claim is distinctly warring factions may be induced to agree to the union proposed with suitable amendments. One compromise suggested is that parliament shall simply pass an "enabling" Bill which will leave the respective conferences the power to grant or withold the right to transfer properties. Another suggestion is that the Bill shall only become effective by proclamation of the Governor in Council after a plebiscite of the church members has been taken. The Presbyterian church party appears willing to compromise if they can be assured that they will not be bound by any vote taken, but tonight the situation is however very small, should have the right to keep out of union, and should be free to proceed with their unity don't want the bill in any form. A slight intimation of the Presbyterian attitude was given by Rev. Dr. G. C. Pidcon, who chaired the argument yesterday. "We ask you," he said "to pass a Bill which will protect us in the most effective manner you can devise."

More things come to those who don't want them than to those who do.

EVERY RIGHT TO DEVELOP ST. LAWRENCE

Beck Declares Province Owns Waterways In Notable Address

CHEAPER POWER

Legal Problem Involved—Gives Attitude of Provincial Government

Kingston, May 12.—A very large audience composed of both men and women, assembled in the Grand Theatre to hear Sir Adam Beck, Hon. W. F. Nickle and Dr. A. E. Ross speak on the subject of power in Ontario and the development of the St. Lawrence.

The outstanding feature of the addresses appeared to be the determination on the part of each of the speakers that the time has come for Eastern Ontario to assert its rights in the matter of power development and that those rights include the development of power on the international waters of the St. Lawrence River.

The chairman of the evening was Mr. F. B. P. McFarlane, chairman of the Kingston Utilities Commission while Mayor T. B. Ancrove, a member of ex-Mayors, and the Mayors of adjoining towns occupied seats on the platform together with prominent citizens, members of the Utilities Commission and City Council.

In opening the meeting Chairman McFarlane spoke in part as follows:

"On behalf of the Utilities Commission, I wish to extend to all a hearty and cordial welcome to this meeting, and to express my appreciation and pleasure at seeing so many public officials from neighboring municipalities present. You had the opportunity—and I am glad that so many took advantage of it—of inspecting our fine new office building, and tonight you are privileged to hear the power question, not only as it affects Kingston, but as it affects all Ontario, discussed in its various phases. I am sure that you will all appreciate the speakers to which we are to listen tonight."

Hon. Dr. A. E. Ross, M.P.

Dr. A. E. Ross, M.P., referred to the fact that the Province of Ontario, the first to use Canada's waterpower, was the development of the Cobalt area and New Ontario, while the second was the Hydro Electric system under Sir Adam Beck.

He referred to the fact that Eastern Ontario had been forced through circumstances to stand back while the Niagara Power was developed, and that Eastern Ontario was now in the position where it does not require power available, "but we have the St. Lawrence," said Dr. Ross, "and I believe it should be our turn now."

He pointed out that it takes time for such schemes to develop and read a communication addressed to him when he was a member of the City Council, dated May 21st, 1913, in which Sir Adam Beck stated his belief that the Morrisburg development was the eve of being commenced, and yet even that has not passed words had

LONDON, PARIS, EXPRESS FEAR OF NEW MOVES

Roused by Intense Feeling Shown in Favor of Monarchy

EXTREMISM RULES

Ludendorff Occupies Centre of Stage in Big Demonstrations

(Special Cable)

London, May 12.—The menace of Kaiserism again stands like a specter at the door of the allied nations, following the military demonstrations throughout Germany yesterday on all of Monarchists, British, French and other allied nations are roused by the intense feeling established in Germany against their conquerors in the late world war.

Cables officials interviewed today, declared the general ceiling of unrest now borne in the German working classes, starting with the serious Ruhr disturbances last week and culminating yesterday and today in whole scale outbreak against all things British or French, indicate that drastic action must be taken at once to prevent a repetition of 1914-18.

Is Communistic Fiasco

The Communistic fiasco was complete. While three years ago Bolshevism had its part in Berlin, the centre of industry and unrest to-day saw General von Ludendorff and his military bosses in control. The gold braid and red trousers revewing the troops who shouted for a restoration of the former Kaiser, meanwhile 50 Communists were prisoners in the jails and 1,000 Communists were locked up in a park where they and plundered a counter-demonstration.

Extremists are also roadside fighting showed the intensity of the Communist attempt to "Bolshevize" the forbidden zone. Early this morning the militia blockaded every road leading to Essen, where hundreds of militiamen were concentrated from all parts of Germany. They permitted the Fascisti organizations and all other military and semi-military sect and recognized organizations to march into Halle with Brass bands and flying banners.

Ludendorff Is In Glory

All attempts made by Communists to break through the lines were checked.

Not a single Communist succeeded in breaking into the town to attack the "Deutsche Tag"—German Day—which was the greatest parade of militarism and Fascism ever held in various parts of Germany, except for their headquarters in Bavaria.

All the military organizations of the country passed before General von Ludendorff. There were 400 banners carried in triumph before the former war chief.

SUSPECTS ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH FOUR SLAYERS

Winnipeg, May 12—Following a searching investigation yesterday of the murder of Mrs. Irene Symchinson at her home here Thursday afternoon, Detectives Bell and Cunningham late last night arrested several additional suspects.

Seven men were arrested a few hours after the crime, but the police refuse to disclose the number of suspects or the number held last night.

ODDFELLOWS VISIT BRIGHTON LODGE

A number of the members of Belleville Lodge No. 81 and Minpah Lodge No. 317 of the Independent Orders attended the anniversary services under the auspices of Brighton Lodge No. 327. Other visitors were present from Trenton, Frankford and Stirling. The visitors left Belleville from Trenton. The services were held in the Presbyterian Church and the special preacher was Rev. E. Butcher of the Baptist Church. The preacher took as his subject the motto of the Order, "Friendship, Love and Truth", and drew from the choir near a anthem, "Praise ye the Father". Tea parade was one of the interest ever held in connection with Oddfellowship in Brighton.

WATER POWER

Sir Adam Beck, speaking in Kingston, made several statements of particular interest to Eastern Ontario regarding hydro development. The Hydro Knight declared that all waterways bordering on or within the Province were the property of Ontario, and could be harnessed for the development of power at any time.

The St. Lawrence River is a potential source of millions of needed horsepower and within the jurisdiction of the Province. Niagara is one of the richest natural resources of Ontario and not only does the province fail to materialize on the advantages of a power surplus by not fully developing their water power but the actual loss involved runs into millions of dollars yearly.

Hydro development is no longer in the experimental stage. Past experience has proven the great need of electric energy in a manufacturing centre such as Ontario and the present great strides in power development are largely due to the pressure brought to bear by power users in Ontario.

PAGEANT TO DEPICT HISTORY

In a recent issue of this paper, announcement was made of plans being completed by the U.E.L. Committee, for a big community project in the way of a historical pageant to be staged during the celebration as the crowning feature. Since the signing of the contract with the John B. Rogers Producing Company, the largest pageant producers in the world, and will stage the production, preliminary arrangements have been under way. A pageant organization has been begun, and the historians of the producers have been gathering together historical data which they will weave into episodes of thrilling action that will bring before the eyes of spectators, the deeds of those sturdy heroes who laid the foundations on which the present structure of our city was built.

The history of Belleville district is rich in material, extremely interesting and yet it is safe to say that the average citizen is woefully unfamiliar with the important happenings which made possible further progress toward the many conveniences and comforts enjoyed by the units of society to-day.

An enterprise which will bring these facts before a citizenship in a vivid and impressive way, cannot help but be productive of much good. Aside from the historical part, beautiful ballets, symbolical dances all telling a story and a grand climax "The Melting Pot" a spectacle based on a big plot, will be features.

CHANGING HABITS

(Toronto Globe)

How many of the present generation have ever attended a husking bee, a clam-bake, a quilting bee or enjoyed the thrill of a hay-rack party? And the answer is: "Not many," because these old-time institutions are passing, or have passed, apparently unable to survive in this gasoline-seated era of forty-hourly. It is a matter of genuine regret. They were meccas of the convivial, centerers-of a type of friendship rarely encountered to-day. Which prompts the query: Is civilization getting selfishness? People unquestionably are keeping more to themselves. Apartment dwellers, right here in Belleville, may live for years in the same building with other families, without ever knowing each other.

Grandfathers who whiled away many hours at the corner store, wondering if Niagara Falls was all it was cracked up to be, now have peppy descendants who hop into the flivver whenever the inclination strikes them and go see the "big splash" for themselves. Like the automobiles in which they ride, they are products of another age, simply following their natural bent, as did their venerable grandparents before them. The cracker-barrel and the corner store are the great broadcasting medium, has been supplanted by the radio, which may not be conducive to such companionship as the old folks knew, but certainly takes in a more extensive territory.

Youths whose wayward feet are straying from the path of law and order should be given pause by the fate of nine- robber-gunmen, executed in the United States.

That Irish maid who is suing Mary Miles Minter for $50,000 for false arrest has probably gotten an exaggerated conception of the screen star's wealth from the first syllable of her last name.

Elevation of Rev. Dean Owen, rector of Christ Church cathedral, to the bishopric of Brandon would be but fitting reward for the splendid part he has played in the advancement of the Anglican church in Canada.

A practical illustration of the reform of Tammany hall is provided in the announcement that "Boss" Murphy, the dominant party, left an estate of but $450,000. His predecessors in office had squeezed millions from the juicy plum.

PRESS OPINIONS

UNEMPLOYMENT

(The Victoria Times)

Unemployment in Britain is still a great problem. But it is decreasingly steadily, if only slowly. Government returns show registered unemployed, for example, on the part time control mid week 1,413,000 on March 16, 1,394,000 on March 23, the week was 1,354,200. On March 16, 1923, the total was 1,306,000.

CRYING FOR THE MOON

(London Chronicle)

The fundamental problem that needs facing (in Great Britain) is that the workers are asking for something which they are humanly justified in requiring, but which the country, going as it is, is going on cannot, is incapable of granting. The nation today is not producing enough to satisfy the natural human demands of the workers.

HANDICAPPED YET FIRST

(London Daily Chronicle)

The statistics for last year's air traffic between England and the Continent have just been published, and show clear that of the 15,000 passengers carried 75 per cent journeyed in British airplanes. That circumstance is attributed to the fact that there are fewer accidents on the British services than on any other; and that the journeys are made well up to schedule time.

ONTARIO THE GOOD

(Victoria Colonist)

To be sure the whole of the world has been shocked by recent political and financial revelations in the Province of Ontario. Nothing quite so scandalous ever has happened in any other part of Canada. That is why the shock has spread so startling. If the people of the Province of Quebec or of the Province of British Columbia had been convicted of such damnable moral lapses, that would have been considered in Ontario as just what might have been expected. But as Ontario is and has for more years as held up to the world as a horrible example is a very disagreeable and very lamentable affair indeed.

EAST AND WEST

(St. John Telegraph)

These men from the west are thoughtful, careful representatives, who say from the wisdom of the prairies to represent the people in parliament and to present their claims. One or two of the speakers yesterday thought the claims of the maritime provinces were not so diversed from those of the prairies. Both regions as a rule, are far removed from the centre of things. Their aspirations are misunderstood and it is well indeed that the men from the maritime and the men of the west should get together as they did yesterday and as they are to-morrow and the day after and compare notes, learning from each other's sympathies with the difficulties endeavoring to surmount them.

THE NOBLE BIG FARM PROJECT A FAILURE

Lethbridge—Lethbridge, Canada's largest farmer, founder of the Noble Foundation Ltd., recently received a call and clear disclosure in bankruptcy in the late Presidency of the Supreme Court. The Noble Foundation Ltd., failed after a determined effort to farm 30,000 acres. It failed because it has been demonstrated again and again that the big farm with the big overhead cannot be made to pay. Mr. Noble, who is known throughout America as a wheat baron, is now farming 500 acres of land near Noblefield, the little prairie town he founded.

Missing Fliers Safe In Alaska

Cordova, Alaska, May 12.—Major Frederick L. Martin and his mechanic, Staff Sergeant Alva L. Harvey, who have been missing since April 30, when they left Chignik, on their round-the-world flight, are safe at Port Moller, Alaska. A radio message was received here from Major Martin yesterday.

The plane struck a mountain near Port Moller an hour and a half after leaving Chignik, according to Major Martin's message, and although the ship was completely wrecked both fliers escaped unhurt, he said. Port Moller is 199 miles west of Chignik.

The aviators owed their existence the radiogram said, to "concentrated food and nerve." Exhausted, the flight commander and his mechanic finally reached a trapper's cabin at the southernmost point of Port Moller bay on the morning of May 7. There they found food and regained sufficient strength to walk to the beach three days before they were rescued.

The message from Major Martin, from Port Moller via St. Paul Island, and was worded as follows:

"Crashed against mountain in fog on 20th at 12.30. Neither of us hurt. Ship a total wreck. Our existence was due to concentrated food and nerve. Arrived at a trapper's cabin southmost point of Port Moller bay 4 evening, May 7. Rescued. Found food, rested three days, walked beach. Awaiting instructions."

HOPE FOR PACT WITH AUSTRALIA

Announced Repeal of the McKenna Duties a Factor in Situation

Ottawa—Reports from Australia to the effect that the Commonwealth will repudiate a trade treaty with Canada have raised hopes here that at last something worth while may come out of these negotiations. Canada has preserved a watchful waiting attitude for some time, and apparently her patience is to be rewarded.

While details of the probable treaty are not forthcoming, the hopes of the sugar manufacturers have been somewhat raised. The decrease in exports of refined sugars to Australasia which has been a very serious thing for them since the 1st months ended February returns having been, but $156, 293, as compared with $2,150,363 for the corresponding period. During February these exports were valued at only $8,246, as compared with $234,437 for the same month last year.

It is thought that the loss of the British market in some articles through the unexpected repeal of the McKenna duties has hastened the decision of the Australian government to make a trade treaty with Canada, for that country is anxious to get the British preference quite as much as any other portion of the British Empire, and a great deal more so than this country.

Parliament Is Looking Outside For Leadership

Would Do Something to Renew Confidence in the Banks

Ottawa—It is generally realized that both parliament and the public will be affected largely in its opinion on Home Bank matters by the statement given by Mr. Justice McKeown, this being true of the public because it is thought should the bank's failure, and the liability of the government, to the depositors, be reasonably conducted that the average member of parliament is not so concerned as will certainly be a person of Mr. Justice McKeown's experience, and whose reputation for fair play will give a just verdict.

The public will want to do something that will renew confidence in the banks, and parliament probably has to be inspired, but it lacks constructive leadership. Hon. Mr. Fielding made one really constructive nature put forward during the session without the walk of parliament. The appointment of Sir Thomas White and other members of experience in the shaping of policy in the Union government, but without walk with parliament. The appointment of Sir Thomas White and other members of experience in the shaping of policy in the Union government, but without walk with favor; his ability generally is recognized, but he is not considered understood that Sir Clifford Sifton will have considerable influence with the government in the shaping of banking policy.

Those in close touch with the situation admit that the time is opportune for the making of a distinct move of service in banking, for some of the old-time leaders in the Canadian Bankers' Association, have gone. But the leadership must be found in the present government. It is considered fortunate that Hon. J. A. Robb, acting minister of finance is very receptive to new proposals when made by men whose character and recognized ability entitle them to receive consideration. In the light of the events of the past year or two it is now generally admitted that if some people had not been "so sot in their ways" about banking the public would have been saved much money and confidence generally would have remained unimpaired.

CHANGING HABITS

(Toronto Globe)

How many of the present generation have ever attended a husking bee, a clam-bake, a quilting bee or enjoyed the thrill of a hay-rack party? And the answer is: "Not many," because these old-time institutions are passing, or have passed, apparently unable to survive in this gasoline-seated era of forty-hourly. It is a matter of genuine regret. They were meccas of the convivial, centerers-of a type of friendship rarely encountered to-day. Which prompts the query: Is civilization getting selfishness? People unquestionably are keeping more to themselves. Apartment dwellers, right here in Belleville, may live for years in the same building with other families, without ever knowing each other.

Grandfathers who whiled away many hours at the corner store, wondering if Niagara Falls was all it was cracked up to be, now have peppy descendants who hop into the flivver whenever the inclination strikes them and go see the "big splash" for themselves. Like the automobiles in which they ride, they are products of another age, simply following their natural bent, as did their venerable grandparents before them. The cracker-barrel and the corner store are the great broadcasting medium, has been supplanted by the radio, which may not be conducive to such companionship as the old folks knew, but certainly takes in a more extensive territory.

GRATEFUL PARENTS POUR OUT THANKS TO TANLAC

Five In One Family Are Helped—Mother And Father Give Details

The value of Tanlac as a family medicine and tonic is again very forcefully demonstrated, this time in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Kaake, 3436 Kiefer Ave., West, Detroit, Mich., where father and mother and every member of the family have been benefitted by the wholesome and helpful ingredients of the famous preparation.

Recently, in speaking for herself and children, Mrs. Kaake said: "For more than a year our three little ones, John, age 6, Elwyn are 4, and Margaret, age 2, had been so peaked and listless that we were seriously worried about them. Their mother worried, appetites poor, the color had left their cheeks, their nights were restless, and during the day they would just mope around, taking no interest in play or anything else.

"They began to eat and sleep better almost from the first dose of Tanlac, and have picked up now until you couldn't find three healthier or more active children in all Detroit. They eat ravenously the color of health has returned to their cheeks, and they just want to be on the go all the time. I have also taken Tanlac to build me up, and it never seems to fail."

"As to my personal experience with Tanlac," said Mr. Kaake, "I feel—[illegible]—days a week the great help it gave me. About a year ago I was a victim of boils actually having fifty-one on me, and was so played out that I couldn't do a bit of work for weeks. My suffering was almost unbearable, cared little for food, suffered with severe indigestion and stomach pains, and got so weak and nervous that I felt discouraged.

Tanlac corrected my stomach disorders, woke up my appetite, cleansed my blood and toned up my system so that the boils soon came, and everything of the kind has bothered me since. I have gained 28 pounds in flesh, sleep and feel like a brand-new man. We have given Tanlac a fair trial and found it wonderful, and I unreservedly endorse statement they can write personally, for Tanlac is worthy of being without Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Port Hope Officers Have Busy Time With "Illicit Distillers".

Port Hope, May 12—Last week Inspector Goodrich and Provincial Constable Cousins discovered three fourth still in less than a month on the farm of Harry Griffiths, near Hastings. On Every Town-hip. In addition a quantity of mash, consisting of corn, potatoes, yeast and sugar was found, as well as two bottles of moon-shine whiskey in the house. Moonshiners have discovered a way of manufacturing whiskey without a worm and this kind of still was discovered that has not even got the worm for condensing the liquor which is put in a container and cooled above the container being run through pipes being placed above the container, one of them containing water which from being condensed by the worm and caught in the other pipe, the whiskey being converted in a fine state. When they landed at the farm of Thomas Young, Griffiths' mother-in-law, was emptying the whisky out of a bottle. She said some time ago for operating a still near Myrtleville. Officers were still found in the counties and for which convictions were made against on the farms of James Whitesides, in Hope; Wm. Wade, in Brighton, and Thompson Huggins, Jr., in South Monaghan.

POLICE REPORT A BUSY MONTH

Provincial police officers have been busy during the month of April past, according to their monthly statement. During the month, there have been 42 cases prosecuted, and of that number 38 are convictions, three others being dismissed, and two are waiting trial. Sixty investigations were carried out during the month, and there have been arrests were made for serious offences.

The approximate value of goods recovered is $4,000, which includes stolen goods and cars.

Six cases of insanity required sending to the asylum during the month, two of that number being committed to Kingston and three cases pending. Insanity cases, it was explained by Inspector Hopwood, are very difficult matters to handle, as the law does not permit officers to step in until the actions carry of insanity, unless the person is dangerous to be at large. The insane person really must do something unlawful before the officers step in. Relatives often wish to handle their own cases of this nature.

Four stills, one of them the largest ever seized in this district, were secured this month. The largest one having been seized in Victoria county. Four of the six still owners were convicted, paying fines which aggregated $900, and the other two owners are awaiting trial.

During the month, the bodies of the late Mrs. Marion Wigglesworth and Gordon Price, the youth who fell off the steamer "Kingston" early one year ago, were found in the bay by the officers. The case of a baby skeleton found in the woods and a hanging at Redersville were also investigated.

Since the beginning of last November, the beginning of the fiscal year, 272 cases have been tried, and only 22 were dismissed. This is a 91.5% conviction record which is a remarkable record.

Four men are now awaiting trial on serious charges. A man named Bacon sentenced to ten years to Kingston penitentiary at Lindsay recently for incest, must soon face a murder charge, when he is charged with killing his daughter's baby.

A Deer Lake man awaits trial here, charged with assaulting his wife, and indecently assaulting his step-daughter. The other two men are charged with the theft of furs from Perrault's.

During the month Peter Sexsmith of Madoc has been transferred to Bancroft and Constable Fred Davis of Peterboro has been moved to Belleville for motor cycle duty during the summer.

COBOURG HOTEL KEEPERS HELD

Inspector of Provincial Police R. Bumpstead and Sergeant G. Atkins of this city with Provincial Officer Lee, Constable H. Thompson of Napanee, Inspector Goodrich of Port Hope, Constable Cousens of Cobourg and motorcycle officer J. Davis of this city, swept down upon four hotel keepers at Cobourg Saturday night last, when they raided the places simultaneously.

Beer which was seized in each place has been sent to Toronto for analysis.

Tomorrow, three Cobourg persons appear before Magistrate Col. Floyd, charged with illegal liquor sales. They are Mrs. Wilkinson, proprietor of the Albion Hotel; Mrs. Leitch, proprietor of the King Edward Hotel.

Washington, May 12—Edmund Burke was walking down Indiana avenue. He met a pretty girl with fluffy bobbed hair. "How about a kiss?" asked Edmund. "Sure," said the girl. She kissed him and vanished in the dark. Edmund discovered that his watch and $100 in cash had vanished at the same time.

Deaths and Funerals

One of Belleville's aged residents in the person of Mrs Susanna Lloyd passed away at her home 275 Coleman St. Deceased was in her 91st year having been born in Belfast, Ireland, in 1833. For the past 60 years she had resided in this city. Mrs. Lloyd was a devoted member of the Tabernacle Methodist Church and a lady much esteemed by all who knew her. Mr. Lloyd predeceased her many years ago. One son and three daughters survive. The sons George E. is in St. Paul, and the daughters are Mrs. R. H. Hannah, Belleville; Mrs. Fred J. Webber, Bothwell and Mrs. J. H. Hale, of Sault Ste. Marie as well. Mrs. Reford Fowell of Toronto, 9 grand children and 12 great grand children are living.

JAMES QUINLAN

James Quinlan of Marmora passed away in the Hospital this morning after a serious operation. Deceased who was 63 years of age was born in Tudor Township, North Hastings 48 years ago. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. David Quinlan. Deceased is a member of the R. C. church. A family of five sons and one daughter survive. Four sisters are living, namely, Mrs. Thomas Meader, Mrs. G. Tobin, Colborne, Mrs. Chas. Sanford and Mrs. J. J. Reid, Toronto. The body, after being prepared for burial by the Belleville Burial Company, was today taken to Marmora for interment.

JAMES M. MERRY

Word has been received from London, England, of the death on May 5th of James MacPherson Merry. The late Mr. Merry was connected with the Ontario Conference Homes in London, England, and Stratford, Ont., the latter home being carried on under the name of the Boys' Home. These homes have for sixty years been bringing boys and girls to Canada. Many of these boys and girls are now prosperous men and women and will learn with regret of the death of one who was a close friend and helper of so many. The late Mr. Merry was manager of the headquarters in London, England, and devoted his whole life to this work. The work of the Boys' Home in Stratford, Ont., is now being carried on at the Maresfield Home near Uckfield, under the supervision of Mr. W. H. Merry, brother of the late James MacPherson Merry.

MRS. ANNIE DONOVAN

Death came suddenly on Saturday morning to Mrs. Annie Donovan, wife of Mr. John Donovan, contractor of this city, deceased having proceeding to St. Michael's church to attend the mission which had been conducted when she sustained a stroke. As quickly as possible the victim was rushed to the hospital, but death ensued in a few minutes. Deceased was 53 years of age and was born at Demorestville. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Craig. For a number of years Mrs. Donovan had resided in Belleville where she had many friends. Deceased was a member of St. Michael's church and a lady possessing many amiable qualities. In addition to the husband three sons, Jack, Dennis and Hugh and two daughters Margaret and Helen survive, a brother, William Craig resides in the city.

MONEY NOT EVERYTHING

(London Herald)

To have only a little money is regarded as evidence of failure (in the United States of America). That is why many lose their sense of strict financial probity. Wherever money is respected and riches looked on as proof of success, there is bound to be a low standard of public honor. Healthy opinion values most highly those who are "content with a little" and whom nothing can tempt to change a simple mode of life.

Montreal, May 12.—While grafting an elm tree in the grounds of the Sisters of Mercy, at Sault-aux-Recollets, two gardeners discovered in a cavity of the tree an earthen jar in which was a document covered with indecipherable writing. It was found to be an account of the first mass celebrated on the island of Montreal, in the year 1615.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

A THOUGHT ABOUT THE COMPLEXION

Perhaps you, or your growing boy or girl has had tolerable trouble and annoyance from unsightly pimples.

It is very embarrassing because they so often appear upon the face.

You know that it is from no want of cleanliness because you have been particularly assiduous in keeping your skin clean.

You try various lotions and get results that may last for a short time. You then try something else without result.

If you are wise you will consult your physician, and he will likely tell you that it is all a matter of diet.

If you are insistent you can get him to outline a diet for you.

All the skin lotions in the world will not alter the constituency of your blood.

They may be of use in helping the pimples to heal more quickly, but they will not prevent pimples.

The fact of the matter is that you are perhaps manufacturing too much oil, so much in fact, that it gets a bit thickened and does not pour out upon the skin as readily as it should.

You see your skin was meant to be oiled to keep it soft and pliable, and to some extent waterproof.

The tiny orifices through which the oil is poured may become clogged with dust which may have bacterial substances in it.

This causes an ordinary blackhead to become a pimple.

Many people can eat anything and everything and have no trouble, but every with their skin.

If you a woman with an unusually good complexion who would not eat a piece of butter without leaving it on for it be a crop of pimples.

Anything lowering, such as periods candies, and too many cakes and pastries will often start the trouble. A big factor in having a continual crop of pimples, is constipation. The great majority of sufferers will admit that they are thus troubled.

The cure then is first of all to watch the diet, and cut down on the foods mentioned above.

The next thing is to stimulate the skin to action by exercise and bathing. This heats up the skin, keeps the oil thinner and pours the blood by the extra intake of oxygen.

The bathing and rubbing likewise removes the dirt and stimulates the circulation.

Don't be satisfied until you have gone after them in the proper manner, diet and exercise.

Every Right

to be postponed. "But Sir Adam never lets go," said the speaker, "and Ontario should be thankful that we have such an organization. If we are united power will come. Eastern Ontario needs power and needs it now, and should make it clear that our needs have got to be filled," concluded Dr. Ross.

Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., M.P.P.,

Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney-General of Ontario, at the commencement of a characteristic address, expressed his pleasure at again being in a position to address a Kingston audience.

He stated his intention of "viewing the present in the light of the past" so far as the development of power in Ontario, and especially Kingston, was concerned, going back to the time in 1848 when the Kingston Gas Company was incorporated to supply gas to the city.

He brought to mind the establishment of the first electric light plant in the city by Mr. J. M. Campbell and his associates on the "ferry dock," and the competition which resulted, between the Gas Company and the Electric Company, when a merger of the two soon followed and the Kingston Light, Heat and Power Co. came into being. He referred to the conditions leading up to an alteration in the charter of the Street Railway Company in order that electrically driven cars might be established, and made of the period when the city entered into lengthy legal action in order to take over the plant of the Light Heat and Power Co.

Formation of Hydro Commission

Hon. Mr. Nickle in speaking of the formation of the Hydro Electric Commission, stated that it owed its existence to the combination of municipalities in order to prevent private individuals retaining control of the Niagara developments of power. Whether which in 1905 the Government of the province changed their new governmental measure that water power belonged to the people and would be developed for the people. The first Hydro Power Commission came into being in 1907, serving 12 municipalities. That voted for an expenditure of $700,000, and began to deliver power in 1910, when Sir Adam was much criticized for his action in purchasing power.

Mr. Nickle stated that as "Niagara power was developed the great truth that its own cheapness would increase the demand was forced home. In 1910 the Hydro Commission served 38 municipalities and produced 2,500 horse power. In 1911 it served 82 municipalities and produced 16,000 horse power. In 1919 it served 82 municipalities with 230,000 horse power, while in 1922, by 210 municipalities were served and the power produced was 485,000 horse power, and the speaker attributed this extraordinary growth of the scheme to appeal, the basic will be advertised the "positive" results of Sir Adam for all Deck."

Mr. Nickle spoke of the tremendous work recently completed at Chippewa when the water had been carried right across the Niagara Peninsular in order that each cubic foot would produce just twice the power, "and there is today," said Mr. Nickle, "250,000 horse power in the Niagara Peninsular as a result of this scheme being successfully put through."

Chicago Diversion

In reference to the Chicago diversion Mr. Nickle named the number of cubic feet of water diverted, turned into total into power, and estimated that "the annual loss to Ontario and the Northern States of America amounts to something like $35,000,000" adding this as the reason why Sir Adam and others contend that the water so diverted must be adequately compensated for.

Mr. Nickle stated that a difference in rates existed between Eastern Ontario and the Niagara Peninsular so far as power was concerned. In the Peninsular in thirty years the plant becomes the property of the municipalities, while in Eastern Ontario there are various types of contract with the Hydro Commission in existence. "Kingston is peculiar in this respect," said the Attorney-General. "We are purchasers of a certain amount of electricity, but not co-partners, and the time will shortly come when the local Commission will have to discuss their future policy."

Legal Problems Involved

"We are asking what about the east, are we to inspect ourselves and demand the right and heritage which flows by our doors," said Mr. Nickle. "There is a legal problem involved. Under the British North America Act I think it is beyond contradiction that the water of the river belongs to the Dominion, but the property in the water and the banks of the river belongs to the province."

"Speaking as a Minister," said the Attorney-General, "what we ask is that the Dominion Government co-operate with us in a scheme to protect their navigation rights and develop power. If this co-operation is refused we ask them to remove all plans already filed with them for the development of power at Morrisburg, and if neither of these is acceptable we ask them to step aside and let us go ahead, and it seems to me that our requests are reasonable."

"I have come here as a member of the Government to tell you that we realize the need for action," said the Attorney-General.

Ringers vs. Bowlers Stage An Exciting Battle

On Saturday afternoon at She Y alleys, the Ringers and the Bowlers met in a friendly game and this time the Ringers proved too much for the Bowlers. The Bowlers started off in the first game with a lead of 114 pins and it looked as if the Ringers were doomed for their second defeat, But the Bowlers seemed to weaken in the next two games and the Ringers came strong in the last game cheered on by their team mates, rolled up a 223 score. Mrs. Ostrom of the Ringers was the outstanding figure of the afternoon, copping the high single and three string with 87 and 226 respectively.

CURRENT SPORT IN BRIEF FORM

"There is a lot of bunk," pipes F. K. "in the old dope that a strong attack is also good defense. Attack and defense being entirely separate, strength in one can hardly make up for weakness in the other. This has been shown through the ease fashion in which Dempsey can be hit. His weakness in defense will some day cost him the title, no matter how slashing his attack remains."

This is true only in part. As "Battling" Levinsky once put it, "Dempsey is easy to hit, but hell to miss." The thought of what will happen in case of failure to land is a deterrent and that frequently tones down the rival attack, killing off the confident freedom. When you let one fly, knowing that if you miss complete destruction may follow, there is likely to be restraint in aswail.

An Illustration

Irvin Cobb, in this connection, relates the story of a crack pistol shot from Pocatalla, Ida.

"He was a marvel," relates Mr. Cobb. "If he never even a better shot I can't remember that I ever saw him miss a target. "Did you ever miss in your life," I asked him one day, after he had given one of his best exhibitions. "Yes," he said, "I missed Dual Black five times only half an inch. The street car line was about six feet tall, weighing 220 pounds."

"How did that happen?" Cobb asked. "Because," returned the crack shot "Dual was also standing at bat, and he was about as good a shot as I was. It makes quite a difference."

It does.

Dempsey has thought only in terms of attack. But when a clever boxer, who can land and hurt is shooting at him it will make a startling difference. If young Weyfield Dean and Jack Bentley live up to their April promise, Giant pitching may be one of the strongest points of the club in place of its weakest, as it has been for some seasons. Enouth help for Dean, Bentley and Nehf can be found from Watson, Gearin, Ryan and others to round out enouth good pitching to hold its own. Dean looks to be one of the next crop of stars on the way to replace Johnson Alexander and other members of the old guard who have only a year or two left in the big league ranks. He has the stuff, the control the heart and the head—a quadruple barricade against disaster.

New Records

Every strike-out Walter Johnson turns in adds to a new record. Every shut-out adds to a new record. Every base-hit Cobb makes adds to a new record. Every run Ruth makes does the same. Also every base he steals. Every home run "Babe" Ruth makes increases the record. Every game Scott plays in moves up the mark. We are now breaking all-time records nearly half an hour for any individual year.

No one seems to be bothered known as many records still under way. The new generations will have something to shoot at for the next ten centuries—long after the present generation is "dust beneath the daisy fields in dreams."

LEAFS SURPRISE BASEBALL FANDOM

Open Four Game Session With the "Jynx" Reading Nine To-day.

Ottawa, May 12.—Opening the professional baseball season in Hull yesterday, the Ottawa International league Leafs defeated the Ottawa Hull representatives in the Quebec, Ontario and Vermont League. Playing before a crowd of over three thousand fans and on an extremely muddy field, both teams dished up a snappy brand of ball, and were given a good hand.

Leafs Up Second

The Leafs are going strong. They won two games from Jersey City on Saturday, rounding their consecutive victories up to five, and they tackle at Spence Abbott's Royal Keys stones today. Also tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday. The double win on Saturday put the Leafs in second place in the league race, just a step behind the first-time champion Orioles but they held their position for twenty-four hours only. The Islanders were idle Sunday, while Buffalo was making merry at the expense of the Keys, and the Orioles were breaking even with Shag's luckless stars. Now the Islanders are in first place, with Orioles second and Toronto third.

Jess Doyle and Babe Zeiberg, a left-hander, had a nice pitching duel for four innings of the first game on Saturday, then Jess faltered and threw hits, including a double by Miller and Doyle's third throw another run came for the Pests. Singles by Kelly and Maloof, Gerlach's sacrifice, a walk to Boll and an infield out gave the Leafs one in the sixth, and they tied it up in the seventh, Kelly driving in Gilhooley, who had singled.

But it was the eighth that Toron to won the game. Frank O'Rourke doubled off Hunton with the bases full, scoring three. Doyle was a little wild, and passed six during the game. O'Rourke, Kelly and Capes each had two hits. Both teams gave a great exhibition in the field, with Miller at second base for the Pests accepting ten chances without a slip.

How He Looked at it.

"Why did you lend countenance to such a proceeding?"

"I hadn't the face to refuse."

Hillcrests and Oslers Romp To Victory — Royals Tie Strollers

Toronto, May 12—Both games in the Hampden Park double-header on Saturday were won by the Hillcrests, downing St. Andrew's 17 to 8, while Oslers won from Athletic Grounds 14 to 5. The big scores do not do justice to the games, for in both many smart plays were made other than nine double plays being registered in the afternoon's play, three in the first game and six in the second.

Beavers Hit Gloating

Beavers hit the combined delivery of a quartet of "Y" pitchers for a top 19 hits, winning the first game of the Toronto Senior League double-header on Saturday by a score of 16 to 4. In the second tilt, St. Mary's and St. Andrews met, and the latter won a one-sided contest by the score of 10 to 7

Royals in Strollers

Royal Canadians and Strollers tied at 3 runs each and Tuesday best Pros cross by 8 to 7, in the opening game of the Riverdale Senior Baseball League at Greenwood Park. A large crowd was in attendance, being estimated at about 5,000, and the sound rules were necessary. Many quite officials and league officers took part in the opening ceremonies.

WESTMORELANDS WIN

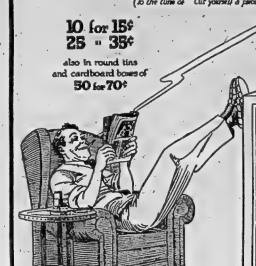

Westmorelands started off on the right foot when they defeated Oakmounts, in the opening and only game of the West Toronto Junior League at Earlscourt Park by 4 to 3. Con Scoller fiddlers "pitch the jonx" and the remainder "first ball" and Hal Hacker, at bat, just tipped it for a foul, thus preventing Catcher T. J. Kennedy from doing his bit in the limelight. The game was a two run race. Almost three thousand attended.

Sartorial Shouts Summon Men and Money to Modern Girl, Says Y.W.C.A. Head

New York, May 12.—The modern and genteel girl in moderate circumstances should dress in a series of sartorial sheets if she wishes to attract men, matrimony and the maximum of sleeves.

This was the sense of a spring message from Helen Gywnne, of Indianapolis, retiring president of the National Industrial Assembly of the Y.W.C.A. She spoke last night to a Y.W.C.A. meeting here to manifested all Y.W.C.A. girls from the autumn of a Y.W.C.A. auditorium. The shades of staid opulence, studiously bored, passive and correct to the last standard collar, turned sneakily in their grasps as the words echoed through the room in which they lost out and read or lose reliable."

"Better wear flashy clothes and make an striking a showing as possible," declared Miss Gywnne. "The demure, submissive working girl doesn't get very far in the world. She must attract attention to herself, and clothes will do it."

Miss Gywnne, whose assembly is made up of 20,000 factory girls in all parts of the country, then went on to enter a brief for bobbed hair and modern young ladies in general.

"The old prejudice against the girl with bobbed hair has been completely overcome," she said. "There is now no feeling that the girl with short locks or who is dressed prettily is less efficient

CURIOUS NAMES FOR BIBLES

Errors in writing, or type, in the past have given peculiar names to various editions of the Bible. For instance, there:

"Breeches Bible", published in 1560 so-called, because in Genesis III, 7, is read: "They sewed fig leaves together and made themselves breeches instead of aprons.

"Bug Bible," published in 1551, so-called, because in Psalm XCI, 5, it read: "So that thou shalt not need to be afraid for any bugges by night," meaning terror.

"He Bible," published in 1611, so-called, because in Ruth III, 15, it read:

Printer's Bible published in 1702, so-called in Psalm CXIX 161 it read, "Printers have persecuted me without a cause," instead of Princes.

"Rosin Bible," published in 1579, so-called because in Jeremiah VIII, 22 it read: "Is there no rosin in Gilead," instead of balm in Gilead.

"Wicked Bible", published in 1631, so-called, because the printer left out the word not in the seventh commandment.

The famous Big Print Red Letter Edition now being distributed by this paper is without errors and contains many valuable features that render it needed even where the Bible now describes how it can be procured.

Heads of Big Banks Getting Together

Sir Joseph Flavelle Meets Officers of Big Montreal Banking Institutions

Montreal, May 12.—Sir Joseph Flavelle, the new chairman of the board of directors of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, was in Montreal this week and while here called upon the heads of the big banking institutions in this city.

His visit is regarded as significant for it has been felt that Sir Joseph's appointment to the position of chairman of the Commerce indicated a desire to bring about better public understanding of the functions and services rendered the country by the banks of Canada. The interpretation that is placed upon the meetings between the presiding heads of the big banks is that they have been discussing ways and means to completely restore the public confidence that has been affected unfavorably by bank-ing events of the past few years; in other words, to recognize definitely rather than ignore this shaken confidence and to win it back by frankness and publicity.

THE RIGHT TO EDUCATION

(Manchester Guardian)

It has been the chief weakness of our national educational system that it has originally based on rigid stratifications of class. What reformers have had to wear down is the old view that there are two deeply divided classes of pupils, the minority to whom secondary schools and university are a right, however little use they may be likely to make of them, and the majority who can expect no more than a primary schooling, however much talent and eagerness they may show. That fatal and manifestly un-Christian division has been considerably bridged in late years. But the bridges are still far too few.

Shipments of grain from Vancouver for the 1923-24 season have surpassed the 41,000,000 bushel mark. Officials estimate that the 50,000,000 bushel mark set for the season will be surpassed in the near future.

Reports from England state that it has been universally conceded that Canada's pavilion was in the best condition when the King opened the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley on Saturday. "It was only the Canadian building," the reports said, "quick and span and complete in the last nail that led all others in the race to the finish in time for to-day's official opening."

Over 3,000 settlers left Liverpool for Canada on April 26, the largest number of these sailed on the Canadian Pacific liner Montclare, including a party of 200 skilled workers from Manchester, Yorkshire and to engineering trades, 40 for building trades and 40 farm hands. Eighty skilled workers from Leeds and a party of engineers from Barrow-in-Furness were also on board.

That the Indian village of Hochelaga, which stood on the site of the present city of Montreal, was a place of about fifty wooden houses having a population of some 1,000 souls when Jacques Cartier sailed up the St. Lawrence, is the assertion made by Dr. W. Dr. Lighthall was also born in the boundaries of the village and described it as "probably the Village of Cedric the Saxon, in "Ivanhoe."

Apropos of the recent "Save the Forest Week," E. W. Forest wastage is to-day tragically too great and we Canadians must pay and are paying for the loss."

of the series dealing with the establishment of the Bank of Montreal at representative points in Canada and elsewhere.

ONE of the first forward moves of the Bank of Montreal after Confederation, when banks and banking passed under the jurisdiction of the Federal Parliament, was to extend its facilities and stabilizing influence to the Maritime Provinces.

The first branch in Halifax was established in 1868. With this extension the Bank marked its 50th anniversary.

Today the Bank has 15 Branches in Nova Scotia and a total of more than 550 Branches throughout Canada and Newfoundland, as well as Branches in the leading financial centres of the world.

In Unhurried Quebec

"These 'chiens' of Quebec have no Jackie Coogan to do them justice."

Old fashioned Quebec tugs at the heartstrings of the summer visitor, because her appeal is personal. Without intention, so to do, she has struck what the advertising men work so hard to acquire—the human interest angle.

Quebec is natural, simple, lovable. In our race for a country living we of the cities have reduced life to a system with every action in subordination to hours and minutes. But in Quebec the habitants rises above the hours.

He has something in himself which holds him to old ways. To family life, to the farm, to the home and hand-plough; to the scythe, to cows. Wives and daughters and boys of all ages lend a hand at everything. All the changes of the seasons fit in to the scheme of life. And yet there seems to be no particular scheme, no hurry, none of that driven feeling. No friction.

And so when we get into Quebec we are sensible of a freedom of spirit. The shackles of "the drive" fall away as we come once more under the benison of the simple and the fundamental.

Here by the road are the wayside Crosses common to Old France and once to Old England. The Mower is shrouded in the fields. The dogs drawing their little carts still hold the road.

And nothing is more humanly appealing than these dog carts of the Quebec highway. The "Dog of Flanders" has won his way to publicity on the screen, but these "chiens" of Quebec have had no Jackie Coogan to do them justice.

And yet what a part they play in the life of this great Province, far larger in extent than Flanders. How the dogs fill niches in the households. Jobs long ago eliminated from our scheme of life, are performed by the dog carts as a matter of course, in Quebec. Boys of the family learn to handle dogs from babyhood, harness one, unharnessing, driving "is eisier." The boy that as soon as he is big enough will have the horses in hand. Deep moaning oft lies bid in childish play" down in Quebec.

And yet the dog cart is not merely a means toward an end. As farm life is arranged in Quebec, the dog cart is no mere child's toy, but part and parcel of French thrift.

Boys are sent to scrawl over the miles in the dog cart. Wood to be brought from the distant woodlot on the mountainside is loaded into the little cart. With the aid of these "tiny horses and carts" small boys do the work quite easily, releasing their fathers, and big brothers to men's jobs at the plough or with the heavy scythe.

Travis workers in the big mill below Montmorency Falls, living in Saint Gregoire and other villages nearby, have their dinner-pails brought to them by their small boys in dog carts, and if you happen along this road at dinner-time it is to see perhaps as many as thirty or forty of these little chariots.

The speed attained of the dog is surprising, especially when homeward bound. Then, little M'sieu can hardly hold him in.

But you must not think 'tis only youth that these gay dogs of Quebec serve, their tails wagging, flying along with the baby in the cart and the family brood of boys and girls running in their alder scattering freshness in their pails. What would the old... the oldcouples, the old women do without their old dog and his little cart?

But, I think perhaps one never realizes more, how much a part of every day life the dog cart is, until you happ-n along by some wayside smithy and see the smith, hard at work rivetting, tyreing, heating, hammering the miniature axles and tires in the most matter of fact manner, part of the day's work, as much as shoeing a horse.—Victoria Hayward.

RESUME SHIPPING OF CANADIAN BEER

Cobourg, May 12—According to a ruling made recently by the Customs department, Canadian breweries are enabled to ship beer by the railroad to United States, but are not allowed to ship beer to Cuba in transit through the United States. The recent shipment through Cobourg was prevented because the boat wanted a clearance for United States port for Cuba. It is likely that the shipment of beer through Cobourg harbor will now be resumed.

Music & Drama

WORLD'S GREATEST NOVELIST CAME FROM PEASANT STOCK

Honore de Balzac, author of "The Magic Skin," a sheen version of which, under the title of "Slave of Desire," is at the Regent, Trenton, all days, was often accused, during his life time, trying to conceal his ancestry by changing his name and adding the particle "de" to the sign of gentility to the "name" of that period.

There still seems to be a question whether the novelist himself, or his father, was the one to change the spelling of the name. French biographers seem inclined to the latter. The name that his father, Francois de Balzac, was the one who changed the name. His patronymic was originally Balsa or Balzac. The family was of peasant ancestry, but the novelist's father had won an important position in the Ministry of War, during and after the French Revolution. He married the daughter of an official in the Commissariat, who had considerable circumstances at the time of the novelist's birth. The latter used the name de Balzac in all of his writings, except some of his early ones, which were published under assumed names.

"THE WHITE SISTER" TO PLAY HERE TONIGHT

Lillian Gish's triumphant success, "The White Sister," is announced for the premiere at the Griffin Theatre tonight, Tuesday, and Wednesday, May 12th, 13th, 14th.

"The White Sister" was made in Italy with the cooperation of the Italian Government, it has been characterized by one of the most beautiful films ever screened.

In addition to the superb acting of Miss Gish, who plays the role in which Viola Allen attained an unequalled on the speaking stage, "The White Sister" has many thrilling spectacular scenes. The running of Mt. Vesuvius supplies the climax for the powerful picture which was directed by Henry King, well known for his work in "To'able David."

"The White Sister" is an Inspiration Picture, a Frank Lloyd production. F. Duell, Jr., is president, and is released through Metro.

BACK TO LIFE TERM

Windsor, Ont., May 12.—Shackled with leg irons, John Lynn, alias Sylvester Flynn, criminally insane, who escaped from a prison asylum on Vancouver Island in 1921 where he was serving a life term for murder, left Windsor Thursday by Kingston penitentiary in charge of Guard Sullivan. Flynn was ordered deported from Chicago as a lunatic, and was later brought to Detroit an then to Windsor.

Lynn was convicted of murder in Kamloops, B.C., in 1913 and was given up the death sentence. When physicians-alienists declared that he was insane, the death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. After escaping from the asylum he, using his key across the boundary line and spent his time in several large cities of the United States. His liberty was discovered by Chicago authorities when they found him in company with criminals.

BELLEVILLE BOY IS DOING WELL

Mr. Carvin Berkley, formerly of this city, whose parents reside on Victoria Avenue, has just passed his final examination, entitling him to the degree of Ph. D. (Doctor of Philosophy).

Mr. Berkley has been for years specializing in the study of Plant Pathology, and is now Dominion Plant Pathologist for the whole Province of Saskatchewan, with St. Catharines to assist—the growers combat the many diseases of fruits, bushes and trees. He has a well equipped office with a good laboratory and a staff of assistants under him.

He is still in his "twenties", and it is a rare thing for one of his years/ages to achieve the degree of Ph. D. and still more rare for a Belleville boy to get it.

RACE PIGEONS AT OSHAWA

—Oshawa, May 12—The Oshawa Pigeon Flying Club held their first event of the season with an open race from Brockin Ont., a distance of 300 miles. Owing to dull weather and a hard wind the birds made slow time, taking along one hour and 35 minutes to fly the journey; another Sunday in that seeing to such changeable weather the boys are having a hard time to condition their birds. Nevertheless, they are hoping that the birds will get in form for conditions in the longer races.

THE HORSE WITH FEVER.

Drenching May Cause Foundering or Death — Medicine and General Treatment Recommended.

Many good horses die every winter, killed by well meaning people who do not know. On many farms if an animal shows any symptoms of ill health the first thing done is to give it a physic drench or ball. If it is a cow, sheep or pig, an unnecessary physic is not likely to do any harm, but with the horse it is different. Purges at times when there is fever present and you will in all probability kill him. If you do not succeed in killing him, he will likely be greatly handicapped for the rest of his life by founder. Never physic a horse that has a fever. Use mild laxative only.

Fevers come on suddenly. Severe cases show coldness of the extremities, surface of the body, nose and ears, shivering, breathing increases in frequency. Time to call a qualified veterinary if there is one to be had. If not, the following treatment is suggested: Blanket the horse well and put him in a warm, comfortable stable, and give two ounces of the following every three minutes, or until the horse begins to sweat: Aconite, one drachm; nitric ether, one half ounce; water to make a pint. With sweating begins give the following fever mixture at the rate of two ounces every two hours:

Fluid Extract Aconite	4 drachm
" Belladonna	4 drachm
" Gentian	4 ounce
Potassium Nitrate	4 ounces
Water to make 1 pint.

Keep a bucket of clean water in which a small quantity of potassium nitrate has been dissolved in front of the horse at all times. Feed soft foods, boiled oats and bran. Potato Disease Investigation.

Investigational work carried on by the Department of Botany of the Ontario Agricultural College during the past six years has brought out the following facts:

That selected, certified seed potatoes give much better results than the uncertified seed potatoes which have been commonly used by the farmers of this province in the past.

That Northern Ontario seed potatoes give as good yields on the average as those imported from the Maritime provinces.

That in certain sections of old Ontario excellent seed potatoes can be produced by continued selection and roguing.

'SKYWRITER' CANNOT PLY TRADE IN JAIL

Ossington, N. Y., May 12—Thomas McInerny, principal keeper of Sing Sing, makes it a point to find out for each prisoner the job for which he is best qualified but he was stumped today trying to place Terry Mitchell a newcomer, who gave his occupation as a "skywriter." Mitchell recently received from New York County on a charge of attempted grand larceny, in the first aviator ever sentenced to a New York State prison.

Not long ago, prison attendants said, Mitchell soared over Sing Sing and laid out a big smoke sign overhead which read: "Lucky Strike." Mitchell is 23 years old, and was born in Brooklyn. When McInerney asked him his occupation he answered, "I'm an aviator." Mitchell was told that he could not ply his trade in Sing Sing and that any mimic who attempted to make a flight from there and gets caught faces death.

PRACTICE TUESDAY AT HIGH SCHOOL

Recent rains have made the baseball diamond at the Agricultural park, unfit for practice, and the Belleville juniors will practice at the High School grounds again Tuesday evening at 6.30 instead of the Agricultural park as formerly announced. A full turn out is requested for practice evening at the High School ground providing of course the weather is satisfactory.

NEW ARRESTS ARE MADE IN SMITH CASE

DRUNKEN PARTY MADE TARGET IN PORT HOPE

Reporter with "Nose for News" Meets Violent Rebuff

PROMINENT NAMES

Declare Police Will Not Interfere Despite Breaking of Law

Port Hope has a problem. On Sunday evening, young motorists from others towns visit Port Hope and cause trouble.

Last Sunday evening a MacLaughlin car from Cobourg full of drunken passengers (who it is believed belong to the "social standing" class) in Cobourg, skidded the machine into the ditch on Percy street opposite the C.P.R.

With the aid of a team of horses, and much "strong" talk, they moved the car out. While they were working, a Port Hope Guide reporter happened along and unconsciously began asking questions it is presumed. He was promptly struck on the face, and threatened with a "beating up" should he mention the incident in the paper.

Reporter Retaliates

"The "crack" on the face met have "stung", for the reporter gave the occurrence much prominence on the Front page of Monday's issue of the Guide.

Incidentally he is a no mean Sherlock either. He gives the number of the car and the name of the man who supplied the team of horses, and expresses his regret at being unable to secure the names of the motorists. He further states that it is understood and agreed that the police of Cobourg will not interfere, because, of the social standing of those concerned, and the Port Hope police, from the delicate sense of etiquette, hesitate to enforce the law fearing interference with the prerogative of the Cobourg force:

Guide States Case.

The Guide adds: "If this is the case what is to hinder action by the Provincial Police or Speed Officer? The Highway Traffic Act—Section 46, "No intoxicated person shall drive a motor vehicle"—brief but to the point. Penalty, suspension of motor license for owner; for driver—fine from $10.00 to $20.00.

Aside from breaking the law above referred to there is also the Ontario Temperance Act.

A car driven by an intoxicated person will smash another or kill a pedestrian—just as dead as through a real accident occured. The public have a right to protection.

LARGE CROWD AT HIGHLAND DANCE

Pipers in Uniform Play for Scottish Dancers at Annual Assembly

The Highland Pipe Band Assembly held at Johnston's Dancing Academy last evening was a signal success there being a very large crowd present.

It was a gala night for the world and daughters of Scotia, for the Grand March was led by Pipe Major Johnston of the Highland Pipe band in full uniform. This was the official opening for the dancing which commenced at eight sharp and ended at one a.m.

During the evening, excellent exhibitions were given by pupils of Professor Albert Johnstone and Mr. Shakespeare, Professor Johnstone playing the accompaniment on the bagpipes. The children were in the Highland costume also, which added much to the finish of the dancing. Music, at numbers was also given by the pipe and drum band, during the evening.

The music for dancing was supplied by the Ben Tea orchestra and band were served during the evening.

LABOR LINKED OVER BORDER, BOND MUTUAL

A. F. of L. Executive Stresses Cordial Relationship

ANSWERS CRITICISMS

Quotes Figures to Refute Charges of "Fleecing" Canadian Workers

Montreal, May 13—The following statement was issued on behalf of the executive of the American Federation of Labor, now in session here:

"Expression was given by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor to the most cordial and co-operative relationship which exists and has existed for many years between the organized wage-earners of the United States and Canada.

"This manifestation of mutuality of interests and harmony of action was demonstrated in the arrangement for a meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and the executive council of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, on Monday afternoon, May 12.

Meeting Important

"This meeting of the executive and administrative bodies of these organized labor forces of Canada and the United States is considered of the utmost importance. Attention will be given to all matters affecting the well-being of those whose noble quest is the destruction of the existing social order and the building of a new order on the ruins of the present evil system.

"It is well known that these forces have been so closely at work in the trade unions to sape their position to mould the sentiment of a class against the selves. Their efforts have been so well directed, however, that the trade union movement in the United States is considered the big Union' idea and the deliberate overthrow of the trade union form of labor in their constructive and progressive leadership have opposed these destructive objectives in all their varying forms and characters.

"Fleecing" Charged

"One of these forms of criticism which has also found expression by some of the trade union movement is in the alleged charge that the Canadian Labor movement is being 'fleeced' through its affiliation with the American Labor movement; that annually money is sent out of Canada and little is returned. The executive council took occasion to dispel this misconception, to unmask those who would continue to deal in such boods and nonsense.

"For the past year the records of nearly all international unions, as given out by the American Federation of Labor, disclose that the annual contributions of the Canadian trade unionists to the American Labor movement amount approximately $600,000 and that the Canadian trade union movement receives in return annually approximately $600,000, of which approximately $200,000 takes the form of benefit and $250,000 for relief to the unemployed and miscellaneous.

"In other words, the money sent by or the Canadian trade unions is returned to them in the form of direct payment of benefits to the Canadian trade unionists. In addition, the American Labor movement contributes annually approximately $100,000 over and above assistance paid to organizers and officers of the Canadian trade unions.

"When you're talking to some people you want to listen to only what they don't say.

SERIOUS SPILL NEAR PETERBORO

Port Hope, May 13—Wm. Morton, Jr., son of Wm. Morton, proprietor of an Omemee hotel, enroute to Peterboro, Sunday morning to meet his brother returning from a dentaner, met with a serious accident. He was accompanied by Albert Marsh.

The car was traveling at a fair rate of speed when the fiery steed, gravel near Fowler's corners and overturned, going over twice. Albert Marsh escaped with a broken collar bone, but young Morton was very seriously injured and it is feared he will not live. His injuries were so severe he could not be moved from the garage man's house at Fowler's corners where he was taken immediately following the accident. The car was badly wrecked.

THOUGHT BLIND; REGAINS SIGHT

Miracle of Modern Surgery Restores Vision to Patient

New York, May 13.—"The blind man is a prisoner, a slave."

"He is afraid to move. His fears he might get in someone's way.

"Slight gives one the greatest stress gift in the world.

"Now that I can see again I could go out and move stone walls with my strength.

"When I thought I was going to be blind I used to break out into a terrible perspiration and jump up from my bed every few minutes. I couldn't control myself.

"I prayed as I never prayed before. I think prayer helped my operation."

Victor Atwell, blind for six weeks, sees again.

He r'ce lost his sight for a while but now he was the value of it as no one else can who has not suffered similarly.

Atwell, 27 years of age, is a mechanical draftsman. His mother died a month ago from pneumonia. She was his good sight. So does his exacting profession.

Doctors in the Long Island College Hospital have admitted their amazement over Atwell's almost miraculous recovery of his sight. The spirit prove, due to prayer, as his friends had been nearly destroyed. Atwell says for a time he could not leave his eyes up or down, or from left to right. After an operation on his nose, by which a bone obstruction was removed he found that he could turn his head about shortly afterwards his sight began to return. It is still far from perfect, however.

"I cannot differentiate the features in people's faces. I see them as a whole and can see colors.

Day by day Atwell's sight improves. By next month Dr. Belsh's's patient will be able to read, he expects.

"I feel as if I had been born all over again," Atwell says, a smile flash across his tense face.

"Isn't it wonderful?"

Local Girls On Graduating List

Arrangements are nearly completed for the graduation ceremony for the nurses of the Kingston General Hospital on Friday evening next. It will be held at Grant Hall. Amongst the fourteen nurses graduating nurses' name of Miss Mabel Woodley, Belleville, a daughter of Mr. George L. Woodley. Miss Hazel Hall of Consecon is also graduating. In the list of prize winners for various subjects appears the name of Miss Myrtle Patterson of this city. Chemistry was the subject for which she secured a prize.

17 KILLED IN GERMAN RIOT

Order Restored After 420 Arrests; Monarchists Parade on Track

Halle, Germany, May 13.—Fifteen German Communists and two police men were killed and more than 100 wounded in rioting which broke out here Sunday in connection with the unveiling of a statue of Field Marshal von Moltke. The rioting raged all night and yesterday.

Today finally restored order today after making 420 arrests.

Fifty-two communists are in the hospital in serious condition. The actual number of Communist wounded cannot be ascertained, as many of them were carried away by friends and treated at their homes.

Monarchists March

Seventy thousand monarchist supporters marched in review before General Ludendorff, Prince Eitel, nephew of the former Kaiser, and other royalists at the Halli race-track.

Scores Hurt on Train

Scores were wounded in a battle between Nationalists and Communists on board a train from Halle to Berlin. Police boarded the train and locked up 85 of the Communists in special compartments.

The combatants were returning from the ceremonies attending the unveiling of the monument to the memory of former Field Marshal von Moltke.

Counter on "Murders"

Berlin, May 13.—Communists today made plans for a nation-wide demonstration against the "Halle murders."

Republican newspapers bitterly assail the Government, claiming it was responsible for the Halle bloodshed. The newspapers accused the government of favoring the Monarchist demonstration at Halle when the monument to Field Marshal Von Moltke was unveiled.

It is estimated that 50,000 Communists from all parts of Germany attempted to penetrate the police guard surrounding Halle. Hundreds of Communists barred from trains walked all night to reach Halle.

ASK SHAREHOLDERS TO PAY UP STEEL

New Company to Take Over Affairs From U.S. Receivers

Toronto, May 13.—C. H. Mackenzie, secretary of the Shareholders' Protective Committee of the L. E. Steel Corporation, has called a meeting of the delinquent shareholders in the Oddfellows' Hall on Eatham street for Thursday afternoon.

Those who still have money on their stock subscriptions will be invited to pay up on a 50 per cent basis of what they owe on their stock.

When this has been done they will be privileged to put up 10 per cent of par value of their holdings in order to participate as shareholders in the new company, which is in process of formation for the purpose of taking over the assets and securities in the hands of the American receivers to-day, and preparatory to taking the same course with the Canadian assets within a few days.

PASTOR'S WIFE IS PREACHER'S SERMON

Toronto, May 13.—The pastor's wife in the pulpit of Bloor Avenue Presbyterian Church featured the special services Sunday in honor of Mother's Day, at which the church was crowded both morning and evening. In the morning Rev. R. J. Wallace Christie conducted the service, assisted by T. A. MacDonald and Thos. Brennan, president of the Young People's Society. The sermon was preached by Mrs. D. Wallace Christie, who took as her second fanc'ial address on "Mothers and Others"

U.E.L. ROUTINE TO BE PLANNED

Meeting of All Committees In Celebration Called For To-night

A meeting of the various committees in connection with the U. E. L. celebration will be held to-night in the Chamber of Commerce building. Whilst there are yet considerable routine business to be transacted, all committees are working hard for the success of the event, which will no doubt be one of the largest and most interesting ever held in the city.

The afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. building the ladies of the various church organizations met to render plans for the providing of meals for the visitors.

'CHURCH UNION' AT LOCAL CLUB

Fine Spirit of Co-operation Shown at Weekly Luncheon of Kiwanis Club

Kiwanians to-day were given a splendid treat by Father Handly, at present conducting mission services at St. Michael's Church. Whilst speaking on no particular subject Father Handly's humorous stories and witticisms "went over big" with his hearers, and Kiwanian (Dr.) Mabott, M.P., voiced the sentiments of the rest of the club for his remarks.

A fine spirit of co-operation was evident throughout the luncheon on the part of visitors and members. Father Magrave drew particular attention to the fact. Seated at the head table were Father Handly, Father Handly, Dr. F. E. Mabott M.P. for Monroe and Rotarian Chalk Dolan. Some of the visitors remark ed that it certainly looked like "Church Union".

Arrangements have been complet ed for the first Charter Night of the local club on Thursday, when over a hundred visitors from other clubs in the province are expected to attend. A special programme has been arranged and one hundred per cent. attendance is expected.

It was reported by Kiwanian Eddie O'Flynn that the boy being put through business college is making remarkable progress and is an unusually apt pupil.

Dr. Haffner obliged with a solo, rendered in his own inimitable manner, and proved one of the many hidden talents of the club. Kiwanian Kwartette again rendered their favorite "Sweet Adeline (Harmony in Tennessee") which was partcularly appreciated by Father Handly hailing from that Southern state.

SUFFERS MINOR INJURIES

LONDON TO BE SAFE AGAINST AIR ASSAULTS

Empire's Metropolis Defence Tightened to Last Degree

"BRAIN" IN ONE ROOM

Control Centre Will Keep Planes and Batteries Close in Touch

London, May 13—Marvellously complicated plans have been prepared by the British Air Ministry for the defence of London against attack from the air. Guns, searchlights, aerial obstruction, airplanes will all cooperate against the attacker. But the actual "control" the "brain" of the defense will all centre in one tiny room just outside London.

This will contain warning of the approach of the invaders, electrically lighted maps will show the exact location and from here will be wirless sent the word for the massed attack upon him.

Will Help Airplanes

It is now a settled policy of the British Air Ministry that ground defences for themselves will help and assist the attacking airplanes of ar'ship. But it is still held that these defences, when scientifically directed, can be of the utmost service to the airplanes which are defending by the method of attacking first.

Consequently Britain's plan of air defence is divided into two sections, fighting in itself but functioning as a unit. The basic idea is that the ground defence for the protection of the air fired ground level up to about 15,000 feet. Above that the defence of the air under the airplanes take charge.

Ring of Steel Erected

The lower level will be under the control of the ground forces. Time, hour or space will be so barraged, netted, "zoned" and electrified by secret devices that it will be a practical impossibility for an enemy airplane to sail through. And those obstruction will be placed at a height regarded as practically impossible during the ai'ship war.

Beneath the ground barriers, the still three shells, not only far higher than any have been deemed possible but also suitable for far greater weight of their rate of discharge and the facility with which the gunner can handle any large number of shells and with an enormous superiority over those used against the German invaders.

Three Miles Barrage

One new anti-aircraft gun possessed by the British will fire a high explosive shell of more than fifty pounds to a height of just over three feet. An other gun will maintain a barrage by a bursting shell three miles above the city at the rate of 100 shells a minute. But the newest invention in the defence will take the form of sound detecting instrument for locating airplanes at great distances. These machines will print automatically, on a moving strip of paper, a description of the sound waves emitted by an enemy machine miles away. The construction of these instruments is one of the most jealously guarded secrets of the British Government.

Connected electrically with the strip will be a large operating dial-mimic map of the London defences, covered by numerous tiny electric bulbs. When the sound-detecting machines locate the raiders the electric bulbs will

3 BROKERS ARE OUT ON HEAVY BAIL

Amelius Jarvis, Sr., Amelius Jarvis, Jr., and Harry G. Pepall Taken Into Custody and Charged With Conspiracy

Toronto, May 13.—Amelius Jarvis, Sr., President; Amelius Jarvis, Jr., Vice President, and Harry G. Pepall, General Manager, of Amelius Jarvis & Company, bankers and brokers, 293 Bay St., were taken into custody yesterday afternoon and charged with conspiracy. All three were escorted to Police Headquarters in the City Hall, where arrangements for bail were completed.

The charge reads that they "did unlawfully conspire together with one another, A. E. Pepall, Peter Smith and other persons unknown, by deceit or falsehood or other fraudulent means, to defraud the public or the Province of the King in the right of the Province of Ontario, or any public money."

Bail of $50,000 was demanded for Amelius Jarvis, Sr., which was provided by Alfred Rogers. Similar bail was asked for Harry G. Pepall, given by George T. Pepall and W. E. Pepall, bankers, and Robert B. Hamilton, brother-in-law; and $25,000 was asked for Amelius Jarvis, Jr., provided by Col. Walter Gow.

It was shortly after 4 o'clock when Detective Sergeants Dawn and Greenwood arrived at the Jarvis building with the warrant for the arrest of the officials of the Jarvis company. Just after the officers entered the Jarvis office H. J. Greer, K.C., arrived, closely followed by Alfred Rogers. Then Mr. Greer and Rogers went together to the City Hall, while Messrs. Jarvis and Harry G. Pepall drove up with the two officers.

While the bail arrangements were being completed by J. C. McIvor for the Crown, Mr. Greer, K.C., for his father and son and Harry G. Pepall, and Mr. Dan Detective Department. It took about an hour to arrange the matter of bail.

Decline to Discuss Case

The accused were declined to discuss their arrest or the new developments in connection with the Ontario government bond sale disclosures.

With those arrests H. H. Dewart, K.C., counsel for Hon. Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer, gets the matter to his satisfaction. Formal information made in the Police Court last Wednesday charging the former Provincial Treasurer was further remanded until tomorrow.

POWER RIGHTS

Ontario interests in the field of electric power development are threatened from within the country as well as from outside. While Sir Adam Beck keeps one eye on the unauthorized diversion of lake water at Chicago, he does not lose sight of the attempts being made at Ottawa to establish a private monopoly in the water-powers of the St. Lawrence, Ottawa, Niagara and St. Mary's Rivers.

Speaking at Kingston on Friday night, Sir Adam protested vigorously against the application of the Confederation Power Company's application to the Dominion Parliament for incorporation, and expressed the hope that enterprise will be "killed so dead that it will never be heard of again." He can hardly be blamed for wishing it ill, for the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission has planned extensive development works in the Ottawa and St. Lawrence, with which the operations of the private company would be sure to clash. Indeed, either the public commission or the private company would have to give way. That the former would yield to private interests is not conceivable. Sir Adam is not of the yielding kind.

Should it come to a conflict of federal with provincial authority in this matter, it is certain that the Hydro-Electric Commission will be backed to the limit by the present Ontario Government. Attorney-General Nickle, following Sir Adam at Kingston, pointed out that while naval station matters are under Dominion control, the control of waters for the development of power is a matter of provincial jurisdiction. "There must be no opposition to the provincial claims," said Mr. Nickle; "the development of electrical energy must proceed to meet this province's requirements."

This is the proper attitude. It is sure to be popular as well as proper. The people of Ontario will expect that it be maintained.

CONSCRIPTING WEALTH

It is generally conceded that in time of national danger the national government is, and should be, clothed with the power to compel every able-bodied citizen to bear arms, submit to military discipline, and, if need be, to fight the enemy. It also has the right to appropriate wealth and utilize it in the public service.

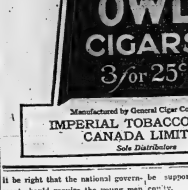

Conscription of man-power in time of war is the settled policy of most nations. Our government resorted to it reluctantly towards the close of the great war only because the system of voluntary service had failed to secure the man-power needed at the front. It will be remembered that a favorite cry of those opposed to conscription at that time was, "Why not conscript wealth?" Conscription of men, it was illogical but the conscription of wealth might be consistently favored by those who are in favor of the conscription of man-power in time of national peril.

It would not have been wise to resort suddenly to the conscription of wealth six years ago, because it is a thing which requires careful preparation in order to avoid economic disaster. But the principle is just. If it be right that the national government should require the young men of the country to go forth and fight, it cannot be wrong for it to exercise its right to call upon men of wealth to make financial sacrifices in the national cause. Property is not more sacred than life; and when the nation's young manhood is called upon to risk life, surely it is just that the owners of property should be called upon to make sacrifices in the common cause.

Nothing has caused more post-war bitterness than the fact that while the soldiers were suffering and dying abroad or coming home maimed or disabled for life, many of those for whom they fought were making fortunes out of the war. The sacrifices should be fairly distributed. "From each according to his ability" is a good motto in warfare as well as in taxation.

If there is to be conscription of wealth in time of war, it should be a matter of national policy agreed to in time of peace. Then the people would know just what to expect, and the policy would be enforced without danger of disaffection.

Public attention has been drawn to this question by a recent speech in parliament by J. T. Shaw, of West Calgary, who spoke strongly in favor of "a universal draft law that will mobilize not only men but wealth, so that "in time of the nation's peril every fit man and woman will know that back of him or her in the effort to preserve the country is placed all the available wealth, every resource and every activity of the country." Mr. Shaw advocated this method because it would, in his opinion, "effectively discourage war." It can also be supported on the ground of equity.

WORTHY OF EMULATION

In memory of the men of Algonquin who gave their lives during the Great War, the Rotary Club of Sault Ste. Marie has just finished planting 150 more trees on a trunk road near the city. This is in addition to work done last year, when the memorial road was started. It is the idea that other municipalities will carry on the work, and that some day the "Road of Remembrance" will stretch from the Soo to Toronto.

This is a good thought in more ways than one. Planting trees in a country that is rapidly being denuded of its forest resources is supremely important, and this is one more fitting tribute to the memory of our hero dead. The idea worthy of emulation here in Wentworth County, where there are many miles of road that would be better for shade trees.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Time to turn the tap off.

Bands of female bandits are active in China. No doubt they make their husbands stay at home and do the washing.

Dr. Frank Crane complains of the ugliness of trousers; but he might be induced to admit that effects are always greater ugliness than their own.

The Ottawa Journal bewails the decay of real oratory in the House of Commons. It must admit, however, that what parliamentary oratory at Ottawa lacks in quality is made up in quantity.

A HARD BLOW FOR CANADA

(Ottawa Canadian Observer)

Decision by the British government to withdraw the tariff preference for the Dominion is a stiff blow to Canadians. Canada has made many sacrifices to maintain close contact with Great Britain. Many of such sacrifice is vain if it forever means that this country get nothing in return. Never before in the history of the world did the channels of commerce mean so much in international relations as they do to-day because every country is planning every muscle to secure trade. But the action of the British government establishes a situation where Canada means no more to it than does Argentine or Germany. That being the case there is nothing for this country to do but to look elsewhere for business. In that connection it becomes more than ever apparent that a better understanding with the countries of the American continent is the destiny which this country must encourage.

SUPER-RADIO, THE PROBABLE BROADCASTING SYSTEM OF THE FUTURE

Guy E. Tripp, Chairman of Board of Directors, Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.

After about four years of experimentation, radio broadcasting appears to have started upon a definite line of development. Of course, with so new and rapidly changing an art, it is difficult to be certain as to what may happen even in the near future; but granting that no revolutionary inventions are immediately ahead of us the course that radio is destined to follow seems fairly clear.

Curiously enough, there is a close parallel between the tendencies in both the electrical and the radio fields. We are now practically assured that electrical development will result in Super-Power where a relatively small number of large steam and water-power stations will serve large areas of the country at the most economical and satisfactory manner. Similarly with radio, present conditions favor the formation of a Super-Radio system where a few powerful stations of the highest type, located in the centers of art, entertainment and education, will form the foundation of our national (or, rather, of an international) radio service. There is, however, this difference between Super-Power and Super-Radio. With Super-Power, the duplication of services in any community is unnecessary and involves inefficiency, so that Super-Power is a true monopolistic in character. With radio, however, it is most desirable that every community is reached by several distinct and different services because numbers of programs cannot be standardized. A monopoly in the radio broadcasting field would, therefore, be contrary to public interest.

Radio is no longer a fad but a fact. As an industry it has doffed its swaddling clothes over night, as it were. In the short space of three years over 2,000 manufacturers of radio supplies have risen throughout the country. Over a quarter of a million people directly or indirectly are connected with the production, distribution and sale of radio products. A library of over 250 books has been written on the subject, and more than 30 radio magazines are now published. It is estimated that over $150,000,000 was spent by the people of the United States for radio products last year, that this figure will be greater this year, and there are signs that radio soon will become a half billion dollar industry.

PRESS OPINIONS

WISHED UPON HIM

(Boston Globe)

(King Alphonso told the Paris Figaro that only a sense of duty kept him sitting on the throne.) The kingship is indeed a dreary pastime nowadays, unrelieved as both by those who wear the uneasy crown and by those who feel the bills of those who wear the uneasy crown. Political development among the masses of our Western civilization and growth of consciousness about their own rights and needs have been sloughing off the divinity which hedged round the Kings of yesteryear. The dignity of being a King in his position has become somewhat archaic as the patience of the people (which is the cornerstone of government) has diminished in loyalty toward regal pomps and outward ceremonies.

THE WHIRLIGIG OF TIME

(The Blue Bell)

In a recent issue of a Toronto financial journal, carrying an interesting sketch of the President's career, appeared also our announcement of the five-hundred-thousandth installation in the territory we serve. The two stories, strung in the contrasts they presented, provoked some interesting reflections!

The President as a young man had been directed by his chief, a prominent telegraph executive, to proceed to the waste basket a request from Alex. Bell that he be allowed to use telegraph lines to test his primitive telephone instrument. That same young man, now grown gray in the service, presides over a Company with half-a-million telephones in operation, and an investment of well on to ninety millions. He has lived to see the toy of less than forty years ago become the right arm of business and social intercourse, carrying millions of messages every day. And, most gratifying of all, in the triumphs of the wonder-working telephone the President has himself played no inconspicuous part.

"The whirligig of time brings in its revenges."

U.S. Congress At War With White House

Carries Its Program On to Completion Despite Vetoes

Washington, May 13.—At war with the White House over legislation defeating national finances, Congress drafted battle plans today for the enactment into law of its own fiscal policies despite administration opposition or Presidential veto.

Three great fiscal measures—the farmum pension bill, the world war bonus and the new tax reduction program—were on route to the statute books, in the face of White House disapproval, according to all indications, because of a rebellious Congress.

Revolt Spreading

The first test is due today or tomorrow in the Senate on a reconsideration of the bonus bill, which the President vetoed. His advocates, including some administration Senators, predicted its passage by the two-thirds majority required to override the President. Similar action by the House was conceded if the Senate fight prove successful.

Re-enactment of the Borsum bill, it was contended, would indicate the President had lost all control over financial legislation.

Taxes in Conference

The new tax bill, into which the Senate wrote the Democratic rates, meanwhile, was to be taken up in conference for adjustment of schedules which differed from the Longworth plan, passed by the House. The conference, it was said, will be forced to adopt either the Simmons or Longworth schedules as normal and surtaxes, as a compromise would be impractical.

The Simmons surtaxes range up to 40 per cent while the House tax stops at 37½ per cent.

SHAW URGES MOVE FOR CENTRAL BANK

Would Hand Functions of Re-Discount on From Finance Minister

Ottawa, May 13.—The establishment of a central bank is to be proposed in a resolution to come before the banking and commerce committee of the House of Commons tomorrow.

The resolution, of which notice has been given by J. T. Shaw, Independent member for Calgary West, proposes to transfer to this bank the functions of re-discount being carried on by the Minister of Finance under the Finance Act. It has also been suggested that the central bank might have charge of a system of bank inspection.

Another phase of the banking problem to come before the committee is the proposal of L. J. Lidner, Conservative, South Vancouver, for the guarantee of savings deposits. Mr. Lidner urges the establishment of a special class of savings accounts, deposits in which would be guaranteed.

EXTRACT STORY OF LEMON EXTRACT

Business, Mixed With Flavoring Extract and Pleasure, Has Unpleasant Culmination

H. Freeman Ketcheson, J.P. and Police Court Clerk John Freeman, J.P., sat on the Bench at police court this morning in the absence of Police Magistrate Masson, the only cases being two O.T.A. cases in which the evidence was heard. Both were adjourned until to-morrow morning at 10 when each accused will pay $11 and costs of $9, having been found guilty on a charge of being intoxicated in a public place.

Varied as T. A. seems are, today's narration proved to be different. The two men were found by two police officers on East College street early on Sunday morning last attempting to start the motor truck, owned by one of them. The lights had gone out, and the truck slid into the ditch.

Today both accused men told of their condition resulting from having consumed two small bottles of lemon extract mixed with cider.

"It is awful stuff," admitted one, "it will drive you crazy." It is an extract for flavoring cakes, but a few drops are all that the cake requires. Two bottles taken at one time causes most men to "cut themselves a piece of cake."

The "stuff" was purchased at a grocery store Saturday afternoon, according to the story, but the "endurance test" did not commence until after the stores had closed, and the late deliveries were being made. The two men made several deliveries over the city, before the truck skidded.

There was a lingering suspicion in the minds of Crown Attorney Donnan and Chief Kidd that the pair had made a delivery at a Stoney Lonesome home where they were treated to something which is in greater demand these days than extract of lemon. This was emphatically denied by both accused men, who threw all blame on the extract.

Neither man had ever been in court before, and, after hearing their O.T.A. to "thank" for to-day's appearance.

BOOST TO REVENUE

And it Won't Raise Taxes Says Windsor Man, of Plan For Council

Windsor, May 12.—The City Council tonight will deal with a request made by John Gillard, Sandwich street west, to show the Finance Committee how it may add from $100,000 to $200,000 more to the city's revenue, providing an adequate percentage of the increased revenue be paid to the originator of the scheme.

When asked by members of the committee what he planned to do, Elliott said that he would not reveal details of his proposition until he is assured he will be remunerated if the plan is acted upon.

"It is something that was never tried before, and it will not raise any one's taxes a cent," he declared as he left the City Hall Saturday.

Many Citizens Protest Dogs

Col. L. W. Marsh recently commenced a crusade against mischievous dogs, and since that time, other citizens have complained of the destructive actions of roaming canines. Flower beds at Col. Marsh's and at the corner have been torn up by them, as well as the carefully tended flower beds from the home of Col. S. S. Lazier. Others have complained not only of the destructive tendencies of the canine colony, but the incessant night howling. Some of them are evidently howlers as well as prowlers.

Complaints of dogs being so bold as to ramp on verandahs and pound fellow boozes waiting for the first opportunity to enter—sometimes in search of food,—have been received at this office.

In conversation with Col. Marsh early this afternoon, he stated that the dog nuisance had started somewhat about his premises, dissatisfaction owing to the fact that he has been "trapping" them with light charges from a rifle, which were to scare the dogs away without doing them permanent injury.

The situation seems to be the result of three causing conditions. Incivility of the dog owner to train or discipline his dog, the unsociable nature of some dogs, and the carelessness of some dog owners.

In the first instance the dog owner allows his dog to roam at will from his puppy days, with the same results which would ensue should he allow his children to do likewise. They become unmanageable. Then they are things about who will not remain home despite the best care and training. They form the "Prodigal Son" colony, which in time kingdom, are better dead than alive. Careless owners are the other handicap. Often less a dog "cold" when they move, or go on a vacation, with the result that "Huver" must pound for a living.

Among the desirable dogs (and there are many animal owners fainted or desirable than a good dog) are those of which there are many concrete examples in this city. There is the wise Ranger, fitted with collar and tag who accompanies the children to school, remains on the school grounds until the children leave for school, and then follows them straight home. There is the dog, who though given freedom, does not desire to leave the premises, and if he feels inclined, advises absolutely by "his actions" rather than by tells how to "go home". Then there is the dog who, though following his master in the street, is under complete control of his master at all times, and is no trouble to anyone.

Col. Marsh still believes there is much room for improvement in the situation, and states that he has complained many times by others who "suffer in silence" for taking up the cudgels against "bad dogs".

Trenton Mourns Well-known Man

The death occurred in Trenton yesterday afternoon of a well-known citizen of that town in the person of Harry Tripp. Mr. Tripp, who has been ailing since last November was an active partner in the firm of Tripp Bros., Wholesale and Retail Tobacconists. Deceased was in his 61st year and had resided in Trenton all his life. Besides his wife he leaves to mourn his loss two sons, Mr. Ivan Tripp, and two brothers, Mark and Stanley, both of Trenton.

Mr. Tripp was well-known in this city where he had a host of friends who will regret to learn of his untimely death.

COTTON NAPOLEON

London—Sir William Hopwood, activist whom a recently-ended boom has been made, has for years past, it is said, been a notable figure in Lancashire; during the boom that followed the armistice he was known as the Napoleon of cotton finance. One after another spinning mills fell into his hands and their shares jumped so much that many fortunes were made. In 1919 he bought fifty mills; by the end of 1920 his deals totalled £30,000,000. His various acquisitions were said to have cost him £50,000 by the end of 1920; in the following year he was knighted.

Then he made a tour of Europe, visiting Monte Carlo among other places. On being told that evening dress was compulsory in the gaming rooms, Sir William replied, "If they say out to me as to what I mean to I'll buy the place and refloat it."

Europe Is Buying More of Canada's Products To-day

Trade Figures Reveal Better Sales to the Continent

Montreal.—Canada trades with most of the countries of the world and does a sizeable business with most of them. Nevertheless, our trade with Great Britain and the United States is so overwhelming that commerce with other nations seems insignificant by comparison. Of our total imports, for example, which amounted in the twelve months to March 31, 1924, to $983,000,000, no less than $691,000,000 or more than two-thirds came from the United States and $153,000,000 from the United Kingdom, the total proportion from both countries being about 85 per cent. This leaves only about one-seventh or one sixth imports to be divided among all the other countries on the face of the globe.

Similarly with our exports. We sold $1,045,000,000 of goods abroad in 1923-1924. Of these we sold $421,000,000 to the United States and $369,000,000 to the United Kingdom, or between the two countries nearly 80 per cent. of our total exports.

Next to the U.S. and the U.K., Japan was Canada's best customer in 1923-1924, taking roughly $27,000,000 of goods, largely representing manufactured goods but including also a good deal of wheat and lumber. Japan was naturally an abnormal purchaser of foreign goods in the last twelve months, and it was not surprising that Canada's exports to that country should almost double.

Next to Japan, Australia ranked as an important buyer of Canadian products, taking $20,000,000 of goods, of which later records will probably show about 25 per cent. to be from the products of Canadian factories—automobiles, electrical goods, paper, etc. From Australia we bought only $1,000,000 of goods.

An interesting feature at the year's trade return is the evidence provided of Europe's growing interest in Canada's products. The figures indicate how greatly Canada stands to benefit from any further stability of conditions in Europe that can be arranged. To Germany Canada sold $16,000,000 of goods, nearly twice the 1923 figures for the previous year. To Italy we sold $12,500,000 of goods, a 50 per cent increase over the previous year. To Belgium we sold $17,500,000 of goods, also a 50 per cent increase. From these $100,000,000 of Canada's products, showing healthy increases, probably the largest part of the increase has come in cereals and products of the flour mills.

All Ready On Two Nations' Water Probe

Canada and U. S. Line Up Board Members For Inquiry

TWO MAIN QUESTIONS

Can It Be Done, and Will Cost Figures Stand? Are Issues up to Experts

Washington.—By agreement between the American and Canadian Governments correspondence between Secretary Hughes and Mr. E. Howard, British Ambassador at Washington, has been given out for simultaneous publication in this country and Canada, with reference to the proposal for joint action between the two countries for the improvement of the St. Lawrence River between Montreal and Lake Ontario for navigation and the development of water power.

A communication from Secretary Hughes, under the date of April 30, and the reply of the British Ambassador under Tuesday's date, designate the six members of the enlarged Joint Engineering Board and disclose the agreement reached concerning the instructions under which these are to act.

Two Main Questions

The board will consider two fundamental questions: Whether the scheme for improving the St. Lawrence is practicable and whether estimates for the cost of the project require revision. The American Government also agrees to the Canadian Government's suggestion that the enlarged board be directed to inquire into the extent to which the water levels in the St. Lawrence at and below Montreal as well as the waters of the lands generally, would be affected by the execution of the Chicago waterways project.

The note from Secretary Hughes to the British Ambassador follows in part the language in an order of United, 12, 1924, you informed me further in regard to the views of the United States Government with reference to the proposal for joint action by the United States and Canada for the improvement of the St. Lawrence River between Montreal and Lake Ontario for navigation and the development of the water power.

"In pursuance of the intention of this Government, as stated in my note of February 26, 1924, the President has appointed a national committee of three members, having as its chairman the Hon. Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, which will act as an advisory committee to this Government on all questions that may arise in the consideration of the project.

Ready For Joint Conferences

"While expecting that the Canadian Government does not desire that the committees for the two Governments shall meet in joint conferences, at the outset to prepare instructions for the enlarged joint engineering board and to consider the broader aspects of the project for the proposed development of the St. Lawrence waterway, this Government would be grateful if you would inform the Canadian Government that the National Committee for the United States will be prepared at all times to meet in conference with the Canadian committee in the event that circumstances should develop, which, in the view of the Canadian Government, would cause it to appear that joint conference by the two committees, or by representatives of the committees, might be desirable for the consideration of any questions arising in connection with the project.

BOOTLEGGERS SEEK PROTECTION RIGHT

Don't Make Volstead Law Any Wetter, Plea to Government Says

Washington.—Word has reached Congress that the "bootleggers' union" meeting in solemn convention May 1 at New York, unanimously adopted resolutions protesting against modification of the Volstead Act to legalize 2.75 per cent beer.

A petition forwarded to Representative Griffin, Democrat, New York, said that delegates from locals along the Atlantic Coast attended the meeting, and were convinced that "various ill-advised and misguided reformers have initiated a vicious propaganda to break down the drastic and wholesome provisions of the Volstead Act."

It has been the settled policy of the Government to encourage and protect infant industries, the petition said, adding that the bootlegging industry has shown sufficient evidences of vitality to fall within this category and consequently be entitled to the protection and support of the Government.

Mr. Griffin filed the petition with the House and it was referred to the judiciary committee which handles prohibition legislation.

ALASKA'S ESKIMOS WORTH 5 MILLIONS

Herds of Reindeer to be Moved Soon, to Broad Pass District

Cantwell, Alaska,—Thirty years ago the Eskimos of Alaska had nothing, but now they control nearly $5,000,000 worth of stock and property according to William T. Lopp, superintendent of the Alaska division of the United States Bureau of Education. He has been here inspecting reindeer herds, arriving in the plateau of Broad Pass.

Because of the encroachment of privately owned herds of reindeer on the Seward peninsula and Point Barrow section of the territory, it is planned eventually to remove the Eskimo herds to Broad Pass, with Cantwell as the directing base.

The first herd of 5,000 animals will be driven from the Seward peninsula to inland next fall, allowed to recuperate, and started again in time to cross the big river below the break up in Spring.

Careful With Fawns

"Particular care must be exercised" said Mr. Lopp, "in handling the reindeer fawns. Once the human hand touches a fawn, its mother disowns it, and must reason the Eskimo herders wear gauntlets reindeer-skin gloves and a reindeer-skin parka, and also spread reindeer skin in the sleds on which the little creatures are placed until the herd rounds up for the night and they can be delivered to their mothers."

Land Travel Or Barges

In bringing over the herds from the Point Barrow region it will be necessary to drive them to the Yukon river, there to load them on specially constructed barges on which they will be towed up the river to Nenana, where they will be shipped by the Alaska railroad to Cantwell.

It is estimated there is a strip 100 miles square in this vicinity suitable to reindeer grazing. With fall transportation at hand, those interested in the industry predict that some day before long reindeer meat will be as common as mutton in the markets of the states.

Montreal Out For Deepened Channel

Growing Needs of Port to be Cited in Campaign For Ship Route

Montreal May 12.—Public notice that the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal intend to bring pressure to bear on the Government to have the ship channel deepened in accordance with the growing needs of the port was given by Dr. W. L. McDougall, president of the Harbor Board, at a staff dinner here Saturday evening at which the guests of honor were Hon. E. M. Macdonald, Minister of National Defence.

The dinner was also the occasion of the bestowal by Hon. E. M. Macdonald on behalf of the British Admiralty of the reserve decoration of the Royal Naval Reserve on Lieut.-Commander J. P. Symons, harbor-master of Montreal.

Not Yet Satisfied

"I wish to serve notice upon the honorable minister (Mr. Cardin) that we are not satisfied with the present depth of the channel and that we propose to start a campaign to have it deepened," announced Dr. McDougall. "It seems to me a pity to allow a fleet of dredges to lie dormant at Sorel when they might be doing such good work." The harbor president said the present depth of water in the ship channel was becoming more and more inadequate by reason of the greater tonnage of vessels coming to the port and because of the diversion of water from the Great Lakes, which lowered the level here.

Your Silent Partner

A silent partner, with money, wishes to take a place in your organization but does not ask for voting power or any voice in control.

He will agree to 'team-up' with any valued official, or other person, ready to compensate in cash for the loss of this person to your firm through death.

This will maintain your credit and get you over the readjustment period when the shock comes. If you should estimate the loss at $35,000 and your official is age 42, the salary demanded by the 'silent partner' is only $1,000 a year,—to be reduced substantially year by year.

This story represents what the London Life Insurance Company can do for you under its new Jubilee Policy based upon half a century of experience.

As to the super air, a great airdrome equipped airliners will encircle London. To each of these will be attached squadrons of the latest type of steel-built fighting airplanes, all heavily armed. Some of these can accept 20,000 feet within eight minutes of leaving the ground.

Practice fights, under war conditions, take place frequently. Big bombers attack against the defence of the latest British single-center machines. Anti-aircraft guns and searchlights will operate as they would in actual war. And the air force believes that London is now the most scientifically defended, in fact the safest, city in the world.

It is fine to have a friend you can trust, especially if he doesn't ask you to trust him.

VESUVIUS IN ERUPTION FIRST TIME SCREENED

Vesuvius in eruption, the gates of a reservoir burst open by the on-rushing volume of burning lava, the inhabitants of the valley town, fleeing in terror from the twin horrors of fire and water.

How many times has this tragedy of nature been enacted in real life? Never before never actually enacted such scenes, until last spring, when Henry King and Lilian Gish set forth to Italy to film F. Marion Crawford's world-renowned novel, "The White Sister," the Inspiration picture released by Metro.

The eruption of Vesuvius is but the thrilling climax of "The White Sister," which is a powerful love story based on an eternal theme which will be shown at the Griffin Theatre tonight and Wednesday.

Carnation Milk

"From Contented Cows"

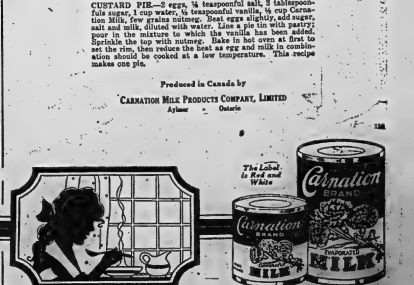

Aids Bake-Day

CARNATION Milk will come as a delightful surprise to any housewife who has never known its convenience and safety and richness. Always on hand—on your pantry shelf; always ready for use; none wasted because it keeps sweet for several days when opened. Sold by grocers everywhere at moderate prices.

Carnation Milk is just pure fresh milk, evaporated to double richness, kept safe by sterilization. Order several tall (16 oz.) cans or a case of 48 cans. Try this recipe and write for the free Carnation Recipe Book.

CUSTARD PIE—2 eggs, ¼ teaspoonful salt, 3 tablespoonfuls sugar, 1 cup water, ½ teaspoonful vanilla, ½ cup Carnation Milk, few grains nutmeg. Beat eggs slightly, add sugar, salt and milk, diluted with water. Line a pie tin with pastry; pour in the mixture to which the vanilla has been added. Sprinkle the top with nutmeg. Bake in hot oven at first to set the rim, then reduce the heat as egg and milk in combination should be cooked at a low temperature. This recipe makes one pie.

RAIN MARS PLAY ON TOOLE'S WHEEL

Reading Slated to Meet Leafs at Island To-day, to Open Series

Toronto, May 13.—Manager Abbott and his Reading Club arrived here yesterday morning still smarting over their 9 to 8 defeat at Buffalo Sunday when the Bisons scored six runs in the ninth to win out. The manager of the Keystones had kissed in his eye and nose twice was going to ask for and thus somebody was the Leafs. However, the rain, which was somewhat all over John Toole's circuit yesterday has probably cooled Abbott off a little bit and he may not be so hostile towards the Leafs' boss today when they take the field in the first game of a four-game series. The postponed game of yesterday will be played as part of a double-header to-morrow, with a single game on Thursday. To-day is Ladies' Day at the Island, the game commencing at 3.30 with Southpaw Walter Stewart doing the braving for the Leafs.

Colling Calls 'em For Jack Williams

Ken Colling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Colling, this week is now officiating as umpire in the New York-Pennsylvania baseball league, the league in which Jack Williams, former star port sider with the Belleville Grand Trunks is now pitching with the Binghampton club.

Ken, who is well known here, and who officiated very capably as umpire in the Central Ontario baseball league last season is doing well at his new duties according to advices received here today, having umpired his first game there on May 9th, at Almirya.

Players of this league are old time big leaguers and recruits in the making for the Major or International league and snappy ball is witnessed at every game.

Ken's many Belleville friends will regret that he is not performing for them at this league this season, but nevertheless will be glad to know that he is giving satisfaction in the U.S.A.

GIANT RUNS AMUCK

Longshoreman Raids Mass, Battles Priests, Seizes Collection

New York, May 13.—John Gorman, a 200-pound longshoreman, today is in the psychopathic ward of Bellevue Hospital after running amuck in St. Bernard's Roman Catholic Church, where he battled priests and police and frightened 1000 children to the street.

Rushing into the church where the children were attending mass, the giant-like worker seized the money baskets, tossed them about the room and began tearing at his face and clothes.

Fathers Joseph F. Smith and William Dugan drew themselves upon Gorman and overpowered the citizen in leave. Patrolman Panzelli rushed into the church, and, with the aid of the priests succeeded in slipping a chain about his wrists.

Gorman broke the arms and the chain snapped like twine. Reinforcements were called and finally the police finally bound the giant hand and foot, but not until several officers and the priests were stripped of their uniforms and undershirts.

Fletcher's King's Plater gallops Plate Distance in 1:59 3-5

Toronto, May 13.—When Mexican Pete, the J. C. Fletcher King's Plater stepped a mile in 1.45 and galloped out the mile and an eighth, the plate distance, in 1.59 3-5, the son of Peter Quince-Fine Art II, showed the fastest work of the season and what's more the conditions were not of the best, the track being slow. Breaking from the eighth pole, Mexican Pete stepped to the quarter in :25 1-5 and the half in :51. He was here ridden by Alconquin, the 5-4 being done in 1.17 3-5.

While from a time standpoint the trial of Isoletta was not quite as good as that of Mexican Pete, the master of a second yet the work was more impressive as the filly was fighting for her head and could have gone much faster. However, Trainer Brimo has never been much on speedy trials, before plate day, but this season he is giving his two charges Isoletta and Beau of the West more hard work than he gave Peaceful last year.

PEACE LEAGUE IS IN FAVOR OF NEW FRENCH PROPOSAL

European Sections of Women's International League Near-ly All in Favor of French Idea of New International Order

Washington—A French proposal for a new international order, as alternative, British suggestions to modify the Versailles treaty and the League of Nations, were discussed at yesterday's session of Women's International League for peace and freedom.

The French proposal, supported by most of the European sections of the League would constitute a world wide "league of peoples", representing the consumers and producers of all countries. The League would have legislative, executive and judicial powers, under which it could outlaw war and revise at treaties It would command no armed forces but rely on public opinion of the enforcement of its law.

Other Powers

The league also would be empowered to resolve the question of reparations and inter-allied debts, international curtencies, weights and measures, abolish all customs and tariffs and internationalize all sources of power and raw materials, giving every country, if possible, free access to these.

The British proposals call for revision of the Versailles Treaty regarding reparations and Germany's "burden of guilt" and the League of Nations to obtain fairer representation of all peoples.

DAWSON, YUKON, DOCK RUINED BY ICE FLOES

Dawson, May 13.—The vanguard sea of the big ice jam ran down the Yukon River Saturday and crashed into the docks, leaving tangled ruin. The huge floating Whilte Pass was opened by the force of the impact. Thousands of tons of twisting tower and lifting crane toppled over.

The ice sheets nearlie cut most of the piles from under the terminal station of the Klondyke Mine Railway and the building now hangs precariously in the air. The dock at the rear of the Bank of Commerce was also smashed but the bank was not damaged.

At Selkirk the big ice jam extends as far as the eye can see. The Stewart is open at Mayora.

CHEESE SOUFFLE

Melt 2 tbspns butter and add 2 tbspns flour stirring the mixture until it bubbles. Then add one cup cold milk gradually and cook until the ingredients have formed a smooth creamy mass. Now whip in the yolks of two well beaten eggs, then a cupful of grated cheese and a dash of cayenne with salt and pepper to taste Finally fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites, fill a buttered baking-dish or individual ramekins and bake in a moderate oven about 25 minutes. Serve immediately.

MEAN THING!

Nurse (to young doctor)—"Your practice is waiting, sir. Shall I show him in?"

By James W. Barton, M.D.

FALSE PLEURISY

As a student I remember distinctly a case where patient thought she had pleurisy.

She was a severe burning pain on the left side of the chest near the heart which seemed to get much worse if she took a long breath.

One physician came in and after listening carefully with his stocope and taking the temperature, declared that it was not pleurisy.

The patient was so annoyed that she dismissed him and called another.

His likewise diagnosed it as not being pleurisy. He was also dismissed.

The third physician was called and after he had carefully studied the symptoms and how it had been necessary to dismiss the two previous physicians, he proceeded to examine her.

Asking her to take a long breath and inquiring whether that increased the pain, the patient said that it did. Then he said, "It is pleurisy," he said.

He then asked her to cough and as she stated that coughing increased the pain he again said,

"That also is like pleurisy."

He said no more, applied the old fashioned mustard plaster, the patient was well in two or three days.

And he was considered a clever physician.

In recounting the case to a class of students later, he said, "Now this woman did not have pleurisy, but I didn't say she did have it. She has what is known as Pleurodynia or false pleurisy.

This is simply a painful affection of the muscles of the chest. It might be anywhere else in the body where there is muscle and that is practically everywhere.

It was useless to argue with her. She was in pain and knowing a little about pleurisy, she had her mind made that that pleurisy was her trouble.

My stethoscope revealed no "rubbing" as in pleurisy, and my thermometer showed no temperature.

Without being called upon to give a diagnosis, I proceeded to treat the case as you would treat a muscular pain anywhere that is by the application of heat. And so if you have a pain over the heart or in the chest that acts as did the pain mentioned above simply apply heat.

In true pleurisy absolute rest of the part is indicated and the patient warned not to cough if it all possible.

She bit her lip. With her nerves strained to their utmost tension, it was almost unendurable that she should have to listen to Dick Reeve's oft-repeated avowal.

"I wish you wouldn't," she said as calmly as she could. "I wish you'd give up this—this foolishness!"

His face darkened.

"It's no foolishness with me, Kate, and you know I can't give it up!" he responded, with suppressed fierceness. "I've always loved you, and I always shall to the end of my days. Look here, Kate, I've sworn to marry you, and I mean to, sooner or later. Better now in my estee—. There, there! I don't mean to threaten you. Let that go. Listen to me: I've given up the poachin' for good and all. I've got something else something ever so much better, something that will make a rich man of me —and I offer to share it with you. You don't like a little cloth your hands in your lap, and plenty to eat and drink, and no clothes to wear."

She regarded him with a dull surprise and distaste.

"What do you mean?" she asked. "Have you got some work, some place—"

His dark, bold eyes fell before her gaze, and he moved his feet uneasily as he replied:

"Work. Who's likely to give me a place? I've come into some money, Kate."

"Come in some money? Had it left to you?" she said. "It is very sudden, isn't it?"

He nodded with his eyes still downcast.

"Yes, it is. I didn't know it till last night—that is, this morning. It's a tidy sum, Kate, and"—he gave a mind, well to take a pullet. I've loved you, and I want to get out of the Vanecourt Arms, and we might take this; but it's past, as you please, my girl. You've only to say the word. I'm your slave Kate, you know, and I'll do anything you want."

She turned her cold, white face away from him.

"I'm glad you have had this money left you, Dick," she said; "but—but it doesn't make any difference; I shouldn't like you any the less money, but if he had millions."

His face flushed.

"You're hard on me, Kate!" he said, huskily. "I'll offer all I can to you, and you refuse me! There's many a girl in the village as 'ud jump at such a chance!"

"I daresay," said Kate, quietly. "And, oh, how I wish you'd ask them! What do you see in me that you should be so—so set on me? There's others prettier than I am—there's Polly Andrews, and Lottie Lane; they'd be only too glad to listen to you, Dick. Oh! if you'd only give it up and leave me alone!"

His face went white, and he swore under his breath.

"Don't you think that I don't try," he said. "I'm always trying; but I can't! I don't want Polly or Lottie; it's you I want, and, by the Lord, I mean to have you!"

She turned on him with sudden and equal fierceness, for that any one should dare to make love to her, whose heart was aching with love for Mr. Gordon, maddened her.

"And, by the Lord! you will not!" broke from between her set teeth. "I don't love you, and I never shall! Let me go, Dick Reeve!" for he had stepped between her and the door. "I won't listen to you any longer. I've given you my answer, and I will never speak to you again unless you promise not to say—what you've said just now."

He eyed her with that terrible passion, that mixture of desire and despair which sometimes overthrows men into deeds.

And I say you shall!" he responded, his eyes flashing. "I mean to have you all my own, by fair means or foul! and that's my last word."

Then let it be your last, word!" she retorted; and she walked by him, down the long path, and again to look round or speak.

The key was in the door, and she unlocked it and entered, looking round, with her hand pressed to her throbbing heart. Love can make the most common place sacred, and the poor little rooms were hallowed ground to poor Kate. Jack had ridled up as well as he could, but he had left various traces of his presence—an agricultural paper on the table, a forgotten pipe by on the narrow mantel-shelf. She touched the paper reverently, and took up the pipe and gazed at it almost enviously —for had not his lips touched it? But there was nothing indicative of the tragedy which she had imagined had been enacted in the woods.

She paused into the tiny bedroom. If the rest of the cottage was sacred, this was sacrosanct indeed! The sight of the narrow bed moved her beyond any words to describe. She fell on her knees beside it, and, throwing out her arms, laid her head on the pillow and sobbed it.

"I love you! I love you!" broke from her white lips. "I love you—and I shall never see you again! Oh, God help me! How shall I go on living day by day without sight of him?"

CHAPTER XXVII

Jack tramped through the moonlight as he hastened on his home—it was much lighter than his heart, for, as every step he took carried him farther from Esther, he realized how passionately he loved her.

Of course, nineteen men out of twenty would have resented Jack as one for turning his back not only on the girl he loved, but on Squire Towers and the estate that belonged to him; but in a simple truth, it never occurred to him that he could act otherwise than he was doing. He had not also counted the whole cost of his sacrifice when he left when he gave his promise to Esther's brother, it was unwise, and leaving at that time met and fallen in love with Esther, he had known the extent of his sacrifice; but he had surrendered his estate, and to go back and claim it because he loved the girl for whom he had resigned it, was not possible to one of Jack's nature.

Landladies Are Up Against It in This "Slick" Age It Appears

Winnipeg, Man.—Prof. LoGo, head of the psychology department of the University of Manitoba, thinks trust in "mankind instinct is thoroughly ingrained in human beings. Were properly controlled it is a beauty manifestation". Some have the tendency to attack more than others, as I apparently mentioned in looks among Canadian cities, judged by newspaper notices. In Halifax, with rents going down, even landlords who would not let to applicants with children "because they'd also so destructive," are now making no objection. Hitherto oven's baby of nine months was considered dangerous as a tenant. Landlords of apartments who "did not like entertaining on the part of their tenants; landladies who did not like boys' bicycles about, or smoking on the premises—all these have disappeared since there is an elastic and valued tenant to be approached.

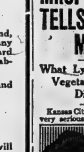

The landladies of boarding houses are often faced with real problems. In Toronto recently two young women took a room one Saturday night and departed Sunday night, after using the bath room all Sunday morning for the washing of their laundry. No deposit, in this case, has been paid, and this little adventure in "week-ending" must have been quite a soft snap for the two quiet and professional young women.

And in the city three "star boarders"—men—were left in charge of a house when the landlady had to go to the hospital. It is alleged in a complaint at the police station that the boarders, finding that the lady dwelling called in a second-hand dealer and asked him for his best estimate on a sewing machine, a dresser, a brass bed and a marmalade, which the landlady valued at $170; that they sold the deal and obtained $40 in cash.

MRS. LINDQUIST TELLS WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Kansas City, Mo.—"I was left in a very serious condition after childbirth and no one could tell me what to do to ever be any better. Then came the 'Change of Life' and I was not prepared for what I had to suffer. I had to go to bed at times to be perfectly quiet as I would faint on stoop down to pick anything from the floor. I did not suffer any pain, but I was decidedly nervous and could not sleep. For nearly two years I was this way, and the doctor could not seem to tell me that he could do no more for me. Shortly after this I happened to read in a newspaper an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a few days the medicine was in the house and I had begun to use and I took it regularly until I was well. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to others when I have the opportunity."—Mrs. May Ferguson, 3010 Independence Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

Professor Rifled Friend's Trunk

Toronto, May 13.—Mrs. Mary D. Bristol, wife of Hon. Edmund Bristol, and her nephew, August Bolte, appeared before Hon. William Finlayson, who is sitting as commissioner for the hearing of claims against Germany for reparations, and claimed $5,000 for personal effects lost when they had to make a hurried exit from Munich in 1914. Mrs. Bristol explained her nephew was studying German at Munich.

"He intended going into the diplomatic service, but, instead of that he went to war," said Mrs. Bristol.

Witness explained how she left her trunks in the home of her friend, the German professor. Personal effects valued at $2,000, including old lace worth $350, were thus lost.

Many efforts were made to find the professor before he was located. When he was found after much searching, in which Sir Henry Thornton assisted, it was learned that the trunks were not available. The professor explained he had given away the woollens from the moths, and the moths would not get them.

Mr. Dolle said the friendly professor had said that people were beginning to talk about "the professor's American trunks," and that he had to open them to satisfy the Germans that they really contained only personal effects.

That was two years ago. Now the professor is again missing.

BRITISH WIN FIRST

Triumph in Opening Match For Davis Cup; Kingsmite Beats Belgian

Torquay, England, May 12.—Great Britain triumphed in the opening contest of the 1924 competition for the Davis Cup, emblematic of the international tennis team supremacy, when A. R. F. Kingscote defeated George Watson of Belgium in the singles of the first round match between these countries. The scores were 7-5, 6-4, 6-1.

COUNTRY CLUB HOLDS LUNCHEON

The ladies of the Bay of Quinte Country Club held their first weekly luncheon on Monday May 12th. In spite of the inclement weather about thirty members were present. After luncheon Mrs. Moffat presented the 1923 prizes of which Miss Helen McKeown won two and Mrs. Jack Sills, Trenton, two.

Major Ponton spoke briefly on the question of transportation facilities for members not having cars. Mrs. Smith asked for flowers for the grounds. Mr. R. Graham presented the spirace.

It was decided to form two divisions of the Ladies' Club, the first for the old players, and the second for the beginners. Miss Helen McKeown is taking charge of the second division, assisted by Miss Helen Springer.

It was decided to hold luncheons each Monday at one o'clock. The following officers were elected for 1924—President, Mrs. G. J. Moffat, Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. E. D. O'Flynn; Entertainment Committee, Mrs. Geo. K. Graham, Mrs. Chas. Wilmot, Mrs. R. D. Ponton and Miss Ida Thompson; Handicapp Committee, Mrs. Dolan, Miss Mary Yeomans, Miss Ella McGinnis; Games, Mrs. Springer, Mrs. McKeown, Mrs. R. J. Graham and Mrs Gillen.

CHOLERA TAKES TOLL FROM MYSORE STATE

London, May 13.—The Daily Telegraph's Allahabad correspondent says the cholera epidemic which has been raging in several sections of India has broken out in the state of Mysore where there were 630 cases with 351 deaths last week.

The epidemic in Bihar where there have been 10,000 deaths since the beginning of the year is abating. In most of the districts where the cholera has been raging, including Champaran, Darb, Hanbo, Muzaffarpur, Shahabad and Saran, the situation is fairly well in hand, except in Champaran where the deaths number 300 daily.

Local Members At Trenton Meet

The Presbyterian W. M. Societies of Belleville will be well represented at the tenth annual meeting of the Kingston Presbyterial W. M. S., which will be held in St. Andrews Church, Trenton, tomorrow and Thursday. On Wednesday evening the first session will be held and on Thursday three sessions, morning, afternoon, and evening.

In addition to the routine business matters including reception of Presbyterial reports and election of officers the program will include "The Story of India in Song" by Prof. and Mrs. J. F. McFadyen, and the Misses Marion and Jean McFadyen of Kingston; two addresses by Rev. J. D. MacRae, a missionary from Shantung, China; a report of the Whitby Summer School by Mrs. G. A. Reid, Belleville. The executive will meet on Wednesday afternoon.

APPEAL BOARD HAS JUSTIFIED ITSELF

Soldiers Take Cases to a Final Settlement in Pension Scales

Toronto.—After a period of six months the Federal Appeal Board, to which war veterans who feel they have been unfairly treated by the board of Pensions Commissioners and the Department of Soldiers' Civil Reestablishment may apply has justified its existence according to figures dealing with the work of the board.

Directly and indirectly, 300 war veterans have secured pensions and allowances through the work of the board, of the cases filed with the board, 72 appeals have been allowed, and during the period of the board's existence 230 claims filed as appeals with the Pensions Commissioners, and the D.S.C.R. have been allowed without reference to the Appeal Board.

Board Working Well

That the Appeal Board is functioning in the interests of war veterans, and to their satisfaction, is borne out by a message of a soldiers' adviser, who states: "I must again protest overloading, in fairness to the applicants, and in view of lack of assistance."

Another adviser, who has been subjected to criticism because of the number of cases heard by the Appeal Board, states he "feels it is necessary to consider all available evidence before proceeding with an appeal."

ANNOUNCING

Mid-Summer Presentation of Millinery and Summery Apparel

to be held

WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY & FRIDAY, FEB. 14-15-16 and Following Days

YOU are cordially invited to visit our Exhibition of New Summer Styles. The latest and most approved fashions of Paris and New York will be presented for the first time.

Presenting Hats for Lingerie Frocks

These are the hats that Paris (putting aside the severe, pulled-down cloche, for the tailored suit) has decided on for wear with fluffy summer frocks. Some are wide and drooping of brim, light and airy of treatment. In Milan Bankocks, new straw braids, Leghorns with silk crepes in vivid rose, Bisque, crab-apple, sand, grey, apple green, Mexico. They have summer flowers poised on the brims circling the crown, or a bright ornament.

The presentation will indeed be worth while, a characteristic of Ritchie's Millinery.

DRESS HATS! TAILORED HATS! MATRON'S HATS!
BOBBED HAIR HATS! FLOWERED HATS!
STREET HATS! SPORTS HATS!

Bell Bulletin of Service Helps

Vol. I. 1924 No. 11

"I promised him my next order"

"ONE evening my home telephone rang. 'Mr. Martin,' a voice said, 'this is Harrison of the Ideal Paint Company. I apologize for calling you at this hour, but I've got something worth-while.'

'You know our goods don't you? I'm prepared to give you the best service you ever had. Will you give me a chance, on the basis that the first complaint you have of service or goods, I'm through?'

"I know their goods well, and his earnest straightforward talk made a very good impression. Prompt personal service means a lot to me, and I promised him my next order."

"Use the Bell to Sell"

This is one incident in a campaign this persistent salesman carries on by Long Distance after 8.30 p.m.—which usually means at half the day-time rate. In no other way could he sell his personality after business hours.

By selecting his names carefully, he says he nearly always gets a favourable reception.

"Devil's Bible" Revealed In Stockholm: Written By Priest Condemned to Die

Stockholm.—One of the most remarkable books in the world, called "the Devil's Bible" and also the "giant of books," has just been brought out of its hiding place in the Royal Library of Stockholm, following a request for a photostat copy from the city of Prague, where it was captured at the Swedish conquest in 1648.

It was written 500 years ago, and legends says that it was compiled during a single night by a monk who was charged to do so. He had to have assistance from the devil, however, and in gratitude made a full picture portrait of him, being, eleven books tall and, when set on edge measured to the title.

The book is probably the largest Bible in the world, the pages being a yard high by a foot and a half wide. It is written on 309 parchment sheets, for which, according to tradition, 100 donkey hides were required. The lettering is beautifully illuminated in gold and bright colors.

The "Devil's Bible" when brought to Sweden was presented to Queen Kristina, the daughter of Gustavus Adolphus, along with a unique and priceless book, the Codex Argenteus or "Silver Bible." The name was given to the book because it is bound in covers of heavy wrought silver. The letters of the text are in silver and gold, stamped on purple parchment. The "Silver Bible," which is about 1500 years old, is a translation of the four gospels made by Bishop Ulfilas, and is considered invaluable because it contains virtually all the extant writing in the Gothic language. It is now preserved at Upsala University in Sweden.

TRAIN SHELL SHOCK TACKLES COMMUTERS

London, May 13.—The daily journey to town from the more distant suburbs leads in many instances eventually to train "shell shock," according to medical experts.

The injury develops very gradually and is caused by the swaying and jolting of the train, the continuous change of scene compelling the adjustment of the eyes, and the noises which overhide the cars. All of which produces a state of semi-stupor. The results are irritability, uncertainty of judgment, failure of memory, loss of appetite, worrying about trifles and incapacity to attend to business.

The Greeks may not star in the Olympic games in Paris this year, but they're sure to shine in Americs.

POCKET INDEX

Virginia—Has four motors and a boyar.

Kate—Serves a good supper and supplies the food.

Betty—All right for the movies.

Alice—Light on her feet.

Ethel—Easy to gaze upon, but expensive as a habit.

Jane—Likely to marry you. Would even pay for the license.

Peggy—Adequate when all the rest of the aces are dated.

J. Gladys—The girl the family would like.

LABOR-LIBERAL BUDGET ACTION IS FELT KEENLY

Conservative Hopes of Majority Vote Shattered By Opposition

ALTER SENTIMENT

Results of Recent French Election Strengthens Present Govt.

London, May 14.—Conservative hopes of a majority vote against the government today were shattered when Stanley Baldwin's resolution demanding retention of the McKenna duties found itself [illegible] today by practically a solid opposition of the Labor and Liberal parties.

On the question of the expediency of removing the McKenna duties immediately there was a considerable body of opinion among the government supporters. Labor members representing constituencies affected by or sympathetic with the plight of the workers in the threatened industries were a few days ago exerting pressure upon the government to postpone the abolition of these protective clauses a few months more.

Sentiment Changed

A good many Liberals, sympathizing with the free trade idea in Snowden's budget, were impressed by the general argument in favor of at least temporary retention, but MacDonald's declaration that the government would consider the Baldwin resolution a motion of censure changed all that. Few people in England outside of the militant Tories want any change in sentiment at this time and the Liberals today decided to place their votes squarely against the Conservative attack.

Government Strengthened

The results of the recent French election tend to strengthen the government there. Premier Herriot and Briand's strike are delighted at Poincare's defeat, which they believe offers the strongest probabilities for the solution of the reparations problem with the situation as it is upon the continent than would be provoked by a general election.

It is generally felt that MacDonald by reason of his position as premier or entanglements, will have a better chance to work out friendly arrangements with France than either Baldwin, Asquith or Lloyd George.

Milk Treatment Boon For Kiddies

Twenty local school children, under the supervision of Miss Sinclair, school nurse, have undergone a milk treatment during the past two months with gratifying results. The milk was supplied from the cows of the children daily by the Citizens Dairy, and the following are the results of the weekly results obtained.

Child No. 1—gain 1¼ pounds.
Child No. 2—gain ½ pound.
Child No. 3—gain 1 pound.
Child No. 4—gain 1¼ pounds.

Child No. 7—gain 1 pound.
Child No. 8—gain 1 pound.
Child No. 9—gain 2¼ pounds.
Child No. 10—gain 1 pound.
Child No. 11—gain ½ pound.
Child No. 12—gain 1 pound.
Child No. 12—gain 2½ pounds.
Child No. 14—gain 2½ pounds.
Child No. 15—gain ½ pound.
Child No. 16—gain 1½ pounds.
Child No. 17—gain ¾ pound.
Child No. 18—gain ¾ pound.
Child No. 19—gain ¾ pounds.
Child No. 20—gain 1 pound.
Total gain 28½ pounds.

The twenty children here selected from those under weight and after the treatment each has had not reached the required mark.

FLOODS SWEEP RAILWAYS, AND COVER STREETS

Huge Rise in Potomac River Wastes Causes Heavy Damage

DEATHS REPORTED

Heavy Rains Responsible For Destruction Near Capital City

Baltimore, May 14.—Flood waters sweeping down the Potomac river in Western Maryland caused damage to two deaths, damaged property valued in several millions of dollars and completely tied up railroad and vehicular traffic along the river.

All along the Potomac from Cumberland to Harper's Ferry, W. Va., conditions similar to those of March, when the river reached its highest level, are reported.

President Daniel Willard of the B. & O. railroad, following reports of conditions west of Martinsburg, left for the vicinity of the flood.

Heavy Damage

Pittsburg, Pa., May 14.—Flood waters of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers are doing thousands of dollars' damage to river front properties and bridges.

A stage of 25.9 feet was registered this morning at Point Bridge, where the two streams form the Ohio river. Flood stage is 22 feet. The rivers, however, were only rising at rate of about .2 of a foot an hour and a crest is not expected to reach it fast.

Tracks Submerged

Freight tracks of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad along the Allegheny river today were under three feet of water. Hundreds of cellars were flooded.

Heavy rains over the watersheds of the rivers caused the high waters, according to the weather bureau.

Worst in Years

Washington, May 14.—The worst flood conditions in 25 years prevailed today over a wide area in the states of Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia, as thousands of inhabitants either fled from their homes as the crest of the flood approached, or took precautions to prevent their property being swept away.

Officials here said the highest waters since 1889 were sweeping down the Potomac valley, and would reach Washington today. The crest of the flood was reckoned by 11 o'clock last night and this morning when the 16te-came to the Potomac river at Washington the mark at the Lincoln memorial.

Reports from the Shenandoah valley points say the Shenandoah river is higher than in 30 years, and that its lone-continued rains. Much property damage is reported, but thus far the loss of life, so far as is known, has been confined to one unidentified man, whose body was found in the Potomac near here.

Cattsville, Va., reported property damage of about $200,000, including the loss of several bridges. Rail traffic has been considerably interfered with.

FIVE PER CENT RAISE FOR 2000 RAIL MEN

Edson, May 14.—A five per cent wage increase was today granted engineers, firemen and hostlers of the Foster & Maine Railroad following a conference between representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and representatives of the road. About 2,000 men are affected by the increase.

THE WEATHER

Moderate winds, mostly fair today and Thursday. Not much change in temperature.

COMMITTEE TO TACKLE CHURCH UNION PROBLEM

Bill Comes Up For Discussion Thursday or Friday This Week

STRONG INFLUENCE

Many Petitions Received by Members of Bills Committee

Ottawa, May 13—The private bills committee will tackle the church union problem towards the end of next week, on Thursday or Friday according to present plans.

The discussion will be limited, of course, to committee members, and others may be present.

If the committee were left to itself and all of them voted the deepest impression is that the bill would either be defeated outright or else amended to do away completely the views of those dissent from it, but a variety of influences are at work, primarily the political effect of the passing or the rejection of a bill is being canvassed by all sides in a general way, while everywhere, where a personal disposition suggests, one course are swayed by another by petitions from their constituencies.

Pressure On Catholics

Some influence is being exerted on Roman Catholic members to keep out of the fight on the one hand while they have every right to pass upon the measure, their action might be misunderstood or misrepresented. The committee was not constituted for this bill, but is of the permanent committee actually as in 1921.

In influential quarters there is a strong move to have the bill pass, but it is provided that it shall not become operative for a year. Thus the present session would be maintained for that period. There would be provision meanwhile for incorporating, giving in or staying out of the union. Incidentally during the year, the courts would pronounce judicially on the way which attacks the constitutionality of the whole procedure.

U.S. Auto Club Wants Courier As Attraction

The following telegram was received this morning by Mayor Mikel from the Automobile Club of America, one of the largest organizations of its kind in the world. Mayor Mikel has replied to the effect that their request was suitable to the occasion and will communicate soon.

If you will let Mise Gwen Lazier come back from Washington to Asse York through Harrisburg and Eston, we will send our pilot motor car to meet all of the papers. We will give her a ride in a motor car through the historic Central Palace and keep her home via the Potomac and the Lincoln memorial. The Lincoln memorial.

Reports from the Shenandoah valley points say the Shenandoah river is higher than in 30 years, and that its lone-continued rains. Much property damage is reported, but thus far the loss of life, so far as is known, has been confined to one unidentified man, whose body was found in the Potomac near here.

Cattsville, Va., reported property damage of about $200,000, including the loss of several bridges. Rail traffic has been considerably interfered with.

COBOURG "VENDORS" FOUGHT, FINED

Impose One Heavy Fine And Adjourn Three Other Cases — Assault Case at Point Anne

Fred Bateman, Cobourg confectioner was fined $1000 and costs or six months and was in addition sentenced to three months in jail because it was his second offence, when he appeared before Chief Fleming under Magistrate there, yesterday afternoon. He was found guilty of selling liquor.

Mrs. A. E. Wilkinson, proprietor of Albion hotel Cobourg, James Kevin proprietor of the King Edward Hotel and Fred Lavelle, another of the same owner, all charged with keeping liquor for sale, will appear for sentence on May 16th. Mrs. Wilkinson pleaded guilty to the charge and the others found guilty.

Robert Tompkins, of Point Anne, was arrested this morning by Provincial Officer Hayward with assaulting wife of Annie. He will receive trial to-morrow morning, and was in default, refused to deal on bail of $500.

He will have come under the jurisdiction of Provincial Police headquarters here.

Details of $4,000,000 Government Blunder

Here are the known details—

1. Aaronvil made the deal. This property has already cost $2,733,693.

2. This property was offered almost immediately before to another Canadian company for $1,400,000 and the offer refused.

3. Para newspapers state that the owners of the property received only about $2,100,000.

4. Who got the difference between $2,733,693 and $2,100,000?

5. This was an entirely unnecessary investment as Paris is neither an immigration or trade centre, and the National Railways has no passenger boats.

6. Why was Aaronvil let out?

7. The government gave him 150,000 francs, or $7,500 to quit. Why had they to pay him to quit? They paid him in all $33,041.46.

8. It is found that the property was put in Aaronvil's name and it cost $68,153 to get it transferred into the name of a company of Canadian National Railway Officials.

9. Who gave Aaronvil the authority to make the deal?

10. Already nearly $3,000,000 has been spent on this "white elephant," and it will cost another $1,000,000 to remodel and furnish it.

11. While every city in Canada is suffering from lack of railway and federal office facilities, the government expends $4,000,000 in Paris, France, on an old obsolete Hotel, unnecessary for the National Railways in any capacity, and under such circumstances as arouse the gravest suspicions.

12. What is equally disastrous is the enormous cost of upkeep which will still further add to the crippling fixed charges of the National Railways.

PROGRESS NOTED AT TABERNACLE

Church, Sunday School and Y.P.S. Present Excellent Reports at Meeting

Last evening the Tabernacle Methodist Church held its last financial business meeting for this conference year. After the usual reports of the various branches of the work were given, Sunday School, Young People's Society, and the treasurers report was made and considered, the board unanimously expressed their appreciation of the splendid leadership given them during the year by their pastor, Rev. H. B. Kenny, in a well worded and most splendid resolution, which emphasized Mr. Kenny's pulpit ability his splendid expository powers, and his fearless proclamation of truth. The Pastor in a few words thanked the board for their kindly remarks which he accepted and said he recognized full well that the success was accomplished through their loyalty and cooperation.

Financial contributions for the year amounted to $11,365 which is a record year.

The congregational interests were well sustained and increases were made in all, as generally called the well attending fund. Church indebtedness was reduced over $2,000 during the year. The aim for the future is to raise annually $1000 00 and interest until all is paid.

Healt'y Sunday School

For some years the Sunday School has called during this year's attendance, interest and teaching problems sustained. Superintendent Mr. Superintendent J. E. Walmsley, Esq., will send out plans for the new year of assistants, and is planning for aggressive work.

Bible Banner Winners

Tabernacle Young People's Society carried away a Belleville Y.P.S. banner for membership efficiency and they hope that the closing year's plan of the work will help them to retain it permanently. The W. M. S. Auxiliary and all allied groups had an encouraging and satisfactory year, and the Ladies' Aid Society reached the mountain peak of endeavour by raising $1051.00.

Both Pastor and Board expressed a desire that next year should be one of spiritual advancement, in a divine awakening and aggressive evangelism, and earnestly solicit the cooperation that these ideals may be realized.

A.H. PEPALL IN HANDS OF CROWN

Arrested in Toronto On Charge of Illegally Entering the U.S.

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Toronto, May 14.—A. H. Pepall was to-day arrested on a charge of illegally entering the United States.

This is the fourth arrest made by the Crown in thirty-six hours, and authorities stated to-day that more arrests are to follow in the near future. The next one out on bail have all been named in connection with the Hon. Peter Smith was the first one taken apprehended in legal practice.

Police Led to Action

The disclosures which led directly to Hon. Mr. Smith's prosecution were principally those of a "split" between the former Provincial Treasurer and Andrew Pepall, of a commission which the latter had secured from the Province, in return for influencing provincial business in its favor. The "split" followed the Smith-Pepall charges, however, is to be found in the subsequent greater transaction which the Jarvis' carried out in England in the Spring of 1921, when they practically for the province upwards of $6,000,000 worth of accounts duty-free bonds.

The Government auditors have been at work for some time on the books of Amelius Jarvis through which these transactions were recorded, with, it is declared, sensational results. It is understood that a "split" will be charged between the Jarvis', Pepall and Hon. Mr. Smith in connection with these transactions which will eclipse in magnitude any "split-off" which have so far been suggested against the late Provincial Treasurer.

Whether or not the disclosures will result in the prosecution of Hon. Mr. Smith is not yet decided. The Government has already received some 11 indictments against him, and it is doubtful if anything is to be gained by pressing additional ones. Decision of this point is however, pending.

WILL CONTINUE BUILDING SEWER

Bumbaco Brothers Will Resume Work on Pinnacle Street Sewer Presently

There has been no trouble over the work on the Pinnacle Street sewer, which has been delayed by contractors having evidently been printed directions by the proprietor of the Bumbaco Bros. who hold the contract for same, a marked change for $4.00 as a guarantee and no question of a liability bond has been raise.

The temporary stoppage of work on the Pinnacle Street sewer following orders for a change in the course of the sewer, a change must however be authorized by the City Engineer in writing. Just as soon as the new plans are received from the Engineer's office, work on the sewer will be resumed.

MYSTERY OF SCRIBE DEAL IS UNFOLDED

Succeeding Developments Impress Opinion Deal so Indefensible as to Disgrace all Participants—Paris Press Calls for Fullest Enquiry Into Notorious Scandal

Ottawa, May 14—The notorious Scribe Hotel—the National Rail" ay mystery—is gradually being unfolded and succeeding developments impress the opinion that it is as indefensible as to disgrace all the participants and all who have sought or assisted in suppressing the facts. So rank is the transaction that the Parisian press is calling for the fullest enquiry to definitely fix the responsibility.

Purchased The "Scribe"

Last year—shortly after the change in management of the Canadian National one Aaronvil had been appointed Commercial agent. This was followed by a further announcement that he had purchased the Scribe Hotel in Paris for continental headquarters. The Hotel Scribe is a well known hotel and had been a "white elephant" on the hands of the owners for years. They had tried to unload it on another Canadian Company to the tune of $3,000,000, but it was not considered a desirable investment. Questioned in Parliament the government refused to give any definite any details. First they said it was purchased by a New York syndicate and was to be leased to the railway. Later they gave evasive answers. Grave reports of this transaction became current and the government would give no information—Parliament was prorogued and Mr. Graham, Minister of Finance, made the announcement that the cost would certainly not exceed $2,000,000 and that they had secured a cut of providing the money temporarily.

An Unsavory Mess

Last summer the government sent Mr. Graham and Deputy Minister of Railways, to Paris, where he spent months in dickering with the unsavory mess. Finally, when Parliament owned Hon. George P. Graham admitted "a blunder" had been made in entering into this deal. Then he admitted there was no New York syndicate, although at one time he had stated there was. Then came the announcement that mysterious Aaronvil had been dropped from the railway payroll. Yet questioned continually, none of the details of the transaction would be given. Some information was wrung from the government and the strong suspicions awakened in Paris and elsewhere in the Old Country have forced the government to answer some questions.

$4,000,000 Blunder

Surely there could not be conceived a more foolish business undertaking venture. The government through Hon. Mr. Graham, Minister of Railways, admits was a "blunder"—a $4,000,000 blunder. In connection with these transactions which will eclipse in magnitude any "split-off" which have so far been suggested against the late Provincial Treasurer.

Whether or not the disclosures will result in the prosecution of Hon. Mr. Smith is not yet decided. The Government has already received some 11 indictments against him, and it is doubtful if anything is to be gained by pressing additional ones. Decision of this point is however, pending.

COMMERCIAL ACHIEVEMENTS AT B. H. S.

Miss Olive Adams has been awarded a blanket card case containing the Dominion certificate for proficiency and accuracy in typing, at the rate of twenty-five words a minute. Miss Adams of Harcourt Holway won her Junior Typewriting certificate in April last month.

There will be a splendid class of girls ready about the middle of June or positions as bookkeepers, stenographers, typists, etc. Intensified Cooperation in placing these young people in satisfactory positions whether missionary or permanent will be undertaken by the High School. Possible extra coaching will be done if needs are made known in time.

PAGEANT BEAUTY

"How often have I blest the coming day ..."
When toil relaxing lent its turn to play ..."
And all the village train from labor, free
Led up their sports beneath the spreading tree.
And many a pastime circled in the shade
The young contending while the old surveyed."

An extract from "The Deserted Village"—that beautiful gem which Oliver Goldsmith gets in the crown of literature.

Read again; close the eyes; get the picture. Thus the idea of Pageantry was born.

Humble folks amid humble surroundings recognized the necessity of giving, at times, freedom to the spirit to play—"Toil relenting lent its turn to play". At informal gatherings on the village green, in various directions were displayed to the community.

Education and intelligence increased; society became more complex; the spirit remained, as it does to-day, the same. The best personal endeavors were selected; important historical and industrial events were added; organization was necessary; the exhibitions became annual affairs; they were given the name PAGEANT.

And so yearly, Pageants as community enterprises were milestones marking advances on the road of Progress.

Society became more complex, populations became more cosmopolitan; interests grew more widely diversified; the cities made an decentralized, but the Spirit of play remained just the same, and it does to-day.

Society needs a bond to draw it closer together. It is still clamoring to recognize ability and talent. Somehalf still needs to know what the other half is doing and can do.

This need exists in Belleville and is soon to be met.

Reviving the estimable and praise worthy custom of our forefathers a great community Pageant, has been planned, one in which everyone with talent is expected to take part, one featured by every organization in the civic movements, one which will be so event in the lives of all the participants and will long live a pleasant memory in the minds of the spectators.

To accomplish this the fair grounds will be transformed into a panorama of changing pictures and stirring scenes from which call out voices of the past. Song, story, and dance in this Pageant will thrill and enthrall and demonstrate that our forefathers knew fully well the value of dignified entertainment.

MORE ARRESTS

The arrest of Mr. Amelius Jarvis, son-, president, Mr. Amelius Jarvis, jun., vice-president and Mr. H. G. Pepall, general manager of the firm of Amelius Jarvis & Co., on the charge of unlawfully-conspiring with "one another, A. H. Pepall, Peter Smith and other persons unknown, by deceit or falsehood or other fraudulent means, to defraud the public, his m-esty the King in the right of the province, or to affect the public market price of the ac-cession-duly-free bonds of the said province of Ontario, contrary to the criminal code," is the latest and most startling development of the provincial bond scandal. Public opinion is naturally all agog as to what the outcome of the charge will be, owing to the eminence of the accused.

There is always a tendency in such cases to jump to conclusions and to pre-judge the issue. Until the evidence has been submitted and the verdict rendered criticism must be withheld. All that can be said at this time is that the government has given positive proof of its determination to sift the bond transaction to the bottom; no guilty will be spared to investigate every suspicious circumstance and bring to justice every person who in any way appears to be implicated in any irregularities which may be disclosed. This is as it should be. Such an inquiry as this upon which the province has embarked must necessarily be thorough and exhaustive, if public confidence is to be restored.

SIGNIFICANT RESULT

The surprising defeat of the Poincare government in the French election is an event of the first importance to Europe and the whole civilized world. No one had supposed for a moment that Poincare would have been ousted, though the probability of reduced support had been discounted in advance. The victorious elements themselves had made but very modest pre-election claims, and the result of the elections must be just a great a surprise to them as it is to the defeated administration. The government had relied upon the farmers and the commercial and industrial forces to give them an assured majority. It would seem that its calculations have been wrong with regard to practically every group.

The unsuspected strength of the opposition is due to a variety of causes in different fashion. Dissatisfaction with the policy of force and revenge, it was known, was growing in the nation; but yet there was an apparent approval of the principle which had been so obstinately maintained by the government. Now that republication has come, what will the new policy be? That is the question of supreme international interest.

EDITORIAL NOTES

More drunks have been found in Philadelphia, since the clean-up, according to a news dispatch. Maybe they were just celebrating the clean-up.

William J. Burns, chief of the United States' bureau of investigation and world-famous detective, has resigned. He had been baffled in nearly every country under the sun.

When a family of Indians, experts in the handling of a canoe, drowned from their capsized craft, as reported from Port Arthur, raw amateurs are given cause to pause and ponder.

The wise course is to co-operate, not oppose. Phonograph manufacturers who were alarmed about the progress of the radio industry are now placing combination radio-phonographs on the market.

The Canadian Canoe association, which has just held its annual convention, might have, with benefit to a lot of summer campers, at least broadcasted the information that the only safe time to change seats in a canoe is not at all.

BEAUTY IN ABUNDANCE IN LILLIAN GISH FILM

Sheer beauty is the outstanding feature of "The White Sister", the talkies Gish triumph which will be shown for the last time at Griffin's Theatre tonight.

Henry King, director of "The White Sister", traversed Italy from north to south and obtained many locations which can never be excelled for their picturesque beauty. The superb Latin palaces, beautiful gardens, time-worn monuments, in fact all the beauty of Italy, has been poured into this picture.

"The White Sister", a Henry King production, is a Metro release, produced by Inspiration Pictures, Charles H. Duell, Jr., president.

Seats for this attraction are reserved. The plan is open at the theatre, Bing 500.

PRESS OPINIONS

PLAIN PROOF

(St. Catharines Standard)

In the last ten years 21 daily newspapers in Ontario went out of existence, and there are 36 left in various cities and towns. The enormous mortality is the plainest proof which could be submitted to any business man that costs of production have outstripped newspaper revenue, and that is now a case of the survival of the fittest.

JOAN OF ARC

(A. B. Walkley in London Times)

It has taken over five centuries for the true Joan of Arc to emerge from her myth, far less mystical, far more beautiful. It was Shakespeare's sad luck that he lived at the wrong time to do her justice.

THE VANISHING DINNER PAIL

(Vancouver Province)

The old rong "Dad's Dinner Pail," may now be added to the long list of obsolete melodies. There ain't no more dinner pails any more declares a hardware dealer. The decline of the lunch carrying habit is attributed to cheap restaurants, cafeterias and sandwich stands. One of the big factories also provide "nuches for their employees.

TALK IS EASY

(Farmers' Sun)

It is easy enough in a talk of economy in the abstract, but the real test of sincerity comes when the question of economy promises to make enemies. Hon. Mr. Ferguson is entitled to credit for his unqualified refusal of the C. N. R. request that the railways be exempted from the provisions of the provincial administration expenses of the Workmen's Compensation Board. Co-operation to injured workmen is a charge against industry and should not be shouldered on the province any longer.

LOVE IN STRANGE FORMS

(Kingston Standard)

Love is a strange thing. What is one man's meat is another man's poison. For instance a well known New Yorker administering chloroform to shield promo to his wife in order that being sick, he could conveniently go to California. A woman is so in love with her own child that in his case he should be loved by another woman; while still another woman believing her self a dying, kills her husband, and then kills herself so that they may not be separated. Truly "yes, extreme "manifestations" of love the most of us will beg to be excused.

FAKED INSANITY

(Vancouver World) .....

If, in case of a murder charge, the defence proposes to enter a plea of "not guilty" on grounds of insanity, notice should be required to be filed before the trial. Before the trial a commission should sit and definitely determine the prisoner's sanity. If he is found insane he should be committed to an asylum "at the King's pleasure." But at the same time, the murder charge should still hang over his head. Murderers who go insane conveniently, and then become sane again conveniently once they are out of danger, should not be allowed to easily under this suggested procedure.

"THE COMMON LAW" BY ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Of more than passing interest is "The Common Law," which is a screen adaption of Robert W. Chambers' famous novel of the same name. Corinne Griffith, Conway Tearle and Elliott Dexter, while an exceptional supporting cast includes Doris May, Hobart Bosworth, Mine. De Kontski, Ann Washburn, Phyllis Haver, Harry Myers and Wally Van. The story of "The Common Law" tells the tale of Valerie West, a sweet and rather unsophisticated young girl who suddenly throws upon her own resources, sets out to earn her living, but with no tangible idea as to what she is best fitted to undertake. During her search for work she calls at the studio of Louis Sovallo, an artist who, seeing in her great possibilities as a model, persuades her to pose for him in the nude. She achieves success as a model but retains her sweetness and charm in spite of her surroundings. Neville falls desperately in love with Valerie and is finally rewarded by her love. But the artist's family is furious at what they consider a misalliance and union and influence Valerie to give him up by convincing her that the marriage will wreck his career. She tries de perately to kill his love and nearly succeeds, but in the end her self-attachment is too strong and Valerie finally offers to give him all as his common law wife, Neville first refuses but in the end sees the point of accepting Valerie's sacrifice of honor when unwarranted jealousy threatens to rush the story to its interesting and dramatic climax.

"The Common Law" opens a three days' engagement at the Griffin theatre on Thursday.

"JAVA HEAD" SPECULATOR

As the critics describe it, "Java Head", George Melford's latest Paramount picture, is a corker in plot development. This production, adapted by Waldemar Young from the novel by Joseph Hergesheimer, has been secured by the Regent Theatre for three days, starting Thursday next. It is a love story with the eternal triangle again in evidence, but this time it is employed so peculiarly as to make the picture vastly different from any seen in Belleville before. This is George Melford's best production, in which Leatrice Joy, Jacqueline Logan, Raymond Hatton, George Fawcett and Albert Roscoe all of stellar caliber, play the featured roles.

We heard of a man who bought a phonograph and a record on particular that he put his gun into his mouth with a fork.

Radiolays

HEAR NEUTRODYNE SET

At the regular meeting of the local Radio Club, held in the Chamber of Commerce, the new neutrodyne set recently ordered by Crown Attorney F. C. Donnan was tried out, with good results.

Five tubes are used in this set, with a loop aerial, and while Friday was a bad night generally for good receiving stations were tuned in with ease.

SIGNALING SYSTEM ON RADIO CALLS OPERATOR

When the telephone was being developed back in the 70's, one of the first advances was the provision of a bell to call the subscriber. In radio communication a bell has not been important in the past because commercial operators on ships and at shore stations have been required by law to keep watch.

There are, however, many possible applications of radio telephony where a continuous watch may not be necessary for the safety of the public and here a bell to call the attendant would be of decided advantage. For instance a mining company might install a radio telephone system for point-to-point communication between its workings where the rough country will not permit the erection of wire lines.

Then there is the ship-to-shore telephone system, in which a suitable signaling device would be of great convenience, enabling the service to be handled by the same operating method as used in wire telephony. A practical method of using a bell over a radio link has been delivered by C.S. Demarest and M. L. Almquist of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and L. E. Connett, of the Western Electric Company.

Selector Switches Used

The use of standard toll dialing equipment enables the system to call any of all of a number of stations from a central point. For instance, the telephone subscriber carries a key marked with the name of a particular station, can send out electrical impulses which will automatically select switches at the receiving stations. Each station will have a special combination on a safe, to close its control circuit, so that only when a certain combination of impulses is sent out. This apparatus allows as many as seventy-five stations on a wavelength to be signaled separately.

Tube Is Detector

While this signaling system will be of decided importance in the operations of radio telephony and telegraphy, curiously enough it is not based on any new discoveries, but rather represents the adaptation of radio of ers into somewhat old and well known wire technique.

The 125-cycle howl is fed into the audio-frequency input amplifier at a point appropriate to its energy level. The amplified current is then rectified directly in the modulator tube, at the receiving end the output of the regular radio receiver is connected across the grid-cathode circuit in the vibration relay. Five vacuum tubes must be kept lighted continuously while the station is in ready for incoming calls, but the current consumption is so small that it is a negligible part of the operating costs. Experiments have shown that almost under the value of an almost unit's time, the use of tubes and power in this way makes possible a substantial saving.

MOTORS CRASH ON MEYERSBURG ROAD

A head on collision between a Ford and a Chevrolet touring occurred on Saturday evening on the Meyersburg road near Campbellford which resulted in both cars being put out of commission with the honors fairly equally divided. How the occupants escaped serious injury is a mystery. The Ford was owned by Archie, Van Sickian of Warkworth and the Chevrolet by Albert Thrower of Campbellford who were conveyed to their respective homes by passing motorists.

INSPECTOR RUSTON IS AT CONFERENCE

Mr. T. D. Ruston, Inspector of the Children's Aid Society here, is in Toronto today for the three annual Conference of the Association of Children's Aid Societies of the Province. The Conference commences today at the Reception room of the Parliament Buildings.

Among many interesting features of the Conference will be the full discussion of the new Act known as The Inauguration Children's Protection Act, 1924, which was passed as a result of the death of Little Jean Doyle Cardell by hanging, and the other home of the murderer, who poisoned himself last winter.

WHERE GREEN PARROTS FEED ON RED BERRIES

Gorgeous Tibetan Vales Also Hide Strange Racial Secrets

2 EXPEDITIONS BUSY

Scientists Will Find Mission aries Observing Tribesfolk

Two expeditions of the National Geographic Society are exploring separate regions in the heart of Asia, Asiatic explorers have always been retarded the narrow escape, from Chinese bandits, of Joseph F. Rock, who heads the society's expedition in Yunnan province, China. Further north in the Kansu highlands, Roy Chapman Andrews and Tibet, says a bulletin of the society, the Central China expedition is seeking human traversed east Asia's history before the Chinese come, barrier for the largest mountebrapid monkey in the world, and collecting botanical specimens in a region virgin to scientific study.

The bulletin goes on to say that Mr. Rock recently located the chaulmoogra tree, which for ages has brought blessed healing to many lepers. He entered Yunnan to study the leprosy problem of how corn, indigenous to America, apparently was transplanted to China before 1432; and to hunt for a hitherto-existing chaulmoogra tree for the benefit of lepers in Malta and for new fruit and flower importations.

Lad-Eating Monkeys

Turmoil along the turbulent China-Tibet border delayed Mr. Rock's work. He was counselled to come home and await more peaceful times, but he preferred to "carry on." As a result he is having many strange experiences which add the zest of adventure to the normal interest in a region where nature and man assume a position of isolating monkeys, snow crowned mountains, and tribesmen which swing protesting miles across the frequent streams, given partially to feeding on red berries, gorgeous valleys of brilliant flowers and fragrant balsa.

In charge of the other expedition, Frederick R. Wulsin and his aides, with a staff of 27 camels, pushed from Kansu province into parts of Mongolia where only nomads live. He then worked his way south to Kwei-chow, where, shell some of the mysterious non-Chinese tribes of China.

The two or three million of nondescript folk who survive in Kweichow afford one of the most interesting living racial problems known to science. They have not been studied scientifically. Andrews and Infrequent visitor, bring back reports of types resembling the Gurkhas, the South Sea Islander, and the primitive hill people of tribes which thereby grain on road and sea in the Holy Land, of others that fly "prayer flags" on fortified castles, and of some who confederate into armed with thunderclaps, broadswords and bags of stones with their disputes in horseback duels.

Virile Among Them

Mlssy Salter, explorer and Yunnan province's Senna of these explorations and discoveries in the Chinese province of Szechwan, also touching Tibet and having its own non-Chinese "tribes people". Among these strange and little known folk is travelling regularly a Canadian, bent on missionary work rather than on ethnological or botanical study. Rev. George E. Hartwell, B. A., B. D. has, however, a university man's interest in his description and writes the following brief account of his discoveries:

"These tribespeople are stone builders. Travellers are astounded at their behold great stone forts with flatroofed buildings two and three stories high and with turrets seven and eight storeys high erected on the top of the mountains. They call themselves are barely mountaineers and have few and wee cattle. Their ways are quite different from the Chinese. The dress of the women interests more that of the European, and, while not bold, there is none of that shyness and restraint peculiar to the Chinese women."

"In recent years the Chinese Church which the Canadian Methodist missionaries have founded in Szechwan, has made the foothills and the tribespeople its special field for forcing their work. The Chinese missionary has married one of the tribal women. Visiting her home, I saw the tribal bride come forward with the grace of a queen into her living-room, greet them with tea and look after their comfort with the ease-grace as if she had been brought up in a well-to-do-ed Canadian home."

Local W.M.S. Has Successful Year

The Women's Missionary Society of Bridge Street Church has just closed one of the most successful years in its history. During the year, three new life members of sixty-seven and a total membership of two hundred and thirty three. The Easter Thankoffering meeting was addressed by Miss Gordon, formerly missionary to China, amount received on that occasion was $268.76 and the total receipts for the year were $1177. Three hundred dollars has been appropriated toward the salary of Miss Bessie Ketcheson at Changsking, China.

At the annual meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, Mrs. (Rev.) Dack Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Malott and Mrs. Ackerman, Recording Secretary, Mrs. Schryver, Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Hunt, Treasurer, Mrs. W. T. Deacon, Strangers' Secretary, Miss Hawley, Superintendent of Christian Stewardship, Mrs. Nolan, Leader of Mission Band, Mrs. Douglas Reid Superintendents of Little Light Bearers, Mrs. Lattimer and Mrs. Fred Deacon.

METHODISTS SIFT CONTRIBUTION CUT

More Than Million Down From Last Year, Says Church Paper

Springfield, Mass.—Deficiencies in contributions of the centenary fund of the Methodist Church will be investigated by a special commission of 15, to be named by the board of bishops at the general conference this week. Reports made public today show that to date only six months the receipts were $3,030,619.27 as compared with $4,022,259.60 in the corresponding period a year ago and an estimate of $5,500,000 for the six months.

The total to be raised for the centenary fund is $115,000,000 and about $20,000,000 has already been paid in. The money is used for carrying on the foreign and home missionary work and church extension program.

The deficiency in contribution as now shown will mean a curtailment of the benevolent work of the church in all Episcopal areas.

The rate to the bold of over $500,000 in the year from fluctuations in exchange of $350,000 from this cause since 1917 is reported.

The board of benevolences reports that the $350,000 and eight months throughout the world has attended steadily since 1917.

Legion of Honor For Blind Padre

Father Thomas, Okt., Lost Eyesight In Great War

Montreal, May 14—A very pleasing ceremony took place in the chapter house of Trappist Monastery at Oka when Father Thomas, blinded in the Great War while fighting for France, was awarded the Legion of Honor. The glittering cross was pinned on his chest by Regis Messac de Vitrolles, Consul-General for France, while other prominent personages who witnessed the touching ceremony, were Major Georges Gauthier, Administrator of Montreal and representatives of various French societies.

In his capacity of the blind recipient of one of the highest of French honors celebrated High Mass, after which the little group went to the chapter house where, after an eloquent tribute to those who had given up their lives or had suffered wounds in the great cause, the Consul-General handed to the decoration. In a broken voice, Father Thomas thanked the Government of France and the Consul-General for the honor done him. The citation issued over the name of Marshall Joffre, Commander-in-Chief Headquarters of the Armies of the East on November 3, 1915, is as follows:

"Both, grenadier-stretcher-bearer of the 9th Zouave Regiment: Exceptional conduct. Was mentioned in Division orders, on October 9. In full daylight and in open country assisted wounded in front of the German lines under violent machine-gun fire. Rescued one wounded soldier who was able to give information on the organization of the German defences. During the attack of October 6, 1915, also in open territory, rescued several wounded and brought them to our lines. Was wounded in the head during the afternoon. Blinded."

A.F.&L. TO WEED OUT AGITATORS

Pres. Gompers Issues Statement Following Conference—Banquet Tonight

Montreal, May 13.—After a heated argument behind closed doors the Labor Conference of the American Federation of Labor adjourned this morning and Sam Gompers, president, made the following statement:

"The Counsel heard the case of the Lod carriers and laborers of New York versus the building contractors. There is an undesirable element among those laborers, mechanics and such like persons and the A. F. of L. will take steps to eliminate this element which is disturbing the building trade in New York."

Mr. Gompers stated that the Conference had considered the report of William Green, secretary of the United Mine Workers, regarding the mine workers in the Dominion of Canada and the United States. He said that things were going evenly in Nova Scotia and other mining centres due to the two year agreement that was recently reached with the employers.

The Montreal members of the Trades and Labor Council of Canada are giving a banquet in honor of Mr. Gompers and the visiting executives' council at the ballroom of the Mount Royal Hotel this evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Tom Moore, president of the Canadian Labor Council, and P. M. Draper, secretary treasurer will be present as guests, and about 300 officers from various local unions are expected.

Plan To Enroll College Men On London Force

Conditions Made So Attractive That University Graduate Will Be Seen Swinging Club

London—The day when London's police force was made up of stalwart, though ignorant, recruits from the East Side has passed. The beer drinking brevalus with the cockney accent is stepping aside to allow the university graduate a chance to carry a whistle and club. It now takes more than six feet of brawn to qualify for pair of thick boots. The policeman's beat is now a profession in London.

Once, before the war, a man joined the London force when he could not get anything else to do. The policeman in those days earned 30 shillings a week, he worked ten hours a day for seven days a week and he had no promotion centres at his disposal. Thirty shillings, even in the days when a shilling knew a lot more tricks than it does today, hardly sufficed to keep a family. The guardian of the public welfare was always ready to accept a tip for any little service he might perform.

Now the pay is good, the chance of promotion to responsible jobs are many, and the conditions of the hours of service easier. The municipal authorities, after taking an interest in their police force, they have provided flats for them and for their families, they are given better uniforms, and promotion and salary increase are granted for educational attainments as well as meritorious service.

At the same time the law of supply and demand has acted. The educational requirements. The candidate must pass a stiff educational examination, he must know more English than is contained in the yellow press or thriller, and be familiar with the city and national government's organization and operation. There are many cases where a knowledge of two languages is necessary. The authorities must be satisfied with regard to his life and habits.

After the policeman has been accepted, apprenticeship of three years is necessary, and then he is assigned to regular duty. If he is unmarried he may even get to be a commissioner with a "flat" to live in his name. The London policeman now earns from $20 to $35 a week for regular duty.

ABRUPT DECLINE IN FRENCH FRANC

New York, May 14.—Defeat of the Poincare ministry in the French Election reviving fear of the premier's resignation, brought an abrupt decline in the franc here. The price of French francs at the opening of today's local exchange market. The reaction was the most severe that has taken place since the collapse of the currency in March. From a high of slightly above six cents to which the franc dropped last week the franc broke to 5.65 cents and then rallied moderately on good buying support was encountered. Sterling declined to 4.84 from a cent below $4.86 reflecting fear that a change of the French premier might delay operation of the experts plan. International bankers with German connections, however, asserted that the retirement of Poincare, an extremist on German policy, might conceivably be expected to hasten an agreement on a reparations settlement. French banking interests, here, reported that local bankers and French operators had taken advantage of the election returns to sell Francs short.

Radicalism In Ruhr Is Blamed To Occupation

Bolshevism Unknown Prior to Entry of French Claims Dr. Brauns

Berlin— The demoralization in social and economic conditions in the Ruhr and the Rhineland which are in with the Franco-Belgian occupation, is solely responsible for the radicalization of the working classes in those areas, in the opinion of Dr. Heinrich Brauns, Minister of Labor.

Dr. Brauns, who recently was rejected by the Reichstag on the Clerical Party's ticket from the Wesel-Rees District, and whose familiarity with labor conditions in south western Germany make him one of the Marx-Stresemann Cabinet, was discussing the heavy increase in th Communist vote in the elections.

"Radicalism of the Bolshevist brand," declared Dr. Brauns, was wholly foreign to the calm and facturn mentality of the Westphalians or the more sprightly temperament of the Rhinelander, who, despite the highly developed industrialism reflected in the organization of the miners and the steel workers of their areas, never revealed a penchant for political radicalism, even in the lower days.

"This is explained on the ground that unemployment was unknown" then, and because the general prosperity afforded agitators little or no opportunity to incite the masses. All this changed with the occupation of the Ruhr and the unemployment, social misery and the hatting of the natives which followed in its wake.

Epidemic of Duels Sweeping Uruguay

Three and Four Per Day Bring Police to Scene To Check Outbreak

Montevideo, Uruguay. — Duels which have been an everyday matter among the most prominent people of the social and political circles of Uruguay, are now staged more and even four times a day and are causing great concern to the police authorities of this country.

According to law, any Uruguayan citizen is free to challenge anybody to a duel, and the only thing the police can do to stop it when the duellists are discovered on the "field of honor" and before the duel has actually started.

Even Dr. Baltasar Brum, while President of the Republic was challenged and resigned his office to withdraw the offence with the point of a sword. Naturally Dr. Brum was recalled to office after the incident and this gave encouragement to other officials to fight duels.

Now, however, certain police regulations have been enforced against duels, so anybody who thinks his honor is at stake has to cross the River Plate and go to Buenos Aires, with his seconds and a case of swords and slightly wound his opponent, whereupon he feels satisfied, shakes hands with the former enemy, and the resulted parties proceed to celebrate the occasion with a "blow out" in the best restaurant in town.

Now for fun!

School's out, and now for romping play!

But in the course of play, young hands touch many things—sometimes dirty, grime-laden, and germ-covered. Disease germs lurk in all dirt and are carried from hands to face, to mouth and food.

What mothers must do

You cannot keep children from this ever-present disease-dirt. But you can, and should, do everything possible to prevent its serious effects.

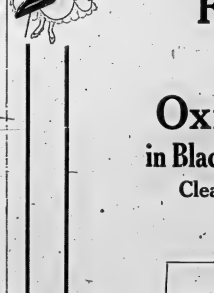

Children need the rich, purifying lather of Lifebuoy with its wonderful health-fragrance to go down deep into the pores and combat the germs ever present in dirt.

The health odour of Lifebuoy proves its antiseptic power.

HIGH SCHOOL FIVE TIE BUSINESS MEN

A volley-ball game of more than usual interest was staged at the Y Gymnasium yesterday afternoon between the Business Men No. 2 and the High School team. The first of three games went to the Business Men by the count of 15-6. At this stage it looked as if the latter were out to take the measure of the High School Boys, without undue ceremony, then the School team came to life.

The first half of the second game was more or less a repetition of the first in that the B.-M. were well out in the lead, and appeared to have it all over their opponents Then something happened; putting a lot of punch into their attack the "Fellers from the Little Red School House" overhauled the League Leaders and won out 15-13.

Coming back in the third and final game, the Business Men appeared to have a veritable walk away, since they were able to collect nine points before the School registered a count but all to no avail. Sad indeed is the remainderof our story as the Business Men No. 2, might well remark. Post the Pace on the High School appeared to be unable to do anything wrong while their less fortunate opponents could seemingly do nothing right. They bounded, played out of position fouled at the net, and resorted to nearly every form of mispiay known to the game. To put it briefly "they blew" and when they had fully completed the "Blowing process" the score stood 15-9 for H. S.

The bright feature of the game from the Business Men's standpoint is that all is not lost. Had they won this game there would have been the city championship but in losing it they are tied with High School and a play off will take place some time in the near future. Watch for the announcement of this game it will be well worth your while to be on hand when these two aggregations meet up.

High School—Barlow, Cole, Deroche, Weir and Faser.

Business Men—Brokel, Nurse, McKechnie, Woodley, Post and Shorey.

Oshawa, May 14.—Morley E. Jacobs was an added entry to the list of candidates for the Bowmanville Central Ontario League's roster. His certificate came into the secretary's hands on Monday morning. This makes the even sixteen players signed up by Secretary F. G. Chester.

PRESS INVESTIGATES

Oshawa, May 14.—On Monday last The Telegram will be able to hand out first-hand information on the former residence of Pitcher Serth of Fairbourn and the new pair to Kingston; Kelly, a pitcher, and Ryckman, a catcher. Serth of the Lidlock City is reported to be a wonderful all-round ball player, but his main duty will be to serve them up to batters of the Central Ontario League from the left side; Kelly, of Kingston, is another portsider and he, with his battery mate, are reported to be making the Limestone around the eastern end of the circuit fairly smoke with their speed.

RENAULT TO MEET JOHNSON IN JUNE

Winner will be Sent Against Harry Wills in July

New York.—Floyd Johnson, Iowa heavyweight, who staged something of a comeback on Friday night, when he knocked out Quintin Romero of Chile in the seventh round of a ten-round match at Madison Square Garden, will battle Jack Renault, hard-hitting Canadian, in the next bout of a campaign which may put him again in the ranks of title contenders, from which he was dropped a year ago.

Tex Rickard announced yesterday that he planned to hold a Renault-Johnson match at the Polo Grounds in June, probably the middle of June. The victor of the contest, according to Rickard's plans, would oppose Harry Wills, giant negro, at Doyle's Thirty Acres in July for the right to step into the ring with Champion Jack Dempsey at the big plus bowl in September. This arrangement is contingent upon a victory for Wills over Bartley Madden in their 15-round match next Monday night at the Queensboro Stadium.

SENATORS TO MEET PONIES SATURDAY

Kingston, May 14.—With an exhibition game with the Ottawa Senators carded for Saturday, if the fate of the Fair Grounds is dried up in time to do with the opening game of the C.O.H.L. season a week from to-day, the local fans are about to see the start of what promises to be the best baseball season locally in many years. Saturday's first exhibition of the season will be played in a large crowd, for the fans are keen on seeing how the new players of the local team perform, and just as anxious to see the old favorites in action again.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

If, by any chance, she had returned his love—if the moon were made of green cheese and elephants could fly," he muttered, "then the world would be a very different place. No, I'm best out of it. I was an idiot to stay, and I've got punished for my folly. I wonder whether I shall manage to forget her? Afraid not—judging by my present feelings; though they say if you don't see a girl for a year—What rot they talk about love! If I never see her again —and it isn't very likely I should—

I should go on loving her just the same. How lonely I shall be without Bob! 'Take to, by and large, as they say at the docks, I seem to have been doomed to a wander-ing and solitary life. Well, I must make the best of it. Poor little Nettie! She'll miss me—for a day or two. And I—heaven and earth! don't I miss her now! If I'd married Esther, I might have had a little girl like Nettie—None of that, now!" he admonished himself sternly. "What you've got to try and do is to forget Vancouver and all that therein dwells, and the sooner you set about it the better."

The weather was fine, and he walked a good part of the way to London, and was not altogether unhappy; for he was strong in perfect health, and he loved the country with all an Englishman's love.

On the third day he took the train, and reached London on a close, warm evening, and looked about him with grim distaste for the crowded streets and grim houses that squeezed round the terminus.

He had only spent a few shillings of his money, and he was sorely tempted to put up at an hotel and take it easy for a time; but he knew from experience how soon a few pounds go in the great city, and, with a shrug of resignation, he made his way toward the humble dock which lie in that East of London which is as strange a region to those who live in the West as Constantinople.

It was ten o'clock before he reached the place he was making for, and stopped before one of the small houses in a street near the dock gates. It was—unlike its neighbors, which were mostly small, chandlers, roommongers, and old shops—a private house; but the door was divided batch fashion, and the upper half was still open, and in a small room inside an old man was bending hoots by the light of an evil-smelling paraffin lamp. It was the only thing that lighted the room, which was scrupulously neat, notwithstanding the occupant's employment. A teapot stood on the hob, and a cup of that beverage which cheers not and poor alike was at the shoemaker's elbow. He was so engrossed in his work that he did not see Jack until he leant over the lower half of the door, and said cheerily:

"Hallloo, Jacob!"

"Oh, it's you, mister," said the old man. "So you've come back!"

Mrs. Henry MacDonald

This Article Will Interest Every Mother!

Toronto, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest help to motherhood of any medicine I have ever known. I am the mother of six children and I suffered greatly each time expecting the last one. When I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I did so and it was the best advice I ever had, as it not only strengthened me materially so suffering, and had a grand baby, that always been very healthy. I regained my strength very quickly afterward. I was so thankful to have been advised of this medicine, it gave me such wonderful help."—Mrs. Henry McDonald, 3 Wilmot Avenue.

Jack nodded.

"You don't seem very surprised, Jacob."

Jacob shook his head.

"No," he said, compassedly. "Most of you come back, I notice." He looked through the door-way towards the dock gates. "Most of 'em come back with empty purses and empty hearts, and many of 'em go away with full ones. Come in, mister. It's summat cooler in the air of the place, I reckon; it's fine an' open here, you see."

Jack smiled as he sidled up the narrow and by no means over-clean street, and settled the heavy air-pocket of an extraordinary mixture of odours, in which that of tar and bilge-water distinctly predominated, and smiled again.

"And where have you been—bay-making?" asked the old cobbler.

"Right the first time!" responded Jack, cheerfully.

"Ah! a good many of 'em tries that; but they seldom stick to it. The country's a dull kind of place—at least, I should think so; I've never seen it myself, and nothing like London."

"You're right, there isn't!" assented Jack, with emphasis.

Jacob nodded.

"No, mister. Then as has once lived in it can't keep away from it for long. Walked far?"

"Pretty far, far enough to make me want to go to bed. Can I have my old room, Jacob?" he asked, as he opened the door and went in, his head almost touching the low ceiling, his stalwart figure seeming to "crowd" the room.

Jacob shook his head.

"Sorry, master," he said. "I've let it. You see, I didn't think you'd be coming back, so soon. Not that I could have afforded to keep it."

"Of course not; but I'm sorry; I was very comfortable here. So—for-ive I've—ven; it is the only house in the place where they use soap and a scrubbing brush. Well, I must try my luck elsewhere."

The old cobbled crutched his head with his awl, and surveyed Jack ruminatingly.

"Your old room's gone," he said, "but there's another little bit in the top; you could have that—if you could get into it."

Jack laughed.

"If it's smaller than the old one it will be a bit of a squeeze," he said, "but I'll try it. Perhaps your new lodger mayn't stay long."

Jacob shook his head doubtfully.

"Can't say, I'm sure. I ain't particular as to who I let to, but I give her notice if you think of staying on, though she pays her rent regular and is quiet enough—quiet!"

"Oh, don't give her notice on my account," said Jack. "Especially as you stay is uncertain. I'll manage. I shouldn't like to turn a woman out. Who is she, a sailmaker?" For nearly all the women over the docks are employed in the sail-loft, rope, walks, or similar places.

Jacob shook his head.

"Dunno, mister. No, she ain't, nor she's out most all day and don't come home till late. She's a respectable enough, as I shouldn't have her."

"That's all right," rejoined Jack cheerfully, as he undoing his knapsack and dropped it on a chair.

"Mostly Jane Ann is directly," said Jacob. "She've bin round to get a bit of something for supper. You'll join her, mister. She'll be glad to see you if you were a bit of a favourite of hers."

"Oh, was I?" said Jack, with a laugh. "I didn't know that Jane Ann ever was always pretty sharp with me."

"She pave everybody; it's her way," Jacob remarked, compassedly. "It's in her blood."

"Yes, I've always suspected that Mordy Jane's aunt was worse than her bite," Jack said.

Y.W.C.T.U. ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

Plan Continuance of Good Work Accomplished During Past Year—Miss Reeves is New President

The Y. W. C. T. U. are busy these days planning for another year's work though the society is small in number their energy and interest in the work makes quite a showing.

The annual meeting was held this eve-ning at the home of Mrs. Harold Holton, Charles Street. The officers for the coming year are as follows:

President—Miss Reeves.

Recording Secretary—Miss Bird.

Corresponding Sec.—Miss Middleton.

Treasurer—Miss N. Kerr.

Surprise Coupons—Miss Stapley.

Flower and Fruit—Miss Mary.

Press Representative — Miss McClatchie.

Sewing School—Miss Templeton and Miss Reeves.

In addition to the regular executive and junior meetings which transact business, educational and the social hour all find a place, some of the outstanding features of the year's work were:

Two visits to the House of Refuge when all the old folks were entertained with song, story and candy. Collecting supplies and money towards their small business but the revenue derived from these coupons is also used in charitable work in connection with Traveller's Aid work. The Sewing School in connection with the Schuster Mission which has been conducted by the society for over a dozen years, gave a good report and will open this fall for the winter. The last closing was made momentous for the little ones through the kindness of the Kiwanis Club.

The annual meeting was enlivened by the singing of Miss Feenan and Bobby Heyer. A social time and refreshments were served by Mrs. Holton.

Sage Tea Keeps Your Hair Dark

WHEN MIXED WITH SULPHUR IT BRINGS BACK ITS BEAUTIFUL LUSTRE AT ONCE

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance, hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or at from any druggist a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

DON'T WAIT FOR PAIN TO AROUSE YOU

You have read so much about the dreadful effects of the body of poisons from the roots of the teeth, and [illegible] that the same, that you have perhaps thought that the doctors and the dentists were magnifying the matter.

Unfortunately it cannot be magnified, because only to the intensive itself, because only to the intensive itself, there can be no doubt that the tonsils, teeth, and gums cause more injection than any other part of the body.

You will remember that when a poison goes down into the stomach, and has to [illegible] through the process of digestion in the intestine and liver, that a good deal of the harm is taken out of it. But from the roots of teeth, and gums there is poured into the substance go directly into the blood stream, and the small amounts can set up serious trouble.

And so when you go to your physician you will likely say "I don't know what's the matter with me, but I don't feel up to the mark. I don't seem to eat, sleep right, or take the proper interest in anything. I seem to be run down, but certainly I am not really ill. I am not myself."

In the old days, if you could afford it, you were treated on the assumption that you had a vacation.

Now one of the first things your physician does is to look into your mouth.

It may be a matter suspicious looking teeth, some crowns that have been on for years, or some pyorrhoea.

Sometimes it is a pair of foul tonsils.

Instead of sending you on a vacation he sends you off to get an X Ray of the teeth. The films will show up the trouble, and the removal of a tooth or two, and the cleaning out of the gums is often indicated. You know you are sound enough, that you have no symptoms of disease, but subsequent X-ray examinations have revealed this. That was what puzzled you.

But when you realize that with infected roots sending their daily quota of poison directly into the blood, and also indirectly along with the food into the stomach and intestine, you can see that you are up against a stiff proposition to keep fit.

Now it may be a lazy liver that is making you feel tired out and disinterested in life, but if you look down in the habit of visiting the dentist only when you have a toothache your trouble is likely in your mouth.

GIRL IS VICTIM OF ORIENTAL DISEASE

SPECIAL TOUR TO PACIFIC COAST

New York, May 14.—Strumming a ukelele in Flower Hospital as the result of strength imparted to her through the decree of a translucent specimen in which her mother gave a quart of her blood that the girl's life might be saved, Miss Theresa Nano, aged 18, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was found by attending physicians to be the victim of a rare Oriental disease, seldom if ever encountered in the country.

To discover the source of the infection physicians have centered upon the only possible point, a Chinese restaurant in Cedar Rapids where, with her classmates, she frequently went from the school for luncheon.

The disease, known as the Shiga strain of dysentery, is almost unknown in this country, although many thousands of Chinese die from it annually.

GETS FISH IN PAIL

Hoover, May 13.—Fish can be caught in buckets as well as bucket shops. John Morlock, a prominent Hanover manufacturer, out trout fishing, went to the river "to get a pail of water," had returned with a nice speckled trout, measuring 11½ inches—so far.

Mr. Morlock explains the phenomenon in his own words: "As I stepped on the bank of the river and dipped the pail into the water, a big fish curved out from underneath, struck its head against the inside or bottom of the pail, and was momentarily stunned. I jerked the pail up quickly, and there was the speckled beauty."

This was the second largest fish caught during the day's exposition of the fishing club to which Mr. Morlock belongs.

Church Union, Temperance and Budget Discussed By Prelate

OPPOSES THE BAR

Declares Roman Catholic Church Must Be Part of Union

London, Ont., May 14.—"In Canada three things stand out," said Bishop Williams, in his charge to the synod of Huron, "the balancing of the budget for the first time in ten years, the revolt from prohibition in the quarters and the effort to conclude union between three religious communions—the latter ourselves."

Prohibition, the bishop said, was not consistent with the teaching of Christ, "with the divine plan in the moral evolution of the race, and with the Christian way of life, which demands self-denial, but never its imposition by force upon the body. Therefore, opposition to prohibition was not opposition to Christianity. Reviewing the results of the O. T.A. the abolition of the bar seems not an undoubted gain, which must never be lost. On the other hand, because the law lacks the moral support of large numbers of people, its enforcement is a all sumptuary laws, is nearly impossible and causes resentment.

Opposes the Bar

"The resolutions regarding the medicinal use of liquor are ambitious and the high price liquor has been the chief and best-forgave and most effective check to the evening pleasures, we must assert. Before prohibition it was the law to allow the return of the bar or saloon or any change that will encourage drinking for drinking's sake; we must not encourage illicit traffic, and we must frame our laws that they will receive the moral backing, not only of abstainists and the large mass of moderate drinkers, but of the whole community, who do not consider the question one of right or wrong, but simply one of personal expediency."

Church Union Hopeful

Speaking of church union, the Bishop said:

"If church unity is to mean more than words, unity between us and Rome is a question that must be faced sooner or later, for no great communion can be left out."

The bishop reminded the synod that a conversation of the third stage between men in each communion getting together who have open expression of each other. But these are in no sense delegates or representatives, so if they fail to make headway all will not be dropped. If they achieve something then will be the time to appoint delegates but, then, the delegates will be representative of the whole church and not of one section. If anything worth while is achieved through these conversations, that something must be laid before the Lambeth conference and all the official assemblies of the Anglican church throughout the world.

"Volume of the kind can be binding on the Anglican church in Canada until it has been adopted by our own general synod, the province and synod of Rupert's Land, for we are not subject to any jurisdiction outside Canada," the bishop said.

To demand submission in the face of Rome dogmas was "tantamount to asking Anglicans to accept the dictum of Rome against reason, experience and historical evidence," said the bishop, and the Anglican position, was unthinkable, declared the bishop.

PEEVED OVER BIRDS

North Alberta Roused by Game Laws; Rebellious Mood Growing

Edmonton, Alta.—People living in the north country are in a rebellious mood as a result of the manner in which existing laws governing the shooting of geese and ducks is working to their disadvantage, according to Col. J. K. Cornwall, president of the Northern Trading Company, who has just returned from a trip north.

"The Government of Canada will have a first-class revolution on its hands in the Northwest Territories unless its tactics in respect to migratory birds are changed," said Col. Cornwall. "At present the laws forbid the shooting of geese and ducks. The laws of the United States are different, and the sportsmen to the south are allowed to kill them wholesale. Thousands of birds that hatch to the north every year are killed when they migrate. The people of the north need these birds for food, and unless the law is modified, allowing them to shoot for food, there is liable to be serious trouble.

Man Who Found Patagonia Oil Wealth Ekes Out Lean Living on Modest Pension

Buenos Aires.—The one man who has contributed more to the wealth and progress of his native Argentina than any other has for years eked out a meager livelihood on a pension of 200 peso a month, lives by himself on a tiny bungalow on the plot of ground bestowed on him by a grateful Government, deep in the hills of Patagonia, and yet is content.

His name is hardly known even in this country; the papers have never printed his picture, and though there was a feast recently given in his honor it was only a homely affair set up by the natives of Patagonia—Indians most by, a few workmen of the oil wells and conquistadores—and paid more attention to the "asados con chili" than to the guest of honor.

He is Don Cristobal de Coronado, the discoverer of the famous oil fields of Patagonia—the Commodore Rivadavia and many others that are by far the richest in South America, and familiar to all citizens of the country.

Sought Water

This is how the man came to discover such wealth for Argentina and, in spite of it, is poor now:

Long ago the Ministry of Agriculture of Argentina, at the request of a few settlers of Patagonia—hardly known to white men then—decided to examine one of the area that is now to send an expedition to look for water, which was necessary for the settlers in the country. At the head of the expedition was appointed one of the employees of the Ministry, Don Cristobal de Coronado.

Off went the explorers and for five years drilled without finding water. Finally the Ministry grew weary and recalled the expedition to Buenos Aires. Coronado, however, wrote to the Ministry and obtained permission to stay in the south and search for water, with the help of the Patagonian Indians. To that the Ministry agreed.

Coronado continued searching for water during two years. Then he wrote for permission to return to Buenos Aires. While awaiting a reply, however, he decided to drill for the last time on land that had not been touched before by the expedition. And this time they struck—not water, but pure black petroleum! Thus Comodo Rivadavia wells were drilled later. They are now yielding thousands of barrels a day.

Coronado Ignored

The Ministry, duly informed of the findings, organized the exploitation of one of the greatest foundation of wealth of Argentina and paid little attention to the finder—allowed him to retire from active service with 200 pesos a month salary, which he still receives.

Happy to get it, Don Cristobal de Coronado bought for himself a piece of land in the woods and set up a cottage, where he has lived alone and neglected for ten years, until his friends, the natives of Patagonia, gave him a little party the other day to show him that he is not entirely forgotten.

On that occasion Senor Coronado said in a reporter:

"Oh, I did not like Buenos Aires, anyway—better the Ministry now the work. I'm happy down here, and I'm going to stay."

Friendly Visit Really A Scheme

Rumanian Royal Family Would Raise Loans

The visit of the Rumanian royal family which is interesting London society is much more than merely a social affair.

The real purpose of the visit is understood to be an endeavor to raise loans in Britain for the development of Rumania's oil fields, forests, fisheries, and also to attempt to arouse British sympathy with Rumania in her dispute with Soviet Russia over Bessarabia. Rumania has turned down the latest suggestion for a mutual pact of peace, modeled after the Cuncho-Slovakia convention. Rumania refused the proposition suggesting that France should place an army in Bessarabia in the event of Russia aggression, with which suggestion France in turn refused to comply.

Are Wanted

The possibility of any active sympathy toward Rumania on the part of the present British government is very unlikely considering the attitude of the Labor party towards political conditions in that country. The Herald, the Labor party organ, say editorially to-day, "We would like to believe that during their visit to England the king and queen of Rumania will be reminded of the distaste felt throughout England against the method by which the Rumanian people are despotically ruled.

"The present party in the last election was unfairly defeated. That party is excluded from office because the rulers persist in believing that their interests are served through a corrupt and unscrupulous gang of reactionary and incompetent politicians."

In spite of the sentiment which this article reflects, the visiting royalties, however, are assured an enthusiastic reception wherever they go.

Halifax, N. S., May 14—"They sail out around us almost continually, tankers, photographs of the ships, the crew, deck cargo and their knows what," declared members of the crew of the Norwegian steamer Strathdoon, from Leith, from Boer, when asked by reporters if the United States coast guard cutters ever came around.

Port Arthur, May 14—With the aid of his dog, an Airedale W. H. West of Kaministiquia, a few miles west of Port Arthur, captured an entire bee family consisting of the mother and 4 bee pupae.

The dog kept the mother bee's attention while Mr. West maneuvered them behind to affect the capture.

Market Absorbed Large Bond Issues

Few Large Issues Are in Sight; Spirited Bidding by Dealers

In Ontario we seem to have a sort of market in which bonds may be sold, providing the right bond is offered in the right quarter. Most of the large new issues appear to have been placed quietly and without disturbing the market in the slightest degree. For example during the month of April three new issues were totalled more than $30 000,000, and it is understood that all the bonds have been taken very few of which, however, City of Toronto, Province of Saskatchewan and Canadian Pacific Railway. These bonds seem to have been placed without any extensive campaign such as would probably have been apparent if there were a slump and disclosed after at times when the bond market was even more active than it is today.

Small Offerings

Dealers seem to be fully alive to this situation and their opinion seems to be expressed in the bids submitted recently for new municipal issues, very few of which, however, have been of substantial size. In the case of a $100,000 county issue, ten bids were received with a spread of only one-third of a point between the five highest tenders. This is considered to be close bidding and indicates a unanimity of opinion among dealers. It is also noticeable that more than one fairly substantial municipal issue, recently been bought by banks, who are apparently willing to either hold the bonds for their own account as an investment or to sell portions of them if convenient to do so.

Little Change Expected

From the general outlook one would judge that the market will remain almost unchanged for some little time and the technical situation almost warrants the opinion that it might strengthen. The reasons are that recent offerings have been quickly taken up; comparatively few bonds are shown on dealers' lists and the amount of new issues in sight is considerably smaller than usual. The financial expenditures of any consequence now known to be under consideration by municipalities have already borrowed to fulfil requirements for the spring months, and it would seem, therefore, probable that for the next two or three months at least the bond business will be confined largely to renewal issues, including Dominion of Canada bonds. In the case of the latter, these will probably be renewed activity in connection with the long term taxfree, because of the announcement of the acting Minister of Finance that indirect taxation will be increased by means of customs duties and that apparently the scale of increase taxation will remain unchanged.

Town Of Cornwall

The Town of Cornwall will sell $69,572.-20 5-12 per cent 20 instalment bonds to Bain, Swanhall & Co., at 100.027. At this price the money is costing the town a 5.42 per cent rate.

Village Of Caledonia

The Village of Caledonia will sell $96,-000 5 percent 20 instalment bonds guaranteed by the County of Haldimand to Nesbitt, Thomson & Co., at 97.253. At this price the money is costing the village a 5.33 per cent rate.

City Of Kitchener

The Dominion Bank was awarded the issue of Kitchener bonds amounting to $280,000, bearing interest at 5-12 percent, repayable in 10, 20 and 30 annual instalments, on a bid of 100.71.

Township Of Tecumseh

R. A. Daly & Co. were awarded the issue of Toronto Township bonds amounting to $10,000, bearing interest at 5-12 percent and repayable in 20 annual instalments, on a bid of 101.11.

County Of Renfrew

County of Renfrew bonds amounting to $100,000 bearing interest at 5-12 percent and payable in 20 equal annual instalments, were awarded to Bank of Nova Scotia at 101.52.

WRECKS PLUMBING IN CELL ROOM

Liquor Crazed Hercules Wrecks Interior Following His Arrest

Just one man occupied the cell room at police station last night, but his strength was as the strength of ten. He proved to be a real Hercules when he found himself locked up. The man who was crazed by bad whiskey tore the plumbing out of the room completely boasting a steel pipe almost in two. Today, the interior of the cell room was strewn with the plumbing wreckage, and plumbers are making the new installation. A small flood followed in the wake of the wrecking operations.

The man who was allowed out on bail until tomorrow morning, when he will appear for trial on a drunk charge, went back to his work today.

When located by P. C. 'Arthur Booth, he was seated in his automobile on Front street at 9 p.m., crying out for police protection. He was creating a disturbance.

The plumbing bill of course, will be sent to accused for settlement.

Probably no city in the Province shows more consideration to their temporary prisoners at the police station than the Belleville Police Department, where the accused is not locked in a cell, (though there are a number of them) unless he be more violent. He is a lowed the freedom of a large bright room, provided with mattress and is kept supplied with a serviceable mattress.

Nomination Plan Bringing Results

Approvals Run Over 1000 During Two Months in Immigration Drive

Ottawa.—That the nomination plan of assisted passages from the British Isles to Canada is working well and resulting in the bringing to Canada of a largely increased number of agricultural workers and household help is shown in some statistics just compiled by the Department of Immigration and Colonization.

Approved nominations handled through the offices here from February to April 12 this year totalled 696 males, 372 females and 604 children. When compared with the previous month it indicates a considerable increase, for during the entire period from April 1 last year to January 31 this year the totals were 328 males, 175 females and 383 children, or, in the nine weeks of this year there were more than double the number for the previous ten months.

Bugbear Removed

"It is very convenient for the farmer," said an official of the department, "was the bugbear for the newcomer is the cost of his passage from his home to Canada with his family which, at the present high rate, is almost prohibitive. Under the new plan the children's passage is paid from the Government without the obligation of repayment.

"Another advantage is that while formerly many farmers could not take advantage of the Government's scheme because they were unacquainted by the Old Country, they now can make descriptive nominations simply by telling the department their requirements. Then on the other side of the Atlantic, there is the same situation. Many have wanted to come, but there is no one to nominate them, so our officials there have the power to nominate these people."

Triumphal Entry Planned For Courier At New York City

KEEN INTEREST IN GWEN'S RIDE SHOWN IN N.Y.

Poughkeepsie Makes Entry One of Civic Importance to City

HIGHLY ENTERTAINED

Plans Being Laid for Triumphal Entry Into New York City

The following article from the Poughkeepsie News Eagle, will give those interested locally some idea of the interest and excitement being taken in the trip of Miss Gwen Lazier, courier to Washington, on the part of the people along the route.

The reception at Poughkeepsie was similar to others along the route, and a real triumphal entry is being planned for New York City.

Miss Gwendoline Lazier, the Belleville courier, will arrive at the city limits this afternoon at four o'clock, twenty-four hours in advance of her schedule, and arrangements have been pushed ahead so that the parade and reception followed by dinner at the Nelson House this evening will take place instead of tomorrow.

The information that Miss Lazier was to reach Poughkeepsie sooner than had been anticipated was learned by Mayor-Investor Phillips yesterday, when he telephoned to Mayor Harvey at Hudson, and learned that the courier had left that city at 8 a.m. In the afternoon Mayor Lovelace motored in a point just beyond Fishkeck with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Devenbeck, where he met Miss Lazier and then returned to Rhinebeck to tell officials here of her coming.

Events were pushed forward six hours in Rhinebeck and a dinner was given for Miss Lazier at the Beekman Arms Monday evening. Mayor Lovelace told The Eagle-News that when servants took charge of her horse, "Tip" to give him a rub-down and rest, but the young courier objected, and insisted on scrubbing "Tip" and arranging for his comfort personally.

Miss Lazier is bearing a message of invitation to President Coolidge for the celebration at Belleville early month in honor of the 160th anniversary of the founding of Upper Canada and is making the entire trip from Belleville to Washington on horseback. Appropriate greetings have been arranged by the various municipalities through which she has passed, and it is certain that Poughkeepsie will not be behind hand in reception.

The Mayor has appointed Colonel William L. Barrett chairman of the committee for the escort, and others have been issued for the afternoon, during the afternoon and evening, which are printed herewith:

Headquarters of Reception Committee for traveling Canadian Courier.

In connection with the arrival in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., of the official Courier from Belleville, Canada, who is traveling by horseback to Washington, D. C., arrangements have been made to provide a suitable escort to meet Miss Lazier at the city line and accompany her to her head quarters at the Nelson House, City.

The escort will consist of one division to be commanded by Colonel W. L. Barrett; and will be formed on the North Road just north of entrance to St. Francis Hospital facing south at 5 o'clock p.m., on Monday, May 19.

When the Courier has arrived and has joined the escort the division will move at 5:15 p.m. in the following order.

Scofield's Twenty-first Regiment Band; Prof. F. L. Scofield, leader. Official Automobile, Mayor Harvey and Traveler, and other City Officials. Members of the Common Council. Board of Police Commissioners. Mounted escort Cub W. L. Barrett

KEY TO DEATH SERIES FOUND POLICE THINK

Arrest in New York May Solve Dot King and Other Cases

NAB "MOLL BUZZERS"

Sleuths on Slayers' Trail With Jewel Robber of Broadway Trapped

New York, May 15.—Harry Lasser, alias Jackson, arrested on a charge of stealing cash, robbing Mrs. Howard Johnson of $9000 worth of jewels in a hotel room, was positively identified today, according to the police, as the man who held up and robbed three Asbury women, Dec. 6th, on a train, of $15,000 worth of jewels from them.

The three women are Mrs. Nellie Ford, her daughter, Mrs. Mildred Ford Spence, and the latter's daughter, Shirley.

"Key to "Butterfly" Mystery

Police said they expected this development as having a direct bearing on the murder of Dot King, and possibly containing a key to the solution of the long list of crimes against women since the murders of Dot King and Louise Lawson, Broadway "butterflies".

Lasser's interception, they intimate may lead to the capture of what is believed to be an organized gang of "moll buzzers," as the police term criminals who prey on bejeweled women.

Lasser, whose real name probably is Jackson, police say, is declared to be a brother of Sam Jackson, known as the "window smasher," who is now doing a term in Sing Sing.

Lasser Identified

Lasser's identification as the man who attempted to rob Mrs. Ford, her daughter and granddaughter, was made dramatic by the appearance of the latter—Shirley, aged 7—at police headquarters.

Lasser was lined up with ten other men and quickly picked out by Shirley as the gentleman she and her mother were then taken, separately, to view the ten men. They also picked out Lasser with little hesitation.

In pointing out Lasser, the child said:

"This is the man that pointed a pistol at me and threatened to kill me."

The detectives professed to see a striking similarity in the manner in which Mrs. Johnson is declared to have been shot about the throat with a cord and the way the Lawson and King crimes were committed.

Liquor Treaty Not Enforced

Ottawa, May 15.—The rum-running treaty between Canada and the United States, which was supposed to be concluded months ago, has not yet been officially terminated, and interested people are wondering why, if anything, is to come out of it.

It will be recalled that last fall the United States government dispatched to Ottawa a delegation of officials to arrange repressive measures on international rum running. The United States' requests were found too extensive, but part of them were agreed to in a communication sent to Washington. The principal feature from a promise of generyl co-operation, was that Canada should notify the States of all liquor clearances destined for American destination and also make a rigid surveillance of the harbor. The agreement provided, likewise, for the return of stolen automobiles.

Treaty "Hung Up"

It seems that the United States has come back with the additional proposals, or, in any event, further correspondence on the subject has been forwarded here, and meantime the treaty, in place of being wound up is hung up.

COURIER SPENDS ONLY $26 ON LONG TRIP

Miss Gwen Lazier, Belleville Courier enroute to Washington, D. C. where, she will personally invite President Coolidge of the United States to attend the monster celebration of the 160th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists, on June 16th and 17th next, has spent but $26 during her ride, and hopes to be in New York city this week end.

This amount includes ferry fare from Kingston to Cape Vincent, N. Y., for herself, and "Tip", a new saddle blanket, new stirrup straps and other minor requisites in connection with the journey.

Mayor Miller officiating, in conversation with The Intelligencer, remarked that he believed the publicity gained by the Washington Courier trip was already worth $26,000 to the celebration, and not $26 is the total expenditure to date.

DISTRICT I.O.O.F. HOLDS MEETING

Many Representatives of Nearby Points Attend Annual Meeting

Many representatives were present in the city yesterday afternoon to attend the meeting of District No. 49 of the I.O.O.F. Society The district comprises Belleville, Quinte, Frankford, Trenton, Campbellford and Brighton. The I.O.O.F. temple the meeting was held under the charge of Bro. G. Way, D.D. G.M.

Bro. H. Ranson District Secretary, presented an encouraging report. It showed that up to December 31st, 1923 the membership in the district totalled 1,011.

Bro. C. Hanna ex-Mayor, was prepared gave a general invitation to the representatives to have their lodges take part in the fraternal services parade to be held in connection with the U. E. L. celebration, it is expected that a number of the lodges will participate in same.

Bro. James Duckworth, a Past Grand of the city was unanimously elected as D. D. G. M. for the ensuing year.

The remainder of the session was taken up with routine business.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to R. W. D.D.G.M. Bro. G. Way, for the courteous and efficient manner in which he had discharged his onerous his term' of office.

Bro. Way suitably acknowledged the compliment paid him.

Evening Meeting

In the evening upwards of one hundred members of the various lodges in the district were in attendance. After the lodge had been formally open the degree team in connection with the Belleville Lodge exemplified the third degree in a manner that was highly commendable, all taking their parts most acceptably.

At the conclusion of the lodge work a number of the visitors gave brief addresses congratulating the lodge upon the excellency of their work. Bros. Mc. H. Kennedy and Bro. H. H. Ketcheson, P.G.'s of this city, were also called upon and spoke briefly.

Later refreshments were served after which community singing was indulged in for some time.

HOLDUP BANDIT CONFESSES TO FATAL ATTACK

Admits Being Present when Bank Car Was Attacked In Montreal

TWO IN AUTO

Declares Random Shot Caused Death of Money Car's Chauffeur

Montreal, May 15.—A confession signed by Chas. Nieri, alias Negro, in which he states that he and Serafini were in the foreign bandit car from which the Banque de Hochelaga chauffeur, Henri Giroux, was shot to death in the course of the holdup affray of April 1st last, was laid before the Grand Jury yesterday, it is stated on good authority to-day. Serafini stoutly denies having anything to do with the holdup, and further declares that even if he is sent up for capital punishment he will not give information of any other actor whatever to the Crown.

Nieri's confession, the confession of Nieri, either he or Serafini fired the shot that killed the chauffeur. They were shooting at random he states, to frighten the driver and to prevent him from putting up a fight, but did not intend to kill. It was a stray bullet which was responsible for the lives being taken by the desperadoes of the bank car crew caused Cleroux's death, but according to the statement, Nieri is unable to say whether he or Serafini fired the shot.

Three other men besides Nieri and Serafini were in the actual holdup gang, according to the confession. These are the man Parello held in Plattsburgh on extradition proceedings, and two others Salvatori and Arena who are still at large having escaped the police net to date.

After the holdup the money was divided into three parts, and each handed to the ten accomplices who were implicated in the affair, being Frank, Morel, Gambino, Davis, Valentino, Arena, Salvatori, Parello, Serafini and Nieri himself.

According to a reliable informant to-day the alleged confession was type-written by Crown Prosecutor Calder himself and subsequently signed by Nieri. It was on the strength of the confession, it is stated, that the Grand Jury returned a true bill against the holdup suspects yesterday.

POINCARE TO LEAVE ARENA ON LONG REST

French Premier Will Return When Time "Is Opportune"

HEALTH GIVING WAY

Strain of Office Telling on Him; Herriot May be His Successor

Paris, May 15.—Premier Raymond Poincare, who will resign with his cabinet the first of June, plans to withdraw from active politics and take a long rest, the Matin stated to-day.

Poincare's friends said his health has suffered from the strain of office during the past three years and he has been advised to take a lengthy vacation.

The retiring Premier may ask the Senate for leave of absence to avoid participation in Senate debates. Politics are being flooded with requests to write newspaper articles, but has accepted none of them. He told friends he would resume politics when he judged the time to be opportune.

Leave Policy As It Is

In the interim until June 1, the Poincare Cabinet will make no important decisions upon either home or foreign affairs. The question of foreign policy will be left to the new Government.

Opinion grows stronger that the Radical Socialists will come into power when the present Cabinet meets.

Quarrel Ends In Fisticuffs

Peterboro Ont., May 15.—Paving problems precipitated the Board of Works meeting with a scrimmage that resulted in Alderman Robert Hall, chairman of the board and also Alderman Malcolm McIntyre coming to fisticuffs. They were separated, but not before the face of Mayor W. J. Turner and others. After the battle the meeting was adjourned sine die and the proceedings continued, with Alderman Morrison resuming the chair.

The encounter resulted from a misunderstanding when Alderman Hall put a motion rescinding one introduced by Alderman McIntyre earlier in the evening, and carried. The chairman did not understand the nature of the motion, he said, but on the same motion being put after peace had been restored, he carried it by a large majority.

Alderman McIntyre proposed paving 12,350 square yards of pavement by day labor under supervision of the city engineer. Another 10,000 square yards were to be done in asphalt or bituminous concrete.

After three hours' discussion Aldermen Jones and Phelan moved to rescind the motion which had carried and the question was allowed by chairman Hall. McIntyre put on his coat to leave the meeting, but remarked in passing that the chairman was making affairs. This opened the quarrel.

Later, the motion to rescind was carried, and a subsequent motion to let the contract for bituminite paving to the Warren Company and the contract for paving to John Carroll also carried.

GRIT TARIFF HITS ENTITY OF DOMINION

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen Clearly Indicates Tariff Policy of King Government Should be Decided By Electors of Canada—Menace to Country

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Ottawa, May 15.—Following his thunderbolt delivered in his speech before the House yesterday, in which he declared that the Dominion today is facing a deficit of $42,000,000 instead of a surplus of $21,000,000 claimed by the Liberal Government, the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen today continued his attack on the budget as outlined by the present government.

In declaring that the policy of the present Government in regard to the tariff is a fatal one for the manufacturers and the entity of Canada, Mr. Meighen clearly indicated that not only the Conservative party, but the whole of Eastern Canada is absolutely opposed to the plans of the present Government, and declared that the issue should be decided by the electors, not by the tariff.

Certain of Stand

"I believe in the protective system," said Mr. Meighen, "and I believe that when we have a protective system it should be balanced; it should be symetrical, and it should be general. If I am disinterested in a waterside project and still found one applied, I would want it to be equitable still; I would not want it permanent, to use the standard expression of the honorable member for Centre Toronto, Mr. McBride.

A tariff that treats one manufacturer one way, and another another, and another class in a different way cannot be defended by any person. The free trader from his standpoint can defend no tariff on Canadian-made goods, for that is the protective tariff as well defined by the honorable gentleman from Springfield (Sir Lomer Gouin). Protectionists can defend the tariff on Canadian-made goods fairly and equitably applied, but no human being can defend what this Government proposes, either on the theory of free trade or on the theory of protection. Yet anybody tried by I have not heard anybody try to. Ministers have tried, one after the other, but oh such defences.

"Could I illustrate better than by the words of the Minister of Finance (Mr. McMurray). He was fair, he says, can dispute it. Because I reported free trade till six o'clock, and protection from eight o'clock."

A Deficit of $42,000,000

In his analysis of Canada's national railway and canal system, the first part of his budget speech, Mr. Meighen showed the Government's own keeping surplus of $31,000,000, as claimed by the Government, there was a real deficit of $42,000,000. His figures were taken from the Government official returns of April 30th, the last fiscal year ending March 31st and included all revenue and expenditure.

His analysis of the railway situation showed that the estimated deficit this year instead of a betterment of $17,500,747, will be increased to $24,257,276, and if the increase in fixed charges for the year of $5,783,547 was deducted, the betterment will be only $1,243,422. Mr. Meighen's tabulated analysis of the national and railway finances are shown.

KEEP OFF THE GRASS!

Citizens accustomed to cutting across the parks in the city were this morning greeted with signs asking that the "Keep off the grass" Belleville's parks are among the beauty points of the city and it is hoped that the citizens will observe the request of the Parks Board to the letter.

The parks of the city should be especially beautiful this season; the heavy rains have brought the green carpets to a luxuriant growth and if properly taken care of will duly impress those who visit here during the U.E.L. celebration.

The home gardener who has been ready to dig their plot of ground for the last couple of weeks has been delayed by the wet weather, but those who have already planted are finding rapid progress in plant growth.

VERBAL ECONOMY

On Thursday, April 10, Hon. J. A. Robb, acting Minister of Finance, brought down Canada's budget. On Tuesday, April 29, Hon. Philip Snowden presented the Imperial budget to the British House of Commons. Thursday-night of this week will likely see the debate finished at Ottawa and the main resolution put to the House. Even that will close only the first phase of budget analysis. But early Monday morning, also of this week, the British House in a late sitting, cleaned up the budget resolutions, and gave first reading to the financial bill embodying its proposals. This left the slate clear for Tuesday's debate on the Baldwin motion of censure.

Here is a pointer for us in Canada on the despatch of fiscal business. Certainly we cannot claim that our issues are more vital than those of the British Labor Government. With more than twice as many members, Westminster has clipped our time in half. This takes an element of sadness when one reflects that a deluge of important business will be rushed through in the dying hours of the session. But during the debate ideas were found for discussion of everything from National Railways to the exclusion of Orientals.

It's not the heat of our debates that hurts; it's the humidity.

NOT A CASE IN POINT

In attempting to justify the diversion of lake water at Chicago the defenders of that enterprise use some very strange arguments. George H. Barrett, counsel for the Chicago Sanitary District, told the Congressional Committee on Rivers and Harbors on Monday that if Chicago was using lake water without Canada's consent, Canadians were doing the same thing without the consent of the United States. And he mentioned, in support of his assertion, the case of the Dominion Power and Transmission Company, which uses lake water diverted from Lake Erie at Decew Falls, and is thus enabled to develop electric power at a cost of $4.60 per horse power, to be sold at $15. Chicago, he claimed has as much right as has the Canadian company to use the lake water for power development.

There were present two Canadians —one representing the Ontario Government and the other representing the Great Lakes Harbor Association. Both of these gentlemen appeared to think that the gravity of Mr. Barrett's assertion lay in his statement of the cost of the Decew Falls power and the price at which it is sold. They questioned the accuracy of the figures.

But that is not the important point. The cost of power development at Decew Falls and the price at which the power is sold do not touch the principle involved in the Chicago case. The two cases are essentially different. At Chicago water is diverted not only from Lake Michigan—it is diverted also from the Great Lakes; it is forever lost to the lake basins, and by its loss the lake levels are lowered and much water-power which belongs partly to Canada is lost. But the water diverted at Decew Falls flows back into Lake Ontario. It is not lost. Its diversion has no effect on lake and river levels. That's the point.

Record Train of British Columbia Shingles goes to United States Points

Almost 12,000,000 British Columbia red cedar edge-grain shingles, sufficient to roof more than 1,000 average-sized houses, left Vancouver, for Chicago and the Eastern States, over the Canadian Pacific Railway, recently. The train, shipped by the Hunting-Merritt Lumber Company, consisted of 57 box cars, and was the longest train of shingles ever to leave the Pacific Coast. The first trainload, consisting of 15 cars, left Vancouver for Eastern Canadian points on the Canadian Pacific over thirty years ago. The consignment photographed above is one of several to be shipped to American markets in response to the increased demand for B. C. edge-grain shingles in the east and represents twelve days' average output of one of the Hunting-Merritt Lumber Company's mills in Vancouver.

Chauncey Depew is more optimistic than Lloyd George in regard to real estate. The former has just been celebrating his ninetieth birthday. He is still in the prime of the old boy, and speaks confidently of living many years yet. He predicts peace some time nations have been quiet for ninety years; and he is looking forward to mutual helpfulness, and a revival of industry and international economy, and anything known in the past. We should want to believe with Depew rather than with Lloyd George. The latter says that the world is on now and then, the role of a lord of evil.

CANADA AND THE SOVIET

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Canada has recognized the Soviet government. Premier Mackenzie King told the House of Commons at Ottawa that that was not done because it must follow the example of England, but as an economic expedient. A Russian agent in Montreal at once placed a huge order for agricultural machinery in the Dominion. By all signs Russia will come back within the family of nations. The opposition is receding now. It was carried far beyond the objects of its originators, like all revolutions. The more Russia is opened up for trade the sooner she will be less reclusive and conform to the standards of trade convention and international diplomacy prevalent in other lands.

EASTERN STAR GIVE SUCCESSFUL DANCE

Despite unfavorable weather, a large crowd attended the dance given in Johnstone's dancing academy last night under the auspices of the Eastern Star lodge of this city.

A unique feature of the dance was the advance announcement that the dancers would have the opportunity of dancing to the music of an orchestra in the United States as in radio. The announcement drew many to the dance, who were disappointed when it was found that the radio did not "come in" on the music, probably to the unfavorable weather conditions.

The music, Lord musical organization Le Bon Ton orchestra supplied the music and very enjoyable evening's dancing, which terminated at 4 a.m.

At midnight, a bounteous lunch was served, in the Tyler house being the specialty of the evening.

Baby Seals Learn Gradually To Swim

When They Refuse They Are Spanked; Strict Discipline in Sea

Ninilchik, Alaska.—Maternal discipline is as pronounced among the hair seal family as among human beings, according to men who have spent many years along the shores of Cook Inlet and have studied aquatic life there.

From the time a baby fur seal is only within a belt of dry seaweed until he receives a final spanking and is deemed by mate for himself, he is subjected to unceasing discipline.

Contrary to popular belief, a baby seal is born unable to enter water at birth as a human baby would be. It must be taught to swim and instinct is not the law of seal life, including how to float food and escape its enemies.

Pain as Teacher Spanked

The fur seals, who has made baby seal learning a business for years, says he has watched a mother seal teaching her baby to swim. The mother would scamper out on the rookery, gather the baby under her flipper, and slip carefully into the water.

Shrugging the baby on her flipper, he would bark, grunt, whine and wheedle in a manner what she desired. If the baby refused to perform, it was effectively spanked with the mother's flipper.

The young seal gradually learns to swim by floundering a few strokes at a time, with the mother snatching it from danger every time it becomes exhausted or starts to sink.

Adopt Them as Pets

Some of the beachcombers adopt baby seals as pets. They become as faithful as dogs, and, if one desires to banish them, are so hard to get rid of as cats. An instance was cited where a baby seal was taken out to sea in the hope that it would remain with its herd. Instead, midnight found it on the native seat at the cabin door. Like the traditional cat, the seal had come back. He bowled until he was admitted to the family circle and fed a piece of fish.

Bemoans Passing Of Real Gamblers

Gaming House is Dying Under Dry Laws, Cars and Great War

New York—Real gambling in New York is a dead art, killed by three great factors, the automobile, the world war and prohibition, in the opinion of "Honest John" Kelly.

"Honest John" was once a picturesque figure in New York night life and proprietor of a gaming house on West Forty-first street. He is now entering his activities in the Bahamas, where he is announcing June Monte Carlo at Nassau.

Stiff in Those Days

The gambling of by-gone days, as "Honest John" describes it, was vastly different from that practiced by the younger generation in New York today. He finds the greatest change in the size of the stakes involved and the character of the men at play.

In his opinion, the biggest sum it was played years ago would scare the present day gambler to death. Yet fortunes were lost in those days, and with as little comment as insignificant sums change hands today.

Gallant in His Time

Kelly said the gambler of his time was a gallant gentleman, always on the level, winning fairly and never known to squeal when he lost.

The last gambling den in New York today, according to "Honest John," is confined to craps in coffee houses and garages. He bemoans the passing of the palatial gambling halls of the past, and says they are gone forever.

Drink water to Help Wash Out Kidney Poison

IF YOUR BACK HURTS OR BLADDER BOTHERS YOU, BEGIN DRINKING BALTS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a drastic pill, excite the kidneys further and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter from the blood in 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of pure water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged, kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Drug-gists also keep up the water drink-ing fad, and don't you wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

SUMMER HOTEL IS BADLY BURNED

St. Lawrence Hotel at Alexandria Bay Badly Damaged in $30,000 Fire

Alexandria Bay, May 15—A fire, which was discovered shortly before 11:30 Sunday morning, caused $20,000 damage to the St. Lawrence Hotel here. The hotel is owned by Captain Samuel Mosery and it had undergone extensive remodelling, including the addition of two stories to the main structure.

The fire broke out in the basement of the building and it is believed to have been caused from a lighted cigarette thrown into a paper basket in the washroom, in that part of the building.

The fire spread rapidly throughout the basement and the first floor of the building. The dense smoke and the water caused thousands of dollars worth of damage to the new beds and furniture in the building.

The entire interior of the building had just been painted and varnished and the heat, smoke and water caused that work and will make necessary the doing over of the work.

The building was covered by insurance. According to Captain Mosery the damage done to the building will amount to $20,000.

Lost Eureka Mine Breaks Tradition

Lured Prospectors for Long Time; Eight Miles From Hope, Once Famous

Vancouver, B. C.—Every mining district seems to have its lost mine, but it is seldom perhaps that such a mine is found and reopened. British Columbia's original lost mine—lost for fifty years or more—has been found and work will begin immediately to get out the high grade silver ore.

It is what is known as the old Eureka mine, search for which has lured prospectors for years. It is eight miles from the town of Hope, and H. C. General, J. R. Stewart and associates are now owners of the mine and a crew of men and supplies have recently been sent in.

The lost Eureka was last heard of in the early 70's. According to the story which has gone the rounds of prospectors for years, it was discovered by an Indian trapper, who brought a chunk of solid silver into the then wild and woolly western mining town of Hope. Hope was then the base for hundreds of adventurers from all over the world, attracted by the gold in the rich bars of the Fraser River.

A company was formed in which were many men prominent in British Columbia in those days, Calvin Judd and mining with crude methods was undertaken. Considerable ore was taken out and shipped to San Francisco to be treated. In those days the ore had to be packed from the mine to Hope on the backs of Indians.

Even with the tremendous transportation cost the mine paid until the owners got into difficulties and with the gold rush turned elsewhere, interest in that part of the country waned and the old mine was finally abandoned.

Proven By Archives

Then it became lost to memory as far as its exact location was concerned, but the "lost mine" story remained to be often told by old timers and even little newspaper boys there had broad stories of that kind before. That the mine really existed was a matter of record in the archives of the province.

About three years ago E. S. Willoughby, white hunting discovered the old camp and workings. He interested his firm—Foley, Welch and Stewart—in the discovery and engineers were sent in and gave the property a thorough examination.

Belief is expressed by those in charge of development work that the Eureka will be a bonanza silver mine.

REST ROOM FOR LADIES AND CHILDREN

MAKES TARIFFS ELECTION ISSUE

London, May 15—Canada and Canadian trade are vital issues in the West Toronto by-election campaign, which is now being waged vigorously in preparation for polling next Thursday, May 22.

The Conservative candidate, Mr. White, has taken imperial preference as the main plank in his platform, not an inch from the imperial political standpoint as for the local benefit of his constituency. The danger he fears is Socialist candidate, will win.

retaliation on the part of Canada. Withdrawal or rejection of Canada's preferential duties would, he points out, seriously affect the export of British goods to the Dominion. The port of Liverpool, with the prosperity of which his constituency is essentially concerned, now exports to Canada large quantities of goods.

Without the preference, he argues, that this flow would largely cease and that Canada would turn to the American market. However, Mr. White is likely to be unsuccessful.

The Labor vote has grown immensely in this area in the last few years, and it is fully expected that Gibbons, the Socialist candidate, will win.

ROSE TAPLEY IN "JAVA HEAD"

After five years' absence from the screen, Rose Tapley returned in George Melford's Paramount production of "Java Head," in the role of Rhoda Jamming. In this picture she is the mother of four charming girls. The first screen production in which Miss Tapley appeared was in 1905. From 1905 to 1917 she was a member of Vitagraph Company, and appeared in "Quality Pair", "Bill's Wager," "The Chattel" and "Wild Pat." Another of her well-known roles was Mrs. Jarr in the "Jarr Family" series.

Miss Tapley is most enthusiastic over the merits of "Java Head" as a screen production and ranks it as one of the distinctly "better pictures" toward which she and the women's clubs of the country have been building their energies. It is the feature at the Regent Theatre now. Beatrice Joy, Jacqueline Logan, Raymond Hatton, George Fawcett and Albert Roscoe are featured.

BIG NEW YEAR'S EVE PARTY STAGED FOR "THE COMMON LAW"

Several of the principal players and more than five hundred extras worked through two nights making scenes for George J. Archambaud's picturization of "The Common Law," the Myron Selznick, Masterpicture now at the Griffin Theatre. The scenes repercent one of New York City's big cafes on New Year's Eve, and one of the largest sets ever used in Hollywood was constructed—a replica of one of Broadway's famous gilded palaces. A jazz band played through both evenings to supply music to the dancers, and a ton of confetti, streamers, garland, etc., was demolished in the effecting of wild pre-prohibition hilarity. Corinne Griffith, Conway Tearle, Elliott Dexter, Phyllis Haver, Bryant Washburn, and Harry Myers, recently in the all-white spiral, which lasted until five o'clock in the morning.

Several well-known screen players visited the set and took part in the scenes of the frolic, and practically every extra in Hollywood was needed to fill the immense cafe. Liquor also flowed freely from champagne bottles and director George J. Archambaud secured the true atmosphere of a bacchanalian revel.

BRAIN SCAR REMOVED, GIRL WILL RECOVER

Washington, May 15—Ethel Bray 15-year-old girl, was recovering today after what physicians described as one of the most successful operations in medical history.

Two years ago the child fell and suffered an injury to her brain. Blood clots and scars formed on the brain tissue and she became subject to epilepsy.

From the right side of the girl's head Tuesday was cut a piece of skull measuring three and one-half by four inches. The brain was exposed and the infected portions removed.

Trenton, Ont., May 15.—In a special meeting of the Council here yesterday the tax rate for 1924 was fixed at 43 mills, which is four mills higher than last year. While the Council has cared for town comfortable situation this year, it was found necessary to raise the rate in order to create interest and sinking fund.

Rheumatism A Mystery

Some diseases give immunity from another attack, but rheumatism works just the other way. Every attack of rheumatism invites another; lorse than that, it reduces the body's power so that each attack is worse than the one before.

If any disease needs attention early it is rheumatism, but there is scarcely any disease more difficult to treat successfully. When a medical doctor believes rheumatism therefore it is worthy of special notice. Medical authorities agree that the blood becomes thin with alarming rapidity as rheumatism develops. Maintaining the quality of the blood is therefore a recognized way of preventing and combatting rheumatism. That's work out in fact is shown by the beneficial effects which follow the treatment of rheumatism, sciatic, muscular and nitralgic, with that great blood tonic, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

That thousands of people who have taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for they rheumatism have been benefited is a fact beyond dispute. That rheumatism does not return so long as the blood is kept rich and red is equally true. If, therefore you are suffering from rheumatism in any form you should lose no time in giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Child Export Stirs Ire of Labor Women

British Protest Over Lone Sea trips to distant Lands

London, May 15.—Protests against the emigration of children apart from their relatives to the Dominions were made today by delegates to the National Conference of Labor Women now being held in London.

A resolution was passed urging that emigration should be stopped until completely satisfactory plans were established for ascertaining the children's own inclinations in the matter and for supervising the children after their arrival in the Dominions.

Will Look Over Canada

Mrs. Harrison Bell, president of the National Conference of Labor Women said the overseas settlement committee on the question of the Canadian authorities was sending a deputation to Canada to look after the welfare of those under which immigrant children were established there.

An amendment to the resolution that was carried urging the temporary stoppage of a child emigration was moved by a Coventry delegate, the amendment favoring emigration to cases where children should be removed from undesirable relatives but this failed to gain the approval of the conference.

Miss Graham, a Manchester delegate, said she saw a party of children being "exported" from Liverpool while two benevolent gentlemen were telling the children to "write nice cheerful letters home."

BATH AND HAIR CUT

Chatham, May 15.—Harry Gerline aged 17 and a boy aged 14 were recommended to jail for one week by sentence by Magistrate Arnold yesterday, after they had pleaded guilty in County Police Court to a charge of stealing eggs from Joseph McGarvin, farmer, River road. Harwich. A bath and hair cut for both was recommended by Crown Prosecutor H. D. Smith, K.C.

Why not make your home happier by having a good Gerhard Heintzman Phonograph?

Bring the children to Gerhard Heintzman's and let them hear the records for Little People.

Why not enjoy your evenings with a Gerhard Heintzman Phonograph and a few good records?

THE LITTLE ONES
(Brantford Expositor)

There is surely no work in the world that can bring greater joy to the hearts of those seeking to do good, than caring for little children who, through no fault of their own, are placed in unfriendly surroundings, and who, if they were not cared for in the name of the great Friend of Little Children, would suffer untold hardship, and have no chance in life.

PAGE THE MAYOR!
(Lindsay Post)

The Oshawa Reformer is waging a campaign for pasteurized milk. Judging from reports there are a class of people in the Dominion who favor something stronger than milk.

Gerhard Heintzman Instruments are in every part of Canada. Their name and reputation, and the satisfaction of their owners, has given them the status of a national institution.

"Child's Eyelids Inflamed Stuck Together and Bled"

Mr. E. P. Kimball, Estwhistle, Alta., writes:
"Our little girl from birth was troubled with inflamed eyelids and in spite of several remedies, grew worse until at the age of sixteen months her eyes could not be opened after sleep without bleeding. The weary discharge sticking the lids together and adhering with great tenacity. The child's grandmothers were consulted by mail, and both responded with a little sample box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. These were used as directed, and lasted until we could obtain a further supply from Edmonton. Improvement was very marked from the first application. The weary discharge was easier removed and did not reappear. Inflammation subsided and has not returned."

EXPANDING THE ARGUMENT

Dempsey's punching may be overrated. Most champions are—until they fight in the rests. After which most of the credit is tossed through the window.

For all of which Dempsey must be rated with the punching elect. He can't get set against a fast-moving boxer, but he can cut down the giants. Defensively he is nothing to cheer about. He isn't hard to hit. But he can hit—and hit with either hand. He will always have trouble against a fastmoving boxer, because he can't get set. There are few hard punchers who can hit on the fly. Almost none. Dempsey isn't a superman. He isn't a man-killer extraordinary. But he can hit.

PUNCHING OR WHAT

Dated back to July 4, 1916. Dempsey has settled nineteen knockdowns in six fights that lasted thirty-nine rounds.

On a general average, he has a knockdown for every other round.

His punch may lack the killing or explosive quality, but this is an unusual record in the Walloping Book.

NO TIME TO WORRY

The U. S. of A. may have its cone shaped troubles in winning the track and field Olympics.

But there is nothing yet to worry about in the Davis cup tiein. Not even with Tilden out.

If Richards is available Johnston and Richards can take good care of the singles. If Richards isn't, Johnston and Williams or Hunter should be good enough to win. Hunter has improved immensely in the last eighteen months. Johnston will be much stronger than a year ago, when the European trip left him stale and far below normal form. When Tilden is on he will be, there is no one but Tilden with enough to stop him. The Davis cup still looks to be in safe hands.

"Why shouldn't America beat Finland in the Olympic games?" writes A. L. of Finland. "Finland is coming to Paris with Finns, America is coming with Swedes, Irish, Italians, Slavs negroes and big product of other races —white, yellow, brown and black. The odds are distinctly brave against us." Since America was settled by many races and built up by many races, the mixture is a little different from the older countries of Europe And if there are any many odds against Finland the betting will hardly prove it The Finns at least have an even chance against any one nation now registered to the established magic.

LIMITED GUESSING

The sort ran on, stopped on the lip—
And made them by a thread,
And when it did not drop I'll not Reveal the words, I said.

There are still several thousand people who don't believe that Firpo is cooler by predpreeh $250,000 per a month's work. In fact, they don't believe it is humanly possible for anybody to be pook-poohed unless the pookpoober is unable to stand upon his right or left foot. They may be right. It would be no terrific shock to see the Wild Bull come dashing out of the Argentine undercover all at almost a moment's notice. Queerer things have happened in this bizarre existence. Much queerer.

READING SLUGGERS TRIM LEAFS 4-3

Toronto, May 15.—Toronto and Reading were able to play, but one game of the two scheduled for yesterday. The Leafs were beaten 4 to 3, giving the Keystones four straight wins over Howley's men two in Reading, two here, and five victories in six games played between the two teams this season. Toronto won 12 and lost 11 with Reading in 1922.

Overcast skies and a very chilly east wind kept the attendance down to 1,200 paid, but that a most respectable crowd, considering the weather conditions. The last four innings were played in a fine rain, with fog enveloping the field, and the other game was called in Toronto's half of the second inning, Reading leading 1 to 0. There was one out and Onslow was on base through Hillen's error.

Two Games To-day

Before the end of the first game came it decided to call off the second half of the double-header and play two to-day, but after waiting from 4 to 4.30, Managers Howley and Abbott agreed to go ahead. Umpire James braved the rain, fog and approaching darkness for one inning and a half, suddenly came to the conclusion that he had had enough and quickly called it a day, much to the satisfaction of the players and the occupants of the press loft. Two games will be played to-day.

Keys Always Lead

The Keys got a running start on Myles Thomas in the opening inning of the game played when Tom Connolly was given free passage to Onslow's corner. Elliott hosted to Layne, who was left-fielding George Maisel, the latter being injured when he made a futile attempt at catch on Haley in Tuesday's game. Hubbird made way for his fellow-player on Tuesday by jamming Thomas's first pitch over the right field bleachers all into the bay for a home run, chasing in Connolly. The Keys were never headed.

Thomas was in a lot of trouble in the second inning and was rather lucky to get by without being scored. He pitched 30 times during the frame, giving free passage to two, while Miller opened up with a two base hit to deep centre. As a matter of fact, he would have had a triple but for the speedy fielding of Herman Layne. Mourke threw out Brown, Lynn raised to Toll when things looked good, though Thomas was having trouble getting the ball on the mark. He walked Judd and Connolly, but Layne sewed him with a catch of Elliott's fly.

Reynolds on Mound

The third inning brought about the retirement of Thomas, Hobbirrd singled to centre and on fast sprint, his dusting third when Horan sizzled a hit to left. Reynolds came in from the bull pen, after speeding two days there, and forced Lepher to short. Kelly, Hobby galloped home after the catch. O'Rourke went away in to left field to get a fly off Miller's bat, and Brown ended the inning hopping to Capes, who headed Horan at second. Reynolds pitched but seven times in retiring the side.

Maisels Again Bereaved

The Leafs and Reading Keystones will wind up their series at the Island to-day and Doyle will pitch the first game with Faulkner or Satterfield working in second. Manaux, one of the best pitchers in the league, will be Spencer Abbott's choice for one of the games. The Leafs will again be without George Maisel, who in addition to injuring his chest when he crashed into the fence making his sensational catch on Tuesday, received word last night that his brother had died suddenly at Catonville, Md., and the Toronto outfielder left immediately for there, as did Fritz Maisel of the Orioles, who are at present in Rochester. The Maisel boys had the sad misfortune to lose their father last month.

ON THE ALLEYS

Surprises come thick and fast in bowling. Last night at the Recreation Alleys the Debutantes who have been in for some hard rumee all-around cause luck strong and won by 149 from the Lucky Strikes, winners of the winter league. Miss Sharpe and Miss Mott were the two highest bowlers.

In the Junior league the Steel Mudders rolled a very nice game and gave the Hi-Li their second defeat of the Spring league. As usual (Smiler) Hall was high man while Harold Hammond led for the Hi-Li.

For the sixth consecutive time, a record that some of the big city teams would be proud of, the Bowlers rolled over the 2,900 mark winning from the Wanderers by 187 pins, and not only that but by the Bowling, winning last night it will give the Hardware first place and lining up five teams for second money, another unusual incident in bowling. For the winners McLean was high three-string man with 606 while Gerald Lynch was high for the Wanderers. Players and scores:

Yesterday afternoon at the Y alley's the two teams of the Ladies' auxiliary played their last game of the season. Both teams came down confident of beating the other team but the Rangers were too strong for the Stars and on the scores play were some hundred pins up. Of course the Stars had to furnish the supper as was the agreement at the start of the season. Mrs. McKee of the Rangers passed around the box of chocolates which was donated by the team winning out. After the game the two teams retired to the assembly hall to partake of the lovely supper provided by the Stars. After the supper both teams again went to the alleys but were unable to bowl as they had made such a clean up on the table and only two of the bowlers reached the 100 mark.

Says Earthquakes Needn't Be Fatal

Can Forecast Shocks With 15 Minutes' Warning, Savant Claims

Spezia, Italy, May 15.—Earthquakes need no longer cause loss of life, according to Professor Cassilli, noted seismologist, who claims to have discovered an apparatus, already patented, whereby earthquakes are announced at least 15 minutes before they occur.

The scientist also claims to be able with very slight possibility of error to locate the centres of telluric phenomena, their intensity and the situation of their most intense manifestations.

Signor Cassili's fatalistic prophecies for last March, which were deposited with a notary here some time in advance of the expected disturbances were completely and accurately confirmed by subsequent events. The professor promises to reveal his methods in the near future.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

At this moment the door was swung back and a girl entered. It was difficult to tell her age, because though her face and figure were that of a child, say, fourteen, she wore a coat-of mature-fashion of the most mature type and a battered crepe-trimmed bonnet, which might have been built for a widow of fifty; and the face, though childish in some respects, was marked with lines which indicated the shrewdness with which one resists only the adult.

She carried a beer jug in one hand, and a dish of cold boiled beef in the other, which had necessitated the kick that she had administered to the door.

"Oh, so you're back!" she exclaimed, in a shrill voice and she eyed Jack with a pair of eyes as sharp as a magpie's.

"Yes, I'm back; and how do you do, Mordy Jane?" said Jack. "Let me put the jug down."

"Ah, that's right! Go for the beer first!" remarked Mordy Jane, not at all mollified by his politeness. "Like a man, that is! Always put one eye on the beer. Now, don't put it so near the fire! Can't you see I've got to mash Father, put them shoes away! Didn't I tell you to look off before I went out?"

The old man obediently gathered the boots and tools together and laid them in a box.

"And there's the lamp smelling like billo-fat!" she went on. "Drought to smile once! And you two men scuttling here and taking no notice! But, there! you'd sit with your thumbs in your mouth if the house was a-burning."

She turned over the tow-something lump, and as she got out a cloth and proud it, ordered Jack.

"And where have you been? After no good. I'll be bound! Trust you for that. Been bop picking, or what? But you needn't trouble to answer; you wouldn't tell the truth, I spect! Father what you done with the cheese?"

"The cheese—the cheese?— lemme see!" murmured the old man, abstractedly. "Oh, yes, I remember, Mrs. Jenkin's Vangeline came in an' borrowed it."

Mordy Jane turned upon him with her arms akimbo, her childish face full of indignation.

"There now! And me only been gone ten minutes at the most! Old Mother Jenkin must have come and see us. She ought to be ashamed of herself, and so for Vangeline—well, let me catch her comin' 'borrowin' again, that's all. Well, there'll be no cheese, Mr. Gordon, that's one thing.

"Don't worry on my account, Mordy Jane: never eat cheese."

"But other people do!" she retorted. "Bring up your chairs— Father, take that apron off! If you think you're going to work again to-night your mistaken. Now, what is it?"

A noise of tearing years, but precociously aged-faced, peered over the door, and in a thin high voice, full of monotonous voice, as if it were repeating a lesson:

"Please, Mister Jacob, mother says will you please let her have her handcart, as she want 'em yesterday."

"Eh?" murmured the old man, absently. "Yes—yes. Lemme see! Mrs. Murphy's. Where did I—Oh, I remember they are."

He rummaged them out from a collection in the corner, and was handing them to the boy, but Mordy Jane was too quick for him, and snatched them out of his hand.

"Where's the money, Sophie Maria?" she enquired. "How much is it, father?"

"Eighteen pence," replied he.

Sophie Maria drew back her lanny little paw.

"Please, mother says she'll pay you on Saturday night, after Father's."

"No, you don't!" broke in Mordy Jane, with a shake of her head, which sent the ridiculous bonnet all on one side. "I've heard that story before. You can have the boots when you bring the money, and not before!"

"Mother'll be in a fine way," remarked Sophie Maria in a kind of aside explanation. "Mont like she'll come 'erself. She wants 'em to go to Heyring Forest to-morrow, and she won't be able to go without them boots. But I don't care. Don't you! I thank ee, I do, Morley Jane; for I don't. So there!"

"You tell your mother," Mordy Jane began to retort; then she stopped and tossed the boots over the door. "Well, take 'em, but, mind! If your mother wasn't goin' to Heyring—"

Sophie Maria snatched up the boots and fled, and, after sundry mean and ejaculations, Mordy Jane cooled down sufficiently to superintend the supper. Jack looked on and listened with a strange sense of unreality. He, such a place as Vancourt, such people as Esther, Mrs. Markham, and the rest, had he only dreamt of them, or had he looked round the tiny room absently; neither is he sure no to-day would he be sure. Was he not roughed it in the bush, and partaken of worse than cold beef, and been in worse company than the honest old cobbler and his weirdly precocious child?—but it seemed as if he had never left it, as if the time he had spent at Vancourt were the freak of his imagination.

"Ah! what are you goin' to do? Same old game; doctor!" asked Mordy Jane as she helped him liberally, meeting his remonstrance with: "Oh, there's plenty for all of us, and I ain't hungry 'cept shrimps for supper, and you look as if you's come off a long tramp."

"So I have," said Jack. "Yes, same old game, Mordy Jane, and there's plenty of work."

"Oh, yes," she said. "We're busy just now, and you've all right; though she cyrul him with her head on one side, like a particularly sharp sparrow—"I should a thought the idea that you could have found something better than dock work."

"Doesn't seem like it, Mordy Jane, seeing that I've come back again," responded Jack, cheerfully.

"Yes, that's what's queer," she said, still surveying him with the supernatural shrewdness of the cockney of her class. "But there! it's no business of mine! I suppose you're going to have the top room? You can't, 'cos it's full, I'll go up and put it tidy for you. Have some beer, Father—it's beer to-night, and prefers tea—and don't let Father smoke back to that old pipe of his while gone. You hear me, father!" she added, threateningly.

"Yes, yes, Mordy Jane," he assented meekly.

Jack and he lit their pipes and smoked in the silence which tobacco makes possible, and presently Mordy Jane came down with the information that Jack's room was ready.

Mrs. Murphy was getting the supper ready for the children on Saturday night when a young woman came to her door.

"I'm a collector for the Drunkard's Home," she said. "Could you help me?"

"Come around tonight and I'll give you Murphy," said the housewife, as she went about her work.

For two days Abie and Mose were floating on a life raft. Nearly at the finish of the third day Abie saw something and said "Mose, I see a sale."

"Well, wat does it matter; we ain't got no samples."

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Do not use prepared shampoos or anything that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in; it makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly and it leaves the scalp soft and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

Yu can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Owing to the fact that damaged incubators have been installed in our hatchery during the past year, just discovered May 8th, we regret that we are forced to close our plant for this season. We expect to be in the baby chick business next year with reliable equipment.

SLUGGISH LIVER DURING SPRING CAUSES POISON

This is the time of year when your liver becomes sluggish and your intestines become clogged up with poisonous waste. Your liver does not properly purify blood that flows to your skin. The result is without complexion, dark circles and pimple-coated sorrow and bad taste morning. As these poisons continue to clog your system, your resistance is lowered, you feel dull and tired and sick.

Make this test: Cleanse and tone your liver with Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup. Contains pure ingredients prescribed by Physicians. Helps nature strengthen your stomach, soothe tired, and overtaxed nerves, brace up system, and purify your blood. Notice quick difference in way you look, eat, sleep and feel. You too will be satisfied, as others have, or no cost.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Allan the Druggist and W. H. Lattimer in Belleville and T. L. McClelland in Deseronto, and by leading druggists in each city and town.

FAREWELL NOTE FOUND

Brandon May 15—"On the 5th of April, 1922, I am just going to jump off the bridge at Brandon. Good-bye to all." This message, signed by W. H. Stevens, was found in a bottle fished out of the Red River at Rock Fort, Manitoba, by a schoolboy. It had been in the water for two years. The police are convinced that the note is genuine.

SISTER NINA KORSHMANN, a Canadian girl, and a former student at the Royal College of Dental Surgery, Toronto, who went into the motion picture business and has recently returned to her home city after three and a half years spent in distributing films in South Africa.

DOPE CARRIERS HAND OUT TIP

Mrs. Flora McClelland, wife of Instantaneous Water Heater Promoter, arrested on Drug Charge

Toronto, May 15—Flora McClelland charged with having sold diet-ing drugs, was remanded for one week in the Women's Police Court yesterday. Bail of $5,000 was demanded. The original bondsmen, who provided the bail at the police station Tuesday night did not reappear and a new one was required. Defence Counsel, Frank Hughes called in George Morton, a butcher, who lives, he said, in Pine Avenue. Under examination by the Crown, Morton admitted that he had an equity of only $1,000 in his home. He would act as bondsman in that amount, and the prisoner was told to sit down until another $4,000 was forthcoming.

"This is an awful mistake," said Mrs. McClelland. "I am myatified absolutely."

Husband in Pan

She is the wife of Robert McClelland who is now serving a three-year term in Kingston in consequence of a conviction for fraud and theft in connection with the Instantaneous Water Heater Co. It was on that charge secured just in time to prevent a spectacular raid by Inland Revenue officers on his $20,000 house on Liberia Avenue. Mrs. McClelland subsequently took proceedings at Osgoode Hall to secure possession of her share in her husband's property.

With her arrest on the present charge the police believe they hold the one of the "kine pins" in a wholesale drug traffic which has ramifications in several cities and in which thousands of dollars have changed hands. What the police know about the situation they are keeping strictly to themselves; but some interesting revelations are promised when the case come to trial.

Dope In Bottles

The arrest followed some persistent detective work by Plainclothesmen Reid and Skinner in the down-town district. They discovered that large quantities of drugs were being distributed. Tuesday afternoon they arrested Patrick Kelly and Joseph Phillips and found on them, it is alleged, four bottles of morphine. The prisoners state that they had secured the "dope" from Mrs. McClelland. The police went at once to her home on Alberta avenue, and were then informed that she was in a police bond cell. She was there taken into custody.

If, as the editor of a beauty magazine predicts, all the young girls, who now have bobbed hair will be glad, before they are forty, to cultivate once the style of the general herd, so no harm will be done.

COULD HARDLY DO ANY WORK

But Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound This Woman Feels So Well

Keeseville, N.Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for the good it has done me. I was so much troubled with female weakness I could hardly do any work. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and read it and thought I'd try it, so I said, 'I'll write to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.' I bought six bottles, and by taking it I am not troubled at all now. I am getting stronger and getting fleshy. My female troubles have vanished and I have never felt so well. The Liver Pills are the best I ever took. If you think my letter will encourage other sufferers you have my permission to use it as an advertisement."—Mrs. SARAH BLAISE, Box 177, Keeseville, N. Y.

Doing the housework for the average American family is some task, and many women lose their health in so doing. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. Let it help you.

"Try Dreco," said Friend to Mr. Armstrong, Advice Which He Followed with Splendid Result

"For years, I was a martyr to stomach troubles," says Mr. Robert Armstrong, of Ida, Ontario. "Eating gave me terrible pains in the chest and my stomach would feel sore all over. So much did I suffer that I hardly dared eat at all and as a result became weak and miserable for lack of nourishment. I tried all kinds of medicines without result when finally a friend of mine suggested that I try Dreco.

"I have just finished my fourth bottle and the results have been beyond my fondest expectation. My appetite has improved 100% and I feel better in every way. I hardly have the slightest twinge of indigestion now and my bowels, which were chronically constipated, are delightfully regular now."

For health and vitality, your body needs two things, nourishment and sleep. Dreco assures both by cleansing the organs of digestion and making them do their work. Thus you are enabled to withstand the ravages of severe winter weather, which quickly undermines the sick and weakly. Dreco is made from the pure extracts of herbs, roots, bark and leaves and contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs."

Dreco is being specially introduced in Belleville by The Belleville Pharmacy. It is also sold in Stirling by J. S. Morton, and by a good druggist everywhere.

Goto's Dreams For Tokio Strike Snag

Cost and Politics Rise to Defeat Viscount On Reconstruction

Tokio, May 15—The dream of Viscount Goto for the reconstruction of shattered Tokio according to the most up-to-date and scientifically proved efficient principles of town-planning is never likely to materialize.

Viscount Goto, who is regarded as one of Japan's ablest administrators, with a long record of effective government in Formosa and Manchuria before being made mayor of Tokio a few years ago, accepted the earthquake disaster as an opportunity of carrying out the plans that he had for years been formulating for the improvement of Tokio.

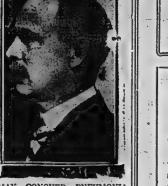

When he was sworn in as a member of the Yamamoto cabinet on that terrible Sunday, September 2?, when the Japanese capital was still burning, it seemed as though conditions were more favorable than ever for the execution of the scheme.

Berlin Is Now Saddest Place In All Europe

Gunshine of Spring Fails to Stir the People

Berlin,—The loveliest New Yorker who observed that the best thing about Boston was the first rain back to Manhattan, ought to go to Berlin, the city which once vaunted itself, perhaps justifiably, the gayest in Europe if he would probably charter a special train without waiting for the first to carry him as fast and as far from the German capital as possible, in its present mood and aspect.

When the sun shines in the spring in Paris, or London, the effect upon the people is at once apparent. They become buoyant and lighthearted, and their cities sparkle and scintilate with life and brightness. In Berlin today the brightest rays of spring infuse neither joy nor hope in the hearts of the people. Those seem to have been chilled go nature's reawakening, or any kind of change, climatic, social, or even political, The city on the Spree has for synonym for cleanliness and order, said gaiety and abandon almost amounting to irresponsibility, has become dull and drab, characterless and painfully monotonous, and the lives of the people corresponding-ly humdrum and flat.

MAY CONQUER PNEUMONIA Dr. Lloyd D. Felton, bacteriologist and chemist in the Harvard Medical School, has perfected a new serum treatment for pneumonia which, experiments indicate, may cut in half the death rate from that disease.

Everybody seems to do much the same thing every day, in much the same way. People continue to throng the cafes and cabarets and forgather in hotel lounges, but there is no sparkle to their conversation, and the sign of boredom is only too frequently and too plainly seen in their expressions. They read their newspaper and discuss the financial and political situation laconically and dispassionately as if to say "what is the use?" Even the heroic gaiety of the night cabarets and dancehall has to be nourished by copious draughts of very bad but very expensive champagne.

Sought Suggestions

Some time ago the burgomaster of Berlin, despairing of being able to attract foreign visitors to his city, invited a number of foreign correspondents to a conference and asked them for suggestions. One journalist suggested that he should begin by improving the street lighting. Instead the worthy burgomaster authorized the cafes and cabarets to remain open till one o'clock in the morning, in order that they might not forward the nights when dancing is permitted from three to four in the week.

Swollen Rivers Receding After Flooding Towns

Pittsburg, Pa., May 15.—The swollen waters of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers today were slowly receding, leaving property damage estimated at millions.

As the turbulent streams returned to their normal depth, river front residents who were forced to evacuate their homes yesterday for the third time this year, began returning to their dwellings.

The Allegheny and Monogahela, where they form the Ohio river, at the Point bridge, reached a crest of 26.4 feet. Flood stage at this point is 22 feet.

Nearing Washington

Washington, May 15.—The crest of the flood sweeping down the Potomac valley was due here this morning. The torrent caused an eight foot rise in the river here already, and officials predicted it would go some feet higher before it began to recede.

Local damage has been confined mostly to summer ramparts, bridges, boats and boathouses. No loss of life has been reported from the immediate vicinity.

Police estimated that 100,000 persons drove to Georgetown last night, to watch the waters swirling under the new Francis Scott Key bridge.

HONOR NEIGHBOR

It was a large and enthusiastic audience that assembled in Moorefield View Church on the Audenburg circuit on the evening of Wednesday, May 7th, in honor of one of their highly esteemed neighbors and veteran member of their church, for on that day Mr. Henry Jason Parliament was going past the 80th milestone on his journey through life.

Friends came from Toronto, Oshawa and elsewhere to join with the friends at home in honoring the event for Mr. Parliament has been well and favorably known in business circles as well as in christian and philanthropic work. At 8 p.m. his pastor, Rev. J. D. F. Knox started the evening's proceedings by calling Mr. J. R. Anderson to occupy the chair during the evening.

A short programme was rendered, after which the real business of the evening was announced, and Mr. Parliament was given a chair in front of the audience.

Mr. Knox then read an address from the congregation, which had been printed on satin and framed.

Mr. C. G. Sprague the circuit recording secretary, read a resolution of congratulations, confidence and good wishes that had been passed by the Q. U. B. on the Monday night previous. Letters expressing the very highest esteem in which Mr. Parliament is held by those who have known him for many years, were read after which the recipient of all those kindnesses made a very fine reply, showing, that despite his 80 years, he is able to address a audience in clear and expressive language.

Mr. Parliament who is held in equally high esteem was presented with a beautiful bouquet.

Refreshments were served and the audience dispersed highly pleased with the evening and feeling that they had at least made an attempt to give honor where honor is due.

A SERIOUS STATEMENT

(Orillia Packet)

Mr. C. Grant Mcneill, Dominion secretary of the G. W. V. A. declares that nearly one third of the overseas strength of the Canadian expeditionary force has migrated from Canada to the United States. "In search of the best and better" That is something serious to think a bout.

MAC ARE TOO MODEST

(Toronto Star)

Only once has a "Mac" been president of the United States. For the four a "Mac" appears in the list of British Premiers. Canada has had two and Ontario one And the Macs are the salt of the earth, and no mistake. When a man is called Mac, he it is related to his feet or his last name or only a nickname, there is more than you can tie to ninety-nine times out of one hundred. Hurrah for the Mac!

Third World Flight Plan Meets Delay

Major Zanni Held Up Till June; Cannot Get Equipment

London—Unexpected delay in the matter of obtaining equipment will prevent Major Pedro Zanni, of the Italian Air Force, from starting on his flight around the world until after the middle of June. Major Zanni had expected to leave London on the first leg of his flight by the end of April, but inability of manufacturers to deliver the planes required will delay his start for approximately two months.

Despite this delay, Major Zanni is undaunted and is confident of completing successfully the history-making air voyage he has been planning for two years.

Major Zanni will head the third and last attempt of the present year to fly around the world. The two other expeditions, aimed are under way, the United States navy fliers having started on San Diego in March, and Squadron Leader Stuart McLaren of the British Air Force having taken off at Southampton a few days after the American fliers started.

Yet, After Speed

"I am not going to make any speed effort to beat either the American or British expeditions," the Italian said. "I am not looking upon my flight as a race with any other efforts. I am simply going to attempt to go around the world and am making all possible preparations to complete the flight successfully.

"Of course I would like to have the honor of being the first aviator to circumnavigate the globe, but if the other accomplish the feat first I will not be disappointed. Despite the fact that I shall start two months or more after the others it is not impossible that I shall be the first to get around. My hope is by avoiding the worst of it I shall always have a chance to be the first until near the other of the two expeditions that have started completes the journey.

"I am not so sure that MacLaren will be able to get around. He is using a big rig in attempting so far a flight with only one plane, despite the fact that he has made a few stops at various places along the way."

To Use Three Planes

Major Zanni plans to use three planes in his flight. He will start in England in a land plane and will use this machine until he reaches Japan. He will change in Japan to amphibian plane and by this type machine until he reaches Halifax in Canada. He will reverse in the land and plane for the last lap across the Atlantic to London.

Much interest which Major Zanni will show in much the same generally speaking, as the route taken by MacLaren. It is similar, also, to the route the United States fliers, except that he will be traveling in an opposite direction.

Start From London

Starting from London, Major Zanni will fly to Paris and thence to Rome via Lyons. From Rome he will fly from the route Western Europe by flying to Algiers, on the coast of Africa.

From Algiers his route will take him to Bagdad, across India, with stops at Karachi, Allahabad and Calcutta. From India he will fly southward to Canton China, with various stops in Siam, Annam, and Tonkin, and, leaving Canton, he will cross Korea to Japan, stopping at Osaka, Tokio, Hakodate and other cities. His last flight will be across the Pacific from Petropavlovsk and end at Kamchatka.

Major Zanni will be accompanied by Lieutenant Nelson T. Pepe of the Argentine Air Force, who, although a descendant of an American family was born in Argentina and does not speak a word of English. Lieutenant Pepe will act as navigator. A mechanic also will accompany the expedition.

"Adam God" Sharp Decides On Wide Open Spaces When Penitentiary Term Closes

Kansas City, Mo., May 15.—James "Adam God" Sharp, religious fanatic, is starting in the evening of his life for the "great open spaces."

In a covered wagon Sharp, his wife and a widow of one of the men killed in Kansas City in the 1926 religious riot, have begun an overland trip to Arizona, where they intend to live. Sharp recently was released from the Missouri Penitentiary, where he served a sentence for murder in connection with the religious riot.

Sharp's gospel, which took him on a wide tour out of Oklahoma and which finally led to the trouble in Market Square, here on December 9, 1903, was:

"The children of God, the Adamites, must make their way peaceably if they could, by force of arms, if necessary."

Five persons, including two policemen, were killed in the Market Square riot when the group of Adamites resisted the efforts of probation officers to take their children into custody during a street meeting.

All Armed, Resisted

All of its religious fanatics, even the women, were armed and they resisted the officers with knives and revolvers.

The riot started just following the disembarkation of the Adamites, who had come down the Missouri River in a small boat. The band included Sharp and his wife, Louis and Della Pruit and the Pruit children.

In the struggle that followed Mich ael Mallans and A. O. Dalbow policemen, Louis Pruit and John Bolton (a spectator) were killed. The fanatics fled to their staff amid a shower of bullets from the policemen, and Lulu Pruit, one of the children in the band, was fatally wounded.

"Adam God" Sharp, a picturesque figure, with long, flowing hair and board, made his way to an obscure barber shop on a side street in the city, where the bizarre coloring of his face and beard was removed.

Escaped In Hearse

Incognito, he was able to flee the city, but he was captured in a hayrack, near Olathe, Kan. Sharp was brought back to this city and tried for murder of Policeman Michael Mallans.

His plea was insanity, but the circumstances by which he attempted to escape was argued successfully by the prosecution and a conviction was obtained.

During the trial Sharp had many "revelations" and otherwise had appearances of insanity, but when the conviction came and he was sentenced to seven years in the state penitentiary he became sullen and took little interest in his surroundings.

He served fourteen years and eight months in the penitentiary and was released several weeks ago at the age of sixty-five years.

BRITISH FLYERS ON WING AGAIN

MacLaren's Plane Arrived at Parlu, India

Nasirabad, India, May 15.—The British aroundthe-world flyers are on the wing again.

After a ten days' delay due to engine trouble, Major MacLaren, commanding the British amphibian plane, is reported to have arrived at Parlu, India. His total mileage now is 5,520 since he left England seven weeks ago.

Expects New Plane

Cordova, Alaska, May 15.—Major Frederick L. Martin, commander of the United States army's round-the-world flight, and Sergt. Alva Harvey, his mechanician, will leave Port Moller today for Dutch Harbor, Wash., on route to Washington, D. C., to receive instructions for rejoining the flight.

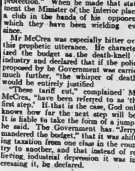

Lieut. Lowell Smith, after one of the most thrilling adventures in aviation history, will embark on a Pacific American fisheries boat for Bellingham and should reach that port about May 25 or 26.

They expect to receive a new plane and rejoin their party probably in India.

Americans Delayed

A heavy snowstorm at Chicago has delayed work on fitting up the three airplanes still in the flight, and it was doubtful if they will take off on their long hop to Texas and Washington today.

The flyers desire to have their planes in the best of condition for this jump, the longest to be made in the attempt to circle the globe.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, assistant secretary of the U. S. Navy, who admits that a fair comparison of the prestige fighting strength of Great Britain, the United States and Japan would appear to be 5-5-3, with the United States in second place.

ARMENIAN FARMERS

Cobourg, May 15.—Several farmers in the Newcastle district, where the farm help situation is acute as in other places, have engaged young Armenians to help out. They are stated to be bright, intelligent appearing boys, and it is hoped that they will make good on the farms.

ROUGH MAULING GIVEN LIBERALS

Another Budget Bolter Kicks Over Traces in Ottawa

Ottawa, May 15.—Another Budget bolter kicked over the traces in the Government ranks Tuesday night. F. B. McCrea, member from Sherbrooke, announced that he would vote with the incorporeal mauling it has so far suffered at liberal hands.

Mr. McCrea is a pulp, paper and lumber manufacturer in the busy little city which he represents in Parliament. He is vice-president of a number of industrial concerns and a director in many more. Under these circumstances it was expected he would support the new budget, but few had any idea that he would subject his party-tariff policy to such bitter denunciation as he unleashed.

The member from Sherbrooke thought the worst thing which could happen to the administration had been defeated upon a budget division.

"But," he would be forced to contend, "for the Government to be defeated upon this issue has to ruin the country."

Club Given to Foes

In an impassioned speech, Hon. Charles Stewart referred to the budget as the "club" with which the "death-knell of protection" was to be made that day by the Minister of the Interior placed a club in the hands of his opponents which they have been wielding ever since.

Mr McCrea was especially bitter over the prospective removal of the duty protected the budget as the death-knell of industry and declared that if the policy proposed by he Government was carried out "the whole country would perish" and would be entirely justified.

"These tariff cuts," complained Mr. McCrea, "have been referred to as 'the final step.' If that is the case, God only knows how far the next step will be. It is liable to take the form of a jump," he said. The Government has "irrepressible mandened the budget," that it was shifting taxation from one class of society to another, and that instead of relieving industrial depression it was increasing it, he declared.

SECRET PAPERS TO BE PRODUCED

Dispute With British Ministry to End Soon

Ottawa, May 14.—It is expected that the matter may be the production in parliament of the much-discussed papers in regard to the various attitudes towards ratifying the Lausanne treaty by Canada.

The government has forwarded to the British ministry a denial of the statement attributed to the colonial secretary, to the effect that Canada generally had asked authority to make the papers public.

Moreover, it is learned that the government here has called the premiers of the other dominions and asked if they have given their assent to the production of the correspondence. The only essential move is claimed to be up to the British government.

The discussion which has taken place in two parliaments has caused the emergency and doubt as to where lies the responsibility for delay.

Some Confusion

The British government says it is willing but Canada is not, while the Canadian government insists that it has delegated authority to make the record public and that the ball is in the other man's side. The issue is now narrowed, down to a point where a decision must be reached in a few days.

Message Received

London,—Some confusion arising from Canadian government on the question as to ratification of the Lausanne treaty by the imperial government and the governments of the dominions, and the text of the treaty of Lausanne had just been received by Mr. Thomas, dominion secretary, stated at question time in the house of commons today in reply to a query in the inquiry thereon. The communications from the secretary stated, he was under consideration.

It was stated at Ottawa a few days ago that the reason for other dominions to the tabling in the British house of commons of the most recent correspondence with them was because they had been requested by Canada. A cable was sent by Premier Mackenzie King, the Ottawa despatch stated, to the other dominions, asking their consent to the publication in England of the correspondence in question.

British Professor Amazed At Fundamentalism and Ku Klux Klan Grip in America

London, May 16.—Reaction to Fundamentalism and growth of the Ku Klux Klan in the United States" notes which Professor J. Arthur Thompson, of Aberdeen University, one of the most distinguished of British scientists, made in the United States, which he has recently written.

"A very remarkable post- war phenomenon in the reaction to extremely literal orthodoxy, called 'fundamentalism,'" said Professor Thompson, in recounting his impressions of the United States.

"It implies a return to "the things that cannot be shaken," such as creation and verbal inspiration of the Scriptures. Attempts have been made to prohibit the promulgation of evolution science in schools; we have heard of the dismissal of evolutionist teachers; and it has been suggested that museums should not be arranged in such a way as to suggest the evolution idea, which is simply that the present is the child of the past and the parent of the future.

"Like Bryan, Jews, Romanists, and Unitarians are anathema, and the departures of all sorts. They have the instincts of the game-preserver and the ignorance Tory.

"Like the 'prohibitionists, they are characteristically contradictory persons of the country where the flag of freedom flaps so furiously."

Save Beauty Of Falls By New Project

SCENERY IN DANGER

River Bed Wearing Away At Horseshoe; Proposals Made to Stop It

New York, May 15.—Plans to preserve the scenic beauty of Niagara Falls are under consideration at Niagara Falls, N. Y., and will be placed before Secretary of Commerce Hoover when he visits that city on June 13th, according to the New York Tribune.

The Tribune's correspondent says that suggestions to be placed before Secretary Hoover, and for the co-operation of Canadian and United States authorities are contained in the "suicide of Horseshoe Falls."

River Bed Wearing Away

The Falls are endangered by the continual wearing away of the bed of the river at the apex of the Horseshoe, and the situation is aggravated by the 30,000 cubic feet of water per second which is diverted through the intakes of power plants on either side of the river.

Various suggestions have been made for the maintenance of the Horseshoe Falls in their present beauty, the most ambitious of which proposes the rebuilding of the face of the Falls, following temporary diversion of the mighty flood to the left and then to the right of the horseshoe.

Would Build Islands

Other schemes favored by engineers here, who say they are working in harmony with the engineers of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, called for distribution of the water over the Falls by establishment of artificial islands, or by the construction of a submerged weir or deflecting dam some distance above the Falls.

DISHONESTY WAVE

Toronto, May 15.—"A wave of dishonesty seems to be sweeping over the province and I hope that we will soon see the end of it," said Judge Coatsworth, charging the grand jury at the opening of the General Sessions of the Peace Tuesday.

His Honor commented on the fact that crime seems to move in circles, one type of offence giving place to another. A few years ago crimes of violence were common, but have disappeared, to be succeeded by charges of conspiracy to defraud the public, here of which were on the docket for trial.

Last Days of Big Bargain Prices

No need for mother to worry about cleaning up after this party. Congoleum Art-Rugs are ideal for rooms where children romp and play.

Congoleum Week Ends on Saturday!

GOLD SEAL CONGOLEUM GUARANTEE
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED OR YOUR MONEY BACK
REMOVE SEAL WITH DAMP CLOTH

This Gold Seal Guarantees Satisfaction.

WHEN the stores close next Saturday night, Gold-Seal Congoleum Week comes to an end. The special bargain prices now in force will be withdrawn. Your opportunity to buy Canada's most popular floor-covering at these remarkable reductions will be gone.

If you already have used Gold-Seal Congoleum Rugs in your home you know their beauty, their durability and wonderful money-saving and labor-saving features. If you do not yet have Congoleum Rugs in your home, you owe it to yourself to at least see what beautiful, sanitary, and practical floor-covering you can buy for amazingly little money.

Don't delay! Go to any of the stores listed below and select your Gold-Seal Congoleum Art-Rugs today if possible; for remember the Sale ends Saturday.

Beautiful Patterns for Every Room

Gold-Seal Congoleum Art-Rugs are famous for their beautiful patterns. You will find elaborate Oriental designs in warm, rich tones for living room and dining room—dainty flowered patterns that bring a fresh attractiveness to bedrooms—and a fine range of conventional patterns for kitchen, bathroom and pantry. Or, if you prefer to cover the entire floor, you will find attractive designs in Gold-Seal Congoleum By-the-Yard.

Waterproof and Easy to Clean

Gold-Seal Congoleum Rugs are made all in one piece on a durable fabric-felt base. They are waterproof, germ-proof, and accident-proof. Neither dust, dirt, nor spilled liquids can penetrate the smooth, seamless surface. Unlike woven rugs, they require no tiresome sweeping or beating. A quick going-over with a damp mop makes Congoleum as clean, fresh and spotless as when new.

Lies Flat Without Fastening

Here is another important feature of Gold-Seal Congoleum: no tacks, nails, or cement are ever required to hold it in place. It literally "hugs" the floor and never "kicks up" or curls at the edges or corners.

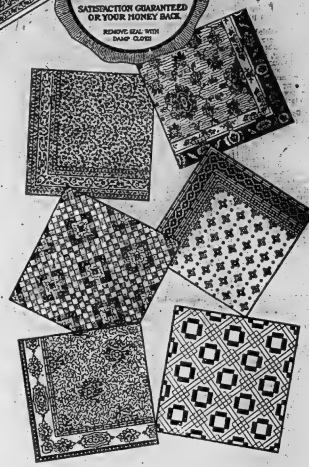

New, Genuine, Guaranteed Goods

All the Gold-Seal Congoleum offered in this sale is fresh, new goods, just received from the factory. All of it carries the famous Gold Seal pledge of "Satisfaction Guaranteed or Your Money Back." Look for the Gold Seal on the face of the goods. It protects you against inferior imitations of Gold-Seal Congoleum.

This is Your Last Chance

If you wait till the last minute something may prevent your taking advantage of this opportunity. And then you will have to pay more for your Congoleum. After Saturday the regular prices will again prevail,

Order Sending Christ To Cross Is Found in Tunisia

A document which archaeologists believe to be the official military order under which Jesus Christ was tried and crucified by Pontius Pilate has just been discovered by the French Government's ethnological mission in Southern Tunisia.

It substantiates the history of the Savior's trial and death as described in the New Testament, but seems to place the legal responsibility on the Roman Government, rather than the Hebrew high priests.

Christ was executed, it appears from this document, because He was called "King of the Jews"—a claim that implied disloyalty towards Caesar. The document is worded as follows:

"To all Colonial Governors of the Roman Empire in Palestine and Near and Further Arabia:

"Prophets and religious revolutionists have arisen among the people. Those prophets are not to be interfered with under the Roman law except when their teachings are of such nature as to cause disturbances among the people. In such cases they are to be effectively suppressed.

"It is particularly desirable that those prophets be not allowed to interfere with the collection of taxes or with any other political affairs.

The edict was signed by Augustus Caesar, ruler of the Roman Empire, and of Palestine as one of its colonies, at the district seat of Jerusalem, Pontius Pilate, a Roman official, was the "procurator" of Galilee at the time of Christ's trial, and must have had the edict before him.

There is nevertheless evidence to show that it was the actual law under which the trial proceeded. In this case that prophets be not allowed to interfere with the payment of taxes seems to be linked up with the Bible story of the question put to the Saviour by His enemies: "Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar or not?"

The high priests held Jesus guilty of blasphemy, and worthy of death because they claimed He had said "I am the Son of God." That was but however, a charge which meant nothing to Pontius Pilate. So, as the Bible story indicates, the priests altered the charge that Christ had claimed to be "King of the Jews," and had, there fore "spoken against Caesar."

It was on this accusation that Pilate convicted Jesus and—as the only authority who could order capital punishment—directed that He be crucified.

STREET 'VENDORS' AT KINGSTON NOW

Sell Gin at Corner Without Prescription, is Claim

Kingston, May 14.—Two local young men appeared in Police Court yesterday morning before Magistrate Farrell to answer charges. One entered a plea of guilty on a drunk charge and was fined $10 and costs. The second charge, to which he also pleaded guilty, was of assaulting the police constable who arrested him. On this charge he was fined $15 and costs.

The two charges against the second man were drunk, and drunk while in charge of an automobile. He also pleaded guilty to both charges, being sentenced to serve seven days in jail on the second charge, the first charge being enlarged for one day, as the story he told as to how he obtained liquor did not satisfy the Magistrate.

From the evidence given by the first young man it appears that bootlegging pedlars are the latest addition to the business life of Kingston. When asked where he obtained his liquor he stated from a bootlegger who accosted him when he was standing at the corner of Montreal and Princess streets and offered to sell him a bottle of gin. Opportunities apparently did not always come his way and he made the purchase for the sum of $8.00. He swore he had never seen the man before, did not know his name, or anything about him. On this charge of assault on a police constable he asked for leniency through his counsel.

Taunted Poverty, Ended In Murder

Down-and-Outer Took Vengeance for Jibes

San Francisco—Discouraged poverty haunted by constant taunts ended in the murder of Sidney Barron, wealthy Californian, by his brother, Darul Paulson, typical down-and-outer in his job.

For days Paulson had haunted Howard street employment agencies looking for a job Barron drove by in his motor car daily. Paulson asked Barron for a job and met with rebuff.

With a growing hatred for the society which would not give him employment, Paulson started taunting him from the tonneau of his motor car.

He ridiculed me every day. There I was out of work and him in his machine laughing at me. Then he called me 'overalbert,' as I killed him," was Paulson's comment to Barron's mother, who visited him in jail.

BROADCASTING

Broadcasting wireless as a news service is merely a development of a plan instituted twenty years ago in the 1904 in Budapest, by which soon counted its subscribers the establishment of a telephone Hermudes, or telephone Newspaper by the thousands at the price of a penny a day. News was collected in the ordinary way and sent by telegraphy on long strips of paper and telephoned by specially trained "stenors." It provided also for advertising. For one thing the "stenors" would read off advertisements for twelve seconds, carefully counting them between interesting items of news so that the subscribers would not disconnect for fear of missing something he really wanted to hear.

Making wash day pleasant—

Just use Rinso where you used to use soap—for soaking, boiling, or in your washing machine.

The hardest part of wash-day, rubbing, rubbing, rubbing, has given way to the new method of soaking the clothes clean with Rinso. This wonderful new soap gently loosens the dirt and a thorough rinsing leaves things white and glistening—as you never could get them before.

Only spots where the dirt is grounded in, such as neck bands, cuff edges, and the like need a light rubbing, and a little dry Rinso rubbed on these spots quickly makes the dirt disappear.

Rinso is sold by all grocery and department stores

KIWANIS OPPOSES OPEN-DOOR POLICY FOR IMMIGRATION

Governor of Ontario-Quebec District Cites New York City as One of the Worst Examples to Follow—Pleads for Better Understanding Between Ontario and Quebec

One of the outstanding features of the address delivered before the members of the Kiwanis clubs of Belleville, Peterboro, Lindsay, Guelph, Kingston and Toronto last night at the Hotel Quinte, given by Kiwanis Gov. Edward Eagleson of Quebec, was the plea for a better system of selecting immigrants for Canada.

The occasion was to celebrate the first anniversary of the founding of a Kiwanis Club in Belleville, and Mr. Eagleson, Governor of the district, Quebec district of Kiwanis International and President of the Quebec Board of Trade was the speaker of the event.

A Bad Example

ing.

Citing the problems now facing the United States as an example of what unrestricted immigration will lead to, Gov. Eagleson said New York city is a glaring example of hodge-podge humanity gathered together without a common aim and governing action. Four-fifths of the population of New York city is foreign. The responsible city of our neighboring country awaits the newcomer in a manner as conglomeration of races creeds and color, all striving for supremacy without the common aim of national unity.

Open-Door Policy

It has been the open-door policy that has caused this condition, stated the speaker; instead of assimilating the people of European nations with the capacity to understand the aims and ideals of a great English-speaking nation, the policy has introduced the petty bickerings, communistic and other issues into the country that may never be eradicated, despite the efforts of the founders of the country to form an unassailable policy. Canada can profit by the mistakes of the United States, said Mr. Tangney. We are at present slowly evolving an immigration policy that will in time place Canada at the peak of the world, and an example for other nations in the making to follow. However, forces are at work to break down the good already done, and organizations such as Kiwanis and Rotary, working together can carry the battle to the enemy camp and perform a lasting service to the Dominion by eradicating this agitation.

Best Immigrants.

The best class of immigrant, said Mr. Tangney, is the man from Northern Europe: the Scandinavian, Belgian and Irishman. These people can understand the British Empire mainly self-sacrifice and tolerance better than any other. They have proved their worth wherever they have gone and Canada, built on a foundation of loyalty, can go far with such a citizenship.

Speaking of the agitation being fostered in some circles to break into the good feeling between Ontario and Quebec, Mr. Tangney said that it is not the work of the native Canadian. "Too much work has been done together, too great an understanding has been established, for such a radical movement to our country's peace in the sun as an agitation of this nature," he said. "It is the people of Ontario was that a better feeling a greater solidarity for the two provinces together as never before.

Thanks

President P. C. MacLaurin, of the local club extended a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker, and as stated by Kiwanian Ponton, Belleville currently hopes to again entertain Gov. Tangney. Kiwanian Ponton also moved for a vote of thanks to the speaker was one of the high lights of the evening the meeting at Belleville's facility to Kiwanis ideals, as expressed by Mr. Tangney, and met with hearty round of applause from those present.

District Governor Bonnar, of Lind-

Counsel for Condemned Man Granted Leave to Appeal—Date set for May 20

Application made by counsel for Muir before a full bench of five judges this morning for leave to appeal was granted, and the date set for the hearing is Tuesday next, May 20th. The appeal against the verdict is on the grounds of the indictment being bad in law. Those acting in the matter a counsel for Muir are K. C. Smith, K.C., Leonard Gordon and Joseph Cohen, K. C. The latter, it will be remembered, was instrumental in bringing about the postponement of the hanging from April 3rd to May 20th next.

Various other moves were made previous to this to save the death penalty, the Canadian Prisoners' Welfare Association and Col. Mackenzie, a party towards a communication of sentence, while D. W. McKeag had acted as counsel on behalf of the mother of the condemned boy, Harold Muir, in an appeal for clemency.

Arrested in Drunken Row

Walter Muir was convicted in January last for the murder of Hazel Violette in Valleyfield on September 22nd, in a hotel where Muir was staying. Three men, Plante, Muir and Carroll were arrested, the latter two charging dogs; the argument became hot and Muir drew his revolver and shot Violette. It was shown in the evidence that the latter had then left the hotel and had holden under the kitchen floor of a neighboring house, but were captured a short time afterwards by a posse of citizens.

Lafontelle died three days later in the Montreal General Hospital; and at the Coroner's inquest on the latter part of May, Mr. Justice Wilson condemned Muir to the gallows.

In the communication sent to the Minister of Justice by Mr. Muir, clemency was asked on the grounds that the case did not seem to be one of premeditated or malicious murder, but rather one of manslaughter. They contended that the testimony all pointed to the fact that the deceased was intoxicated and that the murderer was intoxicated at the time.

Hon. Walter Mitchell throws bomb Into Liberal Ranks

MORE BOLTERS LOOM

Sir Lomer Gouin Definitely Aligns Self With Conservatives

Ottawa, Ont., May 16—Hon. Walter Mitchell, Liberal member for St. Antoine Division, Montreal, and previous to his entry into the Federal House, Provincial Treasurer in both the Gouin and Taschereau Governments, in Quebec, threw a bomb into the Government party when, at the opening of the House yesterday, the Speaker read his resignation. Mr. Mitchell retires in protest against the King-Robb budget and also against the repudiation of the election Pledge Byng Act and his fellow Associates on the fiscal policy during the 1921 election. His resignation came as a complete surprise to the Liberals and Progressives, although a few Conservatives were expectant that he would resign before party for principle.

There was a hasty exit from the Chamber of many Quebec members and the rumor spread that Sir Lomer Gouin would do likewise So far Gouin has remained the mystery man

Where Gouin Stands

The outcry surrounding Sir Lomer Gouin's attitude on the budget is now ever stilled late yesterday by a wire from him to Hon. S. F. Tolmie, his Conservative pair. Liberals have persistently charged Sir Lomer had cancelled his pair. It is now discovered they were Sir Lomer's wire to Hon. S. F. Tolmie when he discovered that the Liberals had not made known his decision to support the budget.

"Just back from Quebec, I find your telegram. I had requested Mr. Carroll last week to call off my pair. Please consider yourself free as I am unpaired."

This action on the part of Sir Lomer definitely aligns him with the Conservative party in the fight for the Preferential. It also shows the desperation of the Liberal leader, when they adopted such methods to prevent Sir Lomer's pair becoming known. The cancellation of his pair, is Pierre Casgrain, M. P., Chateauguay-Montmorency, and one of the Liberal whips.

Political Suicide

S. W. JaDobe, the able member for St. George Dimsie Curtiss, took the evening train to Montreal, declaring he would not support the budget. Many other Quebec members are in the same mood but they will probably stand by the Government, although they openly declare they are committing political suicide by so doing. There will be some other absentees from the Liberal ranks before every name is called, but a pair is being so because he dare not support the budget and face his electors.

HAPPY FUNCTION AT MASONIC MEET

Owing to the fact that Moira Lodge No. 11, A. F. & A. M. of this city is holding its annual meeting on Monday, has given permission to have the regalia trimmed with gold rather than silver. On Wednesday evening the officers of the lodge were installed into the new regalia, the investing rite being performed by Rt. Hon. Arthur Ponton, K. C., Past Grand Master of Canada in Ontario. Many members were present at the function. The Past Master was made an honorary member of Moira Lodge.

Tender of Patterson Construction Company Accepted by Committee

PUBLIC WORKS

Civic Committee Passes on Several Recommendations for Council

At a meeting of the various civic committees held last evening considerable business was transacted. A number of recommendations were adopted and passed to the Council meeting for approval.

Tenders for the construction of a building at the pumping station and the installing of a pump in same were accepted. The Patterson Construction Company of this city will erect the building, their tender of $12,839 being the lowest. The Turbine Equipment Company will install the pump.—The recommendations were as follows:

Recommended that the report of engineers, Messrs. Gore, Nasmith and Storrie be adopted, and that the tenders as recommended be accepted, namely, The Patterson Construction Co., for the building at the pumping station for the sum of $12,839 and the tender of the Turbine Equipment Co., for the 2,000 gallon pump and motor, G. R. C. 3 gasoline engine for $8,025, and that the necessary contract be prepared by the city solicitor and the mayor and clerk be authorized to sign same.

Recommended that M. G. McDonald be appointed as engineer and inspector on the new pumping station at a salary of $250 per month whilst employed.

Public Works

Recommended that a sanitary sewer be constructed on Ridley avenue from Catherine street to its northerly limits under section 9 of the Local Improvement Act.

Recommended that the chairman of market and city property be authorized to secure prices on ridding material for police station.

Recommended that a committee of the chairman of industries and Ald. A. H. Ketchesson be appointed to confer with the city solicitor in connection with the letter from the Alemite Company with power to act.

Recommended that a concrete side walk be constructed on the west side of Howard street from Holloway street to three street south under section 9 on local improvement Act.

Recommended that concrete walks be constructed on the east side Coleman street and east side of Coleman street from Bridge street to Carrie crescent, the latter is accordance with a petition presented.

Recommended that Ald. Le Roche and Ald. Greenleaf, the City Engineer and City Clerk be given the necessary with power to act in the matter of negotiating the contract with F. Dambaco for the construction of sewers on Pinnacle, Brock and Strachan streets.

Recommended that the payment of the balance of $1,000 due the Board of Educationon the old Pinnacle street school property be made in accordance with their request.

Recommended that the municipal council of the corporation of the city of Belleville concur in the views and suggestions of the city of Toronto with regard to the Government policy on immigration to Canada and that the Clerk be instructed to communicate this resolution to the Mayor of Toronto.

Mayor Hiltz's suggestion is for a change of the immigration policy and to devise measure for keeping Canadians in this country.

CHORAL CLUB PLEASE WITH CLEVER PLAY

Under the auspices of the Choral Club of the Tabernacle Church, "A Girl in a Thousand" was presented to the appreciative audience of a hundred hundred people, last evening. Members of the cast were all girls who are members of the club. Each character was thorough in her part and the work of the girls reflected much credit upon Mrs. Marion Wood Alyea, who directed the play.

Mrs. Marion Wood Alyea has directed several previous plays for the club and last night's performance was of the high standard as her former successes.

NEW SETTLERS COMING OVER BY THOUSANDS

2,200 Immigrants from European Countries Expected to Arrive

QUEBEC AND HALIFAX

Many Newcomers Destined For Western Ontario—More Coming

Montreal Que., May 16—Close upon 2,200 new settlers will arrive in Canada over the week-end through the ports of Quebec and Halifax, according to reports received yesterday by Mr. James Morrison, General Passenger Agent in charge of colonizing traffic, Canadian National Railways, and will proceed to Montreal in six special trains over the National system.

Of the above number, 1,506 will disembark at Quebec, and the remainder at Halifax. The White Star Dominion Liner "Regina" is expected to arrive at Quebec late on Saturday evening from Liverpool and Belfast. The 72 are four specially conducted parties, three having been brought to Canada by the Ontario Government, the Salvation Army and the British Dominions Immigration Society.

These are for the most part new settlers destined for Ontario, Manitoba and western Canada in addition to these is a party of Dutch immigrants who are settling in Chatham Ontario.

The Canadian Pacific Liner Empress of the Scotland is also due at Quebec some time on Saturday from Southampton and Cherbourg with 350 passengers, including a special party being brought to Canada under the auspices of the Salvation Army and who are destined for West ern Ontario points. Another steamer due to arrive at Quebec on Saturday is the Anchor-Donaldson Liner "Saturnia" with 268 new settlers from Glasgow.

Three more two arrivals at Halifax yesterday. The new Amsterdam" of the Holland-American line from Rotterdam, arrives with 57 passengers, and the "Canopic" of the White Star line from Hamburg and Southampton with 200 passengers, will be due on the arrival of the Swedish American Liner "Scandinavian" from Scandinavian ports with 126 passengers while the "Lapland" of the Red Star line will arrive from Antwerp and Southampton with 39 passengers. A special Canadian's steamer of the French line from Bordeaux is expected to land passengers at Halifax on Sunday.

DELORME TRIAL IS POSTPONED

Chief Justice Martin Grants Crown's Request Despite Alban Germain's Protests

Montreal, May 16.—Father Delorme appeared in the Court of King's Bench yesterday morning. He looked extreme ly healthy and seemed to have grown stout since his last appearance in public. When his counsel, Alban Germain, K.C., was endeavouring without success to per suade the court to have the Abbe's trial trial during the present term, the accused remained standing with his eyes on the Chief Justice Martin and Mr. Germain. He did not once glance at his half-sister, Hon. Mrs. Gouin, although he did let cast his eye in the direction of Detective Farah-Lazar, who was largely responsible for his arrest, and who was sitting a few feet away from the dock.

Stating that the defence was ready and anxious to proceed, Mr. Germain protested against the delay. He declared that the accused had been deprived of his liberty for two years, during which time he had twice been tried, and that to allow the delay asked for by the Crown would be unfair.

Mr. Germain then brought up the question of bail for his client. Chief Justice Martin replied that "we will not grant bail before when we come to it."

"The court is unable to deal with it now," he added. "We have to take routine, and can not have judges on tap to please counsel."

Judge Wilson concluded with the statement that if an application for bail were made, it would be dealt with expeditiously as possible.

COURIER WRITES FROM WEST POINT

Relates Interesting Experiences Enroute—"Tip" has 14 Quarts Per Day

The following letter has been received by Mayor Mikel from Gwen Lazier Dear Mr. Mikel,

West Point, N. Y., May14-24

Sorry I didn't drop a card yesterday, but there has been so much to do and see. At Poughkeepsie I was met by thirty cadets and marched a military band and all the boy scouts under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. I was then escorted to the hotel. Yesterday bloke I left for to Detroit, Mich., and had a terrible treat of taking the same side of the car I covered with Rebecca, so that I could travel over the new Lincoln Highway. We then went on to West Point where I was up at 5.30 for the 6 o'clock review which was a wonder. Then the Mayor of West Point welcomed and wished the Commandant before the boys marched in review and back in their stables last night. Today we played ball and arrive in Albany tonight. Yes, I have received all the invitations you sent. Tip is doing well and eats his 12 quarts of oats a day.

Mayor Mikel has received the following communication from the Rochester Chamber, N. Y., Chamber of Commerce, Rochester, N. Y., May 14

W. C. Mikel, Esq.

Mayor of Belleville,

Dear Sir—

The officers of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce, greatly appreciate your letter of invitation under date of May 8th to join in the celebration of the 140th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada.

We are lending our cooperation to the Rochester unit of the 100th Anniversary. 3rd Battalion in its expectation of being present on that occasion.

It is our intention also to have committees representing the Rochester Chamber of Commerce with its 4500 members.

With earnest wishes for the growth of our friendly relations, I am,

Yours truly,

R. B. Woodward,

Secretary

"WE BUILD"—CANADA

Mr. Edward Tanguay, Governor of the Ontario-Quebec district of Kiwanis International, and President of the Quebec City Board of Trade, made an oration at the banquet celebrating the first anniversary of the local club that keenly expressed the general feeling of sane minded Canadian citizens in general.

Speaking of the relationship between Ontario and Quebec, and pleading for the fostering of good will and amity between the two provinces, he stated that the majority of agitation raised to promote this feeling was the work, not of native-born Canadians, but the unassimilated foreigner. There is little doubt that Governor Tanguay was correct in his assertion. Quebec, is and always has been, one of the bulwarks of Canada as an entity; no move for the general betterment of the Dominion as a whole has met with more instantaneous response than that given in Quebec; no one section has been more proud of the right to call themselves Canadian, and it is a tribute to the intelligence of the Quebec people to state that they hold the real Canadian citizen blameless for the senseless agitation attempting to disrupt the good feeling of the French and English speaking races.

Language, race or creed should be no bar to harmony when working for the general good of the Dominion. Politics is bound to enter any discussion relative to the country as a whole, but as so aptly expressed by Gov. Tanguay, there are many things in life bigger than politics and one of them is the common good of our country.

It has been a pleasure for Belleville to receive a visitor from our neighboring province who has vision enough and a basic understanding of the common aims of our Dominion to stand up in public and state that Quebec holds the true Canadian of Ontario absolutely blameless for any agitation now going on. To hear this speaker, from a French-speaking province, assert that the best immigrant for Canada comes from England, Scotland and Ireland gives an insight into the sterling character of Quebec's representative.

WHERE IS THERE A BETTER PLAN?

Sir Robert Borden, in his address before the London Canadian Club on Tuesday, made an earnest and reasoned support for the League of Nations as the part of the people of the Dominion. Fortunately Canadian people from the first have not taken a narrow or parochial view of the League and have been prepared to support heartily the new world organization as the only effective machine yet created which can bring about universal peace.

As the Canadian representative at the Versailles Peace Conference, as one of those responsible for initiating the League of Nations and as a delegate at its sessions Sir Robert spoke with authority when he told the members of the Canadian Club of some of its practical accomplishments, which he summed up as follows:

1. The League of Nations has been responsible for preventing no less than five wars since its establishment in 1919.

2. It settled the outstanding differences between Germany and Poland after every other agency had failed.

3. The League was responsible through the organization it created, in stopping a plague of typhus sweeping over Europe from Russia.

4. The financial rehabilitation of Austria, a nation which is now getting on its feet, was entirely due to the League of Nations.

5. The League has forced upon methods of diplomacy. All treaties before being effective must now be filed with the League.

6. The League has established a permanent court of justice to settle international disputes.

Above all, as Sir Robert added, it has brought the statesmen of the world to see the value of international co-operation, and has developed a better spirit among the civilized nations. The League of Nations may not be ideal; it may not be able to prevent all war, but it is the one hope of a world longing for peace and sick of bloodshed and international hatreds. As Sir Robert asked: Where is there a better plan?

PRESS OPINIONS

MARK TWAIN AND THE INTERVIEWER

(The Mentor)

Mark Twain was especially fond of reading and writing in bed. One day a reporter called to get permission to interview him called when he was in bed. At the door the reporter paused and Mrs. Clemens asked her husband through the half open door "Youth, don't you think it would be a little embarassing for him—young being in bed?" Mark Twain's easy deliberate voice replied "Why, Livy if you think so we might have the other bed made up for him."

WHAT TAXES DON'T DO

(Financial Post)

It has been evident that in many parts Ottawa has been trying it on the dog" in testing new taxes—and it has not been good for the dog. The development of our natural resources by investment of capital, the employment of labor and the turnover of natural and manufactured products should be encouraged and facilitated. And this is anything but the effect of new and changing taxes.

POLITICS DOWN EAST

(Halifax Chronicle)

Nothing alters the even tenor of the local Opposition organ's way. It has a mission, and it fancies, to oppose and is bent on opposing whether there is ground for opposition or not. It counts that day lost whose slow descending sun sees not its "giant of opposition" grow. The disgust of the more intelligent fellow partisans and the laughter of the general public jeers at it as idle wind. It goes its daily rounds as if it were alone in a vacuum world with not even a mirror to reflect its antics for its own enlightenment.

FAITH IN CANADA

(Ottawa Citizen)

Many Canadian men who never overseas know how they were bolstered on numerous occasions by the authorities still apply to occupy the limelight inside and outside of parliament. They are equally incompetent to deal with the national situation as it is described in the facts regarding slow age of immigrants and flight of Canadian citizens to United States, while Mr. MacNeil sends public just Saturday.

CUT OUT WHITEWASH

(Dru els Post)

Sir Richard Squires is the next public man in the limelight. He is an ex-Premier of Newfoundland, and is charged with misappropriation of public funds. $22,000 funds of the liquor control department are said to be stolen. Mr. Campbell, former minister of agriculture, is mixed up in the case with $60 of the money handed against him. The vast cannot throw brick at their more severely fouled s the pot may be a- dark complexioned as the kettle. "Every man has his price" is an old saying, and not true on the "every" end of it, but it would appear that the fellows with hands out are growing in number if not in honor.

NEW OPERA

Rome, May 15.—Giacomo Puccini, composer of La Tosca, Madame Butterfly, Tosca, and numerous other operas, has completed a new opera entitled Turandot, and the work will be produced the coming season in Rome or Milan.

Puccini said Turandot was not unlike his other creations in its musical aspects, as he had not changed its characteristic style. "A lofty sentiment is introduced by the character of a tragic slave girl, Liu, while there is more of the comic element than in most of the previous works supplied by the pantomimic characters, Ping, Pang and Pong."

SEVERAL RADIO SETS USE SAME AERIAL-THROUGH NEW COUPLING-TUBE UNIT

The "coupling tube," by means of which several receiving sets may use a single antenna, will be made available to the public soon after June 1, according to U.S. naval radio experts. The device was invented and perfected by Dr. A. H. Taylor and L. C. Young of the naval radio laboratory at Bellevue, Md., and has been demonstrated on board the U.S. battleship Colorado. By connecting a coupling tube unit between each receiving set and the single antenna suspended from the masts several incoming messages were received simultaneously, while three messages on other wave lengths were transmitted from the vessel.

Patents on this new radio device which makes the operation of several sets independent of each other, even when receiving on a common aerial, are pending and consequently the inventors do not care to reveal the exact hook-up nor details of the apparatus.

In general, it is said to include a coupling resistance, so high that the strength of the incoming signals is reduced materially, requiring at least a three or four tube set. A radio frequency step in the form of a radio frequency trap, which eliminates any regeneration is required and of course a receiving set with a detector tube. Reception is improved by the use of audio frequency amplification.

The military value of the device is said to the navy 'a very high since it enables a vessel or station to carry on several times as much business or traffic as has heretofore been possible without interference and the navy holds the rights for military use. It will form a part of artillery and aerial equipment. To the general public its chief interest will be that it will permit the use of a single aerial on a large apartment house or hotel, where each family tenant wants to operate his own set independently of others. A leading idea has run into each apartment or home, the owner specifying that each tenant must use a coupler unit and each can receive a receiving set directly with the antenna.

ATTEMPTS FOILED

Berlin, May 15—Suicide by gas has increased to such an extent in Berlin within the last few months that the houses have been equipped with oxygen tanks, and the public is urged to call fire fighters whenever such a case is discovered.

It has been found that firemen at first aid are much quicker in responding to this than the emergency hospital ambulances. One morning recently there were 10 attempted suicides by gas, and the fire fighters saved them all.

Itching Eczema Dried Right Up With Sulphur

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly relieves the most torturing itch, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement—Sufferers from all kinds of blotches should get a jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

SURVEY IS PLANNED OF C.N.R. REPAIR SHOPS

Montreal, May 15.—At a conference to-day, between S. J. Hungerford, Vice-President of the Canadian National Railways; O. S. Boyer Jr., Consulting Engineer of the shopmen's employees' organizations, and the latter's representatives, arrangements were completed to make a survey of the principal repair shops of the system.

The proposed survey is the first step in the direction of developing a program of more intensive co-operation between the management of the railway, its shop craft employees and their unions, for the purpose of eliminating waste, increasing shop operating efficiency, stabilizing unemployment, improving working conditions and safety of operation and bettering service to the public.

Mr. Boyer is starting on his survey next Monday, proceeding first to the Moncton shops in New Brunswick, and then going westward.

Among the Chaff

BY OMAR CAYENNE

(The Watch Dog)

A young lady in our town, says the Port Hope Guide arose early and went to the woods Sunday to have the first pick of spring flowers. A log by which she was crossing a stream, was wet with the morning dew and her feet slipped and in she went. As she landed right side up only her new shoes were damaged by the plunge.

There is great talk nowadays about reforestration. How about a few deer tour signs in the woods adjacent to Port Hope.

BE CAREFUL AUNT POLLY

During the heavy gale Friday evening last, Miss Marshall, an elderly and shrinkly built lady, was blown from the verandah of her neice's residence in Elizabethtown and sustained a compound fracture of her right arm. That is worse than the wrist accident that ever occurred in Chicago—(the windy city).

IS INTERESTING TOWN

Among the Highway mishaps over the week-end some Port Hope boy took a roll over; owing to their limit going out they were unable to get the ditch.—Port Hope Guide.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS

Campbellford is experiencing trouble in fixing the hall holiday for druggists. They say that if the druggist by a majority ask for a half holiday and are inclined in the bylaw, they are, owing to the nature of their business allowed a certain latitude.

Just what do the last eleven words of this excellent moment Bellevillians says believed that the only place to get mushrooms is on Anderson's Island.

NEW CHINESE GAME

Port Hope has "invented" a new game. The Port Hope Guide states that it has become somewhat of a sport of late for some young men to visit a cafe there, create a disturbance and abuse the proprietor.

CRANKS HIS AUTO IN HIGH GEAR

Durham, May 15.—Dr. W. P. Ellis, veterinary, Holstein, survived without injury a peculiar experience. Answering a call from Archibald McPhee, who had a horse severely injured in a runaway, he jumped his car in high gear at McPhee's barn. On being informed that the horse was back in a field and that he could model there, he cranked up his car, which at once leaped forward. The doctor grasped the bumper and was dragged beneath the car as it jumped through a gate, over a pile of wood, and then turned and attacked the driving-shed. All the while the doctor was trailed beneath the car. When it stopped he crawled from under, and when Mr. McPhee asked him if he were hurt, replied, "Where is the horse?"

News Briefs

Orillia, May 17.—In an interview with The Financial Post, one of the directors of Carriage Factories, Ltd., states that an arrangement has been completed whereby Yellow Cabs will be manufactured at the Orillia plant of Carriage Factories for Canadian and British markets. An official of the Yellow Cab Company has been in Orillia assisting in the placing of orders for materials.

It was the original intention of the Yellow Cab Manufacturing Company to establish a Canadian plant in the province of Quebec, but negotiations conducted by officials of the Carriage Factories resulted in a mutually satisfactory arrangement for their location in Orillia. A Canadian company has been organized with a Dominion charter, to be known as the Canadian Yellow Cab Manufacturing Company, as a subsidiary of the Chicago concern. Bodies for the Yellow Cab will be manufactured by Carriage Factories, Ltd.

The Canadian Yellow Cab Manufacturing Company has leased space in the Carriage Factories building and the chassis will be assembled there. The first order to be put through will be a substantial one for London, England.

WHERE BABY IS SAFEST

(Popular Science Journal)

The best place to raise a baby is on the second floor of a house, or even higher up if possible. On the ground there are less dust, germs and poison gas than will be found on the sidewalk or first floor of a house. This is especially true of poison exhaust from autos for this gas clings near the ground, being heavy.

A hood and apron which charges one hundred dollars for the advice contain in this editorial, says it is unsafe to wheel a baby along city streets until baby is about eight months old.

Rheumatism Gone Says Montreal Hotel Man

F. A. Mongeau Tells How He Recovered Strength After Eight Years Of Rheumatism.

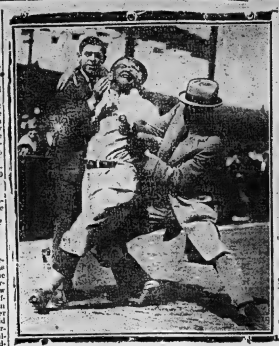

F. A. Mongeau, popular night clerk at the Prince of Wales Hotel, 17 and 19 McGill College Ave., Montreal, Canada, lends his name to further the cause of Tanlac, the treatment that has proved of such great benefit to him.

"After all Tanlac has done for me," said Mr. Mongeau, "I just feel like praising it to everybody. Eight years of muscular rheumatism had just about made a cripple of me. I got to where I simply had to limp around on a cane. My nerves became affected, my sleep unsound and I felt completely knocked out.

"Six bottles of Tanlac, taken eight months ago, made a new man of me and I have no further trouble with rheumatism, or my health, since. My nerves are steady as a die, I sleep fine and feel the same way. Anyone wanting to know of me what Tanlac will do just phone me here at the hotel."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute Over 40 Million bottles sold.

Music & Drama

There are few young girls of cinema-land whose future appears as bright as that of Miss du Pont, one of the leading players in the picturization of "The Common Law", now enjoying a successful run at the Griffin Theatre. Although she has been in pictures for a short time only, her rise to stellar heights has been rapid and steady. She became famous overnight by the surprised dramatic ability which she displayed in the leading role of "Foolish Wives." In addition to this she is conceded to be one of the most beautiful stars of the screen. Notwithstanding all this she is blessed with rare intelligence, charming personality, and an unaffected and unassuming manner which has made her a great favorite among her fellow players and her large circle of friends. Brilliant and scintillating her success has not "turned her head."

"JAVA HEAD" A SUCCESS

George Milford's latest Paramount production, "Java Head," was presented with great success at the Regent Theatre last night. The story, by Joseph Hergesheimer, tells of the trials of a sea captain and his Chinese wife and of a young American girl he loved. Leatrice Joy was excellent in the role of Tzou Yurn, a Chinese girl. Raymond Hatton, as Edward Dunseek, a drug addict, does the best acting of his career. Jacquelin Logan Allen Roscoe an George Fawcett were excellent in their portrayals.

INSTAL LATEST GASOLINE PUMP

Belleville Motors Ltd., Ford Dealers, 211 Pinnacle Street, have just completed the installation of the latest type gasoline pump. The Bowser Company, one of the oldest manufacturers of the equipment are the makers. This pump is electrically operated and controlled. Another feature is the visible bowl, which shows the exact delivery of gas to the customer. A much needed improvement is a new straining device which insures the gas being free from water and other alien substances at all times of the year.

This new pump is in keeping with the many features this company have added to their new premises for the benefit of Ford Owners.

Announcement

THE old established Tobacco Business operated by John Fenn, at 279½ Front Street for the last 40 years has been taken over by ALBERT E. WANNACOTT, a Belleville boy.

In addition to the present business he will operate an expert watch, clock, engraving and jewellery repairing department. He has had 15 years' experience in Belleville with T. Blackburn, Jeweller, in this line and will give you prompt service. Estimates given on any repairs.

Your patronage will be greatly appreciated.

RESURFACE THE OLD FLOOR—DO IT YOURSELF

Pick out a floor in your home—that is scratched, stained or badly worn. An old, soft-wood floor, where the grain is no longer attractive—then spread a few easy brush loads of KYANIZE Floor Enamel over it—watch it level out to a clean even smoothness. It hides the specks.

Let it dry overnight. Old discolorations gone—unsightly boards hidden forever. A solid color, opaque finish of lasting beauty. KYANIZE Sanitary Floor Enamel is the new, coming for what seems to be hopeless floors. It is an enamel, high grade and waterproof, tough enough to stand the hardest wear without cracking, chipping or peeling. Comes in nine popular colors.

Because of great durability and waterproof qualities, KYANIZE Floor Enamel is excellent for porch and garage floors as well, use it on floors of stone, cement, concrete or wood; it's satisfactory on all kinds. On old pattern-worn linoleum it gives a beautiful new solid color finish—uniform in its attractiveness.

GUARANTEE—Results must be satisfactory or we will refund your money "for the empty can."

Another White Man's Burden

As present constituted, the Nation al League is an organization composed of seven ball clubs and a civic push-over. The latter represents the worthy city of Philadelphia and something should be done about it. The 1924 Phillies seem to be even worse than usual if possible; they contribute only an element of opera bouffe to the major league program. They should be discontinued, pronto, or William F. Baker forced to spend something more tangible than the afternoon.

Mr. Baker has an ideal existence. He sows a handful of poison ivy and reaps a crop of orchids at the box office.

On a recent Sunday the Phillies came to the Polo Grounds and were honored by the presence of some 45,000 citizens at least 30,000 of these estimable gentlemen left the park, disgusted, before the end of the afternoon, as a result of an exhibition that would make a comedian weep. The exhibition was typical, and as usual.

The Phillies are not a major league proposition at all. They might ever look somewhat to the fatality in the Class A.A. minors.

Enough is a great plenty, Mr. Baker.

Tex Rickard predicts that Boyle's Thirty Acres will be safe for every one on the afternoon of September 6 next. Tex Rickard may be wrong. He seems to have overlooked Harry Wills.

We venture to suggest a new variety yell at Columbia University, now that President Nicholas Butler has espoused the cause of the vote:

"Three cheers and a blind tiger."

Coach, Boy! a Niche

Marty Krug was a fairly plausible third baseman while with the Chicago Cubs several years ago. He seems to be a better minor league manager. Marty has placed himself among the extra hands on the Los Angeles bench in order to make room in the line-up for a younger and more gifted infielder.

The latter is one Ray Jacobs and he has laid the Coast League circuit by the heels with his wonderful hitting and fielding. They say he is as good as Willie Kamm which is going beyond the following point, to wit:

Which is the greater hero, the boy who is burning up the league or the man who made this possible at the expense of personal ambition.

Bedtime Story

Once upon a time there was a race track taut who did not say his horse couldn's lose. He didn't say anything.

Did you ever notice that many prize fight managers have cauliflower ears? Also, that giraffes have very short necks?

A Tip From Ted

Ted Ray, former British and American open golf champion, has some very illuminating advice for those who find the mashie a weapon of

"Neglect to ease the left knee in taking the club back may bring about a terrible error in direction," says Ted, "as the club cannot be brought across the front of the body with the left elbow flying out.

"A firm grip is essential; the fact may be a little more apt than usual, with the left foot about fifteen inches in advance of the right and the weight of the body on the right rather than on the left foot. The blade of the club should be turn ed out a little so that it cuts across the ball as it comes in contact. The right elbow should be kept fairly well into the side to avoid pushing the club out."

STANISLAUS ZBYSZKO, who will show his wares in Toronto when he meets George Walker, Canadian wrestling champion, in a finish bout.

STILL AT DOORN

Doorn, Holland.—Former Emperor William, of Germany, has not left Doorn, it was certained today. Reports of his departure are believed to refer to Princess Hermine, who left Saturday for Silesia, to see her children, who had changed colors. She will remain at Oels with the former crown prince, for a few days.

ON THE ALLEYS

The Ne'er-Do-Wells outplayed the Rattlers to the extent of 37 points in three games, just enough margin to make the game exciting which it was, all the way through. Last nights game was an example of "How to get the most fun out of it." "Lady Luck" appeared to be very fickle at times allowing the pins to perform some weird stunts. Miss Ford with 420 was in the lead of the Lady Bowlers while Bob Mills's 350 was the pace setter for the men.

The Strollers gave the Wanderers a great run at the Recreation alleys last night in the Junior league and finally rolled 1906 against the Wanderers 2039. The Strollers made a good finish, cutting down the Wanderers lead 112 in the last game. Mrs. Geo. Lee was the three string bowler with a total of 530. Miss Miss Harris was high for the Strollers.

In the Junior league the Durant are running in hard luck and lost three second straight game, the National Cash ions being the victors by over 200 pins. Rutherford of the losing team was high bowler of the evening with 610. For the Nat. Castings Norm Turner was high.

Playing 3 men aside the Hikers won from the Recreation alleys in the senior league, only two bowlers going over the 600 mark, but as no doubt as regards who was at stake in the game either team tried very hard. Drew and Merrell were the leading bowlers for their respective teams. Figures and scores.

Peterboro Plays Here and Oshawa Plays at Kingston in Opening Games

Next Wednesday, May 21st, is the date set for the opening of the Central Ontario Baseball League, comprising the four senior teams from Peterboro, Oshawa, Belleville and Kingston.

Jake Solomon's Petes with Al Heckman and last year's old stars plus new material whose ability has been praised, open the season at Agriculture Park here at 3 p.m. that afternoon, with their old rivals, Walt Gerow's Grand Trunk nine. While Belleville and Peterboro fight it out here, the Automotive outfit will be battling with the Limestone city Ponies at Kingston.

Of course these two important events occur only if weather conditions are favourable, and they certainly have not been favourable up until the present. Incessant rain has not only kept the diamonds in a soggy condition throughout the circuit, and absolutely unfit for play, but they have prevented practices and exhibition games. Oshawa have had two exhibition games between showers, however, Peterboro one, and Kingston may have one tomorrow afternoon with Ottawa Senators. Belleville Grand Trunks have made two unsuccessful attempts to clash with Point Ann in an exhibition game, but failed, owing to the Westherman having turned on the tap in each instance.

Despite the bad weather, however, the Railroaders have had a few snappy workouts on the armouries floor, and a few practices at the High School grounds. The boriers have been working out their arms continually.

Jack Collette will be the only seasoned hearer with the Trunks this season, but he will be supported by Huchie Keon, ex-Tweed right hander, Archie Zufelt, ex-Warkworth southpaw, and Charlie Jeffrey, the local boy. Just how successful this quartette will be against the proven Heckman and the highly-praised Serth is a matter of conjecture, and something which each Belleville fan is anxious to see.

Belleville will play four of the twenty games of the season's schedule before June 1st. They are in Oshawa on Victoria Day (Saturday 24th), in Kingston on the 28th, and Kingston plays here on the last day of May.

Frank Hallinan, former Toronto umpire, this year in the Central League, and Clifford Boundy of Cobourg, will handle the opening game here Wednesday next.

KING OF BELGIANS HONORS CANADIAN PROFESSOR

Brussels, May 16.—In the presence of King Albert, the Academy of French Language and Literature to-day received Professor Eduard Montpetit of Laval, who was Canada's delegate to the Genoa conference in 1922. Mr. Hector De Wind, former Prime Minister, welcomed Prof. Montpetit in a speech. Prof. Montpetit in reply, praised the traditions of France and Belgium and spoke feelingly of the Canadians who died while defending Belgian soil.

WILL TOUR ENGLAND FOR UNIVERSITY

Quebec May 16.—Among the cabin passengers who sailed on the C.P.R. Mont Lourier at 3.30 yesterday afternoon were Professor F. L. Lyon of Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., Mr. C. D. Massey, President of the Massey Harris Company, Limited, Lieut. I. B. Finley, R. N., and Mr. William Prentis, President of the Canada Steamship Lines, Montreal. Professor Lyons who was accompanied by Mrs. Lyons, said they were going to England from four to six months in England and Scotland, with perhaps a short trip to France. While in Great Britain the Professor will visit the principal colleges, University and agricultural and experimental stations with the intention of studying plant roots or, what he said was professionally called soil science. This is the principal reason for the professor's trip abroad, but apart from his intended professional investigations from which he said he expects to bring back to his University a fund of information on the methods used in England and Scotland in this particular branch of agricultural study, he and Mrs. Lyons, wish to visit the principal cities and historical places in both countries as until this trip they had not had this opportunity, though they had travelled extensively in continental Europe. They decided that in their two-day stay in the city of Quebec, they had found it a typically French and perpetually interesting city from the tourists' point of view.

WILL TRY TO COLLECT

Thorold, May 15—At the special meeting of the town council, H. L. Hamilton, of Ingersoll, Kingston & Seymour, St. Catharines, gave a detailed explanation of the situation in regard to grants asked for by the Thorold of 1921-22 from the county council for the paving of Ormond St., and the situation as it stands today in this regard and the possibility or otherwise of securing the money not yet paid to the town by the county.

The following resolution was finally moved by Councillor Berry and Lidgdynat: "That the law firm of Hamilton, Kingston & Seymour be and are hereby instructed to proceed with the collecting of certain sums of money that are due the town of Thorold from the county of Welland under county by-laws making grants for improvements of Ormond street."

A petition from twenty-five ratepayers was presented to the council by W. E. Greenhill, asking that the council do something in regard to the water power in the Welland ship canal which is causing much noise every night. It was ordered that a protest be sent to the Peter Lyall Construction company, and failing action that he board of health take action to stop "this public nuisance."

IF YOU ARE NOT WELL HERE IS YOUR KEY TO HEALTH!

Hattonford, Alta.—"Being run-down after the flu I was a weakened condition, had dizzy spells and shortness of breath, followed by faintness. The middle age period made things seem as though I'd never feel well again, so was determined not to give up. Hearing of Dr. Pierce's famous Golden Medical Discovery I sent for a bottle, followed the directions and got relief. Then I got and followed, finally I got back to my health again. I have thanked God many times for the restoration of my health so I could remain with my family and I gladly recommend Dr. Discovery of Dr. Pierce's, for it is so pure, and worth a trial to any one who is run-down."—Mrs. Gertrude White, Crystal Springs Farm.

It is a good thing for humanity that the Optometrist is able to successfully deal with the many abnormal eye conditions that exist to-day. Comb Sage Tea Into Gray Hair

DARKENS BEAUTIFULLY AND RESTORES ITS NATURAL COLOR AND LUSTER AT ONCE

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening our hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell! Lecture it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs are disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.
VITAMINS AND COD LIVER OIL

The discovery by a Montreal physician of the wholly chemical nature of one of the vitamins, has further intensified the interest in these wonderful helps to digestion and body building.

As you know it is not their actual food value, but the chemical changes they make in the food, that makes them absolutely necessary to the maintenance of the human body.

This physician expects to be able to so stimulate appetite that only a small portion of the food we take into our system will actually be necessary.

It was while working upon our old friend cod liver oil that he was able to isolate the actual chemical vitamin substance.

Cod liver oil was used by our parents, grandparents, and great-grandparents. It has been handed down from generation to generation.

It would seem to be useful during every age and stage of life.

In the growing child were good strong bone is essential to carrying the body, and for the muscles of the body, cod liver oil supplies the needed vitamin.

At this time also it supplies material for the calcium necessary to growth.

In boys of fifteen, girls of twelve to thirteen, the puberty stage, who are growing rapidly, cod liver oil is especially valuable.

I remember being at boy's preparatory school for lunch one day, and seeing a number of boys marching up to their particular tables, and taking a tablespoonful of cod liver oil. It is at this age that Nature gives more growth and weight than in any other year of their existence.

Cod liver oil is a great help then at this time.

And then in older people, and in those worn out and run down, it is a great help. Science to-day has often prevented its use

But this physician's discovery proves as useful as he anticipates it will revolutionize eating.

It will cut down our intake to a very large extent.

One of the valuable things about our present day food is the amount of vitamins or roughage, which because of its roughness stimulates the intestine to action and prevents constipation.

However, as the vitamins themselves have this action also, this difficulty will be overcome.

Radio Gossip

If you have persistent interference in your receiver, look around you for a neighboring physician who may be using an X-ray or violet ray machine. These instruments have been found almost uncontrollable offenders in radio.

A vacuum tube consisting of a filament, metal sheet, and two plates is the invention of a German radio engineer. It is a step beyond the four-electrode tube invented be a Frenchman. The new tube is used for generating small waves of only two or three meters.

British broadcasters are planning to try broadcasting the songs of the night ingale in its native haunts, this summer. It will be caught be a microphone set near the bird's nest and transmitted by station 2LO.

When the pastor of the Community church in Hanover, Mass., had to attend an out-of-town meeting one Sunday, recently, he installed a receiver and loud speaker and let the pastor of one of Springfield's larger Congregational churches conduct the services.

Salt Lake City, Utah, is to have a big new broadcasting station. A manufacturer in that city has furnished the necessary $25,000 with which to buy the equipment.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"Half-past five and a cup of coffee, as usual, I suppose?" she said.

"Thanks, yes," replied Jack. "I'll turn in now. Good-night, Jacky; good night, Mordy Jane, it's very kind of you to take me in."

Mordy Jane nodded.

"Oh, well, as to that," she said, sharply, "we've had worse—and we've had better. Don't disturb yourself if you hear a noise about half past eleven, it's only our other lodger comin' in."

Jack laughed.

"An exciting life wouldn't disturb me to-night, Mordy Jane," he said. "I shall sleep like a top."

Nevertheless, he was lying awake thinking of Esther when the clock clock struck three; it was in sound to that of the Vancouver one!—struck eleven and some time after, as he strove to thrust his thoughts aside and lose them in sleep, he heard a light but staggering step coming up the street, and the sound of some person moving about in the room beneath.

Mordy Jane hammered at the door at half-past five the next morning, and thrust a cup of coffee round it, and Jack got up from his restless, dream-haunted sleep, and prepared for the day's toil. As he dressed himself he felt that, after all he had acted wisely in ruining at once at work. If Esther loved a player, it is also solace, and his life would be unendurable but for the hard physical toil which permits of no "mooning," and recognizes the best remedy for bodily fatigue.

He went down to the docks, and was at once taken on by the foreman, who recognized his stalwart figure; and for the whole of the day, broken but for short meal time, Sir John Vavasour, Baronet, of Vancouver, was seen to wield sacks, lift great weights, and eyeing his bread with the sweat of labor.

Whenever he found himself pausing, he would wander mentally—towards Vancouver and the girl who reigned there, he meant, and who had made of a hale as if it were his mortal foe, and hauled and lifted until the sweat dripped the aching pain at his heart.

He reserved fairly well while he was at it; but he knew that when the day's work was over the reserve would give way, and the aching pain and longing would vise to torment him.

He remembered "Jane" and have his tea—which Mordy Jane enlivened by an altercation with a neighbour who conducted her side of the argument from over the lower half of the door—then he lit his pipe and strolled out.

Until he had met Esther he had found London amusing and interesting enough; but tonight the great city weighed upon him like an incubus, and he walked up one street and down another in an almost, preoccupied manner, thinking of Vancouver woods and all that had happened there.

At last, tired of aimless wandering, he made for home. It was past eleven as he entered Grosvenor Street, the street in which he lodged was called, and the streets were rather noisy, for the public houses were in full swing, and a brisk trade with the people who had just turned out from the theatres and music halls.

Jack made his way through the various groups, and letting himself in, groped his way upstairs, for it was a rule of Mordy Jane's that no bedroom candles should be left down stairs, and one of Jane's rules were as unalterable as those of the Medes and Persians.

He was feeling for a match box which he remembered several days before had been left on the mantel shelf as he went out, when he heard the street door open and close again and a heavy, unsteady footfall. Jack knew, at no doubt, the other lodger, the lady who was respectable, though "given to late hours."

Jack's door was open, and, naturally enough, he went to it and looked down.

A woman—evidently the lodger—with a lined and faded face, made all the more faded-looking by a mass of yellow hair which obviously owed its ecstacy hue to art—was coming up the stairs with slow and tired tail, holding on by the bannister and stopping now and again to get her breath.

Just as Jack looked down her foot slipped, she staggered, and, losing her hold of the rail, fell against the wall and sank on to the stairs.

Jack went down to her quickly and quietly.

"Have you hurt yourself?" he asked.

She looked up with a startled expression on her face, which was pale beneath its paint.

"No—not oh, no!" she said, and Jack was relieved to find that her voice had not the slightest indication of inebriety. "I—my foot slipped, and I fell. I am very tired—"

She rose, but with difficulty, and Jack took her arm and drew it within his.

"Let me help you," he said, gently. "There are only a few steps farther."

"Thank you!" she faltered, with an attempt at a laugh—the cavant laugh of the Bower class London girl; but the laugh died away, and she winced.

"I've gone and sprained by foot," she said. "That's what I've done!"

"I hope not!" said Jack.

"Well, perhaps not—only strained it. Good-night, and thank you," she added, as she gave her hand.

Jack returned the good-night, and was turning away, when he saw something—it looked like a small, square bundle—lying from under her arm. He stopped, and made to prevent its falling; but, with a quick cry, so low as to be scarcely more than a sigh, she caught the bundle to her as if it were something secret and precious, and stepping into her room, shut the door on him quickly but noiselessly.

While Jack had tramped off to go into action in the battle of life, so to speak, the two women who lived him there left behind to fret after him in that inaction which makes less and grief so hard to bear: it is always those who are left behind who suffer most.

Kate gave way to her grief, but Esther fought against hers with the pride of her class and station. She was greatly troubled by Kate Prichard's strange words and stranger manner when she also learned from Esther that Jack had gone; and Esther, as she walked home, inwardly and mentally raved at the girl she had just left, asked herself the meaning of Kate's reception of the news.

HON. J. S. MARTIN HURT IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

Port Dover, May 16.—Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, while returning from his home here early to Toronto this morning by automobile met with a painful accident at Lambton Mill, near Port Dover. The car struck a hole in the road and turned over, pinning Mr. Martin beneath the wooden supports of the top, severely wrenching his back. He is now resting comfortably, but his physician states that it will be two weeks at least before he is able to leave his bed.

Hon. Mr. Martin has had to cancel all engagements. He was billed to speak at various meetings in different parts of the Province every night for the next three weeks.

WALKER WILL CASE EXCITES SANDWICH

Windsor, May 16.—The $300,000 lawsuit brought by William Robins of Ilderton, England, and Forrest General Manager of the distillery firm of Hiram Walker Sons of Walkerville, against the National Trust Company of Toronto, executors of the will of the late Edward Chandler Walker, and some 30 other individuals and corporations, was in the Assizes under the terms of the will, instructed another large attendance to the court house in Sandwich to-day, when Mr. Justice H. M. Mowat is presiding. Mode $34,000 a Year

Among other interesting facts developed today is that Mr. Robins at the time he resigned as Managing Director of the Walker firm in 1917, was in receipt of a salary of $34,000 a year; that he carries for did property insurance on policies the premiums upon which exceed $3,000 a year, and that Mrs. Jane Griffin Walker, widow of Mr. E. Chandler Walker, rad obtained the legality of her husband's second will, made in 1914.

"I saw Mrs. Walker in London, England, and she told me in 1914 the document was not the true will of her husband and she also stated that she had reprooched Harry and Frank Walker, brothers of E. Chandler Walker, with having procured the will for their own advantage," Mr. Robins declared.

NOT ALL HARMONY

Owen Sound, May 16—The band troubles of Owen Sound are in a fair way to be solved in the very near future. When the city council decided to adopt a program of economy at the first of the year the annual grant to the city band was reduced from $1,000 to $300, and this the band refused to accept and decided to disband. Now the Canadian Legion proposes to take over the band and if an arrangement can be made between the legion and the band committee of the council the former will take charge. It is proposed that all the members of the band must be returned vets, all of whom had served as bandsmen overseas.

Snowy Bed Linen—

fragrantly clean

Clothes washed with Sunlight Soap are naturally cleaned, not chemically cleaned. The pure Sunlight lather goes through and through the clothes, loosening dirt and restoring each thread to a natural state of cleanliness.

HOW sweet and wholesome is that welcome sense of fragrance which comes from well washed linen. How refreshing it is to lie between clean sheets, to rest one's head on a snow-white pillow case; to breathe deeply in an atmosphere of purity; to feel and to know that the things around you are absolutely clean.

To bring about this refreshing sense in the mind of a guest or family is a triumph well worth the attention of any housewife. It is best accomplished by using Sunlight Soap.

To get bed clothes snowy white it is not necessary to boil them or rub holes on the wash board. The pure power of Sunlight Soap itself extracts every trace of soil while the things are soaking. In the rinse it all comes away—all the dirt and every particle of sooty matter, leaving not grey-whiteness, not yellow-whiteness, but snowy white purity and cleanliness.

Presbyterial W.M.S. Meet At Trenton

Many Delegates Present—Interesting Program Given and Reports Gratifying.

At the meeting of the Presbyterial W.M.S. in Trenton on Wednesday evening Prof. McFadyen assisted by Mrs. McFadyen and the Misses McFadyen and Jean McFadyen, of Kingston, gave a most interesting program, "The Story of India in Song."

Beginning with the early poets, the Vedas, Dr. McFadyen traced the religious history of that country from the early purity and simplicity of their religion with their belief in one God to the later dark tragic superstition and idolatry.

Gradually the bright, happy nature of their worship changed to pessimism and despair. The doctrines of transmigration did much to drag them down to despondency.

Each phase in the downward progress was illustrated by a song, the contrast between the bright happy hymns of the Veds and the mournful cadences of the Hymn to Transmigration being very vivid.

Later came the Mohommadan invasion bridging a new note in the music. The Mohommadan "Call to Prayer," sung by Prof. McFadyen, was most impressive.

As a contrast to the weird Indian music the singers rendered a Jewish setting of Psalm 126 and two Christian hymns, one in Hindi and one in Marathi, also two African melodies. A Parsee hymn was also rendered.

The church was filled by a large and appreciative audience. The president, Mrs. W. J. Paul of Kingston, was in the chair.

There was a very large representation from all parts of the Kingston Presbyterial and a most interesting program was provided. The secretary of minutes by Miss M. H. Ross Kingston, showed the work to be in a very satisfactory condition.

The Trenton auxiliary entertained the delegates to a banquet on Thursday evening. The President announced the Nominating Committee to consist of Miss Mowat, Kingston, and Mrs. McIntyre, Elphin, and the Resolution Committee, Mrs. A. Leslie, McDonald's Corners, Mrs. West and Mrs. Jenkins of Madoc.

DIAMOND SOGGY AND LEAFS IDLE

Buffalo With Andy Anderson, Babe Dye and Vern Spencer Meet Leafs To-day

Toronto, May 16.—Though yesterday afternoon turned out warm here with the sun shining brightly, the rain of the morning put the Island ball grounds in miserable condition, and the Leafs and Reading were unable to play the scheduled double-header. The Leafs have been postponed games to play off—two in Jersey City, one in Newark and two at the Island with the Skeeters, and the same number with the Keystones. It means a flock of double-headers later on in the season.

Howley's team did not do as well as expected during the invasion of the Southern clubs to the Island, winning seven and losing five. Three of the victories were at the expense of the Orioles, while two games were won from Baltimore and one from Jersey City. A pair were lost to the Bears, one to Baltimore, the league champions, and two to Reading.

Playing against Newark, Baltimore, Jersey City and Reading here the Leafs scored 48 runs to 48 by their opponents, made 109 hits against 102 for the other fellows, while Howley's men committed ten times to fourteen misplays by the enemy. Reading and Newark were the only clubs to outhit the Leafs the Keys making 17 hits and Howley's men 16, while the Bears gathered 46 safeties to 40 by the Toronto team. The Leafs made 24 extra base hits to 23 by their opponents.

The Buffalo Bisons, who are running second in the International Series and who topped the league for one day on Sunday last will open a series at the Island to-day. There will be two games to-morrow and one on Monday, while the teams jump to Buffalo for a game on Sunday. The Bisons lost but one game during their first home stay of the season and won six, including the game forfeited by the Skeeters. But the Bisons played only six games of the sixteen scheduled. he remained out for the entire series with Baltimore, and the same with Newark. One game was postponed in the Reading series.

Jack Reddy or Harry Beimiller will likely pitch for the Bisons in to-day's game, with Jess Doyle working for the Leafs, who will be without George Maisel, Layne will play left field. George Wilcox has the best club he has had since becoming manager at Buffalo, and the former Giant really thinks he is going to win a pennant. "Babe" Dye, the Toronto boy who is the Bisons' left fielder, is playing a bang-up game, hitting and fielding better than in 1923, while Vernon Spencer, who was a Leaf several years ago, going to the Giants in the trade which brought Benny Kauff here, is the Bisons' regular centre fielder. Another former Toronto favorite with Buffalo is Andy Anderson. He is having the best season of his career.

ston, laid special stress on the great amount of encouragement by the local club since it's founding a year ago. The Kingston club was sponsor for Belleville Kiwanis one year ago, and they feel proud of the work of their "daughter" organization.

Wit and Humor

Dr. Austin, of Queens, who has been known as an exponent of after-dinner humor spoke briefly of Kingston beauty, and invited all local citizens to be his guests in the near future.

Mayor Mikel was compelled to leave early, but was not allowed to go "scot free" before speaking a few words. His theme, as left by all who heard, was the harmony shown by Kiwanis and Rotary in Belleville. The two organizati ns have left no stone unturned to promote such here, and no undertaking of either club fails to get the support of the other.

Enjoy Entertainment

Following the banquet, a splendid programme of entertainment was given by local and visiting artists which was enjoyed by all present.

The immitable Ev Melaa and Sol Mercer, of Lindsay, gave a skit, with two banjos, that made a real hit. Solos were sung by Dr. Hafner, Rotarian Banker, Harold Barrett, Ed O'Flynn, Kiwanian Berkhiser and Fred Burke. The Rotary Minstrel Quartette, composed of Bakker, Burke, Sullivan and Haltner, was called back time and again, and were a night's entertainment in themselves.

Rev. Hinchey and Kiwanian Tom Robertson concluded the programme with some selections on tenor and bass banjos.

GREAT WELCOME FOR COURIER; POUGHKEEPSIE

Miss Gwen Lazier is Guest at Stirring Reception Three

PARADE THROU CITY

Mayor Lovelace and Offic. ials Extend Royal Welcome

Poughkeepsie, May 17.— Although its details were worked up at rather short notice Poughkeepsie's reception to Miss Gwendolyn Lazier, the Belleville Courier, proved an unqualified success. Despite a splash of rain the parade, which featured the arrival here through is planned. This was followed by a reception and dinner at the Nelson House.

Miss Lazier, who was expected in here at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Rhinebeck was reported during the afternoon at about 45 minutes a-head of her schedule and a messenger was dispatched to the city line to meet her and detain her at that point until the arrival at the entire escort of automobiles, horsemen boy scouts and band.

A touch of human interest was added to the fraternal welcome she received at the city line by the 21st Regiment band under the direction of Frank L. Seefield. While the band was starting signal the band played "My Own Canadian Home," and a march which featured "The Maple Leaf of Canada." in honor of the guest. These pieces were played by the 21st Regiment band nearly 20 years ago when it accompanied Phoenix Hose Company to Montreal. Mr. Seefield stated to a representative of The Daily Star that the band had not played either selection since the trip to Canada.

All along the line of march the streets were lined with spectators who had turned out in force for a joyous ride.

The column, headed by the mayor and board of aldermen in automobiles, included also the city officials and Miss Lazier and an escort of horsemen, and a delegation of boy scouts in command of Scoutmaster H. Abercrombie.

Parade Through City

The line of march was from the city line down Washington street to Mill street, to North Hamilton street; it to Market, to Market, to the Nelson House. Here Miss Lazier surrendered her big white mount to George Arnold who had volunteered to care for the animal during its stay in the city.

At 7 o'clock Miss Lazier was tendered a reception in the parlors of the Nelson House. This was followed by a dinner in the small dining room at which 32 guests were seated.

Among those present at the reception were Miss Gwendolyn Lazier Mayor and Mrs. Frank S. Lovelace, Alderman William Wetzel, Alderman John J. Boyce Frank B. Sundy, Alderman William J. Rinewood, Alderman John M. Mulvey, Alderman Frederick J. Kearney, Alderman and Mrs. W. Lawrence Dean, Mrs. I. Holsberg, Mrs. Max Lazier, Alderman John A. Eichnic, Mrs. Scholten Alderman and Mrs. John E. Boyce, Alderman and Mrs. J. Weiler Mac Corsar, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. K. Robinson, Mrs. Fred Shudemyer, Mr. and Mrs. Alderman Brown Mrs. H. Lathrop Young, Miss Hazel Payne, Miss Marion Carter Miss Beths Vosbee, Mrs. Helen Lawson and Dr. B. Hill.

Major Samuel H. Brown, chairman of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the welcome, acted as toastmaster and introduced the several speakers.

Welcome Is Given

Mayor Lovelace, on behalf of the city, extended a hearty welcome to Miss Lazier and expressed the pride of Poughkeepsie that her stay here would be an enjoyable one.

Miss Lazier responded in a feeling manner to the mayor's words of welcome. She said that all along the route she had been shown every possible courtesy but that at no place had the reception been so hearty as in Poughkeepsie.

She gave a brief history of the settlement of quality Hill and the circumstance which gave rise to it. She told of the hardships endured by the early settlers and contrasted will those the present prosperous conditions of the country.

Among the other speakers were Alderman J. Weiler McCorsar, K. E. Wardle, Samuel H. Brown, Mrs. Samuel H. Brown, R. D. Sundy, Alderman William J. Rinewood, Alderman-Elect John A. Kearney. Alderman W. Lawrence Dean Alderman John A. Eichnic, Alderman John E. Boyce and Alderman William Wetzel.

The morning Mrs. Lazier visited Vassar College after which she started on her long ride to Washington. Her route from this city was through Watertown, Utica, Schenectady, Albany and over the new Storm King road to West Point where she plans to spend the night.

GRIT MINISTER DRAWS HOT FIRE

Driven Out of House By Bitter Conservative Attack

Ottawa, May 17.—Following the budget d chate the Opposition opened fire on the estimates yesterday with an attack that drove he Minister of Agriculture out of the House at air o'clock to try, return, last evening Hon. Mr. Motherwell's treatment of Dr. Fred Torrance, Veterinary Director-General aroused the Conservatives and the bitterness of attack has not been equalled this session.

Dr. Torrance was appointed to the Agricultural Department under Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 19000 and ten years ago was made Veterinary Director-General. Under his regime Canada's record for the cleanest herds in the world was maintained. Last year he was called to Mr. Motherwell's office and told that if he resigned forthwith he would receive his retiring allowance; if not he would be dismissed without an allowance. He asked for twenty-four hours to consider the proposition, but was refused more than a few minutes. He sixty-four years old, out of active practice for seventeen years, and without means sufficient to maintain himself. He resigned to secure the allowance.

Mr. Motherwell accused him of having supported Mr. Meighen in the administration and of desiring to go to England on the cattle embargo question. As to the first charge Dr. Torrance had replied that Mr. Motherwell, chief of the bureau of animal husbandry, Washington, who had the most effect reducing the period of quarantine in Britain on cattle entering Canada would have on Canadian cattle by reducing the period. Dr. Torrance's letter was written at Mr. Motherwell's request, and was in reply to Mr. Motherwell's suggestion of politics in it. As to going to England on the cattle embargo question, no doubt, that the Veterinary Director-Gen eral was the most competent government officer to go. Instead Mr. Motherwell had appointed a farmer, and had no technical knowledge of the subject.

Charges Denied

Writhing under the scrueling he was receiving, Mr. Motherwell said, "He knew what the charges were in his mind." He also said he had other charges, but that he would tell the House of those who made them. When he had these several Liberal members rose to ashamed they left the Chamber: Liberals sorry.

1. Dr. Torrance had franked his private correspondence.

2. That he had given liquor prescriptions to members of Parliament.

3. Dr. Torrance is going to a cattle-raising convention at Calgary took his golf sticks with him.

PEPALL CASE IS SIMILAR TO THAW

Harry Thaw Taken Back to States from Quebec when Habeas Corpus Failed

She invited him to be present at the exercises, which will be held in Belleville on June 16 and 17.

SIX MONTHS FOR FRIEND OF LENINE

William Leslie, Leader of British Harvester Convicted of Begging

Toronto, May 17.—Though I am not a Bolshevik, was Leslie's plea when I come out, remember that, and I will be back to fight for the cause," said William Leslie, former leader of the Canadian harvesters' camp, accused communist and friend of Lenine, in police court today.

He was sent to jail for six months following his conviction on a charge of begging.

According to the police, Leslie was a prominent speaker at a meeting of communists held Thursday evening at 9.30 p.m. at the corner of Albert and Yonge streets.

The police warned him that if he addressed the meeting he would be arrested. At the conclusion of the meeting money was passed into the ring, and the police audience around the speaker and Leslie collected. A total of $20 was in silver and coppers in his hand when the policemen grabbed him.

In the witness box Leslie refused to take the Bible, stating emphatically that there was no God. He acknowledged that during the six months he has been in Canada he has only worked for one day, and that for $ women recruiter who was building her own house.

"I am a member of the British Empire and I mean I am a revolutionary," said Leslie, who told the bench also that after travelling in Norway, Sweden and other countries he was proud to be a representative of the majority, the unemployed. Leslie questioned Magistrate Cohen's interpretation of the word congress, and pressed when Detective Sergeant Allen formed him that his meetings were there to disobey the law.

Magistrate Cohen duly remarked that Leslie would go to jail for six months. Attention or no attention, with the additional information that news of Leslie's stamp were nothing but a pest.

CANADA NEEDS IMMIGRANTS STATES BEATTY

This Applies Especially in Cases Where Definite Location Arrangements Are Made

GOING TO COAST

Beatty Will Meet Round-The-World Ship at Vancouver

Calgary, May 17.—While it is true that more people are entering Canada than during the same period last year, it is necessary that we should still increase the numbers especially in these cases where definite arrangement to place the settlers have been made by one of the several agencies engaged in the work of locating prospective immigrants, remarked E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific, in an interview with reporters at Swanson Flying in connection with his inspection trip to the coast. Generally speaking, their reports indicate that the soil conditions were excellent for the time of the year and there was great confidence and optimism in the three prairie provinces. In reply to a question, Mr. Beatty said that the only extensive road-required in Alberta, of any consequence were those connecting with branch line construction. Referring to the western route, Mr. Beatty said that was economical surveying important and would, no doubt, be in the advantage of Canada. In connection with shipments from Alberta, western Saskatchewan, Ocean boutnage had been fully available. Last year's grain crop was conspicuous for its quality and the amount of grain that was handled. It was a matter of great satisfaction to the officers of the Canadian Pacific that they were able to maintain their share in that service in a manner which was satisfactory to the shippers of Alberta. The new year, of course, was that the company was equipped and prepared to take care of a heavy movement and the work was grappled with enthusiasm and international effort by all those having to do with their transportation proper ties.

INSTALL LATEST GASOLINE PUMP

Bellville Motors Ltd., Ford Dealers, 214 Pinnacle Street, have just completed the installation of the latest type gasoline pump. The Bowser Company, one of the oldest manufacturers of this equipment are the makers. This pump is electrically operated and controlled. Another feature is the visible bowl, which shows the exact delivery of gas to the customer. A quick needle improvement is a new sounding device which locates the gas being free from water and other alien substances at all times of the year.

This new pump is in keeping with the many features this company has added to their new premises for the benefit of Ford Owners.

DOG NUISANCE IS AGAIN MENTIONED

Citizen Urges Mayor Mikel to Take Immediate and Determined Action

The Intelligencer has received the following letter from E. S. Marsh, which is directed to Mayor Mikel,

Belleville, May 17th, 1924

Mayor Mikel,
City.

Dear Sir:—

I wonder how many letters will have to be written before the citizens of Belleville will get relief from this dog nuisance? Have the dogs got the say in this municipality?

I know of men on their official and business duties being attacked by dogs that have been allowed to run. But the climaxes destroyed this week, and it is no far cry from Canada to British children for a killer.

I have spent the money and hours of hard work to make my home and lawn as beautiful as I can for this coming June. You expect the people of Belleville to co-operate with you to have the U. E. L. celebration a wonderful success, but what is the use were you powerless to exercise your authority as Chief Magistrate to do away with this dog pest. You expect us to do it all and you sit back and write a mild letter to the papers.

Now, what are you going to do?

Yours truly,
E. S. MARSH.

FOWL IS SCARCE AND PRICES HIGH

Fresh Greens eagerly bought —Butter and Eggs Reasonable—Meat a-plenty

Owing to the farmers generally not being able to work on the land, there was a large market attendance this morning, and much farm and garden produce was sold at prices that were quite reasonable.

Whilst potatoes were plentiful, they sold at $2.25 and $2.50 per bag. Beef was in demand for such prices.

Dairy products showed but little change in quotations.

The ruling price for butter was 35 cents per pound, and eggs 25 to 26 per dozen. Chickens still commanded a high price, from $2.00 to $3.00 each. Turkeys were $2.25 to $2.50 a pair and were readily sold.

Garden produce, such as lettuce, radish and rhubarb were exceptionally plentiful and sold at 10 cents a bunch. All offered was sold.

Meat and vegetables were at the market, all buyers were also numerous. The ruling prices for meat were 12c to 16c per pound beef from 16c to 18c a pound according to cuts and veal 22c to a pound. Some mutton sold at 20 cents.

Tomato and cabbage plants made their appearance and sold at 25 cents a box.

SHELVE IDEA OF COLLEGIATE FOR THE PRESENT

Board of Education endorses Resolution Submitted by Chamber of Commerce

At the Board of Education meeting last evening Col. Ponton referred to and coincided with the following resolution adopted by the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, re Napier collegiate institute in the city—that the solution was moved by Mr. O. H. Sidi and seconded by Mr. R. F. Ketchson and was as follows:

Resolved that in the opinion of the Directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce it would not be either practicable or advisable for the members of the Board of Education of this City either to petition the City Council to pass a By-law or to ask that a Bylaw be submitted to the rate-payers of the City during 1924 for the issuing of Debentures and providing funds for the erection of a new Collegiate Institute in Belleville, but we doubt whether the City Council would be justified in passing such a By-law without submitting it to the rate-payers and we still more doubt whether such a By-law if submitted during this year would carry, and we feel that should be the case the erection of the Collegiate Institute which we hope will be undertaken in the near future, would be indefinitely postponed and we are of the opinion that if a campaign of public education in favor of such public opinion is properly carried on and if such a By-law is submitted for consideration when the time is ripe, it would be carried by 75% and we believe confidence that the need for such an improved Collegiate Institute and the possible a Technical School in connection therewith, will be realized and fully approved by the citizens. We submit that the Board of Education of the City of Belleville not to submit a By-law or petition the Council to submit a By-law during this year, more especially in view of the large sums of money to be expended for the four splendid public schools which are to be built the credit of the citizens of Belleville and are proud of their public-spirited interest in the cause of education.

Passed subject to approval and consideration by Mayor Mikel, Mayor Mikel, City.

Dear Sir:—

I wonder how many letters will have to be written before the citizens of Belleville will get relief from this dog nuisance? Have the dogs got the say in this municipality?

I know of men on their official and business duties being attacked by dogs that have been allowed to run. But the climaxes destroyed this week, and it is no far cry from Canada to British children for a killer.

Now, what are you going to do?

Yours truly,
E. S. MARSH.

Mr. Ketchson moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. F. B. Chesher, that the following be added to the resolution:

Discuss Contract Price

The solicitor reported that the King George school reported that an oral offer had been made by Mr. Manley to purchase the school for $18,500 in full account. The committee recommended that $18,500 be paid to Manley and Sons in full settlement without prejudice.

Mr. McGie in moving the adoption of the report of the committee, made some explanations of the matter.

Col. Ponton thought the committee and the board were generous to Mr. Manley in the matter.

On motion the report was adopted and the secretary was authorized to hand to Mr. Manley a copy of the resolution.

High School Report.

Principal McLaurin of the High School reported attendance for the month of April and a portion of May. The Empire Day exercises were held and the results pleasing. One hundred and forty pupils were enrolled at the matriculation examinations, but the final results were not received from this year. The principal asked that the school close on June 20th, as examinations for entrance to the High School. Principal McLaurin referred to his attendance at the Teachers' Convention at Toronto and especially to the address of Premier Tashereau of Quebec, delivered at the convention and also at the banquet tendered the visitors. He also requested that a set of diaries be purchased for the use of teachers in attendance.

A motion prevailed that the procurring of diaries be referred to the printing and supply committee.

The committee that supplies needed for the domestic science department be requested through the finance committee.

The resignation of Principal McLaurin to close the High School on Friday, the 20th June, the last session day of the examinations commence on Monday, June 23rd.

Several members of the board referred to Principal McLaurin's services and complimented the Principal upon its completeness.

The resignation of Principal McLaurin's report, Col. Ponton said that the contents of page three....

SHELVE VOTE $18,000 TO MANLEY & SONS FOR SCHOOL JOB

Contractors Claim $18,500 in full Settlement of King George School

MENTIONS COLLEGIATE

Col. W. N. Ponton Suggests Linking up with New Albert College as Collegiate

At a regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education held last evening, much business was transacted. The building committee of the King George school reported that Messrs. T. Manley and Sons contractors had reported that they be paid $18,500 in full for the settlement of their contract, but the committee recommended the paying in full of $18,000 without prejudice. The committees recommendation was unanimously adopted. Col. W. J. Ponton and Mr. J. Elliott were appointed a committee to interview the Minister of Education re the grant to the High School which is now within owing to the report of High School Inspector Ross re the condition of the school. Other matters of importance were considered during the busy evening.

Members present were Messrs. H. W. Ackerman, F. B. Chesher, F. H. Chesher, W. H. Gilbert, Wm. Harris, W. Cook, J. Elliott, Rev. T. Hicks, A. Jones, A. Mellie, Col. W. N. Ponton, Dr. Potter, Col. Smith, R. Smith, J. G. Moffatt, Mrs. Florence Deacon and Mrs. Wills.

MUST HANG FOR MURDER OF WIFE

Jury with Two Women Convict Alfred Corbett—Hanga August 8th

Nanaimo, B. C., May 17.—After a full lasting two days before Mr. Justice McDonald and a jury composed of ten men and two women, Alfred Corbett was found guilty late Thursday night of murdering his wife, Mary Ann Corbett, at Cumberland on April 12th last.

To the question of guilty or not guilty, the foreman for the jury replied, "Guilty, but with a recommendation for mercy."

Corbett, asked by his Lordship, if he had anything to say, replied:

"I am not guilty. I did not shoot my wife intentionally."

The other indictment against Corbett, for attempting to murder Constable James Tweed just previous to the killing of Mrs. Corbett, was reserved until the next Assizes.

APPALLING MURDER RECORD

There is grave warning for Canadians in the appalling crime statistics of the United States. The neighboring Republic leads the civilized world, among other things, in murder. It would take England and Wales 50 years, a half a century, working at their 1923 murder rate, to kill as many people as were killed in that country last year. "On the basis of population," says Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman of the Prudential Insurance Co. "murders were 25 times as frequent in the United States (last year) as in England and Wales." They were three times as frequent there as in Italy.

The murder rate has risen in one year alone from 9 per 100,000 to 10.2 per 100,000; in other words so fewer than 10,000 persons were murdered in the United States last year. Were Quebec an average State of the Union there would be some 230 murders per annum in this Province, whereas the total has varied from 49 in 1917 to 20 in 1922 (the latest for which statistics are available). In Montreal in 1922 there were 10 murders, whereas if the average American rate had been maintained there would have been 20. In Toronto last year there were six murders, and if this ratio were to be maintained throughout the Province the total of murders in 1923 would be about 32 instead of 290, the United States average.

Of course, for the failure of civilization the first responsibility falls, no doubt, upon the police and the courts of law. They cannot escape it. But why is it that the American police and the American law are failing so conspicuously to prevent crime? The St. Louis Post-Despatch says that the reason is well known to all students of American history. "As a nation we have never succeeded in taking the administration of Justice out of politics," it remarks. "The general rule for a century has been to treat justice as a patronage of politics. We have selected for and have obtained not policemen, but Republicans or Democrats; not Judges, but Republican or Democratic Judges. We have never cared enough about justice to build up as the English have built up, a police and a judiciary which is permanent, expert and independent. Until we care enough to follow this simple everywhere we can expect no thoroughly successful administration of justice."

LOW-PRICED GERMAN LABOR

Wages in Germany now range from 69 cents to $1.09 a day. So reports Col. Leonard P. Ayres, banker and internationally-known statistician, who was a member of the Dawes Reparations Commission. Is it any wonder that German-made goods are flooding the Canadian market, despite our present tariff? What would happen if the tariff was wiped out, as many supporters of the present Government are advocating? Either one of two things: Canadian factories, which compete with German products, would go out of business, or the standard of living would be lowered to meet that now prevalent in Germany. Even as it is, the Canadian manufacturer, who is after foreign trade, is up against this competition in the world markets.

Two things, then, every Canadian clergyman should be interested in, is the maintenance of a tariff which will protect Canadian industries which pay wages and, second, the restoration of German finances to a normal level. The Canadian farmer and workingman may imagine that he is not the slightest bit interested in conditions in Germany or in Europe. He is vitally interested, because as long as there is financial chaos and economic unrest in Europe, there will be no market for our surplus farm products, and until German finance is stabilized and put on a sound basis Canadian workingmen will have to compete against low-priced labor.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Two killed and two seriously injured in a collision of a train and an automobile at North Simcoe bear grim testimony to the menace of unprotected level crossings.

Canned-heat purveyors should stress to prospective buyers the fact that it was never intended that it should be used for purposes of "interior warmth".

President Coolidge, who yesterday vetoed the soldier bonus bill, explains that his treasury is empty and that's the drain. Due, possibly, to the other remarkable drains which the recent congressional probe have revealed.

Judge Foley, of the surrogate court, New York, reports that his health will not permit him to accept leadership of Tammany hall. Associates will agree that he really must be sick.

Announcement that the housing program of the British Labor party will necessitate an outlay of $7,500,000,000 is a very definite answer to the complaint that Ramsay MacDonald is a "tuppence nurser."

The planet Mercury may be inhabited, Professor Bigouran, astronomer, declares. But like the elusive earthly mineral which bears its name, it's difficult to put one's finger on facts to prove it.

CHEVROLET
—a factor in modern business and social activity
IF the automobile were suddenly withdrawn from our modern business and social life, do you realize how speedy and complete would be the disorganization?
Wider in its influence and effect than any other factor of present-day existence—the automobile has become of vital importance to commerce and society.
And Chevrolet can claim a prominent place in automobile progress, because it has brought quality and dependability within the realm of the popular-priced car.
Chevrolet transportation is the most economical per mile. Chevrolet reliability is an established fact among motor-car users. Chevrolet exceeds expectations in the beauty of its appearance and the completeness of its appointments.
The Chevrolet Utility Coupe (with its handsome "body by Fisher") is the choice of the commercial user—the business or professional man, or salesman, whose business the automobile has assisted so materially. The Utility Coupe is a car of which anyone may well feel proud.

At Open Car Cost

All Closed Car Comforts, Utility and Distinction

Why buy an open car? High cost for closed car comforts is no longer a question. The Coach—exclusive to Hudson and Essex—gives every closed car advantage, at almost open car cost. No other car shares its position.

HUDSON Super-Six COACH $2170
F. O. B. Windsor

It creates the dominant car issue of the year. Mark how rapidly the Coach is superseding open cars. Sales exceed 3,000 a week. It is the largest selling six-cylinder closed car in the world.

Buyers must consider any purchase in the light of this overwhelming trend. As the wanted car the Coach maintains high resale value, against the waning desirability of open cars.

Hudson and Essex—inventors and exclusive producers of "Closed Car Comforts at Open Car Cost"—are responsible for this issue. In two and a half years, and in the hands of more than 135,000 owners, the Coach has proved a staunchness and serviceability never before associated with a closed car. It gives every utility you can get in any closed car. All concede unsurpassed chassis reliability. The price removes it from all competition.

You too want "the car for everyone."

A Nervous Wreck

Victim of Gas—After Endless Suffering—Turns To His Old Friend and Is Well

The Fruit Treatment "Fruit-a-tives"

One of the most astonishing recoveries that seems almost like a miracle, is that of Mr. James Dobson of Bronte, Ont., a prominent merchant, a mile over and one of the charter members of the Dominion Bloch Archers, Toronto.

In 1918, Mr. Dobson was completely relieved of Rheumatism by taking the Fruit Treatment, after suffering for more than five years.

In January of last year, Mr. Dobson was almost suffocated by gas from a furnace in his home. He says, "I had blood tests, analysis of the stomach, X-ray of teeth, had eight teeth extracted and became a nervous wreck. Finally, my wife suggested trying my old medicine "Fruit-a-tives", which I did. Today, I weigh 189 pounds instead of 160 and am completely restored to health. In my estimation, there is no other medicine that will give as good results as "Fruit-a-tives".

Thousands and thousands of people, in the past eighteen years, have come to the same conclusion—that "there is no other medicine that will give as good results as "Fruit-a-tives" for all troubles arising from a disordered condition of the stomach, liver, kidneys or skin.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the intensified juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, combined with tonics and form a complete treatment in themselves.

the board was indebted to the Principal for his excellent report.

Discuss Collegiate Idea

A suggestion was made that perhaps it might be feasible to link up with the new Albert College and have a collegiate school.

Mr. Ackerman stated that the Principal of Albert College is emphatic in the matter of in any way linking up the new Albert College with a collegiate. The college buildings at present would only accomodate 150 pupils, and of course that would be inadequate for any other purpose than for the college students.

Cadet Inspection

The board was invited to attend the annual inspection of the High School cadets, on June 2nd.

On motion the invitation was accepted.

Memorial Pictures

War memorial pictures are to be distributed by the Daughters of the Empire to the different schools of the city. It is the educational value of the pictures which the Order desire to accentuate rather than their value of ornamentation.

The board will accept the offer and the pictures will be presented in the near future.

A motion prevailed that a vote of thanks be sent to the Argyll Chapter of the I.O.D.E. for their offer.

A communication from Mr. J. Dawson relative to the matter of procuring some new mats was referred to the Printing and Supplies committee.

Teacher Resigns

Miss Marion Allan, a teacher in the Wish School tendered her resignation to take effect on the 1st of June. The resignation was accepted and the School Management committee were authorized to advertise for a teacher to fill.

Mr. A. McGie reported that signs were being placed in proximity to King George school warning motorists to drive slow. He also stated that new flag poles had been erected for the King George and Queen Alexandra schools.

It was suggested that on Arbor Day May 23rd, some trees be planted about the King George school grounds. The matter was referred to the Sites Building and Repairs committee with power to act.

Grant Accepted.

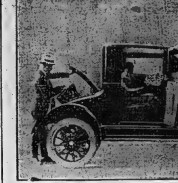

Mr. J. Elliott reported that the Catholic Women's League of the city had donated $10 as a prize to the pupil of the High School making the most marks in the commercial course at the school.

The gift was ordered to be suitably acknowledged.

The board adjourned.

A DOG'S DEVOTION

Christian Science Monitor: This dog, unnamed as far as the account goes, was the faithful keeper of its master as guardian of a farmhouse in the vicinity of Lamberton and of the eight persons, five of whom were children, who were its occupants before it was destroyed by fire. Some eight persons survive today only because they were aroused in time to escape from the burning home by the collie. So intent was the dog upon the work in hand that he failed to escape before the falling walls covered him. It is a simple tale. Perhaps its counterpart might be found nearly any day somewhere in the world. And yet there is record in it an unadorned story of fidelity and devotion surpassed by nothing in human experience. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends," might be said as truthfully of a faithful dog as of a master. Surely it requires courage, a willingness to make any sacrifice and indeed something akin to true affection, for an intelligent animal, in a moment of danger, when safety lies in flight and a refusal to accept responsibility, to unhesitatingly assume a hazard which may prove fatal.

NEW OVERLAND COUPE HAS AMAZING ROOMINESS

Realizing that the objections of most people to a Coupe is its lack of roominess and narrowness of doors, Willys-Overland deliberately set themselves the task of designing a Coupe that would overcome these objections.

In the new Overland Coupe they have most successfully attained their objective. By a clever arrangement and generous width of seats, they have gained a roominess that gives an abundance of elbow room for two large people, with room to spare. The doors—there are two of the widest doors you ever saw on a Coupe. Entrance and exit are made unusually easy. Every traveller or business man who has frequent calls to make, stepping in and out of a car will appreciate this feature.

The Overland Coupe has long-grain Spanish upholstery that is washable and durable. A roomy rear deck provides ample space for samples and luggage. It's hinged cover is provided with a lock and protected against dust and leaks.

From every standpoint the new Overland Coupe, with its extra wide doors, big rear deck and unusual roominess, meets the most exacting requirements.

Too Many Home Cares

The work of the woman in the home makes greater demands on her vitality than men realize, and there is always something more to do. No wonder women's backs ache, and their nerves are worn out. No wonder why they get depressed and irritable, suffer from headaches, and always feel out of sorts. But of course all women are not like that. What is the difference?

A woman with plenty of healthy red blood in her veins finds work in the home easy, but visibly is at war. This points the way to health in women who feel run down and depressed. Make new rich blood You can do it with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills have the marvellous property of building up the blood and toning up the nerves. That is proved by the case of Mrs. H. Eppinger, Scott street, Vancouver, B.C., who says:—"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills brought back my health and strength and restored my nerves to normal condition after other medicines had failed. I was after the birth of my second child that I became so anemic and nervous that I thought I would lose my mind as well as my strength. I tried several medicines, but got no relief until I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using a few boxes of these I could see a change. I felt stronger; my appetite was better, I slept better, and my nerves were stronger. I continued the use of the pills for some time, and soon found myself well woman, and I can sincerely say that my health has since been the best. I can cheerfully recommend the pills to all weak, run down women."

You can get these pills from your druggist or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Trappers Fail to Ensnare Aura Lees; Go Getters Nosed Out of a Win

Aura Lees took two out of three games from the Trappers at the Y alleys last night and won out by 126 pouts on the trio of games. Miss Goyer of the Trappers was the "Shining Star" leading the players of both teams, ladies and men, with a total of 513.

In the second game of a double header, the Go Getters started out with all kinds of dash and pep and at the end of the first string they showed indications of turning in a win. Alas! Alack! Fickle Fortune failed to favor further. Even the indomitable "Smiler" cast caution to the four winds and blew like bidees. Anyway it was a great game and when the store mentioned "Smiler" failed to hit homer in the last innings there was a "terrible sadness".

Miss Rose, the high lady scorer of both teams, duplicated Miss Goyer's score of 513. Johnnie Vows also broke out considerably with his 530. The lady bowlers on the Go Getters did their share.

ZBYZSKO WINS FROM WALKER

Toronto, May 17.—Toronto obtained a view of heavyweight wrestling last night at the Arena Gardens, when Stanislaus Zbyzsko, former champion of the world, won the first and third falls from George Walker, introduced as the undefeated Canadian heavyweight champion, in the third and final bout of the first program of an extensive nature staged in this city in some time. There was a paid attendance of over nine hundred, and the main bout appeared to please a number of competitors as the winner, while Walker's supporters, were of the opinion that Zbyzsko was lucky to win. The unbiased thought the winner the better wrestler, but, as far as this writer's word was concerned, the evening will not add many, if any, converts to the sport.

NEW GRIFFITH FILM "BIG" IN SIMPLICITY

Probably the most delightfully artistic and by far the greatest heart-appealing story yet to come from that master of the motion picture, D. W. Griffith, is his newest offering, "The White Rose," a United Artists Corporation release is coming to the Griffith theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

It tells a story old in theme, simple and direct, but in such a manner as to make it possibly the most outstanding picture production of the present season. Mr. Griffith has forsaken mobs and huge ensembles not direct and careful characterization in this new screen offering and has succeeded to such a degree that experts predict his again has shown the way for better pictures in the future.

The tale has to do with an orphan girl and a young divinity student who meet when the latter is making a walking tour to learn of the world and its ways. What transpires results in a denouement of compelling power and tender beauty.

Griffith journeys with his company to the famous Bayou Teche country of western Louisiana for his scenes and they are reproduced as the most strikingly charming yet shown on any screen.

Mae Marsh, after a long absence from the screen returns with the most notable effort of her remarkable career. Her characterization of the orphan girl will long stand as one of the great things in the way of screen acting. Ivor Novello, a handsome young English actor, has won immediate recognition as the young preacher in this new story. Carol Dempster, so popular in several previous Griffith successes, essays the part of a girl of high Southern family and as only one of her distinguished refinement and intelligence mieht. Critical reviewers declare it the finest thing she has yet done. Neil Hamilton, a newcomer to the screen, is now heralded as a "Griffith find" as a result of his characterization of the lowly grocery boy who makes a name for himself. Porter Strong and Lucille La Verne, without equals in the portrayal of delightful negro types, are hardly less than as the darky lovers and afford no end of merriment for the audiences. Others in the cast of principals are Katherine Jane Thomas, Charles Emmett Mack, Erville Alderson, Herbert Sutch, Joseph Burke and the real Southern darkies and other supernumeraries are a positive delight in their natural poses.

FILMS THREATEN LABOR SHORTAGE AMONG COWBOYS

That modern improvements are driving the genuine Western cowboy into motion pictures is the belief of Edward Sloman, who directed "The Eagle's Feather," the Metro picture, playing at the Regent Theatre Monday to Wednesday.

"It was not long ago that the motion picture cowboy was an object at which the critics and humorists delighted in directing their most pointed criticisms," Mr. Sloman remarked recently.

"This was not at all surprising, when one took the pains to notice the oh, so sweet ballast, with his arches six-throes, overdrawn two guns, embroidered caps and silk shirty, who filled the Eastern producer's idea for a Western cowpuncher. Then, they presented a pretty picture, but they would never have been able to endure the hardships that confronted the real inhabitants of the Western cattle ranches.

"Recently all this has changed. Now the director has no difficulty in securing real cowboys for such parts. The roaring rillies have banished most of such men at their command who have come to Hollywood from the Western ranches and joined the motion picture colony.

"I attribute this to the changing conditions in ranch life. Modern inventions and methods have destroyed much of the glamour so dear to the hearts of the cowpuncher. I believe that these sun and wind-tanned citizens of the outdoor find an evolution in appearing in pictures that give the opportunity of living again the life of their younger days.

In "The Eagle's Feather" I am using a number of cowboys. When the picture is shown, the majority of fans are going to be surprised—even disappointed, perhaps. The critics, however, will not be able to find fault with them. Hank Potts, Big Bill Gillis, Al Jennings, and the rest of the boys are real moving picture cowboys—they are real."

"The Eagle's Feather" is a Metro picture directed by Edward Sloman and adapted by Winifred Dunn from the story by Katherine Newlin Burt. Georges Rizard was the cameraman and J. J. Hughes was art director.

Why Gum-Dipping Increases Tire Life
A tire in use is being constantly bent backwards and forwards by road action. Such movement generates friction and heat that has a deteriorating effect unless the tire is built to withstand it.
Gum dipping puts a coating of new live rubber around each separate cord that keeps it from rubbing against the cords that lie next to it.
In the carcass of a Gum-Dipped Cord there is less friction to generate heat. It stays cooler and therefore lasts longer. Gum-Dipping, with air bag curing, rubber tempering and other special Firestone processes, produces a tire that is stronger, more resilient and easier riding.
Travel on Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords. They add to your enjoyment of motoring and their extra mileage without extra cost is the truest source of economy. Ask for Firestone Steam-welded Tubes. They help tires give more mileage because they are leak-proof.

Sinical Sadie Sees

Sinical Sadie heard her "other half" mention 7:??? the following remotely this morning to the accompaniment of shaving water. To his credit be it said it was the only time he rises to sing.

"The days are getting longer
The nights much shorter.
Have I that tired feeling?
Well, sorter.

The balm in the air is
Spring's gentle reminder
Do I want to go fishing?
Well, kinder.

And there in the bathroom
And they on the lather,
Do robin songs thrill me?
Well, rather."

That the life of a "bird," is very like that of a drunkard or an opium-eater and its end is the same—the total extinction of intellect, of generous feeling and of self-respect.

That the test of "good Americans" is to keep from grinning when saying "sedlize".

Sinical Sadie thinks they wouldn't grin so much if by title of "nuncom," it been chosen instead of sedlize. What say?

That if old people are peevish and fretful and pessimistic and unreasonable, or even covetous, these are the faults of their environment and treatment, not of their old age.

That "wine boiling" advertises the Cas Colonay "rush flames low as soon as bubbling starts." You will boil just as fast and better.

Sinical Sadie says she will try and remember that the next time she feels like boiling.

A glass is good, and a bun is good.

And a pipe to smoke in cold weather. The world is good, and the people are good.

And we're all good fellows together.

"I saw the first April crocus" she burbled. "I didn't think you were that old" responded Sinical Sadie.

Nicknames and whippings, when they are once laid on, no one has discovered of how to take off.

A woman can twist her husband around her finger as long as she feeds him well and doesn't try to reform him.

"What is woman? Only one of Nature's agreeable whims."

MAN

God made him, and therefore let him pass for a man.

The first banana shipped to London, England, could not be sold at any price and were fed to pet bananas nobody would eat them.

Sinical Sadie thinks they must have had mighty sweet tooths in those days to have, judging by the quantities of unripe ones that we still now have.

Be wiser than other people if you can; but do not tell them so.

And now someone comes along and tells us that there is little danger of germs in handling money.

Sinical Sadie says no one is afraid of those kind of germs. She says the attendance of 9,000 bills is too "rarified" for germs anyway.

Dogtown lighted a candle in the daytime and it saved a husband's life. "All looking for a man."

MUNICIPAL PLANKS

The policy of keeping the light under the bushel by many things worth doing from the standpoint of general welfare seems a deplorable one.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENCE

"Listening In" writes that he never and impolite your meals without sacrificing the nourishing qualities. Put all ornaments and dustcatchers away. Perhaps some of our readers can give you some more hints.

"Mother of Three"—Children' parties are a problem, aren't they? My advice is to start the Saturday afternoon in June, then invite the little guests for lunch hours, as you do not like to do unday. Let them play outdoors and they will enjoy their own games. For supper gather them in a ring on the grass and provide each child with a cup of cocoa. In the country people are neighborly and will supply what you lack. They can bring cups, plates (preferably), but bread, cut thin and buttered generously, some cake or cookies (not too rich) and ice cream, of course, as you say you make your own. A small tray for each child, set so for a meal, is an excellent idea and delights the children, if you can procure enough trays. Milk or cocoa for drinks. This plan keeps the children out of doors where they can play and romp and you do not disturb your house. If you wish, present each little guest with a souvenir

Had the girl only pretended ignorance of Mr. Gordon's departure? Was there no engagement between them? Why had the girl declared that Mr. Gordon and his proceedings were nothing to her? Surely Marion could not have been mistaken when she said that Mr. Gordon and Kate were engaged? If they were not, if there was nothing between them, why had Kate Transom been so agitated, so bemoaned?

She tried to put the whole thing away from her, telling her pride to be aid. After all, it was nothing to her whether Mr. Gordon was engaged to Kate Transom or not. What she had to do was justify herself and make it as complete as possible. He had passed out of her life and Kate's, for one person at least, peace of mind ,that she should not see him again.

As she went down the edge of the wood, she saw Selby Layton coming out from the other side. He seemed to have been to pay another visit to the scene, of his crimes, perhaps thither not only by the fascination of the fatal spot, but in search of the article which he had left so perilously forgotten. In the terrible, agony of his self-betrayal, he thought that with the stylographic pen and the telegraph pencil which Denzil had taken him. He had returned the photograph to Denzil—he was pretty clear on that point—but he must have left something which Denzil had done with it. In his haste and fear, he had not looked at the body of the murdered man, and it never since she had yielded to his persuasion and became half engaged to him. occurred to him that in his own blind search for the knife which he had left behind him he had blown away the letter as he did the deed.

Selby, on his present visit he had made diligent search in the undergrowth, but unsuccessfully, and he was about to accept long lest he should be seen, he was retarded by Marion, who forced a smile greeted her in his solemn and most tender voice.

"What a lovely day!" he said. "You have been down to the village?"

Father asserted, rather coldly, with the reserve which had marked her manner since she had yielded to his persuasion and became half engaged to him.

"Have you been into the woods?" she asked, shyly.

"Yes," he replied. "I thought I would go and look at the Rose Pool. It is an extremely picturesque spot."

"Yes," she said, softly; "but it always seems to me weird and uncanny."

"Well, so it is," he admitted; "but it is very characteristic of the only wild place like the Towers has a somewhat wild garden. I was thinking that it in the newly made grounds of a modern estate you would find a certain interest prey to interfere with it in any way. It seems to me that it is a pity, in fact, that it would be a piece of vandalism. It may be out of the fashion nowadays; but it's far away from the house. And none of the people are near it. If I were an artist, I should implore you to leave it."

He said all this with a pleasant mien, and as if his interest were merely an abstract one, but she, who watched Esther's downcast face, as she walked beside him, knew that it was not.

Esther shrugged her shoulders slightly. "I am afraid you are no prophet once whatever to her.

"Oh, very well," she said. "We will let it remain as it is, at any rate for the present."

He glided smoothly into another subject; and when they reached the house he left her at once and went to the library on the pretence of writing a letter; for she was at once aware of his presence a burden to her. They did not meet again until dinner time, when he was as serene and smiling as usual; and during the meal he talked gaily to and amuse the two ladies; and though Esther was silent, she replied in a proper manner and seemed rather pale and distrait, Miss Wargrave was pleased to see ever charmed with M. "Mother of Three"—Children' parties are a problem, aren't they? My advice is to start the Saturday afternoon in June, then invite the little guests for lunch hours, as you do not like to do unday. Let them play outdoors and they will enjoy their own games. For supper gather them in a ring on the grass and provide each child with a cup of cocoa. In the country people are neighborly and will supply what you lack. They can bring cups, plates (preferably), but bread, cut thin and buttered generously, some cake or cookies (not too rich) and ice cream, of course, as you say you make your own. A small tray for each child, set so for a meal, is an excellent idea and delights the children, if you can procure enough trays. Milk or cocoa for drinks. This plan keeps the children out of doors where they can play and romp and you do not disturb your house. If you wish, present each little guest with a souvenir

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Campbell are in Port Hope attending the funeral of Mrs. Campbell's brother, Dr. P. E. Kidd, late of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mr. Prel Woodley who has been attending the Ontario School of Pharmacy, has received word that he has made his examination with honors.

MR. J. O. Herity left this morning for Hamilton where he will speak to the members of the Chamber of Commerce of that city on Better Citizenship.

THE EMERGENCY SHELF

I wonder how many women keep an emergency shelf. How many do not as had an experience as that at the announcement of unexpected guests for a meal? We have rocked our poor brains trying to think of a meal for dinner. There is nothing but left-overs in the house. And we have been so worried and flustered that we have not been hungry ourselves since indeed. Now all this hustle and excitement is unnecessary if we have a well-planned and carefully-stocked emergency shelf. It makes one feel so much more confident to tempt us to use it daily and what we use from it should be replaced at once from the grocery store.

Now what should be on that shelf? Well, everyone has her own special likeside that, but here is a list which I have found useful and can be used for dinner or after-theatre "snacks". Salmon, 2 tins; sardines, 1 large, 1 small; 2 cans tuna (ditto); 2 cans tomatoes; 2 cans peas; 1 can chicken; 1 can mushrooms; 1 can peaches; 1 can pears; 1 can sliced pineapple; 1 small can pimentos; 2 cakes cheese, (small); 1 can sweet cream; 1 bottle olives; 1 glass jar of fish paste; 1 sealed tomato soup; tin box crackers; tin box cocoa.

You may wish to omit some of these and substitute. And it is not necessary to stock up all at once. Add a few each week to your shelf as well-stocked. Of course it is taken for granted that you have on hand coffee, tea, cocoa, flour, butter, potatoes, eggs, and that you keep supplied each week with fresh cream, bacon, salad dressing, lettuce, and vegetables and fruit in season.

A touch of green to a meal is an attraction and a few oranges and all ways lemons are an asset."

It is well too to have a few inbuns to hand so that you will not have to miss the meal after the guests arrive. Then you will be a calm composed hostess and maintain the true spirit of cordiality.

WEMBLY EXHIBITION

The British Empire Exhibition has been opened. This exhibition has been in contemplation for years, but now a fact sad there are no less than 19 different Governments represented there, all coming together in a common effort to ensure its success. It will be the greatest exhibition the world has ever known, because of the above representation and also because such an exhibition would not be possible without the existence of those qualities of tolerance and of common sense which are peculiarly British.

WITH EMPIRE EYES

Few people are inclined to be pessimistic these days, I quote a paragraph from an article in an English Review which should be a "tonic" to all:

"Those who look at the Empire with wide eyes, and can see beyond the political fog that the General Election of 1923 brought over the British Isles, are not in a panic these days. They know that other parts of the Empire have had their Governments and have survived the experience. They have gathered in a certain sum of wisdom of thinking—so comfortable for ourselves, as reassuring to some foreign ideals—acts as a gyroscope to keep us on a straight line of common sense. It is true that there is to be Red it will be a British Red, a very different colour from the Russian or even French Red—a red such as that crimson strand which runs through the

SPRING DELICACY

Plenty of the following foods served daily will obviate the necessity of the old-time spring tonic. Fresh fruits. Canned vegetables and fruits as purees, in salads, or served cold. Fresh green vegetables as they appear in market. Spinach, Dandelions, lettuce, watercress as greens and salads. Fresh rhubarb, strawberries, pineapple, oranges and grapefruit raw or cooked. Salad dressings—preferably olive oil vegetable oil. Milk—in generous quantities, served plain, in soups or combinations. Supplement these with plenty of water and coarse breads to aid in waste eliminations.

A TOUCHING TRIBUTE

The old German mark has gone, wasted away into worthlessness, and a new unit of currency called the Reichsmark has arisen in its stead. Whether the Retsmark will survive it is too early to say. Meanwhile consider this epitaph suggested by a writer in the London Morning Post for the departed mark:

HERE LIES THE MARK
Once
Proud and willing
To do
The work of franc

Time was when he
Would quickly settle
Accounts
By his display of metal.
But
Owing to a nasty fall
He'd lately not

WHO OWNS THE ROADSIDE?

The increasing use of the automobile has given new importance to the scenery along the highways. The motor tap depends on the character of the landscape through which it travels, as on that of the roadbed, so that preserving and improving the scenery becomes a matter of general interest. Less than half a generation ago few people noticed except by train or trolley more than a few miles from their homes. Now the family that owns an automobile has within the reach of a working mechanic of hundreds of miles. The motor car has given variety to the vacation.

The worst disfigurement of the roadside scenery is the billboard advertisement. Resentment against it has become widespread, and it is usually a private property, it has resisted attempts to remove it by legislation. Now it is announced that a method so soon as present contracts expire they will be removed from the fields of the rural landscape. In time others will pay liberally for the advertising that will follow the same course.

The movement began last year in England, where two big concern after another announced that it had given up billboard advertising, for the sake of public sentiment. Their gain in good will was immediate.

But there are other unsightly structures by the roadside than the owners ought to remove for the common good—unsightly barns, dilapidated cabins, broken-down fences covered with tinplate signs, old bathtubs standing, unplanted unpalatable dumpsanitly yards and littered porches. Such things create an unfavorable impression of a town or a state. Spring is a good time to clean up and make a start well at the door.

Automobilists too have certain obligations. Among them are the duties of respecting the property rights of the farming from building camp fires in dangerous places, of refraining from untidily and destroying flowers and shrubbery along the roadway.—Youths Companion.

WHEN BABY IS ILL

When the baby is ill; when he cries a great deal and no amount of attention or petting can soothe him, Baby's Own Tablets should be given him without delay. Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make teething easy. They are absolutely guaranteed to be free from opiates and narcotics and can be given to even the new-born babe with perfect safety and always with beneficial results. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TOMATO JELLY SALAD

Cook one can tomatoes with 1 thyme sugar, a little chopped onions 4 cloves pepper and salt to taste (and a piece of celery if you have it on hand) for ten minutes. Press through sieve, add to the pulp add 2 thyme of gelatine which has been soaked in ½ cup cold water ten minutes. Pour in moulds. This salad can be made very attractive by putting slices of hard-boiled eggs or green olives in the bottom of the moulds with plain gelatine until set before adding tomato mixture. Serve on lettuce.

RHUBARB CUSTARD PIE

Stew 2 cups dried rhubarb with 3-4 cup sugar enough to cook tender, set aside the yolks of 2 eggs well-beaten, with ¼-cup sugar, 1 cup milk, 1 tbsp flour, ½ tsp salt, 1 tsp. Add-1 tspn lemon juice. Pour into a pie pan lined with pastry. Bake until custard firm, then cover with meringue and return to oven to brown to finish.

EMERGEHOV DINNER

... Tomato Bisque, Bread Sticks .....
Salmon Loaf with Egg Sauce
Canned Peas Special
Pear and Pimento Salad
Crackers and Cheese
To make the Tomato Bisque open a can of tomatoes, heat to the boiling point, add a pinch of soda, and then stir in gradually an equal quantity of hot milk. Serve at once.
For the Salmon Loaf open a large can of salmon, drain the liquor from it and remove the skin, removing fish and bones. Add to the flaked salmon 1 cup dried bread crumbs, one egg-slightly beaten, salt and pepper and 2 cups hot milk. Mix all together and pour into a buttered dish. Bake in a hot oven about half an hour. Serve at once.
For the Salad open a can of double boiler a small onion minced fine if liked, and 1 tbsp. of butter. Then place the boiler over the hot water and add one can of pea, drained. Cook 15 minutes, season with salt and pepper and serve hot.
For the pear and pimento salad, arrange halves pears and pimentos cut in strips on lettuce. Serve with mayonnaise.
Wafer week I shall give you two or three more menus planned carefully, to give you ideas of what attractive meals can be served on short notice without a frantic rush to the "Corner Store."

BILLY BUNDAY IS ILL

Rochester, Minn., May 17.—Rev. William A. (Billy) Sunday, evangelist, who on Thursday night began to undergo an operation for a kidney ailment, was not feeling so well late last night, although his temperature remained normal. According to a statement issued yesterday by Dr. L. L. Mayo, chief surgeon at the hospital, Dr. Sander said Mr. Sunday "was in fairly good condition."

POEMS Old and NEW

A BOOK

He ate and drank the precious words,
His spirit grew robust;
He knew no more that he was poor,
Nor that his frame was dust.
He supped the sorrows of the days,
And the beauty of wraps
Had soothed his pain like honey
A blossomed spirit brings!

WORRY

Time was I used to worry, I'd sit around and sigh,
An' think with every ache I got that I was goin' to die.
I'd see a slender cousin from a dozen different ways,
And prophesy calamity an' dark an' gloomy days.

But I came to this conclusion, that's its foolishness to worry,
I've had my share of sickness but I ain't dead yet.

Wet spring have's come to grieve me,
And I've grumbled at the showers,
But I've learned a useful lesson that lot-got to bing my flowers.
I've had my troubles in a plenty and looked failure in the face,
But the troubles I've expected seemed to pass right by the place.

So I'm taking life more calmly, pleased with everything I get,
And not disturbed by losses, 'cos I ain't dead yet.

I've found a thousand failures, and a thousand death I've died,
I've had this world in ruins by the gloom I prospended.
But the sun shone out this morning and the skies above are blue,
And I'm glad I've had my troubles, I've somehow lived 'em through.
There may be new cares for me, much like those that I've met,

Death will come some day an' take me —but I ain't dead yet.

Edgar A. Guest.

NEST EGGS

Birds all the summer busy they Flutter and quarrel
Here in the arbour live
Four little blue eggs.

Here in the fork
The brown nest is seated;
Four little blue eggs
The mother keeps heated.

While we stand watching her,
Lovely and silent,
Safe in each egg are the
Birdie's dear hopes.

Soon the frail eggs they shall
Chip, and upspringing
Make the May woods
Merry with singing.

Younger than we are,
Full of life, and laughter,
Soon in air they'll be,
Singer and sailor.

We, so much older,
Taller and stronger,
We shall look down on the
Birdie's no longer.

They shall go flying
With musical speeches
High overhead in the Top of the beeches.

In such of our wisdom
And sensible talking,
We on our feet must go
Plodding and walking.

R. L. Stevenson.

Two improvements in Dominion Cord Tires

DOMINION TIRES—always standard of tire excellence and tire values in Canada—now feature two exclusive improvements which are as great an advance on the old methods of building cord tires as cord tires were over fabric tires. They add nothing to your tire cost. They give you perfect uniformity of wear—extra mileage at no extra cost.

Web Cords

The Web Cord process unites the cords by saturating them in latex, the natural sap of the rubber tree, thus forming a web of pure rubber, insulating each cord from its neighbor. Friction is reduced to a minimum and the cords are given a protective heat. Web Cords lie flat and even and take and retain with perfect uniformity.

The Web Cord process is used exclusively in Canada for building Dominion Royal Cord and U-cord Tires.

Sprayed Rubber

Sprayed Rubber is the natural, pure rubber extracted by evaporation, direct from the latex or rubber tree sap, thus eliminating the use of coagulating acids or mechanical processes used in preparing crude rubber.

By the Sprayed Rubber process, the finest and purest rubber and therefore the strongest and most elastic, is obtained. Sprayed Rubber is used exclusively in Canada for the walls and treads of Dominion Royal Cord and U-cord Tires.

HEAVY TRUCKS RUIN THE ROADS

"The Heavy Truck Must Go" Says Deputy Minister

Toronto, May 17.—At the King Edward Hotel Thursday night, Mr. S. L. Squires, deputy minister of highways, addressed members of the Ontario Motor Truck Owners Association and in the course of his remarks had some very strong things to say concerning the use of heavy trucks. "You cannot," he said, "expect taxpayers to keep up roads that you willfully destroy," and he complained of the lack of co-operation with the highways department by owners of these vehicles.

Mr. M. Nelleon, in the chair, said that attempts had been made by the association to have the highways act amended to permit the use of trucks heavier than eight tons after January, 1926, and gave reasons showing that the banning of such trucks would result in a loss to owners of $9,116,000. Mr. Squires was adamant, declaring "the heavy truck we will have to go."

He sketched the serious effect which the use of the motor and the improvement of highways had upon the haulings and profits of electric roads and branch lines. That the truck perhaps as a service no one could deny, but that this service was economical or desirable in all cases had not been demonstrated. The question of freight hauling by truck had not yet been settled either necessary, desirable, economical or profitable.

MRS. ANDERSON TELLS WOMEN

How Backache and Periodic Pains Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Leslie, Sask.—"For about a year I was troubled with a distressing down-bearing pain that I had during the periods, and from terrible headaches and backache. I called in to go to a doctor, and as I knew several women who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with good results, I finally bought some and took four bottles of it. I certainly do recommend it to every woman with troubles like mine. I feel fine now and hope to be able to keep away medicine on hand at all times, as no woman ought to be without it in the house."—Mrs. OSCAR A. ANDERSON, Box 16, Leslie, Sask.

Mrs. Kelsey Adds Her Testimony

Copenhagen, N. Y.—"I read your advertisement in the papers and my husband induced me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to get relief from pains and weakness. I was so weak that I could not walk across the room. Now I can do housework and help my husband out doors, too. I keep telling all you go talking this letter if you think it will help others."—Mrs. HARRY KELSEY, Box R.F.D., Copenhagen, N. Y.

Sick and ailing women everywhere in the Dominion should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before they give up hope of recovery.

BOOTLEGGED IMMIGRANTS

New York Times: It may be that the Government will have to raise immigrant receptions with Canada, Cuba and Mexico for the purpose of endeavor ing better to regulate the immigration of undesirables. It is possible that co-operation from those Governments in the way of checking the ultimate destination of immigrants to their shores might make it easier for all concerned. The problem is one which might well be arranged on a reciprocal basis. Canada for example, is no more anxious than we are to receive certain types of immigrants.

SCANDINAVIANS COMING

New York, May 17.—From 15,000 to 20,000 Scandinavians are expected to enter Canada during the coming summer, according to estimates made by local officials of the various Scandinavian steamship lines. The heaviest immigration will probably be from Sweden with Norway a close second. Recently industrial and agricultural conditions have been more too good in Sweden, Norway and Denmark, and emigration has, as a result, been increasing.

Most of the prospective emigrants are said to be farmers. All of them are said to have money. Most of them plan to settle in the Canadian West.

Branches in Leading Cities - Dealers Everywhere

The Meaning of McLaughlin-Buick Service

THE same far-sighted organization that has placed McLaughlin-Buick in the premier position among Canadian automobiles has also made full provision for a standard of service worthy of the car itself. Few cars require so little service, yet Nation-wide Service is available when the occasion demands.

Twelve factory branches—in the principal cities throughout Canada—reinforced by a network of service stations and authorized dealers, insure prompt and thorough attention to every need of the McLaughlin-Buick owner—either for repairs or spare parts—anywhere in Canada. It is the final factor in determining the choice of "Standard Car".

OFFICER SEIZES TRUCK AND ALCOHOL

St., Catherines, Ont., May 17.—At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon a policeman on his beat noticed a big truck running through the city. He called to the driver to stop but no attention was paid to the demand. The police car chased the truck and overtook it by rounding the truck and blocking the road.

On board was found 250 gallons of American alcohol. Two men, who said they were fruit dealers in Toronto, were arrested. A third man, who had been following the truck in a sedan was also arrested on suspicion. The three were locked up.

"Best Thing in the World For Delicate Girls"

Mrs. John Bennett, Boggy Creek, Man., writes:

"My little girl had organic nervous trouble, could not sleep, had severe headaches and fainting spells. This went on for three years, and three doctors helped her very little. After reading of what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food had done for others, I got some for her. She is now so well that she is like a different child. She is fourteen years old and looks the picture of health.

"We have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for different members of the family, when recovering from "flu" and scarlet fever, and it has always helped them."

ROCHESTER IS PREPARED TO SEND TROOPS

Chamber of Commerce to Finance Trip So Officer Writes Mayor Mikel

GWEN REPORTS GAIN

The third battalion of the 108th Infantry, Rochester, which has accepted an invitation to attend the United Empire Loyalist celebration in Belleville on June 15, 16, 17, has made great preparations for the visit, according to information received by Mayor Mikel over the week-end. William F. Butler, of that battalion writes the following:

"Our plans are now shaping to the point where we have decided to bring the Eighty-fourth Band, headquarters in Syracuse. The Chamber of Commerce is solidly behind us and has appointed a committee to finance the trip.

"Our strength will vary from 200, the being the maximum, and 300, that number being the minimum. We will travel by way, working in conjunction with the Canadian National Railways. We secured a special rate of $6.00 for the round trip. We had planned to leave Belleville some time during the evening of June 17 in order to arrive back in Rochester on Wednesday morning.

"Your suggestion seems to be a wise one regarding sleeping and messing arrangements in the City Hall and if you can organize a committee to look after it, do so.

"The officers would not object to stay ing in private homes.

"Our infantry companies will carry rifles and pistols, the Howitzer unit Howitzers, and the Machine Gun Company will have machine guns and carts. There will not be any artillery.

Courier On Her Way

"Gwen Laster, the girl courier, is progressing on her way to Washington. In a card received by Mayor Mikel, written by Miss Laster on Saturday she says,

"Arrived safely in New York city. Saw Mayor Hylan and he arranged for my horse. I am staying with friends and will be here all day today so that I can see the sights and give the horse a rest. I won't be able to tell much about shipping the horse back until I get in Washington. I will be there Inquiring along the way."

Two other items were as follows:

"We arrived safely in Yonkers this afternoon and were met by the Mayor and city officials. He very kindly took care of our horses and I am a guest of the Walters family. Next Thursday or Friday I shall be in Philadelphia. Lucille I will arrive in Washington Declaration Day. Have $71 left yet."

"Arrived in Camden this morning, the pleasure in the opening of motorist into the city and seeing the bright lights along the river side and over to Long Island, so I am not missing very much along the way."

MILLIONAIRE PRESENTS FORTUNE TO EMPLOYES

Buffalo, N.Y., May 19.—Florida holiday high water mark, carrying a face value of $500,000, was presented to thirty-three veterans employees of W. G. Conners, millionaire publisher of the Buffalo Courier and Enquirer, here Saturday, when he gave in appreciation of loyal service given to Mr. Conners for more than a quarter of a century while he was building up a fortune.

The Florida road, known as the Conners Highway, will be opened on July 4th. It is 50 miles long and links the Atlantic Seabord and the Gulf Coast, running through a swamp land heretofore never explored. Mr. Conners, who owns practically stock to his employees, asserted that he has already spent $2,000,000 on the highway. Elaborate preparations are being made for the opening, in which many national celebrities have promised to attend.

The stock Mr. Conners has given away cannot be transferred and will not be kept in trust. Whether it will be some valuable will depend on the traffic the road will attract. The tentative toll schedule stipulates an automobile will pay four cents a mile with an additional one cent a mile for each extra seat. Trucks of the highway will handle a portion of the Miami traffic.

TURNED FIRST SOD

Oshawa, Ont., May 19—At ten o'clock Saturday morning Mayor Preston of Oshawa turned the first sod in connection construction for the "Golden Mile" highway between Toronto and Hamilton, in the presence of a representative gathering.

There were no speeches at the ceremonies but when Mayor Preston raised the spade that broke the first sod there present stood with bared heads.

HOP OFF AGAN

Pattambukiya, Island of Kurile, May 19.—Hop off again! Never ahead, the three United States army air planes left here at 7.25 o' clock this morning for Hitokappu Bay, Etorfu Island.

Rain Causing Farmers Considerable Anxiety; Near Sydney No Seeding Has Yet Been Done

(Special to the Intelligencer)

Sidney, May 19—The heavy rainfalls of the past few weeks have given the farmers of Hastings County a considerable set back in their spring operations, according to R. Atkins, county agriculturist who is in conversation today with the Intelligencer this morning. Mr. Atkins said that seeding is very far behind, late, few if any farmers having completed this work. One man from Sydney, in this morning, said there were many farmers of that district who had not done any seeding at all yet.

Usually the seeding has been all done and about the first of May.

Practically all root crops have yet to be put in.

HINT AT CLOSING OF CHEESE BOARD

Kingston Buyers Enthuse Montreal Reductions and Regulations for Grading

Kingston, May 19.—The decision of Montreal cheese buyers to make reductions in the price of cheese, according to Dr. Geo. Hutchison, has created considerable discussion and criticism of the grading system at the Provincial Cheese Board meeting. One buyer free from all in any room in the city during the local board before the summer is over but it is understood has happened at Peterborough.

The Government Grading system on cheese was in effect last summer but a new aspect has been given the matter by the decision of the Montreal merchants, word of which was received by Mr. Hutchison. The system was passed by the Montreal Produce Merchants Association to the effect that when a complete lot is placed in second grade, the lot shall be paid for at not less than one cent per pound under the terms of the contract. Should only part of a lot is picked out and placed in second grade, then such lots shall be paid for at not less than 1½ cents per pound under the price of first grade cheese; and that for all cheese under third grade the price shall have to be fixed between the buyer and seller but not less than two cents per pound under the price of first grade cheese.

In the discussion it was denied that the Government Grading system was wanted either by the farmers or consumers, as it was claimed.

One of the members of the Board claimed that the Grading system was also instrumental in lowering the price. It was suggested that it was to the interest of an institution where cheese were graded and paid by the Government, it was a matter for the dairy men to take up, it was claimed.

Council Faces Heavy Session This Evening

At the City Council meeting tonight there is considerable business to be transacted. From the various civic committees a number of recommendations will have to be considered, including those recommending tenders for the new garage and the pumping station and the installing of turbine pumps in the Bridge street.

NORTH COUNTRY GETS BADLY NEEDED RAIN

North Bay, May 19—The spring drouth in the part of the North country has been broken. Heavy rain set in Saturday and has continued intermittently throughout the night and all day today. The downpour is very welcome to the moisture to the east and south of the Bay, the country in this part of it has been suffering from a continued dry spell, vegetation showing signs of the loss and the growth of vegetation.

Reports received here from Northern points state that the storm has been general. The spring drive will be in full swing in the course of a week.

Rotarians Hear Judge Talk on Salesmanship

An address, informative and excellently enforced, was given to the Belleville Rotarians at the Quinte Hotel on Saturday last by His Honor Judge George Detwiler. The speaker took as his topic salesmanship and ship sloom by real estate men in Belleville and the surrounding city in Coral Gables while the Quinte Hotel orchestra rendered a number.

The speaker described vividly the methods of salesmen and dealers and showed how smoothly the staff sold the property in one day. Their sales this year totalled $60,000 mark, he said.

There was a feeling of enthusiasm abroad at the meeting of the trio to Picton this evening when the Club will stage its ninetieth show for the benefit of the Crippled Children's Fund.

Cooperation was again asked from the Club in the matter of helping out the Canadian Legion Band. Their insurances are expected from members.

Reports in connection for trips to Madoc and Tweed.

CAMPBELLFORD MAN SAVES TOWN MONEY

Converts Old Sawmill Boiler Into Road Roller at Cost of $150.

Campbellford, May 19.—To supply a long felt want, Councillor Redden has converted an old boiler which he purchased from the sawmill here some years ago, into a roller to be used on the streets of the town. The boiler was cut down to a section six feet in length, filled with cement, both ends plugged, and supplied with a shaft three inches in diameter. The roller is of heavy rock scarifing, and the entire weight of the contrivance is six and a half tons. The work is estimated at $150 and Councillor Redden will state the town the use of the roller free of charge, if his colleagues in the council care to use it for the improvement of the streets.

Councillor Redden believes that Campbellford will not be in a financial position to undertake the paving of the streets for ten or twelve years, in the meantime he considers that the leading thoroughfares should be surfaced with crushed stone and then rolled. To give a practical demonstration of his idea he has laid crushed stone for a block on Queen street, near his home.

PINNED UNDER CAR SOME TWO HOURS

Major Belford, of Orland, Member for Northumberland, Slightly Injured

Orland, May 19.—To be pinned under a motor car from 2.30 until 4.30 Saturday morning was the experience of Major J. F. Belford, M.P.P., for Northumberland. Major Belford was driving badly out and his back was hurt, but no serious results are anticipated. He was removed to his home. The accident occurred on the Trenton and Campbellford Provincial Highway, about two miles north of Orland, near the farm of William Montgomery. He was found by William Parkaperry and was removed from the car by Messrs. Ross Beckley and some, also William McDuffie and Alfred Wood, motorists. Major Belford believes that one of the wheels must have dashed or came off of the car, but the ground is very sandy and the car turned over, pinning him underneath. He was taken to his home by F. P. McCauley.

LIBERAL DESERTER RETURNS TO FOLD

Ottawa, May 19.—Announcement by R. McGregor, Liberal member for Brome, Que., that he had severed his ties to the Liberal fold, has caused considerable discussion in political circles here. It will be recalled that last year, because of his failure to be Government to make any solution to the problem of the unemployment, Mr. McMaster left the Liberal benches and took a seat with the group of the two Labor members, William Irvine and J. S. Woodsworth and declared himself an Independent.

His Reasons Set Forth

Mr. McMaster addressed the floor, he contained in a statement issued, it said he is severing his connection with the year's fiscal proposals, which show a deficit instead of the promised surplus of $41,000, and also, he points out that the action of Sir Lomer Gouin, in "breaking his pair" and thus aiding the vote in opposition to the Bloker-Meighen motion to censure the Government, indicates that it clearly defined tariff issue has been established and he proposes to be free with those who favor greater fiscal freedom.

It is known that Mr. McMaster immediately after the presentation of the year's Budget, expressed himself as strongly in support of it, and that he would probably be compelled, out of consistency, to rejoin the Government ranks.

FIRE SITUATION GRAVE

S. C. Forestry Branch Issues Warning Loss Is Mounting

Victoria, B. C., May 19—With serious outbreaks reported from nearly every district in the Province the fire situation is extremely grave.

"The fire risk the beginning of the season, but fires already that three times what they did last year at this time," said a fire bulletin issued by the Provincial Forestry and Lands Department.

So far this year, 305 outbreaks have been reported against 153 at the same time last year," the bulletin says. "All district report widely increased sight."

William J. Crossen Held in $5,000 Bail Following Incident

ON PRIVATE ESTATE

Cobourg, May 19—Shot by a gamekeeper as a private estate at Baldoff shore, five miles north of here, Byron A.McCrodan, 23, Dunvegan Road, Toronto and Edward Burke, 21 of this town were seriously wounded at an early hour yesterday morning.

William John Crossen, who fired the shots at practically point-blank range, from a 12-gauge shotgun, is held here on $5,000 bail on a charge of wounding with intent to do serious bodily harm.

Mr McCrodan, who is factory superintendent and chemist of the Pure Gold Manufacturing Co., Toronto, was removed to Wellesley Hospital, Toronto, where an operation was performed by Dr. Herbert Bruce assisted by Dr. Gordon Armstrong of Rosemeath. His condition is said to be fairly serious, but strong hopes are held out for his recovery.

Mr. Rowe, who shipped himself nearly a mile through the bush after being shot, was able to be removed to his home after treatment at the General Hospital here. His condition is not regarded as serious, but he will be confined for some time.

First information regarding shooting was received by Dr. Armstrong by telephone about 2 o'clock this morning. He drove at once to the scene—a private road on the property owned by William James Crossen, retired manufacturer and father of the man in relation to the man held—where he discovered McCrodan in the cottage owned by Crossen, suffering from shock and loss of blood, the victim of the shooting affray. After attending the doctor's arrival.

Story Told By Trail of Blood

After some time spent in searching for Rowe, Dr. Armstrong and Dr. Cousans at 6 o'clock this afternoon, the officers accompanied by Constables Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, K.C., and Chief Constable Ed. Cobbledick, arrived at Crossen's home. Upon entering the cottage they found Mr. McCrodan in a pool of blood on the floor, and Rowe, who had been shot in the arm and leg, lying on a bed. Both had suffered considerable pain before medical assistance was available. With the consent of the Crown, bail fixed at $5,000 was furnished by John H. Crossen, father of the accused, and Fred Ball, a miller, of Baltimore.

HIRED OTHERS TO GO TO JAIL

Pacific Coast Bootleggers Got Away With Clever Ruse for a While

DOUBLE WAS CAUGHT

Guard Recognized Substitute Prisoner; Longer Term Meted Out

San Francisco, May 19.—The latest trick of bootleggers to escape punishment by the hiring of substitutes to serve jail sentences, just as certain "pairing" tricks have been used by politicians to bear the brunt of battle.

The trick was a clever one while it lasted. But one James Grevison, who had been making a business of serving time by bootlegging in San Francisco, has exposed the practice in other cities as well as far as San Francisco is concerned.

Grevison was convicted a week ago and sentenced to six months in jail and fined $500. He was also sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and spend a month in jail. Being an old offender and a forehand bootlegger, the $500 fine did not bother him a bit.

The jail sentence was what he didn't like. It would interfere with his business and make things worse, his competitors would win much of his trade and his profits would decrease.

So Grevison picked out Nick Crane, who was down and out, hired Nick to line up with hooch, and prevailed upon him for a fee to serve the jail incarceration of five bed and board to be awarded for "good behavior." Nick "died" for him in the stone walls and iron bars awaiting.

Remembered Face

Everything went well until Nick pro bation and Grevison was free. Then was a guest whose name was not known.

"Other bootleggers have been doing it, so why shouldn't I?" Grevison would say when he was hailed back to court and remembered to pay $1,000 and spend 12 months behind the bars in the county jail.

Federal authorities took quick cognizance of the new racket and an investigation. Already more than 20 "slight-ly suspicious" cases have been discovered, it is said, in which bootleggers' substitutes served out bootleggers' sentences.

Large Numbers From District Commemorate Fiftieth Anniversary

MANY FROM CITY

Picton, May 19—The 105th Anniversary of the founding of the Independent Order of Oddfellows on the North American Continent and the 50th Anniversary of the institution of Bay of Quinte Lodge No. 163 Picton, was fittingly commemorated Sunday May 18th, by the members attending Divine Service at the Picton Methodist Church. Despite the heavy rain a large number assembled at the lodge room and led by the Picton Citizen Band marched to the church. The Patriarchs Militant Branch of the Order were present with Belleville Lodge No. 8 and Canton Picton No. 31, and the subordinate lodges were Bloomfield, Stirling, Trenton, Wingham, Consecon and Belleville with members of the Encampment from Picton, Trenton, Stirling and Belleville.

The service was conducted by the minister, Rev. J. Mellor and the well known hymn, "Come Thou Almighty Word," "O God our Help in ages Past" and "Rock of Ages" were heartily sung by the congregation.

The anniversary sermon, preached by the choir was of exceptional high order. The subject, "Whosoever Shall Lose His Life," was ably dealt with by Miss M. Mellor, Miss

WORDS IN SEASON

Laugh at thoughts and in Belleville took up their exploits to battle in the interests of the development of the St. Lawrence for power purposes through the medium of a Toronto newspaper on Saturday. They gave expression to the opinion that the future prosperity of this city is dependent in a large measure on the culmination of plans to give this section of the country ample electric power for industry.

Their action is commendable. The voice of Belleville may well be heard strongly on this question, for there is no doubt that within the space of a few years Eastern Ontario will be crying for more power which cannot be supplied from Niagara, the French River or the present generating systems.

SHOWING THE WAY

Germans of the municipality of Dusseldorf have offered a sum in gold marks, equal to $250,000 in Canadian money, to French soldiers who as members of the army of occupation are stationed in that German city. It was to have been used to make the stay of the polis more comfortable. Unfortunately, the revolutions of the French army forbade the acceptance of the money and offers suggested that the money be given to charities of Dusseldorf.

This generous impulse from the Germans followed the action of the French in helping to make the Dusseldorf industrial exhibition a success.

French has been indicted as the stumbling block in the way of real peace in Europe. Her hatred of Germany has been a discouragement to constructive pacifists among Anglo-Saxon people. Yet is it extremely doubtful if a finer healing touch than that in Dusseldorf has come to pass since the end of the great war.

There is hope for the dove yet.

TRADING WITHIN THE EMPIRE

The action of the British Labor government in abolishing the McKenna duties has led to a disposition on the part of the West Indies—if the opinion of a Jamaica newspaper is to be accepted as a criterion—to look outside the empire rather than within it, for "satisfactory terms" of trading. This is a most unfortunate development which, it is to be hoped, will not be generally adopted. Disappointing as may be the present attitude of the British government in the matter of empire preference, the ideal must be maintained at all costs of imperial solidarity. There are effective ways of assisting to that end other than that of preference; also there are ways of retaliating for any hasty, ill-humoured action. British firms are increasing their investments in Canada; a very great deal can be done by private enterprise of this kind. Imperial confidence and good will are all important, and these will ultimately dictate policies.

There are all kinds of opportunities open to the dominions of profitable mutual trading. Take the case of Australia, which has been making special efforts to increase its trade with Canada. There is no doubt that a greatly increased volume of business could be done. According to figures just published in the United States, that country sold goods to the value of approximately $96,000,000 in the nine months period ended March 31 last, as compared with less than $89,000,000 in the corresponding period of the previous year. It is confidently anticipated that this growth will be continued in the future. There is no reason why Canadian should not be getting a larger share of such business, and similarly with other dominions.

PRESS OPINIONS

AS TORONTO SEES IT
(Toronto Star)

The Ottawa Journal complains of Hamilton's proposed invasion of Ottawa." The complaint in Toronto is that it is almost impossible to see any Dominion property at all.

POLITE DR. TWAIN
(The Mentor)

During his early married life in Buffalo, one Sunday morning Mark Twain noticed smoke coming out of a window of the house across the street. The owner and his wife, comparatively newcomers, were seated on the porch, evidently unaware of impending danger. The Clemens household had not yet called on them but Clemens himself now stepped briskly across the street, bowing with formal civility politeness, he said:

"My name is Clemens; we ought to have called on you before, and I beg your pardon for intruding now in this informal way, but your house is on fire."

MONTREAL'S VIEWPOINT
(Montreal Patrie)

The Ottawa Journal doubts whether the manner which the Government of Quebec obtains from its liquor monopoly are good. Not good, the dollars of Ontario and the dollars of Americans! Go on!

DANGEROUS MILK
(Peterboro Examiner)

Milk is the staple food of infants and young children, and is usually taken in the raw state. It this milk is from tuberculor cows it may contain millions of living tubercular germs.

Most is not so likely to convey the infection, since it does not so frequently contain the germs. Cooking destroys a great many of those that may be present, and most is not consumed very much by very young children.

EDUCATION PAYS
(Amherstburg Echo)

The old tradition that farming could be carried on just as successfully without education as with it appears to have broken down under investigations recently carried on. The Kansas Agricultural College took the initiative and on a question covering 1,337 farms in that state found that the annual earnings of farmers having a common school education was $423, of those with High School education, $545; those with a partial college course, $589; and those with full college course, $1,452. All succeeding investigations in other states showed practically the same results. When it came to the question of modern residences and improvements, the college trained farmers in the lead by fifty per cent or more. Perhaps it is time once and for all to kill the old fetish of education. Maybe they would lead in say case. But with data so widely gathered the conclusion seems clear that education is an advantage in every way and is designed to be something more than a drudge or "a hewer of wood and a drawer of water." Anything that enhances the value of his manhood is good and a permanent available asset.

WHAT IT COSTS FARMERS TO LIVE
(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

How the farmers of the country live, how much it costs them to do it, and what they get for their money, is a question the United States department of agriculture has set itself to determine. Taking Livingston county, New York, as a typical farming centre or the moderately well-to-do agricultural, the investigators examined 400 farmers, about 16 per cent. of the total number in the county.

Briefly, it was discovered that the average expenditure of the 402 was $3,312 a year. Rather more than one third came off the farm in the shape of food and fuel. That left $1,340 in real money for the farmer to provide for clothing and improvements for himself and his family, including the upkeep of the inevitable motor car. Seventeen per cent. a year, or $227 a family, which, based on the usual statistical average of five persons to a family, would be a little more than $50 a person.

The statistics learned that father and mother denied themselves their average share of $277 a year. One thing allowance that the adolescent boys and girls of the family might make a good appearance. Up to 19 years old boys may have to wear daddy old duds cut down, and the girls are cut an unfashionable appearance to mother's maddover frocks, but as soon as they begin to bud into young manhood and womanhood both boys and girls evidently rebel, for from 17 to 20 or 22 years old the clothing cost of the young people is twice that of their parents.

G. Porter — Detective
By W.H.G.

Those who knew Mr. George Porter as the general manager Harbord Basicity, laconparated, would never for a moment have suspected him as a man who felt he was in the wrong groove in life, because George Porter was a ten thousand dollar man and considered one of the most promising young business heads in the city.

As a matter of truth, however, he longed for the life of a detective. In his luxurious bachelor quarters, he would surround himself with the evening papers and revel in the crime mysteries of the day. Often he would preach a conclusion in some case that was baffling the police and feel assure of his ground, that he was tempted to call the Chief on the phone.

One morning at the office he noticed that his favorite and very valuable gold pencil was missing. A diligent search was of no avail. The general opinion was that it had been in a manner that would have made late Sherlock Holmes envious.

Drumming his fingers on the polished table in his private office, Mr. Porter came to a conclusion. There had been but three persons in his office since he last remembered using the pencil. There was, no doubt about it. One of these three had taken the pencil.

He bathed forward and touched one of four white buttons on his desk. Miss White, the stenographer, entered the office noiselessly and closed the door carefully after her.

"Miss White, have you seen my gold pencil this afternoon?"

Mr. Porter asked the question carelessly enough, but his eyes were riveted on the face of the young lady to observe the slightest sign of guilt, the keenest in the negative in just that tone of concern a good stenographer should use when her boss is troubled. Obviously she was guiltless.

The junior detective tried different tactics on the chief clerk. That gentleman had no sooner poked his head in the door than the manager shot the question at him.—

"Mr. Cleson, did you take my gold pencil?"

Now if Carson had done so, the atmosphere of the office would have at least raised a slight flush to his cheeks. He reasured Mr. Porter's face look steadily. He was assuredly innocent.

So, by the process of elimination, Ben Steel, the draftsman was the culprit party.

When this young man came in Porter's manager played with his quarry. Looking out of the window, he drummed his fingers on the table, the drumming ceasing as the table respectfully awaiting his employer's pleasure.

Then turning his head slowly towards the young man, Mr. Porter said quietly,

"Steel, you stole my gold pencil."

The accused seem quite taken aback as if somebody had struck him. He looked at Porter in a dazed way.

"Porter, you're a liar," he exclaimed.

At this Mr. Porter grasped the corners of the table and leaned heavily to his feet. He slipped and fell. He slipped on a little pencil on the floor and fell heavily.

MRS. S. CURRY

Saturday morning, Mrs. Samuel Curry passed away at the family residence, 44 Victoria Avenue, after a week's illness. To her many friends her passing was a shock. She was 72 years of age and was born at Stockdale, her maiden name being Mary E. Avery. Mrs. Curry had resided in Frankford, Sidney, Madoc village and in Belleville for the past ten years. Deceased was a member of John Street Presbyterian church and a highly esteemed by all who knew her. To mourn her loss is the husband, one son Fred, of Madoc, one daughter, Mrs. H. D. Rose of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Arthur Terrill also of this city. Mrs. Wm. Curry of this city is a daughter-in-law of deceased.

JANE A. KERR

Another aged resident in the person of Mrs. Jane Ann Kerr, relict of the late Mr. John Kerr of Hungerford, has joined the great majority. Her passing occurred on Sunday afternoon at her late home on Charles street. Deceased was 87 years of age, having been born in Ireland in 1837. The greater portion of her life was spent in this city and locality where she had many true friends. Mrs. Kerr was a devoted member of St. Thomas' Anglican church. Her husband, the late Mr. John Kerr predeceased her 24 years ago. A family of five sons and one daughter survive. The sons are George, Henry and John A., of this city, the latter County Constable, William of Richmond Township and Walter of Tyendinaga Township. The daughter is Mrs. John D. Embury of Thomasburg.

MRS. ED LEAR

On Saturday afternoon the body of the late Mrs. Edward Lear of this city was consigned to the tomb at Belleville cemetery. At her late residence, Coleman street, Rev. J. Ferris of Stirling conducted services and also officiated at the interment. A number of floral tributes were evidence of sympathy. Bearers were cousins of the deceased, W. Phelps, S. Thackeberry, W. G. Mullet, E., C. and Ted Boo.

MRS. WM. MITCHELL

Mrs. Wm. Mitchell passed away on Saturday at her late home, corner of Bridge and Dundas street. Deceased was 37 years of age and had been a resident of the city but a few months. She was born in Scotland. Mrs. Mitchell was a member of John Street Presbyterian Church. A husband but no family survives. Mrs. Keegan, of this city is a sister.

London, Ont., May 19.—As a result of the sudden death on Saturday of four year old Thomas Carey, at 256 Hamilton Road, who was struck by a motor truck, George Hammond, the driver, age 29, of 36 Craig street, faces a charge of manslaughter. Hammond surrendered at Police Headquarters when he learned of the child's death and was later released on $5,000 bail, to appear before Police Magistrate Crayton on Thursday.

GUTHRIE RIDICULES THE LIBERAL SURPLUS

Guelph, Ont., May 19.—Speaking at the annual meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association of South Wellington, held here Saturday, Hon. H. H. Stevens, Vancouver, ex-Minister of Trade and Commerce, confined himself almost entirely to criticism of tariff reduction. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, M.P., ridiculed the Government claim that at the end of the financial year they had a surplus of $30,000,000. He also declared that the political support Mackenzie King had pandered to the Progressives, and that the unsatisfactory figure was the result of the alliance. Hon. Lincoln Goldie also spoke briefly.

STORAGE BATTERY CAR PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Hamilton, Ont., May 19.—The C. P.R. inaugurated the new Hamilton Galt service on Saturday, when the first storage battery car was operated over the line. The run proved a decided success and officials of both cities were the first passengers. They expect themselves well pleased with the result and look for greater development along these lines. The trip was made in 90 min utes. Fifty passengers can be accommodated and a schedule assuring adequate service between Hamilton and Galt, also intermediate points, has been arranged.

Senate Makes Effort At Service Reform

Will Try to Eliminate Reported overlapping in Departments, and Wasteful Features

Ottawa, May 19—The Senate, from which much more can be expected in civil service reforms, and reductions of national expenditure than from the House of Commons, has at last made a real effort to get somewhere in these matters. It has had a committee on the civil service quietly working, and the other day it forwarded to the various deputies a number of criticisms respecting the Service that had come to it, and asked for an opinion thereof.

Of more importance still is a memorandum from the Civil Service Commission which that body was to prepare respecting the Service. The Commission points to the following and makes suggestions:

1. Of the wasteful distribution of Government offices in 65 buildings in Ottawa.

2. The Government's engineering survey work is at present carried on independently by four major departments.

3. A similar criticism is levelled against the accounting, purchasing, translating, legal, library and other services.

4. A similar organization is maintained for the collection of the income tax, which should be absorbed into the Department of Customs and Excise.

5. The Government telegraph service should be absorbed into the Canadian National Railways Organization.

6. Printing and distribution of Government publications should be considerably curtailed.

7. If possible the Departments of State and External Affairs should be amalgamated.

8. The seven branches of the lands work of the Department of the Interior should be consolidated.

9. The purchase and upkeep of motor vehicles should be curtailed, and a considerable saving effected on travelling expenses.

10. Mechanical devices and systems should be introduced into the statistical divisions of the Government departments.

It will be noticed that many of these recommendations are in line with much that the press has been saying on this subject. That the Civil Service Commission says so gives the recommendations greater weight and shows that there has been a good basis for them.

There will be no genuine reform of the Civil Service with a worthwhile reduction in the expenditure as long as the initiative is looked for from within. The will to reform and save money must come from without. A civil servant, any more than anyone else, will not cut off his own head.

Those best acquainted with the situation agree that it is useless to expect much reduction in expenditure as long as there are so many departments, and so many branches that practically do the same kind of work. The cutting out of the overlapping is made difficult, for reduction in the amount of work done means a reduced personnel and less renned authority, which is quite likely to be followed by less salary. One of the biggest disclosures in the foregoing list is the statement that government offices in this city are distributed over 65 buildings. This is not mere guess work, it is a statement made by the Civil Service Commission.

Altogether this is the most helpful lot of suggestions on the subject that has been made for some time, and having been made on the authority of the Commission, they have great weight.

TO DRAIN LAKE FOR TREASURES

Sunken Barge of Ancients Said to Contain Millions In Gold

Rome, May 19—The Italian government is planning to drain an entire lake to get at a long barge built in the days of ancient Rome and said to contain the most precious art treasure ever known. Millions of dollars' worth of gold and silver, precious woods, and works are in the barge, it is believed.

The barge, which is almost as huge as the huge Leviathan, lies in 70 feet of water at the bottom of Lake Nemi, in the Alban Mountains. The lake is in the crater of an extinct volcano. Divers have gone down to the barge and have brought up a great many wonderful relics. The barge is covered with mud and is flat, so that no power strong enough to keep it afloat has been able to raise it out of the water.

Would Drain Lake

The barge, according to tradition, was built by Emperor Tiberius, and its decorations alone were worth millions in time. Tiberius loaded the craft to capacity with gold and precious metal that, one day during a hard storm, it sank to the bottom of the lake and there it has remained, the mud which covers it preventing divers from getting down to contain.

Engineers propose to build a drain tunnel through the side of the volcano which will drain the lake in time. Provided this work will leave the sunken barge high and dry. It is said everything can then be removed, and the contents of the ship salvaged.

KUT DEFENDER DEAD; MADE GALLANT STAND

Paris, May 19.—Major-General Sir Charles B. P. Townshend, famous as the defender of Kut-el-Amara when the was commander of the British forces in Mesopotamia during the World War, died here yesterday after six months' illness. He was on a visit to his mother-in-law, Mrs. Gladys Cabot of Anvers, at the time of his death.

Major-General Townshend was born in 1861. He entered the Royal Marines in 1881 and saw extensive military service in Egypt, India and South Africa.

At the outbreak of the World War he was given command of the British forces in the attempt to take Bagdad from the Turks. After a few initial successes the Turks, who greatly outnumbered the British, drove back Gen. Townshend's forces to Kut-el-Amara, the British suffering heavy losses in their retreat. From December, 1915, to April, 1916, the British cabinetsly held Kut-el-Amara, but finally were compelled to surrender.

RUMANIA IS ALARMED BY TROOPS OF RUSSIA

London, May 19.—Alarm again is felt by both Roumania and Poland at military measures recently taken by the Bolshevik on the frontiers of those countries. The concentration of Russian troops and artillery on the borders includes 30,000 cyclists.

The most interesting development arising out of this move is the subscription of Roumania and Poland to Turkey for aid in the event of trouble. Turkish missions have arrived both at Warsaw and Bucharest where there are conferring plans for defence with the Polish and Roumanian general staffs.

ITALY IS RECOVERING FROM SHOCK OF WAR

Rome, May 19.—The war damages of Italy, amounting to around $12000,000,000, have been repaired and, according to a study just completed by the Research Department of the Italian Trust Company of New York, it is estimated that the wealth of Italy today, measured in pre-war dollars, is $21-24,000,000,000. This makes no allowance for the new resources acquired by Italy as a result of her participation in the war and, if data were available for these resources, the estimate would be considerably increased

The per-car wealth of Italy was just under $22,000,000,000 and her national income was $3,500,000,000. The Bankers Trust Company, as a result of its study, believes that a figure of $3,000,000,000 is substantially correct.

TO GIVE COURSE ON MATRIMONY

Y.M.C.A. at Brooklyn Enrolls Class of Thirty-Five Bachelors

SEND SIX LECTURES

Explaining How to Make Wife Contented on Small Allowance

Brooklyn, N.Y., May 19—Bridegrooms are to be taught matrimony by mail. This will be the next development in the free course of pre-nuptial husbandry, known as "cupidic class," now flourishing at the Young Men's Christian Association in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Six many pamphlets for an outline of the lectures have been sent to young men in far sections of the country, including Cuba, Europe and Asia. The educational department of the Brooklyn "Y," under whose inspiration the course was devised, is now busy considering a plan to assemble the material into a series of lectures to be sent by mail.

The course, consisting of six lectures of advice to young men about to marry, is based on the material of matrimony attracted 35 young men, all of them bachelors, with "matrimonial intentions."

The text volume, thus far have been upon the physiochemical and anatomical aspect of marriage. Both subject were handled by specialists.

The physiological aspects of the marriage state, and of the emotional and intellectual accord which should exist, the problem of where to rent or buy a home, the budget, how to make a start financially considered on a meager family income will be kept out in future lectures.

Mr. Gilsey has received a score of letters from lonely women in all parts of the world, offering themselves as possible wives, for graduates of the matrimonial school.

BIGGS FEARLESS; SAYS ROAD WORK WAS WELL DONE

Is Confident of Work as Directed by Good Engineers

3 YEAR CONTRACTS

Contractors Also Gave Three-Year Guarantees

Hamilton, May 19.—"I have no fear of an investigation into the work of the highways department during the term when I was minister," said F. C. Biggs yesterday. "The work was done under the supervision of competent engineers, in whom I had every confidence, and the bulk of the work was done by tender, under three-year guarantee by the contractors. The suggestion that there was collusion is absurd, for no contractor would risk his reputation by doing poor work, for the contract would be given the opportunity to skimp," he added, "because the work was inspected by engineers who were skilled in road building, and I might add that, during by term as minister of public highways, no contract was ever varied or changed in any way that would permit of 'slumping,' and so far as I know, no contractor or other employee of the government ever asked such a thing.

Competent Engineers

"The work was carried out under the department registered engineers, who did under them the detailed estimates, also stayed 'on the job' and supervised every foot of road that was laid. I am not an engineer and could not, had I been one, give personal attention to all the road work in the province during my term as minister, but I had confidence in the engineers, and I am sure everything, if there is an investigation will prove to be quite regular."

Asked if he had heard anything of the move for the investigation into the highways department, Mr. Biggs said: "No, I have heard nothing since the house closed." There were some statements made in the house during the session that I would be unanswerstation, but apart and Messrs. O. H. Snell, W. H. Nugent from those I have heard nothing.

Made to lubricate the Ford

Exclusively!

For years, folks lubricated their Ford cars—many still do—with the same oils that other folks used in McLaughlins, Dodges, Chevrolets,—correct oils for those cars, but not for the Ford!

The very same oil you use in your Ford engine must lubricate your Ford transmission. This exclusive Ford feature requires an exclusive lubricant.

Veedol Fordol master the dual lubrication problem of the Ford engine and planetary transmission—a problem that baffled experts for years.

With Veedol Fordol you notice the complete absence of jerky chatter, caused by the use of wrong oils. No more do the brake bands hold you back when you coast. Your Ford has the smooth ease of operation of higher priced cars.

Equally important are the economies of Veedol Fordol. Better gasoline and oil mileage. More power when you need it most. Fewer repairs.

Do this to convince yourself. Go to your dealer. Have him drain the oil out and refill the crankcase with Veedol Fordol. Better still, buy a 5-gallon can of Veedol Fordol and get 2,000 to 3,000 economy miles at less than one-third of a cent per mile

KING'S PLATE WINNER PAYS BIG ODDS; YACHTSMEN AT TORONTO BUSY

Maternal Pride Slips Surprise At Woodbine Meet On Saturday

Not since Kelvin, a 40-1 shot, carrying the colors of the late, T. Ambrose Wood, lead Hail to Crown a nose in the King's plate race of 1907, with Bilberry, a 100-to-1 shot, third, has there been such an upset in the running of the Guineas as on Saturday, when Maternal Pride, belonging to H. S. Wilson, and trained by W. G. Wilson, led from barrier to wire, and never left the issue in doubt as to who was the best horse among the fifteen starters in the sixty-fifth running of the oldest continuously run race on the North American Continent. He finished two lengths in front of Thorndyke, the Thorcliffe entry. The latter was six lengths in front of the Brookdale filly, Marpole. Dolcita finished fourth, a length and a half back of Marpole, and then came Seven Oaks, Tiger Jim, Mexican Pete, Pold, Honey Dew, Rebus, Beau of the West, Crest, Ann K. and Thorolon, Catamaran was in a jamb at the first turn and lost her rider.

Despite the threatening weather, and with a sky dull and grey, possibly the largest crowd that ever witnessed an opening day at the historic woodbine was on hand to help usher in the Canadian racing season. The track was slow from the incessant rains of the past week, with the steeplechase field in the worst condition it has been for years. However, a slow track or fast track made no difference to Maternal Pride. They simply arrived at the course in sleeves, and it is doubtful if there ever were so many cars parked around the Woodbine and inside the enclosure; as on Saturday, in fact, horsemen had difficulty in getting their chargers out of the stable, so closely were the cars parked to the barns in the south end.

"Play Ball" May Not Sound In Belleville On Wednesday

It will be definitely decided to-morrow whether or not the opening game in the Central Ontario Baseball League will be played according to schedule, on Wednesday afternoon next, or whether it will be played on Victoria Day, observed in this city on Monday next, May 26th.

Belleville has not been immune from the daily visits of Jake Plattus recently, and the playing field at the Agricultural grounds is very soggy and wet. Whether the combined efforts of wind and sun between now and Wednesday will dry the playing field sufficiently, is the problem which is baffling officials to-day. Both President Duff of the Central League and Secretary-Treasurer Newton Thompson of the local club stated this morning that they would know definitely on Tuesday what action will be taken.

In case the game cannot be played on Wednesday, every effort will be made to have the opening game on the holiday in conjunction with the official opening game of the newly organized junior baseball league of Hastings and Prince Edward counties. Trenton and Belleville juniors open their season here on that date, and it is believed that their efforts will be made to come to an agreement with the junior officials for a believed double header at the Agricultural park on that day.

Secretary Thompson states to-day that the diamond is in a very cozy condition, and at the present time is in no taffic condition for play. It remains with the weatherman until to-morrow, when final arrangements will be made accordingly.

Jake Salonica's Peterboro nine is the team which faces the Railroaders in the opening game here, and they are a tough aggregation with Al Heckman, Max Lowandes, "Shiner" Johnston and other old and proven rangers. A brand new hurler named Berth, who is reported to be an able performer, will work for Peterboro. Heckman during the season. The Nick Altrock of the Central League, Jake Soloman will be back with the Railroaders, the Eleven City squad with his antics wise and otherwise.

Manager Walter Gerrow of the Grand Trunk team will practically have last season's champion team minus the services of Indian Jack Williams. Jack Oulette will start on the mound for the moguls and Hughie Keon will be warming up in front of him, if necessary. "Chuck" Jeffery is also working into shape, but Archie Zeleff, the ex-Stark worth beaver, has left the Trunks it is believed.

STROLLERS GET A BYE IN BOWLING PLAY-OFF

In the mixed league at the Y alley's which has been going on during the spring and which is drawing to a close some real games have been played. In section II of the league the Go-Getters and Strollers were tied. And in the play-off the Strollers won out by 21 pins. In section I the Aura Lee team came out on top with no defeats to their credit, but were certainly pushed hard by the Trappers. In section III the Ne'er do Wells a re-established the team-fast. And in the draw at Y on Saturday noon the Strollers were the lucky team to draw the Bye. So the Aura Lee and Ne'er Do Well's meet on the first of the week and the winner to meet the Strollers at the end of the week. The standing of the vections is as follows.

New South Wales Gets Five Goals To Two in Soccer Fixture

Sydney, N.S.W., May 19.—The Canadian all-star football aggregation, on their second game on the first leg of their tour of Australia Saturday, when the team representing New South Wales scored five goals to two Canadians' two, before a great crowd.

The defeat of the Canadians was due almost entirely to poor team play, their form being decidedly off color. The forwards were weak, particularly around goal. Matches between the police for Canada fumbled on shoot and ought to have stopped two others. The Canadians also missed a penalty shot. The scoring of the Canadians was done by Dorsett and Purves.

McLean and Sandford were absent from the line, and Wilson and Hind did not play.

The Canadians have won one game, lost one and drawn one.

But Losers Are Expected To Go Far In Olympic Soccer Contests

Paris, May 19.—A picked team from the strongest clubs in the English professional soccer league, such as Aston Villa, Clapton, Derby and Sheffield, defeated the French Olympic team at Stamford Bridgeham Saturday by a score of 3 to 1.

The professionals' superior technique and quickness won from the amateurs, who outran and outspeeded them, but who lacked finesse and the ability to finish off their magnificent rushes towards the goal with telling shots.

The British experts expressed the opinion that the French team would go far in the Olympic competition.

Canadian Yachtsmen Appeal for Funds to Finance Olympic Trip

SEND REPRESENTATIVE

To Compete in One Design Single Handed Yachting Contest

The Intelligencer is in receipt of a letter from J. Gaudaur, secretary of the W. Windeyer, chairman and secretary of the Ontario committee governing Olympic yachting events, in which Belleville yachtsmen are invited to help finance the sending of a Canadian representative to Paris in June. The letter reads as follows:

"It has been decided by the Lake Yacht Racing Association and the Lake Sfalk Sailing Association, the bodies governing yachting on Lake Ontario, to enter a representative of theirs racing to select a Canadian representative in the one design single handed Yachting Contest of the Olympic games to be held on the River Seine, Paris, July 20th to 27th, 1924.

"A committee composed of the following has been appointed by the above associations above referred to to handle the affair as far as Canada is concerned:—Major Windeyer R.C.Y.C., F. K. Wade, C.C.Y.C., H. A. Patterson, Q.L.Y.C., W. Exiley, U. C.Y.C., A. P. Cr'g, R.N.Y.C., T. G. Corbitte, T.C.C.

"This committee met and decided to invite Commodore Gooderham of the R.C.Y.C. to accept the chairmanship of this committee.

"The problem facing the committee is that of finance as the Canadian representative will be under an expense of approximately $1000.00 and as this amount it is hoped, will be raised through public subscription.

"It is widely felt that with the exception of hockey there is no line of sport at the Olympic games that would have so great a chance of winning and bringing back fame and glory to the centre of small boat sailing in Canada and whose sailors have demonstrated their ability time and time again to hold their own and win against the best in the world, both at home and elsewhere. In order that the best man be selected and that the choice be not narrowed down to those who are fortunate enough to be able to pay their own expenses, it has been decided to give all an equal chance to represent Canada so that the efficiency displayed alone shall be the deciding factor. Knowing the sentiments of your paper and also that of the Canadian public, the committee has no hesitancy in asking you to publish this letter and open a subscription list to defray the expenses of the chosen representative, wherever he may be, with the firm belief that the call will be generously responded to.

"The Canadian Olympic Committee will be responsible for all moneys received for this purpose, and will carefully oversee and account for all items of expense.

"The event of selecting the Canadian representative is well under way and it is hoped that no time will be lost in completing the subscriptions, having in mind that our representative will be called upon to embark for France not later than June 25th.

"Further information will be supplied you as to time and place of holding the trials at Toronto so that you may keep your readers and subscribers informed."

Trunks Win First From Point Ann

Belleville Grand Trunks, entrants in the Central Ontario Senior Baseball league, played—and won their first game of this season on Saturday afternoon, when they defeated the good Point Ann intermediates at the Point Ann ball park, by the score of 12-1.

It was an exhibition game in which both manager Walter Gerow of the Railroaders, and Frank "Soup" Goyer of the Point Anne nine, gave their material a chance in a real game. Both managers were well pleased with the work of their new men too.

Gerow worked three pitchers during the nine innings, three innings to each hurler, Jeffrey started the game, Hughie Keon pitching the next three, and Monsieur Jack Oulette finishing the fray. Point Ann used three hurlers also, "Soup" Green, the dusky right hander, started, and pitched nice ball, while he was on the mound. The Moguls made one run while he was there, suffering from a sore arm made a poor showing for an inning and a half following the performance of Green, and Bennett finished the game very satisfactorily.

"Chuck" Jeffrey shows much improvement, and the work of Hughie Keon, the ex-Tweed flinger, pleased the fair sized crowd of fans very much. Both those boys have fast breaking curves, but naturally lack sufficient control as yet as they have not been picking much to batters this season, owing to the unfavorable weather and the inability of the team to use the diamond for that reason. Jack Oulette still hops them over with plenty of speed, but Keon and Keon were relying principally upon straight balls Saturday, and deceive air agrees with Keon. He has pitched fifteen innings since he came to the city, and is developing a swift ball which he did not previously have. Jeffrey worked hard with an uncertain arm half the time, and Heckman but it gave him much trouble to control it.

All the old timers on the Trunks' lineup are as good as ever it seems, Bill Hunt, now boys, Jack White, "Buster" Weir and Cy Young showed up well. Young looks good with the willow, while White specializes as a smash fielder. Alec Weir can do both fairly well too. Stan Hagerman caught for half the game, and "Peenie" Mills did the remainder of the receiving. They were both very satisfactory.

Trunks led not two errors during the nine innings, one going to Keon, who is he and Hagerman pulled the Alphonse-Gaston exact with a nifty bunt, and one to Ken Weir on the relatate short fielder.

It was the Ann contention after the run that the Railroaders had to wield the club, and they knocked the horse hide for a row of those things despite that fact. Jack Oulette and "Cuck" Williams each pounded out three baggers, Williams' clout with Meagher on following his circle, scoring over the third run. "Chuck" also made a smart catch at third, which was a high light of the battle. The boys can the loose well, and showed that they still remember how to hit inside baseball when they worked the squeeze play once for once for fun. They were up against a team too, which is regarded as a smart intermediate team.

The diamond was rather slippery, last the Trunks who were there early, had a long workout on the hot before the game and know where all the skid spots were are Joe Keller, formerly with the Trunks is playing with the

Young Men's SUITS For $15.00

Now you may have in your-mind that a suit for a young man at this low price would be very inferior in cloth and make up.

We do not claim they are $25.00 value but we will say that not a suit in the lot is worth less than $20.00.

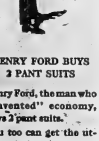

The cloth is good, the trimmings are good and the styles are all the latest.

They were bought below their values. You get them below their value.

LITERARY MERIT OF THE BIBLE

To those unaccustomed and to those who are narrow enough to have what they call a religious prejudice against it, the Bible means just a symbol of a certain sublime, and they pass it by as uninteresting reading.

These people do not pause to consider that all scholars and stylists, no matter what be their creed, study it from the standpoint of literary merit. No other book of our known universe has had so much thought expended upon it as has the Bible. Not to be a Bible reader stamps one as being distinctly negligent of educational advantages which are within reach of every hand.

One sect may call it mere secular history, another may consider it a divine inspiration, but no matter what the actual view of the intent or meaning, it is a book for all thinkers and for those who desire mental culture. There are comparatively few Modernmen and believers in the religion of the Chinese centuries old, still the best adapted literature contain copies of the Koran and of the writings of Confucius.

All readers want these books for reference if nothing more, and this is true of the Bible in addition to its literary merit. There are hundreds of familiar quotations which off hand many will say are from Shakespeare, Milton or Cervantes, when in reality they are from the Bible.

This is an unforgivable mistake when it is possible, according to the distribution plan of this paper, to place the Bible within easy reach of all. See coupon on another page.

No matter how perfect the eyes may have been

Along about 40 or 45 years of age the average person begins to experience difficulty in reading. Then if he is wise and has the welfare of his eyes at heart, he visits the Optometrist and receives the aid which his condition demands. This monster adornment, a Spanish "peineta," made by a master of the art in Barcelona, for Irene Bordanti, to wear in her new play, "Little Miss Blue-beard," is of tortoise shell base, punctured with four thousand little holes in which have been entrusted as many brilliants and marquisettes.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Do not use prepared shampoos or anything else that contains free much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can not possibly injure the hair. Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three tablespoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

"Good-morning, Martin. Is there anything the matter?" Esther asked, as calmly as she could; and her forced composure had a quieting effect upon the group.

"Well, miss," replied Martin, "something has happened; but it isn't so dreadful as to make a fuss about; and, as I tells 'em, ain't no fault of ours, nor of the motor-car. We have quite enough to do to look after ourselves without being answerable for other people's daughters."

He looked at Transom reproachfully, and then angrily at Dick Reeve.

"What is it?" asked Esther. "Will one of you please tell me? If there is anything I can do—"

Transome touched his cap and looked at her half-sullenly, half-apologetically.

"I don't want to trouble you, miss," he said. "I came up to ask Martin about my daughter, my Kate—"

Esther turned to him quickly with a sudden foreboding which she concealed behind her forced calmness

"Your daughter—Kate? What has happened to her?"

"She's gone, miss," said Transom, gloomily.

"Gone!" echoed Esther.

"Yes, she's gone," repeated Transom, drawing a long breath. "She's left her home. She never slept last night."

Esther stood perfectly still, her face set, her eyes resting on Transom's gloomily.

"Why has she gone?" she asked.

Transom shook his head.

"I don't know, miss. She've been strange and queer lately, and unhappy in her mind like, but I never thought she'd go and leave me sudden—leave her home where she was born."

Esther was silent for a moment.

"Do you not know why she has gone, has she left you no message?"

Transom took a piece of paper from his pocket.

"Only this, miss," he said "I found it on the kitchen table when I came down this morning."

He held out the paper to Esther and she took it and read it. There were only a few lines, written in the plain, stiff hand which Kate had acquired at the board school, and they ran thus:

"Dear Father—I cannot stay at home any longer, and so I'm going. I'm going to London to look for a situation. I will write and let you know when I get one. Don't be anxious about me. I must go, I can't help it; and don't try to find me, for nothing would induce me to come back to Vancourt. Your loving daughter, Kate."

Esther read the note over twice before she raised her eyes; then as she gave it back to Transom, she said:—

"I am very sorry she has seemed to have been very unhappy, judging by what she had written. Do you know why?"

Transom shook his head again.

"No, I don't, miss," he replied. "Until lately Kate was as gay and blithe as the best of 'em. It's only recently that she's been took with them queer ways I didn't take much notice, because girls takes fits of 'em sometimes. I never thought my Kate 'ud leave me—desert me, in this way."

"She may come back," said Esther, gently.

"She may when he's tired of her," said Dick Reeve.

All eyes were turned upon him It was the first time he had spoken, and he uttered the words fiercely and bitterly, as if he were struggling to suppress his smouldering passion. Esther looked from him to Transom enquiringly, and Transom evaded her gaze and cast his eyes down.

"Why don't we tell Miss Vancourt the truth?" said Dick Reeve, hastily. "Perhaps she can help us—perhaps she can tell us where the man's gone."

"What man?" asked Esther, as calmly as she could though a vague fear was rising in her heart.

"He means Mr. Gordon," said Transom, in a low voice.

"Mr. Gordon!"

The color rose in a burning flood to Esther's face, then left it very pale.

"Yes, miss," said Transom. "He left the night before he left quite suddenly like, saying nothing to nobody that he meant to go, and leaving no word behind him."

"But why should you think that your daughter's disappearance is connected with Mr. Gordon's departure from Vancourt?" asked Esther Transom bit his lip, and Dick Reeve's eyelid sardonically.

"Well, it's this way, miss," said Transom. "When I found the letter on the table this morning I was so amazed like that I let out my trouble to my neighbours; and then they told me that Kate and Mr. Gordon had been seen together time out of number, walking in the woods and elsewhere, and that she'd been to his cottage, she was seen near the cottage on the night he left."

"Yes; what was she doing there?" muttered Dick Reeve, between his teeth.

"Why, Giles, miss, has seen them together," said Transom, reluctantly, but with an air of conviction. "He and Marie, your ladyship's maid, met 'em coming out of the woods the other night, and Giles said they was sweethearting; and I remember that night Kate came in looking wild-like and confused."

Esther stood, with outward calm, but with an aching misery at her heart.

"If granting all this," she said, "why should your daughter run away from her? She is a very pretty girl, and has been well taught—"

"She has, miss," murmured Transom, with an emphatic shake of his head. "That makes it all the worse."

"I mean," said Esther, "that—that Mr. Gordon had no reason to be ashamed of an engagement with your daughter, and that, though he was leaving Vancourt for a time, he might have come back and married her."

Dick Reeve gave a short laugh.

"You don't understand, miss," he said, his black eyes glowering at her "He didn't think of marriage—he never intended to marry her. If he did, why didn't he court her openly as—as others have done?" He looked down for a moment, struggling with his passion, which, however, prevailed his utterance. "No; it's like enough that he's married already."

ADAM PICKS HIS EVE

To Live in His Garden; Crowds Visit His Queer Establishment

Salina, Kan., May 19.—An 81-year-old "Adam" has taken a 20-year-old "Eve," and the two will live in the man's "Garden of Eden" near Salina, Kan.

The man is S. F. Dinsmore. The girl is Miss Emilie Brozek, Dinsmore for the last 20 years has been making his home to represent the biblical Garden of Eden. He has placed hundreds of cement animals and reptiles in the garden.

The oddly decorated premises have become famous far and wide, and each year hundreds of tourists go out of their way to see the Dinsmore home.

MOTHER O' MINE

(By Rudyard Kipling)

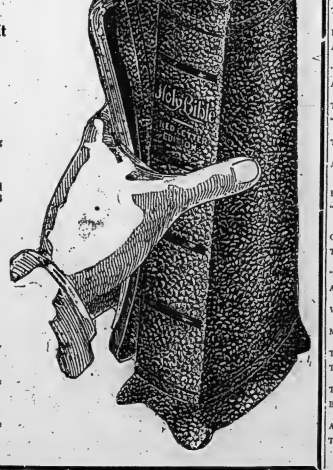

If I were lonesome on the highest hill,
Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!
I know whose love would follow me still,
Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!

If I were drowned in the deepest sea,
Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!
I know whose tears would come down to me,
Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!

If I were damned of body and soul,
I know whose prayers would make me whole,
Mother o' mine, O mother o' mine!

The Book of All Books

The sailor on the boundless main may barely know his letters, but somewhere in his kit you will find a Bible—perhaps with tear-stained inscription written with the trembling hands of old age—from his mother—next to God his best and truest friend! Seek any habitation of men in lands remote and distant—search the rude cabin of the settler—and you will find a Bible—thumbed—worn—ragged, maybe,—but loved and revered as the chiefest treasure of the little family in the clearing!

THE SONGS HIS MOTHER SANG

Beneath the hot midsummer sun
The men had marched all day,
And now beside a rippling stream
Upon the grass they lay.

Tiring of games and idle jests,
As swept the hours along,
They called to one who mused apart,
"Come, friend, give us a song."

He answered: Nay, I cannot, please,
The only songs I know
Are those my mother used to sing
And to each mother's son of us
A mother's songs are dear."

Then sweetly sang the strong clear voice
Amid unwonted calm:
"Am I a soldier of the cross,
A follower of the Lamb?"

The trees hushed all their whispering leaves,
The very stream was stilled,
And hearts that never throbbed with fear,
With tender memories thrilled.

Ended the song, the singer said,
As to his feet he rose;
"Thanks to you all; good night, my friends;
God grant you sweet repose."

Out spoke the captain. "Sing one more"
The soldier bent his head,
Then smiling, as he glanced around,
"You'll join with me," he said.

"Singing that familiar air,
Sweet as a bugle call,
All hail the power of Jesus' name,
Let angels prostrate fall."

Wondrous the spell the old tune wrought!
As on and on he sang,
Man after man fell into line,
And loud their voices rang.

The night wind bore the grand refrain
Above the treetops tall;
The "everlasting hills" called back,
In answer, "Lord of all."

The songs are done, the camp is still,
Naught but the stream is heard;
But, ah! the depths of every soul
By those old hymns are stirred.

And up from many a bearded lip
Rose, in murmurs low,
The prayer the mother taught her boy
At home long years ago.

Chinaman Given Special Honors

His Ho Kom Tong, of Hongkong, prominent banker and philanthropist of the Far East, and the first Chinese citizen to receive the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, received Vouchers on the Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of Australia, on his way to Buckingham Palace, where he has been promised an audience with King George on June 24. He will also visit the British Empire Exhibition and during the summer will visit Rome where he has an appointment with the Holiness the Pope.

During the Great War Mr. Ho gave over $500,000 of his own money to this allied cause, presented an aeroplane to the allies, raised 400 Chinese as pioneers for the defence of Hongkong and raised huge funds for various branches of the work of the Grand Priory, St. John Ambulance service, in which he is particularly interested. It is rumored in the Orient that he is to be knighted for his services.

RELIEF FOR FARMERS MATTER FOR CONGRESS

Washington, May 19.—Agricultural relief legislation will come forward as a leading issue before Congress this week.

The McNary-Haugen Bill creating a $200,000,000 corporation to buy and sell plus farm products at ratio prices and market them abroad, assessing losses back on domestic production, will be taken up in the House on Tuesday under a special rule providing for fifteen hours of general debate. Action on the bill is expected by Saturday.

Passage of the bill by the House is considered probable, but the real result will be close and opponents of the bill believe it may be defeated. If the House passes the bill, action on the measure in the Senate at this session is assured.

Its defeat in the Senate is more likely than in the House, failure to enact the McNary-Haugen Bill probably will mean that no agricultural relief legislation will be passed at this session. Radicals in both houses are dissatisfied with the McNary-Haugen Bill and prefer something more far reaching, while conservatives regard it as much too radical.

CANADA NOW BOASTS HALF MILLION AUTOS

Ottawa, May 19.—The total registration of all classe of motor vehicles in Canada last year was 585,677 according to circular No. 5 of the Highways Branch of the Department of Railways and Canals. The registration included 515,077 passenger automobiles, 64,216 commercial trucks, 1,937 buses, 8,311 motorcycles and in the various provinces 7,483 different dealers and manufacturers were licensed. There was an increase of 13 per cent. in the registration of passenger vehicles in the year 1923 and an increase in commercial vehicles of 18 per cent.

The gross total of all revenues collected in the nine provinces and the Yukon Territory, from registration of motor vehicles, licences, fees etc., amounted to $11,402421.03, and increase of 22 per cent. over 1922. A large increase is noted in the number of automobiles that entered Canada from the United States last year for touring purposes.

"THE EAGLE'S FEATHER"
TRIUMPHS ON SCREEN

"The Eagle's Feather," a Metro picturization, of Katharine Newlin Burt's famous story of the same name which appeared in Cosmopolitan magazine some time ago, is the feature attraction at the Regent Theatre now.

Those who have read the story will remember the thrilling cattle stampede, the great fight between John Trent and his accusers, the delightful banquet scene, the forest fire and many other incidents which made "The Eagle's Feather" one of the outstanding short stories of the year. All of these have been incorporated with surprising fidelity and thrilling realism in the screen version.

A fine cast, headed by James Kirkwood and Marc Allen, serve to make "The Eagle's Feather" a great entertainment. There are Elinor Fair, Lester Cuneo, William Dalamond, John Elliott, Charles McHugh and George Siegmann. "The Eagle's Feather" was adapted by Winnifred Dunn and directed by Edward Sloman.

FAMED LOUISIANA BAYOU ON SCREEN

For three weeks D. W. Griffith filmed strikingly quaint pastoral scenes along the Bayou Teche in Western Louisiana for his newest picture, "The White Rose," a United Artists release now at the Griffith theatre, and then went to Miami, Florida, where he finished the picture. Mr. Griffith lived with him Mae Marsh, Carol Dempster Vee Neville, Neil Hamilton, Lucille La Verne, Porter Strong and other players.

The White Rose is a typical story of the old south and it was with no little difficulty that Mr. Griffith was able to find scenes suited to it. The South has been fairly well converted in the march of progress and for a time it looked as if the foremost difficulty would not be in the picturesque backgrounds he sought. The love of the people of the Teche country to preserve and maintain old traditions in life and architecture was of great benefit to Mr. Griffith who found in Western Louisiana the sort of settings he was in need of. There are to be found homes which have stood unmolested by the touch of modernism for a hundred years. The people have not changed much. In many of the hamlets and towns along the Bayou Teche and where Mr. Griffith erected a range of eighty miles, only French is heard. Little English is spoken in many of these places.

The descendants of the old Acadians who gained an foid from country when driven out of Nova Scotia by the British in 1755 are keen about continuing in the ways of their forefathers and they gain all added inspiration when Longfellow immortalized the Teche land by his "Evangeline" and "Gabriel" pass unseen along that stream. In St. Martinville the people who are distinctly French, even keep in reverence an old cabin festooned with Spanish moss and covered by ramelia blossoms as a relic of the heroine of Longfellow's poem. They even declared that the girl slept beneath this very tree when her lover passed by in the night, out of respect to them Mr. Griffith filmed several episodes with the oak in the background.

For four years past Mrs. Dorothy Wadman has served as artist's model to the well-known illustrator, James Montgomery Flagg, and as such her features have become known to the public from coast to coast. Recent rumors that the marriage was soon to come to an end were given an incontrovertible denial this week when artist and model were married in New York.

ON THE ALLEYS

Domenico's Recreation Alleys

After a most successful winter and spring league the seniors wound up their schedule on Friday night in the same between the Gympics and the Greyhounds the former team spilling the beans again and robbing the Greyhounds out of second position. As the league now stands the Hardware win 1st place and the following four teams are tie for second, Hikers, Wanderers, K. of C. and Bowlers. Dr. Haffner was high three string bowler with 310 Doc also rolled a single score of 305, for the Greyhounds 300 was the high score in league. It seems that this team is always running in just back, every time they roll a high score the opposing team manages to roll a little higher, in the third game the Baby Shoes rolled 913 against the Spark Plugs 901. Orlando with 628 was high man for the winners while Geo. Silver was high for the Baby Shoes.

In the ladies' league the Belmonts hit their winning streak again and won from the Gympics, the latter team playing four bowlers. Miss Barrett and Miss McLellan being the highest bowlers for their respective teams. Scores and scores:

FRUIT FERTILIZERS

Different Fertilizers Required For Fruit and Grain.

Nitrogen More Needed by Fruit Than Potash, Phosphoric Acid or Lime—Humus Important in Orchards—Thin your Fruit and Do It Early.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

In the past fertiliser recommendations for fruits have been based largely on the plant food requirements of field crops, as grains, etc. Recently completed investigations, however, indicate very strongly that we must reconstruct our ideas in many particulars. The food requirements of grains and fruits have been shown to be materially different. Those experiments show:—

Potash (Potassium).—Average fruit soils contain sufficient for fruit crops. Applications therefore are not warranted.

Phosphoric Acid (Phosphorous).—Average fruit soils contain sufficient for the direct needs of fruit crops. However, this may not be sufficient for the needs of green manuring crops. It such are grown phosphoric acid may be a decided increase in growth and thus influence the growth and fruitfulness of the fruit tree.

Lime.—Fruit trees, with few exceptions are acid tolerant, i.e., they will grow quite equally as well and sometimes better in an acid as in a neutral or basic soil, unless the acidity is extreme. Therefore the application of lime merely to correct soil acidity is not warranted. On the other hand, many green manured crops require a "sweet" or limed soil. Lime applications on clover, etc., are often warranted in the increased growth secured, which in turn favorably influences tree growth.

Nitrogen.—A sufficient nitrogen supply is often lacking in our fruit soils. Its application is usually warranted, whether in the form of leguminous green manuring crops, barnyard or commercial fertilizers. There is a place for all three and all three may be used to advantage.

Humus.—Humus (decayed vegetable matter) is the basis of soil fertility. Phosphorus, potassium, nitrogen and lime are all of importance, but without a sufficient humus supply it will be impossible to maintain the humus supply with barnyard manure, or green crops plowed down, or both.

Our fertilizer recommendation for fruits is—no potash; phosphoric acid and lime only where green manuring is needed, and if such crops show benefit from applications; nitrogen and humus in the form of barnyard manure and legume crops; nitrogen also in a quickly available form as in nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia in early spring before growth starts.—E. F. Palmer, Hort. Exp. Station, Vineland Station.

THINNING FRUIT.

Prevents Irregularity of Bearing—Experience in Thinning Plums—Hints for Thinning Peaches.

Unhealthy production of fruit occurs frequently on nearly all kinds of tree fruits. In some years certain varieties of fruits will yield a very heavy crop while in the following year little or no fruit is produced. This irregularity of bearing is undesirable, because it adversely affects both the market and the vitality of the trees. After the 1923 crop the vitality of some plum trees was so low that they were seriously injured, and in some cases killed outright, by the severe winter following.

Some of the factors that affect the setting of fruit, such as moisture and temperature conditions, are beyond the control of the orchardist, but cultural practices such as tillage, pruning, spraying, fertilizers and thinning can be used at least to partly regulate the fruiting habit of the tree.

Experimental work with plums done at this station shows definitely that thinning is a valuable factor in getting annual crops and also secures a beneficial effect on the health and vigor of the trees. When thinning was done during 1923, there was a good crop, but the fruit which made a heavy set of fruit in 1923 and where no thinning was done there was very little fruit on the trees. Thinning plums perhaps did not pay in 1923, because all the fruit which fruit graded as select, and unthinned fruit graded only as number one. Market conditions were too poor, and there were too many poor grade plums. However, there was the effect on the trees for 1924 and on the following year's crop which was much larger than it would have been as previously noted. Thinning should be done shortly after June first.

In the case of peaches, the work should be done when the fruit is quite small, before the pits harden. This sufficiently to prevent individual fruits from touching when fully matured. Generally four to five inches apart is about right for peaches.—E. F. Palmer, Hort. Exp. Station, Vineland Station.

Grinding the grain saves the energy and work of the cow. What is the use of feeding a cow a lot of grain and then have her spend a large portion of her energy in grinding it herself? Take this load off the cow and let her reserve her energy for putting the feed into the milk pail.

The usual provision is to allow three to four feet of glass per cow. The more light the better, especially if the windows are provided with double panes to provide for warmth.

Faith in your fellow producers and faith in your leaders is the cornerstone of your co-operative marketing structure.

An account book helps locate the no-account cows and crops.

MIXED MEANINGS

The Guest—Really, Mrs. Smythe, I'm almost ashamed to come, it's so shockingly late.

The Hostess—Not at all, Miss Browne, you could never come too late.—London Opinion.

RITCHIE'S

67 Years Old Today

This is our birthday. It is just sixty-seven years ago to-day since the doors of the Ritchie Store, then known as Geo. Ritchie & Co. first opened to the public.

We reproduce below an exact copy of the advertisement that appeared in both The Intelligencer and The Ontario, on May 4th, 1857, announcing the proposed opening of the new business on May 19th of May. On that May morning so many years ago the firm began business in a small way, and from that day to this all down through these many years, the firm has continued to serve the people of this district in such a manner as to steadily grow in favor, and to be able to rank as one of the largest retail businesses in Ontario.

The first store was just north of the grocery on the corner of Front Street and Victoria Avenue, the upper part of the building being occupied as a dwelling by the proprietors. Later the business moved across the street to the store now occupied by Wm. McIntosh, and forty years ago last summer the present premises were secured. Since then many additions and alterations have been made until the present splendidly equipped plant has been attained.

At that time the principles on which the business was founded sounded very radical "Business conducted on strictly cash principles" and "all goods marked in plain figures with no abatement in prices," but these principles have been adhered to all through the years, and have proven to be the proper principles of business. To-day nearly all progressive firms conduct business along these lines.

The firm are naturally proud of their long and successful career and purpose pursuing the policy of offering only reliable and worthy makes of goods which carry their guarantee of being exactly as represented, with the utmost courtesy and service to all. These principles are the real reason for our sixty-seven years of successful merchandising.

GEORGE RITCHIE & CO.

WOULD respectfully intimate that they have leased those premises formerly occupied by Alexander Judd, joining the Victoria Buildings which they will

DISCUSS TARIFF REDUCTIONS

Manufacturers From All Parts of Canada to Convene in Montreal This June.

Montreal, May 18.—The serious trade conditions resulting chiefly from the five reductions in the Canadian Customs Tariff since 1919, will be the chief item for discussion at the Annual General Meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, which will be held in Montreal, June 3rd, 4th and 5th.

A special invitation has been issued to the 4,000 members of the Association, asking them to make every effort to be present, and requesting them to bring full information in regard to the effect of tariff reduction on their industries.

Returns received up to date indicate that manufacturers from all the Provinces of Canada will attend this great meeting in Montreal, to discuss the future of Canada's industrial system.

PUMPING HOUSE CONTRACT GOES TO PATTERSON

Company Tendered $12,639 For Erection of New Building

MANY PETITIONS MADE

Hospital Men are Named; U.E.L. Money Handed Over

The recommendation that the tender of the Patterson Construction Company of $12,639 for the building at the pumping station was accepted at the regular meeting of the city council last night.

Members present were Mayor Mikel, Aldermen Foster, A. H. Ketchabaw, Greenleaf, A. Robinson, Graham, Gardepie, La Roche, Trevorton, McCreary.

Reports of committees, communications etc., were on motion laid upon the table and the petitions and then committee of the whole, Ald Foster in the chair.

Wants A Drain

Mr. S. Hibbard wanted the council relative to having a large tile placed in the ditch on Catherine street, as the sewer is constructed and there is no storm sewer. The water backs up when it is properly and not in use.

City Engineer Campbell stated that water came from an open ditch and the water could not get a proper outlet. Two catch basins put in west of Sinclair street would relieve the situation.

Mr. Glen Thompson stated he had trouble this spring with water in his cellar. There is a sewer and but no drain for cellars.

The matter was referred to the chairman of Public Works and City Engineer to report upon.

Mr. Alex Moore thanked the council for their operation of kindness in regards him in donating the house "Tip" for Miss Bailey to ride to Washington as a courier.

E. L. Cadwallader.

A motion prevailed that the City Treasurer be authorized to advance $500 to Mr. E. L. Cadwallader, committee, being the second instalment of $900 of the $1,000 voted by the council to assist in the celebration.

Ald. McCreary moved seconded by Ald Trevorton:

Against Hospital Board

"That this council endorse the proposed amendment to place management of the Belleville General Hospital under the control of a board of

FOUND IN GARAGE DEAD SOME HOURS

Sad Suicide of William Lindstrom Discovered by Wife This Morning

Leaving his home at 113 Chatham street between 11 and 11.30 yesterday, in working clothes and carrying his dinner bucket, Herbert William Lindstrom, 45, told his wife that he was going to work at the C.N.R. Shops where he is actively employed.

At 11.40 today Mrs. Lindstrom found him lying in the corner of the garage on his back, with his knees up. He was rigid and dead. Having fastened himself with a small clothesline no thicker than a heavy cord, in a single strand, except where it was tied to the cross beam at the top of the garage, where it was doubled once. The line was pulled apart with the heavy weight as one piece was found about the beam and the other piece had cut deeply into the neck where the body was found.

Mrs. Lindstrom, horrified, called the police. Police Sergeant Dan Beals rushed to the scene with the car and immediately he viewed the circumstances, phoned for Coroner Dr. W. W. Boyce. After investigating the circumstances, it was decided that an inquest was unnecessary. The body was removed to Tickell & Son Co. mortuary.

Lindstrom who is a big man, over six feet tall, was formerly a section foreman for the C.N.R. but since last autumn was employed in the round house, his duties being to switch the engines on the round house and turn over the lead tracks. His shift was to have been at midnight, and he would be through work at 8 this morning. He prepared for work as usual.

Switched Suits

Today it had developed that he had cashed his superannuation however, and had arranged to switch shifts with another employee apparently so that the C.N.R. officials did not miss him.

When he did not return home at 8 this morning his wife was not worried as he sometimes remains for Field Aid work, he being a member of Company's First Aid instructors. When he had not returned at 11. Mrs. Lindstrom became alarmed.

Mrs. Lindstrom stated that her husband had been brooding for some two days, but what the cause was she does not know. Two small daughters survive.

Lindstrom was prominent in the I.O.O.F. Society, being a Past Grand of Maple Leaf No. 127, Senior Warden of Moira Encampment No. 58 and P.D. Chief of the 3rd Battalion, Canadian district of the Patriarchal Militants. He was also an officer of Canton, Belleville No. 34, and a member of Moira Lodge A. F. & A. M.

BOBBED HAIR BANDITS

For some weeks the bobbed hair bandits of New York City were the only ones figuring in the news of the day. Recently bobbed hair bandits have appeared in other cities. Last week a 18-year-old girl attempted to hold up a grocery store in Pittsburg. Publicity appears to be multiplying this sort of law-breaker.

Naturally the question has arisen why young women and girls should develop the inclination to violate law in this direction. Discussion of the matter has engaged criminologists as well as police. The former are inclined to the opinion that inclination is the natural result of the latitude and freedom characteristic of this country, freedom which has permitted girls to do pretty much as they please. There is cited the recent report of surveys by a federal bureau which contained the statement that it was now necessary to take care of the girls if we would save the boys.

However, the fact still remains that the percentage of girl violators of law is less than that of boy violators. Still, there is not very much satisfaction in this as statistics of correctional and other institutions for girls show that they contain almost as many inmates as those for boys. If these figures argue anything they argue immediately greater care of girls, especially those whose environment subjects them to temptations.

CONSULT ALL LEADERS

In discussing the lack of business leadership, as compared with political leadership in Canada, one of the country's outstanding industrial leaders, in writing to the editor of the Financial Post says:

"In England for many years it has been the practice of public men, even the prime minister himself, to confer with men of any political leanings on matters of national importance. This has resulted in successive prime ministers receiving the advice of the best business and technical men in Great Britain. It would be a great advantage if some similar system were introduced here, because, as you know, the tendency in Canada is to seek only advice from political advisers and not from those who are actively engaged in dealing with the commercial problems of the country."

Canada has had premiers who have sought the advice of the country's real leaders. Sir John MacDonald generally regarded as Canada's greatest statesman, was one of these. Not only did he consult business leaders in regard to public appointments but he sought the advice of distinguished members of the bar in making his selections to fill vacancies on the Bench and it is said that in his whole career he appointed only one judge who could not be regarded as being of the very highest type. Sir Wilfrid Laurier followed the example of Sir John to a large extent but Sir Robert Borden, Mr. Meighen and Mr. King, men of the more intellectual type and idealistic temperament, have been inclined to pay more attention to politicians with their noisy followings than to men of real leadership and accomplishment, in law, in labor, in agriculture as well as in finance trade and industry.—Financial Post.

PRESS OPINIONS

PUBLIC HOLIDAYS
(Peterborough Examiner)

With the approach of Victoria Day the usual question arises as to whether that Peterborough as a community is lacking a sufficiency of fun to prepare it stage a public celebration—indeed even the ambition to attempt such a thing is said to be absent.

Unfortunately, the indictment is well founded.

Our public holidays go by unmarked by anything in the way of a community demonstration.

Everybody who can think of a place to go on a holiday and who can obtain the means to get there flees from Peterborough as if the city were stricken with a plague.

Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Civic Holiday and Labour Day, the four summer holidays, are practically all for the great exodus from the city.

While other centres not only can who to properly observe these days at find time to stage special events as well—witness Lindsay's old home week and Belleville's United Empire Loyalists celebration—Peterborough's summer season passes without a single demonstration, to speak proud, or boom as a holiday, and by way of a change to bring other folks here.

For variety's sake, if nothing else, the Examiner believes that a big community celebration on one of the holidays of the summer months would be welcomed by the majority of the citizens who are tired of seeing these occasions pass as quietly as a Sabbath dropping into the ocean.

It is time Peterborough tried something to break loose from the dully routine and to unite in a frolic that contains something of interest for everybody.

NO MARGIN OF SAFETY.
(Chicago Herald and Examiner)

Here is an item of bad financial practice that unfortunately is not uncommon. It concerns the case of a man who borrowed on his life insurance to buy stocks on a margin. To borrow on life insurance for any purpose is a mighty unwise thing.

Insurance is not meant as investment for profit. It is meant as investment for protection. A man should not borrow on it except in an emergency against which protection is absolutely necessary. Borrowing for speculation is practically to put up the future interests of wife and children at auction. There is no excuse for it and no margin of safety.

ALIENS AND WHISKEY
(Toronto Globe)

There appears to be more vigilance exercised against the smuggling of aliens into the United States than the smuggling of bootleg whiskey. Of the two, the alien, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, is a scarcely less dangerous to good government.

WATER AND BLOOD PRESSURE

It would seem that we are hearing more about blood pressure these days than about tuberculosis.

It may be due to the fact that the latter can now be cured if discovered in time. But on every hand you hear of this or that one, who has to live so carefully because he has high blood pressure.

It would be unwise for me to belittle the importance and danger of high blood pressure. The dangers are but too real. But you may have a blood pressure, somewhat higher than that permitted by the insurance company, and yet be in no danger therefrom.

As I said in a former article, the high pressure may be due to some temporary disturbance such as a slight chill in the system from the teeth, nose, tonsils, or intestines, or perhaps from some emotional disturbance or excitement.

Another cause, this, is not always remembered is that there may be a little more fluid—blood—in the vessels and thus just a little more tension or pressure—on that account.

For instance, a patient being examined by his physician registered some twenty points higher than normal for his age, and at least ten points higher than that permitted by the insurance companies.

He expected to be perfectly healthy and left well in every way.

The physician asked him to come at a different hour the next day.

The second record showed exactly the same.

He returned at a different hour two days later, and the pressure was the same. The physician by questioning found that he had a severe headache. In addition to water and tea he was consuming about three quarts of water during the twenty four hours.

He was instructed to cut down his liquid intake by one-half for a period of ten days. At the end of this time his pressure was down to normal.

He said he felt just as well, but he had quite a few more water than a long established habit.

He was instructed to go back to it again, and in two weeks his pressure was up again to its original point.

Was he advised to cut it down again? Not by any means.

Water is a splendid thing, even when the pressure is high, because by the loose use of liquids material that would become deposited on the walls of the blood vessels, hardens them, and causes real high blood pressure.

FINED FOR GILL-NETTING

Peterboro, May 20—A worthy farmer owning 300 acres of good land at Hiawatha, nine miles down the Otonabee River from Peterborough, has been fined $25 for gill-netting bass, pickerel and pike in the Otonabee. Thereupon Game and Fish Inspector, Mellroy, has fined him $100 more and as many "bones" in fines as they find in the fish they illegally capture.

Chris Goes to Court
—By W. H. G.—

People around the southern part of Akron County used to refer to Chris Mansfield as "a likeable chap".

"He does farm peculiar," Cy Yorkins said, once. "His sure is a hick-brow of some kind, but he's not a bit uppish. He's a fellow you like to hear talk."

As a matter of fact, Chris was about thirty-five years of age, who dropped in on the district three years before to take up farming on the old Brown place. Not much of his past was known, and speculation was based on the fact that he had a "charming wife" two beautiful children, and an "uncommon" number of books.

But whoever he had been before, the newcomer made himself right at home in the community, in the church, at the dances, garden parties and other social gatherings. He was the life of the party. He never quarrelled, never argued. His list of friends grew every day. He had no enemies.

You can imagine then, the sensation in Akron, when it became known that Chris Mansfield and Aaron Brown, his neighbor, were at loggerheads.

People could not understand it. Chris was deliberately allowing his cattle to wander into Brown's field of mangels.

And when Brown complained, Chris insulted at him—laughed in his face.

Well, events took a natural course, and Brown laid an information against him in the police court at Martinville.

Contrary to all expectations, the case was disappointing. The local Justice of the Peace had an unusual grasp of the law. On evidence presented by Chris, he could do nothing else but refuse conviction.

On the day following the court case, Chris went over to Brown's house. The reception given him was extremely cold.

"Say, Brown," he said. "How much was that field of mangels worth to you?"

Brown looked at his neighbor warily. After a moment's consideration, he said:

"Maybe $150.00?"

Chris drew a cheque book from his pocket, and laid it on the verandah floor. Pulling a pen from his pocket, he sat down and wrote. Tearing the cheque out, he handed it to Brown, in bold handwriting it said, "Pay to Aaron Brown, three hundred dollars."

"Keep a secret, Brown?" he asked. His neighbor nodded.

"Well I was a lawyer once—pretty darn good one at that. My health broke down, and I had to get into the country. For three years I've been hankering to get back into court. This new business—it was just a trick of mine. Are we friends again?"

"Say Chris," answered his neighbor, "you can pull that trick every year if you like."

SERVANT GIRL WANTED GANG

Lost Her Job in Toronto and Sought Easy Money

WAS BARNARDO GIRL

Sentenced to Six Months and May Be Deported

Wild dreams of a bandit life seem to have completely turned the head of Molly Pennington, young, bobbed-haired, 19a Bismarck girl, who was brought to Canada eight years ago, and has recently been employed as a domestic servant.

Fearing a disturbance when they wished to dismiss her, her employers sent for Constable Beaumanoire, who took her in custody with a letter to a male associate with whom she elected to go, but had not had a chance to post. In which she outlined a plan for being a bold, bad bandit, and asks for a revolver and a gang.

Appearing in the County Police Court on a charge of vagrancy, she admitted that she had started "living" in the footsteps of the "Eternal Magdalene" about a year ago. She was sentenced six months by Magistrate Johnston, who said that, if possible, attempts would be made to deport her.

The letter

"Hello Kid.—I suppose that you will be sorry to hear that I am out of work, and money also, but if I don't soon get work I will go mad. Come on a fellow and get a gang and go and break into the jewelry stores and banks, and live on that.

"Could you tell me where I could get a gang to go out? We would get rich and have a —— of a time.

"Would you like a fellow to come so we could get up a gang. We could go up to Lake Simcoe, get out there, though, because this town is not lively enough to suit me.

"Answer me soon, or I will be mad at you, honey kid".

"Molly Pennington."

STOMACH TROUBLE VANISHES AND MONTREAL MAN GAINS 14 LBS. ON 4 BOTTLES

"Since I began taking this wonderful Tanlac I seem to be getting younger every day, I have gained 14 lbs., on four bottles and everybody speaks about how well I look."

The above statement was made recently by Eugene Lepage, proprietor Prince of Wales Hotel barber shop, Montreal, Canada, one of the most expensive tonsorial parlors in this city. Mr. Lepage further said:

"Stomach trouble had almost completely wrecked my health. I was a mere shadow of my former self and so rundown and nervous I thought I would have to give up my work.

"Tanlac soon had me eating everything, sleeping like a log at night and feeling as fine as one could ask to feel. My only regret is that I did not learn about Tanlac long before I did."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 Million bottles sold.

LIQUOR TALE AMUSES FEW BRITISH MEMBERS

London, May 20.—Amusement rather than indignation has been created among members of Parliament at statements made at the National Commercial Temperance Union convention at Leicester concerning alleged excessive drinking in the House of Commons.

A resolution urging the same restrictions on drinking in the House of Commons as elsewhere, was referred to a special committee.

Sobered in History

There is some talk of bringing the statement to the notice of the Speaker, with a request that the offenders be called before the bar of the House to answer for their assertion, but it is said to be unlikely that any member of the House will give the Leicester gathering this additional publicity.

One veteran member of the House declares the present House as the soberest in the history of the British Parliament. Drinking, he says, has declined steadily at Westminster as elsewhere in the last thirty years.

Nearly twenty years ago, when Labor members were first returned in any considerable numbers, they made a dramatic and spontaneous gesture for temperance by pledging themselves collectively to partake of no stimulants while engaged in parliamentary work.

Although this gesture has not since been repeated, it is understood to be a fact that the majority of the Labor members are complete abstainers. No reliable figures are available concerning the attitude of the whole house towards abstinence, but probably 50 per cent. would be ready to forswear.

The amount of excisable liquor consumed within the precincts is no criterion either, as much of its goes down the throats of thousands of constituents and others who wait on members at the House and are moderately entertained.

"Drys" Most Violent

The bars of the House are closed a certain portion of the day, but remain open an hour an a half after the House rises.

Commander Kenworthy (Liberal) declares that some of the most violent speeches proceed from "fanatical teetotalers. He mentions by title as an example E. Serymgeour, the Prohibitionist member for Dundee.

"Say, Bill," said Oklahoma Joe, "I've noticed that when one of those injuns gets him an automobile he wants to take it apart and fix it different. Why, heaven?"

"Oh," replied Bill carelessly, "I suppose it's natural. He just wants to show his injunuity."

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. ELIZABETH J. CAMPBELL

Mrs. Elizabeth Jane Campbell, wife of Mr. Hugh Campbell passed away last evening at the family residence, 283 Albert street, city. An attack of pneumonia was the cause of death, her illness being of short duration. In 1867 deceased was born in Thurlow Township being a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Michael Atkins. All her life was spent in this locality, the past 35 years in Belleville. She was a member of the Tabernacle Methodist Church and a lady much respected by all who knew her. Her husband survives also two brothers, H. R. Atkins, of Thurlow, and G. G., of Calgary, and two sisters, Mrs Mary Rogers of Winnipeg, and Mrs. C. G. Bookhout, of Port Colborne.

MRS. S. CURRY

Many relatives and friends were yesterday afternoon in attendance at the obsequies of the late Mrs. Samuel Curry. At the family residence, 44 Victoria Avenue, Rev. D. C. Ramsay, Pastor of John Street Presbyterian Church conducted a service and officiated at the interment at Belleville cemetery. The many beautiful floral tributes were evidence of sympathy. Bearers were Messrs. A. Tom Ketchum, H. F. Ketcheson, W. H. Nugent, G. Corrigan, Jas. Montgomery and Abd. S. F. Treverton.

MRS. Wm. MITCHELL

The body of the late Mrs. William Mitchell were yesterday consigned to the tomb of Belleville cemetery. At the residence of Mrs. Keegan, 28 Dundas street a sister of the deceased, a service was held conducted by Rev. D. C. Ramsay of John Street Church. Bearers were Wm. Lynch, Wm. Mottee, Fred Pulker, C. Keegan, D. Gleun and W. Belsey.

LATE EARNEST WOOF

Mr. Earnest Woof, born at Belleville 35 years ago, spending many of his childhood days in Belleville and a frequent visitor to this the city of his birth, dropped dead at Syracuse, New York, on Saturday last. Earnest was a general favorite with his associates. He usually came home for Old Boys' Reunion and at frequent intervals. Mr. Woof was proprietor of Hotel Howard, Syracuse, N.Y., a young man of outstanding ability and a splendid personality who should make for him a wonderful business following. He was unmarried. He served overseas with the American army during the full time of American connection in the Great War. His mother, Annie Osborne Woof and his father, Nelson Howard Woof left Belleville locating in Syracuse some thirty years ago. They both are left to mourn the departure of a loving son, as also one surviving sister, Mrs. Helen Heaney of Syracuse. The late Mr. Woof is nephew of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Scantlebury of this city.

Delicious Mayonnaise Without Eggs

THE mayonnaise makes the salad—and Carnation makes the mayonnaise — without eggs — the smoothest, creamiest, most delicious dressing you ever tasted. So easy to make—so economical too. Try it—the recipe is given below. And write for the free Carnation Recipe Book.

Carnation is just pure milk, evaporated to double richness, kept safe by sterilization. It is sold by your grocer in tall (16 oz.) cans and in cases of 48 cans.

NO-EGG CARNATION COOKED SALAD DRESSING: 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon mustard, 2 tablespoons butter or substitute, 1 tablespoon sugar, ¾ cup water, 3 tablespoons vinegar, ¼ cup Carnation Milk. Mix dry ingredients and add to melted butter or substitute. Add milk diluted with water and cook in double boiler until it thickens. Add vinegar slowly, then cool. This recipe makes ¾ cup salad dressing.

Ald. Robinson moved, seconded by Ald. Greenleaf that the proper Provincial authorities be requested to furnish this council with maps and levels of the lakes in the northern part of the County which feed the Moira and other rivers flowing into the Bay of Quinte, and that in receipt of same, a small committee be appointed to investigate the alleged diversion of the waters of such lakes leading the same to run towards the Ottawa river instead of to their natural outlet.

It was moved by Ald. Robinson and seconded by Ald. Graham, that the motion making a grant to the Angus Keefer Company at the last meeting of this Council be rescinded. Carried.

LIQUOR HAUL AT SARNIA

Sarnia, Ont., May 20.—Excise officers and provincial police Saturday swooped down on one of the four beer export scows operated at Corunna and took charge of all the liquor therein.

It is understood that the officers seized the scow on a charge that whiskey was disposed therefrom. It is the first seizure made under the amendment to the excise export regulations last fall.

MAY

Here's May in the world,
With her petals of pink
And her scents just as bright
As a baby's first wink,
And the trees newly gowned
In the loveliest green,
And young life where the scars
Of old winter have been!

Here's May once again!
With her orchards in bloom,
Like a bride at the altar
Arrayed for the groom;
There's a warmth in her hair,
And her bridal bouquet
Scatters beauty afar
As she flings it away.

Here's May with her youth,
Just as lovely to see
As when first the world looked
On the gree nof the tree.
Man runs his brief race,
Then his story is told
And the grave takes him in,
But May never grows old.

Here's May! The same May
Which thrilled men of the past.
As she was long ago,
She shall be to the last,
And though over the world
Countless ages have relied,
May has smiled at the mall
And never grown old.

BRITISH OPTIMISTIC OVER POUND STIRLING

London, May 20.—The effect of the German elections has had a very disquieting influence in political circles. The German Socialists, who are represented to the acceptance of the Experts' Reparations Report, have lost considerable ground while the Nationalists, who have committed themselves to the rejection of the Report, have made solid gains, and it now appears as if they would be the deciding factor when the new Reichstag meets to discuss the Reports France is pessimistic as to the result; but, of course, time is on the side of reason. There is bound to be a great re-shuffling of parties in Germany, and in view of the utter financial ruin which faces Germany should the reports be rejected, hopes are entertained that, although stubborn obstruction may be offered to them in detail, they will be ultimately swallowed as a whole. Curiously enough financial circles in London refuse to be so perturbed as political. So far the situation has had no effect upon markets, although a check is observable on the recent upward movement in Continental securities. The "City" refuses to take an immediate pessimistic view and trusts that the huge financial interests in Germany will save the the ultimate satisfactory settlement of the reparations question.

Effect on Pound Sterling

Recent happenings in the financial world all round have had a great effect on the pound sterling, and British financiers are now optimistically talking of the not far distant day when it will be restored to its pre-war parity. Sir Felix Schuster, one of our leading bankers, has just told us that at a not very distant date there is a likelihood of our return to a free gold market. We have now a stock of gold in the Bank of England of 153 millions, against a note circulation of 437 millions, made up of 146 millions of Bank of England notes and 291 millions of British Government Currency notes in July 1914 the reserve of gold in the Bank of England was only 33½ millions. Sir Felix Schuster now suggests that our whole currency issue should be transferred to the Bank of England and that, by remove all suspicion of a government managed currency. The aim is to restore the free flow of gold so that European capital may come back from America and American capital find useful employment in Europe.

Family of Fifteen Arrive In Brighton

Father Says He Intends to Go Farming; Served in Great War

Quebec, May 20.—Mr and Mrs. Robert Blyth, both aged 44 years, accompanied by their 13 children, whose ages range from 24 to 3 years, were among the three-class passengers who disembarked from the Canadian Pacific steamer "Mardona" from Glasgow.

Mr. Blyth, who along with several of his sons, one of whom was killed, saw service at the front during the world war, has acted for some time as secretary of the Colwood Post of the British Legion. The esteem in which the Blyth family was held in their native village of Hamburrock was shown when on learning of their intended departure for Canada, several leading citizens of Colwood organized a farewell party and presented Mr. Blyth with several addresses and a purse of £20 in treasury notes.

Asked what he intended doing in this country, Mr. Blyth said he had every hope that in following up his old occupation of farming here he would experience no difficulty in providing the 45 meals a day required by his healthy family. They are taking advantage of the Ontario Government's settlement scheme and were informed by Mr. Jones, the local port agent for Gore-Fenwood, that a fine farm at Brighton, Ont., which, he said was located in the best farming section of the province awaiting them.

FIELDS ARE COVERED BY WATER AT GILEAD

Gilead, May 20.—Farmers in this section are alarmed at the continued rainy weathers. Large sections of land are covered with water and successive rain is delaying the time when seeding on any large scale can be carried out. On only the comparatively high sections of land have any operations yet been begun.

There was a small attendance at Gilead Church on Sunday owing to the inclemency of the weather.

Mr. and Mrs James Hutchinson visited friends at Myer Hall on Sunday evening.

Mr. George Wightman, of Regina, Sask., and Mr Don Hill, of Latta, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Yorke.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Hutchinson were Sunday evening visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yorke.

CENTRAL ONTARIO OPENER POSTPONED; WILL LIKELY PLAY ON HOLIDAY

Diamond Is Yet Sea of Heavy Mud Needs Good Weather All Week

Yes, we will have no ball game tomorrow.

It is almost impossible to walk across the ball park to-day without the aid of rubber boots, despite the co-operation of wind and weather generally all day Monday and to-day. There is a heavy surface of mud, and the combined efforts of wind and sun will be necessary all week if the field is to be fit for the big Victoria Day celebration here on Monday next, May 24th.

Secretary Newton Thompson, of the Grand Trunk baseball club was unable to give definite information this morning as to when the game will be scheduled, but it is believed that it will be played here on May 26th. President M. F. Duff will get in touch with Manager Jake Solomon of the Peterboro team to-day, as Peterboro will have to give their consent to the Victoria Day idea. If they are willing to play that day, the game will in all probability be played.

Just as soon as the date is publicly announced, the names of the officials who will assist in the formal opening of the league and the flag raising, will be announced also.

President Duff Is To Hoist Flag at Oshawa

Oshawa, May 20.—C. M. Anderson and his executive of the Oshawa Amateur Baseball Association, along with the local Parks' Commissioners, are arranging for a big double-opener on the holiday, May 24th. The new grand stand which is in the last stage of completion, will be handed over to the fans by the middle of next week and the official opening by Mayor W. J. Trick and Dr. F. L. Henry, chairman of the Parks' Commission, officiating, will take place prior to the opening of the Central Ontario Baseball League season, with the members of the City Council, Park Commission, Amateur Athletic Association, officials of the Central Ontario Baseball League and representatives of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association occupying boxes in front of the new grandstand immediately after the official opening of the new arena accommodation. M. F. Duff, of Belleville, President of the Central Ontario League, and President C. M. Anderson, of the local club, will raise the Union Jack to the top of the flag pole At the opening of the league baseball game between Belleville and Oshawa, Lawson O. Clifton, M.P., will pitch the first ball, with Dr. T. E. Kaiser wielding the willow in an endeavor to swat the ball, while W. E. N. Sinclair, M.P.P., will wear the big mitt and mask behind the plate, with Frank Hallman and Walter Thorne, of Toronto, as the official umps.

WILLIAMS RUMOR

Lindsay Post: The ship which sailed away early in the spring, bearing Jack Williams, a southpaw pitcher of the Grand Trunk ball team, to fields afar, has apparently struck a reef and gone down with all hands on board, if reports, which are current about the city to-day, are true.

Rochester having no place for him shipped him to Pittsfield, N.Y., and after pitching a part of the game was sent back "not required." He then was sold outright to Binghampton, N.Y. There he was tested, under fire and they passed him up, and reports are he is home in Verona.

When a player is made from amateur to professional, a player must sell for $75 per cent. stronger than the league he is playing in. Jack has a wonderful curve ball and a real arm, but was sadly lacking in speed on the fast one. He was a little faster than the ball players in Central Ontario League, and not quite fast enough for the class played where he was.

A letter has also been received in town from Ken Colling, in which he states that he is getting on fine. Next Monday he goes to Binghampton for the week.

BABE HAS NINE NOW

Chicago, May 20.—Babe Ruth of the New York American's assimilated his home run supremacy in the two major leagues last week by cracking out two four-baggers, giving him a total of nine. Fournier of the Brooklyn Nationals has been tied with eight. Next to Ruth in the American League was Hauser of Philadelphia, with six circuit clouts. Fournier made the most homers during the week, cracking out two on Thursday and one on Saturday.

Weighed down by his new "stingless glove," Nick Altrock, Washington baseball clown, is challenging the opposing team to "let 'em come." He guarantees to gather anything that hits the diamond.

ON THE ALLEYS

The Strollers lady bowling team rolled one of their best scores to date, but they hit the Debutantes at the wrong time and lost out by 67 pins, both teams rolling over 2900. Mrs. Macklin with 551 was high for the win ners while Miss Mullins was high for the Strollers with 507.

The Natural Trend lost a hard game to the Marsh's team by 23 pins after leading them for the first two games. Marsh, a game back strong in the last game rolling 590 against the Natural Trend's 792. Pat Correll and Hole were the highest bowlers for their respective teams.

In a postponed game the C.I.A. set out to do what they said right along they would do and that was to trim the Junior Knights. It was a great game all the way through featured with some good and some poor bowling. The C.I.A. got a lead on the Knights of 31 pins in the first game but dropped 56 in the second or giving them a lead of 6 pins in the first two games, Hinch Barrett had his eye right on in the third the C.I.A., added 39 more to them and rolled 625 for his three strings. For the winners Jim Berry was high with 591. Players and scores.

WILSON'S "The National Smoke"
BACHELOR
Still the most for the money.

ANDREW WILSON & CO. TORONTO MONTREAL

NO BALL AT ALL

At 2.30 this afternoon word reached this city that the Peterboro baseball team would be unable to appear here for the postponed opening baseball game. This means no game tomorrow and no game Monday, as other arrangements as to when the game will be played, have been made as yet. And all blame lays at the feet of the Weathermen.

At 3 this afternoon, President Duff of the C.O.B.L. stated that arrangements had been made for an exhibition game here with Kingston on Monday. When informed by The Intelligencer that no proclamation of a public holiday for Monday would be made by Major Mikel, President Duff stated that that would probably knock the exhibition game proposition in the head.

A New Excuse

"My grandmother and my mother ain't."

Jenkins, an office boy in a city office, approached his boss one morning last week. "If you please, sir—"

"Well, Jenkins?"

"My grandmother, sir, is very ill."

"Ha, your grandmother. Go on Jenkins!"

"What! And your mother, too? Both very ill, eh?"

"No, sir, my grandmother and my mother are going to the football match after dinner and they want me to stay at home and mind my little brother."

CROW SHOOTING

Kingston, May 20.—Mr. Joseph Theobald's crusade against crows and blackbirds in the City Park appears to meet successfully and as a result of the early morning shooting already twenty-five or thirty crows have been laid low, as well as numerous black birds. Excellent as has been his luck in this condition, Mr. Theobald hopes to have better luck later on, as the young crows are hatched out. He has associated with him American aids a reed instrument that imitates in amazing style the call and the cry of the crow and hence it is that he believes that when the young are hatched and are out the imitation cry and call he will attract many crows.

In this connection, Mr. Theobald has kindly furnished The Standard with a copy of a treatise "Indictment of the Crow" issued by E. I. DuPoint De Nemours Co., Wilmington, Delaware, in which it is pointed out that the crow is a rascal in every sense of the word, and its character is given in the aggregate as enormous. In the olden days on the eastern shore of Virginia during 1923 it was found that only a few crows, comparatively had destroyed more than 3,000 eggs of game birds. It has been estimated millions of them—rats eleven of the eggs and young of small birds, in a year. Indeed, naturalists say that for every game bird shot in season, there will be at least ten killed by the crow all over as the crow.

As to the crow's diet, the crow is not only known for its depredations on wild birds but also for its raids on farmers' poultry yard and for its attacks on crops other than corn.

Use Sulphur To Heal Your Skin

BROKEN OUT SKIN AND ITCHING ECZEMA HELPED OVER NIGHT

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its great destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

Get a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it. this cold cream.

Made to lubricate the Ford
Exclusively!

For years, folks lubricated their Ford cars—many still do—with the same oils that other folks used in Mc-Laughlins, Dodges, Chevrolets,—correct oils for those cars, but not for the Ford!

The very same oil you use in your Ford engine must lubricate your Ford transmission. This exclusive Ford feature requires an exclusive lubricant.

Veedol Forzol masters the dual lubrication problem of the Ford engine and planetary transmission—a problem that baffled experts for years.

With Veedol Forzol you have the complete absence of jerky chatter, caused by the use of wrong oils. No more do the brake bands hold you back when you start. Your Ford has the smooth ease of operation of higher priced cars.

Equally important are the economies of Veedol Forzol. Better gasoline and oil mileage. More power when you need it most. Fewer repairs.

Do this to convince yourself. Go to your dealer. Have him drain the old oil and refill the crankcase with Veedol Forzol. Better still, buy a 5-gallon can of Veedol Forzol and get 2,000 to 3,000 economy miles at less than one-third of a cent per mile.

MAKING FARM CHEESE

The Manufacture of Cheese in the Home Diary.

Preparing the Milk — The Work of Coagulation—Cutting and Milling —A Home-Made Press — After Care of Cheese—Co-operation Will Win.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

For every nine or ten pounds of cheese required, use 100 pounds of milk (10 gallons). Take the fresh morning's milk and mix it with the night's milk in a vat, and warm to the vessel suitable for holding milk. Heat the milk to 86 degrees Fahrenheit, by placing a clean can of hot water in it, or by setting the vessel containing the milk on the stove and stirring.

Coagulation.

Use one teaspoonful of rennet for every 25 pounds of milk. First dilute the rennet with a pint or cold water, and then mix it thoroughly for about three minutes.

Cover the vat until coagulation takes place, which will be in about twenty minutes, depending on the ripeness of the milk. When the curd breaks clean across the finger without any flakes remaining on it, it is ready to be cut.

Cutting.

For cutting, regular curd knives are best. Use the horizontal knife first cutting lengthwise of the vat; then cut both lengthwise and crosswise with the perpendicular knife. This gives small cubes of even size.

After the curd has been cut, it should be gently stirred with the hand, or with a small wooden rake for ten minutes before applying heat.

Heating.

Heat the curd 2½ degrees Fahrenheit, taking about thirty minutes to do so. Continue stirring until the curd is ready for dipping; usually about two and one-half hours from the time the vat was set. When the curd becomes firm and springy and falls apart when a handful is pressed together, it is ready to have the whey drawn.

After drawing off the whey stir the curd over once, then pile it evenly at one end of the vat and cover it with a heavy cotton cloth. In about twenty minutes the curd will be well matted when it should be cut into blocks about four inches square. Turn the blocks about every twenty minutes until the curd comes flaky. This is usually about one and a half hours after dipping.

Milling.

Knife may be used in place of a curd mill. Cut the curd into strips about the thickness of your finger, stir well, and apply salt at the rate of one ounce for every ten pounds of milk.

Sprinkle the salt over the curd, mix it thoroughly and when the salt is dissolved the curd will be ready to put to press at between 80 and 84 degrees.

The cheese hoop, or hoops, should be made of hard wood with five handles on the outside. A suitable size for home use would be seven and eight inches in diameter and seven or fourteen inches high.

Place a piece of cotton cloth at the bottom of the hoop, as a temporary one. Then put the cheese in the hoop, and inside the hoop. Carefully pack in the curd, fold over the ends of the cotton cloth, place on top a piece of cotton similar to the one at the bottom, put on wooden follower, and put to press.

Home-Made Press.

If a press with a screw is not available, use a lever press. Make a piece of scantling ten or twelve feet long, or a lever. Place the cheese hoop on a strong box about three feet from the wall. Nail to the wall a piece of scantling and under it put one end of the lever. Put a block of wood on top of the follower for the lever to rest on. A pail containing stone or iron may be used for the weight. Do not apply too much pressure at first.

In three-quarters or an hour the cheese may be taken out of the press, the bandages wet with hot water, pulled up smoothly and trimmed neatly, allowing enough cloth to lap at the ends. Cover the ends with circles of cotton cloth, and then put in that place a piece of cotton dipped in hot water. Replace the cheese in the press until the following morning, when they should be taken out of the hoops and pressure continued a few hours longer. After removing the cheese from the press, place them in a cool, dry cellar to ripen.

After Care of Cheese.

Turn the cheese and rub on the cloth every day for a month and afterwards occasionally. These cheese will be ready for use in about six or eight weeks.

To prevent the cheese moulding, and to keep them from drying too much, they may be wrapped in the parafine wax. Another method to prevent mould is to put a bandage cloth on the cheese until ready for use. The mould will rot on the cotton cloth, leaving the cheese clean when removed.—Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

POISONERS AT WORK

Kingston Dogs Are Victims of Unknown Culprit: Arsenic Used

Kingston, May 20—Dog poisoners are still at work in the city, the latest case being of a dog poisoned through the effects of arsenic on Thursday last. A curious point about all the cases of poisoning, and a point which has been referred to before, is the fact that the cases all occur within a definitely defined area within the city limits. Authorities are investigating.

REAL DESERTED VILLAGE

Last Resident Leaves Persaville To Elements and Wild Arrivals

Saranac Lake, May 20—The removal of the last family from Pearceville has added that name to the list of deserted villages scattered throughout the Adirondack wilderness.

A few years ago Pearceville, situated a few miles north of Saranac Lake, was a prosperous community with several score families. Today there is but one person living there, the home having been abandoned to the ravages of the elements and wild animals.

The cutting of the last merchantable timber in that section of the wilderness formed the passing of the lumber town, whose homes probably will be the only remains of forest fires.

Music & Drama

"EVANGELINE" OAK IN NEW GRIFFITH FILM

David Wark Griffith photographed a number of scenes along the famous Bayou Teche in southern Louisiana for his new feature motion picture, "Evangeline Rose," United Artists Corporation release at the Griffith theatre now. After filming for nearly two weeks on the historical bayou section, Mr. Griffith and his company went to Miami, Florida, where he had leased a large studio and worked for two months.

"The White Rose" is a Southern story and it was quite fitting that Mr. Griffith should select a region made famous by Longfellow in "Evangeline." The French Acadians, who were expelled from Nova Scotia and sought refuge in Louisiana, hundreded bayous, have left numerous descendants in the Teche country. In many of the quaint little towns and hamlets English is rarely heard. You thus perceive why have grown up among the French settlers their own peculiar dialect.

Mr. Griffith made scenes all along the bayou country at Franklin and Jeanerette in the settlements of Charenton, Iberville, New Iberia, St. Martinville, St. John and Abbeville. The producer received a warm welcome from the folk of the region and the homes of wealthy planters were thrown open to him.

Probably some of the most picturesque estates in the United States are to be found along the Teche, notably the grand Porter home, "Oaklawn" on the Weeks Bayou estate on the shores of Teche; the H. B. Lovett estate at St. John, and the Simon estate at St. Martinsville.

On the bank of the river and just under the shadow of the Simon estate is the "Evangeline" oak, the native's story that it was beneath this tree that "Evangeline" first while "Gabriel" got real unnoticed in his boat. Mr. Griffith filmed some of his episodes for "The White Rose" with this oak in the background.

THREE ARTS VIE FOR AFFECTIONS OF ELINOR FAIR

Elinor Fair who enacts the title role in Metro's "The Eagle's Feather," now playing at the Regent Theatre, considers screen acting on only one of several accomplishments to which she excels. An expert violinist, with several years of study under a famous master and an interpretive dancer, with a reputation here and abroad, Miss Fair trusts at all, whether the fancy seizes her, to either of these professions for a source of livelihood.

Miss Fair's appearance in "The Eagle's Feather" follows a stint of professional success, among which were those in "Kismet" and "Driven." When director Eleanor Schuyler was assigned by Metro to film Katherine Newlin Burt's famous novelette, story immediately associated Miss Fair to the role which was admirably portrayed by her rare beauty and ability.

When the war broke out, Miss Fair was just completing a course of study in Germany. She immediately broke up her work and hastened back to this country, where after a brief sojourn in the east she came on to Los Angeles. Miss Fair had already attained a reputation in several Eastern capitals for her remarkable beauty and had appeared in several important Keystone comedies. When it was discovered that she was present in Los Angeles, some of the big western producers made her an attractive offer to appear in a revue which he was then contemplating.

Her appearance on the Los Angeles stage was the signal for enthusiastic praise from the newspaper critics and from the general public. This at once attracted the film producers of the west coast and Miss Fair found herself added another career to the two she already had.

Miss Fair was born in Virginia and is a true Southern type.

"The Eagle's Feather" was adapted to the screen by Winnifred Dunn. It was photographed by George Brazil with art direction in charge of J. J. Hughes.

MISS RAFFLES, winner of the Canadian Exhibition open horseback hat fall, at Toronto, is the wife of a well known Canadian whippet dealer at Sunnyside Beach, Victoria Day.

VOL. LVI. BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 21, 1924

U. E. L. CELEBRATION PARTIES EXPECTED TO AGREE SOON

Way is Made for Citizens' Committee to Take Over Entire Project With Corporation Executive a Part of the Committee; Mayor States His Case

COMMITTEE TO GET DOMINION GRANT

Organization troubles which have been attending preparations for the United Empire Loyalist Celebration were ironed out at a meeting of the Citizens Committee at the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night, and providing the executive of the U.E.L. Corporation accept a proposition of settlement arrived at between the Citizens' Committee on the one hand and Mayor Mikel on the other, the way is paved for a triumphant proceedings to success.

By the terms of last night's agreement, the Citizens' Committee is to take complete charge of the celebration. It will assume the liabilities incurred up to date by the U.E.L. Corporation as set out in writing by the Mayor, such as bringing bands and troops into the city from Canadian and United States centres, will take over the balance of the $3,000 grant from the Provincial Government and any grant that may come from the Dominion government, and will take direct charge of every branch of the celebration. The executive of the U.E.L. Corporation shall become members of the Citizens' Committee.

WHERE IS GWEN?

Although a press dispatch to the Intelligencer yesterday stated that Miss Gwen Lailer intended to stay in New York for a day or two, Belleville people following her adventurous trip to Washington are feeling a little anxiety as to her whereabouts.

No word has been received from Miss Lailer since Saturday, according to Mayor Mikel.

Letters Produced

This matter of adjusting responsibilities was tackled by the committee first, before the regular business was brought down by Charles Hanna, chairman. Mr. Hanna read the letter he had written to Mayor Mikel in regard to the liabilities assumed by the Corporation and the answer in which His Worship gave the required information.

In opening the discussion, Mr. Hanna stated that there would have to be co-operation between the two bodies, adding that once the celebrations were in Belleville's celebration, the citizens' committee would have to take charge.

Some talk followed concerning the feasibility of the committee handling the sports, games, concessions and so forth, and the question of taking care of the military proceedings, and finally a resolution was brought out by George O. Tice that the Citizen's Committee hand over its obligations to the U.E.L. Corporation and drop out of the scheme of things.

The Mayor was then called upon to state his opinion on this.

Program Restricted

Mayor Mikel pointed out that he had made the position of the United Empire Loyalist Incorporated 1921 clear before. That Corporation had never intended to enter into sports and other attractions, apart from the military operations. It was not part of the articles of incorporation, and that he himself was opposed to the inclusion of that end of the program. He said the corporation couldn't undertake to carry out the sports and games, would not consider with the resolution.

Explaining that he had done what he thought best in making arrangements for U. S. troops to come here, he said that arrangements had gone too far to back out when he found that the committee disapproved thereof.

SHIP'S WRECKAGE TELLS SAD TALE

Five of Crew Swept to Death in Lake Superior Gale

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., May 21—Five members of the crew were swept to death when the lake freighter, Orinoco, foundered in a terrific storm that swept Lake Superior early on Sunday, Meagre reports received here by private friends at the master of the tug Garguntua of the Sarnia River Tulip and Tugs Company, which reported it had passed through wreckage at Point Aux Pines, on the bleak north shore of Lake Superior, this morning.

The captain, the chief engineer and one wheelsman are among the dead. The Orinoco was in command of Captain Lawrence, of Cleveland, who previously sailed for the Tomlinson Company of Cleveland, but accepted command of the Orinoco this season. The chief engineer was Joseph Wurtz, of Buffalo, N.Y.

Details of the sinking of the Orinoco are lacking. The wreckage afloat was first knowledge that the vessel had gone down.

CELEBRATION DETAILS ARE WELL ON WAY

Citizens' Committee Rapidly Whipping Great Project Into Definite Shape

HEAD OF INSURANCE Pageant Master is Coming Soon and Committee is Ready for Him

The Citizens' Committee carried out an extensive program of business last night after the question of dual organization had been cleared away. The correspondence which chairman Hanna had before the meeting showed that arrangement of details were taking shape in a satisfactory manner.

The total expenditure estimated by the finance committee amounted to $8,910. Mr. Hanna showed, a total which included $450 for decorations, $1,200 for music, $225 for the exhibition of relics and $360 for fire works.

A representative from an insurance company was present and stated roundly that the amount of insurance that the Celebration committee wanted to carry would cost about $60 for coverage. Fire insurance has been arranged for the exhibition of relics.

Mr. Hanna also reported that the pageant master of the Bell Telephone Company would be in Belleville on May 28. A committee composed of O. H. Scott, Walter Scott, Mr. Bloomfield, K. L. Doyle, H. Fish with power to add was appointed to co-operate with the pageant master.

Ground Hall for the Kingston Navigation Company was prepared to give the exhibition of relics and a telephone and preliminary word was received from the Kingston company that it was favorable.

A kind letter was read from Mr. Gerow of the Dominion publicity bureau offering the use of his office for the registering of names at reconnoitering and it was suggested that a booth should be established for this purpose too.

Morning picture producers have arranged to be present at the time of starting the whole of the celebration to make pictures. Dominion Day

Decorations Arranged

Decorations have been arranged for and pledges made from such institutions as the O.N.E. that places in the city will be gaily fixed for the occasion.

It was reported by the chairman that the tee-shots of the city had taken 2,000 bouquets in aid of the house to house and that they wanted more. Mr. Tice was appointed chairman of a race committee, composed of Mayor Mikel, Robert Ireland and Wells.

Mr. Hanna announced that he had obtained an agreement with the company putting on the rides that the committee get 20 percent of the gross proceeds.

CANINES CARRY ON COSTLY CARNIVALS

Belleville dogs are all going strong; no complaints having reached the Police Department. Chief Hollis and George Harris report that during the night prowling dogs destroyed the lights of glass in his hot house. Only last week Mr. Harris replaced the lights of glass during one night. By 7 o'clock this morning he found that during the night, dogs tore up a pretty nursery bed in his garden.

OSHAWA MOURNS LOSS THOMAS HENDERSON

Oshawa, May 21—Thomas Henderson, one of the most prominent business men of Oshawa, died at his home, 64 Elgin Street East, last night after a sickness of three weeks. Mr. Henderson who has been associated with his brother, Robert, in business here since 1867, was Secretary of the Oshawa Golf Club, and was an active member of the local curling club. In his will, of 1920 and 1921, he left $1,000 to the Canadian curlers who toured Europe and is exceptionally liberle spoken of in his bequests to other worthy objects in which he took an active interest. He was a prominent member of the Bethel Church and President of the Men's Y.M.C.A. Mr. Henderson is survived by his brother Robert, who was in business with him for many years and three children, Marc, Helen and Beatrice; two brothers, Jim and Alexander in Scotland and a sister, Mrs. A. Henderson, Oshawa.

WELSH MINE-OWNERS TO INVEST IN ALBERTA

Ottawa, May 21—To develop scientifically the immense coal resources of the Province of Alberta with the ultimate aim of supplying the industries of Eastern Canada and other parts of the country is a project which is engaging the attention of a group of great Welsh mine-owners, Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Premier of Great Britain; Sir William Beveridge, K.B.E., both of Cardiff, Wales, are now in Ottawa on business connected with some months of extensive travel and investigation of the mining property ties of the West.

BYRON McCRODAN of Toronto, who is fighting for his life in a Toronto hospital after being shot near Colborne by a game keeper. He lived formerly in Belleville. No change in his condition is the report received.

B. McCRODAN IS FIGHTING DEATH

Found it Hard to Give Details of Shooting Affair

LIFE IN THE BALANCE

Toronto Hospital Officials Have No Word of Hope Yet

Toronto, May 21—While the condition of Byron McCrodan, who was shot by Sam Tice on the Crossen property near Colbourg, Sunday, is very serious, Belleville friends will understand that he was about holding his own. Coroner Downey, McFadden and Provincial Police Inspector Hammond held an inquest here today, and yesterday morning and took an authentic statement from McCrodan, in which he gave full details of the shooting. The injured man at times found difficulty in speaking.

Efforts were made late Monday night to take the statement, but McCrodan refused to believe that he was to near death and would not talk.

MISSING WOMAN IS FOUND IN COUNTRY

Parties Have Been Looking For Her Since April Last

Provincial constable Boyd of Haliburton town has notified Inspector Bunnett of Belleville, that the body of Miss Lillian Hoyle, aged 34, of Richland and Grey, Haliburton County, has been found. She had been missing since April 30th and during the intervening time parties have been scouring the back country for her. Provincial Boyd did not state where the body had been found, simply stating that it was in the vicinity of Stirling him that he had also notified the Grey Attorney and the Coroner following the discovery. Miss Hoyle was a teacher in the district, and had been a patient at Hamilton Asylum for eleven months.

GOVERNMENT IS TO SAVE MONEY COLLECTING TAX

Ferguson Cabinet Will Put $75,000 Into Coffers Of Province

AGENCIES DISMISSED

Amusement Tax to Be Paid Direct To Department Of Toronto

Toronto, May 21.—By a shrewd method of collection, the Ontario Government plans to make the Amusement Tax productive of more revenue for the Province. The plan which it is intended to adopt is to eliminate some 85 tax issuing agencies which have existed at various points throughout the Province and to have the theatre managers and others requiring tax tickets secure them directly from the Provincial Treasurer's Department. The Government hopes by this change to save the agencies' commissions, totalling upwards of $75,000 per year.

The general plan upon which amusement tax tickets have been distributed in the past has been for the Provincial Treasurer to appoint agents in large amounts, to bonded district agents. These agents have given them out to theatres and other amusement proprietors as they required them, and have received for their distributing offices a commission of one and one-half per cent.

The agents have been notified by the Provincial Treasurer's Department that, commencing on June 1st, they will be unable appointees as agents, and that the Department will undertake the distribution itself. The agencies are requested to notify those to whom they have been supplying tickets of the change, and to forward their accounts to the Department for checking, which will be done as rapidly as possible. Under the new system, may be relieved of their bonds and secure any collateral to which they may be entitled.

Under the terms of the agencies, the purchasers of the tax tickets are allowed a discount which here after must realize that the people of Canada, as well as them, "standard of absolute rectitude." He also touched upon the spirit of lawlessness and lack of discipline, which is prevalent in the younger generation.

He referred to the fact that the Province of Ontario was a member of the Church in the Diocese of Ontario, that "I think all churchmen join in wishing Bishop Godfrey in the exercising of onerous and responsible position to which he has been appointed."

In his reference to the general work in the church, in the diocese of Ontario, the bishop's tone was distinctly optimistic and he paid many tributes to the manner in which the work of the church had been carried on during the past year, both individually and collectively.

U.S. NAVY WOULD SPEND $150,000,000

Washington, May 21— At least $150,000,000 more must be expended in the United States navy to be equal Great Britain, the House was told yesterday by Chairman Butler of the Naval Committee. Before the close of the present session, he said, he hoped to have brought on a bill designed to establish for the United States, so far as concerned, the 5-5-3 arms conference ratio.

Mr. Butler declared the present actual comparative navy ratio of the ships of Great Britain, the United States and Japan is five, a fraction over four and three.

RENFREW MAN IS SHOT BY FRIEND

Victim and Gunsmen Found in Stable Soon After Report Heard

Renfrew, Ont., May 21—When Duncan Walker and his brother, prosperous farmers, three miles from Renfrew, motored into Renfrew Monday night from a visit to their brother-in-law's farmer, they saw upon approach a man standing in the barn and a revolver shot. William was first to reach the door of the house and found Hermath Price a neighboring farmer prostrate on the floor, unconscious. The aid of Duncan he was taken into the Richland and Grey. Hallowell County, has been found. She had been missing since April 30th and during the intervening time parties have been scouring the back country for her. Provincial Boyd did not state where the body had been found, simply stating that it was in the vicinity of Stirling him that he had also notified the Grey Attorney and the Coroner following the discovery. Miss Hoyle was a teacher in the district, and had been a patient at Hamilton Asylum for eleven months.

NOT YET THROUGH WITH HOME BANK

Royal Commission Will Investigate From Time of Charter to Failure

Ottawa, May 21.—The claim of the directors of the Home Bank for reimbursement of their losses with the Government of Canada is now in the hands of the Royal Commissioner. On the recommendation of counsel for the interim report to the Government, depositors will be eligible to rank, and whether or not the depositors will be paid their losses. Proceedings before the Commission adjourned for an indefinite period to enable Commissioner W. A. Logan, K.C., to prepare a memorandum of counsel for the claim, and counsel for the depositors to submit his indication on adjournment as to how long the preparation of the report will take. Counsel for depositors have asked that it be not unnecessarily delayed so as to enable them, if the report is favorable, to get a bill for payment before Parliament at the present session.

The investigation by no means ends with the conclusion of argument yesterday, however. Under an order in council which created the scope of the inquiry, the Commissioner is empowered to investigate the affairs of the bank from the date its charter was issued, as to the time of its failure. This larger investigation will not be undertaken until after the interim report has been prepared.

Jarvis-Pepall Court Was Very Brief; All Cases Are to Be Heard on Thursday

(Special To Intell.)

Toronto, May 21—Court proceedings in the case of Armilius Jarvis Jr., Armilius Jarvis Jr. and Harry G. Pepall, charged with conspiracy to defraud Police Court this morning were extremely brief. Only one of the accused was concerned. A remand was asked till Thursday at 2 o'clock, when Hon. Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer is scheduled to appear, bringing all related cases in court together.

It was definitely stated by the prosecuting officer for the Crown that he will proceed with the preliminary hearing of all the cases on Thursday afternoon, and that such hearing will embrace all charges against the accused men.

Pickpocket Tries His Art on Policeman; Found to His Sorrow He Had Lost His Skill

Toronto, May 21—It is very unwise—and costly David Walsh of Buffalo, N.Y., and alleges he had $35 that was missing from the constable's pocket. Constable arrested Walsh on a charge of pickpocketing pockets. He alleges that Walsh, when caught, handed him the money, saying: "You're all right now for bidding such stiegdaves.

NEED NO PESSIMISM

Synod Told of Lack of Discipline Among The Younger Folk

Kingston, May 21—The Rt. Rev. Dr. E. J. Bidwell, Bishop of Ontario, in his eleventh annual charge to the Synod of the Diocese, delivered this afternoon, stated that there was apparently no need for pessimism as to the future of the Dominion despite the troublous times through which we are passing. At the same time the Bishop spoke strongly regarding the fact that public life in our Canada of today, he said, must realize that the people of Canada will hold in them a "standard of absolute rectitude." He also touched upon the spirit of lawlessness and lack of discipline, which is prevalent in the younger generation.

He referred to the fact that the Province of Ontario was a member of the Church in the Diocese of Ontario, that "I think all churchmen join in wishing Bishop Godfrey in the exercising of onerous and responsible position to which he has been appointed."

In his reference to the general work in the church, in the diocese of Ontario, the bishop's tone was distinctly optimistic and he paid many tributes to the manner in which the work of the church had been carried on during the past year, both individually and collectively.

N. WEST TORONTO VOTING DAY SET

July 7 is Day Mentioned; Liberal-Conservatives Meet To-night

Toronto, May 21.—Monday, July 7, is the date of the Northwest Toronto by-election, as given to leading Conservatives this morning with the announcement made following the resignation of Dr. Thomas Crawford that the candidate would be "back in the Twelfth, of July procession."

There will be a meeting to-night of the Central Conservative Executive, at which the plans for the by-election will be made. A writ for the Returning Officer will also be issued, and other arrangements made for the contest.

CHANGED HER MIND

Santa Rosalia, Calif., May 21—Mrs. Clyde Keenan, wife of a local banker, walked into the police station and said she had changed her mind. She changed her mind after leaving her clothing on the beach, went into along the beach, she was arrested.

THIRD SISTER TAKING UP THE SAME WORK

A young lady entered Ontario Business College this week who was present during the morning received at O. B. C. These two young girls were both Belleville girls and graduated only by a few months of intensive study and application. The cost was only a slight compared with the splendid results attained. On their recommendation their sister is now preparing herself at O. B. C. for a successful business career.

MONDAY 26TH TO BE HOLIDAY MERCHANTS SAY

Issue Notice and City Generally Will Fall In Line

BANKS WILL CLOSE

Misunderstanding, Mayor Avers at Citizens' Committee Meeting

Monday, May 26th, will be the official Victoria Day holiday in Belleville, it was decided today, after days of misunderstanding have been passed by Belleviliians, in which they have been at a loss to know just what the city intended doing in the matter.

This final announcement follows the decision made by the Retail Merchants' Association that they would remain open for business on Saturday May 24th and close their shops on Monday, regardless of what other action might be taken. They refused to miss Saturday's business and definitely decided upon this action independently of the action on the part of anyone else.

At a meeting of the Citizens' Committee of the U.E.L. celebration, which was held here last night, Mayor Mikel stated that he had not been approached by any representatives of the Retail Merchants' Association with regard to the observance of the holiday. Chairman of the Central committee of the U. E. L. celebration, Charles Hanna stated that he had phoned the Mayor relative to the matter. Mayor Mikel, in explaining the occasion, he averred, Banks and Government buildings will close on Saturday, but on Monday the stores closed in accordance with the ture of Monday's celebration here will will be the double feature baseball attraction at the Exhibition Park. Game commences at 1 p.m. and the C.O.B.L. game at 3.

COBOURG COLLECTS

Toronto, May 21.—Judgment was delivered at Osgoode Hall yesterday afternoon in favor of the town of Cobourg against Edward Doody for $3,423, and against the Imperial Guarantee and Accident Company for $1,567.90.

Doody is a former treasurer of the municipality and the town of Cobourg entered suit when the latter's assets said to be misappropriated by him.

C.N.R. LINE BILLS PASSED AT OTTAWA

Ottawa, May 21.—Of fourteen remaining Canadian National bracket bills, eleven were passed after a meeting in the House yesterday and went to the Senate. For the most part the bills passed with little discussion. The most noticeable discussion was the criticism of the proposed line from Kingsclear, N.B., to the St. Croix River, Sir Henry Drayton taking the ground that the line could not be justified as a matter of business. It was thought the building of the line should be referred to the railway commission—a proposal with which the Minister of Railways did not agree.

Another bill—for a line from Lloydminster, Sask., northwesterly for 48 miles—received the committees but was held for third reading.

A CALL FOR SERVICE

To the uninitiated, an evening with the citizens' committee, plotting and planning for the United Empire Loyalist Celebration, is nothing short of a revelation.

One picks up vaguely the vastness of preparations already made, is busy pondering on the magnitude of it all, when he is plunged into a state of near bewilderment by the production of business matters to be straightened out within the course of a few days. For but a handful are shouldering the burden.

If good fortune obtains, the success of the commemoration will surprise the average citizen. Following last night's deliberations, it is to be hoped that a strong unified group of men will carry the proceedings to a glorious conclusion. There is work for all in the scheme. More workers and fewer interested watchers are needed.

There is no reason why the celebration should not pass down as an important event of the twentieth century in the future histories of Canada.

PRACTICAL PROTECTION

The Intelligencer is in hearty accord with others in Belleville who say the City Council should give the order for a new auxiliary water pump to a Canadian manufacturing concern though its price be $1,500 or than the pump offered by a large corporation of the United States. Quality being equal, prices being almost identical considering the cost of the product, it would be a flagrant violation of the vital principles of protection to send the money of Belleville's taxpayers across the border. The fact that the Canadian firm has sold to—Preston, Hespeler, Brockville, Royal Military College, Kingston, Cobalt and to fifty other places, where in some case repeat orders have been secured, the fact that the pumps are approved by the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, and that they have a $100,000 order from the Canadian Government for the dry docks at St. Johns testifies that the quality must at least be satisfactory. All is said with due respect to the proved good judgment of the City Waterworks Manager.

ECONOMY OF THE KING GOVERNMENT

How economy is practised by the present Government, struggling to keep in power, will be demonstrated by the following expenditures:

1—To a colonization company, $200,000. This company in 35 settlers for this amount of money.

2—An Immigration Commissioner to China, a new appointment, $9,000. It is widely rumored that it required this amount to remove an official from office in Ottawa if agreeable with. Further it is well known that immigration from China is practically prohibited except for students and merchants. If it is to prevent the immigration, we can save $9,000 by preventing the landing in Canada by any steamship company brought them to this country.

3—To build a wharf at Belle River, $30,000. There is no service to or from this village, except in the dark. Not a boat has been recorded as landing there up to the time of this note. The amount is the price of the by-election.

4—To one Aronovicl of the city of Paris to report on the whole question of emigration, $1,250 a month. The only result of his work was to send 12 persons from the offices of the King Government to investigate his purchase of the Scribe Hotel in Paris, the price of which is now $2,750,693, and is still going up. The travelling expenses of the same gentleman amounted to $1,161 a month.

These are only examples of useless and unnecessary expenditures of this Government, for which the people of this country are being heavily taxed and suffering increased taxation.—Kingston Standard.)

PRESS OPINIONS

RURAL SCHOOL QUESTION (Hamilton Herald)

When will the Ontario Educational Association be in a position to establish a system to settle the rural school question? Sixteen trustees for 75,000 pupils in Toronto and 80 trustees for 600 pupils in only one township in Ontario seems a great contrast.

COSTLY FIGHT (Long Sault Times)

Three years ago the International Typographical Union went on strike for a 44-hour week. This strike, according to a statement made by Jas. M. Lynch, a former president of the organization, has cost the Union over $17,000,000 and has resulted in over 6,000 union printers losing their positions. Nevertheless, the president and costly fight the strike has not been won, admits Mr. Lynch.

UTILITY PLUS BEAUTY (London Post)

The ruin of architecture as of every other art, is its commercialization—a disaster which overwhelm d Greek civic architecture during the after half of the nineteenth century, are where evil traditions still persist. Good building costs more than bad building, but good architecture still pays, and every often less than bad architecture. Industrial firms who built factories and what are called business premises, would do so to no additional expense, did they insist up on excellence of design.

CAN IT BE TRUE? (Brooklyn Eagle)

Under Poincare France has not put the guns in the parks of peace. She has created the greatest military apparatus in the world has ever seen, has built up pre-French armies in foreign lands, has loaned money in order that other countries might develop a militarism of their own, and she has sought to build up new alliances and balance of power.

Fear of Germany was the excuse and although in the face of Germany, impotent, there is now no excuse, it would accepted it. But latterly it has become apparent that in building also marines and airplanes France was aiming at England as much as at Germany.

THE CAR HABIT (Toronto Globe)

The number of motor cars in Canada in 1923 was 895,256. There are somewhat over two million families in the Dominion, so that there are still a long way to go in the California stard ard of a car for every family.

CONSIDER THIS (Mount Forest Confederate)

Advertising has a much more important place in every day life than most people realize. Consider what it would mean if there were no advertising matter in your local paper, to those who advertise and to those who read.

CARE SHOULD BE TAKEN (Waterloo Chronicle)

In the constitution of the Church Union Bill now before the Federal Parliament care should be taken by the Government State does not interfere with the rights of the churches, nor extend to couple their own affairs.

FACTS ARE STUBBORN THINGS (Brantford Expositor)

Agnes Macphail, M. P., told the Women's Interdenominational League of Peace and Service in Washington that peace and literature as taught in Canada abounded with war sentiment. Yes but history is history and cannot be wiped out with a sponge.

A LITTLE TOWN IN ACADIE

The gentle hills of Acadie
Look down on Vale of Peace below;
Between the maples, lush and green,
Like emerald gleams the vessels pass;
Faint, tinkling cowbells lull to rest
The little town I love the best.

All up and down the village street
The elm trees stand in stately grace.
The willow hangs its ochine out
And chestnut candles light the place.
Protected in its leafy nest—
Dear little town I love the best.

The little town I love the best
Becomes a vision of delight
When June with lavish hand bedecks
Her apple orchards, pink and white;
The odors, rare fragrance deep,
Gay little town I love the best.

The little town I love the best
Has hold on heart and soul can buy;
Brave visions of the long ago,
And loyalty to friend dear,
And quiet graves of those who rest.
O little town I love the best

Another Cause For Overweight

You have been trying to reduce your weight and have been faithful in carrying out the usual suggestions.

You have cut down on the starches by omitting potatoes entirely, eating very little bread, and have been careful very little water or other liquid.

You have tried to move your body around more than before by exercising during the day, and only seven hours at night.

Your weight loss has been gradual but not rapid enough to suit you. You expected to lose from five to ten pounds a month, and find that the loss was averaged less than five pounds.

You have perhaps wondered why you did not lose more rapidly and finally cause your neighbor, who is following about the same menu, has reduced considerably more than you have been able to do.

What's the matter?

Well it is hard to say very often because there are a number of bodies with tissues that will take on or lose fat, so varying decrees during the same length of time.

However, there is at least one point that you may have overlooked. You have felt, that as you were doing without the fats and starches, that you had a perfect right, in fact it would be also indeed, to eat more meat to make up a full meat each time.

Now generally speaking meat does not put on flesh as does fats, liquids or starches, but it does put on fat just the same. For instance a piece of meat or the white of eggs—proteids—are used to repair tissue that is worn out in the body.

If you work hard physically, or play hard, then the worn out parts of your body will be replaced by the material made up from lean meat or white of egg. Just as much of your body tissues as you wear out will be thus replaced.

Ort's Failure

By W. H. G.

Ort Denton was employed by the Brockton Daily Courier as a feature writer, in other words he was used by Edward Jones, the City Editor, to cover any story that had in it the element of deep human interest.

The less hawk-faced reporter had the rare ability of ferreting the every day tragedies of city life and of presenting them in a terse and unaffected style. They were stories that brought tears to the reader's eyes and smiles to the editor's lips.

On this particular morning in June, Ort was standing idly by the window of the editorial rooms, when Mr. Jones beckoned to him from his tiny office at the back.

"Deacon, I have a beauty for you this morning," the chief said. "Police switchboard has just given us a tip of a fire East Brunton way. Mother was burned saving child, or something to that effect. Get a taxi and hike out right away. Get all the pictures you can—mother and child together if you can—and rush her in for the one o'clock edition.

"We haven't had a real yarn in a week. If she's worth it, we'll spill it all over the front page.

It was eleven-thirty when Deacon got back to the office. He hadn't made a report from the time he left at eight o'clock until then—a matter that had set the Chief on edge.

If you eat more meat than is necessary for repair the body turns out itself what happens to this extra amount you eat?

Does it get thrown out of the body as waste?

Not as a matter of fact, it actually helps to increase your weight by man ufacturing fat, which is deposited in your tissues.

You see the meat that is not used for tissue building is turned into glucose or sugar, and then like any other sugar or starch it is then converted into fat.

Remember a good general rule in reducing is to cut down all your foods and liquids twenty-five per cent.

And don't forget that the extra meat—the meat counted for body repair—has become fat, just the same as the regular starchy foods.

Upholds the Conduct Of Sir Thomas White

Must Acquit Him of Want of Activity Counsel Claims

Ottawa, Ont., May 21.—The sensation during the one hour glass of the Home Bank inquiry when the commission reassembled yesterday afternoon, for the conclusion of argument began when the depositors' claims. H. J. Symington, K.C., associate counsel for the federal government, completed his summing-up before Mr. Justice McKeown and was followed by W. N. Ahearn, K.C., and W. J. Lee in a rebuttal for the depositors.

Mr. Symington argued that a proper audit in 1916 would have disclosed a situation essentially different from that which existed in the midsummer mind. He admitted, also, the difficulty of visualizing today just what as pect the bank had presented eight years ago to Sir Thomas White.

Counsel Loses Greatest.

Mr. Symington conceded that the banks loans up to 1916 were much less than in 1923. An audit in 1916, he believed would have revealed a state of affairs which would have prevented the bank carrying on. He was not in sympathy with Sir Henry Drayton's judgment as to whether any other bank would have been able to take over the Home Bank in 1919 in view of its condition at that time.

"I think your lordship must acquit Sir Thomas White of any responsible want of activity in dealing with the objections and representations that were made to him," Mr. Symington said at the conclusion of his address at the morning sitting. He seemed to have shown a remarkable activity in spite of the enormous load he had on his shoulders in connection with the war. He devoted a good deal of time, attention and thought to this matter, a small matter in comparison with the matters that were occupying the attention of himself and his colleagues at the time.

WERE NOT MUSHROOMS

Tillsonburg, Ont., May 21.—Raymond Wilfred Sinnet, the 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Simms, who lier some four miles south of Tillsonburg lies dead tonight, and his parents are at the point of death, and two others aged 8 and 14 years are slightly ill as the result of an expedition for mushrooms which proved to be dead-ly poison. The two girls partook of only a few for dinner.

The Beauty of Health

Newspapers and magazines are carrying columns in spite of everything to beautifiers. There is a beauty in health that is far more attractive to them than mere regularity of features or a made-up complexion. Everyone should be the first essential of women who want to win and hold admiration, respect and love. At the first indication of ill health as indicated by dark rings under the eyes, a sallow complexion, headaches, backache, pain in the side, nervousness, dizziness, constipation, women should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the standard remedy for women's ills which has been proven to help 98 out of every 100.

Here's the pictures," said Ort as he came in, "and I think he exclusive. I've got all the dope. It will be up in half an hour."

At twelve fifteen, however, the reporter pushed back his chair, gathered up the sheets of type written copy from his desk and walked back to his editor's office.

"Here's part of it. The rest will be ready in five minutes," he said.

The Chief looked the matter over, ran his fingers through his hair, cleared his throat and looked up sharply at Deacon.

"Punk.' Absolutely punk," he managed to say. "What's the matter with you today? Where's the introduction? You don't even give the name of the woman. How in Sam Hill do you think I am going to get captions for the photos. Here it's half an hour to press time and not a line gone out to the composing room."

Deacon didn't answer. He walked back to the typewriter and started typing slowly. Then he rose, half to and to the office boy, "Take this in."

He had left the office when the Chief read the lead to the story.

"In a frantic but futile attempt to save the life of her only child, Mrs. Deacon, of 57 Dawson street, Kent Brunton, was burned to death at eight o'clock this morning.

Congress Overrides President's Veto; How it Works Out

Washington, May 20—With the soldier bonus bill written into law over the veto of President Coolidge, the lead ers in Congress today sought to speed up final action on the new tax reduction bill.

Veterans may compute the amount of adjusted compensation due them by observing the following rules:

1—Establish the number of days served at home, 500 being the limit.

2—Establish the number of days served overseas, 625 being the limit.

3—Subtract 60 days from the total days served.

4—Then allow $1 a day for home service and $1.25 for foreign service.

5—Multiply the total by the age factor corresponding to the age of the veteran.

Example:

John Smith, aged 25, served 100 days at home and 100 days abroad. Deducting 60 from 200 gives the home service leave, 100 days at $1 a day, or $100, and 100 days at $1.25 a day, or $125. Total credit due, $225. Multiply this by 1.25 from Smith's age factor which is 2.537, for the age of 25, and the result is $570.75, the face value of the insurance certificate. At bearer interest at 4 percent compounded annually.

LABOR ASKS COMMONS FOR OLD AGE PENSIONS

Ottawa, May 21.—Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, presented a memorandum to the House of Commons committee on old age pensions yesterday.

There are many thousands of old folks in Canada said Mr. Moore for old age pensions. It would not, he believed, interfere with habits of thrift. Pensions in Canada was placed upon young men with the result that the good worker frequently found himself in a difficult position.

The official declaration of the Trades and Labor Congress was read by Mr. Moore, Congressman Bird. The opinion that the administration of old age pensions should be left in the hands of the Federal Government rather than with employers.

A bill should be an all-inclusive, persons should not have to prove their need, but everyone should be included and those who were not in need should be refunded. Pensions should be procurable for those of 65 years and for persons incapacitated early in life.

Workers were not generally in accord with employers contributing pensions schemes while it was possible for the state to do so.

At Home A Success

There was a fair crowd at the At Home given in Moose Academy last night by The Belleville Kiddies and Follies Troupe, and an enjoyable evening of dancing resulted. The Melody Boys orchestra, assisted by Miss Helen Byrnes, supplied the music for dancing, and proved that this musical organization is improving. Lunch was served at midnight and the dances terminated at 1.30.

The sixty-fifth running of the Canadian classic was a great surprise to the 25,000 horse lovers as an outside horse in the bottom, "Man and Pride," romped home two lengths ahead of "Thornlea" while the favorite, "Loletta", was unplaced. The top picture is the start, the centre is the first time round showing the horses well bunched. The bottom tells the story of the finish. "Maternal Pride" "Thornlea"-second, two lengths behind; and "Maypole"-third, a length and a half behind the second horse.

Raymond Hatton Denies Screen Players Have Easy Time

A new producer of moving pictures who wanted to get his misery's worth out of his high-priced actor's complained bitterly after watching three hours work for several days.

"It's all wrong," he lamented. "You work eight hours, and then I go to look at the pictures made in the one day and they are run off in ten minutes. I'm losing money somehow".

The story is told by Raymond Hatton to dissipate some of the rosy illusions of the public in regard to the ease and luxury of a movie actor's life. Hatton is one of the pioneers in the movie game and he declares that he can qualify as one of the hardest working men in California. In the role of the bullet in "The Hottentot" coming to the Griffin theatre on Thursday Hatton is at his funniest and is good for a laugh every time he appears on the screen. William Collier scored a tremendous hit in the play, the stage version of which has been even more successful.

"When I'm not working hard, making a picture, I'm at hard work keeping in good physical trim," says Hatton. "I always have a membership in some athletic club and there make no excuse for me to use everything in the club from the gymnasium and swimming pool to the squash courts and back to the dining room where I can establish a record after exercise"

SENNETT MOVIE A RITIOUS BURLESQUE

Mack Sennett, picture producer, last surely get a kick from the preposterous situations of the so-called wisecracks. These rumor mongers like to tell people that "there is a limit to the success any producer, no matter who he is, can produce". Each time these know-it-alls begin to make themselves heard, Sennett comes out with another feature, a comedy drama—subtle satire, melodramatic comedy or a broad comedy with plenty of hokum.

Mack Sennett's latest effort is a hilarious comedy burlesquing Theshiek, under the title "The Shriek of Araby". Ben Turpin with his crossed and rovving optics, is the Shriek. He is ably supported in this new comedy character by Kathryn McGuire in the leading feminine part, while George Cooper, Dick Sutherland, Ray Grey and Louis Fronde, between them work up the humorous situations which confront "The Shriek of Araby," an Allied Pro-

MEN AND HORSES

How closely related is man to the more intelligent of the animals is seen in many of the ailments to which both are prone and the remedies to which they answer.

Doctors and veterinarians are oftentimes surprised to learn of the similarity of their methods of handling the ailments of man and beast.

Sprains, burns, scalds, scratches and many other minor injuries, many severe day ailments, too (to "use and animals take the same course, and both are relieved immediately to the same treatment—Absorbine Jr.

Absorbine was first discovered by a very close student of the horse, W. F. Young, and by him, devoted to its cause, its very exceptional benefits, however, were promptly seized upon for the human race and, in a milder form, the preparation is sold all over the continent today as Absorbine Jr. It is used for men, women and children everywhere as a positive germicide—a great killer—and a prompt and certain healer of all burns. It is useful not only for all the purposes served by ordinary liniments and embrocations, but as a mouth-wash and for anything else where a germicide is needed. Don't wait until you need it. WHEAT SEEDING DONE IN PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Winnipeg, May 21.—Seeding of wheat in the Prairie Provinces was practically finished, and is a number of districts the crop was showing well above the ground, on May 17, according to this weekly crop report issued by the Canadian National Railways. Seeding of coarse grains has also progressed favorably.

The weather during the past week was reported to be ideal for work on the land, though a little cool for promoting growth. The majority of districts report plenty of moisture.

Special correspondents in the Regina district report cutworms appearing in large numbers.

REPORT SHOW UP NORTH

Sudbury, May 21.—Hon. James Lyon's party is reported to have run into a misfortune while at Kapuskasing, having to walk through snowdrifts several feet in depth.

ducers and Distributors Corporation was formed, coming Thursday to the Regent Theatre.

Sennett carries the spectators interest in his pictures from one somewhere in America out onto the broad expanse of the ocean where three tonnes of Turpin thrown overboard. They follow him as somnambulist with him in his struggles against the waves in a frail canoe which are happy when he is washed up on shore, even if it is the edge of an arid desert.

It takes five reels to tell the adventures of Turpin, but those five reels are cram full of a new brand of riotous comedy with many thrills and with here and there touches of real drama, to say nothing of the climax. The last few feet of "The Shriek of Araby" will send everybody who sees it on their way homeward with a smile that won't come off.

Mack Sennett wrote the story himself and supervised the direction which was carried out by F. Richard Jones, who by the way is responsible for the direction of previous Sennett successes.

On account of its originality of theme, the cast, and the careful handling in its making, "The Shriek of Araby" promises unusual entertainment.

CRITICS HAIL SABATINI AS "THE MODERN DUMAS"

Rafael Sabatini, the author of "Scaramouche," which is in screen form, as produced by Rex Ingram for Metro, opens at the Grand Theatre, May 26th, 27th, and 28th, is one of the outstanding literary lights of the year.

"The Modern Dumas" as critics have called him, is a man who succeeded by sheer strong living, babatize personality, many years of experience, and talent in writing novels with historical background when the public, disturbed by the war, wanted nothing, according to most publishers, but stories of modern society.

But three years after the war the pendulum swung back to a demand for romances of older days, and there were Sabatini's books, written in the shadow of failure whose success was not discerned, waiting to be read. The public read them, and "Scaramouche" the moving tale of the French Revolution, ran into editions that brought its sale into the hundred thousands.

Mr. Sabatini's love for adventure is liberty became enormously successful. Many editions were printed, and Sabatini, overnight, of only meagre recognition, tasted the fruits of popularity.

Then Rex Ingram saw the possibilities of "Scaramouche" for a great motion picture. He bought the film rights and started work with the same principal actors who had appeared in Metro's "The Prisoner of Zenda"—Alice Terry, Lewis Stone and Ramon Novarro.

The outcome of this move is now known. "Scaramouche" "the man who laughs" is perhaps the biggest success of the season, and Sabatini has the added joy of seeing his novel in its celluloid form reach thousands beyond even the wildest of his finest dreams.

"Scaramouche" was adopted to the screen by Willis Goldbeck by arrangement with Charles L. Wagner Court Belfield was production manager. The film was edited by Grant Whytock and the photography was by John De Grasse. Costumes were designed by O'Kane Russell and Evanny Roth and executed by Van Horn.

Say British Empire Enemy of Working Man

British Communist Party Swings to Vilification of Government

Manchester, Eng., May 21—The annual congress of the British communist party which ended here last evening, was occupied for the greater part of its time with vituperations of the Labor government and Premier Baldwin, and treachery to the working class" were denounced in a resolution which also declared the administration to be "the willing tool and accomplice of the capitalist exploiters."

The mover of the resolution added many decorations, to the formal denunciation by saying that the members of the government had shown they were ready to be the King's "hand rag's" they were reactionaries and the vilest enemies of the working class movement. Another resolution adopted demands affiliation of the communists with the Labor party and the speaker saying it was the business of the communists to get into the party and steal the leadership from the present leaders.

The program submitted to congress affirmed that the only way out of the present chaos was through revolutionary action by the proletariat. All property and industry must be nationalized without compensation; the aristocracy must be abolished and the colonies and protectorates "liberated" the bourgeoisie must be disarmed and the proletariat armed while the maintenance of the British empire should be regarded as an act of deadly enmity to the workers of the world.

Easy To Darken Your Gray Hair

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though at home is many troublesome. At little cost you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients called, "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." Just a few drops on a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger

Costs less than lumber. Use it for OUTSIDE SHEATHING

BUILD in the better-built class by using Gyproc Fireproof Wallboard in place of rough lumber for outside sheathing under brick or frame construction. GYPROC makes the entire job stronger, less inflammable and warmer—costs less money to do it.

GYPROC may be used to Fireproof the whole building, applied to the interior walls, floors and ceilings, as well as to the exterior. It costs fire risk from fire starting inside or outside. It costs fire risk to a minimum. GYPROC is a non-conductor of heat, cold or electricity. It makes a home more comfortable summer or winter. It is also used for sealing up the basement to keep vapor floors warm.

In addition to making a home a "better-built" home, wherever applied, and increasing its selling value, GYPROC is used at an actual lower cost than lumber for exterior work, or lath and plaster for interior work. Weeks of time are saved—and time is money.

Use GYPROC for the home, the garage, the summer cottage or the building of any description during construction or to improve the present building.

Consult any lumber or building supply dealer or write direct for complete information.

GYPROC is cast in large sheets from the solid rock gypsum and is 3-8-in. thick, 32 ins. wide and 4 to 10 feet long—it is light, flexible, saves like lumber and fastens with ordinary nails. Does not warp, shrink or crack.

KINGSTON OPENS CENTRAL LEAGUE HERE MONDAY; JUNIORS GO TO TWEED

Juniors Take Off at Tweed This Afternoon

Carry Four Pitchers and a Healthy Crew all Around

Sharp at 1.30 this afternoon the Belleville junior baseball squad of the Hastings and Prince Edward counties league, left the Y.M.C.A. in motor cars for Tweed where they open the baseball season with the Tweed nine, today. They were accompanied by President Robert Colling of the League, manager Harry Soanes and Umpire Stan Turner, who with J. Brown of Tweed will start the game there this afternoon at 3.30.

Armed with new equipment including their natty gray and blue uniforms the juniors are very reario to go. They have had many good practices at the high school grounds, despite the backward spring weather, and they have sounded, themselves into a formidable crew.

Manager Soanes and President Colling wish to remind the boys who have practiced faithfully, but who were not chosen for the opening game to-day, that to-day's lineup is not necessarily the solid team for the season. Any player who falters in to-day's game will have to step out and allow another to step in, probably before the season closes, every boy who has signed a certificate will have been given an opportunity to "show his stuff."

For to-day's game, the management has selected fifteen players, all of whom they look to the northern town. Who will open the barrage on the mound was undecided when the team left, as there is a quartette of hewers. Ritchie Arnott, J. Gerow, Jim Hunter and Carl Salsbury are the pitchers, while Lorne Rush and "Peter" Latchford will alternate behind the bat. Jim Dennis will play first, Cecil Pirie, second, Clarence Rigby, short stop, Andy Kinch, third, and the outfielders will be chosen from Rose, Saunders, Colling, Palmer and Townsend.

Belleville Is to Get League Game As Holiday Fixture; Last Minute Plan

Monday's attraction at the Agricultural park here will be the opening of baseball season in this city There will be two games.

Tweed juniors meet the Belleville juniors in a league fixture, while Grenadier Trunk aggregation will make their debut this season against Kingston Pollies in a regular league game, which is slated on the schedule for Wednesday May 26th. That Pirtes would not come,

At first it was believed that Peterboro would play here Monday, instead of today (the diamond being unfit for play to-day), but Peterboro refused to make the trip as that would make four games for them next week, which they believed was too much to expect of them. The present satisfactory arrangement resulted, after it was found yesterday that Pirtes would not come.

TO MEET NEW PREMIER

London, May 21—Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, plans to meet the successor to Premier Poincare of France, during the Whitsuntide Parliamentary recess for a discussion of the Dawes plan.

Contrary to reports from Rome, however, he is not likely to confer with Premier Mussolini of Italy before the convocation of a general allied conference which the British hope may be brought about in June.

Oshawa Is Confident Of Taking the Opener

Start Season in Kingston today; Limestone City Stiff Opposition

The Oshawa Baseball Club are all set and sizling pretty for today's game in Kingston, when the ball will be pitched off the C.O.B.L. for 1924. The local fanatics are out but foot after the pennant this year, and will be a hard team to stop under any circumstances. They have practically the same team which showed up so well last year, and they will be hard to keep down. Today the team is leaving on the 10.24 a.m. C.N.R. train for the Limestone City, and expect to return in the evening with the scalps of their rivals with them.

Kingston is boasting of a strong club this year, but it may be a different story when they are given the fire and water test. And they will sure get it when they step into action with Dinsley, Tyson and Conway. One of the largest crowds which ever attended an opening game in Kingston promises to be on hand providing the weather is suitable and a great game can be looked forward to. Harold Dinsley will do the shearing, and Tyson, his battery mate, will do the receiving. The team which lined up against Peterboro and Strollers will in all probability be seen in action. A number of prominent business men and club officials will make the trip with the team as the half holiday here allows them to drop off work and take in the festivities.

Great preparations have been made for the initial game and nearly every baseball fan in Kingston will be on hand to see the struggle. There will be little love lost between the two teams when they get into action.

Last night at the Y Alley's the semi-final in the mixed league was played between the Never Do Well and the Aces, but the former proved too strong for the latter by 292 pins. The Never Do Wells in the first game had to take a John Doe score as A. Wannamaker was late in arriving but never the less looked a good game in the last two rolling up for 3. The Never Do Wells took the lead right off the start and were never headed taking all the three games. The Aces Lewis and Jones seem to have lady luck on their side last night as no matter how they would let them they would leave the four pin up. For the Never Do Wells Fraser the shining light taking both the single and three string with 322 and 803 respectively. For the men these were divided between Wallace and McLennan the former taking the single with 221 and the latter the three string with 621. The Never Do Wells will now meet the Strollers in the play off on Thursday at eight-thirty of the league championship.

MADE $100 "CALL"

Toronto, May 21.—A man walked into the Woodbine Drug Store, 1612 Queen street east, last night and asked if he could use the telephone in the back of the shop. Permission was granted. An hour later Mr. Perry discovered $100 cash had been stolen from the cash drawer, situated near the telephone.

JOCKEY G. WALLS, who rode Mistrend Pride, winner of the King's Plate Saturday, weighed in after the race.

Kelly Is To Twirl For Kingston To-day

The following is from the Kingston Standard:

Kelly and Rickman will be the ballets for Kingston with Dainty and Tyson in the points for Oshawa. The team worked out at the Fair Grounds last night, and donned the togs, rare wind which was blowing they shaped up in good form, Kelly did not extend himself unduly, while Gallagher and Bennett took things easy. The field was comparatively dry, though around second base and in centre field the ground was quite heavy. Purvis worked at first base and performed in fine style, while Ralstons fielded sensationally at third. Cherry Daley and Powell will likely form the outfield for the first game and Rice and Gallacher will be ready to step into the fray at any time.

Much work is being done in the grounds, and already the seats on each side of the diamond have been attended. The field is being rolled again today, and if no more rain comes it will be excellent for the opener.

There will be the usual opening ceremonies, with Mayor Angrove, L. A. Guild and W. E. Givens invited to officiate, Sullivan and Allen are billed to handle the game.

Central Ontario Must Get Three New Umpires

Oshawa, May 21—Three umpires from the staff of the Central Ontario Baseball League have resigned before the season opens, and as a result a readjustment of the entire staff will have to be made. About a week ago Secretary Nott was notified by Cliff Boundy, of Oshawa, that he would be unable to get away to a new position which he had taken. Only letters were received from Walter Thorne, of Toronto, and K. J. Colling, formerly of Belleville, who is now in Pennsylvania, umpiring in a minor league.

Hair Stays Combed, Glossy

Greaseless Combing Cream Costs Few Cents a Jar at Drug Store

Even obstinate, snarly or shampooed hair stays combed all day in any style you like. "Hair-Groom" is a dignified combing cream which gives that natural gloss and well-groomed effect to your hair. Not sticky, greasy or smelly. Fine for hair.

Young Men's SUITS For $15.00

Now you may have in your mind that a suit for a young man at this low price would be very inferior in cloth and make up.

We do not claim they are $25.00 value but we will say that not a suit in the lot is worth less than $20.00.

The cloth is good, the trimmings are good and the styles are all the latest.

They were bought below their values. You get them below their value.

Just $15.00 - See Them!

OF INTEREST to WOMEN

Reply for Cornelia

(By Mac)

"Cornelia", woman editor of The Toronto Telegram, has recently contributed a short article to that newspaper which dealt with the U.E.L. celebration, and the courtier enroute to Washington. Speaking of Miss Lazier carrying an invitation to Mayor John Hylan of New York city, "Cornelia" wished to know if Belleville folks ever read the newspapers, and if they had ever heard that John Hylan was a friend of Bill Hearst, a Sinn Feiner, and the official who refused to act as host to the son of Britain's King during his tour of America.

Since the appearance of the article, Miss Lazier has safely delivered the invitation to Mayor Hylan, who received her very graciously with other city officials. "He did not receive her with open arms", but according to a New York despatch received by The Intelligencer yesterday, he did everything else but—

He proved to be a most excellent host to "Miss Belleville". Probably it was impossible for him to resist the personality of a daughter of the district where they blend culture and agriculture.

Miss Lazier's entry into, and stay in the American metropolis has resulted much more satisfactorily than it would have, had she neglected to extend an invitation to the Mayor of the largest city through which she will pass, after having invited every other Chief Magistrate along the route. It has been suggested that Belleville's mounted courier may possibly be the dove of peace to the souls of such men.

With regard to the query as to whether Belleville's read the newspapers, it might be stated that Belleville is one of the two small cities in Ontario which support two daily newspapers.

CLAIMS FORCED MARRIAGE

Toronto, May 21.—Following a complaint of John O'Neil, aged 30, of 31 Lindsley Street, that he had been lured into a motor car on Monday night and married against his will to Miss Beatrice Miller, 21 Jones Avenue, David Miller, brother of the girl of the above address, was taken into custody by Detectives Clarke and Winters on a charge will stand against him until this morning, when he appears in the Police Court. What the new charge will be has not yet been decided.

REMANDED ONE WEEK

Toronto, May 21—Mrs. Flora McClelland, Patrick Kelly and Harry Phillips were yesterday remanded in the police court to May 27, following their arrest last week, charged with illegal-intelligence. Mrs. McClelland had been remanded to today in the magistrate's court, and when she was called to appear in the men's court, her counsel pled for the bench that it was his intention to be tried by a jury and was only ready for a preliminary hearing today.

BURNS PROVE FATAL

Toronto, May 22—Terribly burned about the body as the result of playing with matches last Saturday, little four-year-old Edith Sykes, of 267 Windsor avenue died at 7:30 last evening in the Hospital for Sick Children. Chief Coroner G. W. Graham was notified, and the body removed to the morgue, where an inquest will likely be held.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

CHAPTER XXIX

She found Miss Worcester and Selby Layton seated at the breakfast-table; but they had only made a pretense of beginning and Miss Worcester eluded her for fasting Ister.

"I had the greatest difficulty in persuading Mr. Layton to commence," she said; "but I knew you would not like us to wait. Where have you been, my dear Esther?"

Selby Layton said nothing but looked at her with keen-like intentness, as he rose and drew a chair forward and bower a bow to her a moment, in a manner that irritated Esther. She knew that they would both hear the news which she had received this morning directly they went to the village, and as she gave the real reason for her delay, rushed at the subject, as a horse takes a particularly high fence which has to be negotiated somehow or other.

"I was walking around the home farm when I saw Transom and Jack Reeve talking to the Martins at the gate. They were in trouble. It seems that Kate Transom had either run away, or been run away, in fact. She left a note to say that she had gone to London to seek a situation."

"Foolish girl!" said Miss Worcester.

"But it is thought that that is not the reason for her flight," Transom and Dick Reeve, who is a lover of hers, I suppose—strongly suspect that she has followed Mr. Gordon, that she has gone to join him in London."

Suffering is a tonic and a training, and Esther felt by this time learnt to take much her feelings, so that, somewhat to her own surprise, she made this announcement with apparent calmness.

"What a wicked girl!" exclaimed Miss Worcester. "Really, I am inclined to think that it would be for better for them if girls of the lower classes were all born plain."

Even in her misery, Esther rebel not refuse the tribute of a smile to this extraordinary pronouncement.

"You may smile, my dear Esther; but I do honestly think so. As to Mr. Gordon, he must be an extremely bad man. I must say I did not think he would have acted so wickedly."

"I only said that they suspected," said Esther, coldly. "So far as I can glean, there is no evidence against him; it is mere suspicion on their part based on the fact that the two persons left Vancourt about the same time."

Selby Layton had listened intently, looking from one to the other. He had been so absorbed of late in his own trouble affairs, that he had not given much attention to outside matters, and being ignorant of what had passed between Jack Gordon and Esther, had regarded him as of no importance. He did 'but like the man, but thought him presumptuous, and above his place, and he would have joined Miss Worcester in her prompt condemnation of Jack Gordon, from sheer dislike; but he was quiet to take his cue from Esther's words.

"Country people are always suspicious," he said, smoothly. "I have no doubt Mr. Gordon has had nothing whatever to do with the girl, and is quite innocent."

Esther looked at him almost gratefully and he smiled at her and at once followed up his success.

"At any rate, there is no difficulty in discovering the truth. Mr. Gordon can be communicated with—he has left his address, I presume?"

Esther bit her lip softly, but she replied fairly enough:

"No, he has not."

Selby Layton raised his brows slightly, but only slightly, and Esther went on:

"I think he was going to London; but I imagine his movements were rather uncertain, and that he was going in search of work."

"He had a very good situation here, had he not? Why did he throw it up?" asked Selby Layton, not unnaturally but pleasantly enough.

Esther fought against her rising color. "He may have wanted a change," she said, bending over her letters.

Miss Worcester came to her aid.

"I should think he was the sort of man that would never rest contented anywhere," she said. "The first time we saw him he looked like a common tramp, and, though Esther was very favourably impressed, I thought at the time it was rather unwise to engage a man of whom we knew nothing—

"Except that he probably saved Marsha's life at the risk of his own," said Esther, quickly, and with a flush of her dark grey eyes.

"A man capable of such heroism is not likely to be guilty of persuading a girl to leave her home," said Selby Layton. "I met him once or twice, and I must say he struck me as being a very decent sort of fellow."

"He was," said Esther, dryly, "I am sure he is not guilty; but the difficulty is to prove it.

I have promised to have some enquiries made quite privately; but I am sure I do not know how to set about it. If the suspicions are unfounded, it would be hard on Mr. Gordon and the girl an injustice to make them public."

"Quite so," asserted Selby Layton. "But I should think there would be no difficulty in tracing both him and the girl."

"I wish it could be done," said Esther, earnestly and with a sigh.

Much as he desired to bring matters to a conclusion with Esther and obtain her assention to a definite engagement, Selby Layton was rather anxious to leave Vancourt for a few days, at any rate. Here was an opportunity for getting away and placing her under an obligation.

"Let me try," he said, with a pleasant smile.

Esther looked at him quickly, but Miss Worcester was the first property was shocked by his proposal.

"Really, Mr. Layton, I don't think it's the proper thing for you to do! I don't think you ought to mix yourself up in such a dreadful affair; and the idea of your playing the part of private detective is absurd, ridiculous. There are especially qualified persons whom Esther could employ; it is the best upon finding what has become of the girl; though I should certainly advise her to have nothing to do with the matter. It is not fitting that a lady of her position, to say nothing of a gentleman of yours, should concern herself with so vulgar and—er—improper an affair."

"But I have given my promise, aunt," said Esther; "and the Transoms are my people. Mr. Gordon was in my employment, and the fact that I employed him without making enquiries adds to my responsibility."

CONVENTION HEADQUARTERS IN CANADA

The above is the heading of a circular just issued by the Canadian National Railways, drawing attention to the excellent accommodation provided for conventions by the railway's splendid hotels at Ottawa, Port Arthur, Winnipeg, Brandon, Edmonton, Jasper National Park, Minaki and Algonquin Park. Attention is particularly directed to Algonquin Park in the Highlands of Ontario and Minaki, 114 miles east of Winnipeg, both of which resorts are admirably situated for conventions being held in the summer season.

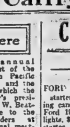

Any agent of the Canadian National Railways for copy of circular. The Company's representatives will be pleased to render assistance in arranging accommodation, train schedules and any other details.

BRITAIN WILL HELP RUSSIA RAISE LOAN

London, May 21.—An offer to set aside a lump sum to cover the private debts of the Russian Government to British subjects if a long-term loan could be arranged with the assistance of the British Government, was made by the Russian delegates at today's session of the Anglo-Soviet conference. The Russians said they would only consider the claims of those who held Russian bonds before March 12, 1917.

The British delegation replied that the British Government would not undertake to guarantee such a loan, but would take a favorable attitude to ward the efforts of the Russians to raise the loan privately.

Here and There

R. W. Beatty, K.C.

The annual statement of the Canadian Pacific Railway and the report which the president, R. W. Beatty, K.C., made to the shareholders at the annual meeting are matters of first rate interest, not only to the 26,000 odd number of Canadian citizens who hold the company's stock in the great railway road, but to all interested in Canadian progress and development. By reason of the way in which the company's operations touch all lines of Canadian life and enterprise there can be no pronounced depression or prosperity in any part of the country without its being reflected in the earnings of the Canadian Pacific. There is a barometer of the country's industrial trade also in the results of the operations of the company's lines, based upon the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Thus there was established last season for gratification in the president's statement made at the annual meeting on May 7th, that the operations of the company had been conducted throughout 1923 in a satisfactory manner and with satisfactory results. Mr. Beatty pointed out that gross earnings for the year which had totalled $105,887,089, were greater by $16,816,150 than those of 1922. Working expenses, however, increased by $7,300,000 to $74,086,079. This large increase in operating costs was due to large expenditures made upon the property in order that it might be kept in the highest possible physical standard and capable of handling with the possible service to the community. As a result the property was left in so excellent a condition as it now is. Net earnings for the year were $27,479,014, an increase of $1,177,000.

The total tonnage moved by the company during the year amounted to 32,852,224, an increase over that of the previous year of 3,166,408, due to the movement of grain, coal, lumber, manufactured articles and general merchandise, the largest increase being in grain and grain products. Mr. Beatty pointed out that this satisfactory condition had extended well into the present year and that due to favorable operating conditions and heavy crops the earnings for the first quarter of 1924 had increased over those of the same period last year by $1,233,851.

Referring to the question of retirement of railroads, Mr. Beatty said that the difference between it and the Canadian Pacific was largely in name only and in the qualifications of personnel of shareholders. The securities of both systems were owned by private investors throughout the world and there was no significant steady increase in both Canadian and British holdings of Canadian Pacific common stock. The phases of the government railway situation called for criticism. Under a statute passed in 1919 the Government-owned lines may construct branches only upon approval of the location and other details by the Railway Commission. Thus they may parallel or duplicate existing lines of any other company since the Minister approves and parliament authorizes the construction. Mr. Beatty stated that in his opinion it was equally the duty of railways of the Canadian people and of all Canadian railroads that the country should be in the same position in this respect. He also commented on the result of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement of 1897. In the well established special statutory freight rates under conditions operating only which no longer exist and differences in rates which were then permitted under the general Railway Act because of the changed basis in relation to commodity rates on other articles and to the rates effective in other parts of the country. The greatest advantage to shippers as a whole would be served if all rates were made subject to review and change as conditions warrant by the tribunal constituted for that purpose.

In referring to the outlook for the future, Mr. Beatty stated that while there was a noticeable lull in domestic and export business due in part to unsettlement in industrial districts, generally speaking the first quarter of the year had been satisfactory. The crop acreage would probably be about the same as last year and, generally speaking, soil conditions were excellent. "If the total yield approaches that of 1923," said Mr. Beatty, "there will undoubtedly be a very extensive autumn business and a vastly improved psychological and financial situation throughout the whole country. There is no real ground for pessimism in respect of the future of either the company or the country, though an extraordinary and too rapid advance is neither to be expected nor desired."

Harry K. Thaw Is Now Free; Wealthy Again

Plans to Go to New York to Face Last Charge

Philadelphia, May 21.—Free and again in possession of his large estate Harry K. Thaw, who has spent the greater part of the last seventeen years in jail and asylums plans his counsel said, to go to New York at once to face the large last charge against him an alleged attack on Frederick Gump, Jr., in 1917. A civil suit growing out of the charge has been settled out of court and a motion will be made to squash the criminal indictment.

The lawyer of Stanford White was unconditionally released from the Pennsylvania Hospital for mental and nervous diseases Monday night when Judge Monahan signed the judgment on the jury's verdict declaring Thaw sane. This followed withdrawal of a motion for retrial filed by counsel for Evelyn Nesbit, Thaw's divorced wife, who was permitted to intervene in the case in behalf of her son, William Russell Thaw. Since the jury on April 22, ordered him sane and capable of managing his estate, Thaw has been visiting his mother in Pittsburgh. He was on parole and was accompanied by an attendant from the hospital.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER

Jury Could Not Find Bergeron Performed Illegal Operation

Montreal, May 21—J. H. Bergeron was acquitted Monday afternoon of the murder of Cecile Tremblay, who died from shock following an illegal operation, on March 28 last.

The Tremblay woman died in Bergeron's building on Berri street, after she had been picked up unconscious in the street, outside the house.

Dozen Could Dance On Big Pane of Glass

Mammoth Window is on Exhibition at British Empire Show

London, May 21.—The largest sheet of plate glass in existence is at Wembley Exhibition, where it has been erected for the world to gaze at unthrough. This mammoth window pane has had an adventurous journey from Yorkshire to London.

Being much too large for carriage rail—for the sheet measure 14 ft. by 22 ft.—it had to be transported in an enormous lorry, towed by a steam traction. A special route had to be mapped out for the journey, and many detours were necessary to avoid ridges too low for the giant crate in which the glass was packed. Despite these precautions, one bridge was cleared by so small a margin that a match could barely have been inserted between the top of the crate and the masonry above.

The area of the monster pane is 330 sq. ft. If laid flat on the ground, there would be ample room for a dozen couples to dance on it. The handling of so large a sheet of glass at Wembley was no light task, in spite of the fact that special apparatus had been installed for the purpose. At the height the problem was solved by means of conveyors, operated with huge steam, resembling the tentacles of a giant of prehistoric days, which pick up enormous plates of glass and carry them about as if they were sheets of paper.

Although Drs. Devine and McTaggart, medical experts attached to the Coroner's Court, testified that the young woman had undergone an illegal operation, it could not be proved that Bergeron had performed it, and the jury, after deliberating ten minutes, returned a verdict acquitting him.

R. KONDO, clever Japanese student at the Ontario College of Art, who was awarded honors and a scholarship for a painting.

BANK BANDITS IS SHOT BY WINNIPEG POLICE

Winnipeg, Man., May 21—A volley of bullets from the automatics of a pursuing force of detectives ended the career of Frank Martin, of 516 Langside Street, Winnipeg, who a few minutes previously had carried out a daring immediate holdup of the Goulet Street Portage Avenue branch of the Bank of Montreal. The entire booty of approximately $2,000 in bank notes, which he had secreted in his clothing, was recovered.

Martin, who is said to have been a steer wrestler with a police record, was brought down after a spectacular chase, the robber speeding at a high rate in a stolen automobile closely followed by a force of city detectives in motor cars of the uniformed police. At the sound, keeping up a running gun fight which ended when a bullet struck the fleeing robber in the head and chest. The men dropped over the wheel, while the stolen car dashed up on a sidewalk, struck a telephone pole and with both wheels smashed, came to a halt.

Township Scandal From Bad to Worse

Auditor's Final Report Uncertain; Allege Shortages Are Covered Up

Kingston, May 21.—Things seem to be going from bad to worse in respect to the financial affairs of the Township of Kingston, and now seems uncertain when Auditor Muir will be able to make a final report.

The reason for this, so it is reported, is that numerous papers, documents and reports are missing and no trace whatever can be found of them in their original form and no one seems to know how or when they disappeared. That it is that the investigation is help up in some certain direction. On one of this there are said to be indications of "covering up" in the last two years—that is, that alleged shortages of earlier years have in part been made good by excess payments in these last two years.

The amazing part of it is that none of the township officials seem to have been under bond, although the law expressly declares that they shall be, and bold certain elected officials, including the Reeve, personally responsible for any failure to see that the appointed officials are properly bonded.

The talk proves that the shortage at revealed up to date runs between $4,000 and $5,000.

some of the military arrangements.

The obligations of the corporation had reached 2,400, perhaps a little more.

"If the committee felt like taking over the obligations of the corporation," the Mayor said, "I would ask the Corporation to hand over the money and let you do the best with it, but I wouldn't support the proposition unless you can take care of those obligations.

The spirit of the corporation was to meet the citizens committee in every way, he added, and he hoped that any mistakes he had made would be overlooked.

Mr. Tice felt that sports and games planned were as patriotic as military arrangements and could not see why the corporation could not handle them.

No Opposition

With the meeting realising that success depended upon the entire celebrating being handled by one head, Major McManus' motion calling for the committee to take everything over from the Corporation was looked upon with favor so far as the principle was concerned. After the motion had been carefully drafted it passed without objection.

The Mayor agreed to call a meeting of the executive of the Corporation right away to put the proposition up to them and the two bodies will likely meet afterwards to consolidate.

G. PORTER TO PRESS CHARGE IN THE HOUSE

Wants Real Explanation From Motherwell on Home Bank Incident

WITHDREW DEPOSIT

Alleged to Have Acted Contrary to Well Defined British Rule

Ottawa, May 22.—E. Guss Porter, West Hastings, has notified Premier King that today at the opening of the session he will bring before Parliament the charge against Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Labor, of taking advantage of information obtained as Minister of the Crown to withdraw his deposit in the Home Bank between the time the directors appealed to the Government and the failure of the bank. The story of Mr. Marshall's rush to the Home Bank on the Wednesday before the bank collapsed on the following Friday was made public the day Parliament opened. His explanation at the time was very vague and since then he has given no further information on the transaction. The latter will be forced today by Mr. Porter, who will make the charge of using information obtained officially, for personal benefit and he will do this on his responsibility as a member of Parliament.

When a member becomes a Minister of the Crown he takes an oath as Privy Councilor not to divulge information thus gained or use it for his personal benefit or protection. British precedents are very clear, on this point and any violation of such trust is always penalized by forfeiture of portfolio, and this would necessarily be followed by resignation from the Parliament to give the offending Minister's constituents an opportunity to pass judgment on him. When such charges are made, if the constitutional precedents still obtain here, a select committee will be chosen to investigate the charges and report to Parliament.

Story of Withdrawal

The Home Bank failed on Friday, August 17th. On Thursday evening, August 14th, the representative of Ottawa were in Ottawa appealing to the Government, and were refused aid. Acting in Montreal on Wednesday morning, meeting a representative of the Bankers' Association, the bank was refused assistance. This was known in Government circles Wednesday noon. Mr. Murdock entered the Home Bank, withdrew $4,050, leaving less than $50 in deposit. He refused to take a marked cheque, but took the cash and immediately deposited it in another bank a few doors way on the same street. The bank failed on Friday and Mr. Murdock had less than $100 on deposit, while forty-eight hours before he had $4,000

STRUCK BY TRAIN ESCAPES UNHURT

Mrs. Burly Cannifton Road Became Confused at Belleville C.N.R. Yards

Struck by the bumper beam of a lat C. N. R. engine which was being shunted through the yards here Wednesday morning, Mrs. Burt, Cannifton Road, was knocked down and rolled off the track, arising a few moments later, slightly injured.

Mrs Burt was walking along the path leading from Cannifton Road, and across the tracks. When the engine drew near, the bell was rung twice, and the train, an Eastbound manifest continued slowly through the yards. Mrs. Burt evidently became excited, and instead of stepping off the track, stepped on just as the big engine passed.

Mrs. Burt, who had been up to Peterboro 5.20 train to see friends of, was able to walk to her home after the accident.

NON-SUPPORT CASE UP

FIRST STRAW APPEARS

One may shiver, keep wearing the winter overcoat, continue throwing coal into the hungry mouth of the furnace and chide the weatherman, but summer is here.

On Front street last night a youth of the city was observed riding a bicycle and wearing a straw hat with style assurance. Along the street he watched him lir amazement and smiled through chattering teeth.

BENCH WARNS AUTO DRIVERS

Stiff Fines Coming for those Who Disobey Parking Laws

FIVE IN COURT TO-DAY

Those in the habit of parking their automobiles at a greater distance than fourteen inches from the curbs are being warned to break the habit at once. Repeated warnings from the police last summer were useless and Chief Kidd has begun more drastic action.

Five motorists four men and one woman, who appeared in police court before Magistrate S. Masson this morning, were let off with a warning by this city by-law, were allowed to go with a severe warning from the Bench.

"I will allow you people to go this time with a warning, but future offenders who appear here may prepare to pay a stiff fine," explained the Magistrate.

The by-law calls for a maximum fine of $20 and costs, and judging by the Highway Traffic Act, which imposes a minimum fine of this figure, a minimum in this case will be a similar amount. Described as being the most dangerous engine upon the highways and more dangerous than railway trains, which have the right of way and whose course is destined by the steel rails, the motor car is subjected to strict and numerous laws to govern them, the Bench complained. Motor owners and chauffeurs were also asked to give heed to their instructions study the various laws in connection with the safe operation of a motor car.

The offenders were charged with what is known in police parlance as "double parking," where motor cars are parked "two deep" along one curb. This is a practice which is very popular in the city on the nights of every Saturday afternoons and nights, and it is believed with a very great deal of it is unnecessary.

Mrs. Woolworth Dead; Formerly of Picton

New York, May 21.—Mrs. Jessie Creighton Woolworth, widow of F. W. Woolworth, founder of the chain of five-and-ten cent stores bearing his name, died yesterday morning at her home, Winfield Hall, Glen Cove, Long Island. Mrs. Woolworth was 69 years old, and survived her husband more than five years. She was the daughter of Thomas Creighton of Picton, Ont.

At the time of Mr. Woolworth's death in 1919 his estate was estimated at over $50,000,000 between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000, but it is believed to have increased to a total upward of $60,000,000 since.

Mrs. Woolworth is survived by two daughters and a granddaughter, and by a son, Hubert T. Jr. Until he is the case her daughters and grand daughter will inherit the property. Mr. Woolworth left the major part of it to his wife. She had been declared incompetent to manage her affairs, however, and they were directed by a committee appointed by her daughters and Hubert T. Parson, President of F. W. Woolworth Company, and one of Mr. Woolworth's most intimate associates.

CHASED COW MOOSE IN HEART OF CITY

Quebec, May 22—A cow moose appeared in the heart of the heart of the city about 1 a.m. this morning apparently and was first seen tourinigoon

She was first observed by the constable on St. John Street from Palace Hill. A constable-driver passing passed to the running board of a passing auto and drove to Palace Hill, until St. Valley Street was reached. The constable left up a fire hydrant running board and wounded the animal severe Three, but even then the moose was able to shake the constable and car driver off and made another wild effort her goal tried to hold her down by the horns. A final bullet, however, ended her struggles.

GWEN LAZIER HURRYING NOW TO WASHINGTON

Reached Philadelphia Yesterday; is Leaving With Escort To-day

VISITS AT PRINCETON

Expects to Reach Capitol by Monday of Next Week

Gwen Lazier, courier, is making her way as rapidly as possible now to Washington to deliver her invitation to President Coolidge. Mayor Mikel has received word that she cut her stay short in New York that she might get to Washington and back in time to open the big sports show in New York city next week.

Arriving in Philadelphia yesterday she is expected to leave that city today on the last leg to the Capitol.

The following telegram was received by the mayor last night from the Mayor of Philadelphia, W. Freland Kendricks.

"Miss Gwen Lazier arrived in Philadelphia safe and happy this afternoon at three o'clock. The hospitality of the city is extended to her."

After a siesge of two or three days, Miss Lazier has written again, this time from Preston, New Jersey. The young lady reported that she arrived there safely from Rhoway, N.J. and was taken to the Princeton University where she was well entertained. She added that a state trooper was acting as an escort on the road down from Princeton.

It is expected that Miss Lazier will reach Washington by Monday.

WANT SUM OF $8,000 FOR SEPARATE BOARD

The Separate School Board of this city has requisitioned the City Council to provide $6,000 as their share of the Board for this year.

Last year the management of the Corby Public Library received from the Council $4,500, that amount being required to meet the expenditures. The same amount is asked for this year but there is no doubt be included in the estimates which will be considered and passed tomorrow.

CANADIANS PRESENT AT LONDON UNVEILING

London, May 22—Field Marshall the Viscount Byng performed the unveiling memorial in Hyde Park erected to the memory of the men of the 47th who fell in the war. The Prince of Wales attended also.

It has been the object of the designers of the memorial to get a harmonise with the surrounding architectural features, and the result is conceded in this will be admitted by all who have seen the work. The memorial is an emblem of Heroism in which St. George and the dragon occupy a prominent position. Contractors got a sum of some £10000, which has been subscribed by officers and men of the cavalry regiments, it is among the most beautiful of London's war memorials.

On behalf of Canada there were present Lieut.-Colonel Hamilton Gault, W. H. Bell, D.S.O., Royal Canadian Dragoons, Toronto, and Major W. W. Mitchell, Fort Gary Horse.

MERCURY DROPPED AS LOW AS 29 YESTERDAY

The temperature during the past three days has by no means indicated the approach of summer. At the gump city station the self-registering thermometer recorded the temperature as follows:

	Maximum	Minimum
Monday	64	36
Tuesday	51	35
Wednesday	57	29

The same dates last year the lowest temperature was 37 and that was on May 19th, 1923.

TO USE CHINESE PLANE

Shanghai, May 22.—Captain Pelletier Doisy will continue his Paris to Tokio flight Sunday or Monday in a Chinese airplane, he announced yesterday afternoon after he had made a test flight in the Chinese machine.

The airplane was offered to the Frenchman by General Ho Ying Ching, military governor of Shanghai, after Pelletier Doisy's machine wrecked when landing here.

Doisy's first step on the continued flight will be Nanking.

NO SCHOOL HOLIDAY MONDAY

Despite the fact that petitions circulated by students in the city schools have been largely signed, there will not be a school holiday here on Monday, May 26th. The petitioners requested a holiday on Monday.

In conversation with Mr. Jeffers Diamond, secretary of the Belleville School Board this afternoon, he stated that there would be no school holiday on Monday.

FIRE ON YEOMAN'S STREET

At one o'clock this afternoon the fire brigade was called to Mr. Symm's residence on Yeoman's Street in Sidney occasioned in a room upstairs by spontaneous combustion, but no fire any material damage was done. The fire brigade made an exceptionally quick run to the premises.

MUST PAY OWN WAY

Toronto, May 22—The 48th Highlanders are going to Belleville for the U. E. Loyalists' celebration, and the Board of Control levened a sitting leave to members of the Regiment who are civic employees on June 16, 17, 18. The board will also attend on the mayor of Belleville. Revelation.

"The celebration commemorates the acme of loyalty," said the mayor. "But it is understood that the members at Council go at their own expense and use their own cars."

NO HOPE FOR LOWER TAX RATE TO-MORROW

At three o'clock tomorrow afternoon an adjourned meeting of the City Council will be held when the estimates for the year will be considered and the tax rate struck. The session will no doubt be one of considerable interest. It is not to be expected that the rate will be any lower than that of last year, as expenditures have further increased than diminished.

COUNTY CONVENTION OF W.C.T.U. OPENED

W. C. T. U. County Convention opened at 9.30 a.m. to-day in John Street Methodist Church, and continued throughout the afternoon, there being a good representation present from all parts of the county.

Today's meetings proved interesting, and will doubtless stimulate excellent attendance The executive committee to-meet also. To-night and to-morrow night, interesting addresses will be delivered which will attract many city people, it is anticipated.

ASKED FOR A LIFT; KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Montreal, May 22.—Described as about 31 years of age, weighting around 190 pounds, brown eyes and hair, the body of an unknown was later of Polish-Russian extraction, is in the hands of the local Jewish authorities, who are trying to establish his identity. The man was running car when nearing Chambly Canton and asked for a lift. The occupants of the car took him in and after a few miles further on had an accident in which the man expired, killing the unknown. He is about 35 years.

Dr. Forbes Predicts Goitre Cure Within Year to Ontario Health Association

Toronto, May 22—Introduction of the cure for goitre and nature of goitre by small percentage of iodine in all salt in Maine; announcement by Hon. use of domestic purposes as a means of preventing goitre was advocated by Dr. David Marine, Associate Professor of Pathology in Columbia University New York, at yesterday afternoon's session of the annual convention of the Ontario Health Officers' Association in the University of Toronto Physics Building. An exhaustive survey of the results of 20 years' study of

Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of year he hoped to be able to demonstrate positive cures in a series of goitre cases, and brief talks by Dr. H. M. and W. M. Box on the scientific use of iodine. "Prevention is better than cure, and the use of iodine in foodstuffs is the best way to prevent goitre," he said in a program which was listened to by nearly 200 municipal health officials.

POULTRY CULLING COURSE IS COMING

Agricultural Representative Gathering Farmers in Stirling in Preparation

As a result of numerous queries which have been received at the office of the Agricultural Representative at Stirling, recently, Mr. Ray Atkin, the representative has planned an interesting poultry culling demonstration, which will be held at his office there on May 27th, and 28th. The majority of the parties have come from Sidney township farmers, adjacent to Belleville. Mr. Atkin states:

During the special two day course to be conducted by Professor Graham of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, will give practical demonstrations at the hour a layley hen should be culled from a money-layer. He will show how it is possible to show how many eggs a hen has laid, and how many eggs she will lay. The course will be taken up thoroughly, and is open to all.

Following the demonstrations, young men of the county, who have studied the methods under Professor Graham, will be selected to take the course, and they will be secured to any time by any person in the county to cull their flocks.

Liberals Drop Out To Waterloo Fight

Bye-Election Now Stands Between Labor Man and W. C. Shaw, Conservative

Galt, May 22—At a well-attended meeting of the South Waterloo Liberal Association last night, Mr. Bowman was decided by an almost unanimous vote not to put a candidate in the field in the June bye-election in South Waterloo. It is now the fight that it was between the interests of the party to let in the hands of local Jewish authorities, who are trying to establish his identity. The man was running car when nearing Chambly Canton and asked for a lift. The occupants of the car took him in and after a few miles further on had an accident in which the man expired, killing the unknown. He is about 35 years.

FELL 20 FEET AND LANDED ON CEMENT FLOOR

Joseph Hill, Working at Point Anne, Escaped Death Miraculously

IS RESTING EASY

Brought to City General Hospital at Midnight Last Night

While at work with the night shift engaged in constructing the new crusher building at the Canada Cement Company, Point Ane, last night, Joseph Hill, aged about forty stumbled (or) from the scaffolding on which he stood to the rock floor of the plant, a distance of more than twenty feet, sustaining painful injuries. How he escaped with his life is a mystery to those who are familiar with the location, and the fact that he struck the wall on the way down, which broke his fall. This is the only person offered for his miraculous escape from fatal injuries.

Immediately after the accident at o'clock last night, Hill was rushed to the General Hospital here and this all-mean hospital authorities report that he is resting comfortably. His injuries consist of a deep gash on the back of the head and the severe body bruises.

Hill, who has been employed at the Canada Cement Company plant for some time, is a married man and lives at Shannonville.

JUNIOR FARMERS TAKE MOTOR TRIP

Hastings Boys leave in June For Kemptville and Brockville

An interesting motor tour has been arranged for the Junior Farmers in parts of Hastings County by the respective Agricultural representative, Mr. Ray Atkin of Stirling.

Early on the morning of June 4th, next, some fifteen cars will leave Stirling on a three day motor trip to the Agricultural school at Kemptville, Ont. Enroute, the tourists will call at the farms of the stock breeders' farms and make inspections, among them being Holstein herd at Brockville, where big herd will be seen.

On June 5th, a monster field day is being held at Kemptville for the junior farmers of Eastern Ontario, as far west as Peterboro, and the Hastings County boys will take an active part in the events. They are leaving a basket lunch and the members of the party will also participate in the field sat of the garden lunch counter from Sidney township farmers, adjacent to Belleville. Mr. Atkin state.

During the special two day course to be conducted by Professor Graham of the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, will give practical demonstrations at the hour a layley hen should be culled from a money-layer. He will show how it is possible to show how many eggs a hen has laid, and how many eggs she will lay. The course will be taken up thoroughly, and is open to all.

Following the demonstrations, young men of the county, who have studied the methods under Professor Graham, will be selected to take the course, and they will be secured to any time by any person in the county to cull their flocks.

Trust Government To Amend O.T.A.

Bishop of Niagara Refers to Blemishes in Present Act

St. Catharines, May 22—At the Niagara Anglican Synod yesterday afternoon, Bishop Clark referred to the Ontario Temperance Act. He said: "There are serious blemishes in the present act. Its best friends will admit. No doubt there is a great deal of evasion. Druggists have their cellars stocked and there is much drinking in the middle of their families, and we know what obtains with many. Improved methods have become rich in the bootlegging business. Investigation has pointed out to me where the farms have been neglected and where beautiful houses have been erected through the liquor business. Some doctors have developed a rich practice through liquor certificates wholesale.

"I feel that we may trust the Government of the people to amend this act, or to give an improved one. We are prepared to support severe measures for the punishment of those who influences others to drink."

All the Other Details

"Did you see the number of the car that ran you down?"

"No, I didn't have time to notice it. But the lady who was driving it is a right pretty girl, with black frame, large red carrings, gold-filled teeth, black hair and fawn gloves."

THE WEATHER

Northwest and west winds, clearing to-night and on Friday, with a little higher temperature.

GOOD BOOKS

Here is something that is really new and refreshing. An official of the American Booksellers' Association is authority for the statement that people who claim that movie pictures and the radio interfere with the reading of good books are pessimists. According to this official the movies and radio have stimulated good reading. That people are thinking more is evident from the increasing sale of books on serious subjects.

It is interesting to know this, and it is well to know it. Too often the complaint is heard that we are all wasting our time with imbecilities or worse. It is perfectly true that there is a great deal of what seems fo be worthless stuff coming from the press. There is a parody due to the fact that more people than ever before are engaged in the production of printed matter, because more people than ever before are reading printed matter in some form or other. But it is not to be forgotten that more people than ever are producing books on serious subjects and more people than ever before are reading them.

And it may be that in describing the whole classes of books as worthless we may be guilty of passing hasty judgment. A novel that has little or nothing to do with reality may be the very thing required by some poor, tired creature who knows too much about reality and desires an escape from it. And any book that helps a reader to spend an hour in a harmless way may be a valuable book on certain occasions, or under certain circumstances.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

IRRESPONSIBLE LIBERALS

High handed disregard of responsible government on the part of the King administration is shown in history of the Union Club deal in London, the details of which were painfully extracted by Mr. Meighen and his followers in the House at Ottawa this session.

It was brought out that the agreement to purchase this $1,200,000 property was signed by the High Commissioner away back in June 1923 and that the Canadian Government had ratified a binding offer by cable in May 1923, all done before Parliament had the slightest information on the question.

The Liberal Government can easily find-two or three millions for buildings in Paris and London. But it pleads poverty when home people ask for appropriations for badly needed post offices and public improvements.

SPRING WINDS

Winds from the realm of clamor,
That blow from the sheer,
Breathe ye above this clamor,
A breath of the serene.

The rest that pine the valley,
The hush that holds the hill,
The rhyme of streams that rally
They pastures green and still.

Blow from our blinking vision,
The dust of our mad haste,
Bring us the pure, elysian
Calm of the clean wide waste

Blow clean the eyes of duty,
Till we shall be able
Street with the joy and beauty,
Of the Celestial Day.

PRESS OPINIONS

MARRIAGE AND COMMONSENSE

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

But reason has little to do with matrimony, though the majority of marriages turn out reasonably well. A period of adjustment must be gone through, and if both parties are tolerant and possess some sense of humor their matrimonial prospects may be written down as good.

FREE PUBLICITY

(Timmins Daily Press)

Publicity is a newspaper's stock in trade and it is to the individual's and the community's interest just as much as to the interest of the newspaper itself to see that a newspaper is adequately recompensed for publicity matter, because if a newspaper is properly supported it is able to render broader service to the community. Free publicity should no more be expected from a newspaper than free legal advice from a lawyer or free medical advice from a physician.

HELPS FILL CHURCH PEWS

(Niagara Falls Review)

One may venture the opinion that there will be many ministers who will differ from the Bishop of Huron who denounces the Ontario Temperance Act as inconsistent with the teaching of Christ. The great trouble with it, one was that it prevented many from getting drunk who would otherwise do it in their homes. There can be no denial of the fact that drunkenness is evident in living in higher because it has become unfashionable in the lower. Many men today are attending church in their own parlor for a fit reason than on Sundays to appear anywhere.

RADICAL CHANGE NECESSARY

(Natal Advertiser)

Europe, with three times as many languages as before the war, and three times as many nations, with an innumerable increase in the fighting heaps, is being radically moved towards an eventual international decision. The politics of the present day contain all the elements of another destructive war.

Europe cannot endure as a purely militarist question. It cannot succeed economically with its existing barriers of frontier, language, tariff, hate and financial instability.

TAKE ADVANTAGE OF RADIO

(Hamilton Spectator)

The wise course is to cooperate not oppose. Phonograph manufacturers who were slow to recognize the value of the radio industry are now pushing combination radio-phonographs on the market.

LOSS TO EMPIRE

(Hamilton Spectator)

There was no more notable exploit in the world war than the defence of Kut-el-Amara by General Sir Charles V. F. Townshend, commander of the Mesopotamian Expedition, who died in Paris yesterday. He took every British woman the pasha in this radiant soldier and gentleman, who made modern history by withstanding a siege of 148 days, though his little army was hopelessly outnumbered by attacking Turkish forces.

DANGEROUS GROUND

(Mail and Empire)

There is likely to be a Government crisis at Ottawa if Hon. W. R. Motherwell continues to insist on a protective tariff the antipathy of golf which he evinced in his dealing with a veteran official of his Department.

USE NO FIREARMS

(Toronto Globe)

Without any desire to comment on the charge against the gamekeeper who shot two Belgians on a private estate near Cobourg, it ought to be distinctly laid down as a general principle that firearms are not to be used against those who trespass on fishing or game preserves. Private owners have, of course, a right to prevent and punish trespass, but upon sovereign principles cannot switch in the balance with the carelessness of human life.

A Dislike for Food

Every healthy man and woman should have a natural desire for food at meal times. The stomach secretes the digestive juices in anticipation and that the blood is in good condition. But if you feel a distaste for food—if the sight and smell of wholesome food disgusts you—you may be sure that Nature is telling you that all is not well with you. You do not eat if you have no appetite for breakfast, your face is distasteful, or if you feel that it is a trouble to eat, your digestion is rebelling. You do not digest properly the food you are taking and are therefore not hungry.

All these symptoms of a disordered digestion mean that the blood is not making proper nourishment from the food for the work of the blood is to collect proper nourishment from food and impart it to the system. The stomach tries to refuse food the nutriment from which the blood cannot assimilate and thus causes the lack of appetite. If you force yourself to eat, the undigested food becomes a clog to the system. Nature is warning you. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills alone give the blood the richness and purity that it requires to perform its natural function. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills relieve the most obstinate cases of indigestion—why they will help any trouble due to poor blood.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicines or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SENTENCE AGED PICKPOCKET

Toronto, May 22—Picking the pocket of a policeman is a foolish thing to do, Indeed it is hazardous. For Daniel Walsh, 65 years of age, two years of his liberty for in police court yesterday, Magistrate J. E. Jones sent Walsh to Kingston for that period.

Crown Attorney Murphy read out a list of pirnics and race meets at places where Walsh had been convicted, and ten that Walsh had noted in a book. Then he read the long list of the man's convictions, over a dozen of them in a dozen different cities.

The New Buyer
By W. H. G.

Beatrice Hannan was bitterly disappointed. Five precious years of her life she had given with utter unreserve to the A. B. Beacon Company, that dry good firm which operates twelve stores in the State. Now, at a time when she expected to be made head saleslady and buyer for the Idleville branch, she had in her hand what amounted practically to her dismissal.

Leaving High School at the age of fifteen, she had started in at the Harrisville store as a parcel girl. By hard work and much study, she had risen to be one of the most valued salesgirls on the staff.

While other girls at her counter danced away their evenings, she visited the public library and read the manuals on textiles that J. P. McCorkle, the brand manager had loaned her. From the time she broke in her room at Mrs. Smith's boarding house until she laid a weary head on the pillow at night again, her mind was continually on her work. "If she had been a man, she would have seated old Deacon himself behind his job," McCormick had said once.

Then when she was prepared to step into the vacancy caused by the marriage of the buyer, she received a sudden note from Mr. McCormick saying that he regretted that she was not physically fit for the position and suggesting that she take a two months' rest in the country somewhere.

With the note was a check for $250—"a small bonus expressing our appreciation of your good work you have done."

The word "nature" burned like fire in her hot tired head. "It was just an excuse to get rid of me," she said to herself.

But she went to the small village of Ingleneath, where lived her maiden aunt.

Received by the pure air of the country, her complexion altered considerably by the sun. Beatrice would hardly have been recognized by the girls back at Beacons some eight weeks later, when she stepped lightly up the wooden steps and in past the screened door of the general store at Ingleneath. She was after some white goods for her aunt.

Her bronzed cheeks went slightly pale, however, when the country merchant quoted her a price of eighty-five cents per yard.

"Buy—but that's away below what other places are selling at," she exclaimed.

"I know it," he answered. "But there's no demand for it here and I'm overstocked."

"Would you sell it all at that price? How do you very much of it?" Beatrice talked rapidly, driven by an idea.

"The whole damn lot of it, Miss—rapidly."

And the girl spent $295 on the purchase, about every dollar she had.

In Mr. McCormick's office, Beatrice was telling her story with a glow of satisfaction.

"You see at present quotations, I've bought it at twenty-five cents a yard less than the wholesale price, Mr. McCormick," she was saying.

"I said, I said good boy," the manager said, smiling.

"I mean," continued Beatrice became ill at ease.

"About the position of buyer—" she began. "Is it—has it been filled permanently?"

"Yes, it was, eight weeks ago."

"But you'll take this pogtin off my hands—"

"Most assuredly, Miss Hannan."

"Then I'll be back in the buyer of all the other girls in the store. She became curious.

"Who is the buyer now, Mr. McCormick?" she asked.

"Miss Beatrice Hannan." was the answer given.

That Body of Yours
By Iman W. Barton, M.D.
KEEPING AN EYE ON YOURSELF

You sometimes wonder whether it is wise to give into little sickness and go to bed, or to stay on your feet and fight them off.

If you were sure it was a "little" ailment then by all means don't give in to it.

But how do you know it is "little"? Well, if you just seem to be a little lazy and don't feel like doing anything mentally or physically, then you just be "up and doing". It's better to exhaust yourself a little.

But if in addition to feeling tired, you have pains, and you've had it for twenty weeks, that you are breathing more rapidly, feel head to be more dizzy, and you don't take any chances but get to bed.

Also if symptoms of tiredness, rapid heart and breathing along with the slight feverishness and thirst, are the indication of something "wrong" in the system, or rather in the blood, but you don't know the cause of the trouble nor the extent, and you should take chances.

As I've said before, some organ has invaded the system, usually but not always, due to your own carelessness or thoughtlessness.

This enemy must be first thrown out, and so your heart beats fast and your lungs breathe more rapidly to help to do this job.

Then you aid the process by cleansing the blood, and making the most active by inducing profuse perspiration.

Then with all the processes in your body that throw out waste matter working overtime, you will find the work is being looked after. The enemy is being thrown out and cleared from the body.

However, there is one more thing necessary.

With your body doing all this work for you, it is up to you to nurse its strength.

You can keep on your feet, trying to fight off the enemy, you are asking your heart to do five times more work just by keeping on your feet, than it would have to do if you were lying quietly in bed.

It is the same organ that will carry you through your illness, why not give it a chance to do its work?

If you rest quietly in bed, the illness or infection as it is called, will be over, it will be up in a day or two with only that much time away from your work, and it is on your own work.

If the infection is slight, and you have escaped a day's work, it may be a week, ten days, or longer before you feel "just right."

If the infection should be a serious one, the going to bed gives you your best chance to fight it successfully.

So if the ailment seems serious, use a little judgment in the matter, as suggested above.

PECULIAR DEATH

Toronto, May 22—Admitted to the Western Hospital yesterday morning apparently seriously ill, Mrs. William Walker, 35, Tecumseh avenue, died in the hospital two hours later, before her case could be diagnosed. Coroner McCousland is investigating.

Letters To The Editor

Result of Delaying the Embargo

To the Editor:

Sir,—The current issue of the Paper Trade Journal (New York) contains the following announcement:

"The St. Regis Company has decided not to carry out its plans for the erection of a paper mill in Canada for the present. The Company recently bought a mill in West Quebec and it has extensive timber limits in the province. It will continue to ship its manufactured out of Canada instead of manufacturing it into pulp and paper within the province."

Plans for the erection of the new mill in Canada, announced by we announced by the St. Regis Company several months ago, about the time that Parliament passed a bill empowering the government to stop the exportation of raw spruce pulpwood which has never been implemented. The mill was to have been capable of producing 200 tons and later on 400 tons of paper a day. It would have given regular employment to between 300 and 500 men and support to probably 1000 to 1200 persons.

The reasons why the company prefers not to build the mill at present and to continue to ship its Canadian pulpwood to the United States to be manufactured there are to seek.

This is not the only development held up by the embargo forcing the pulpwood embargo authorized by parliament.

FRANK J. D. BARNJUM.

THIS DOG QUESTION

Editor Intelligencer:—

I am glad to see by last night's paper, that someone has taken a sensible view of the Dog Question, and hope that all lovers of dogs will denounce the proposal to let all the unfortunately dog equalls settle themselves and not be bothered with licenses, etc.

Personally, I am a great lover of Boxers, and have hundreds of plans that I value as much as anyone in the city, but have a dislike for Police Court very highly. I do not believe in letting the dogs roam about, either properly or not do not believe, as a general rule, that dogs are destructive, on the other hand, they are valuable for protection, and a boy or girl without a dog or some live animal to love, often grows up rather morose.

Let all dog lovers raise their voice in protest against the condemnation of every dog for damage done, and let owners pay the bill.

It would be a foolish to say "get rid of all the birds," because some of the species do damage to some things. Dogs are very faithful to human beings and watch over children and homes, and often give warning in time of danger. Please accept my thanks on behalf of people who dwell alone.

Yours Sincerely
A Lover of Dogs and Flowers.

WHEN HORSES EAT HAY

Do Not Feed Them Too Much or Too Long.

Mastication a Slow Process — Digestion Described—Oats and Hay Do Not Mix in the Stomach — Feed Grain Early to Skinnik Carcass.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

A horse should not be given more feed than he will consume in one hour and a half or two hours. It is wasteful and harmful parties to keep hay before horses all the time. The horse should have sufficient to satisfy hunger, and if his teeth are in good condition, two hours of undisturbed feeding morning and night with an hour and a half at noon, will put as much feed into his stomach and intestine as these organs can properly take care of.

Mastication a Slow Process With Horses.

Mastication in the horse is a slow process. It takes fifteen to twenty minutes to properly chew and envelop a pound of hay, and from five to ten minutes with a pound of oats. The salivary secretion during feeding with an average horse ranges from 8½ to 10½ pints per hour. This secretion makes it possible for the horse to properly masticate and swallow the food, each pound of hay mixing with four times its bulk of saliva, and each pound of oats with an equal weight. After mastication, the bolus of food passes to the stomach and lies in the lesser curvature until there is sufficient accumulation to distend the organ and press the material to the greater curvature, where gastric juices begins to act on it.

Work of Digestion Described.

As the stomach distends through food being pressed in, the ingesta (food on which the gastric juices are acting) is forced out through the pylorus into the intestines, where the gastric juices have full opportunity of acting. If the quantity fed is not more than what the horse can eat in two hours, the stomach and intestines can accommodate it for full and proper digestion. If the quantity of hay and oats is such as to keep the horse eating continuously (most horses are gluttons), feed will be forced through the stomach and intestines too quickly to permit of proper and full saturation with gastric juice, hence the wasteful practice of having hay before the horse all the time when he is standing in the stable. There is no absorption from the stomach of the horse, this function being performed by the intestines. Under normal conditions and rational feeding the food remains in the horse's stomach long enough for the gastric juices to convert 40 to 50% of the carbohydrates into sugar, and from 40 to 70% of the proteins into peptones. Over-eating, which causes overloading of stomach and duodenum, is just about as sensible as choking the threshing machine and causing general waste, sending the grain out with the straw.

Oats and Hay Do Not Mix in the Stomach.

If a horse is fed on oats and hay in succession, the stomach will, on examination, be found to contain these substances unmixed and arranged in strata, the first food taken being in the pylorus and the last in the lesser curvature. The contents of a horse's stomach are squeezed and greased, but not churned, as is the case with cattle.

The regular arrangement of food in layers is disturbed when a horse is watered after feeding. A portion of the food may be washed out of the stomach. The water which a horse drinks does not stop in the stomach but passes directly through it on the way to the caecum. For this reason it should be available to water first and feed afterwards.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

The Hostess—Thank you so much, Mr. Krakofski, for your beautiful singing. What do you think of the piano?

The Pianist—Ah, madame, I do not in English know how to politely express that if it were an automobile, it is what they call it in America the Elizabeth of the—London Hairpin.

Veterans Working For Bumper Day

G.W.V.A. Committee is Trying to Surpass Other Years on June 3.

One of the chief attractions at the annual G. W. V. A. celebration in this city on Tuesday, June 3rd, will be the baseball match This will be between the G. T. R. team of this city and the Guelph team, with Freddie Goyer a former Belleville pitcher who will pitch for the visiting team The game will be at the agricultural park and 3 o'clock in the afternoon is the hour stated for the battle royal to commence.

The three horse races will also prove interesting to a great many of the spectators and will no doubt be well contested events. The classes are 2.15, 2.20 and 2.30 and the purses are equal namely $300 each.

There will also be other special attractions on the grounds. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Argyll Military band of this city.

The committee of the G. W. V. A. who are in charge the demonstration is making every effort to make the event one of the most successful ever held under the auspices of the Association.

ANOTHER PULPWOOD, SMOKE SCREEN

To the Editor:—

My attention has been called to a letter written by an official of the recently organized Pulpwood Dealers' Association, inspiring my motives in urging an embargo on the exportation of pulpwood, complaining that the newspaper press of Canada has been too liberal in the space it has accorded to my views, and making a tearful appeal to the editors to close their columns to any further arguments emanating from me.

Newspaper editors who have received copies of this letter would, considering its source, undoubtedly have been highly amused at its effrontery, if its assertions did not constitute such a poor reflection upon their own perspicacity and editorial judgment.

As to the personal attack upon me I can afford, as I have done in connection with similar attacks from the same source, to ignore it entirely. Personally, it is immaterial to me whether Canada adopts the policy of

Deaths and Funerals

BERT MOON

A sad death occurred at the Kingston General Hospital on Friday, May 2nd 1924, when Wilbert (Bert) eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Moon, Desoronto, passed away after an illness of many weeks, caused from gangrene appendicitis. The remains were taken home on the 3.15 train. The funeral services were conducted under the auspices of the Orange Lodge, No. 1275, of which Bert was a good member, and Rev. Mr. Richardson officiated

MRS. HUGH CAMPBELL

Many relatives and friends of the late Mrs. Hugh H. Campbell were yesterday afternoon in attendance at the obsequies, at the family residence, 253 Albert street, Rev. H. B. Kenny pastor of the Tabernacle church, conducted services and officiated at the interment at Belleville cemetery. Many floral tributes were evidences of sympathy. Bearers were Messrs. H. Hansen, W. Faulkner, P. McKeown, W. B. Vanderwater, C. DeLisle and A. Esmond.

retaining her small remaining wood supply for her own use or continues to allow the exploitation by aliens. So far as my own individual interests are concerned, if the arguments against an embargo are worth anything, my interests would be better served by allowing things to remain as they are at present. My timber holdings are all owned in fee. They are very much in excess of the requirements of the pulp mill of which I am a part owner and if what these opponents say is true—that an embargo would be against the interests of the Canadian land holders—then I am engaged in an effort to destroy my own best market.

But, I take it, Canadian newspapers and Canadians generally who have studied the question, do not, to be misled by the pulpwood exporters and their friends, the American paper manufacturers. It is the people and the newspaper press, who have a vital interest at stake in the preservation of the remnant of the Canadian forests and not a few individual like myself, who, having retired from active business, is interested when either the government take action or not, only as a matter of pride in his native country, a patriotic desire to see it develop and an ambition to do his small share towards directing public opinion in the right channel.

I have advocated this embargo because I have felt that it was a national necessity and by long odds the most important measure now facing the country. I have, however, carried on in a perfectly independent capacity and have asked favors from nobody in that was at justified by considerations of public welfare alone. Any time the editors of our Canadian newspapers feel that I am not working in the best interest of Canada I have sufficient respect for their intelligence to know that they will voluntarily decline to print what I send to them without the unsolicited advice of an association of pulpwood exporters.

TAKE FIRST STEP TO FORMING NEW CABINET

Paris, May 22—The first step towards formation of a cabinet is succeed that of Premier Poincare was taken at the Elysee palace at noon yesterday.

President Millerand informed Edouard Herriot concerning engagements France made in J. Pierpont Morgan in exchange for the loan that saved the franc from collapse a few months ago.

Before Herriot, leader of the Radical Socialists, is formally invited to form a cabinet, Millerand wants to know the attitude of his party toward the agreement with Morgan. It is also necessary for the next premier of France to understand what France has promised the American banker.

Music & Drama

TWO TIME REVOLUTIONIST LEADS INGRAM'S FILM MOB

The French Revolution depicted in Scaramouche, Rex Ingram's screen production for Metro of the novel by Rafael Sabatini, which is to be shown at the Golden Theatre, starting on Monday, is the third experienced by Valentina Zamina Chevalier, who, for the customary $7.50 a day, portrayed the role of one of the 10,000 who appear in the mob scenes in the picture.

Mlle. Chevalier is an expert on revolutions, being a veteran of two Russian uprisings, including the one that made Kerensky famous. She is one of the few survivors of the original 8,000 members of the Russian Battalion of Death headed by the Amazonian general Bashkaeva. This section of the Russian fighting forces, she says, saw more service than most of the male divisions, except those that took part in the early years of the war.

Mlle. Chevalier also did Red Cross nursing for two years. Her actual participation in trench warfare came when she had reached her eighteenth year.

During one revolution she spent two months and ten days in prison, at the end of which time she was released with the aid of bribes she came to the United States.

Although she spent thirteen years of her life in Russia, Mlle. Chevalier is French. She was born in Bordeaux, but her mother, who was an opera singer took her to Petrograd when she was six.

This little dark-eyed beauty has made more progress in three years in this country than most American girls educated here and familiar with American ways do in a lifetime. Since she landed in New York City three years ago, Mlle Chevalier has imported her self into both and Dill shows, and has done considerable concert work, including appearances on several programs of the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. She has a dramatic soprano voice.

The "daughter of the revolution" has now turned all her efforts to the cinema, and Mr. Ingram, who discovered Valentina and Novarro when they were unknown dancers, predicts she will become an important picture star.

"Scaramouche" was adapted to the screen by Willis Goldbeck. John F. Seitz is credited with the photography. Out Rehfeld was production manager and Grand Whitehead editor. The costumes were designed by O'Kane Cornwell and Peamay Roth, and executed by Van Horn.

NEW GIRL-STAR IN SENNETT BURLESQUE

After sitting through a review of "The Shark of Shady Rest," Mack Sennett's latest feature comedy offering for the Allied Producers Distributors Corporation, Kathryn McGuire, featured with Ben Turpin on the cycle of Laugh, declared she would much rather cry tears in this type of picture than in a chance ever to do more serious, or dramatic productions.

There is more excitement and action in comedy, and I like the idea of doing something all the time," said Miss McGuire. "Of course, at present, to be placed up and to look stately, but I dressed up and to look stately, but I have plenty of time for that. I started playing when I was another Mr. Sennett's supervision, mean to get all the education possible. Then some day, like others of the present-day stars who started in Mack Sennett comedies, too, will have the opportunity to do something entirely to decide whether I want to be a star in comedy or drama."

This latest Sennett beauty, one of feature length, is at the Regent theatre Monday.

THOMAS H. INCE PAYS $21,000 FOR "THE HOTTENTOT"

Twenty-one thousand dollars is a reasonable price for a regular laugh, in the opinion of Thomas H. Ince, the famous film producer, who paid that amount for the screen right of "The Hottentot," showing at the Capitol today.

The latest screen finisher from the stage play of the same name in which William Collier scored such a huge, great hit of his career, both in New York and on tour. In addition to the endless laugh there is a steeplechase that makes even the most blase fan sit up and take notice.

Douglas MacLean plays the role which Collier created, with equal success. Dorothy Mackaye Bellmore is more handsome than ever as the girl in the case and Raymond Hatton is the author member of an irresistible trio of laugh-producers.

THAW RELEASED ON BAIL

New York, May 22.—Harry K. Thaw, returned to New York City yesterday after an absence of seven and one-half years. Within twenty minutes after he had stepped from a train in Pennsylvania station he had been arraigned and had pleaded not guilty to two indictments charging assault in the second degree and kidnapping Frederick Gump, Jr., 1916. Bail for the two indictments was fixed at $10,000 and Thaw was released

Labor Situation Better on Farms

Department of Agriculture Reports Quality and Number of Men Good

Toronto, May 22—The following is a summary of returns made by the Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Wet weather has continued to hold up field work in many parts of the Province. Conditions are now considered to be favorable, however, and a considerable acreage of grain yet remains to be sown. In some of the districts reported on, however, a fair extent of root, has been put in, it is likely that more spring wheat than usual will be grown in the Lake Erie counties. There will also be an increase of beans in Western Ontario this year. Clean reports tobacco help is looking well.

Many cattle are now on pasture but there is not much substance as yet in the grass. As a rule live stock are in fair condition notwithstanding the comparatively long period of stabling.

Fall wheat is looking very promising on the whole, although there has been too much water in low spots. Clover and alfalfa are also showing up well, having made good growth despite the rather cool spring weather.

The labor situation has been much more satisfactory than for years, both as to the number and quality of men offering. Most of the immigrants brought in have made good, especially the Danes and the Germans. Reports that some of the Danes are leaving for Michigan.

Foodstuffs—The make of cheese is gradually increasing. Very few cheese are coming on the market, however. The offer on the Board was 14c. per pound, but no sales.

Peterborough—Most of the cheese factories are receiving a way better supply of milk at the present time. Creameries are also receiving a more than supply of cream. Choice spring at around 42c a pound and cream around 42c. Dairy eggs are still being sought after at from 24c to 25c.

HERRIOT IS WAITING

Paris, May 22—Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radical Socialist party, whose reluctance to declare his attitude toward the fact that he is considered a possible successor to Premier Poincare, has helped to precipitate the situation here yesterday. He told a Havas Agency he would do nothing to gain or refuse power.

HE LOVES ME NOT

Toronto, May 22—George Thompson sent his wife a letter enclosing a bad check and informing her that she was no good. Another girl wanted him. He told the woman that he had bought a revolver to keep her away from him. He is accused to be deported to England he told Magistrate Colem in Women's Court yesterday. UP TO PUBLIC SAYS SIR THOMAS WHITE

Toronto, May 22.—It is for the Canadian parliament and the public to decide on the question of negligence or no negligence on the part of Sir Thomas White, as finance minister, in connection with his handling of the Home bank situation, according to a statement issued by Sir Thomas here yesterday. This statement is in the form of a written reply to the argument of Eugene Lafleur, K.C., government counsel, in the course of an investigation at Ottawa. Sir Thomas further states that 'any expression of opinion by Counselor McKeown in respect of this phase of the matter can only be personal and have no judicial quality or weight because of lack of jurisdiction.

Vancouver, B.C., May 21—"Smiling Johnny Reid, bank robber who earlier in the day had been sent up for trial by Magistrate Alexander, pleaded guilty to complicity in the robbery of the Royal Bank Branch at Ladner, B.C., when $12,000 in bonds and cash were stolen, and was given a seven-year penal sentence by Judge Cayley.

Violence In Ruhr Is On the Increase

Six Thousand Miners Are Now Idle; Police Are Kept Busy

Bochum-Germany, May 22—Red violence in the Ruhr is increasing.

Communist patrols are picketing the mines in many sections, and using force to prevent any one willing to work from approaching the pits.

More than six hundred thousand miners are idle.

At Marl, police were forced to intervene when reds attacked strike-breakers.

At Bochum, young communists voted to install strike pickets everywhere and prevent workers, from entering the mines, even if only for the purpose of keeping the pumps going.

At Langen Bochum the police were called out because of violence.

BELLEVILLE LOST OUT TO TWEED; SINGLE SCORING RECORD BROKEN

STAGEFRIGHT RESPONSIBLE FOR FIRST DEFEAT OF JUNIORS; TIGHTEN TOO LATE

Belleville junior baseball nine dropped their opening game to Tweed on the north town yesterday afternoon, 7-3 in a hard battle. The game marked the opening of the newly formed Hastings and Prince Edward counties league, and went nine innings before a large crowd, who shivered in the evening breeze as the game went into the dying stages.

Manager Harry Soanes' local squad were beaten in the first inning during a short spasm of stage fright after two men were down. A foul fly over third base line, which should have been a sure out for the third sacker, went to waste when the catcher rushed after it. After that break, the Tweedites ran three runs over, before the last down. The locals tightened up after that, and after the fourth inning, played errorless ball. They were unable to stave off defeat however, as Tweed had garnered six runs in the first two frames, getting their last counter in the fifth.

When Poste was passed to the second, he stole second, and scored when Knott clouted out a two bagger. In the first of the eighth, Ross singled, Colling fanned, Palmer advanced Ross with a safety, and Ross stole home. In the last frame Ribby singled, Dennis fouled out, Poste advanced Ribby with a single and Knott came through with another smasher, sending Ribby over the locals' third and last counter.

"Chummie" Gerow was sent against the Tweedites for a starter, with Stark catching, "Piper" Latchford having lost a finger nail in practice. Gerow stayed in for five innings, when he was replaced and Hunter finished the mound. Hunter finished the game and no runs were scored off his delivery. He was best of the pair, although Gerow showed up very well. When Stark was taken out of the game by the iron hand management for an alleged "bad" demeanor, Dunlap, Latchford finished the game behind the bat with the injured finger. Both these boys make capable receivers. Five players were used in the outfield during the game by Belleville management.

For Tweed, Elliott started in the box and hurled a good game until the sixth when, Blakely, Tweed intermediate pitcher went in and finished strong.

The locals did very well with the willow despite the fact that it was their first appearance playing together and their first taste of batting against a pitcher this season. Several good hits were wasted however by loose base running, which will be improved however, even before the next game here on Monday afternoon next when they meet Tweed again at the Agricultural park here.

President Robert Colling of the League and Manager Soanes plan to manage the locals in a very business-like and gentlemanly manner. Swearing, smoking on the bench and outbursts of temper will be rewarded by the immediate "pulling" of the offender from that game. The lineups:

Belleville—Ross, c.f., Saunders, l.f., Townsend, r.f., Ribby, s.s., Dennis, 1st, Poste, 2nd, Knott, 3rd, Stark and Latchford, c., Gerow and Hunter, p.

Colling replaced Saunders in 6th and Palmer replaced Townsend in the 8th.

Tweed—G. Elliott and Blakely, p., T. Hansford, c., L. Craig, 1.f., H. Blakely, s.s., W. Bowers, 2nd, M. Foster, 1st, T. Bowers, 3rd, G. Blakely, c.f., R. Faucett, r.f.

H. Peterson replaced Faucett in 9th.

Umpires—Balls and Strikes—Stan Nurse; Belleville.

Base—Hugh Wager, Tweed.

Score by innings—

Belleville—0 1 0 0 0 1 1 0 — 3.

Tweed —3 2 0 0 0 0 1 1 — 7.

Zoraya R.C.Y.C. Boat Is Sold to W. Murphy

Zoraya, one of the best known yachts that has ever sailed in and out of Toronto harbor, has been sold by her owner, Mr. J. J. Ferney, of the R.C.Y.C., to a Mr. W. Murphy, whose plans for the future of the boat are not obtainable at present.

Zoraya will eventually leave Toronto harbor, pending instructions she is remaining over at the R.C.Y.C.

It is regretable to lose this famous pixie winner For more than twenty years she has held known British decks of her class time and again. She has been in the fine division of the R.C.Y.C., and her time allowance, together with able handling, has made her many's the sail her skipper, Mr. Cliff McCreary, has had to forswear in the big fellows in her class Last year was the first for a long time that she was beaten consistently. Aggie of Oakville, owned by Mr. Vere-Cox, Maple, winning out on each occasion that they raced together.

Will Tell the Loss

The racing in the fine division of the R.C.Y.C. will this year feel the loss of this boat, and will be bordered by Venture, Aggie and Yolande, but it will be hardly a good routine at that. It is too bad that the syndicate that was being formed to put Gardnia and Scarrona in commission were not able to carry out their plans. However, the season has a long time to go yet, and you never can tell.

Gerald Lynch Breaks Single Score Record

It's been a long time since anyone has made a new record at the recreation alleys, so Gerald Lynch decided it was about time that Dr. O'Callaghan's score would be taken down and a new one put up. He stepped right into it last night and rolled 221 or 5 pins more than the previous record held by Dr. O'Callaghan. Lynch also had a wonderful chance to make a new three string record, but got so weak after his big score that he fell badly. Lynch started out with 7 consecutive strikes, 3 spares, 1 strike and 15 giving him the above total.

Trunks Crossed Bay For Tilt With Picton

Belleville Grand Trunks are in Picton this afternoon where they are playing an exhibition game with the Picton Intermediates, in preparation for their big opening game here on Monday next with the Kingston Pontiacs. Quite a number of the local fans accompanied the ball boosters across the bay, to see them go.

Kingston Wins Out In Royal Battle

Few Hits and Post Season Baseball Form Features Opener

Kingston, Ont., May 23.—In one of the finest pitching duels seen here in years, Kingston defeated Oshawa last evening at the fair grounds by the score of one to nothing. In the opening game of the C.O.B.L. season. It was a great game, in which the southpaws, Kelly of Kingston and Dainty of Oshawa, displayed uncanny control, and only allowed five hits each. Kelly was given the better support, but Dainty was a little more effective, though his lost the game when his infielders pulled a "boner" in leaving second uncovered on Cherry's hit.

For five innings Kingston failed to get a hit, and the only man to reach first in that time was Bairstow who was walked in the first. Kelly was nearly as effective, setting the visitors down for three innings without a man in the sixth when Dainty was out, Cherry hit a fly back of second. The centre fielder came in for the ball, and the shortstop and second baseman showed poor judgment by both going after the ball, leaving second uncovered. Cherry turned first when the ball fell safely and raced for second to get there safely when the base was uncovered. A minute later Daisy Bowman came into single, scoring Cherry, with the only run of the game.

Compton, the new shortstop of the Kingstons, fielded sensationally and besides cracked out two singles. Cherry had two hits also, and Daisy one. Kelly did not issue a pass and had remarkable control, while Dainty walked two and fanned eleven. Kelly's strikeouts numbered seven.

The largest crowd in years was on hand there being upwards of 2500 in the grounds.

The teams were:

Kingston—Teepell, r.f., Gallagher, r.f., Bitkman, c., Bairstow, 2b; Cherry, c.f., Daley, l.f., Compton, s.s., Purvis, 1b, Evans, 2b, Kelly, p.

Oshawa—Palmer, r.f., Murray, 2b, Roddick, l.f., Tymon, c., Dainty, p., Morrison, s.s., Wilson, 1b, R. Fair, c.f., Ward, s.s.

Umpires—Sullivan at plate, Eiles on bases.

Oshawa Gets Two New Players By Transfer

Toronto, May 22.—The O. B. A. A. Executive met last night to deal with several items of business. The meeting was not fully attended, but some business was transacted.

Two players, P. Low and M. W. Legge, were granted permission to play in Oshawa pending the approval of the Durham and Ontario League.

The Georgian Bay League was granted affiliation, the association reserving the right to classify the league in a senior or intermediate. The Middlesex Oxford and Waterloo league was granted affiliation pending the repeal of George Wright in their territorial rights.

A recommendation was passed on by the A. A. U. of C. for the reinstatement of J. Allen. The certificate of Dan Mcdermon of West Lorne was held up pending an investigation. A recommendation was passed for the lifting of the suspension of J. Owen and Barney Burke.

The case of T. Bird, W. Wright and Lew Latimer were held for a full meeting of the Executive.

Several permissions were granted to teams for out-of-town games.

DEMPSEY READY IN FALL

Los Angeles, Cal., May 22.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, will box in September if negotiations are effected in a trip to New York by Jack Kearns early in June, it was declared by Kearns yesterday.

"We have no negotiations on, but we will be through with small preliminary work by time to take care of an engagement in September," Kearns said. "I will go East in a couple of weeks and meet the various promoters. Dempsey is keeping fit, working out regularly. Whether there will be a bout in September depends upon what the various parties I will see next month say.

SIMPLE AND EASY

At a big party in London, a woman of the newly rich and ostentatious class was sitting beside the wife of a prominent labor leader.

The former began to talk about her jewellery. "I clean my diamonds with ammonia," she said; "my emeralds with Dutch Cleanser and my sapphires with fresh milk. And you, Mr. Brisk?" she asked, turning to the labor leader's wife.

"Oh, I don't clean mine," said the latter airily. "When they get dirty, I simply throw them away."—Boston Transcript.

Into the attic

FEW youngsters to-day ever saw a horse-hair sofa. They wouldn't know what to do with a fire taper, carpet stretcher, or coal oil lamp. They couldn't braid rags into a rug, or wind yarn without tangling. But they know the how and why of typewriters, phonographs, telephones, automobiles; what happens when a push of the button gives light, or a kodak's flash fixes their image on paper.

Their education is as modern as the advertisements they see. They have no more use for the lamp and chimney of yesterday than you for the wick and tallow of the day before.

Advertisements induce such progress. They urge wide use that means improvement. They help you lift the out-of-date into the attic—rid you of the water buckets and soap kettles of slavedom. They bring late improvements within your reach.

Read the advertisements regularly. Keep alert to the new.

Without Advertising, you would never know a product's worth until you had bought it

LONDON FIRMS BUSIEST SINCE CLOSE OF WAR

London, May 22—The reports of business in 1923 of the big London retail dry-goods stores show that the net profits after payment of the interest on their debts were higher than in any year since 1918, with the exception of the two boom years, 1919 and 1920. The figures for fifteen selected stores, amounted at par of exchange to $15,000,000 as against $10,999,000 in 1922. The largest store in this group which is Harrod's, had resources at the close of 1923 at par exchange of $40,000,000. On this capital stock were paid at but one of those above. Two dividends ranged from 5 percent to 12½ percent.

OTTAWA'S NEW MAYOR

Ottawa, May 22—Controller Napoleon Champagne, veteran city father, was elected by acclamation to the mayoral seat vacated by the death of Mayor Hugh Watters on May 10 last. By this action all attempts to have Controller Champagne disqualified are dropped.

Lady Astor Given Disorderly Time

Communists Interrupt Until She Sings "Keep Home Fires Burning

Glasgow, May 22—Lady Astor had lively experiences at Clydebank yesterday when she spoke in support of the Unionist candidature, Captain Eliot; in the by-election for the Kelvingrove Division, made necessary by the recent death of William Hutchinson. She addressed a big Unionist gathering and three other meetings within three hours.

Fully 10,000 persons gathered outside Berkeley Hall, which accommodates only 1,000 persons when she was timed to speak. Communists persistently interrupted the meeting, and after much disorder Lady Astor finally turned the scales in her favor and obtained a peaceful hearing by standing erect with folded arms and singing "Keep the Home Fires Burning."

Some sharp allusions which she made to the "wild men of the Clyde in the House of Commons at the first meeting greatly pleased her audience, who redoubled their exclamations of delight.

TAKES MILLIONAIRE TO BUY HIS DINNER

London, May 22 The "Roast Beef and York-shire Pudding" Englishman of the American will find no difficulty in surrendering to the 64 dinner which the Hour Kong Restaurant is putting on daily in the Wembley Exhibition. Like most rich Chinese meals the dinner takes several days to prepare. The meal the cooking in the restaurant started five days before it was eaten. The main course of meal, described as the delicacies of Wales, consists of a rich soup made out of birds' nests. The second of the 11 courses is a dish of shark's fins and fish maw, which sounds a little more intimate. The main course is stuffed with rice. Then comes tongue of fish from Manchuria served with sweet and sour sauce and Shun duck stewed with bean. Then there is to be a clear soup and several other dishes, until you come to the sweets. Fresh fruits preserved in preserved fruits, many of them floating in honey. Dr. Stanley K. Hoe, Assistant Secretary of the Hong Kong Government, says that this is no make many stranger dishes than these, including rats, which are caught and fed entirely on vegetation, but are not eaten until the fourth generation in captivity. He also said that there is a special mountain in China from which edible birds' nests, earth, sand and hard to find, is boiled for many days until they become one of the most expensive dishes of the Chinese menu.

The Chinese Restaurant in the Hong Kong Section is lavishly decorated with the brave colours and carvings which suggest its Eastern origin.

Is Tongue Coated? Try Glycerine Mixture

"A badly coated tongue is a sure sign of stomach or bowel trouble. To overcome this and make the tongue clean and red try simple glycerine, buckthorn bark, etc., as mixed in Adlerika. Most medicines act only on lower bowel but Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and brings out poisons that cause constipation and gas on the stomach in TEN minutes. J. S. McKeown, druggist.

CHOIR HAS 15000 VOICES

The largest chorus in the world is an attraction over at Wembley Empire Exhibition. It embraces one hundred choral societies and choirs, ranging from Keziah in the south to Finchley in the north, and from Barking in the east, to Teddington in the west. There are no less than 15,000 voices in the choir. To these are added a orchestra of five hundred instrumentalists and a massive concert organ, swelling thirty tons. Some of the organ's wonderful reeds, pipes and two-and-six feet high. This wonderful accompaniment will be heard at the Stadium on the following days: Saturday May 24th at 2.30 p.m., the Empire Choral Concert, Saturday June 14th, at 3 p.m., Handel Day, Saturday June 28th, at 5 p.m.

Miscellaneous Concert, Saturday, July 19th, at 3 p.m., Empire Choral Day, Saturday, July 19th, at 3 p.m. Selection Friday, Saturday, August 9th, at 3 p.m., British Composers' Day. These great concerts can be heard for one shilling, and there is accommodation in the Stadium for 110,000 people." The Conductor, Dr. Charles Harriss, says that these concerts are "of the greatest value for the people, by the people." No such musical event has ever been attempted before in the history of the world, and what it is the British Empire Exhibition that the great musical festival choruses have organized themselves as individual. The last time Dr. Harriss conducted in London was during the Peace Year, in 1919, to an audience of one million people, in Hyde Park, Queen Victoria and the members of the Royal Family.

If Back Hurts Begin On Salts

FLUSH YOUR KIDNEYS OCCASION ALLY OF DRINKING QUARTS OF GOOD WATER

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Too much rich food overtaxes the kidneys, causing the kidney pores so that they sometimes filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick, lifeunatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, bad blood, sleeplessness often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, try this: Get from any good pharmacy, about a pint of Jad Salts; then drink a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means try this, it should help anyone whose kidneys at least twice a year.

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair By Washing It

When you wash children's hair, be careful what you use. Do not use ordinary shampoos or anything else that contains too much free alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is beneficial and beats anything else all to pieces.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, as an ingredient of rich creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, perfectly bobbed, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any druggist's and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure you get Mulsified and don't be aware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

L. VIVADOU OF CANADA Limited
302 St. Paul St. West, Montreal 29

"Forgive me! But I cannot admit that," said Selby Layton, sweetly, "that sure test that you feel interested in the matter is quite sufficient reason why I should try to find them. I have only I should try to find them. I have only known you a week, and I will go to London to-day. I shall enjoy playing the part of amateur detective with all deference to Miss Worcester, for whose judgment I have the most profound respect; indeed, I find that whenever I disagree with her I am invariably proved herself to have been right and myself wrong."

He bestowed one of his charming little bows upon her, but she was not at once mollified.

"I shall have an advantage over the ordinary detective," he said, "because I know both the persons, whereas he would bungled only by descriptions. I believe I shall find them—not one or two—but easily. Have you any idea in what direction, in what part of London, Mr. Fenton is likely to have gone?"

Esther raised her eyes.

"I think he may have gone to the docks in search of work—that is in the East End, and—" she broke off, and grew ashamed.

"Just so!" repeated Selby Layton, as he rose his lily. "I will have my things packed and will go down to-night, and—" "Is there any need for such hurry?" asked Miss Worcester.

"It is never wise to delay in such cases," he responded, and he smiled and sighed as he left the room.

"I do think Mr. Layton is the best-natured man I ever met!" remarked Miss Worcester. "Think of his offering to pick up to London on such a wild goose chase—for of course he'll never find them; how could he?—and for the reason you feel so interest in the matter, Esther, from impulse and a fit of undecipherable plans in each but writhes! Really, my dear child, I think you will be grateful to him for sacrificing himself to what I feel sure will be a waste of time, of yours."

"Perhaps I am grateful," said Esther, quietly, as she passed out of the room on to the terrace.

And, indeed, she felt that she ought to be grateful, if not to the extent that her acquaintance he had been of service to her; and when she had left the Hall unconsciously she tried to draw a comparison between him and Jack Gordon, and to her surprise found that Selby Layton was the better and worthier man, and she was still endeavoring to get him to the first place in her regard when Selby Layton joined her.

"It occurs to me that I had better go down and interview Jack Gordon," he said, "I must take some notes, in pure, but deceptive fashion. How long shall I be away? I will get a hat or a sunshade—"

"Don't trouble yourself," she said, "I want to thank you, Mr. Layton, for your kindness in proposing what we must calls a whim. I know that the business will prove a great deal of trouble; and I am very grateful to you."

Selby Layton's large blue eyes beamed and a flush rose to his face, which had grown pale and somewhat haggard during the last two days.

"There is no cause for your gratitude," he said in his low, sweet voice. "I am more than repaid by your expression of gratitude! it is the nearest my wife to win it; and a simple 'thank you' from you is more precious to me than any other question could be Ah, forgive me! But you know that I have to go to the other end of the world—for death itself to win even a smile from you."

"That is a very small reward," said Esther, trying to speak lightly.

"Perhaps some day you will grant me a larger one," he murmured. "There I go again! I will not take another step without a sunshade, or rich creamy lather, which cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, perfectly bobbed, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any druggist's and a few ounces will last for months. Be sure you get Mulsified and don't be aware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

"Eczema on My Face Completely Relieved"

Miss Winifred Ernest, Box 46, Blockhouse, N. S., writes:

Ever since I was a little child, I suffered with eczema on my face. At times my face was completely covered with large sores, and I used nearly every kind of medicine that I heard of with no results. I suffered for over twenty years, until one day I asked the advice of my druggist, and he told me to get Dr. Chase's Ointment a trial. After using the Ointment for a few days, the sores began to heal, and soon I was completely relieved of the disease.

Your Home

"I COULD just sit right down and cry!" Mrs. Stephens was disappointed—bitterly disappointed—for her home, the spot in which she took such pride; the home she had tried to make so cheerful and pretty, stood before her like beggar's rags.

It was the same old story—"Cheap Paint"! There it was—the surface, that should have reflected the joy and cheer she had anticipated, was scaling, cracking, and unkempt. A total loss—and more, a disappointment.

We found that she had used 6½ gallons of a so-called cheap paint, for which she had paid $26.00. Had she bought Lowe Brothers' "High Standard" Paint she would have required only 4 gallons. It would have cost her $23.00. She would have saved $3.00 on the job, and would not then have been on the verge of tears.

Suggests Society To Get More Power

Prescott to Arrange Meeting of Eastern Municipalities on St. Lawrence Project

Prescott, May 22.—A largely attended meeting of the Council of the Board of Trade, the purpose of which was to meet a delegation from Morrisburg relative to the development of Hydro-Electric power in Eastern Ontario, President W. P. McCarthy presided, and on behalf of the Board of Trade, extended a welcome to the Morrisburg representatives—Reeves W. H. Farlinger, Mr. Jas. Gow, George Challies, Mr. Henderson and Dr. Gorrell. Mr. McCarthy outlined the activity of the board in connection with the development of the deep waterways, and called on Mr. Challis to explain what the delegation had in mind. Mr. Challis emphasized the importance and great advantages to be derived by Eastern Ontario if the citizens stood behind the Hydro-Electric Commission in developing the resources of the St. Lawrence. He suggested that some association be organized to further the best interests of Hydro-Electric in this part of the Province. The unanimous opinion expressed was that Hydro power should be developed as early a date as possible.

A committee consisting of: President W. P. McCarthy; Secretary, H. H. Williamson; A. A. Cousineau, H. N. Shannon and J. P. Doyle, was appointed to make arrangements with Morrisburg for a meeting of representatives from all municipalities in Eastern Ontario, to be held in Prescott at an early date. Sir Adam Beck will be invited to be present and address the meeting.

U.F.O. To Carry On Says Group Leader

But Summer Convention Has Been Postponed Until October Next

Toronto, May 22.—Notices of the postponement of the U.F.O. summer convention were sent out to all ridings yesterday by R. H. Halbert, M.P., chairman of the convention organization committee. The reason for the postponement is given in the notice as the continued sitting of the federal parliament, which would make it impossible for federal Progressives to attend.

The new dates set in the notice are October 2 and 3, and the old dates, tentatively set when Hon. Manning Doherty was chosen as sessional leader of the U.F.O. group in the legislature, were June 5 and 6.

"I don't think that has anything to do with it," declared Hon. Manning Doherty to the press last night when asked if the treasury department scandals had anything to do with the change of dates. "It was simply owing to the sitting of the federal house."

"Is the U.F.O. going to carry on in politics?"

"Yes."

All goats have a wild-briar grace,
They are as elegant as thorns,
With little bells beneath their chins,
And pointed horns.

So quick are they upon their feet
So light and gaily do they prance,
Their heels seem little castanets
To which they dance.

And as they raise sagacious heads

Disturbed by some crude passerby
They look upon him with a most Satiric eye.

ON FEEDING CHICKENS

Helpful Counsel From a Widely Known Poultry Expert.

Don't Overfeed at the Start—Feed Sprouted and Cracked Grains—Give Them Plenty of Grit—Feed Less Frequently Later—Millets Sown at Different Dates.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

No feed is given until the chicks are nearly three days old. Water may be given at first, but it is the milk is taken off. The chicks are given the feed upon clean boards about eight inches wide. There must be plenty of boards so that there is room on the board for every chick. If board three feet long and eight inches wide will give room enough for fifty chicks on the start. So says Prof. W. R. Graham.

The chicks are fed five times a day should be fed about six times daily at regular intervals. Give the first feed in the morning as soon as the chicks can see to eat and the last at about as late as possible. If growing chicks in February our feed may be given at night using artificial light. Don't overfeed at the first.

Many chicks are overfed on the start. We have adopted the plan for the first five or six days in the brooder of weighing the feed. Each measured feeder may not need to weigh the feed, but the beginner generally does better by weighing it. We allow one ounce of the dry mixture for every fifty chicks at each feed. That is, no chicks, for their first five days in the brooder, get more than six ounces of dry feed to fifty chicks in the day. The following is the way we moisten the first feed with canned tomatoes, one tablespoonful to each; the third with minced liver, and then begin the series over again. The above amount will not satisfy the chicks' appetite. They will create a great noise at every feeding time, but it gives a chance for the chick to absorb completely the yolk in the body.

After the first period one should feed two or three times each day all that the chicks will eat.

We begin giving a drinking vessel each of water and sour milk, when the chicks are about a week old. Many give sour milk to drink at the start, but we have obtained slightly better results by not giving the milk for the first three or four days.

Feed Sprouted and Cracked Grain.

When the chicks pass the second week, feed them a little wet mash, also a little cracked grains. The latter should be fed dry. Sprouted oats tomatoes, eggs and liver over to sprouted grains, tender green grass, if available, and a little grain. If leg weakness is noted, the tomatoes and sprouted grains should be increased, but the chicks put out of doors on clean tender grass.

It is best to rear the chicks on new ground each year, and never to brood two lots of chicks on the same ground in any one year. Many chicks are sent in for examination each year that have trouble due to old land infection.

It also will be found advantageous if feeding chicks from trough or broods out of doors to move the boards or troughs a little every feed. Likewise it must be remembered, when the chicks are fed indoors, to keep the feed boards clean.

Give Them Plenty of Grit.

Grit is always in easy access of the chicks. It is advisable when necessary to add a little oyster shell dust or fine gravel to the ration daily. A certain amount of lime is necessary.

Mouldy feeds and dirty feed boards, and musty litter are to be avoided. Moulds kill large numbers of chicks. Be sure your house is clean and the litter dry, musty. Do not use oat barley or rye straw as litter for baby chicks, because the beards may get into the chicks' eyes. Good clean alfalfa makes the best chick litter we have found. When it gets soiled or dirty remove and replace it with fresh litter.

Feed Less Frequently Later.

As the chicks get older the number of feeds per day may be reduced, so that at an age of seven weeks they may be fed three times a day sufficient; in fact, after the second week the number of feeds per day per mash may be placed in the pen. The feeds of scratch and mash are continued at whatever amount the chicks will clean up. (Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Millets Sown at Different Dates.

The question is frequently asked regarding the best dates for sowing millet for hay production. For several years, however, no definite experiment has been conducted at the Ontario Agricultural College by sowing millets on each of six different dates, commencing May 15th and finishing on August 1st, allowing about two weeks between each two dates of seeding. The average results have shown the highest returns from sowing on June 1st. Naturally, varieties like the Japanese Barnyard and the Japanese Panicle require to be sown earlier than the Hungarian millets which requires a shorter season for development.

Keep the brood sow in good thrifty and healthy condition. Allow her plenty of exercise. Feed her green food in the winter. She is very fond of alfalfa hay and mangel beets, with oats feed per day of middlings and milk. Give her a dry comfortable straw bed, also plenty of fresh water, and she will winter in prime condition.

Someone has said that the best teacher in a community isn't always the one in charge of the school or superintendent or teacher, but may be some progressive farmer who wakes up the community to new possibilities and who develops a new line of thought and starts a new enterprise.

ISSUES STRONG CALL TO ARMS ON O.T.A. VOTE

Must Defend Gains Says Rev. A. J. Wilson at W. C.T.U. Convention

NEW METHODS NEEDED

Criticizes Observations of Bishop of Niagara on Liquor Conditions

"Unless the Prohibition forces consolidate their gains by throwing up a strong bulwark right now, to sustain themselves from the counter attack, which they are about to receive, they will lose whatever they have gained, owing to the inertia of the other forces." This was the "call to arms" as proclaimed by Rev. A. J. Wilson of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church at Napanee, in his address before the fifteenth annual W.C.T.U. County convention in John Street Presbyterian church here last evening.

"We must now use entirely new methods in our campaign," explained the divine. "Before we procured prohibition, we hammered for more ghastly temperance legislation, and during the wave of patriotic and prohibition sentiment swept the country, and as each served prohibition. We must now defend what we have gained, and bring on the elevator of education the entirely different tactics. We are no longer fighting on the skirmish line of a campaign.

"This situation, the speaker classified as the strategic position of the temperance and prohibition forces.

"Inborn conservatism or tendencies of best satisfaction must be avoided," continued Rev. Wilson. "If we would recognize the physiological factor in the issue, and we must recognize it, the nauseating and hideous liquor traffic, and let us show our divine dissatisfaction with conditions where liquor is uncontrolled."

For Reaching Powers

Explaining the difference between a referendum and a plebiscite, the speaker showed that the Parliament had given the Provincial government an unbreak power, when they gave them the right to present to the voters, any question they desire on the liquor question. "These are far reaching powers," he said.

In the case of a referendum the Government would set a definite policy before the people, but not so with a plebiscite. The great danger, as seen by the speaker, is the ballot which was the framing of questions which might be submitted in the future, which apparently disliked the idea of keeping the matter in the dark, as to date has yet been set for the taking of the plebiscite, and rumored dates have been stated by Premier Ferguson, especially as they are brought forth."

Speaking of the vital plank of the "vets", Rev. Wilson asserted that there was the physiological reasons for them to strike, because the enthusiasm of victory of the referendum had waned in the last few years.

"Besides," said the speaker, "We have not power of history behind us to sustain us."

Describing the platform of the active vets, the speaker assured his hearers that it would be a flank attack, in an attempt to discredit the men who were to principle and impracticable in practice.

"You cannot make a man good by

BALL PLAYERS HIT DITCH NEAR CITY

Hugh Keon Receives Injury to Eye; Others Escape

Returning from the Picton-Belleville baseball game at Picton last evening, Hugh Keon, chauffeur for the Trunks, who was driving his own car was dazzled by the glaring light on a big car. The car shot into the ditch about eight miles from this city on the Picton road.

The car was occupied by five of the ball players and despite the fact that the top and windshield were broken no one was hurt. Hugh Keon received a few glass splinters in one eye, but they were removed. The car continued the home trip under its own power though it did crash into a pole when it took the ditch.

He had spent considerable money of which you have already heard. It has been spent, of which you will hear at an early date," he said significantly.

MOTOR CARS CRASH ON COLEMAN STREET

An A. Levy, of Montreal, drove his car east on Cotharine street at 8 p.m. yesterday, he was about to turn north on Coleman, when a car driven by a Canadian about to cross the corner, and smashed into the left front fender on Coleman street. The inevitable occurred when Levy's car skipped off the rear brake. The other machine which was driven by Earl Buckley, garage owner of this city, was struck broadside and shoved into the curb, demolishing both wheels on the left side of the car, and crumpling the right running board. The front mud guards of Levy's car were also bent and twisted. The accident occurred so that the car could be removed.

Among the large crowd which hurriedly congregated were Detective Jack Trussell and P. C. Wilfred Franks, who with the owners effected a satisfactory agreement of settlement of the affair.

MASQUERADED AS DIRTY MALE HOBO

Young Pretty Girl Sentenced to Thirty Days at Fort Arthur

Port Arthur, May 23.—Refusing to tell her home or name, pretty dragon closely shorn locks, her bright blue eyes reflecting lonesomeness in the ways of the world, and clad in the working clothes of a man, "the mysterious Alice X" is today confined to the matron's quarters in the Port Arthur district jail, where she was taken by Canadian Pacific railway police, after being sentenced to thirty days as a "hobo" to thirty days' imprisonment.

Alice had travelled from Winnipeg across the continent in an effort to take her place as a man in the labor market, by appearing, cunningly, disguised as a man's labor.

Her money gone, and out of work, she was forced to adopt the life of a hobo, an echo did it so successfully that she managed to beat her way from "somewhere to the West" to Port Arthur, where, Fort Arthur, where she was caught by police officials with a man-like appearance, sitting in a corner of an empty boxcar. The girl declares that it is out of respect for her family that she refuses to give her name, but it is believed she came from California.

The girl is about 20 years of age, under arrest and on the charge that she was found in a boxcar. It was the conclusion when brought her to Port Arthur who had his suspicions aroused by her small hands and feminine voice. Under questioning at the jail, where the matron was called in, she admitted her sex, but steadfastly declined to give her name or home.

Tried To Steal An Entire Ship

Levin, With World Wide Reputation, Caught by Police Net

Paris, May 23—Police of Paris France have acquired a certain Warshawski, named "the terror" and "Alibaba," who was perhaps the biggest thief the world has known in recent years.

Levin, according to the confession of accomplices arrested with him, had an international gang of thieves at his beck and call. He had headquarters in a number of big cities in Europe and Asia, where stolen goods were sold or exchanged to merchants.

The capture has proved the undoing of Levin and his gang, who were in a French harbor one calm evening while lay at anchor ready to put to sea. The ship laden with oriental carpets, expensive finery, and a quantity of gold and silver plate.

Aboard Black Levin and four of his men, all armed to the teeth, surged on deck, held up the crew at the point of captain and sailors, and made them row to shore. That night, when darkness came, the robbers headed the ship sea, later putting in at a cove about a

FAITH IN THE DOMINION

(Ottawa Citizen)

Many Canadian men who served overseas know how they were fooled on numerous occasions by the authorities at home during the war. The same authorities still aspire to occupy the limelight inside and outside of parliament. They are equally incompetent to drive the national situation as it is described in the facts(regarding shortage of immigrants and flight of Canadian citizens to United States), which Mr. MacNeil made public last Saturday. Perhaps the older people who are staying at home while young Canada moves into the United States are resigned to the prospects of political annexation, which grow plainer every day. But there must surely be many young people who still have faith in Canada, who still hold to the vision of an independent and prosperous Canadian nation.

AN OPTIMIST

(Guelph Mercury)

Hon. J. S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, is proving one of the most valuable members of the Government through his ability and readiness to meet delegations and farmers of all sorts and express his views on general conditions explicitly and sympathetically and in a manner to win the favor of his hearers.

In addressing before the Anglican Synod at London, he talked about farming and how it was the best profession that man could engage in when he had a fair show and applied himself with diligence and intensity. He also interested the men of the church not to be extreme in their desire and to stand for the fundamentals in economic affairs.

The Minister was optimistic for the future of Ontario and of Canada. He had faith in himself and in his country. It was the best in the world and offered opportunities for advancement and improvement to the man or the family who would apply themselves diligently to the mastering of the tasks confronting them.

He asks farmers to live within their means to avoid financial worry. The advice is good and it is in the air—church and every other occupation or profession that contentment comes.

THOSE AWFUL GIRLS

(From the Border Cities Star)

A Chatham pastor declares against the lack of dignity of the modern young girl. She has become a worship per of the lowdown puff, the rouge box and the lipstick glass, he says, and he wonders what will become of the "immodest young women of the present age who will pour out their wealth around legs, bared chests and painted faces." The answer is not far to seek. Ninety-nine per cent of them will presently marry and raise families and a goodly number of them, like the Chatham pastor, be wondering, a generation from now, what is going to become of the "immodest young folks." And they may even be steadier and better mothers, because they do not wear their dresses cut high. The modest profess-ion is terrified to think that women have less tendency to pneumonia than men, just because they do not cover up their throats as does the other sex. The point, that is a case for bobbed dual discussion. A girl has a right to look prettiest.

HOW U. S. DOES IT

(E. W. Howe's Monthly.)

This winter, in Miami, Florida, I talked a long time with ..... She is not I am able to judge be it a fair and intelligent one. He says that several years ago he was able to operate a steamship with a crew of about 40. Now, owing to the interference of Sam Gompers, R.M. Lafollette, and others he is compelled to employ a crew of 75 to operate the same vessel. "Get rid of the present navigation laws," he said, "and in five years the United States will be doing the shipping business of the world." ..... We are now trying to accomplish this with a subsidy that is, the people are taxed to put two or three times as many men on every ship as is actually required to do the work. As a result of this we are wasting billions of money forced from the people, and accomplishing nothing.

THE STAG SLEEPER

(Toronto Saturday Night)

At last it has come, although it is a long time overdue. In the United States "stag" sleepers have been introduced, and no doubt our own railways will follow suit in due of course. No longer will it be necessary for us more men in an to sleep on everything so even fifteen or eight out of our lower, to take most of 'em off again after washing the wash rooms. With the "stag" sleeper we can just let our suspender flop and proceed through the car without encountering the prying eyes of the fair sex. And then there is the additional advantage of more spaces in which we may make our nocturnal toilet. Without doubt we'll be using aerated or thrown off the train we can with the "stag" sleeper invade the sacred precincts of the ladies' washroom. We are informed that the "stags" which cars have already been introduced on the Pennsylvania system between New York and Washington and no doubt such a reform will spread.

If the first lobe jolts the scales at nine pounds it doesn't matter what the second one weighs.

By James W. Barton, M.D.
Where Has the Small Waist Gone

Watching a moving picture the other day depicting scenes from the French Revolution, the small waist like waists of the ladies was quite conspicuous.

My companion asked me what had become of the small waists that women had a few years ago.

My reply was that the waists were pretty much the same, but the corsets were entirely different.

The old corset simply manufactured a waist at a certain point and that was all there was to it. The corsets had to accommodate themselves to the fit of the corset. Some organs would be pushed upwards and some downwards.

This meant that there would be pressure upwards against the heart and lungs, and pressure downwards against the bladder and generative organs.

Now women are looking for more freedom, for more comfort, and they are done away with corsets!

No! But the corset manufacturer builds a corset to fit the figure, rather than a corset to which the figure must be fitted. The corset now used tends to hold the back erect and to lift up the abdominal organs into their proper position in people who are over weight. Also the upper portion of the bust is made larger giving more freedom to heart and lungs.

And still further, the corset now used certainly does not detract from the appearance of the wearer. An important point.

Now what I'm a great believer in each individual manufacturing her own corset made out of muscle, I have not been enough to know that best muscular corset—will never be in general use in my time. But if you want to try an experiment perhaps you will be able to do without a corset.

Simply bend over and try to touch your toes, with knees straight, about twelve times night and morning.

Or you may lie on the back, and slowly raise the legs up to almost right angles with the body, the knees being kept straight. Lower legs slowly. This should be done about twelve times night and morning. At the end of three months let your corset then measure you again. You may still need corsets, any always need them, but you'll be able to wear a smaller size.

Plucky Messenger Is Highly Praised

Refused to Give Up Trail Of Bandit When Threatened

Winnipeg, May 23.—Despite many threats of "I'll shoot, kid; get the hell out of here," Robert Holmes, a 19-year-old messenger, refused to give up the bank bandit, who was killed here Tuesday, until the police car took up the chase, and had highly praised by a jury at the coroner's inquest.

The young messenger boy, standing near the bank when the robber burned out, immediately took up the chase, and it was only with difficulty he was driven away from the fleeing man. The bandit turned on him, threatening to shoot. The boy stopped for a second, dodged in behind the automobile and then started out again. He watched Martin try to start several cars, and then run into the car he was killed in. When the bandit got the car started the boy hopped on the car, and young Holmes ran back and told them where to find their man.

SOUTH AFRICA ELECTIONS

Capetown, South Africa, May 23.—Nominations were held yesterday throughout the Union for the general election, which takes place on June 17. Competent observers predict that the next three weeks will witness the stiffest political fight in the history of South Africa.

Have Dark Hair And Look Young

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients all ready to use. No one will know, for this simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

Well-known druggists say everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

A Rash Act

—By W. H. G.

Some people scoff at palmists. Some love her patronize them for amusement. Others take them seriously.

James McMillan was one of the latter.

With him hand reading was a hobby; a mania, or whatever it might wish to call it. His friends, who were few in number, grew tired of his fake conversing readings of his past and future, which had grown to be remarkably and uncannily true. His favorite study was of the line when a gypsy had predicted that he would find my father's watch if he would only go to the attic of the old homestead.

He had found the watch in an old chest of drawers.

So it was to be expected when the great National Exhibition came up, one of the first places visited by Mc-Millan was the Midway. Arriving at a row of tents, the temporary home of the wandering handy-readers, he made his way past a gaudily dressed gypsy at one of the entrances and into the gloomy interior.

With an experienced eye, he appraised the several women seated at small tables around the tent, and finally selected a fat, slumpy person in the far corner.

He gave up his hands to the lady and listened attentively as she told him that he was brought up on a farm, that he had unfortunately entered the wrong groove in life and would be worth much more money, had he followed up the fruit farming business, conducted by his father.

There was silence for a moment. The palmist bent down little closer to the hand she was examining and emitted a gasp. McMillan started.

"Ahah. There's danger here," the woman said, looking at the man intently, toned up my system and built up my blood. That is why that makes me feel like a new man.

Before taking Tanlac I would float lazily after eating and the gas affected my heart so as to make it difficult to breathe. I was also very nervous, slept poorly and was easily tired out. At that is the case I have not a care or feeling for, thanks to Tanlac."

PHILIPPE BRISON FOR 18 YEARS MEMBER OF MONTREAL FORCE GIVES FRANK CREDIT FOR RESTORING HEALTH.

Sergeant Philippe Brison, 3451 Hebert Julian St., Montreal, a popular member of the police force stationed here for 18 years, recently had the following to say regarding his experience with Tanlac:

"I'll back Tanlac against any other medicine in the world, for it has cured me of a case of stomach trouble that had worried me for ten years. And besides, it has restored my energy and strength, toned up my system and built up my blood. That is why that makes me feel like a new man.

TO DOUBLE ACTIVITY AGAINST SMUGGLERS

Detroit, May 23—To aid the Detroit office of the United States Immigration Service in coping with a marked increase in smuggled aliens who have been slipped across from Canada at points of Michigan, three new launches, costing the 100 miles of border patrolled, and a crew of 12 men have been added by the force here, the staff will be increased from 18 to 40 and equipped with fast motorcycles, motor cars and power boats.

The announcement to this effect is made by W. W. Sibray Assistant United States Commissioner-General of Immigration who is here to inspect Detroit's immigration district, which includes part of Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

"Smallpox and other contagious diseases cannot be checked as long as we permit aliens to enter the country without first being examined by the doctors who work in cooperation with the Immigration Bureau," Mr. Sibray said.

"Detroit is regarded now by Bureau of immigration Officials and others in Washington as one of the most vulnerable points on the Canadian border and Mr. Sibray realize that something must be done to stop the flow of aliens from Canada through illegal routes maintained by alien smugglers.

law," is their cry, and it is true, but how Christianity strikes at the motive of action not at the outward expression, and law helps to make it easier for people to be good."

Hence Flank Attack

The speaker felt that today people had a feeling that they wish something different, and a portion against the conditions which interfere with their pleasure, was taking place. "Their cellars are becoming dry steads," suggested the speaker. "They are tired of changed circumstances, hence a flank attack by undermining and overwhelming decency and cleanliness."

Rev. Wilson is apparently greatly displeased with the recent statements of two Bishops in Ontario against prohibition as widely published in the Press. Reading the clipping from paper stating the attitude of the Bishop of Niagara, who favours "a more liberal liquor legislation" giving reasons, the speaker opined that the Bishop was rather far more optimistic than most people were when the law rattle into force, or else, having not having studied the case, he does not know the facts. Referring to the words of Bishop Clark of St. Catharines, in an address before the Synod, Rev. Wilson stated that while all that he said might be true, yet his statements were very vague and he could see no ground for anything definite. Bishop Clark directed his attack against nefarious bootleggers who became very rich selling the liquor and others whose homes were in a neglected condition, but not against moderate use of liquor.

"The Act has serious blemishes," admitted the Square minister. "But I ask you to tell the lie, 'that there is more drunkenness drinking now than ever,' for all time."

Merely Red Herring

The Rev. Wilson also presented an argument to show that there was not "more hard-going men than ever before," and stated that the cry about young girls and boys consuming cocoves, in place of liquor was merely a red herring being drawn across the trail. The most pernicious use of cocoves would not be a drop in the bucket compared to former pre-prohibition drinking times. A new amendment, the speaker pointed out will remedy this weakness in the Act.

The solemn warning of government control was vigorously scouted, and classed as bad as the bar. The drinking old men stand with a foot on a brass rail, but an inn a table big enough for four, would be an helpful change. He referred to the Quebec provincial system as very bad, and explained that in British Columbia the conditions were very unsatisfactory. Bootleggers continued to take their profits as of old, but raised their prices, after the Government vendors closed for the day.

The speaker complimented the women for their work in the cause and asked for their continued support in the critical period when the situation looked gloomy certainly, but did not be retained. "For anyone taking such an unreal view of the act, it more than justifies itself," he said.

Recently the prohibition forces reorganized at Toronto after an all day debate and now the forces are organized with the Dominion Alliance as a nucleus. All temperance sentiment in the Dominion was now concentrated under a newly named organization, the Federationists. This reorganization occurred a month ago in readiness to meet any contingency in view of the attitude which the government had taken. Previously it was shown how there had been a serious failure all of prohibition Support to the Referendum Committee after the last two votes. There had been great interest over with the work left undone hampered with, and debts piled up. Now the United Forces of Prohibition and temperance in Ontario and the Dominion would have the best results.

Rev. D. C. Tansay, Minister at Bolton, Ont., was the evening chairman, and Dr. Brown also occupied a chair in the pulpit offering a prayer.

The prize essay on "Five Reasons Why One Gains by Total Abstinence" written by R. H. Elliot of Selby, was read by Miss Way, and Mr. M. Denyes, Provincial Superintendent of Scientific Temperance, presented Miss Way with the $5 prize for the Public Schools or Street Methodist

INCE SEES COLLIER IN "THE HOTTENTOT"—BUYS STORY

When William Collier played Los Angeles in his brilliant comedy, "The Hottentot," Thomas H. Ince, the noted film producer, was in the first night audience.

Ince let so many good laughs out of the play that he at once began negotiations to buy the film rights, for which he paid $21,000. The picture, which is showing at the Griffin Theatre this week, is even funnier than the play. In addition it shows a thrilling steeplechase which couldn't be produced on the stage.

Douglas MacLean is at his best in the original Collier role, while Raymond Hatton, as the eccentric butler in the story, has surpassed himself. Madge Bellamy plays Peggy Fairfax, the girl whose love for horses gets the hero in so many difficult situations. Griffin's now.

ARAB BURLESQUE IN SENNETT FILM

The latest Mack Sennett photoplay burlesque of adventure and red hot romance on the burning desert, entitled "The Sheik," contradicts all statements relative to the manner in which the Arabians live.

In "The Sheik of Araby," as the new production is known, Ben Turpin and Kathryn McGuire, the featured players, would make you believe that rum and ostrich eggs were the regular morning meal and that the milkman delivered the milk and cream each day, and even the newsboy left the daily papers at the rear entrance; also that living in a tent is as clean, whole some and comfortable as a flat.

This latest Sennett farce, an Allied Producers and Distributors Corporation release is being shown at the Regent Theatre now.

SABATINI'S "SCARAMOUCHE" TO BE SEEN HERE ON SCREEN

"Scaramouche," a Rex Ingram production for Metro Pictures Corporation, adapted from Rafael Sabatini's novel of the same name will come to the Griffin Theatre for three days beginning Monday. This picture, a feature in ten reels, has played special engagements in the largest cities and comes to Belleville acclaimed by critics as one of the masterpieces of filmdom.

Ingram, from all accounts, has surpassed his production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" with this picture.

"Scaramouche" is a story of the French Revolution. It tells the romance of Andre-Louis Moreau (Ramon Novarro) and Aline de Kerradieu (Alice Terry). Andre-Louis has been brought up as the ward of Aline's uncle. The Marquis de Tour d'Azyr (Lewis Stone), a haughty aristocrat and man of fashion, killed Andre-Louis's friend, Philippe, because of his revolutionary sentiments, and on the Marquis Andre-Louis has sworn eternal vengeance. To make matters worse the Marquis is courting Aline.

Andre's seditious speeches cause him to be sought for the murder, and in escaping from the pursuing gendarmerie, he joins a strolling band of players and becomes Scaramouche, the clown. Bitterness against Aline leads him into an affair with the leading lady of the troupe, but he ends this when the girl accepts attentions from the Marquis.

Skilled in fencing, Andre-Louis Moreau is persuaded to become substitute deputy in the National Assembly of France for a deputy who was killed in the series of duels brought by the aristocrats against the people's representatives. In a duel with La Tour d'Azyr, that is the culmination of his activities in the Assembly, Andre-Louis wounds the Marquis, and Andre's misunderstanding of Aline's actions after the duel, further widens the breach between them.

The fires of rebellion among the lower and middle classes of Paris are finally fanned into open revolt. The patriot Danton (George Siegmann) leads the mob to the Tuileries, where the monarchy is overthrown. The Marquis escapes from the massacre at the Tuileries, and seeks shelter at the house where also is Aline, who has been unable to escape from the city. Andre-Louis comes to save her, and finds the Marquis there. The two men are on the point of killing each other when revelations are made that disclose Andre's real identity.

The thirty principal characters in "Scaramouche" include, beside Ramon Novarro, Lewis Stone and Alice Terry, who were the triumvirate that appeared in Ingram's "Prisoner of Zenda," Lloyd Ingraham, Julia Swayne Gordon and Edith Allen.

Willis Goldbeck adapted the story to the screen, the photography was by John F. Seitz, Curt Rehfeld was production manager, and Grant Whytock, costume designer. Titles designed by O'Kane Cornwell and Evamay Roth and executed by Van Horn.

Milkman Found Babe On Doorstep

Second Case of Child Desertion—in Hamilton in Forty-eight Hours

Hamilton, May 23.—The second case of child desertion within forty eight hours was reported to the police yesterday, the baby this time being alive and well. According to Police Taylor, 83 Garfield avenue south, a milkman, he was going his rounds on Emerald street south at 5.20 o'clock in the morning when he heard a baby's cry. On investigating, Mr. Taylor discovered the child on a doorstep, wrapped in brown paper, and warmly clad. The police were notified, and the wagon in charge of P. C. Patton, responded and took the foundling to the Salvation Army home on Mountain avenue. There is a slight possibility that the party responsible for leaving the child on the doorstep may be apprehended, detectives say, the assumption being based on the following note pinned to the wrapping paper: "This child belongs to your son. The mother died two days after it was born. You had better tell him to look after it the best way he knows how." The statement was written with lead pencil on an ordinary sheet of writing material, and no name was signed. The writing was somewhat scrawled, the intention evidently having been to disguise it. The police are conducting a thorough investigation.

ADOPT EACH OTHER'S CHILD

By adopting each other's child, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Perry, of Pittsburg, Pa., hope to bind their family with stronger ties. Both the man and woman were married before and had one child. The man adopted the woman's son, and the woman adopted the man's daughter.

BOYS BRANDED BY COWBOYS

That three boys were branded by cowboys on a ranch near Carrollton, Texas, was the story Will Wilson, 18 years old, told police. He showed scars. The police are making an investigation.

Belleville Grand Trunks Take Measure Of Picton In Snappy Exhibition Game

Belleville Grand Trunks defeated Picton Intermediates in a snappy exhibition game at Picton yesterday afternoon, by the score of 6-2. The game was played in less than two hours, before a small crowd.

"Chuck" Jeffrey started for the Trunks, pitching three innings during which period the Picton squad batted their pair of tallies. Hughie Keon was in the next three frames, and then Jack Oulette finished strong. Oulette had the Picton boys ducking and stepping back from the rubber, when he opened up with his hand. The other two boys also pitched fairly nice ball. For Picton, Stan Croft; their depe-nable hurler pitched seven innings of nifty ball, and was relieved for the last two only.

Hagerman caught half the game after which "Peenie" Mills went behind. Harry Mills, Allan Meagher, Vern Weir and Johnny Williams played the whole game in the infield, but the outfield was changed. Alec Weir, Jack White and Cy Young being used in the gardens with the regulars. Ross and Casey, Young was injured going into second, retiring, and White was pulled during the game. Features of the game were two-base clouts by "Big Peenie" and "Chuck" Williams, though Trunks got many easy safeties through Picton errors. The locals played a clean game so far as errors go. The diamond was in excellent shape. Stan Nurse handled the game.

Belleville lined up as follows:—

Stan Hagerman and Bill Mills, Catchers; Jeffrey Keon and Oulette, Pitchers; H. Mills, First; Allan Meagher, Second; John Williams, Third; Vern Weir, Shortstop; Outfielders, Casey, Ross, Alec Weir, Young and White.

Queen's Rugby Team Loses Three Members

Kingston, May 23—Sixty-four graduates of the Faiculty of Medicine, of which ten are Kingstonians, were announced by Queen's University yesterday. In addition one diploma of Public Health was awarded by the Faiculty.

The list of graduates is a fairly long one, and incidentally, the football team of last year suffered considerably as Wm. Campbell, John Evan's and Karl Quinn, members of the champions were among those to graduate. In addition Roy Smith, star of the hockey team, was one of the graduates while Wilfred Gratton, a former well-known hockeyist, also secured his degree.

ON THE ALLEYS

"What' in a name?" Very little, as proved by the names of the Nerve down Wells Team who won from the Strollers last night by a safe margin. In so doing they maintained an unbroken line of victories from the start of the league of the league championship, since last months was carried with it the championship of the Ladies' and Men's League.

Unfortunately for the Strollers, the Bunsers up of the league, they were forced to roll a John Doe, due to the failure of one of their players to put in an appearance. Notwithstanding this handicap the Strollers managed to win the first game but thereafter they weakened badly and at the end of the third and final game the Nerve Do Wells had a lead of 202. Miss A. Lafferty bowled her total strong game, heading the ladies' score column with 404 while J. Yeres proved the "Babe Ruth" of the men.

In the first play off for second prize in the senior league the Wanderers won from the Bowlers by 52 pins in one of the best senior games played for some time, both teams rolling over 2000 and the 7th consecutive game for the Bowlers to roll over 3000. The Wanderers got a lead of 52 pins in the first game and added 75 more in the second, but the third game the Bowlers made a great effort to save even the lead but only managed to cut down 84, rolling 925 against the Wanderers' 941. The second play off takes place to-night between the 5 of C. and the Bikes, winner of this game will play the Wanderers for the final game. Fred Lidyett was the big noise of the night with 710 followed closely by Hill with 707.

In a junior league game the Spark Plugs won from the C. I. A. team the latter team by playing Geo. Savage who is not eligible on account of playing with another team would have won the game if the score was allowed. Keon, three fifth bowler didn't get in until the last game, but the Spark Plugs have consented to play the game over again as it makes any difference in the standing. Muir and Bradley were the leading bowlers for there respective teams. Players and scores.

SUBSTITUTES FOR GROOM

Rather than see the wedding guests disappointed through the failure of the bridegroom-to-be to carry out his part of the agreement, Manuel Botelho, 29 years old, of Fall River, Mass., one of the guests, volunteered to take the bridegroom's place.

He was accepted on the spot by Miss Maria Gierta Carvalho, 22. The guests waited at the bride's home while the couple made a flying trip to the city clerk's office, filed their intentions, and then got the clerk of the court to waive the five-day rule.

The wedding went through, of rule, a trifle late perhaps, and with a new leading man, but every one appeared satisfied. The substitution of Bridegroom's became necessary when Maria's old sweetheart inferred her he was very much out of love and couldn't marry her.

Withstands punishment
RAILWAY crossings, stony roads, curb bumps, sudden braking and steep down-grade are typical of the numberless punishments that cause internal heat so destructive to both rubber and cords.
In Dominion Cord Tires you have always had the greatest dependability—but now, by our exclusive new Web Cord process, internal friction and heat caused by cross threads are eliminated.
Our new Sprayed Rubber process increases the elasticity and strength of the treads and side walls, because Sprayed Rubber is the purest rubber in the world. It is used exclusively in Dominion Royal Cord and U-cord Tires in Canada.
The extra mileage and dependability of these new features in Dominion Cord Tires are thoroughly proven by years of actual road tests. They mean no increase in the price of Dominion Cord Tires.

Girl Passed Over By Some 85 Cars

Will Live to Tell About it; Her Doctors Claim

Greenup, Ky., May 23.—Eighty-five freight cars and a locomotive passed over Miss Ruth Cruyerafi, 15 years old, and she will live to tell the tale, doctors assert.

Miss Cruyerafi and her chum, Miss Lorna Thompson, were on their way to prayer meeting, walking on the railroad tracks. They did not hear the noise of a freight train bearing down on them. Miss Thompson was struck and thrown to one side and only slightly injured.

Miss Cruyerafi was thrown beneath the engine. She is very slender and the lay perfectly still as the locomotive and cars passed over her. The brake beams tugged at her clothing and bruised her body, and only the exhaust had passed she was almost naked. Persons soon saw the accident rushed to where she lay, expecting to find her dead.

She was rushed to the hospital and placed on the operating table. Her injuries worked over her four hours and then expressed the opinion that she would recover.

The engineer did not know of the accident until he stopped at the next station and found the girl's dress in his engine and scores of her clothing under the trucks.

Committees

drew from the chamber, amid a tense silence.

The indictment of a member of the Cabinet drew keen excitement from the Prime Minister and from the Leader of the Opposition. As soon as Mr. Murdock had left the chamber, Mr. Mackenzie King suggested that, in view of the "full knowledge" now before the House, the member for West Hastings might withdraw his motion.

Mr. Meighen insists

The attitude evoked retort from Mr. Meighen, who declared that the framing of the motion had in no wise altered the circumstances surrounding its withdrawal.

"It was wrong, or it was not wrong," he said, and Parliament could not, must dare not, refuse to purge itself of the imputation placed upon it.

This view prevailed, and without dividing, the House of Commons adopted the motion, referring the matter to the Committee on Privileges and Elections.

The Porter charges are now in the hands of a standing committee of 21 members—15 Liberals, 7 Progressives and 6 Conservatives.

Under the orders of the day, Mr. Pepler rose to discuss a matter "affecting not only myself personally, but also the honor of this House." As the matter which he proposed to discuss was that the Minister of Labor, he had supplied Mr. Murdock with a copy of a resolution that he proposed to move after taking his seat. The Minister of Labor had replied that the resolution, if taking would be satisfactory. The matter which he proposed to discuss was the relation and dealing of the Hon. James Murdock, in his personal capacity, with the defunct Home Bank.

No Personal Feeling

Mr. Porter said he had only the slightest personal acquaintance with the Minister of Labor. He had, so far as he knew, no Home Bank depositors or shareholders in his riding. He had no personal feeling in the matter. His wish was to vindicate the honor of Parliament, and he believed that it was fair both to the Minister and the House that the matter should be discussed.

It was in the belief derived from certain information which had come to him, that the Minister of Labor had infringed certain rules of Parliament, of having gone exhaustively into the history of British Parliamentary law, he had found there were very few cases where the honor of Parliament had been impugned on just the grounds. Statements affected had taken prompt action to investigate the charges brought against Parliamentarians.

Invokes Old Principle

The principle he invoked in the motion he was about to make was one laid down in the British Parliament, and defined by Rufus Isaacs as being one in which Parliament should use information he obtains in his capacity as Minister of the Crown, to "further his own interests", and that if he did "he was deserving of censure."

Mr. Porter read the history of precedents in British Parliaments for the investigation and action he was now asking this Parliament to take.

If a trustee for the Crown and people used his trust for personal advantage, it was a breach of trust. Mr. Porter argued that by the very position the Minister held, he could not go out into the streets and divulge information he might have received in the Cabinet regarding the condition of the Home Bank. No more could the Minister use that same knowledge, which he had denied to the public, for his own advantage. Such conduct would merit not only the condemnation of Parliament, but of the people as a whole.

The Prime Minister had taken the position that his office made it impossible to disclose the names of those members of the Cabinet in attendance at meetings. When the public became aware of the charges made against the Minister of Labor through the newspapers, the Minister was under obligation to speak in the House of Commons and clear the matter up. But the Minister had preferred to make no answer and the charges stood today—as when they had been made in the press.

Sulphur Clears Rough, Red Skin
FACE, NECK AND ARMS EASILY MADE SMOOTH, SAYS SPECIALIST
Any beginning out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Sulphurine, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its great destroying properties, this summer preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.
It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from either because, in every case where Sulphurine is used, it has given almost instant relief. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small bottle of Stearns' Sulphurine from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

Bishop Prorogues Synod In Kingston

Congratulated on his Twenty-One Years of Service In Canada

The delegates to the annual meeting of the Synod of the Diocese of Ontario assembled on the 9th of the business before them shortly after noon yesterday, and the Synod was prolonged by the Bishop. The Synod meeting was immediately followed by a short meeting of the Executive Committee for the purpose of discussing business referred to them during the session.

The first business before this morning's session of the Synod was the report brought in by Rural Dean Crisp on the matter of the delimitation of Parish and Mission boundaries. The Rural Dean reported that the matter had been considered by the different Deaneries in the Diocese, the Deaneries of Prince Edward, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, and Prince Edward, all expressing themselves as favoring a more definite delimitation of boundaries in order that certain portions of the Diocese which are now a kind of "no-man's land" will be covered by the Parish Organization. All steps be taken by Synod to define fully accurate this object.

A resolution was adopted by Synod authorizing the recommendation of the work commenced by the Deaneries, and suggesting that definite boundaries be submitted for the consideration of next Synod meeting.

The Very Rev. Dean Starr introduced a resolution offering congratulations and felicitations to Rt. Rev. Dr. E. J. Bidwell, Bishop of the Diocese, on the fact that this year he completes his twenty-first year in Canada. The Dean spoke in very strong appreciation of the work done by the Bishop, and expressed the hope of the Diocese that he would long continue to be with them as their Bishop.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

"I have come to speak to you about our sad loss," said Selby Layton as the voice he had selected as proper to the occasion. "Miss Vanecourt has just been telling me of it. She is deeply grieved by your daughter's disappearance, and is extremely anxious to learn what has become of her; and, at her desire, I am going up to London to see if I can trace her. If you can give me any information upon which would be likely to assist me—"

Transom looked up at him moodily. "I have told Miss Vanecourt all I know," he said, "and I suppose she has told you. I don't know where my girl has gone; but if you find Mr. Gordon you'll find her."

"You felt convinced of that?" said Selby Layton, sharply.

Transom nodded sullenly but emphatically.

"There's not much doubt, sir," he said. "There's none in my mind, after what I've heard. He's been carrying on with her ever since he came. Yes! She has gone after him."

"Don't lose heart," said Selby Layton, making his most sympathetic inflection and an affection of sympathy, and speaking in the tone of voice which he always used when he is paying a visit of condolence. "I will do my best to find them, and I've no doubt that I shall succeed; if I do so, rest assured that I will do my best to restore your daughter to you."

Transom looked at him sideways and with a curious expression, an expression in which, as Selby Layton noted, there was a trace of cunning. It rather puzzled him. He had never seen a stricken man broken down by grief or furious with rage and paternal resentment, but there was not much of the outraged father in Transom's manner. He did not look as though he were thinking of vengeance or even of the best means of betraying his daughter.

"It's no use bringing her back, sir," he said. "If you're going to be so kind as to go in search of her, and if you find them, persuade him, force him to marry her. Tell him that if he wants any of his wife's worth to deal unfairly by her. Make him marry her."

Selby Layton eyed him curiously.

"I may have some difficulty in doing that, Transom," he said, "but I will not forget that, if they are together, your daughter follows him of her own accord, that she has placed herself in his power, and is entirely in his hands."

Transom was silent for a moment, as if he were considering that fact, then he said:

"Kate was always a good girl, sir, until—until he came. I don't believe she'd do wrong if she'd gone alone with him he must have promised to marry her, and a word from you might do it. Tell him—" he paused as if weighing his words; "tell him that if he needs the relief of backaches and kidney and bladder weakness—Mrs. Francis Stone, 42 Grey Street.

"Oh, of course, I'll give him your message though it sounds to me rather ridiculous."

Transom looked up with a start.

"Hush!" he said, wattingly. "Here's Dick Reeve! Don't tell him what I said."

Dick Reeve came up to the path and leant in the doorway, eyeing the other man curiously.

"I've just been telling Transom here that, as Miss Vanecourt's desire, I am going in search of his daughter," said Selby Layton, coolly.

Dick Reeve nodded. His black eyes glowed fiercely, his lips twitched

"Oh, so you're going, are you?" he said, insolently. "And what are you going to do when you find her?"

Selby Layton drew himself up and regarded the man with a haughtiness which appeared to have no effect upon him.

"Bring her back, Dick; bring her back!" said Transom, quickly and huskily.

"Oh, all right!" said Dick Reeve, with fierce sarcasm; "but how do I know he's coming back himself. How do I know he isn't going to off it too?" and he laughed with a kind of drunken ferocity.

"I don't in the least know what you mean, my good man," said Selby Layton, haughtily.

"Don't you?" retorted Dick Reeve. "Of course you don't! But you can't go writing without leaving your address, at any rate. I want to know where I can find you if I want you, if don't turn up."

Selby Layton reddened resentfully; but he told himself that it would be folly to quarrel with a drunken man.

"You want my address? Certainly!" he said, smoothly.

He took out his card case, but it was empty.

"I haven't a card, I see!" he said. "If you'll be so kind as to give me a piece of paper, I will write it down for you. I will do."

Dick took an envelope from his pocket, and Transom rose and looked vaguely for a pencil.

"Here's a pen," said Dick Reeve, with a sudden laugh, and he thrust his hand in his pocket, his eyes fixed on Selby Layton.

Then he paused and drew his hand forth.

"Thank you," said Selby Layton, as he wrote the address on the envelope and put it in the table.

"There, my friend," he said; "that will find me, Goodday, Transom. I trust I shall be successful in my search for your daughter."

"Goodbody, sir," returned Transom. "You—you won't forget my message?" he added, with a sidelong glance at Dick Reeve, who stood, swaying slightly, by the door, his eyes on the address Selby Layton had given him.

"No, no; I will not forget!" said Selby Layton.

To be Continued.

WEDDING BELLS

MILES—HAY

At St. Andrew's Church Manse, on Monday, May 19th, 1924, Maude Mabel, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Hay, was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur Miles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miles. HINTS FOR HAYMAKING

When to Cut, Tedd, Rake, Coil and Haul In.

Curing Sweet Clover—Harvesting Alfalfa—Handling Fall Clover—Timothy Easiest to Cut—Rheumatic Hogs and Their Treatment.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

There is an old saying, "Make hay while the sun shines," with which Prof. Wade Toole of the O. A. College agrees; and fortunate is the farmer who gets sunshine for this job. However, with hay to have at one cannot always wait for fine weather. One of the essentials in the production of good hay is that it be cut at the proper time. It must have sufficient maturity to ensure curing quality, but over maturity means coarse, sticum, low quality hay. Sweet clover should be cut in the late bud stage. Alfalfa is ready just as it begins to blossom, and the best crops of timothy are standing at the same stage. Red clover is handled to best advantage when approximately one-third of the blossoms have turned brown, and timothy just after the second blossom has gone.

Curing Sweet Clover.

In curing sweet clover two methods are followed. Perhaps cutting with the binder and stooking up the hay until the crop is dry saves leaves from rot and gives as good results as can be obtained. Or the crop may be cut down and allowed to lie in the swath for about two days, and then raked into small windrows. If the weather is dry, about this time cock the windrow with an occasional toiling maker it ready to harvest. If in the weather is catchy it is advisable to coil the crop as soon as it is raked up.

Harvesting Alfalfa.

Alfalfa is more easily cured than sweet clover. If the weather is fine it may be cut in the morning and raked the afternoon of the following day. It must not be allowed to remain exposed to the dew too many nights or bleaching results. After raking, if the sun shines, one more day in the windrow generally makes good hay. If rain threatens coil it up immediately and let it stand in the coil. In any event be sure it is dry when hauled, and be careful of the leaves in handling as they constitute the most valuable portion of the feed.

Handling Red Clover Hay.

Red clover is the common clover hay crop. Much of it is allowed to get over-ripe because it cures much more easily. It may be handled in the same manner as alfalfa; but, unless the crop is heavy it does not usually take quite as long to cure. The inbinder has changed methods in some extent. It is good practice to cut one day, tedd the following afternoon, and rake the next afternoon. If the crop is very heavy it does have to lay over an extra day. It is surprising how much leaf is lost when hay after it has gone so far, when pulled or rolled into windrows. If it is to be coiled the work should be done soon after raking, and the hay should remain in the coils for a few days to sweat out. However, most of it is put drawn out of the windrows and if dry makes good feed.

Timothy is Easiest to Cut.

Timothy is the easiest to cure. If crop and weather are right it may be cut one morning and hauled the next afternoon, and, in fair weather, is always ready by the third day. It is not necessary to bleach timothy hay.

No matter what the hay crop, cut it time, rake as soon as possible to hasten drying, tedd only when necessary to damp and coil in catchy weather. No doubt alfalfa and red clover may be made into the best hay by coiling, but in good weather the extra work is not necessary, and the loaser leaves the best part. Experience, O. A. College, Guelph.

Rheumatic Hogs.

Rheumatism of swine may affect either the muscular tissues or the joints the muscular form being most common. Most authorities agree that several causes at least predispose to this disease. Exposure to weather is largely responsible for much of it. Infection also plays an important part. The formation within the body of injurious chemical substances may be a cause. A combination of all these doubtless brings the disease.

The first evidence is pain shown by the animal when it moves. A stiffening lameness is present. In bad cases food is refused and the hog lies down most of the time. Aside from pain and lameness, the animal with a mild case, may show symptoms. If the joints are affected, there usually is a slight fever. Attacks last from several days to two weeks.

Good quarters should be provided, dry with little variation in temperature. Laxatives should be given, and sodium salicylate in bran slop in doses of from half to one teaspoonful two or three times daily. If the animal recovers entirely from the attack, it might be best to market it.

LABOR GAINS SEAT

Jospeh Gibbons Defeats Conservative in West Toxteth By-Election

Liverpool, May 23.—Labor gained another seat in Parliament yesterday by the election of Joseph Gibbons in the West Toxteth by-election. Gibbons received 15,569 votes, and Thomas White, Conservative, 15,024.

In the previous election Gibbons lost the seat by only 129 votes to Sir Robert P. Houston, the famous shipowner.

FROST CAUSES ABOUT A HALF-MILLION LOSS

Chatham, Ont., May 23—Two heavy frosts of the recent nights have caused a loss of more than $500,000 to the tomato growers of Kent County and the Leamington district, according to estimates of agricultural men here yesterday.

The early potatoes are not thought to be seriously damaged except that their growth will be retarded and the growers will be several days late in putting them on the market.

Fruit growers fear that the peach crop which promised to be very light this year, will be seriously affected, especially the early varieties.

CELEBRATED TOO SOON

Montreal, May 23.—With explosions, blasts, reports and splutterings, so loud that residents of the district thought a battle of armed hold-up was being staged, the showwindow of G. W. Lachapelle, in the north end of the city, containing Roman candles, rockets, Catharine wheels, sparklers and firecrackers, burst into activity yesterday afternoon.

The place glass window was blown bodily out into the street, and a fire was started that heavily damaged the interior of the shop.

It is charged that a boy with a magnifying glass was the cause of the outbreak.

EX-TREASURER IS SENT TO TRIAL

Will Face Grand Jury on All the Charges Laid

WITNESSES EXAMINED

Despite the heated assertion of H. H. Dewart, K.C., defence counsel, that he commit him, Peter Smith for trial on the evidence submitted would be a grievous crime than the offences alleged against him, Magistrate J. E. Jones in the Police Court yesterday afternoon committed the former Provincial Treasurer of Ontario on all two charges which the Crown has laid against him.

Assistant Crown Attorney J. C. McRuer, who conducted the prosecution of the charges against Peter Smith, had associated with him in the court, Messrs. A. W. Rogers, N. B. Garry and H. L. Gordon. Defence counsel H. H. Dewart, K.C., was assisted by his legal partner, H. Y. Pressdee. Mr. A. E. Nash, who is in charge of the investigation, was present in court but was not called as a witness.

Magistrate Jones did not argue the point, but stated that the fact of the fact that there were certain suspicious circumstances unexplained, including the reason why the Provincial Treasurer should discount a note for a large sum for a bond salesman, he considered that the matter should be placed before the grand jury. Such a course would not only be in the interest of the public, but should be in the interest of Mr. Smith, if he wished to clear up his actions. He therefore accommitted the accused for trial on all of the oaths in question.

A. E. Calvert, who was manager of the Toronto branch of the Home Bank, was called.

Mr. McRuer: "I show you a debit slip dated November 2, 1921, in whose handwriting is it 'Mine.'"

"Whose initials does it bear?"

"Mine and those of Mr. Chapman, the accountant."

"What is that document?" "A charge to our expense account of $14,000."

"What else is there on it?" "Payment in bonds head office."

"Give us the history of that transaction," said Mr. McRuer.

"From the beginning?" "Yes."

"In the fall of 1920, after general manager J. Cooper Mason told me that it would cost us an extra one per cent. to carry the provincial account."

Money Went To Mason

"Is that ever what did you do with that debit slip?" asked Mr. McRuer.

"I am not quite certain at the moment."

"Did you do that on more than one occasion?" "Yes."

"When you made out a debit slip as you did that, what was the result?"

Mr. Calvert said that he had cashed several and handed the money to the general manager. This was in total number, $300 to $1000 bills.

"What would be done with the cheque?" "The check would be filled out, taken to the teller, the money received and taken to the general manager."

Was anybody present when you handed the money to the general manager?" "Mr. Whittaker on one occasion."

"What does this say?" "Debit account, $14,000?"

"What was the date?" "March 1, 1922."

"It was charged to interest account finally on the instructions of the general manager."

Another debit slip of $1,000 in 1922 was also filed as an exhibit.

Says Smith Present

Mr. Calvert identified several other debit slips, which he stated had passed through his hands in the same manner. One of them was for $1,800. This amount had not all been paid in bonds to Mr. Mason, because bonds were not issued in denominations less than $500.

"Did you see Hon. Mr. Smith at the bank on any of these occasions when you gave money to Mason?" "Yes."

"How often?" "Two or three times, I think. Once I saw him going into the office; another time I saw him coming in."

"What explanation did Mr. Mason give you, of these transactions?"

Mr. Dewart: "I object."

Mr. Jones: "Admitted."

"He said that he was paying an additional one per cent. on the province's deposit." Mr. Calvert replied, "and that it was going back to the department through the treasurer."

"How was the amount of these payments arrived at?" Mr. Mason asked me for the average credit balance of the province—usually, for a period of two or three months—and figured out one per cent. on that. He told me what money to get, and I got it."

"What was the first occasion on which you cashed any of these debit slips?" "In April of 1921, I believe; I couldn't tell without reference to the books."

"Was there any payment before that of November, 1921?" "Yes."

Witness, however could not fix the date.

Mr. Dewart: "You have no knowledge of any payment being made to Mr. Smith?"

"No," said Calvert.

And he stepped down, but was told not to leave the court.

Produce Smith's Bank Book

George L. McIlattie, manager of the Bank of Toronto in Stratford, was then called to the stand. He said he had been there since 1912 and knows Peter Smith for 7 or 8 years.

Mr. McRuer produced by the witness the originals of the bank account of Peter Smith in that bank.

The current account of Peter Smith with the bank was opened on Feb. 18, 1918, and closed on May 1, 1918, and a savings account was opened on Dec. 27, 1919, and is still open.

Witness was shown a deposit account of Nov. 5, 1921, for the amount of $1,000.

"Do you remember the circumstances of the deposit being made?" "No."

"On whose instructions was the deposit made?" "No."

"On whose instructions was the deposit made?" "Likely Mr. Smith's."

The next deposit was on March 6, 1922.

"Is that one of the original documents?" "Yes."

"What does it show?" "It shows a deficit of $1,000 less $500."

"Who looked at it, L. A. Smith, wife of Peter—"

Mr. Dewart objected.

"There are initials on it?" "Yes, L. S." "There was $500 withdrawn, $30.91 added, making a total of $965.91.

Mr. McRuer produced a deposit slip under date of June 23, 1922.

On June 23rd there was another deposit of two $1,000 bills and one $200.

On Sept. 11, 1922, there was a deposit of a $1,000 bill.

"What is this document?" "A deposit dated December 21, 1922, showing one $50 deposit and a total of $2,46."

His First $1,000 Bill

"When did you first see a $1,000 bill?"

"I cannot remember well enough to answer that."

"Do you recollect the first person who presented one?" "No, I cannot tell where I first saw one. I may have either in London or Winnipeg."

"What is the first time in Stratford you saw one?" "The first one came in on deposit."

"From whom?" "Mr. Smith."

Mr. McRuer: "Do you recollect seeing thousand dollar bills in deposits from anyone else?"

Mr. Dewart: "Objected to."

Mr. McRuer: "All right, it doesn't matter."

McIlattie: "In Stratford it would not be a common occurrence."

"These slips were kept as a matter of trust for Mr. Smith?" asked Mr. Dewart.

Witness hesitated. "It may be hard for him to say," said the magistrate.

"We kept them as bank records," said McIlattie.

"And how long have you been keeping such deposit slips?" "Since 1912," said the bank manager.

"To whom did you give them?" "To Mr. Lash.

"Did you have a search warrant?" "No."

"Why did you hand them over?" "I didn't I just let him examine them."

"Did he say authority to see them?" "We had the written authority of Mr. Smith himself," replied the witness. "I have viewed him about it."

To Mr. McIlwee he said he had refused to show the slips until Mr. Smith gave his assent.

COUNCIL HANDS STATES FIRM NEW WATER PUMP CONTRACT; PATRIOTIC FATHERS LOSE OUT

Consulting Engineer Insists De Laval Machine the Better of Two

HAVE CANADIAN PLANT

Is Argument Submitted to Inquiring Aldermen; Vote Decisive

With a substantial majority, the City Council went on record late night award ing the contract for the sanitary pump at the pumping station to the De Laval people. The valiant attempt was made by the minority to urge the business to Canadians, but the advice of the consulting engineer carried too much weight.

Mr. Storrie of Toronto, one of the consulting engineers who recommended to the Council the acceptance of the tenders of the De Laval Pump Company for the installation of their pump at the pumping station, addressed the Council. No engineer especially mentioned in the tenders asked for, he said. The Goldie McCulloch Company and the De Laval Company pumps were identical, but the question concerned gasoline, engine to drive the pumps of equal value. There is no Canadian engine specified as is desired that be knewn of.

Ald. Robinson—"Why did the consulting engineers recommend an American pump in preference to a Canadian made pump?"

Mr. Storrie—"The De Laval Company's pump is a superior pump and the company has a large plant in Peterboro where many are employed. The pumps recommended to be installed are to the pumps now in use at the pumping houses and the working parts are interchangeable."

The Goldie, McCulloch Company did not altogether comply with the agreements in the contract. There is no doubt in the mind of the consulting engineers that the De Laval pump was the most satisfactory pump. In Chatham, Oshawa, Port Hope the De Laval pumps were to be installed and in each case the figures of the Goldie McCulloch Company was lowest. There is no comparison between the two pumps.

In answer to an enquiry from Ald. Robinson, Mr. Storrie said there were many more De Laval pumps used in Ontario than there were Goldie McCulloch pump.

Mayor Ponton, representing the Goldie McCollough Company, read a list of the places where his company had installed their pumps.

"We are a Canadian firm and our pumps have proved to be efficient wherever installed," he said.

After some further discussion to and fro, Mr. Storrie said he had not hesitated in recommending the installation of the De Laval Company's pump at Belleville pumping station.

A motion prevailed that the Council go into committee of the whole. Ald. McCreary in the chair.

The committee recommended that the recommendation of consulting engineers, Messrs. Gore, Nasmith and Storrie, advising the accepting of the tender of the Turbine Equipment Company, Ltd., for the installation of a gasoline engine driven pump to the De Laval type with stirling engine be accepted.

Chairman Ald. McCreary read a number of letters from municipal corporations where the Goldie McCulloch Company's pump were installed. All were of a complimentary nature and stated the pumps were efficient in every respect.

Ald. Robinson spoke in support of the Council accepting the tender of the Canadian firm. This was a good test for patriotism. He moved an amendment that the acceptance of the tender be referred to the water committee. The amendment was lost and the original recommendation was adopted by a vote of 7 to 4.

TRUCK AND ALCOHOL SEIZED; BIG FINE TOO

St. Catharines, Ont., May 22.—A fine of $2,000, $10 costs and a confiscation of the one ton truck along with 215 gallons of alcohol seized by local police on the highway a week ago was the judgment handed out yesterday by Magistrate Campbell on Tom Chilco, fruit merchant of Toronto. Chilco took full blame for the affair and the charges against Vincent Fiorito and Stephen Bonis, also of Toronto, were dismissed. This is the first case on local records in which a truck has been confiscated for transporting liquor on the highway under the new section of the O.T.A.

WAS HAPPY DAY AT QUEEN ALEXANDRA

Children forget Lessons and Listen to Good Empire Day Program

The pupils of Queen Alexandra School very suitably observed Empire Day, May 23rd, when they assembled to listen to an instructive and entertaining address.

During the afternoon Mrs. Beamish as representative of the Argyll Chapter, I. O. D. E., handed over a pin to display to the school. These are pictures of incidents in the life of the early peoples of those in the Gallery in Ottawa. They are being distributed to the schools by the I. O. D. E. and Department of Education.

Mr. J. A. McFee, as chairman of the meeting, called for the Chapter for the beautiful pictures.

The feature of the afternoon was an address by Miss Lucy Bowerman, who just being the Saskatoon Islands. In his usual splendid manner, he held his listeners in rapt attention while he told them in his graphic way of Saskatoon's scaltkin beach and waving prairies. His touches on homesteading school and child life did not fail on deaf ears. The address was most entertaining and instructive.

Mr. Ackerman, one of Queen Alexandra's trustees, moved a few remarks. As he had been chairman of the school for some time and past chairman of Board of Education, he understood the difficulties that he had in the school.

During the afternoon the children sang "O Canada". "The Maple Leaf Forever", and "Rendezvous". The exercises were closed by the "National Anthem."

Woke To Find His Bed Burning Up

Kingston Man Has Unique Experience With Electric Pad

Kingston, May 21.—A well-known young business man of the city living on King street, had a disastrous experience in his home on Wednesday night as the result of a most peculiar accident.

Suffering from rheumatic and other pains, he had made use of a certain electric heater. This particular heater has no top pads, but is made with a few different degrees of heat—and it is regulated by a switch which has low, intermediate and high as may be desired. The low giving the least heat and the high giving the greatest. In this case he had turned on the high, reaching the heater to the switch, turned it immediately low and then, instead of using it under his back, promptly proceeded to go to sleep, not thinking to shut it.

But he was destined to be forcibly and impressively reminded of it a few hours later on, when he suddenly was awakened by a feeling of intense heat in the bed. He jumped up with a start to find the bed clothes and mattress under him on fire and his pajamas beginning to scorch. Quick and alert always, the young man in this particular instance, made a record-breaking exit from his bed, and almost in less time than it takes to tell it, he had thrown the offending heater out of bed and deluged the burning clothes with water.

NO SCHOOL MONDAY

When the city fathers decided to declare Monday a public holiday at yesterday's meeting, they hesitated about the question for schools in the city. There will be no schools open here on Monday.

Rain Does Not Still Firecrackers in City, Merchants Report Big Sale of Noise Makers

Now it appears evident why Belleville Dixie Monday is the official Victoria Day holiday. It is raining in torrents, and it appears as though it will be a dull day for those towns that have either elected or celebrating the holiday today.

Early this morning however, the young folks undaunted by mere rain were out and at it. The "crack, crack" by the various kinds of harmless fire crackers and the happy voices of the youngsters could be heard through the early rising public that the anniversary of the birthday of the King Queen was being duly and fittingly observed.

ON TO OTTAWA IS THE SLOGAN IN DRY FIGHT

W.C.T.U. Speaker Counsels Attack Rather Than O.T.A. Defense

National Prohibition Only Way to Play Fair with United States, He Declares

A stirring appeal for Christian citizenship, to revive democracy in our government liquor control and a rousing call to temperance workers of Canada to push forward to Ottawa in a campaign for national prohibition came from the lips of Dr. F. S. Spence, well known preacher, before the W. C. T. U. county convention at John Street Presbyterian Church.

With eloquence, the speaker claimed that the best campaign was that of attack and he concluded a march into Ottawa for Dominion-wide prohibition legislation rather than staying at home defending the Ontario Temperance Act against the inroads of the enemy.

The meeting was largely attended and the remarks of the speaker of the evening were received with enthusiasm. Dr. F. S. Spence is a leader in the Methodist Church was chairman of the election by John St. Choir and a toothing meeting was given to the happiness caused by drunkenness. Solos by Miss Helen Sulman, added to the interest of the program. Miss Ethel Sliter was the pianist.

Mrs. Hall, superintendent of work on "Smoking" by Archie McKee of Toronto, winner of the first of the School pupils in a contest arranged by the Chapter.

That he had been a servant of the W. C. T. U. for 25 years was the introductory remark made by Dr. Spence. That organization had made a great contribution to the moral and spiritual good. he declared, and challenged many present to point out the fact.

The speaker believed that Canada was in a Christian crisis, and a crisis of Christian citizenship.

By that, the Christian citizens kept an open home, open heart, open hand to every stranger; elected property and how to God's word. Moses believed the laws of God were practical politics with which Israel did not shirk themselves with the meat of the world; Jesus Christ fought their way on from cowardice to courage, and with Paul were willing to face anything and unfold the faith of Jesus fearlessly.

Ist Must Work On

To be a Christian was to be Christ's man, Dr. Scott said, His Jesus would do what He did today. Jesus had said He declared, nor would he go into one of the government offices today, and as there were in British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Ontario, to face him with a duty to-day for the cause of temperance.

Stepping then into the liquor problem among the soldiers and people of the country today the speaker referred to the large number of opinions and the fact that a surrounding brutality of many people. With fine assurance opinions of prohibition, declared that there was more liquor being consumed today than ever before and that there was more criminality now and an increase in the drug habit.

Stamping government control as a failure he said it took 1000 years for Hungner to Russia's failure in that regard, to an attempt at government control in North Carolina two years ago, where 256 blind pigs sprang into existence in one county.

Government control did not stop illegal sales, but only made them more drunkenness. It had failed. Statistics in British Columbia showed that there was more liquor sold with the government selling than previously and the increase in consumption alarmingly high.

True, the system produced splendid revenue, for the province, but only because of the higher rate of taxes that never saw the debit side with the receipts. (continued on page eight)

POLE ON FIRE CAUSED POWER CUT OFF

Fire, which is believed to have been caused by a ground, partially destroyed a wooden high tension pole on the Hydro Electric Power Commission, this morning about 10:30 and the power was off for some twenty minutes as a result. The rapid work of the trouble department of the Hydro, soon had the power on again, however, there was only a slight inconvenience to which the industries were suddenly called. The pole stands behind the substation.

BOYS' WORK BOARD STAYS ELECTIONS

Provincial Secretary Reports Financial campaign Objective Doubled By Boys

Because of the fact that five of the Sunday Schools of the city did not have representation at the annual meeting of the Boys' Work Board at the Y.M.C.A. last night it was decided by the meeting present to post-pone the annual election of officers until the June 2nd. A special effort will be made meanwhile to secure the attendance of two officially recognized representatives from every organization entitled to representation on the city Boys' Work Board. A nominating committee of three members was appointed to bring in recommendations for the officers for the ensuing years. Also a camp committee was appointed which consists of Ald. Cleaver-ton, Messrs. D. C. Ramsay, H. J. Wray, J. Armstrong, E. C. Solmine, P. J. Brocket, the committee to make its report also on the occasion of its first meeting.

Upon conclusion of the regular business Mr. G. J. Reynolds, the Executive Secretary of the Ontario Boys' Work Board addressed the group at some length. He told about the work that the Provincial Board is carrying on throughout the province. There are in all approximately 45 local Boys' Work Boards operating. There are 1117 camps, Older Boys and Trail Ranger groups in 253 centres, with an enrolment of over 11,000 members. In this particular district of which Belleville is not particularly strong having only three registered groups at the present time.

Double Objective

When the Provincial Board went out after funds to cover their running expenses for the year a short time ago they had set their objective at $8,000 was to pay off a small deficit and provide for the camp at Lake Ontario which they did by a bond-selling campaign. A total of $16,000 was received it was found that the Board had realized nearly double the amount asked for. One boy in the city of Toronto sold $50 worth of these bonds. In one church over $1000 worth was disposed of by a small group of salesmen. It is noteworthy that the Rev. Dr. Spence of St. Andrews church of the city participated in the campaign and nearly $100 for the Provincial Board.

In closing Mr. Reynolds emphasized the necessity of the Local Kind of leadership as essential for the success of all Boys' Work. With such leadership and can be accomplished and more and better work for boys developed on the laymen for this leadership. He extended an invitation to the Board to attend special invitation to take advantage of the conference being conducted for directors and leaders of Boys at Bracebridge from May 30th to August 22nd.

CHURCH UNION GETS TWO YEAR SET BACK

Ottawa, May 21.—By a vote of 27 to 23, with 11 members absent from the chamber, the Church Union bill was called, the Private Bills Committee of the House of Commons yesterday morning, after considerable and animated discussion of the Church Union Bill, which was opposed by Colonel Ralph Bell-ville, moved by William Duff, Liberal, Ontario, and seconded by Gordon Wilson (Conservative, Wentworth), deferring the consideration of the bill, but providing that the measure shall not become effective for 2 years and then only on application to the courts of the action now before the Supreme Court of Canada, unless it be by constitutional. If the measure is not held unconstitutional the act shall not become operative under the terms of the amendment.

Two Standards

The application of unfairness toward the sterner sex is always noticeable. When a woman is caught in a shoplift-but run around and have a good time people call him a sorry whelp, but when a man is caught, girl refuses to be-self in the same manner people call her a peach.

NO PAPER MONDAY

Monday, May 26, having been declared a public holiday by the municipal council there will be no issue of The Daily Intelligencer on that day.

CORNELIUS IS YET AT LARGE; OFFICERS HUNT

Haliburton County Indian Effects Escape Through Frame Lean-to

OFFICER NOT BLAMED

Both Lindsay and Indian Charged With Jail and Shop Breaking

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Campbellford, May 20th.— Ernest Cornelius, Haliburton County Indian, arrested Thursday morning by Constable Harry Sheehan of this town, when caught in the act of entering a beer store, escaped from the lock-up here early Friday morning and is still at large, with constables and Provincial officers in search.

Escape was effected through the frame structure at the rear of the anticipated stone lock-up, the lean-to being used as a washroom. No blame is placed upon the police officers.

Roy Lindsay, who was with Cornelius, and who broke jail at Haliburton with him, remains here, where he was brought held on burglary charges, as still at large also. The pair "stooged" their way down to Campbellford where they have friends, in the freight trains looking for art work and he lost in the crowd. Both are charged with shop breaking and jail breaking.

EDWARD LUFFMAN DIES OF INJURIES

Doctors and Nurses Unable to Save Man Kicked By Horse

Edward Luffman, farmer living near Thomasburg who was kicked in the face by a horse at about 3 p.m. Wednesday, succumbed to the severe injuries, yesterday afternoon.

The unfortunate man who had been working in the fields all day, was in the act of unhitching the horses from the implements when one of them kicked him on the right side of the face, the force of the blow entering his face close to the eye. He was later found in the field unconscious by his young daughter and removed to the hospital where he passed away.

Two physicians and two nurses have been in constant attendance, but it was impossible to save his life.

Mr. Luffman leaves a wife and four children, all of whom have now attained the most severe shock of a number of years of misfortune, the past year the family were burned out.

Jarvis and Pepall Sent On to Trial

More Sensational Evidence is Offered in Provincial Treasury Scandal

Toronto, May 24.—After ruling that there was sufficient evidence produced by the Crown to warrant Hon. George H. Ferguson, Provincial Sec., and Aemilius Jarvis, Jr., being committed for trial on the charges entered against them, Magistrate Jones in the Police Court, yesterday afternoon, in answer to protests of defence counsel that no criminal intent had been proven, remarked that if the allegations directed against Jarvis and Pepall were in any way of explanation as they contended, there should be no difficulty for them later on.

The feature of the day's evidence was that produced by the Crown in reporting to show that large blocks of Ontario Government bonds in Jarvis firm by Aemilius Jarvis, Sr., placed with the banking houses of Brown Bros., New York, and transferred to Andrew Mellon, of that city, during coupons of said bonds later being deposited in the Joint account of Hon. Peter Smith and his wife, at the Stratford, Ont., branch of the Bank of Toronto.

Equally sensational was the evidence of Mr. A. E. Nash, official investigator for the Crown, who took the witness stand just before the case concluded, and who produced a cheque book of the Jarvis firm with a stub showing a cheque issued for $4,000 in favor of Peter Smith and charged to the account of A. E. Pepall. The cheque was dated June 1st, 1923, and bore the signature of Jarvis. Nash, under cross-examination by Mr. Hellmuth, K.C., counsel for Jarvis, admitted that the cheque was not signed by Pepall, but by Jarvis.

Magistrate Jones asked the accused if they wished to be tried whether summarily or by a jury. Mr. Hellmuth, K.C., on behalf of his two clients, said that he wished to enter a plea of not guilty to the two conspiracy charges and also

ADVANCE TIME ON JUNE FIRST ALDERMEN SAY

Recommendation for Daylight Saving Passed Council by 6-4 Vote

WORKINGMEN WANT IT

By-Law Will be Drafted Ready For Tuesday Night Meeting

Daylight saving time for Belleville was agreed upon by Council last evening, and if the by-law goes through on the Tuesday night next, the city clocks will be advanced on June 1 and will be turned back on September 15th.

The recommendation was made that a by-law be prepared declaring daylight saving to be in force from the city limits on the 16th of September. Ald. Leitner supported it.

Ald. Graham—"We should not pass this measure without the consent of the electors of the city."

Ald. McCreary—"The laboring men of the city want daylight saving and we should grant it." He would like to see the matter referred back to the electors to pass upon.

Ex-mayor C. Hanna spoke in support of the proposition as the great majority of merchants were in favor of it.

Wm. Parish, being called upon, stated that he had spoken to many workmen who were not in favor of the resolution.

Ald. Patterson stated that the men he employed were in favor of it. The recommendation was carried by a vote of 6 to 4.

Settle Park Dispute

The committee were unanimous in leasing half a mill to the Parks Commission.

Mr. T. P. Power—"There should be a meeting held at once of the Board and the City Council. The half mill would not be of much benefit unless debenture bonds or issued debentures to the extent of $50,000."

Ald. La Roche suggested that $25,000 debenture issue be provided this year, and if this is not done that $10,000 be all the Board would require this year.

Nothing to Go By

Ald. Robinson—"There is nothing in the way of estimates of expenditures from the Park Board's to go by. The Council cannot act blindly. They must have those facts before we can issue a debenture by-law."

Mr. R. E. Collins—"The Parks Board can procure the necessary estimated spectator during the proceedings, in the case of which E. R. Dewart, K.C., his senior defence counsel looked on.

Harry G. Pepall and the Messrs. Jarvis were charged (1) with conspiring among themselves and with Peter Smith unlawfully to affect the price of provincial bonds; (2) with contravening the Secret Commissions Act, and (3) that they did secretly use influence in securing improperly the purchase of certain provincial bonds and the sale to the Province of certain other bonds.

Magistrate Jones asked the accused if they wished to be tried whether summarily or by a jury.

Mr. Hellmuth, K.C., on behalf of his two clients, said that he wished to enter a plea of not guilty to the two conspiracy charges and also

Angry Cooks Reveal Secrets of Kitchen; Paris Restaurant Food Not All It Seems

Paris, May 24.—The striking cooks in the Paris restaurants, aroused because they are unable to force the patrons to agree to their terms, are exclaiming and revealing the kitchen secrets through the columns of Socialist and Communist newspapers.

"Don't think you are getting real bisque bonnne when you order cream of lobster soup in an expensive restaurant," writes the chef of one of the highest-priced places, saturatedly portrayed by Americans. "The shells, carcasses and leavings of lobsters served are saved and then boiled together, with a little flour to make a bisque. We are ordered to put plenty of pepper and other pungent condiments in all food, so the taste will be killed and the eaters will not recognize how bad the stuff is that they are eating."

Certain smaller restaurants even go to worse lengths over the beef or veal, according to one cook,

VICTORIA DAY

The twenty-fourth of May is the Queen's birthday;
If you don't give us a holiday we'll all run away.

The 24th of May has always been a popular holiday in this country. For one reason it was celebrated in honor of a queen who was greatly beloved by her people, not merely as a queen but for her qualities as a woman. But that was only one reason. Another one was that it came at a time particularly appropriate for the celebration of a holiday. It was the first summer holiday of the year; it really marked the opening of summer.

That, no doubt, is the reason why, although Queen Victoria has been dead for more than 20 years, the anniversary of her birth is still celebrated, while the birthday of other sovereigns, living or dead, are ignored or nearly so. The question is asked if it is right that the birthday of a sovereign who died nearly a quarter of a century ago should be still observed as a public holiday while the birthday of the reigning sovereign is merely recognized in an official way. The answer is, no doubt, that Victoria Day, though it may no longer serve its original purpose of marking the birthday of a reigning sovereign, has become established as a public holiday. People have learned to look forward to it as a day of relaxation after a long winter and a tedious spring. To many it would almost seem that if there had been no good reason for a holiday about the time of the twenty-fourth of May it would be necessary to invent one. There is probably no better reason for celebrating the birthday of other sovereigns that could be named; but most Canadians are probably satisfied that there is sufficient reason for having a holiday on Victoria Day.

WORK FOR A GOAL TO ACHIEVE IT

It is an old saying, "If you want a thing done well, do it yourself." The saying conveyed the thought that it was natural to take more interest in your own affairs than in the affairs of others. To this saying might have been added one no less true, "If you want a thing worth having, you have to get it for yourself." Are you a "go-getter?"

Nowadays, and, indeed, it must always have been so, the hand that stays open to receive gifts from others, remains empty. Similarly minds that trust to other minds to fill their heads stay empty. Worthwhile things are worth while working to attain. Whether it be a skid-mobile or a career in life, the principle is the same, and what you want you must go after.

Many through life by accident, as it were, without any conscious effort to move in this direction or in that. Days come and go, but these people find each day the same, and all of them empty. All aims are not alike; some seek wealth or power; some health; others knowledge, and a few wisdom. If your aim is worth while it is worth working for in an intelligent manner.

Even a fledgling Hukjay has to learn to fly. It cannot jump straight off the nest and fly with the strength of a grown bird. Whatever your choice, there is a way to its attainment. No one will bring it to you, but you must go forward to get it for yourself. Unless you have the seven league boots that were used by giants of old, you must needs take the first step first, and not the last step alone and skip the others, as many seem to try.

Study carefully what you really do want, and then go for it, step by step. Make sure it is worth while, for the road is a long one to most achievements. Great would be your disappointment to arrive at its end only to discover that your goal was not that which you really sought. The time to decide what you will make of your life is in school, while you have still an opportunity of learning to know yourself and that will take you on the journey. It is here now, and may never return.—Vancouver World.

BANK INSPECTION

From present indications, Canada is likely to have a system of government inspection of banks. There is no question that had such an inspection been in force, the disastrous Home Bank failure would have been prevented, or its consequences might at least have been greatly mitigated. Years ago there were conspicuous evidences of the shaky condition of that institution which could not possibly have escaped the notice of a competent government supervisor, had there been such an official. Sir Thomas White has given evidence to the effect that the ministers of the crown were fooled by the directors. The former had to take the representations of the latter in good faith, and had no means of checking up their accuracy. This unfortunate experience has had the effect of converting the ex-finance minister to the idea of government inspection, as he plainly indicated in his testimony before the commission. We think that a bureau of inspection, if established, would relieve the minister of much responsibility and prevent such developments as have destroyed two at least of the banks of Canada and caused the downfall of the Home Bank."

Public confidence has been considerably impaired by the disclosures which have been made. It is absolutely necessary that something be done to restore that confidence, and the banks themselves would probably welcome government intervention of the kind suggested. Insurance companies, as well as trust and loan companies, are subject to such inspection, and this system has most certainly increased the security of them. Developments in the banking world of recent years have clearly shown the need of extra safeguards.

A COSTLY STRIKE

Barrie Examiner

Typographical Union went on strike for a 44-hour week. This strike, according to a statement made by Jas. Lynch, a former president of the organization, cost the Union over $17,000,000 and has resulted in over 6,000 union printers losing their positions. Notwithstanding the protracted and costly fight the strike has not been won, admits Mr. Lynch.

ONE will be wealthy.
FOUR will be well-to-do.
FIVE will still be working for a living.
THIRTY-SIX will be dead.
FIFTY-FOUR will be dependent upon friends, relatives or charity.

TREES ARE AN ASSET

The Wingham Times

The town should determine at all costs to keep its shade trees. To this end their wanton obstruction should not be considered. It takes from 20 years to fifty years ordinarily for a shade tree to grow to maturity, and to allow it to be destroyed in a moment, for other than the direst need, is nothing short of sacrilege. Trees are an asset to any community and should not be squandered any more than the town's finances.

The work of decimating the ranks of New York's daily newspapers, which has been going on steadily for some time past, has received a temporary check, and now it is announced that a new Democratic evening paper to be called the New York Examiner will shortly make its appearance. The project is in charge of Frederick W. Enwright, who is already conducting a paper at Boston and another at Long Muse. Horace Greeley started the New York Tribune on $1,000 of borrowed money, but the Examiner is said to have $2,000,000 behind it, and all of this vast sum will probably be needed.

A Frontier Adventure

By W. H. G.

Hugh Finch pitched his tent in the wilds. A successful young lawyer, he had reached the solitudes for that he seeks to rest up for an active season in the Winnipeg courts during the Fall.

Selecting a spot near the United States border, thirty miles from the nearest settlement, he expected to be undisturbed. For a week, he thought he was. But one morning, early, while washing down by the river outside his camp, he heard the steady swish, swish of a paddle.

Hugh jumped quickly behind a clump of bushes. Why he did it, he never could reason out afterwards.

A canoe pushed its nose around the bend of the river, guided by a young lady about twenty-five years. Perhaps it was due to environment, perhaps she would have been the same anywhere else. But it remained that she was fascinating.

The lawyer, not as a rule drawn by the fair sex, looked and looked, and felt guilty. Somehow or other it seemed that it was he who was trespassing as he watched the girl skillfully propelling the lazy craft, shooting every now and then a swift, sharp glance to every bend in the river, guided by a compass.

Admiration took possession of him. He gazed at her, and admiration gave way to curiosity as she turned the canoe and ran it up on the opposite bank a little further down stream.

Immediately she disappeared in the bush and came back ten minutes later with a great big husky dog, who helped her unload three wooden kits that she had carried there all the way. Then the girl returned alone, paddled off, and paddled away down stream.

Three times the same performance was repeated. Then she was lost to sight.

Hugh didn't investigate that too, was something he could not reason out afterwards.

The border was not far away. There was no doubt about it. She was a bootlegger.

During the next few months, in Winnipeg, Hugh worked hard. All the information, extended him to avoid the rush of the season, he refused, until in February, he visited Dr. Sanderson of Mrs. Sanderson McKay.

He came late, and as he entered the drawing room, the first person he saw was "The Bootlegger." She was dressed richly, and very attractive. The hostess even seemed to take second place.

Away down on that river, she was a girl. Here she was a woman. A determined person, evidently poise to a strong personality.

Hugh's career chaps the lawyer managed to get her alone during the evening.

"You look as if you like the outdoors, Miss Charlton," he said.

"And much of a compliment to my complexion, is it?" countered the lady.

"But I am speaking seriously," said Hugh, hurrying. "I can imagine you an ideal subject for a picture entitled 'The Country Girl' or something like that—paddling a canoe on a lonely river and all that sort of thing."

Miss Charlton glanced at the man sharply. "You have a wonderful imagination, haven't you?" And the conversation was then interrupted by the approach of other friends.

A little later Hugh questioned his hostess. Miss Charlton?

"So you have enlisted in the ranks of her admirers, have you?" she said smiling. "Beware, young man, she's dangerous."

"What do you mean?" asked Hugh excitedly.

"Just that and nothing more."

The following summer there were no canoes on the river. The occupant of one was startled when she first set eyes on the occupant of the other. But she carried no cargo, this time.

A year after this episode there was but one canoe with two occupants. They left the canoe and walked arm in arm under the trees to a charming little homestead.

They wandered around the place, and then went into a room finished in luxury.

He paused to admire again a host entitled, "The Country Girl."

She said with a laugh, "Oh, Hugh, do think I was ever going to be?" and that my modelling clay was white here."

"He was born with the gift of laughter and a sense that the world was mad." So they said of Andre-Louis Moreau, scion of the French nobility, who became Scaramouche, the clown, whose laughter mocked his enemies and whose madness inflamed the world.—Not in all the pages of fiction is there such a glowing dare-devil character as RAFAEL SABATINI'S creation of "Scaramouche," and not in the history of motion pictures has there been such a production as the photoplay from the Sabatini novel,

Deep Waterways Meeting

A communication was read from the deep water power association relative to the power development of the St. Lawrence river. It was decided to have a meeting in Belleville on the afternoon of June 6th to consider the matter. All the members of the Council were named as representatives to the meeting to be held in the Council Chamber.

Money For Celebration

A motion prevailed that $500 be placed to the credit of the U.E.L. celebration committee the same to be taken out of the grant of $2,500 made by the Council.

The resolution passed by the Council of Belleville relative to the St. Lawrence water power and other water powers was acknowledged by the Department of Railways and Canals.

Members of Council present were Mayor Mikel, Aldermen McCreary Treverton, Gardiner, Patterson, Robinson, D. V. Ketcheson, Greenleaf, A. H. Ketcheson, Graham, La Roche.

A petition was presented from the school children of the city, asking that they have a holiday on Monday 26th.

Ex-Mayor C. Hanna asked Mayor Mikel to proclaim Monday the 26th as a public holiday. The School Trustees felt that they could not give the children a holiday unless it was so proclaimed. The speaker also asked on behalf of the merchants of the city that daylight saving be effected in this city.

Mr. C. Treverton who is connected with the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company that it was desirous to have daylight saving.

A motion prevailed that the Mayor proclaim Monday a holiday.

Parks Appropriation

Mr. T. P. Power, chairman of the Parks Board felt that the Board was not asking for anything that they did not think was in the interest of the city. The concensus of opinion was that athletic grounds were necessary and should be established in the city. The Board felt that the council should do all it can for the Board and not meet opposition. If the Board was entitled to a mill it wanted the mill. He did not think the Council had acted altogether fair towards the Board. They are unanimous in two things, namely to get a mill if they could, also to procure grounds.

Ald. Graham asked if the communication from Porter, Butler and Payne to the council was authorized by the Board.

Mr. Power—"Yes, The Council has its solicitor and we had to have advice."

In answer to an enquiry, Mr. Power said if $50,000 debentures were issued probably not more than $25,000 would be used this year as it was getting late in the season.

Ald. McCreary—With the Council giving the Board a full mill this year the tax rate will be 25 mills.

Ald. La Roche, suggested that the Council this year pass a debenture Bylaw for $25,000 and next year the same amount.

Mr. Power—"That would be satisfactory."

Mr. C. Panter—"If the Council does this the Parks Board would only require $5,200 this year."

Closed Car Comforts at Open Car Cost

Advantages Exclusive to the Coach

The Coach costs but little more than open models on either Hudson or Essex. The extra cost of closed models on other cars is from $300 up, even on the low priced cars. More than 135,000 Coaches are in service. Sales exceed 3,000 every week. Everyone prefers a closed car. The coach alone is the quality car within reach of all. No wonder the Coach on Hudson and Essex is the world's largest selling six-cylinder closed car.

It gives all the utility you get in any closed car. It is the car for everyone.

Hudson and Essex are creations of the same engineers. They are built under the same patents. There is no difference in quality of material or workmanship.

The price you want to pay will decide you for Hudson or Essex. The closed car advantages of the Coach and its price surely leave no other consideration.

HUGE CAVE-OF ICE

A subterranean ice field has lately been discovered in the Tasmegarbay or Pine Mountains, on the outskirts of the German village of Salzberg, known to the musical world because of Mozart's connection with it. It is merely a gigantic room in the interior of the mountain, the floor, walls, and ceiling of which consist of solidier. Being at an elevation of 2,000 feet, unexpected heat will penetrate to the ice only when open only at the entrance made by man, and that quite recently, the ice is reported to be the oldest south of the Arctic or north of the Antarctic Circle. Sixteen miles of it have already been explored, though less than a mile has been made ready for visitors. The explored part has been provided with scaffolding and magnesium lights, which make uneven spots in the surface, lateral or overhead, stand out like giants.

CRASH OF BOAT SENDS FUGITIVE TO BOTTOM

Many Thrills are promised in Hope Hampton's new First National starring vehicle, "The Light in the Dark," which comes to the Rowland Theatre on Monday. One of the most gripping scenes depicts the collision of a tugboat with a rowboat in which a thief who had committed a startling robbery in a court room is escaping. The fugitive clutching the strange cup that glows in the dark, is sent to the bottom of the East River with his precious loot.

The robbery is carefully plotted by four crooks, who, having been told of the strange healing powers of the cup, plan to exploit the public through the medium of the vessel. The theft takes place when the judge orders the lights out so that he may see with his own eyes the strange light from the cup that is placed in a window. The glass is smashed in and a hand rushes out and grabs the cup. Pursuit starts immediately and leads to the river front where the thief jumps into a rowboat and rows madly away, his course in the darkness carrying him directly in front of a passing tugboat. To the river bottom he takes the mystery of the cup, which plays a most important part in the, fascinating romance of the girl and man whose life it had come.

"The Light In The Dark" is from the novel by William Dudley Pelley, having been transferred to the screen under the direction of Clarence L. Brown. In the cast with Miss Hampton are E. K. Lincoln, Lou Tellegen, Theresa Maxwell Conover, Dorothy Walters.

BACK OF FILM IN THE PRODUCTION OF "SCARAMOUCHE"

The enormous amount of money used in making a film picture is well illustrated in the case of "Scaramouche", Rex Ingram's production of Rafael Sabatini's story, of the French Revolution, for Metro, which is opening on May 26th, 27th and 28th to the Griffith Theatre for three days. "Scaramouche" easily exposed as much as raw film as "The Four Horsemen", which held the record for some time. More than 500,000 feet of film was used during the shooting of the picture.

The amount of raw film consumed however, is only one item in the cost of producing pictures of any size. The actual shooting process is not the chief expense, what is "shot" makes the detail side of the budget count up.

The biggest item was the construction of sets representing the palace of the Tuileries, an old chateau and city streets of the French capital, tennis, pens, stables and cages had to be built for dogs, pigeons, monkeys and crows, horses, canaries, peacocks and other birds and animals. Carriages and coaches had to be constructed with perfect historical accuracy. Costumes had to be made for the 50,000 persons who appeared in the mob scenes. There were uniforms for soldiery and outfits of especial magnificence for players representing the nobility.

The total number of persons involved in some capacity in the production reached the figure of approximately 11,200. Ten thousand of these made up the mob that rushed through Paris on the mob that rushed through Paris on the mob that rushed through Paris on

COUNTRY CLUB PLANS GALA DAY MONDAY; SENIORS LEFT FOR OSHAWA

Country Club Swings Into Activity Monday; Golf, Dinner, Dancing, Cards on Program

The Bay of Quinte Country Club will have a gala opening on Monday, May 26th. The whole course is in excellent condition and the permanent greens are now playable. The first competition of the season will be played on Monday afternoon opening at 2 p.m. and it is open to gentlemen members of the club. It is to be a sweep stake in eighteen holes and it is expected that seventy-five or one hundred will enter the sweep-stake. The competition will be under the supervision of Sam French the professional of the club.

In the evening the Entertainment Committee and the House Committee have arranged for a dinner for all members of the club, ladies and gentlemen and their out-of-town guests, which will be followed by dancing and cards. Major H. W. Walker, D.S.O., the men's captain is anxious for all members to hand in to the professional as soon as possible their cards of three rounds signed by another player in order that handicaps may be given for future competitions. The ladies' competitions will commence in June and a list of the competitions will be published as soon as the complete program for the season has been finally settled on. Major Walker has donated a prize for the Monday Sweep for men during the season and Major R. D. Fenton, the President, has donated a prize for the best Ringer fore for the ladies during the season.

Competition List

The following is a list of the competitions for the men:

In addition to the above there will be the Competitions for the Graham Cup and the Foster Shield which are open to both ladies and gentlemen.

Arrangements have been made for a golf tournament at the Country Club here on June 3rd, when Trenton, Picton and Napanee Clubs will each send a team and dates are being arranged for home and home games between the local Country Club at Kingston.

Trunk Nine Left For Oshawa Game

Kingston Plays Return Fixture in Peterboro; Players Are Confident

Walt Gerow's Grand Trunk nine left this morning on the 7.45 train for Oshawa, where they will play their first game in the C.O.B.L. this afternoon (weather permitting) with the Oshawa team. While opening ceremonies are being held in Oshawa at 3 p.m. similar ceremonies will be in progress at Peterboro where Jake Solomon's good team will try conclusions with the Kingston Ponies.

The following is from the Kingston Standard:

With their first game tucked safely away in the old bat bag, the Kingstons will journey to Peterboro tomorrow and interest Jake Solomon's merry time at the Riverside Park. All the players are in the pink of condition, and look for a victory over the Petes, something they couldn't do last summer.

The team worked out at the Fair Grounds last night and looked good for the game in Peterboro. Kelly took things easy, merely tossing the ball to Rickman, while Gallagher and Bennett also warmed up. The outfield worked fast, and the outfielders were under everything. Manager Daley will be in charge.

Serj Koussevitsky, the magnetic Russi musician who has been appointed conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

ON THE ALLEYS

Domenico's Recreation Alleys

In the second play off for second prize in the senior league the Hikers won from the K. of C. by 31 pins. It was a repetition of Thursday night's senior game, both teams rolling over 2900 and the losing team finishing strong in the last game but not enough to overcome the winner's lead. The Knights were forced to use a John Doe score in the first game, but even in the second they lost 35 pins. Barlow and Cavalingna were the two highest bowlers The Hikers will now play the Wanderers in the final game on Thursday night.

In the ladies' league the Wanderers was from the Olympics taking the three games with ease . Mrs. Lee and Miss McLellan rolling the highest score for their respective teams.

In the junior league the Durant Motors lost their third straight game when the Lucky Strikes stepped into them and rolled 3779 for their total score against the Durant Motors 2465. Jordan and Rutherford both rolling over 600 and being high bowlers for their teams. Players and scores:

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

WHICH CLASS ARE YOU IN?

A speaker addressing a number of young men recently said.

There are three classes of men.

The optimist, the pessimist, and the pretentious.

There is a job to be done.

The optimist says "Sure it can be done," but he leaves it for George to do.

The pessimist says "It can't be done." The pretentious comes along and actually does the job.

I've often thought, in fact I've held the opinion for many years, that this same classification could be made of people in regard to their health and care of the body.

The optimist says, "There's nothing wrong with me, I'm all right. That little pain there doesn't amount to anything. That little gallstone is not due to bothering. That little adhesion is due to not getting enough exercise."

And so he goes on, always feeling that nothing can interfere with his health. He lives up all the new fads, and says and I will have to admit that he is usually a pretty good citizen and pays for the most part, very good health. He never worries about himself. But he may ignore serious telling symptoms for the optimist, until it is too late.

Then there is the other type who is always thinking about himself.

Every little pain or ache is magnified and he is a nuisance to himself and friends.

The pessimist is the chap who figures that the biggest asset he and his family can possess is good health.

Accordingly, without being a faddist, he sees that a well balanced diet is the rule in the home.

He sees that his family and himself get enough rest daily. He watches the youngsters to see that they get the extra hour or two necessary to their growing bodies.

He remembers also that his family and himself need a certain amount of the outdoors daily. The youngsters are encouraged to play outdoors after school everyday.

Watching things from these three viewpoints, if any of the family are not feeling right and the cause is not immediately apparent, the family physician is called in, because these really should be no reason for illness under the circumstances.

The physician will usually find the cause.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENCE

"Reader"—It is indigestion which is causing the restless of your nose. I would suggest you look after your diet. A glass of hot water taken regularly in the mornings and after meals is very efficacious.

"Bride"—If you could persuade your mother to assist you in the kitchen, her worries and work would be simplified. It is so much more practical to observe service in kitchen and necessities in simple menus, which is also a consideration, as you say. I would suggest the following menu, ideal for 12 o'clock service to my mind:—

Chicken Salad in Cream Puff Shells
or
Chicken and Mushroom Patties.
Pimento Sandwiches
Strawberry Ice Cream
Bride's Cake Coffee Wedding Cake

With sweet peas, pink candles in silver candlesticks and the above menu prettily served, with your girl friends to pass what more charming arrangement could you want for an afternoon tea? Wedding cake is rich and nuts would make a nice addition to the salad.

"Ambitious"—You are ambitious although you have a number of things to do. It takes more than a pretty article of furniture to make a comfortable room. If you are on a busy motor shad, your guests are not going to be satisfied with sandwiches and tea. Entertaining gives one a keen appetite and a reservation for a good substantial meal. Why not make a specialty of say, two menus and if they are well cooked, and served attractively, you may make some morning to find yourself famous. You must dispense hospitality in your tea-house and give it a real homelike quality. Of course sandwiches and salads are popular for afternoon tea but you should be prepared to serve a real meal at noon and night. Your open special dinners popular and your success is assured.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR

BY
CHARLES GARVICE

CHAPTER XXX.

Jack Gordon wondered what parcel, which the young woman seemed so anxious to conceal from him, contained; but he was not particularly curious, and not very much interested, in London parcels, accustomed to the mystery which surrounds such a person as he was; it is quite possible to live next door to a man for years without knowing his name, and one feels no great surprise on discovering one morning that he is an eminent statesman or soldier, or duchess.

Jack was too absorbed in his own affairs, and in his hopeless love, to bestow much attention on or to give much thought to his fellow lodger; but he did venture to Mandy Jane when he came home to dinner next day that the occupant of his former bed-room was becoming up the stairs the preceding night, and that he hoped that she would expelled her ankle.

"Oh, drat it, did she?" said Mandy Jane, with her precocious sharpness; "that's the first time I knowed of it, that."

"You're quite mistaken, Mandy Jane," said Jack, "and perfectly absurd."

"I'm glad to hear it," said Mandy Jane "I loved her, I did, and yesterday; but sometimes she doesn't go out for days together."

"I would go up are how she was," suggested Jack.

"Well, I'll go I might," said Mandy Jane "but there's no saying about her lodgers, especially when they keep themselves to themselves behind closed doors. It's never more than 'good-evening,' Miss Jane,' and 'Mandy Jane,' and it's never more than 'good-evening, Mandy Jane,' and 'Miss Jane,' with her from me. We're always what you might call real friendly-like."

"Well," said Jack, "run run upstairs Mandy Jane, and ask how she is; that will be civil, and you can report to me the distance by keeping outside the door. I've an idea," I don't know why, that she'd rather you didn't go in; she looked so scared when she opened the door humble, and she closed the door upon me pretty abruptly."

"Her humble?" said Mandy Jane sharply; "you don't say anything about a bundle and I never saw her with one."

"Well, she may not carry it every night," said Jack. "It was a small bundle and she must have carried it under her cloak, for I didn't see it until it actually dropped."

"There's what you might call a 'idden mystery about Miss Wood," said Mandy Jane, musingly, as she helped Jack to potatoes. "Father thinks she's in the pantomime because of her hair but I tells him you can dye yer hair without being in the pantomime."

"She lives quite alone?" said Jack.

"Yes, and nobody ever comes to see her, not even on Sun-days; and she don't work at all in the daytime, I'll be bound, or else I should know of it. That's why I says she's 'idden mystery, like what you read of in the novelettes—Father, especially, you know before it is set flat. Father moons was than ever, Mr. Gordon, since the event of the boat making trade; it seems as if you can do is make pipes and shavin's, after you've been doin' it for so many years. Now, you've just got time for a pipe, young man, before you go back to your work. Have your tobacco and here's the matches."

While Jack was obediently smoking his pipe—and it was a pipe that lasted more, dominated Jack almost as completely as the other did—Mandy moved upstairs to interview Miss Woods.

Jack was thinking of Mandy with her ridiculous bonnet a little more on the back of her head, her chubby face shrewd face red, and her chin upsided. "She's a good sort all right," he reforced Jack; "that she didn't hurt herself last night, and that she's safe and she's very much obliged to you for coming down the stairs to help her—at least, that's what I think she said; but she didn't speak very loud, and she kept the door closed as if she were afraid of being overheard. I should rush in and steal something. I don't half wish I'd been idle enough to have stayed in there! Idleness is the devil's workshop, in more ways than one. It's about time you was goin', ain't it?" Father, you can get back to Mooor, 141 Ann street.

Mother—Is much dislike cleanliness and purity of atmosphere and the resultant silver linger among clothing which is fatty and thoroughly aerated. Where moths are found in where the wars will be found in the spring. Now is the time to investigate and to look after the most suspected garments. If this precaution is overlooked you may expect to be annoyed throughout the summer by these vermin.

Moths possess an almost uncanny ingenuity for damaging clothes where they can find material. This time ago, however, is done while the moth is in its caterpillar existence before it reaches the moth stage. Precautions are of little use when the eggs have actually been laid, as the moths are hatched out.

They eggs are laid in one batch by the female moth, each egg being glued firmly to the fabric of cloth or fur upon which it is deposited. Furs, fabrics, frayed edges, and fringes are, in the moth's estimation, ideal receptories for her eggs. A week elapses before the moth is hatched, a tiny white caterpillar emerges from each to commence immediately feeding upon dress and blankets. This continues for a series for ten weeks, after which it changes into a chrysalis.

Therefore, in order that clothes may be made immune from the moth, it is the egg and caterpillar which must be attacked. Strong camphor in a tightly-closed box will both kill and ward worm. According to a recent authority, however, the two best moth preventatives are fresh air and sunshine.

Before packing away furs and woollens hang them out of doors for a while. Then give them a gentle beating with a suitable cane, followed by a thorough brushing. This should be repeated several times, at intervals of one or two days. They should then be placed in a box with camphor balls and securely sealed. A cedar chest is excellent, for this purpose. If cardboard boxes are employed, care should be taken that they are free from holes, as the moth can penetrate these. Furs securely packed down with strips of cotton cloth at least an inch wide.

Moths are not exterminated by cold. They become dormant, but revive to their full vitality in a warm room.

Sudden changes from warmth to cold and vice versa are fatal to moths and inflammable remedies, such as petrol, should never be used for this purpose. They are, odds our unhygity, useless in fighting the moth.

If a man can have a regular day for turning out drawers and wardrobes, and can keep to that day with quite empty for some hours, and wash out the interior of press, wardrobe and drawers well with hot water and soap. When dry, and the drawers are replaced, put in a few sweet herb or musty smell. A little camphor, lavender water or some similar fragrant odour may be used if liked before the contents are placed.

When carpets are attacked the following is a good plan to adopt:—Cover the affected part with a damp cloth and then press well with a hot iron until there is a steam formed. Repeat several times to make sure that the eggs and grubs are killed. Newspapers spread under carpets are useful in protecting the floor coverings from attack.

That sheets, tablecloths and curtains will keep their shade better if doubled and then pressed up by the hem.

You can keep meat fresh by burying it in flour, after first removing the glands and discolored portions

Lemons dipped in salt make excellent cleaners for brass and copper.

That fish must never be soaked for, whether boiled, baked or steamed, is fast cooking causes the flakes to fall to pieces.

To make good stone mop much water must not be added.

That a pinch of common salt to a glass of hot water will relieve a weak ache, provided it is taken when symptoms are first felt.

That half a teaspoonful of lemon juice added to the water with which pastry is mixed, makes it flaky.

That you can prevent cheese becoming mouldy by wrapping it in a piece of cheesecloth that has been wrung out of vinegar.

By hammering nails downward, at an angle, into a plaster wall, they will support more weight than if the nails are hammered straight into the wall.

THE MOTH PEST

When to Attack the Grub

It is estimated that the ordinary clothes moth destroys at least 10,000 tons of wool annually. In the early months of the year, when the moth does damage unless the housewife keeps a careful guard over her clothes or takes destructive pest.

JUST IN PASSING

AUSTRALIA'S RABBIT PLAGUE

The rabbit is one of the greatest pests in Australia. During the last seven years the number of rabbit skins sold in Sydney alone has averaged 30,000,000 per year. Yet notwithstanding the slaughter, the rabbit's ravages still add to the increasing by reason of millions every year.

The late Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould who wrote the well-known hymn "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and many other hymns, loved a fund of humor and was never above telling a story.

He used to tell a story when he wanted to have "Onward, Christian Soldiers" sung in his church. One of his bishops, who was very Low Church, objected to the line, "With the Cross of Jesus, Going on before," and how he (Mr. Baring-Gould) therefore changed the last line to "Let's behind the door" so the average intonation of the congregation would be kept, but not before the bishop had come up and demanded to know what on earth was meant by "Let's behind the door" when the verse was sung. Whereupon the bishop explained that in the old countryside, when he was a boy, if one called at a house and nothing, but in order to appease her lover to the air and solemnly uttered the words, "O joy, it thou lover, thou lover; but, O joy, it thou lover, thou dirst!" Oddly enough the old church air-lover-at-the-door, Going on before," and how he (Mr. Baring-Gould) therefore changed the last line to "Let's behind the door" was the average intonation of the worthy parlaine. Another of his stories had to do with an old countryman, who implored him to come and see her dig. Which we, very ill. Mr. Baring-Gould himself tells the story of a woman, pushing into his room uncalled-for remark, it is true, but one which does him credit. "Please, sir, I've come to see you, because I've heard you've got a bathroom." Mr. Baring-Gould himself tells the story of a woman, pushing into his room uncalled-for remark, it is true, but one which does him credit. "Please, sir, I've come to see you, because I've heard you've got a bathroom." Mr. Baring-Gould himself tells the story of a woman, pushing into his room uncalled-for remark, it is true, but one which does him credit. "Please, sir, I've come to see you, because I've heard you've got a bathroom."

One Sunday recently our youngest discovered two bottles in the window of a second-hand establishment on Queen Street. "Mother, I wish you'd take me (sadly). A few minutes later he asked her: "Mother, why wouldn't you much for second-hand kittens, would they?"

Manchester, the prize for the best eleven first cousin produced in the Exhibition was awarded to the Melntosh Red Apple. About this tenacious fruit a romantic story has gathered. Some time in the latter part of the 18th century, one John McIntosh went out from Scotland, and settled in the bush, near the spot in Ontario where now stands the little town of Dundas. The country was still wild, dotted here and there with a clearing where the settler was fighting his battle to make a home. As soon as a few acres had been cleared, the Scotsman planted some apple seed near the skanty of stout logs he had built for a shelter. In 1796 the first dweller sapling began to bear fruit, yielding a fine ruddy apple with a delicious flavour that commended it to John McIntosh and his family in their pioneer household where luxuries were few. Up to the late nineties the tree still produced apples. Then it went the way of all trees, a victim of old age. But not before a number of its kind had been planted in the spot in Dundas County where grew the original tree. Ontario and Province of the British Columbia valleys the fame of the McIntosh Red. A few years ago Mrs. Dawes, Horticultural Society placed a small stone marker, suitably inscribed, in mark the spot in Dundas County where grew the first McIntosh Red apple tree. Descendants of John McIntosh at still to be found in the district.

FIRST AID

Have you a kit of "first aid" ready in your home? If not get one and put it together. Of course you will not attempt to treat a severe case other than to send for the physician. A physician should be summoned.

Have a pair of scissors with a long pointed needle or a pair of tweezers. If you have a splinter in the finger and it but do not neglect the smallest pin prick for it is possible for infection to follow.

Then there should be something for the head such as a little book I ever had was a cookery book!" "Ah, yes! Plenty of stirring passages, I suppose!

Childhood Indigestion

Nothing is more common in childhood than indigestion. Sometimes it is more dangerous to proper growth, more weakening to the constitution or more likely to pave the way to dreadful diseases. Fully nine-tenths of all the minor ills of childhood have their root in indigestion. There is no medicine for little ones equal Baby's Own Tablets in relieving this trouble. They have proved of benefit in thousands of homes. Concerning them Mrs. Jos. Lanctin, Immaculate Conception, Que., writes: "Baby was troubled with severe stomach indigestion, but the Tablets soon set him right and he would not be without them." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MR. WISE MAN

Said the Wise Man to the Gardener,
"Who sleeps in all your beds?"
Quoth the Gardener to the Wise-Man
"The wee folk and the Fairies."
Said the Wise Man to the Sailor
"Who's in your ship's keeping?"
Quoth the Sailor to the Wise-Man
"The Wind and the Rain of Heaven."
Said the Wise-Man to the Joiner
"Are you always making coffins?"
Quoth the Joiner to the Wise-Man
"These are all the strings I need."
Said the Wise-Man to the Jeweller
"Can your watches wash their face?"
Quoth the Jeweller to the Wise-Man
"If their hands are all in place!"
Said the Wise-Man to the Woodman
"Have some trees a sexpence each?"
Quoth the Woodman to the Wise-Man
"Only dogwood, I remark."

FRILLS and FANCIES

Almost everyone in Paris lavaring with a small bouquet of violets.

Crepes printed in fantast design are used for many summer frks.

In evening frocks, D'ecolage is the most approved style, and skirts are short, narrow and straig.

Black predominates as it. so becoming to most women an at the most fashionable shades.

But white evening frockaze also being worn and are fashioed from soft satin and heavy material with spangles, beads or rhinestos.

Chiffon is very much to be fore, both plain and printed.

The tunnelling asserts itself a sportswear and dressy tailored frocks. Multi-coloured Egyptian broadcloth are being worn with white blouses.

Beiges, greens and yellow predominate in the colort shown among the new suits, both short and jumper dresses.

The simple veil of tulle sil orange blossoms is more becomin: to most bride, than the heavier one of lace.

The shirt that never comes out of place will be a joy to wears this summer.

A few years ago women wes wanted to be like men, but now men like them themselves. Nowadays attractive and smart models can be purchased.

CHEVROLET
A Canadian Car for Canadian Conditions

FEW cars can boast of being so thoroughly Canadian-made as Chevrolet. With the exception of certain essential motor car accessories not now made in Canada, Chevrolet cars are built, not merely assembled, in Canada.

Motors, axles, and other heavy parts are made in the mammoth General Motors plant at Walkerville; while body building, top building, small parts making, assembling and finishing is done at Oshawa.

Hence, every dollar you pay for Chevrolet helps build up a strong Canadian industry that is giving employment to thousands of Canadian workmen.

There are many other reasons, moreover, why you should investigate Chevrolet.

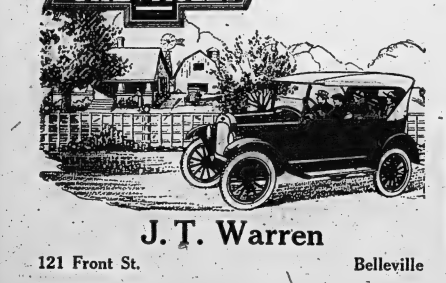

Chevrolet stands up, winter and summer, under Canadian conditions of roads and climate—and delivers quality transportation at a lower cost per mile than any other car.

And Chevrolet price, though it is much lower than you would expect to pay for a car so fine, is the full cost of the car and its equipment—there are no extras to buy.

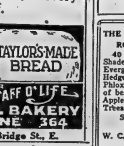

Before you buy a car at any price, have us demonstrate the superior features and equipment of Chevrolet.

"Exhausted Nerves and Palpitating Heart"

Mrs. L. Whiting, 202 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes:

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I tried several doctors, but it seemed nothing they gave me helped. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I tried it, and can say it certainly has done wonders for me. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes."

venue, he said, the cost of administration and the increased expenditures for carrying out of Justice. The cost of police under government control had gone up 100 per cent. and the cost of administering justice 80 per cent.

Servants of Octopus

Governments, under present laws, were the servants of a great octopus, the speaker, he said. There really was no government control, because there was no government ownership.

The saloon had been the greatest barrier in the way of the progress of liberty, and he questioned whether the people of Canada wanted to become partners in it, he declared.

At present there were 13 breweries and 6 distilleries manufacturing for "export" trade. They were sending liquor to Cuba and Mexico with no intention of the stuff ever reaching its destination, he alleged.

It was not understood what happened. It went into the United States.

There was a time, the minister said, when all bands of men, known as Fenian Raiders, not encouraged by the United States Government, swooped down on Canada to effect destruction. To-day, Canada was returning the compliment, he said.

Provincial legislation was ineffective because the Dominion laws permitted this false advertising. Dr. Scott said there would have to be something better than the O.T.A.

Must Attack Enemy

It was a valiant thing to hold the fort, but the most successful campaign was an attack against the enemy.

"What we must do is to organize for nothing less than national prohibition and then we can stand side by side with the United States. And until we do that we have not played fair with our neighbors or with our future citizens. The future of our country lies in the young people."

The slogan should now be, "On to Ottawa", Dr. Scott concluded, that the country might lay a foundation for a greater Empire under that great flag under which Canadians lived and served.

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Campbellford, May 24.—Victoria Day, celebrated here yesterday under the auspices of the Seymour Agricultural Society, was a decided success, in fine weather. The feature event was the trotting races which brought together a large number of good horses. Results were as follows:

Polly Pout 2 2 1 1
Beaux Brooks 1 1 2 2
South Dakota Maid . . . 3 3 3 3dr
Beaux Brooks, owned by Frank Montgomery of Peterboro and driven by John Finnerty of Toronto won the race. Time 2.19 1-4.

2.30 Class
Lady of the Manor 1 2 2 2
Jennie Dixon 2 3 3 3
Cy Winger 3 1 1 1
Cy Winger owned by W. Elmhurst of Keene won the race. Time 2.29¾.
George Tice of Belleville proved to be a most satisfactory starter.
Trenton won the lacrosse game from Campbellford 13-3.
Campbellford defeated Lakefield at baseball 16-4.
Campbellford won from St. Mary's at football 2-0.
The tug-of-war was won by the Seymour township team, and during the day the Northumberland Regimental band dispersed music at the park grounds where all events were held.

GET NIGHT TELEGRAPH SERVICE IN BELLEVILLE

The public of the Belleville district will be much gratified to learn that arrangements have been completed whereby telegraph messages, commercial or private, can be despatched from Belleville at any hour of the day or night, Sundays and holidays included. It had previously been the practice of the local telegraph offices to open in the morning at 8 o'clock and close at 8-30 in the evening. On Sundays the offices were closed for the entire day with the exception of a brief period of service in the late afternoon. The hours of the central office have not been changed or interfered with but it has been arranged so that messages will be accepted at the north and south Canadian National Stations at all such times as the central office is closed. For the dispatch of messages from the north office, phone 53; and in sending messages from the south station call 629. All messages received in this way will have prompt and courteous consideration.

Receives Letter

The Chamber of Commerce took up this matter several months ago and the following letter received from Mr. Dawzy, Supt. Canadian National Telegraphs, will explain itself:

Mr. J. O. Hertig,
Secretary, Chamber of Commerce,

Operating practices: Belleville, Ont.

Dear Sir:—

Replying to your letter of February 1st, addressed to the General Manager at Montreal, in connection with the hours of telegraph service in Belleville, Ontario, I beg to advise that our city office is open from 8 a.m. until 8-30 p.m. Business can be transmitted from either the North or South Station at any hour of the night or on Sunday. This matter has been reviewed with the Railways officials and we are assured that these instructions will be strictly adhered to. We regret that the volume of business handled would not seem necessary to have a night service from the city office.

Thanking you for bringing this matter to our notice and hoping that the above service will prove satisfactory,

Yours truly,
(Signed) C. W. DAWZY,
Superintendent.

ARREST UNCLE; CHARGED WITH HIDING YOUTH

Police Officers Were Looking For Jailbreakers on His Farm

TAKEN TO COBOURG

No Trace of Nephew and Indian Companion Who Escaped

(Special to The Intelligencer.)

Campbellford, May 27—Acting on information that Ernest Cornelius Indian, and Roy Lindsay, two jail breakers were hiding on the farm owned by James Lindsay, at Duff's Corners, Percy Township, near Campbellford, Provincial officer William Boyd, stationed at Haliburton town, and Police chief Charles Doncaster of this town, commenced a search upon the farm. They are alleged to have met with difficulties when James Lindsay refused them permission to continue the search.

James Lindsay was promptly arrested, taken to Campbellford, and later to Cobourg where he appeared before Magistrate Col. Fleet, to answer a charge of harboring escaped prisoners and obstructing the police. James Lindsay is an uncle of Joseph, the fugitive.

Cornelius and Lindsay made their sweating trial on their escape, in Haliburton lock-up, broke jail on Thursday two weeks ago, riding the freight train down from Haliburton, through Minden, mount, Fenelon Falls, Lindsay, Peterborough and Keene to Campbellford where they were known to have friends. It was in the town that Deputy chief of Police Harry Sanders found and put an end to a spree.

Cornelius was arrested after a scuffle Lindsay taking to the woods. Last Friday night Cornelius broke out of the Campbellford lock-up to freedom, eluding the officers who followed him and snapped their revolvers in an effort to secure him submissive. He took a chance from the water's edge, after the trail lead although a number of officers fired at himself out of range, before the officers arrived at the shore.

The pair are now wanted on charges of about breaking and jail breaking.

PROVINCIAL OFFICER GOES TO PETERBORO

Provincial Constable Norman Maker has been appointed to Peterboro, and will report for duty there June first. Provincial Constable Elliott, a new man replaces Maker here. During his stay in Belleville Officer Maker has proven himself to be a very efficient officer in using the best of judgment at all times.

NO VACCINATION

Windsor, Ont., May 27—In the opinion of Dr. Fred Adams, medical health officer here a vaccination ban against persons crossing the river from Detroit is unnecessary, for the present at least.

Dr. Adams points out that because of the recent smallpox epidemic here which resulted in a general vaccination ban, there is little risk of contraction from Detroit.

KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS

Struck on the head by an unknown man in a Queen street restaurant early Sunday morning, Michael Mackepeake, aged 30, of 24 Nassau street Toronto, was taken to the general hospital in a unconscious condition. After receiving attention at the hospital Macpeake was able to leave the hospital.

Montreal, May 27— Local Liberals appear to be of the opinion in accord to the coming election by the Sherbrine Division here, caused by the resignation of Maloney to the Senate. Some say they will support Mr. Mitchell if he stands again, others say they will not be door there will be a three-cornered contest between Liberal, Conservative and a Marksmale Kate Liberal. It was pointed out that the Hon Mackenzie King Liberal were nominated it would amount to announcing Mr. Monkeal Liberals approved of Mr. Mitchell's stand on the tariff. Conservatives are trying to nominate

While driving a light touring car from Garbyville to Belleville on Saturday morning, Mr. Cressy of the C.N.R. tracks, James Sward a mechanic, with the Curneliused Distilleries Company Limited there was struck by the Peterboro-Belleville passenger train, due in this city at 11 a.m., daily. The car was upset and ground to matchwood, but the drivers threw clear, escaped uninjured.

ROYALLY TREATED AT PHILADELPHIA

Gwen Lazier is Guest of Honor at Large Dinner Dance

Miss Gwen Lazier writes that she had a glorious time in Philadelphia while she spent two days, and was entertained at a large dinner attending the Sesqui-Centennial exhibition in Philadelphia. A dance was also given in her honor after the dinner.

The forenoon of the 24th of May, Miss Lazier motored to Wilmington, Delaware, when she opened the horse show of the State of Delaware. In the afternoon of the 24th she was a guest at the Annual Field Day Exercises of Penn, Del. by 19 leading colleges, and led the opening parade around the field, her colors, Red, White and "Tip" are feeling fit in every respect.

Mayor Mikel received a letter from Wm. Freeland Kendrick, Mayor of Philadelphia, expressing his pleasure at meeting Miss Lazier and receiving an invitation to be present. Mayor Kendrick will be at Montreal on the 27th at the Isabel Lee, at dinner stone of the Hospital for Crippled Children. He expressed the hope to be able to remain in Canada until the 28th of September.

Hon. Wm. H. Taft, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States has written Mayor Mikel that he will be unable to be present when Miss Lazier when she arrives in Washington, but as he has to attend the 100th anniversary of the Law School of Yale University of which he was for many years professor of the same dates as the U.E.L. Celebration, he is regretfully obliged to decline the invitation to attend the Celebration.

Policeman Gives Chase to Auto

Alleged That Kingston Man Ran Down Cartage Wagon

"Jumping on the running board of a motor car which gave chase, and then another motorist to attempt to get the license number, P. C. Arthur Booth, of the traffic squad, by which he saw strike N. Smith's cartage wagon at the corner of the Bridge street traffic rush following the accident yesterday. Two young children, who it is believed were riding on the wagon, were thrown to the road after the crash, but jumped up and were not injured. The wagon was slid not stop, but the number which was taken revealed the information that it was a dealer's car from the Ford garage in Kingston, reported by Ronald Van Luven.

Late last night, it is said, the car was found in a ditch near Gilnn's crossing, and when P. C. Booth motored down there, he found the owning this number broken down, and the car being towed away by the machine awaiting the dawn.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE SIGNS JAPS' DOOM

Washington, May 27. — President Coolidge yesterday signed the immigration bill putting an end to the Japanese effective July 1. The bill thus becomes a law.

In addition to the Japanese exclusion clause, the bill limits the number of aliens admitted to any country in any year to two per cent. based on the foreign born population in the United States as shown by the 1920 census.

After July 1, 1927, immigration will be limited to 150,000, each country getting a share in this ratio to the number of the national origins of the foreign population in the United States as shown by the 1920 census.

CONSERVATIVE WINS

London, May 27—Captain W. E. Sprott, Conservative, was elected in the Kevingrove Division of Glasgow by-election on Monday.

It was a three-cornered fight, in which the Conservative opposed Sir J. W. Pratt., Liberal, and Alistair Ferguson, Labor.

Toronto City Council Accept Invitation; Mayor Would Know Day They Are Expected

Members of the Toronto City Council are expected to accept the invitation to attend the U.E.L. Celebration here, but wants to know on what day they should arrive. The invitation has been duly received by Mayor Mikel from the Mayor of Toronto.

"Your kind invitation to the City Council to attend the U.E.L. Loyalist Celebration at Belleville next month has been duly considered by the Board of Control and it is likely that a representation of the City Council will go to your city. The celebration will be well started over four days, the 16th, 17th, 18th and 19th of June, but I am not sure which day we would suit your convenience for a visit from the members of our City Council.

"When the date of the trip is determined I will have much pleasure in writing to ascertain how many members of our Council will attend. Yours sincerely, W. C. Hiltz, Mayor.

MIDNIGHT FIRE MYSTERY; LEFT HEAVY LOSSES

Aged Lady in Apartment Had Close Call From Death

STARTED IN GROCERY

Spread to Neighboring Shop and Upstairs; Firemen Do Well

Fire of unknown origin which broke out in the south east corner of the L. L. Alexander grocery at 106 Station street after midnight Monday, practically destroyed the grocery stock, badly gutted the store as well as the Hart and Belleville Pottery Company, wholesale crockery and glassware store, occupied by Mrs. E. Spooner, aged and feeble lady, who lives above.

When the police received the call at 12.26, Sergeant Det. Boyd and P. C. Arthur Booth rushed to the scene, while the fire-fighting both six tactics assisted with all apparatus, and led by Chief Bowen, made a record run to the fire. The store interior was ablaze and dense volumes of smoke rolling out. Mrs. Spooner, who was upstairs, was screaming while Ch'ief Bowen and the police lowered himself out the door in an effort to get in to effect the rescue. She was found unconscious downstairs in night attire and carried from the door. She was taken safely across the street to the home of Mr. Hanley, 100 Station, Dock, by Constable Booth, and had not suffered much from her thrilling experience as from the results of the effects of the smoke.

Hard On Fighters

In the meantime the firemen had difficulty in getting to the fire because playing on the flames which had gain. Ground floor headway. It was extremely work by the firemen to successfully combat the fire, while the neighbors aroused from their slumbers and gay holiday crowds enjoyed the excitement. It was necessary for the firemen to back the hose partitions on account of the water in, as the interior was smoulder-ing after the fire was quite controlled. Dense smoke clouds drove the firefighters to the windows, coughing and half blinded, for fresh, midnight air. The Alexander store had been closed all day for the holiday and how the fire started is a mystery. The stock of the store was insured for $2,000. Fixtures recently installed, including a new set of scales were destroyed. The fixtures are insured for $500.

Byron McCrodan Dies From Wounds

Crossen to Cobourg is Remanded to Jail on Murder Charge

After a week's suffering and a gallant fight made for life Byron McCrodan, Division Boatswain's mate, died this morning at Wellesley Hospital, Toronto. SEIZE BOOZE CAR; GET $2,000 FINE

Provincial Police Trap Americans Who Didn't Admit Cargo Readily

William Sewell, of Woodstock, N.Y. is still in custody here, today, while his companion, Donald Polson of Detroit, who has gone to that city, will raise the fine of $2,000 and costs, which Sewell was assessed by Magistrate S. Masson in police court here Monday morning, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of illegally transporting liquor over the highway. The big Cadillac touring car was also seized and the fifteen dozen bottles of Quebec Liquor Commission six were confiscated. Sewell was caught near Consecon, Ont., by a car driven by Inspector Reg. Bumpsted of Provincial police, and Provincial Inspector Robert F. Davis.

The capture came to pass through the city Sunday night, and knowing the New York license number which the car bore, Inspector Bumpsted with Officer Davis left for Napanee in their motorcycle and side car to meet the car, in case they missed the Bigwas laden car, they cut off the objective of escape, by stationing Sergeant of Provincial Police G. Atkins and Constable Norman Maker at the lower bridge, where the police car was in a position so that it could be quickly shot across the bridge. The capture was running and all was ready.

The Car They Wanted

In the meantime, when near Odessa's crossroads, Inspector and Officer Davis noticed a big car coming, the men and were ordered to halt, whereupon which tallied with the number of the car which they sought. The car whirred by them at 45 miles per hour. They turned, and chasing after it, discovered that it was the car which they wanted. They drove up along-side and the car stopped upon the instructions.

"What have you in this car?" asked the Inspector.

"Some beer and, wine," replied Sewell, whereupon Inspector Bumpsted searched the car and ordered them to drive in to Odessa station on the nearest circle. The procession came around by Bridge street and the two officers at the bridge were notified that the car had been hagged, all going down to the police station, where the following colloding operations commenced and the men were taken into custody.

Then Sewell accepted all responsibility, Bumpsted and Davis returned to Consecon Bridge and the car was impounded Monstreal for the fine money. Later he left for Detroit, and the liquor was confiscated.

"If I could get out, I would get the $2,000 in a few minutes," Sewell is reported as having stated.

Both men are married, clean cut and well mannered young men, the police state.

NURSE IS SUING DR. ST. CHARLES

Claims $50,000, Alleged Wrongful Diagnose of Mental Condition

Damages to the amount of $50,000 for alleged uttering out of fact information to the effect that she was suffering from mental disease and imprisonment for six days in the common jail, are claimed by Miss Mary Williams, trained nurse, from Dr. William P. St. Charles, prominent Toronto doctor, in an action which came up in the assize court today, but was transferred to the fall sitting.

The action was adjourned on the motion of T. J. Agar, K.C., counsel for Dr. St. Charles, who told Mr. Justice Rose that valuable evidence was not available at present. He declared that Dr. St. Charles acted upon certificates from the plaintiff which were lost in the mail, and that he was also hearing on the subject of plaintiff's sanity. He said that the letters were kept, but that they were read by Dr. St. Charles' sister at the time, and as Dr. St. Charles' sister is at present ill in Belleville she is not available to testify on the contents of the letters. Mr. Agar's motion was strenuously opposed by M. O'Connor, K. C., for Miss Williams, but his lordship agreed with Mr. Agar.

The cause of the action is told in the plaintiff's statement of claim in which she declares that on May 1, last Dr. St. Charles on February 21st, 1923—was one of his patients was in the Bellford, private hospital, of which he was proprietor, and in the said month it was on January 16th, 1923, she alleges, that he wrongfully and maliciously swore out and lodged an information before Police Magistrate Ponton, and dangerous to be at large." Although the plaintiff was in fact sane, insane. Mrs. Williams alleges in counsel her to be "arrested, imprisoned, subjected to the great humiliation, mortify, personal shame, and loss of time, by reason of the aforesaid false charges—January 16th to January 16th, 1923—she was confined in the common jail, she says.

The above actions inflicted great indignities on the plaintiff and carried her away from her home, and of power or opportunity to arrange her affairs or put any responsible person in charge of her interests in the absence the statement of claim.

Counsel for the plaintiff are Messrs. Cassels, Brock & Kelley, Toronto.

Mr. Justice Rose appeared in police court, was remanded for examination as to sanity, Magistrate Masson before the charge was dismissed and Dr. St. Charles, who laid the charge of insanity, however, became ill, and her hospital was reformed, she claims.

The defendant replies that if there was such an information sworn out it was with the full knowledge of the person attorney.

Students From Country Find Doors Locked When They Arrived At High School Monday

Just before nine o'clock yesterday morning, a group of faithful High School students stood on the steps in front of the building and waited for the janitor to open the door that the doors of the High School were closed.

When asked what they were doing by the early students in a chorus explained that they were ready for school.

"Why there is no school today," answered the pater-boy.

After the explanations there was a mild swearing, as the joyful students departed.

They explained that when they left their homes Friday they were informed that school would be closed Monday.

The change in arrangements was announced on Saturday.

MAY ERECT AN OLD LOG CABIN AS MONUMENT

Corporation to Commemorate Loyalty of Settlers in Unique Way

ACCEPTING PROPOSAL

Celebration will be Handled By One Committee

At the meeting of the Executive held Saturday evening at Mr. Lazier's office, it was decided to accept the proposal of the Citizens Central Committee as to management of the celebration. The entire control will go to the committee, of which the corporation executive will become a park.

A proposal was brought forward to erect a monument to the U. E. Loyalist. The proposal is to have it prepared and the corner stone laid during the celebration and the U. E. Loyalists to contribute small sums towards the erection of the monument. It is not intended to erect a monument of the ordinary type, but something that will be typical of the first commencement of the settlers, by having an old form of the early pioneers' cabin, but instead logs of the construction. Bricks will be used to give it the form of lasting permanency. Tax Rate to Be Considered.

Would Donate Ground.

The Methodist Church has offered to donate the old Dundas St. burying ground if used as a park, and it has been suggested that the monument be erected on this piece of land, and the park be called U. E. L. Park. This is about where Chief Quinte Mohawks, the fine white settler in Belleville after the French period, lived, having on the twin through highway it would be useful for tourists, as a place to visited for any length of time, but to be considered at a meeting of the Executive of U. E. L. Celebration Committee 1924, to be held in the City Hall office Wednesday evening, May 28th at 8 p.m.

Belleville Men Mix With Players

Serious Allegations Made May Lead to a Court Case

Belleville motorists and Kingston baseball players mixed matters when they met east of this city on the high way last night. Provincial police officers were declared to be in charge of car transporting the ball players home and, blew a fire plug beyond Trenton, and pulled up in the limit of a standing sedan in the fire. The Belleville occupants of the sedan (three men and three girls) objected, and words ensued.

They had no sooner started down the hill when they met a car in the ditch and rim flew off one sedan wheel into the ditch, and later one man and three girls returned walking, in search of the tire which evidently was not damaged beyond repair. The baseball players were asked if they would help push the car back to the road presented to do so. Just then the sedan occupants made a rush for the Kingstonians to assist fixing their tire. They declared that they were in a hurry to get home, were tired of travel, and did not wish to remain

Then the fun began. Unfortunate are alleged to have attempted to make their way through the ranks of the Belleville men, and a scrap of fisticuffs and damaging the Kingston car. The sedan then drove off at a great rate, and the telephone to the police office over night, and a passing officer was told the three girls into the city.

Provincial officers are investigating, and it is believed that an information will be made of the Belleville men.

REAL ROMANCE

Jamie Brown, the miner who for ten days will represent the king, as Lord High Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, has taken up his abode in Holyrood Palace, along with his wife, who is to have a duchess for one lady in waiting and the wife of a weaver for another. And yet people talk about the age of romance being past. Probably this is the age of real romance. In the old days romance was found chiefly in books, the creation of poets and story tellers. To-day the romance is to be found in the news of the day and in the actual life of the world. Hundreds of years ago a writer with an active imagination might have dreamed of Jamie Brown, a miner, occupying a king's palace for ten days and representing the king, with precedence over all the great of the land except only the king himself; but it is scarcely possible that at any other period such a thing could be found recorded in the news of the day.

WHAT IS A FEELER?

Up till the present a stranger who judged only by the government legislation introduced would not be likely to suspect that there was a Labor government in Great Britain. The bill for the nationalization of coal mines is strongly suggestive of the Labor platform, but the Labor government contented itself with expressing approval of the principal involved and refused to assume responsibility for it. Thus when the bill was defeated the question of the government's resignation was not raised. The government is not using unnecessary risks. Bills that are likely to be voted down are left to their fate as private measures, no matter how well they may fit into the government's policy.

The nationalization measure was described by Lloyd George as "the first concrete example of the new Socialism which is to be put into operation as soon as the Labor party has a majority." It makes no provision for the payment of mine owners; it places on the country the responsibility of making good the losses when there are losses and allows the miners to fix their own wages, hours of labor and working conditions.

The bill was defeated by a majority of 98. The significant thing, no doubt is that it received as many votes as it did receive, considering Lloyd George's warning that it shows the path along which Labor is proceeding.

THE UNION JACK

Brigadier-General King has prepared a timely article for the members of the London Kiwanis Club explaining how that the Union Jack stands. At this time of the year, when Empire Day is being celebrated and when the thoughts of Canadians naturally turn to imperial matters and the emblem of the empire, a little study of the flag in a good thing.- General King explains the history of the Union Jack as follows:

"The old flag of England was simply the broad St. George's Cross, used as a pure white field. When the union with Scotland took place a Union Jack was made by combining the cross of St. Andrew with the cross of St. Patrick with the cross of St. George. The cross of St. Andrew is a white diagonal cross on a blue field. When Ireland was united with Great Britain, the cross of St. Patrick, being red, and diagonal on a white field was superimposed over the cross of Scotland and reduced in width. The diagonals of the Irish cross are not in alignment with each other, and the narrow strips of white on the diagonal cross do not constitute a part of the flag proper, but are in accordance with a law of heraldry that color must not touch color. As the cross of St. George held priority it is thrown into greater prominence by a wide strip of white separating it from the other two crosses.

Few people know just when the flag is hung correctly. General King also explains this, as follows:

"If the length of the flag is less than twice its width, two of the points of the red diagonal cross are blunt and the other two sharp, where the St. George's cross is superimposed. If the flag is correctly made, to start with, a simpleri way to remember is this: On the end nearest the flagstaff the white arms of the diagonal cross (St. Andrew) are above the red diagonal cross (St. Patrick."

POSITION SHOULD SEEK MAN
(Port Hope Guide)

Owing to the lamented death of the late Sir Louis Davies the position of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada is now vacant. There is in Canada one outstanding lawyer and Judge, eminently qualified to fill the vacancy and the Guide has no hesitation in saying that the distinguished Canadian jurist is Hon. Mr. Justice W. H. Riddell of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

His qualification and experience are known not only from Atlantic to Pacific throughout Canada, but equally well throughout the British Isles and the United States of America. He has for many years graced the Bench of the Supreme Court of Ontario, having been appointed to the same by the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and it seems to the Guide that now is the opportune time for Mr. Lockhip to be elevated to the Chief Justiceship of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Hon. Mr. Justice Riddell is a native of these United Counties, and one of the most gifted men Canada has ever produced. If the King Government appoints Hon. Mr. Justice Riddell to the position there will be a satisfied public.

A Reconciliation
By W. H. G.

Last winter the Merrill family experienced one of those domestic tragedies, the origin of which may be traced to a lack of judgment. It shook the foundations of the home and resulted in young John's departure.

In October, John had laid aside his bloomers and encased his lower limbs in long trousers. By December he had forgotten his first few embarrassments as he leading a merry life for a youth of his age. He became dance crazy.

His action in forsaking the evening quiet of the Merrill sitting room for the bright lights and jazz music of the dance hall, brought down on him a storm of indignation from father and mother.

Morning and night for five months, John heard that home was the place for a seventeen year old boy in the evenings. Morning and evening, John stubbornly refused to take advice.

Then came the break. The boy secured a position as shoe clerk in Fort Darling, a town some miles away from his native city.

Folks said he would come back, that he would soon learn to appreciate the comforts of home. But a half year rolled by and neither son nor parents had made a move toward reconciliation.

"The White Owl" is a restaurant well known in Fort Darling. Its patrons, mostly men who work for small salaries, refer to it familiarly as the "Hash House." Very few translents call in. The proprietors depend on the same people for a lively morning noon and night.

So that when a nervous little woman hesitated at the door and found her way uncertainly to a table at the far corner, shortly after the twelve o'clock whistles had blown, there was a craning of necks and much speculation on the part of the "regulars".

The visitor was Mrs. Merrill, who had come to Fort Darling to point out the folly of her son's ways. His father had a good position for him at home. He could take it or leave it—but his choice would be final. Further if the boy did come back, he would have to be obedient.

When a man with a soiled apron presented her with a soiled menu card she ordered the regular dinner.

The woman peered anxiously at the soup, tasted it and shuddered. The potatoes were soggy, the meat tough and the cabbage tasteless. The tea was luke-warm water. She bent her fork trying to detach a small portion of raisin pie and was busy analyzing the contents, when she became aware that young John was standing near, looking at her in amazement.

"John, do you eat here all the time?" the mother asked, when he had seated himself on the other side of the table. John nodded his head.

"Are the meals always like this?"

"Nearly always," the boy answered wonderingly.

A tear trickled down the side of the mother's face. Involuntarily, she reached across the table for her son's hand which was toying with a fork.

"Come back with me, John," she pleaded. "There's mince and cherry pie, there's Johnny cake and there's some of your old favorite cookies at home! And—and you can dance every night in the week. If you want to."

John then a restaurant fir settled on John's nose and settled John's mind for him.

Letters To The Editor

ANOTHER VIEW

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me a small space in your paper, to say that I am fully in accord with the letter signed "A Lover of Sane Sport" in issue of May 22nd, 1924.

"I have followed this question very closely and do not agree with the action of the council of the City of Belleville, re the Dog question. To satisfy the whims of one or two citizens, who have evidently not considered the fact that dogs were really the cause of theirt trouble.

"Take for instance the two letters from Mr. Marsh, in the first letter he blames the dogs, whereas in my opinion cats were more likely the cause of his trouble. I have kept dogs all my life and have had no trouble from them with flower beds whatever.

"In the second letter he specifies that his neighbors' chickens were killed by stray dogs.

"Surely here was another source of his trouble, as, had these chickens been properly penned up, they would most assuredly not have been killed.

"Then we read of some 300 signing pages of glass.

"Surely that is quite minded person would credit any such statement, human dogs were more likely the cause of this trouble.

"In closing, I would recommend all citizens who have so far signed petitionists against dogs, to secure a good look and list from the police garden, at night, to protect same from cats and two-legged dogs, when I believe their trouble would be remedied without recourse to the drastic measures outlined by Mayor Mirfit's letter.

Help Kidneys By Drinking More Water

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS AND HELP NEUTRALIZE IRRITATING ACIDS

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the private parts sometimes evil, a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely painful and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most easily obtained to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get from any druggists or Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which you quickly relieve your bladder irritation. Any druggist can supply you, or can examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

If Skin Breaks Out and Itches Apply Sulphur

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing else ever being found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for relief to experiment. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Jeff Hitwein Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

Deaths and Funerals

FRANK JUBY

Mr. Frank Juby, a resident of Moira Junction, died on Saturday after a few days illness. An attack of pneumonia was the cause of death. He was born on the homestead where he passed away. Deceased was 58 years of age. A widow and four children survive. Mrs. Juby is a sister of Mr. John W. Seeley, of the city.

JAMES BLANCHARD

On Sunday night Mr. Jas. Blanchard, of this city passed away at the hospital. Deceased had been ill for some months and his demise was not unexpected. Mr. Blanchard was born at Stirling 61 years ago and had resided in this locality all his life. He was a member of the Methodist Church. Mrs. Blanchard predeceased him some 11 years ago. Two daughters, Mrs. M. Thomas, of St. Catherines and Miss Viola of this city, survive.

At an early hour on Saturday morning Mr. James Corkins, residing in the 8th concession of Tyendinaga Township was the victim of a stroke which proved fatal three hours later Deceased was 71 years of age and had lived in Tyendinaga all his life, being a well known farmer. He was a member of the Anglican church at Bolin. A widow, four sons and six daughters survive. The sons are William and John of Bolin, Joseph and Murney at home. The daughters are Mrs. W. B. Haines, of Belleville, Mrs. R. Morris, of Saskatchewan, Mrs. Ed. Lofthouse, of Thomasburg, Mrs. Geo. Carter, of Point Anne, Mrs. James Harbinson, of Codrysville, and Mrs. S. Coulter, of Roslin.

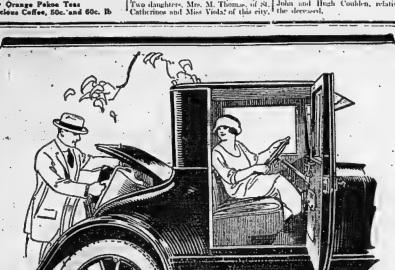

The funeral took place on Monday and was largely attended. At the Bolin Anglican Church the Rector, Rev. Mr. Pitman conducted services and assisted at the interment at the Anglican cemetery Rosslin. Bearers were H. Alford, James Cress, S. Mellrum, W. H. John and Hugh Conklen, relatives of the deceased.

RECITAL IN BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. Herbert W. Piercy was the chief figure in the recital given in the Baptist Church last evening before an audience which taxed the capacity of the building.

Mr. Piercy's chief number was Tennyson's Enoch Arden. One wonderful bit of all at the piano when each which Mr. Piercy was to necessary to the recitation of this poem. And one was in the most pleasing interest as the entertainment interprete and dramatizes the moving story. A full, powerful and flexible voice, and complete command of facial expression add greatly to Mr. Piercy's power in sweet and humorous one selections he pleased his audience equally well, and many will look forward to his return at some future date.

Three were also three much enjoyed musical numbers, a piano duet by Misses Alex. Gordon and Wm. Corcoran, a vocal solo by Mr. McKechnie and a piano trio by Miss Grace Connors, Wm. Connors and Alex Gordon.

SIXTH

of the series dealing with the establishment of the Bank of Montreal at representative points in Canada and elsewhere

WEST OF THE GREAT LAKES

THE growth of the Bank of Montreal has closely coincided with the gradual development of Canada from a small colony to a great Dominion.

In the Bank's westward advance to the Pacific Coast, one of the important links in its transcontinental chain of Branches was formed in 1876 at Winnipeg, when the Bank opened its first Branch west of the Great Lakes.

This forward step, taken seven years before railway communication was opened up between Montreal and Winnipeg, made available to the incoming population on the prairies the stabilizing co-operation of a strong, conservative and at the same time energetic financial institution.

Of the Bank's 567 Branches, 12 are situated in Winnipeg and 180 in the Prairie Provinces, including Winnipeg.

Oshawa Wins In Cold, Wet, Scrap

Oshawa, Ont., May 27.—In weather that was more suitable for rugby than baseball, Oshawa carried out its big spasm on Saturday, Oshawa win the listless baseball argument for Belleville 19-5.

Locals were blanked in the first three innings, but in the fourth, after Williams had fanned, Meagher got on through an error by Murray. Hagerman was given a walk, Lacey singled, filled the bases. Dainty issued a free pass to Colette, forcing Meagher across the pan and with the bases still choked. V. Weir, Belleville's shortstop, realized a ball player's dream by clouting out a circuit drive to deep left and five runs were hung up on the score board. Ross and W. Mills finished the inning with easy outs. They were blanked in the 5th, 6th and 7th, but in the 5th put over a quartette of runners after one was out. A. Weir who batted for Casey and Keen, who replaced Colette, held out on through errors. A. Weir came through with his third hit of the game which was a two-bagger, and while R. Fair in centre let it zone through his legs, A. Weir and Keen crossed the pan and V. Weir leaning upon third, Ross singled scoring V. Weir and went to second on the throw of the plate. W. Mills spotted out one to centre which R. Fair grabbed on the run and Robb was safe on third when Murray was not covering the bag in time the throw. H. Mills singled, scoring Ross, and J. Williams flew out to R. Fair in centre. In the ninth they were held scoreless. Oshawa scored four runs in the first.

The second and third were scoreless while in the fourth four were added up on the score board on two walks and three hits. Two were added in the fifth on three safe singles, and another brace in the sixth on three errors and a single. The 7th was scoreless, while in the 8th they garnered seven on two errors, a walk and five hits, one of which was a three base clout by R. Fair.

The line-ups:

Belleville—V. Weir, s.s.; Ross, c.f.; W. Mills, c.; H. Mills, 1st; Williams, 3rd; Meagher, 2nd; Hagerman, l.f.; Casey, r.f.; Colette, p.; A. Weir, r.f.; Keen, p.

Oshawa—Murray, 3rd; W. Fair, r.f.; Bowden, 2nd; Tyson, c.; Dainty, p. Boddick, l.f.; Wilson, 1st; R. Fair, c.f.; Morrison, s.s.

JARVIS SELLS YACHT

Toronto, May 27.—Over the week-end the fine schooner rigged auxiliary yacht, "The Venture", left Toronto bound for New York, which will be its future home port. Under the ownership of Armilius Jarvis it was a proud member of the R.C.Y.C. fleet. Mr. Jarvis has sold it to W. S. Greenlee, a well-known lawyer and yachtsman of New York and Newport. The sale price is not stated but the yacht is valued at around twenty thousand dollars by local sailors. The new owner consists of Captain Mac McLaughlin, the mate, Tom Benson, and the deck hand, "Bert" Sime. Commodore Jarvis himself stood on the deck and directed operations and in conversation with him was the new owner, Mr. Greenlee.

SPECIAL TOUR TO PACIFIC COAST

MARVELOUS SCENES SHOWN ON SCREEN

Two outstanding historical romances have been flashed on the screen in Belleville previously this season—"The Covered Wagon", depicting the pioneer days of North America and "The Hunchback of Notre Dame", a picturization of Hugo's great novel. The third, and in many respects, the finest of such pictures to be seen here was shown last night at Griffin's Theatre.

"Scaramouche" deals with Paris in the throes of the Great Revolution. The arrogant pride of the Aristocrats, based on high culture and chastened courage was vividly contrasted with with the hopeless misery and starvation of the poverty-stricken masses of the French people. When the half starved mob, fired to desperate courage by the eloquence of their leaders, finally broke into revolt, some of the most marvellous scenes ever screened are pictured. The advance agents claimed that 4ver eleven thousand people took part in the production—to see the wild blood-thirsty mob, streaming through the streets of Paris, burning and looting as they go, the onlookers seems far too low.

Through all the blood and terror of the Revolution and the Commune runs a pretty love story. Alice Terry's rare and dainty beauty makes her an appealing figure and Ramon Novarro is a satisfactory lover.

Lewis Stone shows probably the best acting of the play as the cynical, cruel, but polished Marquis de la Tour d'Azyr.

The "Scaramouche" is a wonderful drama, superbly filmed by Rex. Ingram and splendidly acted. It will be shown again to-night and to-morrow afternoon and evening.

Smooth as Velvet
when you start, stop and back your Ford
Your savings are velvet too!

It's just as though your transmission bands were lined with velvet! You start, stop and back your Ford without a trace of jerky chatter. That's lubrication! That's Veedol Forzol.

You get more speed with less engine vibration. On the hills, cars you used to trail now take your dust. You coast farther and faster—no brake band drag to hold you back.

The smaller quantity of Veedol Forzol you use is just the beginning of your saving. The money you save on increased gasoline mileage; the money you don't spend on engine repairs, carbon removal and new transmission bands—all that is "velvet."

Veedol Forzol was created for the Ford Car—exclusively. It perfectly lubricates the Ford engine and the Ford planetary transmission. That's why it succeeds where other oils have failed.

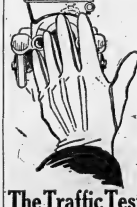

Convince yourself. Make this test. Drive up to the nearest Veedol dealer. Ask the service man to drain your old oil and pour exactly 4 quarts of Veedol Forzol into the crankcase. Then check the new performance of your Ford with what you have been putting up with in the past.

Smooth as velvet—and your savings are "velvet" too!

GRAND TRUNKS BREAK EVEN OVER THE WEEK END; JUNIORS DEFEAT TWEED

Belleville Takes First Home Game

Take Kingston's measure by Timely Hitting Rally in Seventh

OULETTE WORKS WELL

Allows Eight Hits but shows Good Control Despite Cold

Delighting Belleville fans in the opening home game of the season in the Central Ontario Baseball league, the Grand Trunks yesterday came from behind, and playing stellar ball in cold, unsatisfactory weather on a spongy Richmond, nosed Kingston Ponies out, winning the game 5-4.

Both teams lack finish as yet owing to lack of practice due to bad weather and the diamond, though dragged and well covered with shavings yesterday morning, was soggy in places, especially around third sack, and this fact also handicapped the fielders.

It was a game of rallies on the part of the sluggers, and a real nifty pitching exhibition by Bic Jack Oulette, the local steam ball right hander, and "Lefty" Kelly, Kingston's crack pitcher. Jack pitched a fine game, despite the cold day, showing very good control and lots of steam. Kelly who pitches with an easy motion was new to the local fellow wielders, but not for long, although he buried a very heady game, and was given good support; Both Shavers went the route, and there was but one change in either line-up during the game, when Alec Weir replaced Casey in the seventh.

Slogging Match

True, a few complimentaries were issued by both pitchers, and two batsmen were struck by pitched balls, but some lovely clouting was the exciting high licht of the game. Kingston went to work early, netting one in the first, and three in the third. Trunks scored but two over in their half of the first, but when Ponies got another five in the fifth, they had the locals by 5-2 until the fireworks in the "ninety" ended. Rose and Bill Mills got on through errors by Evans and Gallagher, and Harry Mills was passed, clustering the bases, Jack Williams came up and smashed out a three bagger which went over Ted Gallagher's head in deep right. It was a race for the rubber between Rose and Mill brothers for three counters. Then Meagher came up and batted a nice one past Comeau, sending Williams over.

Two strike-outs smothered the five works, but Trunks had tied the visitors, who scored another in their seventh. Trunks came back strong in the eighth, getting the pair which beat them ahead, until they shut out the Ponies for the eighth and ninth. Weir singled in the eighth and Bain hitted a pretty Texas League, sending Weir around to third. Bill Mills got on when he rolled to Compeau, who caught Weir at plate, and then Comeau Rice pulled a "boner" which spoiled his splendid day behind the bat and with the club. He missed H. Mills's third strike, Mills going safe, Rose and "Pewsie" crossing the pan.

Oulette Has Edge

Each succeeding totalled eight safe clouts, a few of which were as pretty as they make, and each squad have five errors chalked against them, the bad field contributing greatly to the errors on both teams. Oulette with his clever strike-outs in Kelly's class, had the edge, both passing four, and Oulette hitting two.

Mills brothers, Williams and Meagher still remember how to wallop the horsehide, although Rose and Weir were just a trifle strange with Kelly. They each nicked him for a safety though during the nine innings. Compeau, Kingston's new short fielder, is a snappy boy in the field and a danger sign with the club. Catcher Rice has improved over last year, and apart from the unfortunate game-giving error in the eighth, played a nice game. Daly can still hit, but Harry Bastone had an off day at third.

Juniors Even Up With Tweed Nine

Clinched the Game in Second Frame With Four Runs

WAS NICE EXHIBITION

Knott as Hitter and Post as Fielder Shape up Well

Harry Soose' Juniors are even with Tweed now after yesterday's seven inning battle here, for they trimmed the northern boys 4-2 in a very nice exhibition of ball. With more batting practice, coaching and baseball education, the local juniors will make the best of them step, for they are a modest hard working aggregation of boys, wee baseball them-selves well. Tweed spunt are a lefty aggregation, who play well together also

Subject to satisfaction, both fingers spent the limit, Elliott for Tweed holding the visitors down, although he was closely for him at times, and Jimmie Hunter going the route for the local with ease, improving with each inning. Latchford did all the receiving, and is a hard worker, having the title of best receiver, who was off yesterday.

The game was a thriller, Colling's crew garnered all their runs in one inning, the second, Tweed sending their pair over in the fifth. Nine batters had a crack at the ball in the second, and four runs resulted. There were three clouts issued by Blakely, who made a scrapbane ride, there was one hit, a single by Knott, one passed ball yet the side was retired by three strikeouts

Tweed were home when Mills worked the short throw of Meagher to Weir. Cherry was tagged out at third on the play. Daly singled to centre, scoring Compeau. Gallagher fanned.

1 run, 2 hits, 1 error.

Belleville—Weir rolled out to Purvis. Rose struck out. Bain struck out on easy grounder. W. Mills got on when Gallagher dropped his high fly. H. Mills walked. "Liver Trouble so Severe I Had to Quit Work"
Mr. Thomas Honey, Brantford, Ont., writes:
"I was a great sufferer from enlargement of the liver for ten years. I finally had to quit work. I would wake up in the mornings with a bitter taste in my mouth, the frequent headaches, yellow complexion, and pain in my right side, and between the shoulder blades. It was almost unbearable, and terribly weakening. I could not sleep at night and my heart also bothered me. But the whole trouble has now left me, thanks to that wonderful medicine, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

That Body of Yours
By Iolanthe M. Burton, M.D.
THE HUMAN BAROMETER

It must be interesting to some of older folks when they read about what is now thought to be the cause of rheumatism and stiff joints. Rheumatism was taken to be a matter of course in their time. In fact the old lady's idea that rheumatism was sent from Heaven, so that she could forecast the weather, was not considered entirely as a joke. And so when it was found to be true, lately that another place in the body is now considered a source from whence rheumatism may come, we are not surprised.

A physician specializing in X-Ray work claims to have perfected a method whereby he can see right into some small cells of bone on the floor of the skull, just above the nose, and behind the eye sockets. It was found that, even after clearing up the matter of teeth, tonsils, and the little sinuses or caverns adjoining the nose, and likewise the intestine, that rheumatism still persisted. These people would have a sort of chronic catarrh for which all forms of treatment seemed of no avail.

By means of this new method this physician claims that the actual infected cells can be seen.

This enables a surgeon to enter in and clean out the infection.

Some persistent catarrhal conditions which are so annoying by their very persistence have often baffled our clever specialists. After traversing every area about the nose and the different caverns or sinuses adjoining it, they have failed to relieve the condition. The end in a position to verify the claims of the X-Ray specialist, nor the surgeon who has been following up the findings and separating thereby, because it is reported from a distant city. Time will tell.

My object in speaking about it is to show that one should not calmly sit down and accept rheumatism as something that cannot be helped. That one must just be as he does and bear it.

Rheumatism, as it is called, is simply a conditions due to some infection. If the cause is looked for persistently, it can usually be found. If these cells spoken of above are found to be really another source from whence rheumatism may come, then one more step has been gained on this foe of mankind.

H—How sweet it would be if we were two little birds who could fly out into the great world and build our nest in the top of a tree!

SUNDAY SERVICES IN BAPTIST CHURCH

Services of unique interest were held in the Baptist Church on Sunday. The pastor, Rev. Mr. McKechnie was in charge at both services and at the morning service the choir was in the absence of leaders. Mrs. Herbert W. Perry, Mrs. Ross Gibson, as the special leaders for the day. The sermon at both services was made up of a series of the morning selection being the story of Christ's passion. The theme for the evening selection the story of Dinah and the Samaritan woman. Under Mrs. Perry's interpretation these passages took on a new life and interest.

The morning sermon was a rendering of the "Seven Last Words of Christ," while that of the evening was a transcription of the sermon of Dr. Joseph Rigdist pastor in Paris, on the Prodigal Son. Both of the selection were given in such a way as to command the deep spiritual message and created a profound impression. Large audiences were present at both services.

TWO CHILDREN DROWN

Lindsay, Ont., May 27—Two small children of Dane Johnson, Wellington Street, were drowned in the Scugog River in the city yesterday afternoon. The little boy, aged three and five years, were playing a short distance from their home and the second was witnessed only by playmates. Other witnesses attracted the attention of parents.

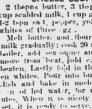

The body of one of the children, the little girl, was recovered before the parents arrived on the scene only a few minutes. A couple of hours' dragging operation was in progress before the body of the little boy was found. Drowning was accidental, and it is considerable distance down stream.

Are You the Woman You Were Meant to Be?

Every woman was meant to be healthy, happy, and to find joy in living up to the best of her ability; but, alas, how few have the health or physical endurance to do so. Pain, weakness, Overambition, many of them develop from constipation, headaches, backaches, irregularities, and often organic troubles, are the things that their prefaces in life. Women in this condition should turn to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Its potent and herb medicine which which has been proven to be helpful to out of every 100 women who try it. Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound make you well and strong, and the woman you were meant to be.

MRS. COFFMAN ILL SEVEN YEARS

Saved from an Operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sidell, Ill.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side, which was in the worst unbearable. I could not even let the bed clothes touch me or my body at night. I suffered sick for seven years, but so bad the last eighteen months, and was become so run-down that I was ready for nobody, and would rather have died than live. I couldn't do my work without help, and the doctors told me that an operation was all there was for me. I finally consent to that, as my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house, and when my two little girls are each womanhood I intend to teach them to take it. I am never too busy to tell some suffering sister of my help, and you can use my name and letter to spread the good news of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine."—Mrs. Ida M. COFFMAN, R. R. 2, Sidell, Ill. ■

Music & Drama

NEILAN MADE "MINNIE" DIFFERENT EVERY WAY

"Minnie" the new Marshall Neilan picture released by First National, is a realistic picture from the heart of a small town country hotel. Neilan has made all his characters real and unbunnish and he has put into the picture rare human touches as he always does. Any advice to scenario writers concerned? "Don't take the chance."

Those who know seen "Minnie" know he practiced what he preached, for he gives something different at every turn in this mothmaking drama.

Leatrice Joy plays the part of "Minnie" and with her is Matt Moore. Now the "solecisms" thing for Neilan to do was to give both "steadie" parts. They had always done that kind. But Neilan didn't do the obvious. He had made Matt and Leatrice shine in their odd role. Now at the Regent.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

Jack looked over the heads of the crowd and saw in the middle a woman dressed in deep mourning, with the kind of swoon in her bonnet, which now hung under the chin, she had let fall from her up and was crying quietly, while two or three women round her were endeavouring to console her in the most Cockney language, and begging her to "keep up."

Jack, who possessed a heart that was easily touched by the sight of a woman in distress as that of an abused child, took, as he had a right to do, a look at it to the woman who was moaned to the bystanders, and with a nod, a word, a "Give her that," passed on his way. When he got home he related the incident, omitting any mention of the half swoon in Mondy Jane, who was sympathetic to remark, that the woman must have had a pleasing to look at her pocket, and that she, Mondy Jane, would like to see anyone try it on with her!

The following evening Jack, while walking in quite an opposite direction, saw a similar crowd, and on stopping to ascertain the cause, was somewhat baffled, though quickly amused, to find that the recently dressed widow had just had her pocket picked, and that in addition to the loss of her money, she had been deprived of a return ticket to Wimbledon, where a kindly aunt was looking forward to the visit. Jack made a third rendezvous as he thought, but this time he could have bought for that half crown, and for a moment was inclined to give the woman into custody, for he felt sure he had seen her only that day, but, of course, he thought better of it, and with a smile at his own simplicity and credulity, he left the three impostor to gather the reward of her ingenuity from the crowd and the sympathies of her fictitious distress.

He made his way home in a long round of it that night, and was entering the upper end of Chase Street, when he saw a man dressed in black walking down the street just in front of him. There seemed to be something familiar to him about her figure, and as the man turned the corner he caught a glimpse of his face. That, too, seemed familiar to him, and he be ever that the widow's bonnet, he recognized he assured himself that he had seen on the last two evenings playing the "pickpocket dodge!"

The event was a calculator, and though Jack did not know it, the people of theatres and similar gaiety. He paused at the mouth of the court and looked in absently, and as he passed the figure of a woman emerged from one of the deep doorways within, and passed him hiding her head down and walking quickly. As she passed from the darkness into the light cast into the light thrown by the gas lamp, Jack caught the glimpse of coppery hair, and of a face that was not Mondy Woods, his fellow-lodger, and was somewhat surprised to find that she re-entered the house in which he lived, and presently saw that the room occupied by the lady widow Jane called a "golden miseries." She stopped at the Jacks door, and impulsively inserting a key, looked round furtively and anxiously, and as the door close behind her, she uttered a little exclamation, a mixture of fear and recognition, and stood with a nervous, depressed air, one on his forehead. In her hurry she had struck the key in crookedly and could not open the door. Of course Jack opened it for her, and with many thanks she took the key from him and went upstairs, holding the bannister as she had been overcome by a sudden faintness. He noticed that she kept her left arm under her cloak, which was loose and grey in colour, released the bedroom door gently, so that if he had desired to get a glimpse of the room—which he certainly did not—he could not have done so.

In the morning Jack told Mondy Jane of the strange happening and the pitiful widow. Mondy Jane nodded knowingly.

"I thought there was some taken in it," she said, "widows, as a regular thing, are too sharp to be 'ad even by pickpockets. That court you saw go in 'ere down is called Piper's Stark; and they're a regular bad lot there, I can tell you."

"I wonder what Moe Woods was doing there last night," said Jack, half to himself, but Mondy Jane overheard him.

"Did you see her there?" she asked. "I shouldn't have thought it of her. That's cruel. Well, that makes one more of a 'olden mystery than ever."

Jack laughed as he let the matter go and went out; there seemed to him so very little of the mysterious in his fellow-lodger, excepting that she carried her pocket handkerchief in her left hand, evidently donated to conceal, but which probably contained nothing more mysterious than a three shillings piece with which she worked during the day.

For all that, Jack was disposed very doubly for Jack, and he began to wonder how he could help her. Though now and again he held short conversations with her fellow-lodgers and smoked a pipe in a shady corner with some one who happened to be on hand on the same job with him he made no friends or acquaintances, and always returned from the docks to the docks directly his work was over. One evening, however, he was up to the Lambeth baths and had a swim; and coming out, he saw Mondy Woods, he turned in at a coffee-house and had some supper; then he lit his pipe, and prepared to walk home to Chase street.

He was crossing Lambeth bridge in the last grey light which rests upon the pallid town which shines above Lon don in the summer, when he saw a girl leaning against the side of the bridge in the attitude of one of utter weariness and dejection, her head was leaning on her hand, her elbow on the bridge resting; the other hand hung limply by her side, and her head was dropped, and her eyes fixed on the pavement river which flows beneath that portion of bridges.

There was something in the attitude, and in the stopping of the figure, that appealed to Jack. She looked so lonely, so de jected, only an embodiment of the weariness of the great city, that wearies those which every Londoner has felt some time or other.

WOMAN PARTIALLY BURNED

Ingersoll, Ont., May 27.—Mrs. Dundas, burned upon an other refuse in a summer kitchen at the rear of her residence, Thirteenth west, Mrs. A. Dundas, an aged resident, was seriously, and probably fatally, burned yesterday. Her clothing caught fire while she was alone in the house. When neighbors, who heard her cries, rushed to render assistance, they saw Mrs. Dundas run into the backyard, a mass of flaming fire. She fell in the yard and was immediately rolled in old carpets to extinguish the flames. Attending doctors are not hopeful of her recovery.

BROOKVILLE HOTEL BURNED

Brockville, Ont., May 27—The Grand Central Hotel in the Village of Iroquois was Sunday night badly damaged by fire of unknown origin, commencing in the third storey. The roof and third storey were gutted, and the others badly damaged by smoke and water. Knight and Cooper recently purchased the property. The accident of adjoining buildings were removed, but the fire was confined to the hotel. The loss will be from $7,000 to $9,000, partially covered by insurance.

Is 10% Too Much?

When a man has 100% of his income with which to supply his family's needs and his own, shouldn't he arrange it

90%—as a maximum for present expenditures

10%—as a minimum for care of family in case of his death or for his own old age if he lives.

Even the small proportion of 10% of a man's salary will continue a goodly amount of income to his family under our Jubilee Monthly Income Policy.

For example, a man age 30, earning $250 a month—by investing 10% in a London Life Jubilee Policy can guarantee to his wife (aged 30) at his death, an income of $100 a month as long as she lives.

If you are not adequately insured, your family carries the risk of your death by accident or disease, not yourself. Transfer the risk to the London Life and provide for "the monthly cheque that never fails."

Mayor's Drop Was Afternoon Feature

President Scott Couldn't Get Near It; Morley Duff Hoists Flag

Belleville baseball fans dedicated the large holiday crowd which gathered in winter clothing to watch the opening ball game of the season here on the holiday. The proceedings left Tweed in a good mood for I know a real good soul COME, and soon every first league game to swing the fast Kingston Penps out at the tail end of the Fry Quinte. The game ended seven innings and the Senors won.

Following the game, during the official opening of the ball season, council men, both teams lined up and marched to the flag pole. President Morley Duff, on the Central League, ran up the flag and the two pennants which the Grand Trunk have won, and the cheers and applause of the crowd, Mayor W. C. Mikel K. C. then took the mound with Mr T. J. Power, Chairman of the Park Committee, on in behind while Mr. Walter Scott, President of B.A.S.A. stood by on the plate. After received a smile from Umpire Bill Brown, then his famous "Mayor Mikel is allowed a ball" which called a Power stepped, but the afternoon could not work.

The two ball games were the feature event of the holiday which was enjoyed here yesterday.

SIDNEY BALL LEAGUE OPENED UP SATURDAY

TAX RATE SET AT 40 MILLS; CELEBRATION, PUBLIC WORKS BOOSTING THE EXPENDITURES

Increase of Two and Half Mills Over Last Year

WANT SPORT GROUNDS

Aldermen Refer Request to Parks Board and Engineer

The tax rate for the city of Belleville has been set at 40 mills.

After pruning and revising all expenditures carefully, the City Council last night found that the rate would have to be increased 2.5 mills over that set last year, 37.5 mills.

Ald. McCreary, chairman of the Executive Committee, in referring to the estimates, stated that there was an increase of approximately 1 mill on account of the City's share of capital cost of local improvements constructed and being built this year, which had not been levied formerly. There was also an increase of approximately 1 mill on account of increased appropriation to Public Works Department, to provide for the purchase of a new truck, a scraper, and necessary repairs to macadam and sodding of roadsides within the city.

There was also the grant of $2,500 to the U. E. L. celebration, an increase of 1-10 mill for public schools and an increase of 1-10 mill on account of grant to the G. W. V. A. for taxes.

Allow No Transfer

Last year $9000 was transferred from the surplus earnings of the Sinking Fund investments and the 1923 levy was reduced to the extent by $9,000 and thereby. In view of the absence of definite authorization in law for such practice, Council of 1924 decided not to follow the procedure adopted in 1923 in this regard.

A comparison of the tax rates for 1923 and 1924 is as follows.

	1923	1924
Separate School	7.3	7.3
Municipal patriotic	1.3	1.2
High School	3.5	3.5
Public School	9.5	9.7
Hospital	2	2
General Rate	22.3	24.7
Total for Public School	35.8	38.4
Total for Public Schools	37.8	40

Payment of Taxes

A recommendation was adopted that the three be payable in two instalments, first of such payments to become due and payable August 1st; second instalment on November 1st. Interest on arrears of taxes at 6 per cent of the property tax to become due and payable on first instalment August 1st.

A recommendation was made by Ald. Graham that a discount of 2 per cent be allowed all ratepayers on the second instalment due Nov. 1st, if paid on the first instalment due August 1st, and that 3 per cent be added to taxes due August 1st which are unpaid and 2 per cent added to the second instalment due November 1st.

Ald. Robinson moved an amendment that no discount be allowed on arrears taxes for the year 1924.

After some discussion on the recommendation and amendment the vote was a tie 5 and 5, Mayor Wills being appealed to voted for the amendment so proposed by Ald. Robinson.

Recommended that a penalty of 1 per cent per month be added to the unpaid instalments of taxes and that water due and payable until the penalty aggregate a maximum of 5 per cent. The recommendation was adopted.

GET GRANT FOR MILITARY

A high note of satisfaction was struck at the meeting of the Citizen's Committee of the United Empire Loyalist Celebration, last night evening, when it was announced that the Department of Militia and Defence had made a grant of $5,000, to be used in connection with the expenses incurred by the various military units which will be in Bronze here during the three days of the celebration.

This unexpected revenue will add considerably to the scope of the celebration.

U.S. DESTROYER TO HELP BRITISH FLYER

Tokio, May 28.—The United States destroyer, John Paul Jones, left Yokohama yesterday for Hakodate to pick up a mercy plane belonging to Z. A. Stuart MacLaren, British aviator on his way around the world, and take it to Hong Kong, whence it will be taken on by another destroyer to Calcutta. The plane will replace that which crashed with Stuart MacLaren, Canadian, in an accident which it has been feared has resulted in the aviator's death. To-day's action followed approval by Admiral Thomas Washington, commanding the United States Asiatic fleet, of plans for helping the British flight.

KING AND QUEEN VISIT EXHIBITION

Are Keenly Interested in Showing Made by Dominions

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Montreal, May 28.—The following facts, dated May 28th, were received this morning by M. H. McLennan, General Passenger Traffic Manager, Canadian Pacific Railway, from the European Headquarters of the system in London, England:

"The King and Queen of England, accompanied by the Duke and Queen of Italy, Princess Mafalda and the Prince of Piedmont, visited the building of the Canadian Pacific at the Exhibition at Wembley today. They were received by Sir Edward Beatty, Canadian Commissioner for Canada, and J. E. Dalrymple, Vice President in charge of traffic and Wm. Phillips, European manager of the Canadian National Railways.

"Immediately on entering the building, the King and Queen were met by Mrs. D. O. Wood and Mrs. R. B. Tenkte who were greeted by Queen of England and Princess Mafalda of Italy.

"Their Majesties then proceeded to inspect the Jasper Park model. A lively discussion took place between Lord Dalrymple Park's revolving model, all regarding the many interesting topics of the day.

"The Duke of Devonshire, who was present was greatly interested, as we stated, he knew every inch of Jasper Park. The Duke presented to the Kings examined the Canadian National trade exhibit, which is a huge arch showing particular interest in the steering accessories of the latest Canadian National Railways and the route diagrams and transportation chains across the Dominion.

"Before leaving the building Queen Mary commanded Mr. Phillips to forward to Buckingham Palace a silver and gold model of the first mountain type passenger train engines the largest passenger locomotives in service in Canada."

OWL SIDE SLIPPED

A foolish young owl while flying about last night entered through the wall of the Union Bank and was captured by the watchman without any incident. After the night bird was received, he was "took off" and continued his flight.

Contributions to Be Welcomed For Tribute - To Memory of Gallant, Loyal Heroes of Old

On behalf of the United Empire Loyalists Centennial 1924, Mrs. D. O. Mikel, K. C. is calling for subscriptions toward the erection of a suitable memorial to the gallant United Empire Loyalists. In a letter to the editor today he says:

"The proposal to erect a monument to the U. E. Loyalist in the shape of a simple inexpensive representation of a log cabin, such as the pioneer settler endured, has received favorable comment generally.

Those founders of British Canada were settled like sitting hens because they fought through an eight years war in which many gave up their lives. They lost their one hundred million pounds worth of property earned by them before the war, and left to the love of friendship and family, almost total impoverishment. The announcement in the New Republic which is many times quoted, that the Canadian loans and came to an unknown, uninhabited wilderness. When the soldier quits the battlefield he usually receives a commission, but the soldier is greeted by welcoming voices. When those Loyalists who survived the eight year war arrived, they received nurses, few doctors, meager hospital service, no hygienic surroundings, no "sanitary arrangements, quit the battlefield, the home of the pioneer came back the lonely native forest, and the agony that continued day and night in their ears were the growl of the wolf and the howl of the wild.

"The descendants of these noble men and women still live back in the pioneer log cabin. U. E. S.S. Lister, descendant of these early pioneers, has contributed the full price of a contribution of $100 towards this simple memorial. Every U. E. Loyalist in applying may send contributions to Mrs. D. O. Barrager, 18 Holloway St., or J. E. Ketcheson 278 Front St., Belleville. Any number of names and small amounts, it will be thankfully received and faithfully applied.

ADVANCE TIME NIPPED IN BUD BY ALDERMEN

Many Citizens Are Against Tampering With City Clocks

MERCHANTS OPPOSED

Labor Representatives Also Claim Scheme Not To Their Liking

Daylight saving for Belleville was thrown out entirely by the aldermen at the meeting of the city council last night. The proposal, it appeared all the plate of the municipal body this year at least. An amendment sufficient for leaving the matter in abeyance for a time, but was defeated when the motion for no action was passed. A petition from merchants and others showed a great many of the citizens strongly against the scheme.

Speaking to the petitioning men and others attached their names to the petition. After some discussion the Council supported the petition by passing a motion to not interfere in the matter which means that there will be no daylight saving time in Belleville.

Ex-Alderman F. R. Fairfield spoke in support of the petition, strongly claiming that the merchants generally were opposed to the proposition, claiming that it was not a good thing unless observed by the whole country. Mr. E. Dickens also spoke against the proposal.

Col. O'Flynn—"About 25 percent of the merchants that I have spoken to opposed to the scheme, Many had received him to oppose it.

Labor Is Not Favoring Class

Wm. Parish stated that many of those interested in labor were not in opposition. George Doyle, President of the Trades Council, stated that daylight saving was not for the advantage to the farmers or the labor.

J. W. Cook said it was not in the interests of the farmers or anybody in the city to have daylight saving. He would like the matter to be submitted to the people at the polls before it got approval.

The petition was referred to the committee of the whole and Council went into committee. The election was communications and petitions, Ald. Foot in the Chair.

The petition against daylight saving was presented by Ald. Robinson supported, seconded by Ald. Gardiner that Council take no action in the matter. Ald. Gardiner moved a recommendation that the matter be laid over for a few days for further consideration.

Ald. Gardiner—"The railway men are almost unanimous against this daylight saving proposition."

Ald. Robinson spoke in favor of daylight saving, as he considered it would not work any hardship. He would like to see the merchants try daylight saving during the summer months. However, he wanted the matter laid over for further consideration.

A petition was being circulated in favor of daylight saving and he would like to see it completed.

Upon a vote being taken, the amendment was carried and the motion of Ald. Robinson adopted.

Gwen Wins Race With Trusty Tip

Also Goes up in Plane; Audience With President Arranged

Gwen Lanier spent Monday night at the United States Training Camp, in Texas, but she left it with a flying ace who doubtless wears the blue ribbon of the U. S. Army Air Service for the great kind of a ride. She has been in the Lone Star State since January, and President Coolidge is being arranged. Mayor Hale Brown, of Texas, is a cousin from Gwen Here is it.

Monday night Miss Lanier spent two days in Washington, Delaware, at-tended a horse show, and on Sunday she rode Trusty Tip to a blue ribbon in the races. In the afternoon I attend the polo matches with the officers of a large internal college dance at night On Sunday I stayed with friends at Ft Mills and am now on my way to the United States Training Camp where I will be over night. I am gonna in my self-made aeroplane for an appointment with President Coolidge I am very grateful for me by one of it side de camps.

WORKERS SWING INTO LAST LAP

Proportions of Celebration Grow Greater Day By Day

EXPECT HUGE CROWDS

Children Likely to Get at Least Two Holidays

As each day goes by, the 146th anniversary of the settlement of Upper Canada by the United Empire Loyalists looks bigger and better. Chairman Charles Hanna of the Citizens' committee with his hard working officials, spent two and half hours last night, arranging the many details which crop up when business is being done on such a large scale.

Arrangements were made with Mr. Larry M. Knowles, Pageant Master for the impressive presentation of the pageant, which will be presented at the agricultural grounds by five hundred people. Committees were named, and the resolution submitted by Mayor Wills, whereby it was agreed to pay the $3,000 cheque received from the Provincial government over to the Citizens' committee, carried unanimously. With the $1,000 grant already received by Ald. Gardiner that Council take no action in the matter. Ald. Gardiner moved a recommendation that the matter be laid over for a few days for further consideration.

Ald. Gardiner—"The railway men are almost unanimous against this daylight saving proposition."

Ald. Robinson spoke in favor of daylight saving, as he considered it would not work any hardship. He would like to see the merchants try daylight saving during the summer months. However, he wanted the matter laid over for further consideration.

Couriers In Gasoline Buggy Working Fast; Carry News of Celebration to Many Centres

Leo Manley and Percy Hart, the two gasoline couriers, who left Belleville last Tuesday by motor for Detroit, to set up large posters on the highway and in the different towns and cities enroute, advertising the United Empire Loyalists Celebration, reached that city at 11.30 p.m. Saturday night. The first night of the journey was spent in Oshawa. From there they worked to Toronto and spent the second night. The Queen city was well covered, as well as the intervening towns to Hamilton. On the third day they started on again to London. The car has already been to London and Detroit was covered in a day.

The contracting letters to friends in this city, say they were well received in the towns and villages and that much enthusiasm was displayed over the celebration.

After spending a few days in Detroit which they will cover thoroughly will U. E. posters, they will go to Niagara via the southern shores of Lake Erie and to Lake Ontario to Rochester, then to Hamilton. On the third day they will retrace their route to Niagara and again to London. The car has already been to London and Detroit was covered in a day.

Outlook Is Dull For Employment

Not as Much Construction in District, Lorne Green Reports

Mr. Lorne Green, officer in charge of the certain provincial Employment Bureau here, concurred with the recent report of employment on march also Ontario, when seen by The Intelligencer today.

"It is rather quiet, in fact the situation is not as bright as it was the time last year," explained Mr. Green. "There is an apparent laxity the year in construction and there is less work as compared to last.

Asked what he meant by stating in his weekly report that considerable construction work is promised for the future, Mr. Green stated that the erection of the Public Library on Victoria Park would supply employment to a number of men, as would the erection of structure work on the Belleville-Trenton road would also mean employment for many.

It will be remembered that W. H. Ferland, M. L. A. of Hastings East, has recently asking action for better road between the town of Trenton and this city.

Mr. Green reports a steal demand for farm help and several men have been placed with farmers in the Moira district, partially experienced, nearly almost help. There are a few farms to be rented in this district. They are a good type of man too, and should make good.

ON ROUND-THE-WORLD TRIP

Vancouver, May 28— One hundred and twenty-five around-the-world tourists reached Vancouver this morning today by C. P. R. S. S. Empress of Canada, first liner to arrive here so far this season. The "Empress of Canada's" special has been scheduled to proceed to Montreal, arriving at 10 o'clock, with a six-hour stopover at Banff on Monday.

Lucky Daddy Is Now Exempted For $500 On Every Child In Family Under Income Tax

Ottawa, May 28.—Remaining budget resolutions passed the House last night. These were the resolutions dealing with the tax rate from six to five per cent., increasing the tax on insurance from three to four and the further resolution increasing the income tax exemption of single men from $300 to $500, and amending the Income Tax Act in other particulars. One such is to "render certain" Income Tax law. Another shall take priority over all legislative validly taken prior to the time at which the lien arises.

Discussion was detailed but, there was no repetition of the bitter attack and retort which marked proceedings on the previous day.

In the evening W. C. Good of Brant, brought up newspaper clippings that under the previous Government certain firms had received income and business profits tax they should have paid. Mr. Good declar ed that he had authentic information to Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. J. A. Robb.

Hon. J. A. Robb, acting Minister of Finance, replied that Mr. Fielding, acting on Mr. Good's representations, had had an investigation made. The reputable auditors in the particular assessment concerned and the auditors had come to the conclusion that the assessment was fair and just. Premier King added that if any specific charges were made against any department of the Government he would undertake to see that there was an investigation.

Cheese Maker Is Honored Monday

Marmora Agricultural Society Presents Him With Gold Watch

Many were in attendance at a picnic held on Monday at the fair grounds of the Agricultural Society of Marmora. During the afternoon a presentation was made to Mr. John Flanagan of a gold watch suitably engraved, with chain, as recognition by the County of Hastings of the distinction he has won in the prize in the old Country for the best cheese made in Canada.

The presentation was made by Mr. A. E. Wilson, Warden of the County of Hastings, and short addresses were made by Mr. Palmer and Chairman W. H. Nugent, County Clerk, G. B. Aylsworth, Reeve of Marmora Village, R. E. Bonter, Reeve of Marmora and Lake, and Mr. Lind, Dairy Inspector. Mr. Ed. O'Connor, President of the District Fair Association, acted as chairman.

Horse races and other sports were provided for the spectators.

UNNECESSARY INSULT SAYS JAP PROFESSOR

(Special To The Intelligencer)

Vancouver, B.C., May 28.—The Japanese people look upon the exclusion bill as an unnecessary insult," said Professor Kenzo Adachi, of Waseda University, who reached Vancouver yesterday on the Canadian Pacific Steamer Empress of Asia. "I am sure the people of Japan will be pained to be told with regard to the signing of the bill by President Coolidge," President Coolidge. "We cannot understand why we are to be sent a bill, because the Japanese Government has been observing the so-called gentlemen's agreement faithfully and sincerely, in prohibiting labourers from coming to America.

CAST OF 500 TO TAKE PART IN BIG SHOW

There Can't Be Too Many Girls Pageant Master Says

GORGEOUS SPECTACLE

Kiwanians and Others Put Weight Behind Historical Drama

"Too many girls,—the thing's impossible".

That is the way Larry M. Knowles feels about the situation in connection with the great pageant which will hold sway on the agricultural grounds here during the monster U. E. L. celebration in June. Mr. Knowles is Pageant Master, and is commencing to wrestle right away for the pageant ballets, and he hopes to see the Armouries crowded to-night with Belleville girls at 7.30. Elsewhere in this issue an advertisement appears asking for girls who will take part in the big historical pageant, and Mr. Knowles contemplates taking a part should appear at the Armouries to-night at 7.30. Rehearsals commence immediately as Mr. Knowles wishes each girl to learn the steps, then learn to do them as a whole, and then put them all in the girls do them together, so that it will be a real show.

Last night at the meeting of the Citizens' Committee, Chairman Hanna stated that the pageant is four thousand people to jam the grounds each night, and the magnificent spectacle, with the gorgeous lighting effects. The admission will be fifty cents.

Through the kindness of Major D. Ponton, Kiwanis Club is staging the most excellent spirit of unselfish co-operation. Practices will be held in the Armouries will be placed at the disposal of Mr. Knowles free of charge for rehearsals, and all that it will cost will be the lighting. Rehearsals will be held each day and night until the big celebration. Miss Marion Chapman to-day with a view of securing the assistance for the rehearsals, and the following committees were appointed to work with Mr. Knowles as last night's meeting:

Talent and Costumes—Mrs. F. Pole, chairman; Mrs. Marion Woodbury, Professor Albert Edmonds, I. Holton, George Lee, Robert Gorman, R. Potter, Jack Dunham, Dr. F. Malott and Mr. J. Doyle.

Property committee—Ernest Pinchi, chairman; Harry Stevens, W. Davidson, Dick Phibbs and Wallie Jackson.

Chaperones are to be appointed to maintain discipline among the various ballet groups during rehearsal, and to look after the property and business now, in connection with the historical pageant.

A Useful History

In conversation with Mr. Knowles this morning, he stated that the pageant will tell in story song, tableaux and dance the settlement of Upper Canada since the first settlement here of the Loyalists in 1784. A cosmopolitan cast of five hundred people will appear, and it is necessary to tell the interesting story of that period of time. All will readily appreciate the rich historical association of Belleville by the Bay.

Belleville, Kiwanis Club, Canada Club, I anticipate and request the interest of the Belleville citizens, as described as being a bewildering blaze of entertainment color based on a gig thought.

Mr. Knowles again stressed the point that rehearsals are to be hampered by prominent and capable Belleville ladies.

JUST A HINT

Less than three weeks shall pass and the long planned United Empire Loyalist Celebration will be upon us. Have you started to do your part by making your home more attractive?

FEARLESS MR. PORTER

E. Goss Porter, popular member for Hastings in the Federal House, has kept true to the traditions of the great party to which he belongs. Where duty pointed her finger, he has gone, regardless of a danger of losing personal prestige and his seat in parliament.

The Hon. James Murdock, minister of Labor in the King Cabinet, undertook a line of conduct which on the face of it seemed unbecoming to a member of parliament and threatened to cost Dieredit de Parliament itself. It is alleged that he sought personal gain as a member of the cabinet when he withdrew his personal moneys from a branch of the Home bank, shortly before that institution collapsed. Whether the minister be guilty or not, remains to be proven. The verdict of guilty or not guilty has yet to come and it is to be hoped that after a thorough inquiry, he may be called innocent. The more free Canada is from affairs that have a "Teapot Dome" tinge, the better will it be for Liberals and Conservatives and, it follows, Canada as a country.

But it remains that the member for Hastings, believing that circumstances needed to be cleared up, has been willing to raise charges, understanding that if they are not substantiated, he shall be in danger of losing his seat.

Under the eyes of all Canada, it took courage to follow the course Mr. Porter adopted. Yet he is not alone. The electors of Hastings who sent him to parliament will be proud to back up a representative who is man enough to stand by his convictions. They will follow the accounts of the investigation with eager interest, will share his misfortune if he fails and will glory in his success.

The sooner Canada is being directed once more by men of Mr. Porter's stamp, farther and truer, the sooner will the country step into the stride it is due to take following a noble wartime effort.

GUARDIANS OF CIVILIZATION

The president of the United States has signed his name to the bill of congress by which it shall be almost as hard for a native of Japan to enter the United States as it is said it shall be for a rich man to enter through the Pearly Gates. That western civilization may be threatened by the invasion of its homs by the yellow race is one of the reasons contributing to the passing of the bill in the country to the south of us.

Well may we guard Christian ideals. Ancient Rome was jealous of her standard of living and resented the intrusion of the heathen and the uncivilized.

Nevertheless upwards of two thousand years have rolled away and the glory of the Roman Empire is long since faded. It failed, while watching others, to watch itself.

There is a warning for people of the North American continent in that history lesson.

Could it not be more than an idle thought to see Japan holding the rights to super-civilization two thousand, three thousand years from now?

THE PLACE OF THE MERCHANT

The way [illegible] now decided to follow Belleville clerks go their way [illegible] Eastern Standard time, leaving the field of frills and fads to Toronto and Kingston. Their action was governed largely by the desire of the merchants of the city.

Not many municipalities in Ontario bestow upon their retail men the consideration that Belleville gives. Yet the situation is not an unhealthy one. There are more stores in this community in proportion to the population than elsewhere in the country. The retail trade is a most important factor in the life of the city. The progress of Belleville is linked up with their success.

In reason, it is wise to listen to them make them think straight. The man who tills the soil absorbs knowledge of the laws of nature—and those laws regulate all human activities. Nothing is more powerful than a garden to impress children with the fact that nature makes man pay t he full price for every joy, every folly, every neglect, and that while effort occasionally is fruitless, it brings sure returns by the law of average. It is the life—all seeds do not sprout in the garden, nor all efforts in the battle for success

MONEY TO BURN

Kingston Standard

The Hotel Seibe in Paris, on, which the Government has already expended over $2,750,000 was offered to the C.P.R. for $1,400,000—and offer was refused by President Beatty. The Government seems to think it has money to burn.

HE EARNED IT

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

A question in the house of commons brought out the information the other day that Rev Charles Gordon (Ralph Connor) was paid $14,675 for his services as private secretary and chaplain for four years, three months and twenty-eight days with the Canadian Expeditionary Forces. It might be interesting to know how the money was divided. How much, for instance, was he paid as captain and how much as chaplain? But, no doubt, he earned the money.

NO LIBERAL CANDIDATE

Mail and Empire

We understand that ex-Mayor Maguire will not be a candidate in North West Toronto. It looks very much indeed as if no Liberal candidate would be nominated for that riding.

CONDUCIVE TO SINCERITY

Hamilton Herald.

The Winnipeg Free Press, which is anti-protectionist, expects a realignment of the political parties on the tariff question, the protectionist Liberals joining the Conservative party and the free-trade Liberals coalescing with the Progressives. It welcomes the change. Well, it would conduce to sincerity in politics, anyhow.

GETTING BACK TO GOLD

Ottawa Journal

The opinion is expressed in the May bulletin of the Royal Bank that Canada could now, with safety and advantage, restore her currency to the gold basis. It will be remembered that immediately after the outbreak of war in 1914 a general moratorium was declared, coincidentally with the suspension of gold payments. The step was taken as a measure of safety. It no doubt had something to do with the discount which our dollars suffered in the American market during succeeding years but subsequently events demonstrated rather convincingly that it was a minor factor in the situation. Our currency has frequently been at par in New York, and on one or two occasions at a premium, notwithstanding the fact that we have not yet returned to gold payments.

WAR RECORDS FORGIVEN.

Buffalo Express

Ramsay MacDonald was one of the most hated Britons in Britain during the war. He is now Prime Minister. Mr. Asquith, a former minister of the interior in France, was banished for five years because of his attitude during the war. He has been elected to the Chamber of Deputies and is a sufferer from failing, apparently, to form a ministry to replace Poincare, who has been ignominiously defeated.

War records no longer seem to count in Britain and in France. But if Malvy or any other "premier of the left" in power in France approaches the national and Allied problems in the spirit which is the wisdom that has been displayed by Ramsay MacDonald, France will not have made a change for worse.

The Secret Out

By W. H. G.

Never in the history of baseball was there such wild excitement, such breathsided enthusiasm as when the Auburn fans nine defeated the Arlingtons in the race for the pennant last year when the ownership of the coveted flag depended on one game.

Only two men knew how that game got won, and we would not have told story now had not Joe Atkinson, the former manager of the Auburnsdale team, disclosed the facts when under the influence of a generous meal.

At the end of the eighth innings of that riotous game, the Arlingtons led a head of five runs. Five thousand home fans were uproarious.

In the first half of the ninth, Auburndale, or the "Reds" as they were called, tied the score by a wonderful streak of luck and for good measure brought in another run, making the score 6-2 in Auburndale's favor.

Then, in the second half, visiting fans went wild.

Fate, however, took another hand, and with two men out, the Arlingtons filled the bases, in the last of the ninth.

Bert McGowan, the famous pinch hitter of the league was sent in to bat.

The grandstand and bleachers presented an unforgettable scene. Hundreds of spectators, spellbound, became mere and women stood to their feet and roared for McGowan to come across for the necessary hit. In one corner of the stand the "Reds" supporters rallied by Williams, the star batter, to strike out the batter.

Down on the diamond the principals played their parts. The three men on bases stood off and waited.

Malcney, catching for Williams, called encouragement. Williams at bat, smiled confidently at the pitcher, and swung his bat vigorously back and forth.

Want Athletic Grounds

E. D. O'Flynn presented a petition relative to athletic grounds be established on Coleman flats. The petition was signed by about 400 citizens. The city owns some property on Coleman flats, hence the initial expense would not be so great, it was stated. The council was asked to look carefully into this matter. Col.- O'Flynn had not presented the petition to the Parks Board.

Ald. Graham said he understood the Parks Board had acquired the property they had in view.

The petition was referred to the committee of the whole and discussed.

Ald. Greenleaf moved that the petition be referred to the Parks Board to report upon it.

In answer to an enquiry, Ald. Green leaf said that a first payment had been made upon property in West Belleville by the Parks Board and the Board had options on other property.

Ald. McCreary—"The Parks Board has done something that they legally had no right to do. They had no authority under the Parks Act to do this."

He suggested that the petition be referred to the City Engineer to report upon.

Referred to Park Board

The petition was referred to the Parks Board and City Engineer for consideration.

Much other business of an important nature was transacted. Chiefly was the adoption of the estimates for the year. The rate this year will be 40 mills being an increase of two and a half mills over that of last year. Reasons for the increase were explained by Ald. McCrery, chairman of the Executive Committee. A petition was presented asking the proposition to have daylight saving in the city and the Council after some discussion adopted a resolution that no action be taken in the matter regarding daylight saving.

A petition was also presented by Col. O'Flynn relative to converting Coleman flats into an athletic field. This matter was referred to the Parks Board and the City Engineer to report upon.

Members present at the Council meeting were Mayor Mikel, Aldermen C.E. Foster, R. Gardiner, R.J.E. Graham, H.W. Greenleaf, A. H. Ketcheson, D.W. Ketcheson, A.E. La Roche, W.R. McCreary, W.H. Patterson, A. Robinson, S.H. Treverton and R.P. White.

Bylaws Passed

In committee of the whole on bylaws with Ald. Foster in the chair, the following bylaws were introduced by Ald. McCreary:

A bylaw to adopt the estimated receipts and expenditures for the year 1924.

A bylaw to authorize the levying and collecting of taxes for the purpose of Roman Catholic separate school for the year 1924.

A bylaw to authorize the levying and collection of taxes for municipal patriotic purposes for the year 1924.

A bylaw to authorize the levying and collecting of taxes for High School purposes for the year 1924.

A bylaw to authorize the levying and collecting of taxes for public school purposes for the year 1924.

A bylaw to grant aid to the Women's Christian Association being a society for the maintenance of the general hospital for the treatment of the sick in the city of Belleville.

A bylaw to appoint a collector of taxes to collect the various taxes on the city.

To Put Down Sidewalk

A motion prevailed that a concrete sidewalk be constructed on the south side of Memorial Park on Station street from where it now leaves off to Clifton Road under the local improvement Act.

LONG LIVED BALL PLAYERS

A New York sporting writer has been looking up the baseball players who are still going strong.

He finds that Ty Cobb, Walter Johnson, Cy Williams and Gowdy, are not of the fat type, but rather lean and wiry.

He reminds his readers that Cy Young, Larry Lajoie, and Christy Mathewson carried no weight during their long careers on the diamond. There were one or two exceptions, but in a long list enumerated, wiriness was the predominant feature of the build of these ball players, who stayed in the game for many years.

Deaths and Funerals

MRS. MARY L. MINOR

Mrs. Mary Louise Minor, a former resident of this city passed away suddenly in Toronto on Monday. Deceased was in her 62nd year and had resided in the Queen City for some time. A service was held this morning at A. W. Mitz's funeral parlors, Toronto, after which the body was shipped to Belleville for interment in the local cemetery.

The sporting writer's comment was "to last a long time you must fast a long time."

If you are overweight, you are carrying just that much excess baggage.

And just as the railroad makes you pay for excess baggage, so does Nature make you pay for excess fat carried.

Perhaps you have often wondered why you carried a stress of fat, and yet did not eat any more than your thin friends.

Your system doesn't turn it up as well, that's all.

Now, is that so bad sign?

No! To have an extra tire to seven pounds on you is really a good sign. It is a run of reserve as it were.

But excess fat means interference with the various organs of the body, an actual limiting of their functions in the body.

Further, your physician will tell you that the mortality in severe illnesses like typhoid and pneumonia, is high in fat people.

Fat persons are not good surgical risks.

Apoplexy occurs more frequently in fat people.

You see if you are a bit heavy, you are less inclined to do for yourself. You will ride in a motor or street car when you should walk. You are apt to try and save yourself from exertion in various little ways. This means a great deal to that entire body of yours.

Your muscles will begin to get flabby, your lungs will expand less because they are not asked to do much. Your heart muscle will likewise get weaker because it has to going too much work. No way in keep it strong you know except by exercise. Yes, grave errors weight is only one way. That is by eating. You have a good appetite.

You can get rid of it in just two ways.

Cut down on your bodies and your starches and take a little regular exercise.

DISSOLVES MARRIAGE

Montreal, May 28.—Because a marriage between a Roman Catholic and a Jew celebrated by a Protestant minister at Windsor, Ont., had been contracted by the parties solely through the parties desiring to evade the laws of the Province of Quebec in regard to marriage, Mr. Justice Bruneau in the Practice Division of the Superior Court here, gave judgment dissolving the marriage, ... but now ...

SLEEPING SICKNESS SPREADS

London, May 28.—The death from sleeping sickness of a man as prominent as C. Bower Ismay, ship owner and brother of J. Bruce Ismay, has had the effect of focussing public attention on the alarming spread of that mysterious disease, technically known as encephalitis lethargica, in a manner more pronounced than the deaths of many unknown individuals. The disease has always been sporadic in England, but the annual average of cases never exceeded 200 until 1921, when more than 1,000 were registered.

Since that time there has been a gradual increase until during the last two months the weekly average of cases has been between 250 and 300, with a mortality of from 12 to 21 per cent. In towns, which were chiefly affected, such as London, Birmingham, Sheffield, Bristol, and Manchester.

Birmingham alone, which has suffered most, has had 150 cases since the beginning of the year.

DON'T UNDERSTAND RACE SUICIDE

Montreal, May 28.—Seven families just arrived in the Dominion appear to have established a record in immigration with 11 adults and 44 children of various ages.

Markets

New York, N.Y., May 28.—The market opened somewhat heavy this morning, and continued inactive and somewhat lower throughout the session. The Cleveland Reserve Bank has reduced its re-discount rate from 4 to 3½%. U.S. Rubber showed some weakening again. The weekly reviews of the Iron & Steel Industries say that developments of the past few days have crystalized the belief that the low point in this industry has been reached or is near. Pig Iron buying has been resumed on a satisfactory basis. Cast Iron pipe displayed a little weakness selling down to 87¼ from a recent high of 90. Motor stocks were dull without any appreciable price change. Chandler quoted from 44½ to 44¾. Montreal Power ranged from 165½ to 166. Endicott this market in marking time with New York.

POSTIES' SALARIES UP

Ottawa, May 28.—After being shunted and shifted about for two months, the matter of salary revision for the postal workers probably will be disposed of this week. The participants show signs of being weary of it.

COLLEGE TRAINING PAYS WELL

Last fall and through the winter a large number of French Canadian students from Quebec were in attendance at Ontario Business College. Most of these young men have completed their training and gone to business positions. A letter was received this week from one of them who graduated two months ago. Following is the letter:

Edmonton, Alta., May 18, 1924.

Mr. I. L. Moore, Principal,
Ontario Business College,
Belleville Ont.

Dear Mr. Moore—

I have a good situation. I was engaged in Montreal and my expenses were paid from Montreal to Edmonton. I am very glad I took your course. Last year I tried to get this position and I could not pass the requirements; this year I passed them all. My success is due to the training received at Ontario Business College. I wish O. B. C. success in the future.

ROMEO CLERMONT GIVES TANLAC FULL CREDIT

Says It Restored Health and Strength After Years of Suffering

"Tanlac has built me up from almost a skeleton to the finest kind of health and strength," declared Romeo Clermont, 400 Youth Ave., Rosemont, Montreal, Que., recently.

"Day after day for two years I suffered from indigestion, with all its gas, palpitation and weakness, and before taking Tanlac I was badly run-down. I had no force myself to eat anything, severe pains in my stomach and sides tortured me terribly and often at night I had to get up and walk the floor I was so nervous.

"Tanlac has made me feel just like I have always wanted to feel. I have a rousing appetite, never feel a sign of the old troubles, sleep like a log and feel strong and alert. Other members of my family have used Tanlac with excellent results, too."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills, for constipation, made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

"Good-bye, dears,
Be careful to-day"

MOTHER knows the many dangers lurking ahead of the children each day, and constantly instils into them the habits of safety.

Chief among these is personal cleanliness. The danger of infection through dirt is ever present, but children taught to keep clean, to purify hands and face with Lifebuoy Soap, are much less likely to suffer from the thousand possible dangers of the day.

The rich, powerful lather of Lifebuoy does more than cleanse surface dirt—it goes deep down into every pore, driving out impurities and leaving its sanitary protection to guard against infection. Keep a cake of Lifebuoy at every place where there is running water.

A Home where Plaster will never fall

GYPROC
FIREPROOF WALLBOARD

Advantages of Using GYPROC on New Construction.

1 It is permanent. Weather changes will not alter it. GYPROC never shrinks, warps or cracks.

2 SAVES LABOR COST. Applied in but a fraction of the time it requires for lathing and plastering.

3 CLEAN APPLICATION. Sawed and nailed like ordinary lumber. Put on by carpenters. No mixing of plaster or messing of floors.

4 DECORATE IMMEDIATELY. When the last nail is driven decorating can start. Takes paint, paper or Alabastine. Eliminates lath stains, cracks, etc.

5 If you build to sell you have the new selling arguments which will clinch the sale. "Fireproof"—"Repair Proof"—"Cool in Summer"—"Warm in Winter,"—"Less Coal."

HE is a wise man who insists upon the use of GYPROC for the construction of the walls and ceilings in his new house.

Walls and ceilings of GYPROC are unchanged in appearance and efficiency years after ordinary walls of plaster crack and fall.

Rooms finished with GYPROC never will be "badly in need of repair."

The broad, ceiling-high sheets of fireproof GYPROC are applied by the same workmen who erect your house and your home will be ready for occupancy a month earlier than if you used lath and plaster—and the labor costs will be correspondingly lower.

GYPROC makes tight-jointed, smooth non-warping walls and ceilings that will take any kind of decoration immediately when finished. Insist upon GYPROC—it's different than ordinary wallboard—it is permanent.

GYPROC is unequalled for exterior use to replace sheathing.

Former Belleville Boy to Pitch Here

Coming With Guelph Maple Leafs For Game on Tuesday

At the G.W.V.A. celebration on Tuesday next at the Agricultural Park an interesting game of baseball will take place between the G.T.R. team of this city and the Guelph team. Freddie Goyer, a former well-known Belleville pitcher, will be on the mound for the visiting team. The personnel of the teams are as follows:

Maple Leaf team (Guelph)—Paquette, 2b. (formerly of Ottawa); Lesage s.s.; Tremay, (formerly Canadian Club Toronto); Little, c.f.; T. O'Connor, l.f.; Johnson, r.f.; F. O'Connor, 1b.; Paquenotte, c.; Goyer, p.; Henry, p.; Ryan, p.; Marsland, p.; S. Suman, El-liott, Runstadler, Jones, utility men.

Belleville Team—W. Grow, Manager Ouelette, p.; H. Keon, p.; C. Jeffrey, p.; D. Hagerman, utility catcher; C. J. Mills, c.; H. C. Mills, 1st b.; A. Meagher 2b.; G. V. Wey s.s.; J. K. Williams, 3b.; J. W. Boss, c.f.; Jas. Weir, l.f.; G. Casey, r.f.; Jno. R. White, J. M. Armstrong, T. C. Young utility men.

Nationally famous cyclists among members of Apollo Athletic Club, Toronto. Back row: E. Moore, champion long distance rider of winnipeg, 1923; W. Elder, a very promising rider; R. Cumming, Charlie McIlmoltan, F. Martin, captain Apollo team; J. Wilson, L. Simpson, G. Preston, Lew Elder, 5-mile open and champion at London last year. Front row: J. Forsyth, long distance runner at Toronto, 1923; R. Lilliecrop, C. Chartrey, B. Sqyrell, L. Irwin, John W. Gibson, a warm friend of the bicycle game; G. L. McKay, chairman C. W. A. Roving Board, 1923-24, and managing director of the new board saneer at Scarboro Beach; O'Brien, Nunn, James, Art Watson, an old-timer; W. Taylor, Olympic champion, 1920; Fred. McCarty, 5-mile champion, 1923. Lower centre: Geo. Taylor one of the winners of the Dunlop team shield, won by the Apollo team.

Monsieur Ouiette To Go In Again

Manager Gerow Has Picked Him to Handle Kingston Crew

Shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon, Walt Gerow and his Grand Trunk baseball team left for Kingston by motor car where the Railroaders play the Limestone City C.S.R.L. entrants this evening in a regular league nine-cinnige game. The game starts at 6 Kingston time or daylight saving time, which means 5 p.m. Bellevile time.

So successful was pitcher Jack Ouiette against the Ponies here on the holiday, that manager Gerow will send him back against their heavy hitters again this evening. Although the Kingstonians are lefty men who pack a wallop, Ouiette, with his steam ball, and the occasional bonk, was able to retire no less than eleven of them here Monday, which is no mean performance remembering that Daly, Cherry, Compeau and Bateman are heavy sluggers. It is believed that Monsieur Ouiette can stem the tide again to-day, as he usually heaves nice ball in Kingston, and with the warm weather and his control and speed should be improved, and accelerated respectively. "Big Peenie" will go in behind, and the line up will be precisely the same as it was here Victoria Day.

Trunks feel that Manager Daly may send the old warhorse Ted Callaghger against the Moguls. Gallagher is a portsider and well known as a beaver in this district. Trunks would like to face the cool headed Kelly to-day, for the way they mixed up the fine assortment here Monday makes them believe that they could knock his offerings for several "goals".

While Belleville and Kingston are having it out, Jake Solomon's Peterboro Petes will be trying their luck against Chuck Schultz and his automotive nine at the Industrious city of Oshawa.

ON THE ALLEYS

The "Mah Jongg finished up three pin-spiing league with another win at the Recreation Alleys, last night when they played the Strollers. The Mah Jongg came within a few pins of the alley record when they rolled them for a total score of 2221. Miss Geyer was high for the Mah Jongg with 329 and Miss Harris was high for the Strollers.

In the Junior league game the Steel Moulders won from the Cyclists by over 200 pins, Dolbeer and Baker rolling the highest scores for their teams. Players and scores:

CARRIED BABY; ROBBED BANK

Farmington, Ills., May 28—A woman carrying a baby held up the bank in Farmington yesterday afternoon and Farmington yesterday afternoon and according to the police, at the point of a pistol, forced employees of the bank to hand over the money and escaped in an automobile.

Bowlers, Strong and Gentle, Mingle Soon At Annual Feast; Wray to Be Chairman

Captains of teams, and other keen bowlers of bowling at the Recreation Alleys this season gathered around Frank Demmies last evening and decided to hold the annual banquet for the gallant and fair patrons two weeks from last night, June 30.

The sport has been so popular this past winter and spring that it has become a question as to whether it will be possible to get up enough enthusiasm for all who will want to attend. It is possible that the sale of tickets may be limited to 75 or 100 persons.

A long-up evening of fun is being planned and a merry time is in store for the guests. Mr. Robert Wray was appointed chairman for the evening and Mr. George Lee is to be responsible for arranging an unique program. Efforts are being made to secure, if not as popular as possible, the number who will want to attend and a committee has been chosen to locate a suitable banquet hall.

Tennis Club Is After New Courts

Increased Membership Demands More Accommodation; First Draw Made

The tennis season is now in full swing as may easily be witnessed by anyone passing the Armouries these fine last week or so. The courts are in very fair shape, although there has been a greatly increased membership this year, everyone who has joined has been eager to get out and play.

The result is that the club now has a long list more courts to accommodate all who want to play. The club executive is now busy trying to get more room to erect new courts, and they ask the members to just be a little patient for a few days until the matter is completed. They are determined that everyone who wants to play shall have the courts to play on.

The annual tournament has commenced. The first draw has been made for the men's and ladies' singles. Members are requested to consult the notice board to see who their opponents are and arrange to play off as soon as possible. The losing contestant must be spry by Saturday. There are going to be some very fine contests this year, because most of the players are evenly matched.

Among the men Bessette, Parker, Armstrong, Pinkerton and Hall are all potential winners, while the ladies who were so strong last year, Mrs. Sinclair and Miss Lee, are likely to have some difficult matches, with a few of the High School girls who are showing up so well this year. The results of each days play will be announced in this paper.

Sport Notes

The New York Americans Saturday announced the release of Pitcher Robert Johnson and Catcher Merlin Activity to the Pittsfield Club of the Eastern League under optional agreements. Johnson was recalled recently from the Des Moines Club of the Western League.

Another one for the "book." In the New York-Detroit game on Saturday, Babe Ruth came to the first frame, one ball rebounding in front of the plate, and Pitcher Pennock threw the batter, out to Pipp on first.

The Pittsburg National League club announced the sale by the waiver route of Pitcher Ray Schmeder to the Philadelphia Nationals. Schmeder went to the Pirates in 1920 from Montclair, N. J., where he had played semi-professional ball.

Black Gold, three-year-old champion runner owned by Mrs. H. M. Hoxie of Tulsa, Okla., won the first $5,000 Celia Blue Derby, a mile and an eighth, in 1.57⅗ over a muddy course at Maple Heights, Cleveland, Ohio. Sun B. A. Owen's colt, was over second Dunoon, owned by J. J. Russell. Third, Jockey J. N. Mooney rode Frank Gold to this third lucky victory in the handsome black stallion having previously won the Kentucky and Louisiana classics. Only four horses started in the race. Blue Streak finished fourth.

Not Assessable Bootlegger Avers

Ottawa, May 28—Are profits made in bootlegging liable to income tax?

This is the remarkable question on which argument is being heard by Judge Audette in the exchequer court. Cecil R. Smith, a young prospector of Windsor, claims that such profits are not liable to income tax inasmuch as the statute cannot recognize occupations that are illegal.

The statement of claim filed in court states that Smith has been engaged in addition to his occupation in the business of trafficking in liquors in Ontario and that he never had a license. The statement further alleges that profit made in the illicit trade in liquors is not liable under the power of taxation and contrary to the provisions of the Ontario Temperance Act, and any profits alleged to have been made by him were earned in his illicit trade in liquor."

Not a Business

George D. McKeown, of Windsor, that appointed counsel for appellant's case in the court.

"Any proposition to this," said Mr. McKeon, "the man is engaged in a trade which is not legal and is not recognized as a business in any place and I am asking your lordship to say that it is not a business."

If it is not a business it is a gain, and that is the statement of the plaintiff's counsel, Judge Audette.

"Say It With Bargains" Says Head of Local Firm

In discussing the coming Anniversary Sale celebrating the first year in their present store, Mr. S. Krech of the Canadian Store said; "We are not going to say 'Thank You' to the public who have helped us build this business with flowers, or music or souvenirs nit with something that we think they will appreciate a whole lot more and that is BARGAINS. After all the average family has to consider its expenditures. No use fooling ourselves the cost of living is high and whenever and wherever a family can save money it is eager to do so. We recognize this fact and that is why we have devoted weeks of planning to this Anniversary event. It starts on Friday, May 30th; to assemble merchandise needed—practically—at these big savings. That's our idea of showing appreciation to the Public." To-morrow evening's paper will carry a full page announcement of the coming event.

Give Love Token To the Departing

Holloway Street Congregation Remember Mrs. Booth and Miss Martin

The Ladies' Aid of Holloway St. Church had a tea at the home of Mrs. Murdoff, Holloway street Tuesday afternoon. There were about thirty-five present.

The ladies assisting Mrs. Murdoff were Mrs. Bacon, Mrs. McCutcheon, Miss Irene Woodley, Miss Winnie Black, Miss Gladys Bailey, Miss Marjorie Hudgins and Miss Thelma Hicks. A splendid program was given, Miss Wrightmeyer giving a solo, a duet by her and sweet voice, solos songs by Miss Woodley, Miss Bailey and Miss Bailey, which were highly appreciated by the ladies. Mrs. Hudgins showed her great talent by giving a reading which was very interesting.

A presentation was made then to Miss Ida Martin and Mrs. Grace Booth of a purse of money. Mrs. Moorman reading the address and Miss Wickett presenting it. The address was as follows:

"We, who are here assembled, with others whom we represent, desire to avail ourselves of this opportunity to express our deep regret at your removal from our midst. You have been active in every secondary of Christian fellowship and have contributed much to every service, which we have sought to render to the church and the community. More than this, you have given to us in many things, an inspiring friendship, which we have been glad to follow, and which has led the way to success. Your high ideal have found practical expression and you have been examples to us in all good things. We deplore the loss which we sustain. May we indulge the hope that your absence from us will only be temporary, and that some day we shall have the joy of welcoming you back to our midst, no, we shall cherish precious memories and will pray that you may find quiet residence, and that you may always be safe in the Heavenly Father's keeping.

Gift is a Token

"We ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a small token of our regard and our wish to add to the comforts of your southward journey. It is but in equal proportions as the lawyers say, 'share and share alike.' We cannot say either in word or deed, all that we would like to say at this time, but we fill up the measure with abounding and abiding love. On behalf of Holloway St. Church Congregation, (Signed) Mrs. Priory, Mrs. Walters, Mrs. Wickett, Mrs. Dr. Dupreau."

Mrs. Booth and Miss Martin responded to this in their usual loving and kind way. God be with you, till we meet again' was sung after which Miss Martin led in prayer. A dainty lunch was then served.

WORLD APPEAL FOR NEW FILM FEATURE

An International audience is assured the Associated Authors screen version of Sir Hawtrey Smith's "The Tattooman," produced under the film title of "Richard, the Lion-Hearted," and coming Thursday, Friday and Saturday day to the Griffin theatre under an Allied Producers and Distributors Corporation release.

Few novels ever written enjoyed greater popularity than this tale of the adventures met by King Richard when he returned with his Queen Berengaria, the knights and ladies of his court, and his army of crusaders to Joppa, Palestine, to fight Sultan Saladin and the forces standing for possession of the Holy Land and the Holy Sepulchre.

Both whose tales are popular in England and on the continent as well as in America was the first writer to popularize the historical novel. Millions of readers have thrilled over her adventures of the great Richard as retold in "The Talisman" and the new production, which has been faithfully supervised by Frank E. Woods, Elmer Harris and Thompson Buchanan promises to take rank with the most popular productions of the year.

Aside from the appeal as a colossal, spectacular drama, featuring Walter Hiers and all star cast of the best Screen-made inquiries poured in to Associated Authors from schools and churches in the list of "exhibitors for a standard production" and, indeed, the story itself" has the appearance not only of the "fan" support of thousands of readers, but also that of a big cultural drama, but also of the non-theatrical class.

Miss Murray's newest Metro picture, "Mademoiselle Midnight," shows the world star in the glorious turesque Mexican garb in scenes of great drama and beauty; in which she also portrays a belle of old France.

KATHERINE MACDONALD
COMING HERE IN "REFUGE"

The feature at the Regent Theatre Thursday to Saturday will be "Refuge," a Paramount picture starring Katherine MacDonald and produced by R. R. Schubert. Victor Schertzinger directed "Refuge," from an original story by Lois Zellner.

There are many distinctive features about "Refuge," and it is declared to be the finest picture in which Miss MacDonald has ever appeared. She plays the role of Countess Olga, wife of the prime minister of a political intrigue in a European kingdom, and finds herself involved in the plots and conspirators plotting against the throne. Danger confronts her at every turn and she has many exciting adventures before the occasion of the coronation of the young and rightful possessor reclaim it.]

The supporting cast includes Hugh Thompson, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Eric Mayne, Lucien Littlefield, Lydia Knott, Thomas Russell, Gunnis Davis, and Mathilde Brundage.

JOY OF HEALTH-WOMAN'S RIGHT

Mrs. Evans Freed from Female Weakness by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"I had female weakness with pains in my back and I could not stand for any length of time. I was working in a factory but had to give it up. I was confined to my bed. Nothing helped me until I commended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am perfectly well. I can do anything I want to do. I am strong and can go out like other women and feel free from nervousness. I also took your medicine first I thought it would cure for the time being but I am glad my husband kept me at it. Now I am glad to say that I am well.—Mrs. JENNY EVANS, 1604 Lafayette Blvd., Detroit, Michigan.

If you are suffering from displacements, irregularities, backache, nervousness or any other forms of female weakness, you should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The reason is given in letters like these, and in the confidential records of them. You may expect that a medicine which has helped other women will help you. Try it.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful when you wash it. Don't use any ordinary shampoo or anything else that contains too much free alkali. This dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

You get three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, it makes a creamy lather of rich, creamy quality, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations. Look for the name Watkins on the package.

JUNE

I come from the land of the silver moon,
I kiss the ring-clouds from the sky;
I dance on the earth with my downy shoon
And scatter the s'ar-dust from on high:
My name is June—sweet June.

I go to the confluence, whose eyes are blue,
And plight my troth in babies' eyes;
I wake the roses, kiss them with dew,
Then sprinkle them with the dawn-lit sighs
They call me June—sweet June.

I steal to the rivers in twilight dim,
And lay the shadows cooling and deep;
I go to the hills with the pine trees slim,
There 'midst their dreaming, I go asleep
They know I'm June—sweet June.

Be Pretty! Turn Gray Hair Dark

TRY GRANDMOTHER'S OLD FAVORITE RECIPE OF SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Nowadays most people prefer to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is more economical, but more troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a ready-to-use preparation of this recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY
CHARLES GARVICE

Jack paused and, affecting to look for his cane under the bridge, glanced at her. A shawl concealed her head and her face, as it was turned from him; but suddenly the shawl slipped slightly, and suddenly the shawl slipped slightly, and suddenly the short murky light Jack caught the glimpse of golden hair—the golden bronze which recalled to him the marvellous colour of Kate Transom's; just as the canary hue of the hair of the woman emerging from the boat had recalled Miss Wood.

"What turned out to be my mysterious baker," said Jack in himself, "had, thank goodness! this girl, though she's got the same coloured hair as Kate Transom, can't be Kate."

At that moment the girl drew a long breath—it was almost a sob—and clinging her arms, let her head fall upon them with a groaning, of infinite despair. Jack drew his head and shoulders from the water to the railing of the bridge and back again.

Instinctively Jack knew what that glance meant; she was thinking about throwing herself over. He strode across the roadway and laid his hand upon her arm in almost a touch.

She uttered a low cry and turned her head; the shawl fell from her face, and to his amazement he saw that it was Kate Transom.

Neither oftenm spoke for a moment, but gazed at each other with mutual wonder and incredulity. Her face was absolutely white, for a moment, and there was a puzzled look about her cheeks, as one who does not know why, for he had once been one of a party that had lain for way in the hope of getting without food for three days. If he could believe his eyes, and there was no denying, this was Kate Transom whom he had left at Vancouver, Kate Transom alone in London and apparently penniless.

She continued to gaze at him, as if she indeed were in a dream, whatever it might be, and Jack, feeling nothing on a vision Then Jack spoke her name.

"Kate!" he said, in astonishment. "Is it you?"

At the sound of his voice, a look came upon her face as if she were awakening from a dream, and her lips, red as coral lips, her eyes closed for a moment, then opened upon him, as he spoke in tones of tenderness and then with a look of fear and apprehension, which completely transformed her face.

"Jack!" she said last, at last! she breathed; and she dropped back against the rail of the bridge and grasped it with her hand while she other extended to her heart.

"Yes, it's I," said Jack. "This is a strange meeting! How do you come here?" Why are you down-and-out are alone, are you not?"

"Yes," she said, almost in a whisper. She was trembling now, and the hand with which she tried to draw the shawl round her head shook like a leaf; but her eyes were still fixed upon him steadily, eyes that seemed to burn, in their agony of fear, with the appearance from the haggard pallor of her face.

"Jack, is that all you can say?" she said, that she was scarcely able to speak, either for fear or emotion.

"Take my arm, Kate," he said; for the "Miss Transom" seemed too formal and inappropriate to the circumstances. "Let me help you. You are ill, I am afraid."

She shook her head.

"No," she said. "I am not ill."

She moved forward, and mechanically he moved with her.

"Where are you going?" he asked, "is it far from here? Are you alone, or with friends. If it's far I don't think you ought to walk, and you look tired, quite."

She looked at him dreamily and shook her head slowly.

"I have no friends; I am not staying anywhere," she said. "I have nowhere to go."

The answer was given quite gravely and simply, and to say that Jack was at first almost struck by astonishment and horror only faintly describes the effect upon him.

"No friends! Nowhere to go!" he echoed. "Kate, what has fate been undertaken, Kate! Where are you staying in London—what lodgings?"

She shook her head again, and her eyes drew slowly from his face and hesitant to leave it, and gazed straight before her.

"I am not staying at any place; I have no lodgings," she said, and as she spoke the words in a low monotone not of despair nor woe, but simply uttered in a monotone which had something of resignation in it, peace and contentment.

Jack took her arm more gently, if gently, for it seemed to him as she were only half awake and as if she might leave.

"See here, Kate," he said, "try not explain. I don't want you to. You remember bridge, late at night, and you say that you are alone and that you've no place to go to I can scarcely believe my ears or my eyes. But I tell you as Yankees comfortable and happy—"

She turned her white face upon him, and, with a strange smile, echoed the last word.

"Happy—not happy! ah, not happy!" she said, in a voice that thrilled through him.

"Tell me all about it," he said, gently, soothingly. "When did you come up?"

"Nearly a week ago," she said. "I came scarcely remember—I do not know. The days have passed—" She shuddered. "Jack, I am glad to see you."

She did not look at him, but a faint, smile crept over her face, making it weirdly beautiful.

"And why did you come up?" asked Jack "Why did you leave Vancouver?"

"I came because—" she began, drawing her; then she stopped with a slight flush, "have you been doing—since you came up?"

"I don't know," she answered in the same low voice. "I could not tell you. I have been walking all the time, through the big streets and the quiet streets, resting at night in a doorway or on the seats by the river—I slept there last night—a woman gave me some food —it was a piece of bread—she shared it with me—and—"

"Good God!" exclaimed Jack. "Do you mean to tell me that you've been wandering about London for days and days, and that you've had nothing to eat!"

She listened, with the same smile on her face, as if his words, his voice, were between her and a reality from which offered all the memory of these awful days and nights, and dulled her present pain and sense of weakness.

The Meaning of McLaughlin-Buick Service

THE same far-sighted organization that has placed McLaughlin-Buick in the premier position among Canadian automobiles has also made full provision for a standard of service worthy of the car itself. Few cars require so little service, yet Nation-wide Service is available when the occasion demands.

Twelve factory branches—in the principal cities throughout Canada—reinforced by a network of service stations and authorized dealers, insure prompt and thorough attention to every need of the McLaughlin-Buick owner—either for repairs or spare parts—anywhere in Canada. It is the final factor in determining the choice of "Canada's Standard Car".

Hon. Chas. McRae Boosting Ontario

Through Well-Known Financial Journal He Shows Need Of Capital

BRITISH IS PREFERRED

Quoted as Being Very Optimistic; to Give Square Deal

The following is an interesting interview granted The Financial Times of London, by the Hon. Charles McCrea, K.C., Minister of Mines for Ontario, who is on a visit to the Old Country, for the purpose of pressing the mineral resources of the Province upon the attention of British capitalists. The Times says by way of explanation:

"This is the first mission of its kind that has been undertaken by a Canadian Minister, but the manner of his reception justifies Mr. McCrea to hope that similar successive visits will be persisted in until the Dominion's commercial and industrial situation is dominated by British and Canadian capital.

Mr. McCrea's visit to this country has been undertaken for one specific purpose —namely, that of making known to the English mining industry the possibilities and opportunities presented by Ontario's mineral resources in the hope that English capitalists may be prevailed upon to take a keener interest in that section of the Empire. It is a matter of common knowledge that the Province of Ontario, with an area three and a-half times as large as the British Isles, is practically entirely covered with pre-Cambrian formations—a formation in which the best mineral possibilities lie and the deepest mines have been developed. So far only the outer edge of this vast mineral territory has been reached, but in the course of a conversation which a representative of The Financial Times had with M. McCrea, yesterday, he was favoured with a concise summary of the results of this narrow sphere of development since the construction work on the Canadian Pacific Railway disclosed a deposit of nickel in the district of Sudbury.

Greatest Nickel Deposit

This patch of metal which the gradebuilders casually revealed at the backend of last century has since proved to be the greatest nickel mineral deposit in the world, producing today 85 per cent. to 90 percent. of the total supply. In the pre-war period nickel was mainly employed in the manufacture of armoured plate and war material. After disarmament new uses were found for the metal in the construction motor cars, domestic utensils, tubes, etc., the price was reduced with increased demand, and the output and consumption of nickel are now greater than before the war.

Ontario has always had men with faith in the future of her mineral industry, but their number was limited, and the difficulty has been to attract outside capital into the enterprise. The discovery of C balt silver fields in 1903 led to energetic exploitation, and in the following 20 years these fields have produced silver to the value of 227,700,000, one-third of which has been distributed in dividends. The output of silver from Cobalt has averaged 3 tons a day for every working day since 1903. The enlargement of the properties area carried the industry into South Lorrain, where the development of the Keeley silver mine and the properties of the Mining Corporation proved the presence of bonanza ore in the Porcupine district in 1909, and the opening up of gold mines which justified the creation of a section of the world. The great Hollinger mine, which is one of the two or three largest individual gold mines in existence, has an output of mineral of the value of over 1,000,000 a month, and this programme will be enlarged by the end of the present year when production will be raised from 4,000 tons of ore to 8,000 tons per diem.

Striking Progress

Mr. McCrea supplied a few figures which strikingly illustrate the rate of the province's mineral progress. In 1911 Ontario produced metals valued at less than 10,000,000 per annum. The output this year will reach a value of 225,000,000, and this total will be increased to 325,000,000 in 1925, and thereafter the figures will become greater as further discoveries are made and new mines reach the production stage. Coupled among the great gold-producing territories the Rand comes first, the whole of the gold coming from the United Kingdom and the third place is occupied by Ontario, which is the only province in the Dominion of Canada.

It must be conceded that the actual and potential mineral wealth of Ontario would ensure the territories a speedy system of exploitation, but its consistently progressive development has been due to very large measure to the capable wide-awake and unwearied efforts of the Government's Department of Mines which dovetailes its geologists to delimit mineral belts, broad casts reliable reports and maps, constructs roads for promising mining camps, and builds railroads to serve groups of mines where developments appear to justify such expenditure. The Government recognise that outside capital is required. Her own capitalists are men who have made money in local mining enterprises and are putting their money back into the business, but while their faith is showing their numbers are exparatively few and their resources are not illimitable. The Government recognises that, in order to attract the requisite capital, their policy must be to administer the laws fairly and impartially, to give stability to the business of mining, and to be generous in the matter of taxation.

Prudent Policy

This is the policy that they are pursuing, and they are also taking every possible precaution to prevent wild-cat stock flotations and fraudulent enterprises, but, as Mr. McCrea explains there is a limit to the powers of the Government in this connection, and that, in spite of the most vigilant official care, it must be realized that in the last analysis it is the exercise of common sense and the capacity to abide by reliable advice that the investor must rely in the hazardous game of mining.

In the matter of mining taxation the Government of Ontario has adopted the principle of restricting tax impositions to profits, and exempting the first $10,000 of profit from any form of levy. Profits ranging from $10,000 to $1,000,000 profits are taxed at the rate of 10 per cent., $1,000,000 to $5,000,000 profits are charged 5 per cent., and 5 per cent. is collected on all profits over that figure.

Mr. McCrea referred to the great expansion of the trade of Ontario that has followed the mining developments in the province. Of the $75,000,000 which represent the mineral production in 1924, between $55,000,000 and $60,000,000 will be dispersed in wages and in the purchase of supplies and material which stimulate trades and provide markets for the constantly increasing output of local agriculturists and manufacturers. The development of agriculture is keeping pace with the progress of mining. The pulp and paper-making industry has also made a corresponding advance, the power resources of the territory have been extended to produce a surplus over the requirements for mining operations and manufactures, and the 250 miles of country traversed by the Ontario Government Railway is the most prosperous and optimistic territory in the world to-day.

Invitation to British

Into the great field of tremendous mining and agricultural possibilities Canada invites the incursion of British capital. At the end of 1921 the total nominal capital of the mining companies of Ontario was $368,486,061. Of this amount 52 per cent. was Canada's contribution, 25 per cent. represented British capital, 21 per cent. capital from the United States, and 2 per cent. from other countries. These percentages cover the total nominal capital invested in the province. In the gold mining section the proportions of capital invested are, Canada 70.27 per cent., United States 26.37 per cent., Great Britain 2.62 per cent., and other countries .14 per cent.

Mr. McCrea does not disguise the fact that Canada wishes to see Great Britain taking a larger interest in this development. Although the Dominion's doors are open for the investments of any nation, the sentiment of the country is strongly for home participation, and it is confidently hoped that in the exploitation of the great Ontario goldfields the British will play a larger part for themselves, for Canada and for the Empire. To quote the Minister's words: "I am very optimistic as to the coming in of British capital. Already men who know mining and the fields are installed, and more are investigating. Our policy is that British capitalists must be fairly treated, and Ontario will give them a square deal. I firmly believe that there still exists, and only needs to be re-awakened, in the British people the old-time daring and love of adventure, and the gold and silver fields of Ontario offer them every opportunity for initiative, enterprise and profitable endeavor."

LIFT DANCING BAN

Springfield, Mass., May 26— By a three-to-one vote the Methodist Episcopal Conference yesterday lifted the ban on dancing and other amusements, that has been in force since the church was founded. The vote was taken without debate.

The ban affected dancing, games of chance and literary societies. Repeal of the restriction permits independence amusements except those which cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus."

Thomas Fox Dies Out In Saskatoon

The funeral of the late Thomas Fox, well-known Saskatoon business man, formerly known in Belleville, who died Sunday was held from Knox Church. More than 1,000 persons attended the impressive service, the arrangements for which were in the hands of Victory Lodge of the Masonic order.

Dr. D. B. Dix, assisted by Rev. W. W. McPherson, took the service at the church while the ritualistic service of the Masonic brotherhood was gone through at the graveside, conducted by James McGregor, Deputy Grand Master of Saskatchewan District Number 6. Odd Fellows, Rebeccas, members of the I.O.C.C. and the Daughters of the Eastern Star also turned out in force. The funeral procession was more than a quarter of a mile in length.

The entire main floor of Knox church was filled with flowers, and a good portion of the galleries was also taken up. The coffin was placed directly before the altar and was covered by wreaths of flowers. Pall-bearers for Dr. Brisbois acted as honorary floral tributes.

The service was begun with invocation by Dr. Dix. This was followed by a hymn and the reading of portions of the Scripture. Special music was rendered by the Excelsior Quartette. An address by Rev. MacPherson followed.

"This great gathering today is a tribute to the large place our brother filled in the hearts of us all," said the speaker. "It is a testimony to the fact that in our expression of sorrow we form more closely together and seem to take hands and form a circle around the bereaved one with the love prayers and sympathy go out." He said there was a time when death was looked upon as a dreadful monster, and pointed out that the good man had nothing to fear—not even death. In speaking of the deceased, he said he was one who gave his best to his fellow men, who was trusted by them, who was honored by them with offices of responsibility, and who would be remembered by them on account of his social disposition and good character.

Members of the Masonic lodges formed a circle around the grave while the last words of the burial service were being read by Dr. Dix. The ritualistic service then began, a skirt of extreme solemnity and impressiveness. As the words of the ritual were spoken a lambskin apron, symbolic of innocence and a badge of Masonry was placed in the grave. After this, each Mason passed the open grave and dropped in evergreens, flowers or immortelles. The service was attended by W. H. Lewis grand councilor of the United Commercial Travellers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

CUT DOWN ELECTRIC RANGES IN KINGSTON

Kingston, May 28.—The Utilities Commission, yesterday went into the matter of the imminent shortage of hydro-electric power, receiving a full report on this question from the General Manager, and decided to take an immediate inventory of the electric ranges at present in the hands of local dealers, and to discontinue the granting of permission to connect up more ranges, and all other electrical appliances using more than 2,000 watts, as soon as the present stock of appliances ezzzied by local dealers is exhausted.

The Commission also decided to reduce the price of gas from $2 gross to $1.80 gross and $1.65 net per 1000 feet to the consumer.

"Why do you call your flivver a sedan? You uphill," sighed Blackstone. Cincinnati Enquirer.

NEW BANK INSPECTION SYSTEM

Ottawa, May 28— The Government has decided that there should be some system of inspection of banks under the Finance Department, and will soon submit a proposal along these lines to the Banking and Commerce committee of the House of Commons.

The announcement was made in the committee yesterday morning by Hon. James A. Robb, acting Minister of Finance, in answer to a question by G. MacLean, Conservative member for South York.

HALF HUNDRED WERE PRESENT AT REHEARSAL

Encouraging Start Made on Pageant For Big Celebration

MANY MORE NEEDED

Schools Visited To-day to Enlist Help From Pupils

Nearly fifty young people of Belleville were on hand at the Armouries last evening to attend the first rehearsal of the big pageant being put on by the John D. Rogers company in connection with the U.E.L. celebration. This was encouraging to the workers behind the event, but it was pointed out by the intelligencer today that many score more are urgently needed to insure the success of the pageant.

Larry M. Knowles, master, was on hand and explained the salient features to be covered. There are to be two acts. Unfortunately there was no music on the piano last night but appreciable headway was made.

To-day, Kiwanians, who are boosting this end of the celebration programme, were in touch with the various schools of the city, and asked for boys and girls to take part. They received encouraging responses.

There is to be a meeting of the Talent committee at the Chamber of Commerce chambers to-night at 7.30 o'clock.

Rehearsals are to be held in the lecture room of the Armouries every afternoon from 4-15 to 6 and every evening from 7.30 to 10 o'clock. It is understood that special hours will be set for Saturday.

Those pushing the pageant are going far as to forget their own business to the benefit of the pageant, and a very earnest request is being made especially for an active interest on the part of the young people of the city.

TRENTON MAN IS SHOT BY FRIEND

Young Girl Playing With Revolver in Niagara Falls

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 29.—Fred Bowen, aged 23, of Trenton, Ontario, who was employed in this city, was shot dead by Stuart Rogers, a 15 year old girl, here last evening. The affair according to all accounts, was purely accidental. Bowen and the girl and the Rogers home yesterday afternoon and there was some discussion on revolvers. Miss Rogers suggested that the father's revolver be brought down when the revolver, a .32 calibre was shown, Bowen emptied out the cartridges and clicked the gun several times, then reloaded it and gave it to Stuart. She, not knowing it was present, did not know it had been reloaded, and playfully aimed the gun at his head. The shot missed but the second was fatal. He was rushed to the hospital in a taxicab and 9 o'clock last night without recovering consciousness. The girl was prepared before Magistrate Fraser last night, but was allowed to go in her mother's care. The father is in Florida.

BOY SCOUTS ON TOES IN SELLING BADGES

Boy Scouts who have taken 2,000 celebration badges to sell from door to door are doing well, according to reports to-day. One boy, George Atkins lost his pocketbook, but the people are asked not to pay except from the following scouts:

COMMITTED TO TRIAL

Toronto, May 29—E. V. Donnelly and H. R. Thomas, chief clerk and clerk respectively in the provincial secretary's department, were committed for trial by Magistrate Denison and Jones in police court yesterday on charges of theft, $28,725, and obstructing, altering mutilating books, papers and valuable securities, and with intent to defraud, made false entries in cash books, etc.

NEW YORK STATE PICKS VISITOR

Brigadier-General Wescott Coming For U.E.L Celebration

Hon. W. Freeland Kendrick, Mayor of the City of Philadelphia was to-day elected the guest of honour, that he wrote the Mayor of Belleville expressing appreciation of courtesy and hospitality to Miss Gwen Lazier, and the following reply of Hon. Mayor Mikel has been kindly forwarded to Mayor Mikel by the Mayor of Philadelphia, showing the great care and consideration that is being given to Belleville's courier:

"My Dear Mr. Mayor—I acknowledge receipt of your letter dated May 2nd advising me in regard to Miss Gwendolyn Lazier's probable arrival in Baltimore on Tuesday next, May 27th.

"I beg to assure you that your courtesy in this matter is deeply appreciated and we will be very glad to welcome and entertain her during her visit, to this city, which we are anticipating with a great deal of pleasure.

"Thanking you again for your kind note in advising me as fully in this connection, and with kind personal regards, I am, very truly yours, Howard W. Jackson, Mayor of Baltimore."

Mayor Mikel has been notified by Governor Alfred J. Smith of the City of New York, that he will be the Brigadier-General Edward J. Wescott, Adjutant General of the Military Forces of New York State as the governor's Official Representative at the celebration as the Governor himself will be unable to attend.

CADET INSPECTION COMES NEXT MONDAY

Members of the various Cadet Corps in the city are busily engaged at the present drilling hard for the annual inspection which takes place on Monday next. In the forenoon the High School corps will be inspected upon the school grounds, and in the afternoon at the Agricultural Park the inspection of the Public School cadets will take place. Inspecting officer on both occasions will be Lt. Hanna.

BEATRICE FEE BURIED

Omemee, Ont., May 29.—By the side of her grandfather in the family plot in Omemee cemetery Miss Fee was laid to her final resting place yesterday afternoon. That is the final chapter, of a life which has been full of joy and sorrow, but which came to a close by a tragedy on Sunday night, which has shocked the whole countryside.

Toronto Board of Trade Congratulates New President of Ontario Bar Association

The following letter, bearing witness to the esteem in which Lieut.-Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C., of Belleville is held by his fellow members of the Ontario Bar Association, has been received by Mr. Ponton from the secretary of the Toronto Board of Trade:

"My dear Col. Ponton:—

"I have pleasure in congratulating you on your election as President of the Ontario Bar Association. The great ability, which you have at all times displayed in your long years of faithful and devoted interest with which you are connected—Trinity College, the Law Society and Chamber of Commerce, Masonic etc.—have been evidenced on many occasions by your election to the high office in the gift of your association and your present honour bestowed upon you by your colleagues in your own profession, men whom you have doubtless fought both with and against, is but another indication of the high esteem, respect and love in which you many years of health, happiness and prosperity.

"With kind personal regards and good wishes, believe me,

Sincerely yours,
B. A. STAPELLS."

ALEMITE FIRM HAS MOVED UP TO NEW PLANT

Start Full Capacity Early in June in Old Elliots Plant

INCREASED BUSINESS

New Product to Be Put on Market; See Sir Henry

Alemite products, one of Belleville's leading industries, has changed its factory home from Pinnacle street in the Graham building, to the splendid plant formerly occupied by the Elliott Woodwork and Machinery Company, corner MacDonald avenue and Victoria avenue, and this week the new plant will be in full operation. Additional new machinery will then be installed to handle the increased orders, and inside one year, one hundred men will be employed.

This industry has been moving to their new plant during the past two or three weeks, and now everything is in fair shape for the machinery to be being placed in position. In the meantime the shipments are being handled from the old plant. This marks the third expansion of Alemite products in the three years of its existence, and in each instance, the new plants have been purchased by the company. Messrs. Hall, Dunbar, R. J. Earl Graham and W. Ernest Dunbar are the shareholders in the Canadian company.

Growing Steadily

When seen today, Mr. Rowsome explained that the business is steadily increasing and expanding owing to the various new products that are being constantly discovered for Alemite system of lubrication, owing to the increasing number of manufacturing firms which use it as a standard. Among the standard users are the Dominion Motors at Oshawa, Studebaker, Ford, Chevrolet, Gray-Dort, Buick and the America La France Fire Engine Company, to name a few, whereas of Montreal have been all equipped with Alemite system. Twenty-four hundred main distributors have been established in Canada. The industrial field is now developing rapidly also. Among the prominent industrial concerns which have installed the system are The Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company, Canadian Locomotive Company at Kingston, Goodyear in New Ontario, the Ontario Power Commission and many others. Also there are letters of high recommendation to Mr. Rowsome, received from their satisfaction after fair trials.

In the very near future, Sir Henry Thornton's Canadian National Railways will be approached with regard to the equipping of their locomotives with the system of lubrication. This, Mr. Rowsome stated, is now immediately the equipment is sought by the railroad companies. At present, seventeen railroads in the United States are using the system. The railway, are using the system. Farmers are also using the system, and implements like graziers, rollers, disc harrows and the like. New fields are being developed each day.

Take Up New Lines

Besides the regular lines of manufacturing are being taken continuously. Mr. Rowsome stated that he was considered arrangements for the manufacture of the Wisconsin Windmill Company in Canada at the Alemite plant here, and explained that one case of this product has been received.

Although Mr. Moore has occupied this pastorate for five years, there is a very general sense of regret among members and adherents that the time of separation as pastor and people has arrived.

We can confidently assure Rev. Mr. Moore that the deepest good will of his Bowmanville congregation will follow him to his new field of activity wherever their future field of activity may be.

HIT BY AUTO

POLICE SEIZE 82 CASES OF CORBY LIQUOR

Large Haul Made by Provincial Men Last Evening

FARM ON MADOC ROAD

Two Charges Expected to be Laid by Officers To-day

Eighty-two cases of Corbyville whisky, five cases of Corbyville alcohol, to-day fill one of the fire cells at police station, and a strange half-forgotten odor permeates the basement air of the station. This seizure, while last night by Provincial officers, was rushed to the station from the home of a Madoc road, Thurlow township farmer. No arrests were made and at noon to-day no charge had been laid, but it is expected that before evening, charges will be charged with infractions of the O. T. A.

Eastern Couriers Doing Good Work

Have Started Back Along American Side With U. E.L. Emblem

Colonel Beggy, of this city, and Reginald Little, of Colborne, who left Belleville last Friday morning for Mont real to return via the American side to put up posters for the United Empire Loyalists' Celebration, arrived here late Monday evening. The first lap of their journey was completed by the couriers while there they spent the night, going to Ottawa on the Canadian side. Arrangements were made for the third night.

The interviews and visits, as well as prominent locations en route have been supplied with U. E. L. name and Montreal was well covered with the large posters.

The return trip was started yesterday, the couriers crossing at Valleyfield to take their way through Cornwall to southern shore of the St. Lawrence River.

In letters to relatives here the U. E. L. "Corps" say that they are very kindly received and that from present indications Belleville's first "sunday" of the country during the week of June 15th.

ARMY IS TO HOLD TAG DAY NEXT SATURDAY

The Salvation Army is winding up its campaign for funds to-day, and is having a Tag Day. Their objective is $6,000 and when seen this morning a collector they have experienced a little difficulty in reaching this mark.

They are hoping, weather permitting, to reach the $6,000 to the means of reaching their objective.

Should any of their friends have overlooked them, they are asked to be called upon when they were canvassed. Their workers are busy to-day and would be very grateful if they would be called upon by any citizens who had overlooked them.

Officers of the 49th Highlanders are in the city looking for selecting camp site for the famous Scottish Battalion, which will be here on Saturday and Monday, June 15th and 16th, in connection with the U.E.L. celebration.

NEWS OF HOLD-UP

At 10.30 to-day Inspector Roy, Bumside, received word that the hold-up had occurred last night on the Belleville-Madoc road. Constables Mumby, Provincial Officers Robert Davis and Mr. Hall of Madoc were on the case still there. The message stated that two men held up a third man taking $170 from him.

TO REMOVE BLOTT

London, May 29—Rum running in the Detroit River, with Canadian liquor ports and ports of British possessions as destination, was the subject of questions in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. Premier Mackenzie King answered the bulk of the questions himself, criticizing the United States for what would communicate with officials of the Colonial and Treasury offices "and see if we can do anything to remove this disgraceful blot."

Thought It Fun To Scare Ladies On Street; But Bench Teaches Otherwise In Court

The lighting of firecrackers and then throwing them near ladies on Front street on the evening of Victoria Day was costly fun for youths who should have known better, if appearance appeal ed before Magistrate Masson this morning. Four youths pleaded guilty and were fined a total of twenty dollars and. Two of the lads who were unable to pay today are held over until June 10th to collect the necessary $6.50 which will save them from one week "on the bill." The law provides a $50 fine for this offence. One of the four had persisted in the practice after having been warned by P. C. Arthur that he would be summoned. A fifth offender from Point Anne did not appear in court.

"This has been a nuisance for years," commented the Beach in fining the fine.

BRITISH SELL ALL SURPLUS WAR STOCK

Realize Three Billion on Sale in Five Years

Montreal, May 29.—The Disposal and Liquidation Commission of the British Government, which in connection with its predecessor, the Ministry of Munitions, has had in charge the liquidation of the surplus war stocks and properties of the British Government, has just completed its work, and as reported by the English Information Service, has realized for those stocks in the past five years $3,220,000,000 or three billion.

The releasing of these surplus properties and stocks in bulk and retail trade has involved more than three million separate business transactions, covering railways in Europe, Asia and Africa as well as thousands of miles of railways and sidings in the United Kingdom, a large fleet of miscellaneous craft lying in English harbours and all over the world. Among the properties liquidated were 1,000 acres of Government land, stock, industrial plants, machinery, acclaimed transport and road plant, canal, barge, buildings, furniture, building materials, timber and other allied materials, textile goods, medical stores, food stocks and aircraft material.

Think Prisoner Another Caruso

Wonderful Voice Discovered by Music Leader in Penitentiary

Canon City, Colo., May 29.—With the mantle of Enrico Caruso laid on the shoulders of a murderer, serving time in the Colorado state penitentiary here?

From behind the iron bars and dreab, grey walls of the prison come stories of a golden tenor voice discovered accidentally by the leader of the prison band, Frank Hall, and now being developed and trained by him.

It was more than a year ago that Harry Stowe, a lifer, who was a mere 26 years old, was sent up for ten years after he had killed Wallace Hale, Denver bartender.

From the first he was "bugs about music" and the prison authorities hoped it He asked to be put on the prison band and there he worked hard and seemed supremely happy.

Then one day, Stowe heard him humming his favorite tunes in the intervals of practice intervals.

Startled by the beauty of tone and timbre, he stopped to listen. MacAdams, oblivious of attention, went on to himself snatches from Irish and Italian songs.

Finally Stowe went to Warden Thomas Tynan and asked permission to train the prisoner's voice.

"He has the greatest wonderful voices I ever heard," Stowe said. "Provided he has some time to train it, I bet him interested in developing his great gift, he will be another Caruso or Ziegfeld."

Permission was granted. McAdams was separated from the band to train. And now he is spending part of his days in a small practice room, unconscious that has given him a new hope for the after his sentence is up.

ROB GROCERY STORE AT MADOC TUESDAY

The large grocery and butcher business operated by Charles Frederick at Madoc was burglarized on Tuesday night, when a large quantity of good was taken The owner has not yet been exactly able to state the amount of goods stolen. Entrance was gained at the back door of the store Last week, Heaslip's store there was also burglarized.

LOG CABIN TO BE ERECTED BY VICTORIA PARK

Memorial to Early Settlers Is Definitely Decided Upon

TO LAY CORNER STONE

Effort Will Be Made to Secure Prominent U.E.L. Speaker

At a meeting of the U.E.L. Celebration Committee held in Col. R. S. Lazier's office last night, at which a General Celebration Committee was present, it was decided to erect a monument to the U. E. Loyalists and to have the corner stone laid on June 12th which is the Fraternal Society Day of The Celebration.

The exercises in Victoria Park, opposite Dundas st was selected as a suitable site and the monument is to be a replica of a log cabin such as was used by the early settlers. While the form of it log cabin is to be retained, it was decided to use concrete in building the monument, which is to be erected $500.

A general committee consisting of Col. Lazier, W. H. Nugent, John Kerr, Chas. Hall, Dr. Farley, Fred Chandler and I. A. Thomson was appointed to select the sites of the Burial Ground and building operations and another committee to receive subscriptions was formed as follows: Col. Barragar, Col. Lazier, Mayor Mikel, Judge Deroche, W. H. Nugent and Ex-Mayor Bennett with power to add to their number.

Col. Barragar will act as treasurer of the special "Log Cabin" fund and subscriptions may be sent to him direct, to any member of the committee or sent to the Intelligencer, and all subscriptions will be acknowledged through the columns of this Paper and then turned over to Col. Barragar.

It is the intention to have a prominent U. E. L. speaker to lay the corner stone on the 12th inst. and a large gathering to form a part of the Fraternal societies program.

The first plan was to build the cabin in the old Methodist Burial ground on Dundas St., on the understanding that this property was to be turned over to the City's Park Board for use as an auto tourist camping ground, but it was found impossible to secure title to this property for the present at least. Other sites suggested were Memorial Park, Exhibition Park, but on a vote the entrance to Victoria Park was elected.

WORTHY OF SUPPORT

A campaign is being launched today to raise sufficient money for the erection of a monument to the United Empire Loyalists. There is no doubt but that the people of Belleville and vicinity will be glad to have a share in this commendable enterprise.

DOMINION STATUS

The stand taken by the present Canadian Government in the matter of the Lausanne peace treaty, as revealed in the official correspondence laid on the table of parliament, serves to show how anomalous and unsatisfactory are the relations between this country and the empire, and also the international status of Canada and the other British Dominions.

Because the Canadian Government was not represented at the Lausanne conference, the King Government holds that Canada is not a party to the treaty of peace between Turkey and the British Empire, and therefore refuses to ask the Canadian Parliament to ratify the treaty.

In taking this position the King Government directly challenges the right of any representative of the British Government to commit Canada at any international conference. Heretofore that right has been assumed as a matter of course, although of late the right of the Dominion Governments to be kept fully informed of the progress of negotiations, and to be consulted in all important matters of policy, has been conceded and acted upon. Evidently the King Government thinks that Canada, being now an independent nation with recognized international status, therefore possesses the right of separate representation and participation in every international conference.

The London Times, realizing the importance of the question raised by the action of the Ottawa Government, puts the point plainly when it asks, "In dealing with the world outside the empire, do the five nations act together or can they on occasion, on few occasions or on many occasions, act separately? In international affairs is the British Empire five nations or one?"

These are questions which will have to be answered and answered soon. If each of the Dominions is to insist upon its right to be separately represented at international conferences, the inference is that each Dominion is free to have a foreign policy of its own and is at liberty to promote that policy without regard to the interests of the other countries in the empire, and may reject any treaty to which it is not an independent party. The logical and inevitable result of such an arrangement is the disintegration of the empire.

Such a result might be foreseen when the situation brought about by the action of the Ottawa Government is considered. Through its refusal to be bound by the Lausanne treaty or to accept any obligation under it Canada continues to be in a state of war with Turkey, while all the rest of the empire is at peace with that country. And how can Canada take advantage of any of the benefits to be derived from the treaty if she refuses to accept any of the obligations imposed by it. It may now become necessary for Canada to negotiate a separate peace with Turkey, and the terms of that treaty may be inconsistent with the terms of the treaty which binds the rest of the empire.—Hamilton Herald.

MRS. OR MISS?

A German woman on a visit to the United States uses the prefix "Mrs.," although she admits she was never married and may never be. She explains that in Germany a law has been passed permitting unmarried women to call themselves "Mrs." because it makes it easier for them to engage in business.

There is said to be no law in this country to prevent an unmarried woman calling herself "Mrs."; but would there be any advantage in doing so? It is easier to travel in this country as Mrs. than as Miss! In this country at any rate the modern young girl seems quite as capable of taking care of herself any place as her mother or her grandmother; indeed the chances are that if mother and daughter are travelling together the daughter will be found looking after the mother. It may be different in Germany, however.

PRESS OPINIONS

GREATEST WHEAT PORT

Toronto Globe

Some interesting statistics have been prepared to show the importance of Port Arthur and Fort William in the World grain trade. These cities have 35 elevators with a capacity of over 65,000,000 bushels and constitute the world's greatest wheat mart. It would take 365 days loading a cargo of 5,600 tons a day to ship the wheat that is possible of being stored in these elevators, or if ground and made into white wheat bread the wheat would make approximately 3,200,000,000 16-oz. loaves which would furnish to each of the 120,000,000 people on the North American Continent south of Mexico a loaf a day for 40 days or to the population of Canada a loaf a day for 320 days. The grain that has been shipped from Port Arthur and Fort William in one year, 270,000,000 bushels, would make a wall one foot thick and three and a half feet high, to circle the globe.

LADY DUFFERIN SCREAMED

Grantford Expositor

In 1876 Lord and Lady Dufferin visited Buckingham Palace, when the latter fails on the Du Livre river near that village was named Dufferin Falls. Lord Lyne has visited the same place and the high falls on the same river will hereafter rumble in honor of the hero of Vimy. In connection with the visit of the Dufferins the story is now told that they were on a small steamer which was climbing the rapids near the falls, when their boat was swept like a cork toward a steep, rocky bank on one side of the river. Her ladyship screamed, and in a womanly but not very dignified manner, threw her arms about her husband. Fortunately the boat was stopped in the nick of time, the Dufferins got out and portaged it on foot past the dangerous waters.

A HEARTLESS MOTORIST

Kitchener Record

A resident of Michigan has for the past week been held in the Brantford jail. While going at excessive speed he ran over a little girl whose life has since been hanging in the balance. The man was one of a delegation of Americans who were passing through the province. They were members of a fraternal organization and having run down the Brantford child they failed to stop to render aid or ascertain the extent of her injuries. One has every sympathy for the man or woman who through no personal carelessness has been the cause of disability or death. For years the happiness of such people will be clouded with vain regret. But no punishment is sufficient in severe for the driver who will wittingly run down a victim and then speed on his way, regardless of the outcome.

WM. SOUTHAM DEAD

Oshawa, Ont., May 29.—William Henry Cargill Southam, at Ottawa, who had been lying unconscious on the Oshawa general hospital for three weeks, as the result of a motor accident at Dunbarton, Ontario, when the car he was driving collided with a motor truck, died yesterday morning.

His Other Leg

By W. H. G.

The 10th Battery was out on rest here. Suffice it to say that before leaving the hospital, the latter had procured a team of five hundred children from the former.

A month later, Joe was in France, sipping vin ordre with old man Coquelin in the old estaminet, Arline hovered nearby with an expression of unfeigned admiration in her eyes.

That afternoon a strange party gathered in the court yard, Sig. Fernelli presiding, assisted by the cull of Cadet, carrying with them discarded army rifles, now mostly bent. They talked animatedly as they trod the cobbled road to the estaminet, but St. Eloi and across the broken fields in the direction of Vimy Ridge.

"Here we are, Messieurs," said Joe suddenly as the party reached a ditch-like trench. They had arrived at the old dugout where Joe had lost his leg. Under the American's direction, the old relics were soon agreed up again and he clambered down inside with the aid of his crutch.

When he came out again, he was carrying an old army boot in one hand. He extracted from it a soiled envelope.

Mlle. Pearl Allen listened with rapt attention as Joe told his story in the drawing-room of the Allan home.

"That letter was from Herbert James-son, an old friend of me father's in South Africa," he said. "He was all I had in the way of a family and I couldn't have had eight in a row of his money, but if not been for that cheque for $50,000 which he sent me and which I received the day I lost my leg and incidentally the use of which I had put the letter by temporary safe keeping."

Popular Montreal Man Now Eats Meat

Gains Ten Pounds and Feels Fine Because Dreco Has Put His Digestive Organs in Sound, Healthy, Working Order

Mr. E. Bouthillier, of 276 Bleury St., has a wide acquaintance in the city of Montreal, where he has practised his profession for many years. He had many conversations with his clients in the course of his career, but none more profitable than those which resulted in his taking Dreco. It was recommended to him by one who had evidently experienced its remarkable powers, and Mr. Bouthillier is only too anxious to pass the word along.

"Dreco has put me back on my feet," he says. Ever since my return from overseas I have suffered greatly with my stomach. It was weak and touchy and I would hardly digest anything. To-day, thanks to Dreco which was highly recommended by people coming into the shop, I am able to eat meat and digest it properly. Dreco has done me so much good that I have gained ten pounds in weight and, what is more remarkable, I have only taken two bottles of it."

Why suffer the misery of faulty digestion when this splendid remedy, Dreco, is within easy reach? Let its wonderful corrective and tonic properties restore your digestive organs, as it has those of so many others. Dreco is a purely herbal preparation and contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Belleville by The Belleville Pharmacy. It is also sold in Stirling by J. S. Morton, and by a good druggist in every where.

GOOD SAMARITAN DIES OF BURNS RECEIVED

Kingston, May 29.—As a result of burns received in a fire several weeks ago, Charles Ryder Pittsburg, passed away yesterday at the General Hospital at the age of 59 years. Mr. Ryder, it will be remembered, was going to his home on the 16th of April and when about a mile from his home he noticed a fire in the marsh. By some fault, evidently, of someone's careless ness, Thinking he could beat the fire out, Mr. Ryder went over and tried to extinguish the fire, but the rubber boots which he was wearing, soon took fire and before he knew it, he was a mass of flames. Neighbors rescued him and he was taken to the hospital where he gradually declined, sadly learned as a result of it experience.

Yesterday afternoon the funeral of the late James Blanchard took place from the private funeral chapel of the Belleville Burial Company. At the funeral parlors a very impressive service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Brown of Holloway Street Methodist Church who also officiated at the committal service at Belleville cemetery. The large number of floral offerings were mute testimony of the regret felt at the passing of the deceased. The bearers were, Messrs. J. Rapson, W. Feeney, E. Sharpe, E. McIntosh, C. Champoux and W. Wright.

MRS. MARY MINOR

The funeral of the late Mrs. Minor, who died suddenly in Toronto last week took place yesterday noon from the G. T. R. station to Belleville Cemetery. The committal service was conducted by Rev. C. E. Clarke of Christ Church. A car of the deceased accompanied the body to this city.

Kingston Team is Outclassed in Almost All Departments

WAS GOOD EXHIBITION

Compeau Played Sensational Game—for the Losing Crew

(Special to the Intelligencer)

Kingston, May 29—Jack Oulette, pitching his second full game in two days, registered his second victory over Kingston, when Belleville defeated Kingston at the Fair grounds last night by the score of 3 to 1. Poor fielding by the locals and slow base running, caused them to miss many opportunities the game was much better than the start, when Vernon Weir slammed the first ball pitched by Gallagher to deep right for a three bagger. Rose was thrown out at first, Weir being held at third. Williams followed through with a crack to Bateman, who apparently didn't know what to do with the ball, and finally threw to first. Weir scoring. In the second Kingston evened the count. Cherry led off with a single but was forced by Daley. The latter took second on a wild pitch, and later scored on a timely hit by Purvis. The third saw Belleville take the lead. V. Weir singled over second, and was sacrificed to second by Mills and scored on a scorching Weir on third. Weir then scored on a sacrifice by Mills. From then till the eighth, both teams played good ball, the pitchers doing great work. In the eighth with one out W. Mills stepped back from a bad ball and swung at it, Daley meanwhile slowly in going after the ball and the result was it rolled behind a set and "Penny" got a home run.

Kingston showed poor baseball at the start, and it looked as if Belleville would have a run away affair, but they pitched a good game, but was given poor support. Compeau however, played a sensational game, and also lapped two hits.

The box score was:

Belleville Bowlers Seek More Members; Reduce Fee to $5; Green In Good Shape

Belleville Lawn Bowling Club have launched a campaign for new members this summer, and the most important feature of the campaign is that the former rate of $10 one of the lowest fees in the Province, has been reduced to $5. The club needs many members to augment their present membership of sixty, and an endeavor is being made to interest the younger men of the city in this healthy, skillful and interesting game.

As pointed out by an enthusiastic member today any young man bowling from May 24th until Autumn would save the $5 fee fold, as it is the cheapest sport in the city.

The local green was opened on Monday last, and games are being played there nightly. About June 6th, the season's schedule will be drawn up, and play will commence in earnest. During the season, of course, friendly competitions are held with other towns and cities in the district.

The greens never were better than they are this year and Belleville green is the last east of Toronto without a doubt.

The lady bowlers of Belleville have a large membership than the men and are playing the game this season too. Charles Sulman is president this year.

Belleville Is Weak Sister, Oshawa Says

Claims Absence of Jack Williams Left Mighty Big Gap

The Oshawa Telegram has recently been commenting on the baseball situation in the C. O. B. L. and Belleville has been selected as the weak sister. Probably the two wins gained by the Ballweiders over Kingston this week, and Oshawa's loss on her own sand lot at the hands of Jake Solomon and Company yesterday will "change the record" automatically, and will impress upon Oshawa minds what "Josh" Craig, the Electric City boss, half authority human, when he says that the man who is able to pick a winner in this league now the way games are going, is slated for the Insurance institutes and by the Government for their affiled of work "beneath the hair" diseases.

The comment, which should not be taken too seriously, is as follows:

"The once proud and haughty Grand Trunks have apparently fallen on evil days, and judging by their performance on Saturday they are the weak sister in the Duff-Nods circuit this year.

The red-skinned Jack Williams left a mighty big gap in the Belleville team when he was promoted to higher company, and up to the present time no one has been found who can satisfactorily fill the Indian's place.

Introducing Mr. Keon

One of Manager Green's supposed finds, the young Mr. Keon, was given an opportunity to show his wares on Saturday, after theirit had nabbed Moore for 3B feature, and the Oshawa blasphothers fell on the youngster's offerings with gusto.

In the two innings that he worked Keon was nicked for nine healthy wallops, and seven runs crossed the plate in the eighth.

The general opinion of those who saw Mr. Keon in action was that he will not be able to fill Williams' place."

KILLED BY BASEBALL

Ottawa, May 29.—Struck on the side of the neck by a baseball, Floyd Frederick, aged 12, was instantly killed Sunday afternoon at Marysland, Que., according to reports received here yesterday. The ball thrown by a comrade, flipped off a stone on the ground and hit the boy. The ball was not thrown hard. A verdict of accidental death was returned by the inquest jury.

ON THE ALLEYS

The Ramblers won from the Olympics at the Recreation Alleys last night by an even margin. This is the Ramblers' last game, making 6 wins and 3 to-go. Miss Vera Blaisd was high three string bowler with 502 and Miss K. McLellan was high for the Olympics.

The C. I. A. lacked away another win in the junior league at the expense of the Hi-Li, the latter team now losing nothing straight games and practically putting them out of the running. J. Bradley was high man of the evening with 348 and MacHill was high for the Hi-Li. Players and scores:

JUNIORS TO PLAY EXHIBITION FRIDAY

Belleville junior baseball club will play the Point Anne juniors an exhibition game at Point Anne tomorrow, (Friday) evening, and in preparation for this game, President Colling wishes all players to be on the job this evening at the practice which will be held at the Agricultural Park on the playing diamond.

The management is also negotiating for an exhibition game at Wellington on July 3rd.

FISHERMAN FALLS OUT OF BOAT; BODY IS LOST

Kingston, May 29—William Keeley, fisherman and miner of Howe Island was drowned early Tuesday night while returning from Cape Vincent to Wolfe Island in the Channel that separates the Island from the mainland near Carpenter's Point, and his body has not been recovered. Information concerning the drowning accident was very meagre yesterday, but they only told reveal the fact that Mr. Keeley, Don McRae and B. Grant had gone over to Cape Vincent in the early morning with a load of fish in a large motor boat. They attended to their business and were returning to the Island when Mr. Keeley fell out of the boat. It was stated that Mr. McRae and Mr. Grant were in the motorboat and Mr. Keeley was in the skiff that was in tow of the motorboat, but further details could not be obtained.

That Body of Yours

By Jean H. Bunn, M.D.

PREVENTING HEART DISEASE

You have often wondered just what was meant by heart disease, and have perhaps had the idea that it was something that was part of one's make up when he was born.

Perhaps you have also thought that some heavy work, some extreme athletic test had produced it.

Now as a matter of fact none before, the little fleshy pieces of tissue that close the opening in the heart get inflamed, just like an inflammation anywhere else in the body. When the inflammation spreads these valves, as they are called, have some of their natural tissue replaced by hard fibrous tissue, just like the scar tissue that remains after a burn.

This means that instead of being a small rounded valve lifting into its opening completely, the scar tissue causes some "puckering" of the edges and through these little puckerings the blood flows back into the chamber from whence it just came—a leaky pump as it were. Now if your heart muscle grows strong again as it should, Nature enables you to get along all right, just the same as you can a leaky pump perform for years.

But if in addition to the leaky valve, the heart muscle is weak, then when a severe illness comes along you will have a hard time.

Now what is my thought?

Why not try to prevent heart disease?

How?

Well your doctor will tell you that most cases of heart disease come about very quickly, and without much discomfort at first.

A sore throat, bad tonsils, bad teeth, some nose ailment, or even intestinal disturbance is usually the cause of trouble. If youngsters begin to have some growing pains, or you have some rheumatic pains, don't forget to let your doctor examine the heart.

A little rest at this time, with nourishing food, and light exercise later in life, (no, of walking, will prevent heart disease very often.

UNION BATTLE POSTPONED

Ottawa, May 29.—The battle over the Church Union Bill in the Commons Private Bills Committee was this morning postponed till Thursday next week. Chairman McIlveen asked G. W. Mason, K.C., if counsel for the bill, what had been the result of the conferences between the two sides over the amendments regarding non-concurring congregations and non-accounting members which were submitted Tuesday.

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR

The A is hardly a neighborhood in the United States where women cannot do found who have derived benefit from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For nearly forty years this household remedy has been overcoming some of the worst forms of female ills. As one woman has been benefited by its use she has told others, who have used it with the same good results; so the use of this great medicine has spread from shop to shore by the recommendation of those who have found it good. Therefore, ask your neighbors; let her tell you from experience the benefit derived by using Compound. Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for free advice. Serve with tomato sauce highly seasoned.

WIDEST RESEARCH WORK FOR PICTURES

It took five months of active research work to establish costume and custom details of the Twelfth century, the period of "Richard, the Lion-Hearted," the dramatized Anthony Paul version of Scott's novel "The Talisman," an Allied Producers and Distributors Corporation release booked as the feature for Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Griffin theatre.

Great sheaves of notes on dress and etiquette; on court manners and procedure; on architecture and furniture were in the possession of the author noted Authors at the end of that time as the result of their presentation work for filming this "romance of the Third Crusade." Much of the study of manners, customs and the preparation was done by Dr. A. A. Woods, who also did the research work for "Douglas Fairbanks in Robin Hood."

As the white forerunners the ghostings from hundreds of volumes were gathered and indexed so that any question as to any detail of dress or gesture; any way of walking or wearing the hair; any personal characteristic of the personages who appear in the production could be settled at a moment's notice.

The research work done for this production, which is the first release of the Frank E. Woods-Thomson Buchanan-Elmer Harris-Clark W. Thomas combination, was such that Dr. R. R. Von Kleinsmid, president of the University of Southern California, one day adjourned his classes in English history from the university to the lines studios. With Mr. Woods acting as host, the university students were permitted to watch the screening of a number of reels of this historical production and were then given a short talk on period research work and the details established by Dr. A. A. Woods.

Wallace Beery is featured, in the title role of "Richard, the Lion-Hearted," which was directed by Chet Withey.

AMERICAN GIRL FINDS ADVENTURE IN KINGDOM

The adventures of an American girl in a small European kingdom are vividly portrayed in Katherine MacDonald's latest offering, "Refuge," which was filmed at the Reigart theatre. B. P. Schulberg produced this First National attraction.

The girl visits Moravia, the land of her forefathers and soon becomes involved in a whirlpool of political intrigue. She finds it necessary to marry the crown prince, but the prospective bridegroom meets with foul play before the marriage can be consummated. She is compelled to protect the throne for the baby, who happens to be a French soldier, and her act in the signal for an outburst of violence on the part of her adversaries. Before peace is restored the soldier finds himself the rightful possessor of the throne and love comes to him and Miss MacDonald.

Miss MacDonald has never had a role with so many opportunities for clothes-wear for talent, and she is supported by a highly capable cast, including Hugh Thompson, Arthur Edmund Carewe, Victor Potel, Grace Morris, Gunnis Smith and Eric Mayne.

Ruh's Haven of Refuge

"Hello, the Club! Is my husband there? Tell him he's home, say! He said—I haven't even told you my name."

People who work with their eyes constantly

Would help themselves greatly if they wore glasses during working hours. They may have no error of vision at all. But too much work will strain the eyes even if they are normal. Eye strain should never be neglected, whether it affects a normal or an abnormal eye. Those who do much near work MAY need my service.

CATHOLIC LADIES ENTERTAIN

The Catholic Women's League gave a most interesting entertainment last evening at St. Richard's Academy. Through the courtesy and management of Mr. Cokers, district manager for the Bell Telephone Co., the history, progress and ever increasing popularity in business and social activities of the Telephone was ably shown in moving pictures. Details of any portion of the pictures requiring explanation were given by Mr. Cokers. He had with him Miss Helen Naphin of the local staff of the Bell Telephone Co., who gave an excellent talk on the switchboard duties and Miss Warnham demonstrated the work on a switchboard placed there for the purpose.

Mr. Austin Robinson entertained the audience with a delightful banjo selection while Miss K. Bawden and Mr. Ed Brown gave pleasing vocal numbers. The musicians were supported by accompaniment by Mrs. Bawden, the evening was known as a "Canadian Evening," and proved both interesting and instructive. Those present enjoying it to the fullest extent.

"I had a little money at first," she said, almost inaudibly; "but I spent it, and I didn't know where to go, so I just slept where I saw the other poor people sleeping."

"But I don't understand!" exclaimed Jack. "Have you quarrelled with your father, has anything happened to cause you to come up to London like this, in this helpless, solitary fashion? At any rate, whatever is the matter, you must go back to your father, to Vancouver, at once!"

She stood up and her lips moved as if she were repeating his words, as if she were trying to master their meaning. Then suddenly she turned to him and grasped his arm, her large eyes dilating with fear, her pale face whitening.

"No, no!" she panted, "I cannot, I will not! I dare not! I left because they might ask me questions, might get the truth out of me, might ask me why—why you had left Vancouver!"

Jack stared at her, then he changed colour and bit his lip.

"You—you know why I left Vancouver?" he said, with a frown.

She glanced round cautiously as if she were afraid of being overheard.

"Yes, Hubb!" she replied, and her grasp tightened on his arm, her eyes flooded his face with infinite tenderness and with the pathetic appeal of a woman. "Yes, I know! Her eyes wandered, then, with a sudden, dreamy expression settled on her face. "I shall find him," she murmured. "London is large, but I shall find him, I know I shall!"

She took her hand from Jack's arm, and, with a cry, threw her head against her head, and seemed about to swoon; but as if she had forgotten him; then suddenly she swayed to and fro and would have fallen if Jack had not been near enough to catch her.

They had turned down a side street, one of the quiet streets of Lambeth, and they were, there, alone. She lay in a dead faint in Jack's arms, and as he held her he wondered what on earth he should do; call a policeman, get her into a cab, take her—where?

CHAPTER XXXI

As Jack, holding Kate in his arms, was wondering what on earth he should do, by the merest chance a hansom-cab with a passenger came trundling down the street. Jack hailed it and, as it stopped, he lifted Kate into it, told the man to drive to Chase Street.

For sometime Kate remained unconscious, but the warmth of air through the open window at last revived her. She opened her eyes and sighed heavily; then she looked at Jack at first wonderingly, and then with an expression of relief and peace and contentment which touched him to the heart.

"Are you better?" he asked, raising his voice above the rattle of the cab-way cab.

She smiled upon him dreamily and her lips formed a "Yes."

"Then I'll tell you," said Jack, cheerfully, "better not talk now."

She kept her eyes closed for some time, but presently she managed to make herself heard with the question: "Xavier St., Montreal, Jack—you are taking me?"

Jack was pleased and did not answer for a moment or two. Were on earth was he to take her? He knew Mendy Jane too well to imagine that he could take a respectable beautiful female to the Jacobs' without a scene from Mendy Jane and a demand for an explanation, which he was not prepared to give. He might take her to a hotel, but not to a work-house, but the idea was repulsive to him; and besides, she was scarcely ill enough for a hospital, and she would feel degraded if he left her in accordance with a work-house.

"I remember now," he said at last; "but I'll find some place for you, and don't you be afraid. Of course, I must let your father know in the morning that I have found you; you must go back as soon as you are able to make the journey."

She turned to him with a strange look as if she were puzzled and surprised at the answer with which he made the statement.

"Oh, no! you know I can never go back," he said, his lips necessarily close to her ear. "You must not let them know. I would rather die than that they should know I was with you. Promise me that you will not send word, or do anything, and let me get out and go!"

She was puzzled and mystified, but he could not withhold the required promise.

"All right; don't you worry!" he said, "I won't let them know until you give me leave."

She drew a breath of relief and lay back in her corner of the cab with her eyes closed. The man pulled up at the top of Chase Street, and Jack, though he had come to the conclusion that he could not go to any of his brother's friends after all, felt that it would never do to drive up to the house in a cab.

"Can you walk a little way?" he asked. "It is not very far, and of course I'll help you."

She made a gesture of assent, and Jack paid the man and helped her out of the cab, and, supported by his arm, she walked a few paces; but even these few steps taxed her strength too greatly, and presently she looked at Jack "piteously and entreatingly to be carried."

There was to be one in the street at the moment and Jack was about to grab her up bodily and carry her to the house, when a woman came round the corner, walking quickly. She was dressed in black and wore a veil on her bonnet, which, as it was getting a fading woman on his arm, man-like, was quick to appeal to one of her sex, he said.

"I beg your pardon," he said, as the woman came abreast of him, "this lady is ill; would you assist me?"

Then he stopped dead short, struck dumb by the fact that the woman was the widow whom he had twice seen looking for her fugitive daughter.

She paused in her hurried walk and looked at him, and then at Kate, and seemed to hesitate; but at that moment a policeman came to the corner, and she sped away quickly and disappeared down Piper's Row.

Jack drew a deep breath and again gathered Kate in his arms with the intention of carrying her to the house, but she recovered consciousness and stood, supported by his arm, struggling for breath.

"I'm not very far now," said Jack, encouragingly; "quit until you are quite able to walk."

"Eczema All Over Arms Suffered for 12 Years"

Mrs. Murray Hough, Warton, Ont., writes:

"I had eczema for twelve years. Every once in a while it would break out one spread all over my arms. I tried all kinds of treatments to relieve it, but without success. One Spring a book out and nothing gave me relief, even the salve I got from the doctor did no good. At last I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment and it healed the eczema in a short time. That is over a year ago, and I have had no return of the trouble."

Making wash day pleasant—

Just use Rinso where you see used in our "soap—for soaking, boiling, or in your washing machine.

THE hardest part of wash-day, rubbing, rubbing, rubbing, has given way to the new method of soaking the clothes clean with Rinso.

This wonderful new soap gently loosens the dirt and a thorough rinsing leaves things white and glistening as you never could get them before.

Only spots where the dirt is ground-in, such as neck bands, cuff edges, and the like need a light rubbing, and a little dry Rinso rubbed on these spots quickly makes the dirt disappear.

Rinso is sold by all grocers and department stores

Markets

New York, N.Y., May 29.—The market opened this morning in a very quiet and uninteresting mood. Price range was very narrow for the most part, with nothing featuring in either direction. The long holiday this week-end accounts for this quietness, the New York Exchange closing Friday and Saturday, Friday being Decoration day. Some weakness was noted in the low priced shares, due to a report from Washington of the increase in crude oil stocks. The pre-holiday feeling was dominant throughout the day.

Montreal, Que., May 29.—This market was again very dull, with the Spanish Common the leader. This stock opened at 107½ and sold up 109 at the close. The market was otherwise featureless. Saturday will be a holiday for the Montreal market as well as New York, but this exchange does not close Friday.

Closing quotations as supplied by Dickinson & Walbank.

IT'S A FACT

An official in the civil service commission says that even the grave members of one examining board were amused by a certain answer in a set of examination papers.

The question was: "Give for any one year, the number of bills of exchange protested from the United States."

The answer this applicant wrote was: "1492, none"—Harper's.

Quart of Water Cleans Kidneys

TAKE A LITTLE SALTS IF YOUR BACK HURTS, OR BLADDER IS TROUBLING YOU

No man or woman can make a mistake to flush the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eat less meat and drink plenty of water, which excites the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from the blood. Then we

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a burning sensation, get a box of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will be fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the urine, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

CANNIFTON

This week a couple of men have been busy planking the bridge.

We are very glad to report favorable progress in Mrs. Charles Mills condition. She has had a severe attack of pleuro pneumonia. Dr. Ward and Nurse Mills have been attending her.

Mrs. Leslie, Brighton, is spending the week at Mr. C. Mills.

Mr. Jay Farley, Winnipeg, is visiting his father Mr. W. C. Farley.

Mr. Denzil Collett got badly burned about the face and arm by acid at the Corbyville Distillery.

Rev. H. B. Kenny, Belleville, was a caller Monday at Mr. W. C. Farley's.

Mr. A. Holzate purchased a fine motor boat to add to the fleet in the river also.

Mr. Tom Smith received word of the sudden death of his son-in-law, Mr. Tom Fox of Saskatoon. He was well-known here having lived for some time at Stirling.

Mrs. John Vanderwater was a visitor at Mr. Walter Gilberts on Monday.

Mrs. John Robinson, Corbyville, spent Wednesday at Mr. W. B. Gilbert's.

PETERBORO DOGS ARE STOLEN FROM CATCHER

Peterboro, May 29.—Stealing dogs from the city dog catcher seems to be a favorite pastime just now. Last week he applied for new pens, since those now in use are not considered dog proof or thief proof.

The old pens were repaired, Alderman Fife told the Committee of the whole council last night but someone had stolen a dog on Monday night.

Alderman McIntyre was the only member who sympathized with the dogs, most of the Aldermen evincing a desire to assist dog catcher Gates. Alderman McIntyre's plea to give the dogs a chance was heartlessly received and some arrangements for safeguarding the canine wanderers and providing a dog's home will be made by Alderman Fife.

James Murdock, Minister of Labor, The Cabinet Ministers are: Prime Minister King, Hon. James A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance; Hon. George P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals; Hon. Thomas A. Low, Minister of Trade and Commerce. The three former Home Bank directors are Richard P. Booth, J. F. M. Stewart and S. B. Chant. Wood, all of Toronto.

KINGSTON ROAD SHOWER

Mr Chas. Mitchell and Miss Rose Weaver were quietly married on Saturday evening, May 17th, and a reception and shower were tendered to them the following Thursday evening by their many friends at the groom's fathers' Mr. J. E. Mitchell

Though taken very much by surprise they make their friends very welcome and proved themselves a very genial host and hostess to a very enjoyable evening s pent in games, music and dancing.

Luncheon was served at midnight after which dancing continued until a late hour. The large number of gifts the young people received testified to the esteem they are held in the neighborhood.

Their many friends wish them "Bon Voyage" through life.

INSPECTION AT TRENTON

Trenton, May 28.—The annual inspection of the Trenton High School Cadet Corps was held on the school campus at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The event was witnessed by a large number of citizens and members of the School Board Capt. V. W. S. Hyde, of the R.C.R., Kingston, was the inspecting officer. He commended the corps upon its excellent appearance and efficiency.

HAS LARGE SURPLUS

Toronto, May 29.—It is understood that the surplus of the Toronto Hydro-Electric system is $132,000, out of a total revenue of approximately $7,500,000, according to the annual report, which will be out in a day or two.

A NEW CAMP FOR GIRLS

Miss H. F. Gillender, formerly manager of the Canadian National Railways' log cabin camp "Nominican", at Algonquin Park, and Miss Annie L. Kranz, formerly Assistant Manager of the same camp, have severed their connection with the Canadian National Railways and have established a new girl's camp known as "Gill-Kra on Smoke Lake, one of the most beautiful lakes in Algonquin Park. These ladies are well known by a very large number of residents from the United States and Canada, who have, during the past few years, been guests at Nominican Camp, and the new camp which they have organized will, no doubt, be a very successful one from the start. Camp "Gil-Kra will be equipped with a competent personnel who will give instruction in woodcraft nature study and astronomy, while special arrangements have been made for the tutoring of backward pupils in Latin, French and Mathematics. The chief purpose of the camp is to develop physical fitness, and endurance to a higher degree, through swimming, paddling, rowing, hiking and other outdoor sports. THE FEW

The easy roads are crowded;
And the level roads are jammed;
And the pleasant rivers
With drifting folks are crammed.
But off yonder where it's rocky,

Where you get a better view,
You will find the ranks are thinning
And the travellers are few.

Where the going's smooth and pleasant

You will always find the throng.
For the many, move's the pity,
Seem to like to drift along.
But the steps that call for courage,
And the task that's hard to do!
In the end results in glory
For the never-wavering few.

UNEMPLOYMENT TO BE SOLVED MAYOR CLAIMS

City Construction Works to be Pushed Immediately, He Says

PLENTY OF LABORERS

Dozen Turned Away Every Day at Patterson Construction Company

When asked what the attitude of the city was with regard to relieving labor conditions, Mayor Mills this afternoon very emphatically stated that everything in the power of the Public Works Department and the Labor committee of the city was being done to assist in the matter.

"The Public Works Department is preparing plans as rapidly as possible for the pavement in Corbyville and the sewer to Albert College", asserted the Mayor.

"Furthermore, we have asked the Government to get the preliminary work commenced as soon as possible in the Corbyville road matter", he said.

Mayor Mikel explained that the Labor committee had their work, and it hoped will be under way very shortly. The Corby locks have been commenced, and other work will follow.

"We plan to not only supply work for men in the summer, but also in the winter and throughout the whole year. The result of which will be the discontinuance of the dole system which has been practiced here in past winters."

What is Belleville going to do for her unemployed?

That is the question of the hour with many out of work in the city, who by virtue of their business are in a position to know just what the city or conditions are. They wish to know also if the city fathers are aware of the situation, and what they, or the Provincial Government plan to do to alleviate the conditions.

"The unfortunate part of the situation is the fact that the men are, well known, decent men who are anxious to get work", explained Mr. Bone, "and on several occasions loans have been made to us by applicants in straightened circumstances in order to keep the landlord from turning them out."

A woman in tears, whose husband had been unemployed for six months was recently given a loan of $15 to pay the rent, and similar cases are to be found in the city. Good men are leaving the city owing to the lack of work.

The Patterson Construction Company are working on two or three little jobs requiring skilled movement, but that they have no big jobs in sight, especially this season, Mr. Bone said construction and building operations had certainly fallen off as compared to the same period last year.

"Of course the weather condition, have been very adverse also", added Mr. Bone.

Work which was done and which could be commenced almost immediately, as outlined to The Intelligencer is the pavement of Corbyville and the construction of the sewer to Albert College. This is work which the city must do, it was pointed out, and there was no time like the present.

Then there is the half mile of road construction at Foxboro, and the six miles of road sewer between Belleville and Trenton. Tenders for the Trent road job closed on March 31st, but the job has not as yet been let and only part of the work altogether called for tenders again, for either a macadam or concrete road. Progress on the Foxboro section also closed in March.

Are Good Men.

When the representative of the Government Employment Office here was interviewed, he said "There are, a considerable of first class, steady workmen who are, really anxious for employment. This number does not include the stragglers from other centres, but are married and have homes in the city.

"Men should have steady work from now until Christmas if the city is anxious to overcome the hardships of a future winter unemployment depression.

The feature for today is "Richard the Lion Hearted."

ANNOUNCE RATES TODAY

Announcement was made in Toronto today that the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission is sending out notifications, to 218 Hydro municipalities on Yate additionals. Fifty-four are having their present rate confirmed, three are being advised of slight increases and 155 are to be greeted with good news of reduction.

What the future for Belleville remains unknown yet today. Officials in the city say they had not no hint of what might happen here, although no change was expected.

WILLIAM G. BARBER HEADS TELEGRAPHS

Announcement is Made Today by Vice-President Robb

(Special to Intelligencer)

Montreal, May 30.—Announcement was made today by W. B. Robb, vice-president of the amalgamated Mackay-Bell, of the appointment of William G. Barber, of Belleville, as manager of Canadian National Telegraphs. Mr. Barber succeeds the late Mr. Manager C. Smith, whose death occurred on New Year's Day. The new manager was born in Toronto on December 21, 1872, he learned telegraphy in one of the Toronto Branch offices and soon became an expert operator. He was one of the first to use the typewriter in copying press despatches and telegrams direct from the wire.

Later he joined the Associated Press and subsequently entered the duties of office returning to Toronto in January, 1902, to enter the employ of the Great North Western Telegraph Company, now part of the Canadian National Telegraph. Shortly after assuming his connection with that company he was appointed travelling inspector. This first appointment in connection with superintendent of the Ontario Division and city manager, Mr. Barber became superintendent. Mr. Barber being the first appointee to the new created position.

On January 2nd, of this year Mr. Barber was made General Superintendent of the office combining the duties of the former general traffic superintendent and general commercial superintendent. Mr. Barber will assume the duties of his new position as manager on June 1st.

Charles E. Rutter, who has been acting General manager since the death of Mr. Smith, has been appointed assistant General Manager in charge of Electrical Engineering, Plant and Railways service.

Business Looking Up In Hollywood

Increased Production raises Hopes for Renewed Prosperity

Hollywood, May 31.—Hollywood is out of the trenches of pessimism and peering over the parapets to greet the sunrise. The barometer of prosperity sagely raised or lowered as directed by Famous Players-Lasky corporation is registering fair weather ahead. Hollywood is happy.

Vice-President Jesse L. Lasky has returned to the Pacific Coast studio from the sales department in New York or organization, held to Son Francisco, brought back the announcement that "Paramount will launch at once the most extensive production program ever attempted in the history of the organization."

Naturally studio-land is looking up while real estate dealers, automobile salesmen and vendors of "eats" in the movie colony are growing cheerful again.

Forty pictures will be released by Paramount between September 1 and February 1, 1925, according to Lasky's announcement, in order to supply theatres with enough pictures to maintain that have ever been attempted simultaneously throughout the year. Production during the next thirty days at the Hollywood and Long Island studios of the organization.

Only a few of the forty pictures required for the summer release have been made to date, Lasky said, require the last such Paramount plans may to capacity for the next ninety days.

CHANGES HIS ADDRESS TO THE COUNTY JAIL

Christopher Olmstead a resident of the northern part of Hastings County has had his address changed for three months, namely the County jail in his city. Before Magistrate Jarmon of Tweed, he pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of clothing, the property of Mr. Fred Parsons, and the court was of the opinion that the same sentence was meted out.

Miss Gwen Is Now Two Score Miles Away From Washington and President Coolidge

Miss Gwen Lasker is now but fifty miles away from Washington and President Coolidge to whom she is due to present an invitation to the U. S. C. reception here in two weeks time. Mayor Mikel has received assistance by wire from the young lady stating that she reached Baltimore yesterday and would be staying there for three days. The Mayor is confident that when the people are greeting her cordially and generally Miss Gwen will be been planned in her honor.

It is believed that arrangements are completed for her reception by President Coolidge.

The first organization meeting of the President, the Secretary and the chairmen of the standing committees was appointed to look into the camping site matter throughout the city and also to consider and report on the available sites for a tourist camp.

A spirited discussion took place as to the best plan to keep motor cars on busy streets. Several were of the opinion that the duties of police in a diagonal position gave accession for a larger number of cars and far more facility for moving cars in front of the line. The principal difficulty in the way appeared to be the narrowness of the pavements.

Mosquito's Paradise

Several of the members took strong exception to the continued use of Clark's Island as a camping site for reach the island motorists were compelled to pass the night among by no means an enticing spectacle for many they were of the opinion they would find that it was at night infested with mosquitoes in far greater than the city; thus preventing any value that it might otherwise have because of the patronage of Belleville business men. A tourist camp, it was represented, should be as near as possible to the business centre of the city and provided with proper conveniences for the motor travellers. It was thought that such a site could be secured and provided by the Council on the part of the Club and the City itself. The proper and special committee will give every consideration to the matter and present and report at a general meeting of the Club to be held in the near future.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn made strong remarks upon the necessity for some greater precaution in motoring about the city and expressed the hope that the Club would undertake to make suitable provision along this line.

The committee was also authorized to procure an attractive sign for the motor headquarters of the Club at the Chamber of Commerce.

After some matters of a routine nature had been arranged the meeting adjourned.

ROBBERS GRAB ROLL, AMOUNTS TO $20,000

Detroit, Mich., May 30.—Robbers obtained a $20,000 payroll at 5 p.m. yesterday at the body plant of J. W. Murray Manufacturing Co., Mortsel and Fordyce Streets. A paymaster was taking the money to the plant to pay off 700 employes, when an automobile drove up and two armed men jumped out, thrust revolvers under the paymaster's nose and snatched the satchel containing the money from his hand.

The robbery was being transported from a bank to the plant by the Bridge Express Company in an armored car. James Hoore, manager of the Murray Company, as well as representatives of the express company, refused to give any information.

CALL MEETING FOR OFFICIALS ON POWER PLAN

St. Lawrence Development To Be Discussed Here Next Friday

PRESCOTT MEETS TOO

Sir Adam Beck May be Speaker At Both Places

Interest is steadily growing throughout eastern Ontario in the St. Lawrence power development project.

Announcement was made today by from the Deep Waterways Association that a meeting of all interested citizens and officials of Belleville and the neighboring territory would be held in the City Council Chamber next Friday afternoon at three o'clock.

The object of the meeting is to organize itself for the active support of power development.

It is expected that Sir Adam Beck will be here to speak, although no definite information is at hand as yet. Down at Prescott, there is to be a meeting on Thursday of next week, almost identical with the one in this city the following day and Sir Adam has been definitely advised to speak on that occasion.

It is expected that a strong and representative organization may be formed pro tem at this afternoon's meeting, the Mayors, Reeves and Presidents of the various boards of trade in eastern Ontario are being asked to send delegates, by wire, to the meeting of Friday, June 5th at Prescott.

The necessity for additional power for use in Eastern Ontario is said to be becoming constantly more urgent and every effort is being made to secure some favorable action from the Dominion Government.

It is confidently expected there will be many representatives present in Belleville.

POLICE ARE AFTER TWO HOLD-UP MEN

William Blakely Claims He Was Robbed of $170 Roll

Provincial officers, S. Maker and Robert Dennis, from Madoc had the investigation, where they investigated the hold-up robbery which occurred on the Belleville-Madoc road Wednesday night. The investigation continues today, and warrants for the arrest of two men are out. Provincial officers here know the names of the men, but did not divulge the names this morning as their publication might hamper the officers in their work of affecting the arrests.

According to the story as told by the two officers after completing the investigation, a farmer named William Blakely, who resides just south of the old mines on the west side of the Madoc road, had been out in his motor car with the two suspects. After leaving a drinking party, in which the farmer had participated, Blakely's "roll" of $170 was missing. Yesterday morning he notified the Provincial police here and the investigation result. Blakely was the hold up on the road as was first reported.

CORONER'S JURY FIND VERDICT OF MURDER

Lindsay, Ont., May 30—The inquest into the death of Elizabeth Burns, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Burns, Somerville, was held and killed by her lover, Fred McGaughey, on Sunday night last, was held yesterday afternoon before Dr. Logan, coroner. Nothing of the sensational nature developed, and after hearing the evidence the jury brought in the following verdict:

"We, the undersigned jurors empanelled to inquire into the death of the late Lilian Beatrice Fee, find that she came to her death in the County of Ont. in the County of Victoria, on Sunday, May 25th, 1924, after a brief and murdered Lilian Beatrice Fee, at the hands of one Lord, the King this crown and dignity."

NIAGARA FALLS BOY DROWNED IN POOL

Niagara Falls, Ont., May 30.—Joseph A. Dempsey, 17 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dempsey of this city, was drowned in the whirlpool rapids here today. No trace of the body has been found. He jumped from the boat in which he was rowing and attempted to swim ashore, but had gone only a few strokes when he disappeared. Dempsey went to the whirlpool early yesterday morning with Morely Pearson, 23 years old, and Edward Barry, 21, son of Immigration Inspector Barry of this city, to put their boat in the river and row it down the rapids and take the boat to Queenston. Barry has an artificial foot and Pearson a broken wrist and three fingers on the left hand, it is believed that Dempsey got into the boat because he was better able to do the rowing.

In the last 10 years 21 daily newspapers in Ontario were out of existence, and there are 33 left in existence cities and towns. NOTABLE PROGRESS MADE BY MOVIES

Kitchener Record

The moving picture business has had a lot of rocks thrown at it—in many cases, deservedly so. But when we watch a modern high-grade feature film, and compare it with the crude picture of 15 and more years ago, we can't help but wonder if the movies haven't advanced more in 20 years than the so-called legitimate stage advanced in 20 centuries. The progress has been phenomenal, both mechanically and artistically.

HE PLAYED GOLF

Guelph Mercury

One of the items mentioned in the charges of Minister of Agriculture Motherwell against the former Veterinary Director-General of Canada was that while on a convention visit to Calgary he carried his golf sticks with him.

What a crime! There might have been a few hours relaxation from the trying session of such a convention and it was a better idea for the official to carry golf sticks than a grouch at having to idle some time in hotel smoke rooms listening to a lot of stories that must have been stale to any Ottawa official.

There is a consensus of opinion that the former Veterinary General was a most efficient and painstaking official, and one against whom no slanderous anonymous letter should have been accepted as evidence of wrong doing.

It's one of the worst features of official Government service that too much carry and jealousy exists and that high official listen to the petty complaints concerning private actions of others that do not interfere with the discharge of official business.

The Peeker

By W. H. G.

Except when engaged in the more delicate operations of his trade, Bill Crossley had a habit of talking to himself.

As he cleaned his automatic in the seclusion of his room in a hotel in the lower side of the city after a night's raiding, the following monologue might have been heard, say, had one been listening through the key hole.

"Gentle, old girl," addressing his pet companion, "this is honestly the last job, so-to-speak. I've got three thousand tied together now. Well just collect enough for real grand time tonight and beat it for a certain old ranch I know of, where no cops are known and you can rest for the rest of your natural."

Had anyone happened then to be peeking through the keyhole, they would have been just in time to see Bill fondly pat his gat affectionately, and stow it in the right hand pocket of his overcoat, and walk over to the wash stand before leaving the room.

* * *

It was just dusk when Bill went out into the street. Turning into a pool room not far distant, he whiled away his time with a chance acquaintance. He left the place at 10.20 o'clock.

"Stick 'em up and keep 'em up!"

Bill's voice, as all good professional voices should be, sounded very sinister in the shadowy deserted environment of Pearl Street. The only person who heard it was a big broad shouldered gentleman, whose prosperous appearance certainly seemed out of place on such a street, and who did not hesitate to obey, in fact he held his arms very high while Bill frisked all his pockets and still he had disappeared around the corner.

Shortly after Bill let himself in his room with his key.

"Wow, old girl, we surely picked a peach of one. That bird had a roll fat enough to take us on a trip around the world."

Then Gertie was laid on the bureau and, with trembling fingers Bill started to count his last haul on the bed.

Nearing the end of his count, his body stiffened. For one moment, the crook sat motionless; and then with quick, nervous steps he walked across to the washstand, stuck his hand in the tall water pitcher, drew it out empty and whistled softly.

The prosperous, big shouldered gentleman of Pearl Street HAD been looking through the key hole.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor of The Intelligencer,

Dear Sir,—

An interesting, as well as, an instructive article was given by the morning press, January 7th, 1924, in which the Chairman of the Church Union Committee of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston, of the Presbyterian Church in Canada makes the following statement:

"Two votes of the people have already been taken—1911 and 1912—in the General Assembly, with an overwhelming majority at each voting, resulting in Church Union. The second carrying a foot-note "declaring that such vote was to be regarded as the final expression of the people's will."

Moreover, it must be borne in mind the Presbyterian Body had been considering and discussing this problem of Union since 1902, and even anti-dating that time. Besides these decisions for Union by the General Assembly—as already given, the Presbyteries of Canada early in 1922 voted on the Union question, which will be referred to later.

Now observe, after years of thoughtful preparation, and without pressure; in fact with much deliberation, the Presbyterian Church in Canada through its General Assembly on two different occasions years apart, 1911-15, committed the Presbyterian Church to Union with the Congregational and Methodist Churches of Canada by overwhelming majorities of the Assemblies already mentioned.

It is well to remember, these were voluntary acts on the part of the Presbyterian people, through their highest Court the General Assembly. It must be maintained much time had elapsed to make all necessary changes of delegates, inserting thorough representation in Presbyteries and General Assemblies, as the years passed.

All reasonable people will attest, twenty years was a reasonable length of time for any body of people endowed with ordinary intelligence to arrive at a decision for or against any specific policy, Union, or what not, in Church or State.

Out of the two Presbyteries 62 emphatically declared in favor of proceeding immediately with the consummation of Union.

It is worthy of note Presbyteries are made up of equal numbers of minister and lay-delegates.

What more could be asked? Do not majorities rule? Have not majority decisions in Church politics marked the progress of the Presbyterian Church in Canada? Have not majorities ruled in Conventions, Conferences, Assemblies and Synods, throughout Canada heretofore? Assuredly they have.

Then what are the Presbyterian people going to do? Are they going to stand firm, and carry out their part nobly in this great Union Movement or will they allow their church courts (Presbyteries and Assembly) honored in the past, to be emasculated and nullified before the world? To break faith with the great Congregational and Methodist Churches of this Fair Dominion (National boundary lines count for little here) is to break faith with all.

Beware lest some would strangle the validity of your church courts, worshipping a "majority rule" which seem, but losing entirely the larger vision and work of the Church.

Dare—the great Presbyterian people—become an astonishing, a proverb, and a by-word among the nations? The repudiation of the Great Union Movement at this time (so evident in all English speaking countries) would surely be the end to pass.

Let there be a liberality, a breadth of thought and action in this tremendous undertaking, worthy the churches so intimately related in spiritual work, and make Union a reality in the land we so proudly acclaim—Canada, our home.

To frustrate this work, might reveal conditions a little less grave than a national calamity.

Yours truly,
THOMAS WICKETT.

Electro-plating a Canadian Railway Operation

Photographs showing electro-plating operations at the Angus Shops, Montreal. No. 1 shows the tanks in which small articles are hung for plating, and No. 5 the lacquering process. The text below explains the other photographs fully.

Passengers on the Trans-Canada and other Canadian trains have often admired the tableware with which the dining cars are equipped, but comparatively few of the travelling public appreciate the extent to which electro-plating enters into every day use on a Railway. As a matter of fact, practically all metal hardware parts of passenger equipment intended to be plated, many of the engine parts, including the copper reflector of the head-light are plated, and various platings are used on a thousand and one articles which enter daily into the life of a railroader.

The traveller notices the silver plate perhaps more than any other, but many metals are used by the railroad companies. Gold, for instance, is used by the Canadian Pacific for plating pepper caster tops and similar articles, copper is used on lighting and other metal car fixtures, zinc on refrigerator hardware, nickel on kitchen utensils, tin on trainmen's lanterns, mercury on telegraph elements and aluminum or lead on miscellaneous articles.

At its Angus Shops, Montreal, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company has quite an extensive plant where the most of its electro-plating is carried on. The method used by this Company is a simple one but none the less effective.

The articles to be plated are first chemically cleaned, after which they are usually hung from a metal bar into a long vat where they are immersed in a chemical solution which varies with the metal to be deposited. The electric current, which is of low voltage, is connected, the positive pole to the metal plate or plates, and the negative to the bar from which the articles to be plated are suspended. As the electric current flows from the plating metal to the suspended articles, the metal is carried through the solution and deposited in the form of a thin coating over the entire surface of the required article.

This process is well illustrated in No. 2, which shows two electric headlight reflectors in the process of receiving silver plating. In this case the plate of silver is suspended in the centre of the reflector, which is filled with cyanide of potassium solution, and the electric current flows from the plate to the reflector which is, itself, the negative pole.

Illustration No. 3 shows the next step in the treatment of the headlight reflector, which, by the way, gives the highest concentration of light known. This is hand burnishing, the operator burnishing two reflectors in a working day. For articles which can be readily polished by a rotating buffing wheel, this is accomplished in the manner shown in No. 4.

Upon completion of the polishing operation, articles to be so treated are placed in a metal container and, by means of a small compressed air gun, sprayed with suitable lacquer. If it is desired to oxidize the plated article in order to make it harmonize with woodwork or other material, as is often the case with copper platings, it is exposed to heat or vapor, or immersed in some solution prior to the application of the finishing coat of lacquer.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company was the first large corporation in Canada to instal its own electro-plating plant, but during the last few years this method of protecting metal from oxidation has developed into quite an industry and one which employs a large number of Canadian workmen.

Labor Wins Out In Old Country

Government Has Majority Of 48 When House Divides

LIBERALS ARE AFRAID

Not Ready to Se eMacDonald Go To The Country

London, May 30.—By what may, under the circumstances, be regarded as the quite comfortable majority of 48, the Labor Government last night in the House of Commons again succeeded in resisting attack on its existence, when Sir William Joynson-Hicks' motion to reduce the salary of the Labor Minister, Tom Shaw, by £100 was rejected after a long debate.

The motion was merely a technical way of expressing disapproval of the Government's policy respecting unemployment, and a similar motion was talked out in the House recently. Prior to the recording of the vote Premier MacDonald declared that, in the event of a Government defeat, Labor would go before the country in a general election.

On division the vote stood 300 to 252 in the Government's favor. H. H. Asquith, the Liberal Leader, having announced that his party would not vote against the Government.

There were lively scenes of jubilation and counter-demonstrations when the vote became known, and shouts of "Where is Lloyd George?"

Mr. Lloyd George attended the Liberal meeting to decide upon what action should be taken on the vote, but had not returned to the House when Mr. Asquith announced the decision of his party, and his absence provoked gossip of a split among the Liberals.

Get Liberal Support

The figures of the division showed that 100 Liberals voted with the Government, and 30 abstained from voting. The final speakers were Stanley Baldwin, the Conservative Leader, and John R. Clynes, Deputy Labor Leader, Mr. Clynes like the Premier, expressed perfect confidence and readiness to fight out the question on election platforms.

The peculiar political situation and the unusual constitution of the House of Commons lend an air of unreality to the repeated attacks on the Labor Government in Parliament, in the opinion of well-informed political observers.

No doubt exists among these observers that the Conservative wing of the Parliamentary Opposition is quite ready to vote the Government out of office at any moment. This, however, is not the state of affairs in the Liberal wing, because in the recent by-election the Liberal candidates fared so badly that the party does not dare to take the risk of an appeal to the country at the present moment.

Seeking Release Of Missionaries

Canadian Government takes Action; Toronto Man is Captured

Pekin, May 30.—The British and American Consuls are co-operating in an endeavor to obtain the release of the four missionaries who were carried off by Chinese bandits in Kwangsi Province. The Consuls are taking the matter up with the Canton Government.

It appears that the captured missionaries, Rev. Robert A. Jaffray of Toronto, Canada; E. H. Carne, an Australian, and two Americans, H. G. Miller and Rex Ray, were proceeding to Kweilin for the rescue of a number of fellow-missionaries residing there. Kweilin has been beleaguered for some time by a General supposedly representing the Northern interests and the missionaries there have frequently been reported in jeopardy or even dead.

The rescuing party were sailing up the West River from Wuchow to Pingnan, in the American-owned ship Roanoke, and ten miles below the latter place the vessel was raided by pirates and the four missionaries were carried off to the desolate hills.

The party were proceeding under American auspices, and with the approval of the Chinese Government.

Takes Prompt Action

Ottawa, May 30—The Canadian Government has taken prompt action regarding the capture by Chinese pirates of four missionaries, included among whom is one Canadian, Rev. Robert A. Jaffray, of Toronto, Canadian head of the Christian Missionary Alliance at Wuchow, Southern China.

GETTING ALONG BETTER

Ottawa, Ont., May 29.—Hon. G. P. Graham, minister of railways, when delivering his railway budget in the house yesterday afternoon claimed a betterment of $20,000,000 in the finances of the Canadian National railway, been used for capital account and loss in 1923, compared with 1922. Of this amount it is stated that $18,000,000 has been applied to lessening the demands upon the public treasury, while the remaining $5,000,000 has outlays. Making allowance for the reduction referred to, the net deficit of the National system in 1923 was around $35,000,000.

Plan To Work Out Two Junior Pitchers

In Game With Point Anne Intermediates This Afternoon

Pitching duties in the exhibition game between Belleville juniors and Point Anne intermediates, which will start at 6 p.m. to-day (Point Anne time) at the Cement town diamond, will be divided between Ritchie Arnott and Salsbury, two of the young ash artists of Manager Harry Soares' five string batting staff.

The local youths are anxious to see how they will stack up against the team which, through heats by the Grand Trunks in a recent exhibition game, are conceded by the Bathurders to be a mighty intermediate aggregation. Frank Gayer of this city is handling the cement makers, and Joe Kelleher, former third sacker with the Trunks, plays with the teams The Belleville representatives in the Hastings and Prince Edward counties league, promise to warm up whether the weather is warm or not.

The juniors play next league game on Friday June sixth against Minnens, in the northern town. Tuesday, Minnens juniors are trying conclusions with Tweed nine at Tweed.

TWO HEAVYWEIGHTS READY FOR THE FRAY

Michigan City, Ind., May 30.—There are at least ten arguments advanced by the backers of Tom Gibbons and by the backers of Georges Carpentier which, if believed, will force the conclusion that both must win Saturday.

With but one more day of active training, each boxer worked out well and at the conclusion, the Gibbons people refuted every argument the Carpentier side advanced and the French man's backers lauched merrily, telling just how the ace would trim the American.

Gibbons looks and is in perfect condition. The Frenchman is just as good as far as appearances go, never having displayed so much life or pep. Experts who saw him work at Manhattan when he was preparing for Jack Dempsey, are united in declaring him in far better condition and more impressive to watch.

The fighters are equal in size and weight and in everything in that goes to make a great fighting machine.

There are arguments on hitting power, gameness, cleverness, stamina, intelligence and all the rest of it, but they are arguments, nothing more.

Both At Danger Point

Not a great deal more will be done by either boxer as far as the condition leg process is concerned. Both are at the danger point right now with a chance of over-doing it.

The St. Paul man did a huge amount of work and polished in great shape. It is known that he is planning to make it a close range fight for the first three or four rounds, working inside the Frenchman's right and then see if he cannot peck the Parisian to pieces with long range work.

There is little doubt that the Frenchman's best chance is at long range with his mighty right.

Carpentier meanwhile, who is found the rated at the gate of his camp had been exercising and has adopted others than newspaper curfew and rule and with the slightest pace in last week after entering the city there is not to go beyond 9:30 P.M. week-ends. Gus Wilson remains in charge of the camp.

Georges was mad all the way through, however, and took his bump out on his sparring mates. His workout was the best anyone has seen him put on.

Belleville Ladies Are Off to Toronto

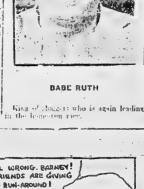

There to Play Teams of Picked Bowlers at Carrey's Alleys

Within the past few weeks a number of contests have been sent from Belleville to Washington, Toronto, Detroit and Montreal to challenge the Toronto Carrey's Alleys' Bowling Alleys, there, to uphold the reputation they have attained in the art of bowling and to promote good feeling with the "Queen City".

Mr. Jones Alexander, Social Director of the Y.M.C.A., will accompany the ladies who are motoring to Toronto to-morrow morning. The Belleville ladies are taking two teams. These go by motor.

Miss Gertie Lee, Captain; Miss Beta Sawyer; Mrs. Jack White; Mrs. Strachen and Mrs. Annie Lanfear.

Miss Stella Ford, Captain; Mrs. A. Geary, Mrs. Margaret Geary, Mrs. Edgar Whalen and Mrs. E. Spague.

ON THE ALLEYS

Domenico's Recreation Alleys

The senior league finished up at the Recreation Alleys last night when the Wanderers and Hikers bowled off the second prize, the Hikers going out in the third game and banging up a new record for a single game rolling 1242 or 4 pins more than the previous record which has been on the board for some time. The Wanderers got a lead on the Hikers of 127 pins in the first game but in the second and third the Hikers rolled some very high scores and won out by over 200 pins. The shining lights were Simpson with 324 for a high single and 661 for his three strings. Wannacott also rolled 322 for his high. For the Wanderers Lynch was high with 697.

In the ladies' league the Belmonts lost to the Wanderers by 168 pins and automatically giving the Main Jewellers the first place in the ladies league and the right to play off with the Lucky Strike winners of the winter league. Miss M. Gorman and Mrs. Lee were the highest bowlers for their respective teams.

The Spark Plugs lined up another win when they defeated the Durant Motors in a league fixture. This puts the Spark Plugs at the top of the junior league with 7 wins and 1 loss. Mar and Smith were the two best bowlers. In the second junior game the Ruby Shoes made it two straight wins in a row when they won from the Lucky Strikes, the latter team playing true to form and barring to take two John Doe scores. Cater for the winners was high man with 641.

Sulphur Clears A Pimply Skin

APPLY SULPHUR AS TOLD WHEN YOUR SKIN BREAKS OUT

Any breaking out of the skin on face neck, arms or body is overcome quickly by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.

CHARACTER TELLS THE STORY!

People throughout this country are giving more thought to hygiene and to the purity of remedies on the market, but no one doubts the purity of Doctor Pierce's vegetable medicines, for they have been so well known for over fifty years that everyone knows they are just what they are claimed to be. These medicines are the result of long research by a well-known physician, R. V. Pierce, M. D., who surrounded them from health-giving herbs and roots long used in sickness by the Indians. Dr. Pierce's reputation as a leading and honored citizen of Buffalo, is a sufficient guarantee for the purity of that splendid tonic and blood purifier, the Golden Medical Discovery, and the equally fine nerve tonic and system builder for women's ailments, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Send 10c. for trial pkg. tablets to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ontario.

VEGETABLE SALAD

To 4 cups of potatoes (cut in cubes) add 1 cup peas, 1-2 cup carrots (diced) Add 1 small green onion cut very fine. Serve on lettuce and garnish with cucumbers, beets and hard-boiled eggs. This combination can be varied to suit your larder. If fish is left over from Friday's dinner it can be flaked and added, this makes a substantial course in itself.

AN INVITATION TO ROME

Orange Sentinel

The Editor of The Sentinel is deeply impressed with the solicitude of a Roman Catholic correspondent in the City of Toronto. He has written a letter of seven pages, evidently designed to effect our conversion to Roman Catholicism.

Such a deep interest in the salvation of the Editor of The Sentinel (whom he fears cannot enter into Heaven upon the grounds of his invincible ignorance) reveals a deep tenderness and eternal welfare that is creditable to him. He is also at pains to explain that he will take care of our immediate temporal welfare, as this concluding sentence of his letter shows—

"Come! Be an honest man. Investigate our Church and you will soon be a Catholic. A man of your intelligence can obtain another newspaper position, perhaps on the Register.

We will, of course, give this suggestion our most serious consideration.

Nineteen-year-old Beatrice Fee, of Toronto, who died in Lindsay hospital, with four bullet wounds below the heart. Fred McGaughey, of Omemee, her sweetheart, is held in the county jail on a charge of murder. Coroner Kay attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself and drinking paris green after wounding the girl.

TREMENDOUS PUNCH IN FILM SPECTACLE

Fulfilling the most enthusiastic predictions of early reviewers, "Richard the Lion-Hearted," Associated Authors' screen version of "The Talisman," an Allied Producers and Distributors Corporation release, is proving one of the screen sensations of the season at the Griffin Theatre, where is opened last night.

Touching the highlights of the adventurous King Richard's career and based on his Third Crusade into the Holy Land, "Richard the Lion-Hearted" has been produced with a lavishness that is both a powerful historical and entertainment appeal.

In stupendous settings, constructed with a keen appreciation of conformity of historical records, the scenes of conflict between King Richard's valiant knights and the swarthy Saracen infidels who had gained possession of the Holy Sepulchre, have been screened with inspiring realism. The stirring action of the picture, combined with the throbbing romance of the story, carries a tremendous "punch" that cannot fail further to endear Scott's famous novel, on which it is based.

Costumes of unsurpassed beauty have been used throughout the production. Forty thousand dollars was spent in providing the magnificent robes of velvet, satin, silk and fur worn by the king, the queen and the court ladies. The metal helmets worn by the knights proved even more costly than the fabric costumes as they had to be made to order for the production.

Wallace Beery's characterization of Richard stands out as one of the finest pieces of screen delineation ever drawn, while other members of the cast, including Kathleen Clifford, Marguerite de la Motte, John Bowers, Charles Gerrard, Clarence Geldert, Wilton Rigby and Tully Marshall give equally creditable performances.

"REFUGE" IS STORY OF COUNTESS AND SOLDIER

A countess and a French soldier are the chief figures in the plot of "Refuge," Katherine MacDonald's latest picture, which is now playing at the Regent Theatre where it opened a three-day engagement yesterday. This First National attraction was produced by J. Stuart Blackton. The star is cast as the Countess Nadia, while Hugh Thompson plays opposite her in the role of the Frenchman.

The story, which is from the pen of Lois Zellner, is a most unusual one. The countess and the soldier become married only a few hours after their first meeting, and both are compelled to play "being in love" under the scrutiny of hundreds of eyes, in the castle of Morvinia. Their marriage is only the first of a series of exciting adventures which culminate in the soldier ascending the throne of the country—and the awakening of love.

Others in the cast are Arthur Edmund Carewe, Fred de Silva, Mary Mayne, Mathilde Brundage, Grace Morse, Victor Potel and J. Gordon Russel.

Victor Schertzinger directed the story.

THE PROOF OF SPRING

I have blisters on my hand;
Spring is here!
And I've a crick in my neck to stand;
Spring is here!
I have radish seed to sow
And a mile of lawn to mow
And a flower bed to hoe;
Spring is here!
I must put in tasty screens;
Spring is here!
Then I've got to plant the beans;
Spring is here!
I've a flower bed to make—
How my arms and sides do ache!
Ouch!—I've just stepped on a rake—

WHY CLERKS FIB

Little drama of woman trying on new shoe:

"Don't it fit that one," she says to the clerk. "Fit this one. I've got a sore toe and I like to fit the foot which aches."

Interval of fitting.

"Is that 2 or 2 1-2?" she inquires anxiously. "If course it doesn't make any difference. I'll take the one which fits."

The clerk fib, number 5 1-2.

"Now doesn't that look queer?" she murmurs pensively. "I don't like that at all. It throws a cramp in my foot the first thing. I like that one."

And she takes the number 5.—Emporia Gazette.

COAL MINERS ACCEPT TERMS

London, May 30.—The prolonged dispute over the question of the coal miners' wages was definitely settled yesterday when a full conference of the miners' delegates voted 473 to 211 to accept the terms of the agreement reached by the miners' federation after negotiations with the owners on May 15.

Sage Tea Dandy To Darken Hair

IT'S GRANDMOTHER'S RECIPE TO BRING BACK COLOR AND LUSTRE TO HAIR

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, say druggists, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriously dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray, faded, unattractive looks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

People who work with their eyes constantly

Would help themselves greatly if they wore glasses during waking hours. They may have no error of vision at all. But too much work will strain the eyes even if they are normal. Eye strain should never be neglected, whether it affects a normal or an abnormal eye. Those who do much near work MAY need my service.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY CHARLES GARVICE

A minute or two passed, and then they moved slowly down the street; they reached the door, and Peck was feeling for the key when he heard a light step behind him, and Miss Woods came up. Jack turned upon her eagerly, struck by a sudden idea.

"Good-evening, Miss Woods," he said. "I am awfully glad to meet you again, and just at this moment, for my friend and I are in a little trouble. There was a flash on Miss Woods' face, and her eyes looked anxious-ly and half suspiciously from one to the other.

"What is it?" she asked, with a little catch in her breath and a glance over her shoulder.

Jack began, feeling that the woman would not believe a word he said:

"This young lady is a friend of mine, and I met her by chance to-night. She has come up to London from the country, and has lost her way. She is afraid she fainted not very long ago—she has no friends in London, excepting myself, and no place to go."

The woman with the faded face and the rusty-coloured hair looked with a kind of tired sharpness at Kate—she was leaning against the door frame, her face downcast, her hands hanging helplessly, and she looked, as if she were exhausted.

"Miss Jacob hasn't a vacant room," she said.

"Quite so," assented Jack, significantly, and looked at her with an expression in his eyes which Kate could not see. "I thought perhaps—" he hesitated—"you might be so very good as to let her share your room tonight."

Miss Woods frowned, then let her put out his hand touched hers encouragingly.

"We only ask shelter for to-night, and I shall feel immensely obliged if you will let her in the charge of some good woman like yourself."

Miss Woods flushed and her eyes were cast down for a moment; then she looked at Jack with a look of kind steadiness.

"I know what you mean," she said. "You like me to take her in to-night as my friend—"

Jack nodded quickly; and she returned his nod by way of acquiescence.

"I am more than grateful to you," said Jack, as he opened the door, and still helping Kate, followed Miss Woods up the stairs.

When he reached her bedroom door she said, with her flickering and kind smile:

"Excuse me one moment," and entering the room, closed the door after her.

Jack heard the sound of a key being turned unlocked and opened, closed and relocked again, and in a moment or two Miss Woods reappeared and drew the girl into the room.

"I'll get a little brandy," said Jack; "she needs it."

He got some brandy and some milk and biscuits from the public-house at the corner, and, returning to the house, knocked gently at Miss Woods's door. She opened it a little way and shook a hand him reassuringly.

"She's fain with hunger, poor girl!" she said; "she'll be better when she's had food."

"Give her some milk with some brandy in it," said Jack; "and then you might venture on a little biscuit soaked in the milk."

"Yes, I know," responded Miss Woods, in a low voice. "It's not the first case I've seen," she added, with a touch of bitterness which seemed strangely incongruous with her rugged face and rusty hair.

"I'll sit on the staircase outside my bedroom door and see how she gets on. I should like to know how she is before I go to bed."

He smoked and pondered nearly half an hour, wondering what had happened to cause Kate's flight from home, and what he ought to do in thematter. He felt that he had been very foolish to give her his promise not to communicate with her father; but he consoled himself with the reflection that no doubt she would tell him in the morning what was the matter, and permit him to send a word of her whereabouts to Vanecourt. Presently Miss Woods's door opened, and she came on to the landing to meet him.

"She has taken the bandy and milk," she said, "but I can't get her to touch the biscuit. I'm afraid she's ill and going to be worse. Looks to me like brain fever I had a sister once—" She stopped suddenly, and looked sideways with Cockney sharpness and suspicion at Jack.

"I am afraid you are right," said Jack, "but I do hope, if she's going to be ill, I hope you'll stand her friend—also that my other in London can't get myself."

The woman looked at him with evident scrutiny, and then lowered her eyes with the flicker of a smile.

"Only a friend," she asked.

"Only a friend," repeated Jack, with great emphasis, "but one who is anxious to do all he can for her. Perhaps I should not say so, Miss Woods, that the name is Kate Transom, that her father lives in the country—"

But there! you are a woman of the world and need no such assurance from me. She has run away from her home in the country, for some reason or other which I don't know, and can't guess—"

"I see," said the woman, glancing at him sideways.

"I see," said Jack. "Perhaps she has quarrelled with her father—she seemed unhappy—" He stopped; he had no right to speak of Kate Transom's affairs. "If you will help to take charge of her, you will be a friend to her friends, Miss Woods. I shall be extremely grateful."

She nodded.

"I see," she said, with a sharp glance of comprehension. "I'll tell the Jacobs that she belongs to me. I'll say that she is my cousin, and that she's staying with me on a visit. Mostly Jane may believe it or she may not."

"I should say, from what I know of her, that she'll certainly will not," remarked Jack, with a grim smile.

He thought for a moment or two, then he added: "I think we'd better follow the advice of the American humorist, who said: 'When in doubt, always tell the truth.' I'll try and break it gently to Mordy Jane."

Both he and the women spoke of the child as if she were a woman and one to be consulted at all costs.

As he went down next morning, Miss Woods opened her door slightly.

"She is very bad," she said, in a whisper; "quite unconscious; you'd better get a doctor."

SHE SMOKED A CIGAR

A New York woman, Mrs. Anna Silver, 70 years of age, while smoking a cigar, set fire to her clothing. Result, she was severely burned and rushed to a hospital, where she now lies in a precarious condition. Women will indulge in cigars they would do well to confine themselves to those made of chocolate.

MURDOCK PAYS BACK DEPOSITS WITHDRAWN

Toronto, May 30.—Hon. James Murdock, Minister of Labor, has given back into the liquidators' all the money that he withdrew from the Home Bank.

When Jas. Porter, M.P., made the charges against Mr. Murdock, in the House of Commons, the Minister of Labor, presented correspondence with Mr. G. T. Clarkson, liquidator, showing that he had returned over $1,000 of the $4,000 he withdrew and proposed to pay it all back. Today, the liquidators are in possession of the entire amount from Mr. Murdock as set out in Mr. Clarkson's letters. It means that Mr. Murdock has returned the $4,000 withdrawal minus the $5 per cent. dividend which was paid to depositors, placing himself in the position of a depositor who had over $4,000 on deposit when the bank failed.

Charges regarding the propriety of Mr. Murdock's conduct in withdrawing the money before the bank closed are being heard before a special committee at Ottawa.

Massive Structure at Wembly Reproduces Characteristics Faithfully

A MOUNTAIN SCENE

Waterfalls Offer Diversion From Familiar Switzerland Attractions

Facing the Palace of Engineering, and flanked by Australia on the other side of the aisle, stands the Canadian Pavilion. It is a massive structure, its white walls standing out boldly from the green background.

As the visitor enters the first thing that catches his eye is a fine court devoted to a display of Canada's mineral wealth. There is gold from the mines, and a magnificent silver nugget weighing over two and a half tons—the greatest specimen of its kind ever discovered. Asbestos, nickel, copper, silver, manganese, and a host of other valuable metals are all there as proof of mineral wealth.

Pass into the main court of the Exhibition and you are met with an original and most attractive scheme of decoration carried out entirely in the grains and grasses of the rolling prairies.

A beautiful mountain scene represents the Canadian National Parks, with a waterfall running through the rugged rocks, all with an idea of telling the man who is tired of visiting Switzerland and other tour-ist centres that Canada has wonderful scenery awaiting him.

From the mountains you travel down to the coast and come to Vancouver—not the Vancouver of today, but a vision of Vancouver in 1830, as it will appear with the giant grain elevators designed to ship the crop from the golden West.

On the opposite side of the court is a scene showing the great work being done in Canada by the experimental farms.

Next comes the forestry section, in which samples of Canada's vast forest wealth are shown. These range from huge pieces of Douglas Fir 4 ft. 6 in. square down to matches, which are also abundantly produced in Canada. Above this section are four small scenes depicting the growth of the lumbering industry in Canada. The great paper industry in Canada is shown from large rolls of news print 18 ft. long down to the finest notepaper.

A feature of the impressive water-power exhibits is a huge relief map of the country on which are shown all the developed and undeveloped water powers in the Dominion. This map is 40 ft. long by 20 ft. wide. At the back of this the wonderful beauties of the Niagara Falls as well as their great utility are shown by a scene vividly depicting the rushing waters.

Fisheries and fruit come next in order. The fruit exhibit is particularly attractive, including as it does a sunken garden rolling back into beautiful ponds and peach orchards.

Paper and pulp, beef, manufactured goods, farm produce, and even tobacco—they are all there to remind the visitor of the varied resources that go to make the wealth of the Dominion.

Some people are disagreeable because they can't attract attention other way.

Here and There

Shipments of grain from the Grande Prairie and Peace River district over the Edmonton, Dunvegan and British Columbia Railway during the past season have totalled 2,471,000 bushels of wheat and 1,700,000 bushels of other grains.

The longest solid train of red cedar edge grain lumber ever hauled across the continent left Vancouver, B.C., recently for Chicago and the Eastern States. Several other long trains of this product will be shipped in the near future by the Hasting Merritt Lumber Company, by whom the consignment was forwarded.

A despatch recently sent from London states that Professor Carlyle, of the E. P. ranch, is selling for Canada shortly, taking back with him a number of brood mares and other stock for the ranch. The Prince of Wales continues to evince the deepest interest in all the doings of the ranch and keeps in close touch with things there.

Approximately the same acreage as produced the West's bumper crop last year will be under cultivation this season. The outlook now is that over 14,000,000 acres of land will be ready for seed under generally favorable conditions. The estimated acreage to be seeded this year, by provinces, is as follows: Manitoba, 4,450,000; Saskatchewan, 3,354,100; Alberta, 5,474,315.

The value of boots and shoes exported by Canada during the year ended March, 1924, more than doubled the value of the Canadian boots and shoes bought by other countries during the preceding year. Last year the exportations were valued at $1,204,313, and for the preceding year at $130,054. The United States was the chief buyer, taking 2,227 pairs, with Japan second, taking 1,628 pairs.

Concluding her round-the-world cruise, the palatial Canadian Pacific steamship "Empress of Canada," docks at Vancouver on May 24th. Reports indicate that this four-months' pleasure voyage under the special care of Captain Robertson, hero of the Japanese disaster, has been a splendid success, the passengers being loud in their declarations of satisfaction.

During the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1924, Canada imported goods to the value of $1,303,235,491, an increase of $31,000,000 compared with the previous similar twelve months, while she exported $1,045,141,056, an increase of about $110,000,000. The total trade increased in that twelve-month period by about $210,000,000, when compared with the corresponding period a year ago.

It is expected that negotiations between the British Government and the Province of British Columbia will lead to the settlement of several shiploads of immigrants from the Hebrides in the province this summer. Each Government purposes to grant $300, or $600 in all, to each family and shelters will be provided them close to the sea, where they can engage profitably in their accustomed pursuit, fishing.

The itinerary of the personally conducted tour of the Canadian Teachers' Federation en route to their annual convention to be held at Victoria, B.C., August 12th to 16th, has just been announced. Starting from Toronto, a special train for the teachers will proceed west by Canadian Pacific Railway, halts being made at Western Canada's chief points of beauty and interest. It is expected that about 150 will make the trip.

That Sweden is capable of sending 25,000 men to Canada as immigrants during the next instalment of Otto Elander, promising Swedish editor, when in Montreal recently, Mr. Elander is touring Canada with the object of studying conditions as they exist in Swedish settlements here and reporting upon them to his fellow-countrymen desirous of immigrating to this country.

FOUND HANGING FROM BEAM IN HIS BARN

Brantford, May 30—John Braithwaite was found Wednesday at noon suspended by a rope from a beam in his barn. He failed to appear for dinner, and was found, on a search being made.

Braithwaite lived two miles north of Rosemath, on a farm of 100 acres, where he had resided for thirty years.

No cause is known for his act.

He is survived by his widow, his two sons, Edgar at home, and Earl at New-Liskeard, and two brothers, Joseph and Alfred, of Alnwick Township.

The deceased had been in the best of health, a prominent farmer and a highly respected citizen and neighbor in the community.

Coroner Ferris of Cobourg decided yesterday that no inquest was necessary.

The funeral will take place at two o'clock today to Norrells Cemetery.

GWEN LAZIER HAS REACHED WASHINGTON

Mayor Mikel Receives Wire From Courier This Morning

TIP IS COMING HOME

Being Shipped To-day, Telegram Says; a Noted Feat

The long journey on horse back from Belleville to Washington has been accomplished by Miss Gwen Lazier. The young courier has proved that there remains with the descendants of the United Empire Loyalists that determination and power of endurance which characterized the early settlers.

There were many in this country who felt when Miss Gwen set out, she would not be able to complete the journey. The horse would give out or the lass would be too fatiguing for the young lady were statements made.

But His Worship, Mayor Mikel received a wire from Gwen this morning, which reads as follows:

"Washington, D.C., May 30, Arrived safely. Shipping Tip to-morrow."

It is thought that President Coolidge will receive the Belleville courier at the White House to-day. It has been intimated during this week, that arrangements had been completed for the young lady's reception.

KIWANIS TREATS KIDDIES TO DRIVE

Small Folk of City Missior Pick Flowers and Eat

Twelve members of the Kiwanis Club took the kiddies of the City Mission, Dundas St., E., on a motor trip yesterday afternoon. After a drive of about twelve miles the party stopped at a point on the east of the city and served refreshments which heartily and speedily disappeared, after which games were played. The children gathered large quantities of daisflowers and lauded the Kiwanians in charge of them. Co-ordinating of the drive was the most adept in finding those dainty but essentially sizable little sidewalk large bunches being easily found by such organizer.

At six o'clock they started the return journey and upon reaching the city, Riverside Park, they provided a sort of "nut sundae to the already overflowing cup of joy with liberal sized ice cream cones from the store of Dickens & Son, Front street.

To small tots, whose motor trips are almost nil, the afternoon will leave a happy impression that will ever be recalled with joy. It certainly reflects much credit on the kindly unloving Club members for their unselfish thoughts for these unfortunate little folks. It must be remembered that most, if not all, these men had to leave their business in order to extend this pleasure to the children.

AIMS AT GROUNDHOG BUT SHOOTS HIMSELF

Stirling, May 31.—While out shooting ground hogs with a 22 rifle near Anson, a young man employed on the Canadian National road gang accidentally shot himself through the right leg. He is getting long nicely and is no complications and will be all right in a short time. The young man home is in Ottawa.

JUDGE FINES NEWSPAPERS IN OLD LAND

Five Established Journals Publish Police Stories On Crime

MOST ALL APOLOGIZE

First Offence on Part of Manchester Guardian In Years

London, May 31.—Five English newspapers were fined sums aggregating £1,000 by the King's Bench Court for contempt of court in having published certain articles, four of which were connected with the Crumbles murder case and the two other with the Sheringham slander case. Costs of the suits must also be borne by the newspapers involved.

The heaviest fine, one of £1,000 fell on "The London Evening Standard," which was charged with having kept out of the way of the police one of the leading witnesses in the Crumbles case and with publishing a story which, had after she had been warned by the police not to do so, was untrue in material.

"The Daily Express," which, like "The Evening Standard," is a heavy book publication, and "The Manchester Guardian," were both fined £500 in connection with the same case. "The Sheringham Chronicle" and "The Norwich Mercury" were fined £100 each in the court with the other case.

All the newspapers concerned with the exception of "The Evening Standard," apologized for their publications, and it was brought out that this is the first charge against the Crumbles trial secretary.

Declaring that cases of this kind have increased during recent years, the Lord Chief Justice, in passing judgment, said that if further cases of the sort came up the court would order imprisonment as a penalty instead of a fine. He asserted that newspaper publication of crime was likely to interfere with due administration of criminal law, and described as a perilous enterprise "this attempt on an amateur detective investigation, followed by immediate publication of the results."

ROTARY BANQUETS ITS MINSTREL MEN

Fine Evening of Enjoyment Is Spent at Quinte Hotel

The Rotary Club held a special meeting at the Quinte Hotel last evening for the benefit of the minstrel boys who helped out in the recent minstrel show. A large attendance and a very convenial atmosphere, together with a program of unusual merit for a most interesting evening.

Historians from Trenton and gentlemen from Picton have been helped to make the minstrel show in that town a success were present and many tributes were paid to the excellence of the Rotary minstrel show.

It was also announced that the Club would put on a bigger and better show next year and the members of the Club thanked the guests of honour for the evening for their help.

City Degree Team Does Good Work

Praised by Noble Grand at Frankford, Interesting Program

Accompanied by some members of Belleville Lodge No. 81 and Minpah Lodge No. 177, I. O. O. F., the first degree team of the lodges last even visited Frankford Lodge No. 382. The object of the visit was to exemplify the third degree work and to confer three candidates. There was a large number of the brethren and an overflow box of Sterling lodge were also present. They were Bros. L. Anderson, M. H. Poliner, S. Siming, P. Sherman, A. Polland H. Bell.

The Frankford Lodge was presided over by A. J. Bingham, N. G.; and J. Bowen, V. G. After the business of the lodge had been completed the degree team put on and the work was exemplified to better advantage, the floor work being all that could be desired within the lodge room. At the conclusion a hearty vote of appreciation was tendered A. M. Hepburn and seconded by Bro. A. C. Bell and was extended to the members of the team. The Noble Grand of the lodge in presenting the degree referred in complimentary terms to the manner in which the team had exemplified the work. It was expressed that such an efficient manner but was instructive. It was hoped to be favoured with a visit.

When the lodge work was completed refreshments were served and an enjoyable meal could have been desired, good justice being done to same.

At the after meeting presided over by Bro. A. J. Bingham, the Grand Lodge Degree, a dramatized program was rendered by the following: Bros. Bowen, G. G. Way, D.D.G.M., James Duckworth, D. D. G. M., Wm. H. Bell, Reeve, P.G.P., W. E. Gartley, P.G., H. Reisner, P.G. and others. The addresses were interspersed with vocal and instrumental selections given by Bros. W. E. Johnson, W. Fourman, W. Bell and Sister Mrs. Reisner. An enjoyable social hour to the good evening's programme brought to a close.

Fred Bowen's Body Is At Point Anne

Funeral To Be Held Monday; Was Accidental Death

The remains of Fred Bowen, 27, accidentally shot at Niagara Falls, Ont., Wednesday night, arrived here last night and were taken to the home of deceased's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bowen, Point Anne. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon.

However, it will be remembered was shot dead by sixteen-year-old Stuart Williams, a former home boy was visiting, when the pair were fooling with a loaded revolver which the girl believed to be empty. Accidental death was the verdict o the Coroner's jury.

Essex Six Wins Endurance Test

Makes Record Desert Run Under Most Adverse Conditions

Carrying United States mail under official authority from Washington, an Essex six-cylinder coach accomplished the most strenuous desert-running test ever made in the United States or anywhere if the United States, according to information received by Jas. A. Joyce, Hudson-Essex distributor here in Belleville.

A distance of 1674 miles was covered in the remarkable time of 61 hours and 30 minutes, an average of 26.5 miles per hour, without stopping for the night, and with only three stops to take on gasoline, grab sandwiches, and for the driver to unwrap a few minutes of much needed sleep.

Over mountains, through the sand-time and two quarts of oil were used. This is a distance of 32 miles to a gallon of gas, and 320 miles to a quart of oil.

The Essex used was a stock car, not to be valuable of the data obtained depended. The car, which left Los Angeles at 5 a.m. could be available upon an instantaneous call for the carrying of mail. Data on the distance covered may be obtained from the fact that, had the car started from Los Angeles over the Midland Trail, it would have arrived at a point in Nebraska only 151 miles from Omaha in the same two days and three hours.

The route ran over all sorts of roads from the best to the worst, both of mountain and desert paths which would be considered impassable by motorists in the territory on that trip. The route which, by the way, has been considered, never the less, been surpassed as a test, and which could be followed only by an automobile assembled in every detail.

FALLS 40 FEET ON SUSPENDED GIRDER

Toronto, May 31—Falling a distance of 40 feet onto a cross-beam and landing suspended in the air 40 feet above the ground, was the grim experience of Charles Dennis, 151 Amelia St., employed by the civic road and bridge department, while painting girders of the Bloor Street Viaduct near the eastern section. He was rescued on the ground by the aid of a rope and several witnesses of the accident.

Dr. Heldon, Danforth Ave., gave the man first aid and had him taken to St. Michael's hospital. Five stitches was necessary to close a wound in the head. He is ill from shock. His condition is not serious.

TOMORROW IS CIVIC SUNDAY IN BELLEVILLE

To Show that Better Citizenship is But Better Sense

TO EXCHANGE PULPITS

Eight Preachers Will Travel to Other Churches In Evening

The annual "Civic Sunday" or "Better Citizenship Sunday" will be observed in Belleville churches tomorrow.

The movement which was instituted three years ago at the suggestion of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, has the various clergy have exchanged pulpits and a happy observance on this day so far as has been practicable and this interchange has in itself resulted in greater goodfellowship and worthiness. The messages delivered by the ministers have always been an inspiration towards higher ideals in life and have been found to lead men to see that better citizenship is but better sense and the forerunner of great practical gains and a fuller and more harmonious life.

The pulpit exchanges for tomorrow are as follows—Rev. George Jackson, rector of Emmanuel church will preach in the evening at the Bridge Street Methodist; Rev. R. Malott, D.D., of Bridge Street goes to John Street (presbyterian); Rev. D. C. Ramsay of John Street church takes the pulpit of Holloway Street Methodist; Rev. H. D. Brown, B.A., D.D., pastor of the latter church will deliver a message in the Victoria Avenue Baptist, Rev. N. S. McKetchnie, B.A., rector of the Anglican will preach to the Presbyterians of St. Andrew's church; Rev. R. J. Mc-Keery, M.A., of St. Andrews goes to the Tabernacle and Rev. Canon Bedard H. B. Kenny of the Tabernacle will speak at Emmanuel; Rev. C. E. Bryan, B.A., of Zion will fill his own pulpit at Christ Church.

STERLING MINISTER GIVEN FINE SENDOFF

The congregations of the Presbyterian Churches in Stirling Village and Rawdon, assembled in the former building on Wednesday evening at St. Andrews Church, Stirling. The united churches gave a send off to Rev. Robert Simpson on the eve of his departure for a western field—supplies being said in the hope of regaining his health. Mr. Simpson was presented with a purse of $85.00 from West Hastings congregations and a cheque for $91.00 from St. Andrew's. Stirling. But what must have been equally gratifying to him were the kindly and appreciative remarks made by the elders in both congregations, who paid unstinted tribute to the life and work of their minister.

Oshawa Hears Of New Dock Coming

Understood that Work Will Be Commenced in Near Future

Oshawa, May 31.—Construction of a new dock at the harbor and the repairing of the westerly pier, together with the dredging of a channel to the entrance of the dock, by dredgers early next month, according to private advices received here today. The issue will probably have a strong role in the Federal House shortly, and it will be followed by a definite announcement from Dr., King, Minister of Public Works.

The work as proposed will entail the raising of the harbor entrance by the Commission's dredger which is the property of the Canal. It is the work which costs $1,000 a day to operate. However, it can do the proposed work here in about thirty days, leaving twenty thousand at the appropriation recently made at Ottawa for the construction of the easterly pier and repairing the present one.

The Dominion Government own a piece of squamp land which the first cost of the City Fathers, where the dock will put to work. This area is about 1200 square feet and the new dredged deep enough to accommodate all lake traffic likely to come to Oshawa via the St. Lawrence deep waterway once the new dock is operating, great consideration at this time.

The work about to be commenced is the initial step towards making Oshawa an ocean port, provided that the City Fathers continue to push it through to completion. Even failing in that, the port will be constructed so as to provide for the largest of lake shipping and with a present accommodation for vessels of 14 feet draft. A large lake vessels, the task of construction will be started at once, the other sides of the basin, which will be left as mud banks, would be

Dr. R. J. Carveth demonstrates the power of the radio knife by means of which medical experts expect to create a revolution in surgical treatment of cancerous tumors. The knife is really a needle and waves sent out at the rate of 3,-500,000 a second burn the tissue away, searing the edges of the cut and thus preventing loss of blood. A

Backward Summer Holds Up City Decorators; Dealers Predict Rush Before Celebration

Bellevillians are ready for the U.E. L. Celebration here in June. Store fronts are being painted, houses painted and decorated, yards cleaned from the "picked up" parks beautified, plants, seeds, vines and grass seed sown. All that is needed now is fine June weather to make the fresh paint gleam, the seeds grow and the plants bloom.

Then of course the background must be, how a stumbling block to the most enthusiastic resident, but with the late appearance of summer really here it is hoped that within the next few weeks great additional improvements will be noted.

Mr. Clifford Walker of Walker Hardware reports a steady sale of paint and varnish and that the June celebration weather has hampered the work of the decorating.

Ontario Drug Store reports a steady sale of paints, and varnishes, for interior decorating, and a large demand for exterior paints. Other dealers expressed almost the same opinion, though all are optimistic and believe that within the next two weeks much decorating and painting will be done.

Charles Bishop of Bishop's seed store, reports a great increase in the sale of flower seeds, vines, bulbs and Lawn grass seed. He says grass and the plants are doing remarkably well despite the cool, damp weather.

Dick Philbun, of the Gidley and Philbun Feed and Seed Company also has the blues to backward weather for the sale of seeds, vines and bulbs being as great as anticipated.

Curby park and Victoria park are becoming more beautiful each day, and much work is being put on the latter park especially. There the whole park is at the zenith of their beauty when the big celebration comes and with the hearty co-operation of those citizens who have beautifying ideas for their own surroundings, will make Belleville beautiful indeed. It will no longer a while in the memories of our guests.

EGGS IN BIG LOTS SELL AT 21 CENTS

Large Attendance of Buyers and Sellers Feature To-day's Market

Notwithstanding the fact that farmers are busily engaged upon their land the market this morning was well attended and considerable farm and garden products were offered for sale. Dairy butter was quite plentiful and fairly reasonable in price selling at 27 per pound. Fresh eggs were offered in the small lots at 21 cents and 22 and 23c per dozen. In a few cases market lots were procured for 21c per dozen.

Dressed chickens commanded a good figure, many lots for $2.50 per pair according to size and quality. Dressed ducks such as Rouen, Pekin, Indian and Muscovy were plentiful and quite reasonable in price for sale. The ruling price was 40c per pound.

Potatoes are somewhat scarce, and sell at $1.75 and $2 per bag.

Tomato and cabbage plants were plentiful, selling at 20c per box.

Green vegetables were plentiful, but little meat was cut up on the stalls. There were no changes to note in prices, beef selling from 18c to 20c per pound, veal selling at 20c to 25c per pound and mutton 25c per pound.

DOG OWNER'S LAST CHANCE

To-day is the last day of grace for dog owners who have neglected to adorn their canine with the necessary dog tag. After to-day dogs seizes to give owners final warning in the matter. The tags may be procured at police station, from the police constable upon application, and the accompanying fee.

FIRE IN MINE

North Bay, May 31—The Coniagas Mine, 30 miles south, caught fire at 10.30 yesterday morning and was soon in flames. Reports from there state that it will be a total loss. The fire is believed to have started in a shaft and is blowing toward the lake.

SIR HENRY WILLING

Montreal, May 31—Sir Henry Thornton has not yet received any communication from President Ferguson in connection with the proposal that the Canadian National should have two trains of coal from Alberta as a practical fuel saving demonstration. Sir Henry said that if Premier Ferguson had the matter in mind, he would be very glad to see him and reopen the matter.

PUBLIC RESPONDS TO ARMY APPEAL

Everybody Willing, Taggers Find on City Streets To-day

Following a self denial week, the Salvation Army concluded their campaign today with a tag day. Early this morning, the young ladies chosen to canvass the public, were at their appointed places, and they were evidently engaged all morning retailing the small tags which at some point or other the passing public became the words "Help Army."

Judging by the ready sale, everyone appeared to be aware of the good work which the Salvation Army is doing in the Dominion. When Salvation Army is mentioned, one thinks immediately of the money will surely be used to help the poor, unfortunate people.

Everyone of the tag vendors interviewed, reported a ready response, and among their willing buyers were persons who earlier in the week have contributed to the Salvation Army fund.

Additional 150 Girls and 50 Boys Will be Obtained Without Trouble

Two hundred of Belleville's fairest girls and a large number of the young men of the city attended rehearsals last night in connection with the U.E.L. celebration, at the main drill hall of the Armouries last night.

This is highly satisfactory and Pageant Master Larry M. Knowles is well pleased with the result, for he secure 150 additional girls, nearly the number to 350. Fifty additional boys are also required.

Committee men who witnessed the rehearsals claim that Knowles is a wonder. Within five minutes the girls and boys, were divided into ballet groups of from 10 to twenty to a group, were able to swing into line, and take their places for the dances. The choruses are arranged according to height in each group.

Schedules are being arranged for the practice periods for various groups, and the schedules will be posted when arranged.

Cadets of city have definitely decided to come into the pageant from original signal corps, bugle band, and every one in the pageant will have something to do in bring another and swell the ranks.

A pleasant feature of the affair is the fact that the young people are not only being of great service but are deriving much pleasure themselves in the performance of their pleasant duties.

COAL FROM RANGE SETS HOUSE AFIRE

Campbellford Couple Had Narrow Escape Yesterday

Campbellford, May 31—Frank Walsh and his wife had a narrow escape from their burning home at 8 a.m. yesterday, in their night clothes, when the chimney caught fire and set in flame. The fire started when a live coal from the kitchen range and ignited the floor, and the alarm which was turned in at the 3.10 brought the brigade to the place in three minutes. Across the public square the flames were quickly quenched by the use of the chemical. Mr. and Mrs. Walsh awakened from his slumbers by the heavy smoke clouds, and he soon to his alarm. The loss is covered by insurance.

The new home is known here as the A. L. Reindeau property, and stands on the corner of Bridge in the south half of the building.

Slightly more than twelve hours later, the firemen were called to extinguish a fire in the home of Mrs. James Shannon, Centre street. This blaze which broke out at 6.30 this afternoon was also quickly extinguished.

The new motor fire truck, equipped with chemicals is giving great service to the citizens, and the town many thousands in fire losses.

GENERAL HERRON HERE

On Monday morning upon the High School grounds, a review of the local school will be inspected, and inspecting officer will be General Herron, an attendance will be given to the school. After the review was also quickly extinguished.

THE PNEUMONIA CURE

There is no more thrilling chapter in human effort than that which records the progress made by scientists in the warfare against disease. The finest intelligence of the race is devoted to public service without any expection of personal gain.

The discovery made by Dr. Lloyd B. Felton, of the Harvard. Medical School, is characteristic of this advance. Dr. Felton sought a remedy for pneumonia, just as, two generations ago, the great pioneers, Louis Pasteur, worked to find the cause of rabies and its cure. By the most zealous labor the American student succeeded in obtaining a white powder, called a concentrate of antibodies, which competent physicians think will reduce the death rate from pneumonia by a quarter or a half. Moreover, this discovery opened up other vistas which may lead to the subjugation of other diseases.

This young physician has thus accomplished a result which may save the lives of hundreds every year in this country alone. When it is remembered that pneumonia strikes men and women in the prime of life and takes off many of the most useful citizens of the nation, the immensity of such a service as that rendered by this 30-year-old doctor may be envisaged.

ACTION AT LAST

The appalling rum traffic between British ports and the United States, legal at its source because of the absence of prohibitory legislation, but flagrantly illegal at its destination, has reached such proportions that members of the British house of Commons have found it impossible to longer remain passive. As a result of the storm of protest, serious consideration is now being accorded the evil and, if it is not found possible to exterminate it altogether, it is indicated that some form of restrictive legislation will at least make the traffic less profitable and, in equal proportions, more hazardous.

The very brazenry and effrontery of those who are engaged in rum-running from British possessions have proven their undoing, the present attack on the traffic having occasioned by the advertisement inserted in the daily press by Lieut.-Col. Sir Broderick Hartwell, inviting contributions to his business, which is admittedly the smuggling of alcoholics into the United States.

Whatever may be said in justification of the liquor cargoes which are carried on British steamers for the refreshment of persons, en route to and from British ports and the United States, cannot be applied to this other disgraceful business of rum-running. No distinction can be made between the highbred distiller who engages in the illegal traffic and the beckalley bootlegger. They are partners in a disgraceful business, which, it has now been discovered by members of the House of Commons, has become little short of a national blot.

DIRECTORSHIPS

Has not the time arrived when shareholders in our various financial and industrial institutions should insist upon representative directors—that is, group representation? In a company of a million dollars of real or nom. representative active (not watered) and general [illegible] as Preferred, units of shareholders, say representing every hundred thousand would have a representative on the Board of Directors.

If this law had been established there would have been less banking and industrial failures in Canada. Greater supervision would have prevented this. Each director would have realized the direct responsibility of his position on the Board.

To-day the directors of large financial and industrial corporations are too frequently elected through influences which do not accept any responsibility for success or failure of the enterprises upon which they seek the election of some favorite candidate.

If a clause of this nature were inserted in the Canadian Banking Act, our banks would be the strongest in the whole North American continent—if not in the world.

Why not try it?

PRESS OPINIONS

PENALIZING THE PROFICIENT

Manchester Guardian

What has gone awry in our industrial system since the war is the disturbance of the balance between one section and another. Where the workers have a pull on the public they have maintained the relatively high standards to which the way brought them. Where they have had no such pull they have fallen, and we have the spectacle of skilled engineers, the very pride of English industry, working for less than unskilled laborers. If we ask of the workers respect for order we must show them our respect for justice. . . . The problem of the day is to find rational and practicable methods of levelling up.

NATIONAL INSURANCE

Sydney (N. S. W.) Bulletin

After spending the price of two good wars before the troops started, a very large force got aboard half of it in British ships; and then the trouble ceased just as the Republic's genius got into a position to do things. In two years the Uncle Sam Government spent more than all previous Uncle Sam Governments had spent. In peace and war, since the Republic was founded; and with all that it was late. When an unprepared but naturally evil nation requires fourteen months, and all this money, and an immensity of outside assistance, in order that it may "rush to arms," it appears cheaper and safer and less exhausting to be always in arms—to practise all the militarism that may be necessary, and avoid the rush. For though the nation which takes no thought for the morrow may not be long dying, it is apt to be long dead.

Pale, Wan Cheeks And Dull Eyes

Is Proof That the Blood is Thin and Impure

It is the blood that gives color to the cheeks and lips, as well as brightness to the eyes. If your blood gets thin the color will fade and the eyes grow dim. By the time this happens you will notice that you tire easily and are subject to headaches and backaches, for the blood goes everywhere and the entire system feels the effects when it becomes thin. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain the elements necessary to enrich the blood, and this better blood strengthens the nerves and all the organs of the body, brings a glow of health to the cheeks, brightness to the eyes and a good feeling of renewed health and strength. Miss Florence Johnson, Stratford, Ont., who has proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind, says:—"A few years ago I was greatly run down; by blood was very poor and my nervous system in bad shape. The doctor said my condition was due to improper diet and lack of fresh air. I then commenced eating the food he advised and went out daily for a walk. I did not improve, however, and was much discouraged. A friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I lost no time in getting a supply and can truthfully say that when I had finished the first box I could note an improvement. From then on the progress was steady. My complexion, which had been pale and sallow, began to take on a healthy glow, I felt a great deal stronger and my appetite became fine, and soon my health was fully restored. Before using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I did not know anything about their wonderful qualities, but now, I recommend them to all suffering from similar ailments."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Facing the World

By W. H. G.

Truth is stranger than fiction. Hence the tales.

The very name of the curly-headed youngster, who had seen but six summers, yet looked out on the world with the keen glance of an grown-up, might lead you to believe he was capable of perpetrating almost anything beyond the ordinary. It was Rodgerly Broderlieffe.

Like a sponge, he had absorbed the conversation, the gestures, the ideas and the manners of people who had reached maturity. Had he been allowed to associate with children of his age, he would certainly have copied the usual tricks of childhood. But he didn't get the chance.

From babyhood, he had been surrounded by none but men and women—mostly women.

So that when he calmly announced to his mother that he was "tired of staying in this old house" and that he was "going away some place", Mrs. Broderlieffe did not drop the frying pan she was holding. Nor did she swoon as a matron in her position might have been expected to do. She smiled to herself and answered carelessly—

"Very well, Rodgerly."

Rodgerly was naturally surprised at this. He had come to the conclusion that he was indispensable in the household. He had expected his declaration would get for him the raspberry tart he wanted with the minimum of delay. But he wasn't to be bluffed—not he.

Pointing to the peg on the back of the kitchen door, he said with studied deliberation,—

"My hat, Mamma."

Mrs. Broderlieffe reached for the hat, patted it hurriedly on his head and returned to her stove.

Rodgerly reached the threshold of the door and faced the wide world. It became very wide to him all of a sudden. He hesitated before stepping out on the verandah. Then—

"CUT THE CARDS

Woodstock Sentinel-Review

Sir Thomas White says he was deceived as to the condition of the Home Bank by accepting the statement of people whom he trusted Dooley's advice was to trust everybody, but to cut the cards.

THE CHEAPER CUTS OF BEEF

The pot roast which is frequently used by thrifty housewife in the effort to keep down her butcher bill and still provide good meats, may be made from many of the cheaper cuts, such as the chuck, of the beef carcass. After being wiped with a damp cloth it is placed in a covered bake pan or kettle, with two cups or more of hot water. It should be covered tight and baked in a moderate oven or on top of the stove, keeping the heat just below the boiling point. Pamphlet No. 43 of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, obtainable from the Publications Branch, shows how the meat bill may be reduced by utilizing the cheaper cuts of beef. The last hour's time for each pound of meat in the roast is recommended. About an hour and a quarter before serving, pared potatoes and sliced carrots and onions may be added. When ready to serve the roast should be removed to a hot platter and the gravy thickened and seasoned. If the meat is very fat, it is advisable to remove the fat from the top of the gravy before thickening. The pamphlet contains many other recipes for utilizing the cheaper cuts of beef.

"Well, good-bye, Mamma."

Mamma evidently didn't hear him. It was most exasperating.

"I said, 'Good-bye' Mamma!" The thin voice shrilled into a crescendo that, with special emphasis on "Good-bye".

"Oh, good-bye Rodgerly," said Mrs. Broderlieffe, just as she might have said "Oh, very well," had the boy remarked that he was going to play with his blocks.

Down the asphalt sidewalk trudged Rodgerly. At the gate, he paused, glanced around cautiously. But no anxious mother was gazing after him. Eight steps, nine steps, ten steps he took down that great highway into the unknown. Then he halted.

With his toe he dug imaginary holes in the hard sidewalk. With his mind, he concentrated on the terrible predicament he had allowed himself into. Suddenly came the decision.

He retraced his walk to the steps of the verandah. Raising one small foot on the first step, he rested his elbow on his knee and coughed significantly.

Mrs. Broderlieffe came to the door.

"So you've come back, have you?" she said with a smile.

But this was no smiling matter for Rodgerly. His round face was set in stern lines. He leveled a dictator's finger at the parent up before him and said—

"I'll just try you once more, Mrs. B."

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert H. Holland announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Elsie May to Mr. Garnet Warren French, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clement French. The marriage will take place about the middle of June.

On Thursday evening, May12th a very enjoyable evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Prentice, Foxboro, when the members of the Four Square Club met to honor their daughter Helen, a bride of next week. After some time spent in social intercourse and music, Miss Youker called the meeting to order. Then Miss Eleanor Johnston read a very appropriate address and Miss Grace Pitman presented Miss Prentice with a silver cream and sugar. Although take so completely by surprise Miss Prentice responded very ably and invited one and all to visit her in her new home. A dainty lunch was served and games were indulged in, in nearly every case, the bride proved the winner. A most delightful night, after which the guests departed, all reporting having had a good time.

Mr. Reginald Bumpstead received a cable today from Mrs. Bumpstead that she had landed safely in Liverpool from the steamer Montclair.

The Ladies of Tabernacle Methodist Society held a jolly little tea at the home of one of their members, Mrs. J. Maiden, Victoria Ave. Spring blossoms brought a breath of the beautiful out-of-doors to the pleasant rooms and added to their loveliness.

Mrs. Aselstine, Victoria Ave., poured tea and Mrs. Esmond, Mrs. Fenn and Mrs. Ashley dispensed the refreshments.

Mrs. Duff gave a pleasing vocal selection. The guests were welcomed by Mrs. Maiden, Mrs. Bostock and Miss. Thrasher. A nice sum of money was realized to carry on the ladies' work.

Blossoms in profusion decked all places available at John'S. Lecture Room yesterday afternoon on the occasion of the annual tea given by the Ladies' Help, and with the Spring sunshine of yesterday enticed many ladies to its hospitable doors.

Mrs. J. W. Cook, president of this branch of church work and Mrs. Rev. H. C. Ramsay cordially received the guests.

Mrs. Stewart Robertson and Mrs. Mackenzie Robertson presided over the tea table, Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Bloom field as kitchen conveners attended to the preparation of the many refreshments with the able assistance of Mesdames Sharpe, Gandy, Mills and Adams.

Mrs. I. L. Moore, Mrs. R. C. Bonnett, Mrs. J. H. Boyce and Mrs. Geo. Wallbridge, Mrs. (Dr.) Crook and Miss Jessie McLean dispensed the tea amongst the guests.

A home cooking table at which delectable baking of a varied nature could be purchased was presided over by Mrs. J. S. Cook and Mrs. Nelson.

Which?—

at Near the Same Price—the Half-Utility of the Open Car, or the All-Year Comforts and Service of the Coach? It is the One Important Question Before Buyers Today.

Since Closed Car Comforts Cost Little More
Why Buy an Open Car?

THE issue with motor car buyers this year is closed car comforts at open car cost. The Coach exclusively provides such advantages without forfeit of chassis quality. —It is a Hudson-Essex invention. No other type is like it.

More than 140,000 Coaches are in service. Sales exceed 3,000 each week. The Coach is the largest selling 6-cylinder closed car in the world. That proves the success of value.

It is the Closed Car for Everyone

Everyone prefers a closed car. The Coach alone is the quality car within reach of all. It changed the trend from open to closed cars. Now all can enjoy finest chassis quality with all-year utility, comfort, and closed car distinction.

In two and a half years the Coach has proved a staunchness and reliability never before associated with a closed car. In every service it satisfies the pride of ownership.

The Same Quality in Both Hudson and Essex

Hudson and Essex are creations of the same engineers. They are built under the same patents. There is no difference in quality of material or workmanship.

The price you want to pay will decide you for Hudson or for Essex. The closed car advantages of the Coach and its price surely leave no other consideration.

Deplores Absence Of Canadian Goods

Dr. W. J. Black Finds Dominion Farm Products Lacking On English Markets

Montreal, May 31.—The comparative absence of all products of Canadian farms from the shops and market places of Great Britain, is deplored in a letter written to Vice-President W. D. Robb of the Canadian National Railways by W. J. Black, European Manager. Colonization and Development department of the National Railways in London, England. Mr. Black's letter which may be of interest to Canadians generally, is as follows:

"No one who comes to reside in London and is conscious of the great need of Canadian agriculture for better markets can fail to be disappointed with the comparative absence of the products of our farms from the shops and market places. Here we have on the one hand, the greatest food importing and consuming centre in the world, and on the other a Dominion famed, we have believed, for its bacon, its cheese and its butter, as

"Naturally an investigator would expect to find Canadian bacon wherever bacon is sold, but it is not here, at least, not on sale as Canadian. Of Danish, there is plenty; as well as Irish, and home cured brands, but none of Canada's favorite goods. A search for butter is little less faithful. There is comparatively little of superior quality from anywhere else, there has been none on sale from Canada since December last, and we are told that it will not appear again until June, although the price seems high enough to justify a consignment flow to this market.

"Canadian cheese is occasionally obtainable, but in the majority of shops dealing in dairy products it is not to be found.

"It is in apples, however, that the greatest surprise is felt. Amid rows of well labelled boxes piled high from the States of Oregon and Washington, we search in vain at Covent Garden for the brands which are produced in such perfection in British Columbia, only to be told that none are being offered this year; that the competition from the United States is too keen.

Was Poor Packing

"From Nova Scotia, some weeks ago, a large consignment arrived in barrels, but the quality when exposed for sale did not average as well as might be expected. Too large a percentage were bruised; unfortunately the packing of all cases did not harmonize fully with the stamp, which should be a reliable index of the quality. It may be that Nova Scotia growers find it still more profitable to cater to the trade that calls for barrels instead of boxes, but greater care in grading is absolutely necessary in this—a business that cannot be built up or maintained except by the employment of methods that are thorough and reliable.

"It is apparent that hereafter it will be necessary for Canadian producers to give greater attention to standards for their goods if they are to claim a place in the greater markets of the world.

"Recently, while visiting Belfast, a great cargo of Danish butter was observed being unloaded for consumption in that city, and yet Denmark has no natural advantages over Ireland for butter production. When then, can she do it? The answer is, superior producing and marketing organization.

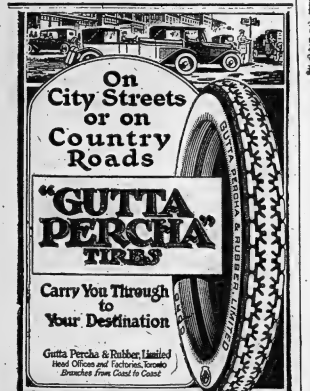

"If Canada is to have the share of the British market which is rightfully hers, she must follow largely in the footsteps of the Dane. Uniform standards in food production must be adopted and maintained. It will still be the old creed—'Anything that is worth doing at all, is worth doing well.'"

"Now Feeling Fine and Able to do my own work"

Mrs. Walter Grieves, Coe Hill, Ont., writes:

"I was in such a weakened, run-down condition that I could not take care of my household duties. I was unable to sleep at night, and the doctor told me I was anaemic. I commenced a treatment of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and to-day I am feeling fine and able to do all my own work.

"My little girl had eczema, and different remedies took no effect whatever. We got a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and that one box relieved her."

Why this Record-Breaking OLDSMOBILE-SIX

Can be sold at such a remarkable price

EVERYONE who examines this new Oldsmobile Six invariably asks: "How can an automobile which has made such a record and boast such splendid units, be the lowest priced Six in the world?"—or: "How can an automobile of such undeniably high quality be sold at this price?"

The answer is as simple as two plus two! Oldsmobile, working alone, simply could not offer such tremendous value for such a low price—nor could any other company of similar size, experience or purchasing power.

But, Oldsmobile enjoys the unique advantage of adding to its own purchasing power and manufacturing facilities—all of the vast resources and facilities of the great General Motors Corporation.

Let us explain! Take an insignificant little part of an automobile like a lock washer. If Oldsmobile were to buy its own lock washers, it would require about 1,000,000 or so a year—and it would have to pay the 1,000,000 price. But General Motors—buying for all its units—buys over 500,000,000 lock washers a year—and enjoys the 500,000,000 price.

There's the answer! Carry this reasoning right down through the entire car, and you will understand why and how Oldsmobile can offer you—at the same time—the lowest-priced and one of the most reliable six-cylinder cars in the world!

Oldsmobile challenges your buying judgment! We have an honest car—it has established an exceptional performance record—it can be bought at an unmatched low-price. You simply cannot afford to overlook this Oldsmobile Six.

a SIX
PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

Here are just a few of the tests Oldsmobile Six has undergone—

Flexibility—An Oldsmobile Six was driven by "Cannon-Ball" Baker from New York to Los Angeles in high gear—with low, second and reverse gears removed.

Reliability—On that trying transcontinental run, it covered the entire distance of 3,674 miles without recourse to the emergency kit.

Economy—In spite of mountains, mud and sand—the Oldsmobile Six averaged 33.3 miles per Imperial gallon of gasoline on the entire run.

Speed—Immediately upon its arrival in Los Angeles, this Oldsmobile traveled 68 miles an hour on the Los Angeles speedway, under official observation.

Power—The Alleghenies and Rocky Mountains, and the deep Missouri mud—all negotiated in high gear—conclusively demonstrated the tremendous power of this remarkable car.

Exhibition Was Good Education

Juniors Given Pointers by Coach of Point Anne Intermediates

The Belleville junior baseball tossers received the best education of the season at Point Anne last evening according to the statement of President Robert Colling of the Hastings and Prince Edward counties league this morning.

The Juniors were slated for an exhibition game with the Point Anne intermediates, and journeyed to the Point last evening. A few of the junior players were unable to be present however at 8 when the game was supposed to have started, so that the regular team did not play in their allotted positions. The game was really a hearty prelude, nd Frank "Soup" Goyer, manager and catcher for the Point Anne aggregation, did everything in his power to coach the juniors during the game. He showed them how to stand up to the rubber, and his assistance was not only very helpful to the boys but was much appreciated by the management of the Juniors. The runs were not recorded but the Intermediates were out front in front when the curtain was rung down.

The Point Anne squad are coming up to Belleville on Thursday evening next for another workout. Green, the good Point pitcher was on the mound for sut two innings and while on the slab did not open up, to intimidate the young players. The juniors profited greatly from the trip.

LINIMENT FOUND TO BE POWERFUL GERMICIDE

Originally, Absorbine Jr. was sold only as a pain reliever and as embrocation. It was quickly discovered that the liniment was positive death to all forms of germ life, and it is now used as a mouth wash, for wound dressing and for all disinfecting purposes.

Another surgeon way yet is store. A Wm. Pratt of Springfield, Mass., applied Absorbine Jr. to a varicose vein to relieve the intense pain. Not only did the pain leave, but he noticed every day the swollen vein becoming smaller. The treatment was kept up and, today, Mr. Pratt's legs, though he has never used anything else on them, are as smooth as when he was a boy. It has now been proved that Absorbine Jr. is an actual specific for varicose veins, leg ulcers, boils, pyorrhoea and a number of other ailments and injuries besides that for which it was first prepared. Nothing serves so many every day purposes and nothing is better entitled to its place in every home. When it is needed, it will be needed in a hurry. Don't wait for tomorrow to be sure. Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It cannot hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatism pain at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly stand, just rub by Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red pepper. Just as sure as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any good druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine with the name Rowles on each package.

FAMOUS ORCHESTRA HAS NO CONDUCTOR

The Moscow tnat produced Stanislavsky's Art Theater and the Chauve Souris is credited with a new accomplishment—a conductorless symphony orchestra. Peter Meremblum, who will be heard for the first time in America as solo violinist with the Sunday Symphonic Society in the George M. Cohan Theater, June 1, is recently from the Russian metropolis, where he attended many performances of the unusual orchestra.

"You must understand first that they are a group of real musicians," Mr. Meremblum pointed out. "They are like the Moscow Art Theater, each an artist, wlp is willing to lend his talent for the success of the piece to be played. No doubt if they were not as excellent as they are a leader would be quite indispensable to them, but whoever hears them play (and they have been heard by the greatest musical authorities on the Continent) declares without hesitation that a conductor would not only be unnecessary but superfluous. There is such marvellous co-ordination, such harmony and beauty that one does not see where a conductor would fit in.

"They have a concert master, Loeff Zeitlin, the first violinist, who organized the "Persymphana," or first symphony orchestra, as it is called, but he acts as an executive and has nothing at conducting to do. There is absolutely no one who is the conductor, either in name or in fact. When the company play their backs are turned to the audience. They re so arranged that their movements are clearly visible to one another and they wait for the expression on the face of the man who is to play first, or for the slightest movement of his hand. It is more than accurate timing. It is beautiful understanding these players have of each other.

"Naturally such perfection is not attained overnight, and these men rehearse more than American orchestras would think possible. For the first performance "Scheherazade" was given and more than forty rehearsals were held before their concert. Each group practices separately and alone, the brasses and so on, each under the direction of its solo player. Then there are numberless rehearsals together."

Their programs, according to Mr. Meremblum, include the classics of Beethoven, Bach, Schubert, Tschaikowsky and other masters, as well as the more modern music of Rimski Korsakoff, Debussy and Stravinsky. Once, during a music jubilee, Glazounov, in whose honor the celebration was held, was present at the concert of the Persymphana. His symphony was being played, with Nathan Milstein, the violinist, as soloist. He was so impressed by the performance that, unsolicited, he stepped upon the platform and told the audience and musicians he had never heard music played so well before.

The orchestra came into being in June, 1922. Eighty of their present number of 120 constituted the orchestra of the Imperial Opera of Moscow, but they were dissatisfied with the meager opportunities offered by the work. They decided to break away and under the guidance of Zeitlin, to organize a symphony orchestra. Zeitlin invited other artists to join them. At first they began working about for a conductor. He must be someone who could measure up to the quality of the musicians and who could inspire them to more profound feeling? Persymphana in Russia, where only second raters were to be had, said Mr. Meremblum. If they could not get the conductor they wanted they would have none at all.

From the first, their performances met with phenomenal success. Now their concerts are supported by the government, and 2,000 persons hear them play every week. There was some talk of bringing the company to America, but the expenses of the trip —each of the musicians has a family —were considered overwhelming.

"Gloria"—The lure of the movie stage is one of the numerous answers your girls today. There are hundreds who have felt home attracted by the high salaries of the stars, and, who are down and out because they were too proud to come home and admit their failure. They drifted and are amongst those girls in the list of "missing." Be very sure what you are doing "Gloria." You may have versatile accomplishment, and a nature that is ambitious but your personality may not be of the type that "goes over" on the screen. My advice is to finish your college course first of all. That will be valuable to you no matter what your future. You will be more matured then and more developed and able to stand on your own feet, or find some "hero" if you want to "fly high". Writ me again Gloria. You interest me.

LOVE, THE TYRANT OR WHERE HER HEART LED

BY

CHARLES GARVICE

Jack nodded and went down to the matter of sleep and parlour where he found Mendy June sweeping and dusting up. As she would have the ridiculous bonnet, Jack felt assured that she must sleep in it. She looked a fright, but took at him sharply as he stood, if the truth must be told, rather shame-faced and nervously in the door way.

"You'll be late, if you don't look out" she said.

"Oh, it's all right" said Jack, "Mendy Jane, I need a friend of mine."

Her eyes softened and she nodded at him.

"I know! I saw you come in last night. I said 'per over the bannisters, 'that girls very like Jack in the country in which I was staying—and I felt very anxious about you. I will do what you can for her, won't you, Mordy Jane?"

Mendy Jane sniffed but gave a little nod of assent which Jack knew meant more than words.

"I'll send in a doctor as I go down to the docks. Which is the best man?"

"Well, there's Doctor Jones, though I don't fancy him. He's a bachelor and sits at the door and says: 'Well, 'ow are we to-day?' Then he was ill himself which I call scarycating, and makes you feel worse than bad. Then there's Doctor Green; 'e's short and grumpy; and 'e'll give you a pill and tell you to come you all the time. 'E tried it on me, but I wouldn't 'ave it. Then 'e says to me: 'If I was to do my dooty by my profession I should give you something strong and put you in a bottle of spirits, you freak!' I says to him: 'You wouldn't 'ave no difficulty finding the spirits' you, sir,' says I, 'but a bit of medicine you never when he's at work. You'd better go to him."

"Then there's Doctor Green's, and just got to the docks before the gates closed. All that day, while he waited he pondered over Kate Transom's presence in London. She had left the court after he had done so—he did not know how anxious—but he longed to see her for some news of Esther; though he told himself that the less he heard of the woman he loved the better for the peace of mind.

When he got home in the evening, Mendy June was waiting for him, surely out of 'ere looks queer lainst 'e white face. I expected to think it's brought a fever."

"Yes, she has beautiful hair," assented Jack, absently, and unconscious of the personal note in Mendy's voice. "Tell me, is she? I am afraid she is very bad."

"Yes; she 'as been raving like a lunatic. She 'as, sir," she added, with Mordy, Jane, as she pushed her bonnet a bit, as how she had in front of the table, and took his skull-cap off as if he were a child or a Guy Fawkes. "She tosses from side to side, and talks about you and other rubbish.

"About me?" said Jack, with surprise, too anxious to notice.

"Yes, about you, and about a "Miss Vavasour" and a mugger."

Here Mendy June nodded, and stopped a plate of boiled mutton, which she considered an appropriate dish for a hot summer's evening, on the top of the table.

"Murdered—terrible murder. I say, you'll get a bit fear fancy."

"Of course," said Jack. "Poor girl! I am afraid she has quarrelled with her father, and that she must not be disturbed while she is wandering here in London."

"Ye'pe it's nemorse," said Mendy Jane. "Perhaps she's gone and murdered her father, and it's him in the crypt. You do read of sich things, you know. Now, you sit and shove that in, and be hearty."

So I wish I could send for her father," he said, half to himself. "But I can't break my promise, and I might make things worse. Poor Esther!"

"Miss Woods keeps up her character," remarked Mendy Jane, at a later stage of the meal.

"Of how?" asked Jack, absently.

"Well, I offered to go an' nurse that poor child, as while Miss Woods went out to sustal this evening; but she said as 'e 'ad 'er own 'ands', as it's certain as 'ow she ain't a music-hall actress, and the question is not a deed Father, you-se gone and let that mutton-fat get cold, you're to candle. If you don't want any more, push yer plate along like a proper-spoken person, and 'ave yer pudden. I shall remain at 'ome this evenin', Mis Jacob,' she quite cool like. The mystify's more 'igher than ever. You think of 'er, Mr. Gordon—Sophie Maria—she looks stiff with a thrill ecream—you're not going through that krykole again to see what we've got for supper. Don't give me the lie now, for I can see the top of your head from 'ere dead! You go 'ome and tell yer mother that we've got biled mutton, 'taters and turnips—ne turnipe, mind!"

CHAPTER XXXII.

Kate Transom was down with brain fever, and had got it badly. For close upon a week she had been delirious and serious, but delirious; and whenever he went up and down-stairs and passed the bedroom door, Jack could hear her voice pouring out an incoherent string of words.

"It's wonderful 'ow she can keep on at it," Mendy Jane would say. "I've heard Sophie Maria's mother—that's the woman that come to see you about one last night, Mr. Gordon—I've 'eard 'er talk for two hours at a stretch; but then she'd had a drop, an' 'ad been practising at 'er voice she had been a kid. My! how she can sling it! But this young girl is a proper marvel, and of yours, she could give Sophie Maria's mother fifty yards in a hundred and stump in easy. I eat beside the bed last night, an' I tell you some of 'er talk made my air curl. It was all about 'woods an' guns,' an' 'seals covered with blood—oh, orful!"

For bites of fees and mosquitos, touch with peroxide. Then when the smartin has stopped, rub with a little cake of iodine unless the sting is near the eyes.

If you like to work in the flower or vegetable garden, it is an excellent idea to flag scrape the flagstones over a cake of soap. It keeps the dirt from accumulating there.

Reds and rose colours are the best evening shades in New York. Sometimes the dress may shade from palest rose to deepest orchid; then again, almost the tint of a columbine is seen.

If you keep a pot of parsley growing on the window ledge you will have garnishing always at hand.

That if you want coffee "just right" it must not boil and it cannot be made in a hurry.

A cape to match your tailored suit or your tailored frock is very new and smart.

A good lotion for softening and whitening the hands:—2 ounces of olive oil; juice of two lemons.

The straight silhouette is the favored one today, although the bouffancy and bows of past generations still hinder picturesque variations up on occasion.

That only if your skin is clear—not muddy or sallow—may you venture to use the new orange tint of rouge.

That a recent addition to the color card is Titian beige. It is a happy blending of the familiar shade and the reddish tint that the artist made famous.

That fashion has reached an explosive hand into the part and brought forth the jabot. It comes in the form of net or nets and batiste and is worn knotted or drawn through a fancy buckle or brooch.

Place 1 cup of raisins in a double boiler; when it comes to a boil add one table-spoonful flour, ½ tea-spoonful salt, 1 cup milk, and yolks of 2 eggs beaten well; boil 5 minutes, remove from fire and add 1 cup of chopped raisins. When cooked bake with upper crust only. Use vanilla and pour into a pie shell already baked. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth with 2 tbspns sugar. Spread on pie and brown in oven.

Garnishings

Uninteresting food is as stupid as misunderstanding. Both should be enjoy our food if it does not appeal to your senses of sight, smell and taste. But food tho' well cooked and well served is not so well enjoyed as when it is attractively garnished. Garnishings are wonderful appetizers. There are certain rules to be followed as to what is attractively garnished. Garnishings are wonderful appetizers. There are certain rules to be followed as to what is attractively garnished. Parsley is considered a garnish. Nasturtiums are particularly attractive with cold meats and salads. Radishes go best with fish and cress with beef and mutton. Hardboiled eggs are useful too—cut in quarters, lengthwise or rings, or the whites may be chopped and the yolks pressed through a sieve. Sweet gherkins are used as a garnish and very attractive they look too.

Don't save all these touches for "company." Let your family get some joy and benefit from them.

Satisfied Mothers

No other medicine gives as great satisfaction to mothers as does Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets are a household good for the whole babe or the growing child and are absolutely safe. They cannot possibly do harm—always good. The Tablets are sold by druggists or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BRITISH TASTE IN GIRLS' NAMES

The names that the people of Great Britain like to bestow upon their children are, so we are told, as a matter of fluctuate importance, but nothing that human beings do or think is without significance, and we admit having read some trifle many years ago to the point with a good deal of curiosity.

The manufacturers of a certain popular chocolate, having adopted for the picture of a pretty girl as an advertisement for their product, set to work in little extra publicity by conducting a prize competition in the name to give her. Six hundred and twenty-eight thousand girls were found, representing a million of all classes of the British public—voted, and extraordinary as it may seem, Mary was the favorite prize presenting a list of the ten most popular names which received the highest popularity.

Phyllis leads all the rest—a pretty name, which has been sentimentally popular ever since the days of Shenstone's Phyllis and Corydon, but, not, we should say, the choicest of all feminine names. Then in order come Grace, Elsie, Barbara, Patience, Prudence, Jane, Dorothy and Ethel as the ninth. Truly a singular list, as astonishing for what it leaves out as for what it contains.

Where are Mary, Elizabeth, Margaret, Katherine, the beautiful names that English girls whether in the days of the Tudors or in those of the Georges and have acquired a wealth of sentiment and association? Who, for instance, would think should make them inevitable? Where are Alice, Ellen, Clara, Caroline, Eleanor, Gertrude, Alice, Dorothy names—names that have been dear to England thus three first mentioned, but that, we should imagine, would have cost dearer on the affections of English people? Where are such names as Isabella, Judith, Hannah, Maud or her hardly less insinuating sister Gwendolyn?

Who would have expected to find Prudence, Patience and Phyllis in the fifth in the list? If the competition had been held just before the beginning of the seventeenth century, they would indeed have been well up in the list of favorites, but in Old England of the twentieth century? It is astonishing, and why should they be? Grace and Jane we can understand, but Prudence and Patience!

There are fashions in names as in dresses, but these fashions are peculiar for some years has been away from the romantic and sentimental appellations of the dimilled names that the women of our race have been so fond of. The English list suggests a preference for the unusual, a turn not exactly for abstract nouns, but for names that have some flavor of novelty. The taste is not always in unexpected, but on human experience long ago observed, in matters of taste accustomed is tasteless—Youth's Companion.

OUR WORLD

This world is ours, to do in as we will,
To have as we please, and to keep or sell;
To give each day, fits saitity by on wings
It leaves less time, to do the greater things.

And as we struggle on, our goal to gain,
Let us do our duty, be good, by some loss or pain,
It shows a noble heart, and a life well achieved.
As hitherto success was unbelieved.

Stop!

WITHIN a split second the wheels are locked in the implacable grip of the brake and your tires scrape and grind into the road surface with a grim resistance that tests the impetus of your car.

This terrific strain is not taken merely on the treads—it pulls on every cord and layer of rubber in the inner construction of the tire.

The Web Cord process, by eliminating cross threads, stables the cords to lie flat and even in the layers, thus giving each cord maximum resistance to strain and protection to the tire.

greatly increased strength to resist the pull of the car when the brakes are applied.

Sprayed Rubber used in the Dominion Cord Tires adds strength and resistance to the wear and tear.

These improved processes are used exclusively in Canada in Dominion Royal Cord and Ll-Cord Tires.

THE BEST MAN

By A. H.

Bert sat with his face buried in his hands. He had a terrible head. He was feeling him. Why was he here here in the smelly atmosphere of Mac Thompson's the out-house, dirty and even non-sensitive, and yet nevertheless, in business, not become estranged but a year ago and not again on as terms, the whom they had picked up one day on the street and had brought to get back in the old manner. Bert was a young man of the world, and had been used to the best, surrounded by the most refined influences, and he was not at all now and that very Verna had called him in and said that Jack was in trouble and that he was asking for his advice. Bert guessed about as he looked up at the clock and himself for a bad outlook morning dean and hanging for lunch, so thought with him. He came from boyhood but associates, but he was somewhat out of his time without her she was a blank to him.

The morning paper lay unopened on the desk and Bert picked it up mechanically. Then he sprang to his feet with a cry that brought Mac Thompson, the "Big Five in Finance, Hardware Goods," dropped out of the window, and hot everything, nearly escaping in sight clothes.

Bert clutched the paper. What about his Jem. Yet was he dated she lived in such a hot, vile neighborhood as the streets half-foul. He knew her address, and he would go there at once. Suddenly he knew what to do and he rushed out to the telegraph office and sent a wire. That night she had an answer. Jem was dangerously ill, but was getting him. Bert left by the next train, and he was at Jem's bedside by the morning. He got ready for bed, but late as it was she got a hot cup of tea for Bert and counted her little hound. One of the things she really must put in the bank, she thought.

When she was wakened later the whole place was full of the curtains were impassable and the only way to escape lay through the window, where a fireman appeared.

"If you do not come with me instant ly we are both lost" murmuring a prayer to her God, save me and I will help back to Verna" she fainted and woke up in the arms of the fireman. Bert sat in a sort of stupor most of the day. Clothes, money, many gone, everything, the world gone, even Bert—for she had got to know him later—but Jem was safe, and he breathed her face to the wall so that she should not see Mac who had come near her all day.

Towards evening a telegram was brought to Bert. It was from Verna. It read "Just read of fire... In case you are still in an using city, Come to Vancouver to my sister. Coming for you next week."

Then and only then did she realize that he would never get that letter from her. She buried her face in the pillow and wept in silence as she had also never for the Best Man.

HIERS' FAVORITE ADAGE

To him who has faith and wa'te, all things come. This is Walter H ce's favorite adage. For in the Paramount picture, "Sixty Cents an Hour," in which he is starred and which comes to the Griffin Theatre for a three day run Monday, he, as Jimmy Kirk, is abused by the president of the Eastern National Bank. But his time comes. Shortly after the purchase of a narrow alley alongside of the bank Kirk discovers that the wall of the bank extends a foot over his property. It is a case of tearing the entire wall down and rebuilding at great expense or buying Kirk out. The bank president chooses the latter, and the money is reluctantly handed over. Jimmy, now the possessor of considerable wealth, finds himself in a position to ask Mamie Smith, daughter of the bank president, to marry him. He is accepted readily enough and celebrates with one of Jerks' sodas.

"THE WOMAN'S SIDE" IS REAL DRAMA OF LIFE

"The Woman's Side," a First National Attraction, to be presented at the Regent Theatre on Monday, is a pictorization of one of the oftencontested dramas of human life, which never get into the papers and which are always carefully concealed by those Fair Cants as principals.

The best stories seldom get into print and the best of life's dramas seldom get to screen or stage, but "The Woman's Side" is one of those exceptions, which prove truth much stranger than fiction.

There is nothing impossible in this picture; it is a chain of events humanly and logically woven in the most dramatic style and it will not fail to hold the interest of any audience.

Miss MacDonald gives a fine interpretation of the heroine's role and she is ably supported by one of the strongest casts that has ever been assembled for screen work.

The story was written by her director, J. A. Barry, and subconsciously points out a moral by even pictures it will not soon forget. The supporting cast includes Edward Burns, Henry Barrows, Dwight Crittenden, Ora Devereaux and Wade Boteler.

Chevrolet Brings Town and Country Close

IT is no longer necessary for the farmer to remain a recluse—for his children to forego the youthful companionship which they all crave. Neither is it necessary for the town or city dweller to think of the countryside as a delightful place to be visited only at vacation time. The automobile has made communication swift and easy. It has brought friends near each other, though they live miles apart.

And Chevrolet has made it possible for almost every Canadian to enjoy the benefits of an automobile. For Chevrolet is not only an exceedingly low-priced car, but it is also the most economical car in the world to maintain.

Even though you have not the ready cash with which to purchase at present, the General Motors Acceptance Corporation makes it possible for you to pay for your Chevrolet while you are using and enjoying it.

Investigate Chevrolet and learn how easy it is to own and operate.

Thirty Years of Dunlop

Experience Certainly Tells in Making Tires

You cannot go astray in your tire purchases if you buy this kind of experience:—

1894-1924

DUNLOP TIRES

30 Years in Canada

Many a man is driving a motor today who was not born when Dunlop Tires first appeared on the highways of Canada.

Thirty years is a long time in the Tire business. It is the very beginning of the industry. 1888 saw the world's first pneumatic tire; 1894 saw the industry taking hold in Canada.

Doesn't it stand to reason, in view of the above facts, that we must be better equipped and better qualified to serve the exacting demands of Tire users?

Knowing the past of the Tire Industry so well, we must have pretty good intuition regarding not only the needs of the present, but the possibilities of the future.

Money cannot Buy More—Usage cannot Demand More—than what you get with present-day Dunlop Tires.

There's a Dunlop Tire for every purpose.
—For Every type of Rim—
—For Every Pocketbook.

Dunlop Dealers Everywhere Ready to Serve You

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Relief When Other Medicines Failed

Port Mann, B.C.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I was married and run-down, I had headaches and no appetite and was troubled for two years with sleepless nights. I tried many medicines, but nothing did me any real good. While I was living in Washington, I was recommended by a stranger to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am stronger and feel fine since then and am able to do my housework. I am willing for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. C. GERAYM, Port Mann, B. C.

Feels New Life and Strength

Keene, N. H.,—"I was weak and run-down and had backache and all sorts of troubles which women have. I found great relief when taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am able to do my work and feel new life and strength from the Vegetable Compound. I am glad I can to advertise it."—Mrs. A. F. HARMON, 72 Carpenter Street, Keene, N.H.
